Preparations for the demonstration include distribution of 250,000 handbills. The Los Angeles branch of the Youth Socialist Alliance is attempting to get Marines from nearby Camp Pendleton to participate. Robert Bland, former CIOA member, a spokesman for the Peace Action Council, has announced that up to 3,000 individuals are expected to participate in the march, picketing, and rally. Groups from Seattle, Berkeley, San Francisco, and San Diego are to be actively present. Demonstrators also plan to picket the residences of cabinet members who are in San Clemente during this period. They may attempt to block freeway traffic in the area. A plane will be utilized to carry anti-war slogans overhead, and the demonstrators may take over San Clemente beaches as well as send a protest flotilla of small boats to the water offshore.

August 19

*Oklahoma City, Oklahoma - The threat of a possible strike of sanitation workers, about 80 percent of whom are Negroes, is considered by police to be a potentially dangerous situation.

August 19

*Washington, D.C. - The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will sponsor another anti-war demonstration. A march will be held from 10th and F Streets, Northwest, to the White House. Demonstrators will distribute fake money to symbolize waste in military spending.

August 19-20

University of Texas at El Paso, Texas - The National Student Association Congress reportedly will be attended by Tom Hayden and Mark Rudd of SDS, Robert Powell (leader of NSA), and Ed Swartz, former President of NSA. Ronald Vincent, President of the Student Action Committee at the University of Texas, El Paso, reportedly has stated that he has obtained information that the Young Americans for Freedom organization is planning to send a "goon squad" to the Congress for purposes of disruption.

Some of the NSA meetings reportedly will be held in Mexico, particularly those involving military officials, in order to avoid "harassment" by conservative elements.

The Third World Commission (TWC) will hold a convention in El Paso at the same time and in conjunction with the NSA Congress. The purpose of the TWC Convention report is to take the first step in organizing a National Association of Black Students to serve black students in a manner similar to the NSA, which serves blacks and "colored" army and air students. The TWC reportedly was formed and headed by minority group students by the NSA during the past year.

August 21

*San Francisco, California - The Student Mobilization Committee will sponsor an anti-war demonstration at Powell and Clay Streets to oppose the meeting between President Nixon and South Korean President Park, who are scheduled to hold discussions on this date.

August 21-24

*Washington, D.C. - It has been reported that the Third Legislative Convention of the Black Extremist separatist Republic of New Africa is to be held August 21-24 at All Souls Unitarian Church, 16th and Harvard Streets, Northwest, Washington, D.C. Speakers reportedly will include Representative John Conyers of Michigan and other "United States Representatives."

August 28

*Nationally - In behalf of, and often in lieu of, the so-called "Chicago 7" or "The Conspiracy" (the eight activists indicted by the government for "conspiring to incite, encourage, and promote a riot" during the August 1968 Democratic National Convention - Ramo Davis, Dave Dellinger, Tom Hayden, Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin, Bobby Seale, John Froines, and Joe Weiner), a number of fund-raising projects have been undertaken in addition to solicitation of donations from liberals. An educational tag-day was held in the streets of Chicago last June and another, this one a national tag-day, is being planned for August 28, the anniversary of the major confrontation in Chicago.

Extensive legal and propaganda efforts have been undertaken and are continuing in behalf of the defendants. An office has been established in Chicago under the name of the Conspiracy and a number of projects started in preparation for the trial which is scheduled to begin 24 September. Numerous motions, etc., have been filed by their lawyers, who include such well-known civil-rights lawyers as Charles Garry, William Kunstler, Bernie Weinglass, Mike Tigar, Mike Kennedy, and Jerry Lefcourt.

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, 1969, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

LABOR DAY

September 1

From the Daily World (Communist):

"A call for a 1969 New York Labor Day demonstration to meet the threat of rising reaction and repression has been issued by four labor and left-wing leaders.

"AFL-CIO groups in New York traditionally stage Labor Day parades only in even-numbered years.

"But due to the ultra-right threat and the growing social crisis, this Labor Day must be marked by a mass demonstration," the call said. It was signed by Louis Wainstock, Painters' Rank-and-File; Jim Haughton, Harlem Unemployment Center; Jose Stevens, New York W. E. B. DuBois Clubs; and Irving Petash, New York State Communist Party."

September 7

*Washington, D.C. - The Caesar Chavez-led United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, which has been protesting a grape boycott to demand higher wages for grape workers, plans to demonstrate at Washington, D.C., on 7 September. The demonstrators will hold a rally at the Sylvan Theater near the Washington Monument. At the conclusion of the rally, they will march to Arlington Cemetery, where they hope to hold a mass near the grave of Robert F. Kennedy. They are considering inviting Mrs. Ethel Kennedy to be one of the main speakers.

September 15-20

*San Francisco, California - The April Third Movement, a coalition of protest groups at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, which has previously been active in demonstrating against the Stanford Research Institute, has announced that it will sponsor demonstrations at Palo Alto, September 15-20, during the Institute's International Industrial Conference, to be held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. The April Third Movement, which is dominated by SDS, is to act as the coordinator for radical demonstrations at the conference, and Stanford University is to be used as a base of operations. An early estimate is that from 3,000 to 5,000 radical demonstrators, mainly from SDS, will travel to San Francisco for the conference. The conference will bring together some 500 kinds of major industries, technological, and financial firms like U.S. Steel, IBM, Royal Dutch Petroleum, and the Chase Manhattan Bank in a top-level gathering that the students say "is designed to consolidate the dominion of the multi-national corporations in the third world." The movement has also announced that it will continue its investigation of Government research at both the Institute and the University and will also consider the question of stopping the University's expansion into nearby areas. Authorities feel there is a definite possibility of violence during the demonstrations.

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican Revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the "Chicago Eight" protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Dennis Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Fraincs, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 27

Chicago, Illinois - SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight." Other protest activities are being planned later during the trial.

October 6

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

October 8-11

*Chicago, Illinois - SDS leaders and speakers are using every opportunity to whip up support for demonstrations to protest the trials of the "Chicago Eight."

On the 6th, a march in downtown Chicago is planned;

On the 9th, the demonstrators intend to move in on schools and universities to "liberate their occupants;"

On the 10th, present plans are to disrupt the court proceedings;

The 11th has been earmarked for a massive march to "shut the city down."

A statement released by the SDS National Action Staff calls for a "National Action in Chicago on 11 October as a way of uniting the youth movement in this country in the fight for liberation."

In a free-wheeling tirade which acknowledges that "While Vietnam is the critical and most pressing issue facing us today," the War is ON - a war against imperialism, racism, and oppression - "that war must continue even after the U.S. ruling class and its occupational troops have been forced out of Vietnam for good."

"...Imperialism, the international system of capitalism, is the greatest enemy of the people of the world, and it is the cause of the War in Vietnam. Serving the people means ending the War in Vietnam as the primary task of the anti-imperialist movement."

After expressing support of the NLF of South Vietnam and the new Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, the statement goes on to ask all GI's to respond with demonstrations on their own bases as well as joining SDS action. As with the Black Panthers and other dissident groups, it joins in the growing move to label all opposition to "movement activities" as fascist attacks.

Also, the "October 11 action will be just one step in an outgoing attack; off of that action we must build a programmatic attack that reaches everywhere, an attack that makes the slogan 'Get Out of Vietnam' a reality, and builds a mass-based revolutionary movement in this country."

All across the country, radical groups are working intensively on plans for a massive descent on Chicago in mid-October.

They claim that as many as 30,000 students will gather there to protest the war and demonstrate their support for the Black Panthers and for the "Conspiracy 6."

Mark Rudd, newly elected National Secretary by the SDS "National office segment," at a news conference 31 July 8-11 in Chicago's Grant Park, scene of many disturbances during the Democratic Convention, stated that, "We intend to return to Chicago peacefully because it has come to symbolize what a government built together by force is all about." Offering a little something for nearly everyone in order to swell their numbers, among the demands of the demonstrators will be: Independence for Puerto Rico, an end to the income surtax, and the freeing of Huey P. Newton and Fred Hampton, LHP leaders who are serving prison terms. Later in October there will be similar demonstrations in other cities during October.

*Bill Ayers, an official of SDS, announced that SDS will have militant demonstrations in Chicago on October 11 to protest the trials and that they will "fight back" against the ruling class. He said that the ruling class will have to be stopped through violence. Another speaker invited participants in the demonstration to "get out in the streets and fight."

*Evanston, Illinois - Chapters of SDS at four Illinois universities held a conference on 8-10 August to discuss the platform decisions set forth by the National Committee, SDS. Carol Cox, a professor at Illinois State University, was elected spokesman. The sixty delegates present at the conference adopted the entire SDS platform. They were then encouraged to have all members of their chapters in Chicago, Illinois, on 11 October for a confrontation with the police. Further, the delegates were told to arm themselves prior to arriving in Chicago.

October 15

Nationally - The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, headed by former Harvard divinity student Sam Brown, a former New Hampshire canvasser for Senator Eugene McCarthy, will attempt to "shut down" all normal University activities for the day of 15 October in protest against continued American participation in the Vietnam War. Mr. Brown also hopes that his organization will in coming months work with other forces organized against military training, anti-ballistic missile systems, and racism. Mr. Brown states that his organization, which is planning a mammoth campaign, will greatly appreciate assistance from anyone including SDS. The office address of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is 1029 Vermont Avenue, Northwest (a favorite for radical groups in the D.C. area).

SDS has indicated it will take a major part in the protest called a "moratorium" rather than the more inflammatory word "strike."

October 18

San Francisco - At the recent National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism held in Oakland, California, 1 - 3 July, sponsored by the HPP, registration was conducted for membership in the United Front Against Fascism; and it was announced that the United Front would hold a conference 16 October 1967 in San Francisco.

November 8

Nationally - SDS has said that as a result of the 11 October action in Chicago, regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country to make it clear that SDS will not be tricked by "phony bombing alerts or troop withdrawals or any ploy played by liberal politicians." SDS says, "We will not be turned around."

November 14-15-16

Nationally and Washington, D. C. - The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMCWV), which is controlled by members of the Young Socialist Alliance (the youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party), announced plans in July for a nation-wide student strike on 14 November to be followed the next day, 15 November, by a massive anti-war march in Washington, D.C. The march is being designed to get as near the White House as possible "to bring the Protest message home to the President."

*Douglas Stone, a steering committee member of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, was critical of the planned Chicago demonstration on 11 October. He called instead for a massive demonstration in Washington, D.C., on the 15th of November, and stated that after the 15 November demonstration, there will be a meeting of those who want to stay and "plan other things" for the following day.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

As the fall semester approaches, college and universities across the nation are preparing for the resumption of radical campus activity. The tactics seem, in most institutions, intellectually geared to cast the students in the role of co-determinators of academic as well as disciplinary community policy and on the other hand to beef up campus security forces capable of maintaining order and relative tranquility no matter what. Past events (at Harvard and Columbia, for example) have, in the knowledgeable opinion of principal administrators, tended to sympathize college moderates from both faculty and student body when outside police authorities are summoned. The well-reasoned objective then of President Cordier at Columbia, Elliott at George Washington, Pusey at Harvard and many others is to keep campus revolt familial if possible, localized if possible and under control within the academic commune. Undoubtedly, the strong possibility of infringing, limiting, and restricting Federal legislation, looming in the background, should academe be unable to solve its varied problems, has crossed the minds of secondary educators. Notre Dame's president Hesburgh eloquently summed up the societal juxtaposition of the universities in America last year when he said that an invaluable asset of a free society is manifested in and enhanced by a system of educational freedom. Once the teacher is controlled in what he may teach and how he may teach it, other accouterments and vestiges of individual liberty are in serious jeopardy.

A number of past hot spots are also trying to remove the cause of protest, be they local problems or general and universal in nature. At Columbia, Dr. Cordier has announced plans for building low rent, high rise apartments for students, faculty members, and Harlem dwellers in Morningside Heights (originally a gymnasium and sports arena was planned on the property). At Maryland, American University, George Washington University, and many other schools, recruiting of Negro students is in high gear. George Washington will increase its Negro enrollment by 25 percent (in a total student body of 13,000, still only about 200 Negroes will attend George Washington in September). On other campuses. ROTC programs have been targeted for academic and administrative review and threatened with extinction or the loss of academic credit - undoubtedly, in many cases, to mollify the distrust of a proclaimed student radical revolutionary objective.

In the other camp, the movement, irrationally, philosophically differences, feeding and racial polarization resulted from the efforts of summer. The grand coalition of Black Panthers and white radicals (principally SDS-Ng) expected by many, to emerge from the west coast confab in July failed to materialize and chiefly resulted in arguing over "who occupied the campers of the revolution?" The SDS summer "work-in" has been of limited success and only in a few locations. Negro students have broken with the National Student Association further polarizing white and black colleges and further undoing the work and accomplishment of rational and dedicated civil rightists over the past several decades. The search in the Negro community, on and off campuses, for a "black identity" is lashing back and general charges of white racism are being made by black separatists, black nationalists and, in fact, those who must be labeled black racists.

With regard to the summer work-in program planned by the SDS to radicalize the American workers, there is no evidence that even a slight, much less a meaningful revolutionary contribution resulted. The SWP in Ohio for instance degenerated into a training camp for civil disturbance. Several SWP training sites (in Akron, Cleveland, and Columbus), coed communal houses, characterized by incredibly filthy living conditions have been operating since June. Sex is taboo (a manifestation of male chauvinism) as is drug use (for fear of detection and arrest) and the locations reportedly are guarded by SDS members, friends and relatives are reportedly forbidden to enter.

Training for these commune dwellers is divided into two main areas. The first segment involves ideological indoctrination designed to instill a sense of involvement and dedication among the participants. Group members are taught that a revolution must come in the United States and that SWP is the opening phase of this conflict. Similar uprisings are predicted in the world's underdeveloped nations. Books issued to SWP participants include the works of Mao Tse-tung, Lin Tiao, Fidel Castro and Che Guevara. Coupled with political indoctrination is training of a more practical sort. Instruction is given these "revolutionary communists" (a cliché most often attributed to principal SDS spokeswoman Bernadine Bohrer) in karate and firearms. Radicals in the Ohio SWP training process are not expected to return to school in the fall because they will engage in revolutionary work on a full-time basis.

The Ohio communes have been plagued with numerous difficulties. Physical problems, such as filth and the lack of any sanitary considerations in the communal houses is reported. Ideological differences, personality clashes, and run-ins with police have hampered a smooth operation. SDS has apparently been unable to attract wide support for this program either in other Ohio communities or in adjoining states. Therefore, while individual graduates may create problems in coming months it is not likely that large scale and general disturbances will be precipitated by the Ohio SWIPers.

What fall holds on the American college scene defies definitive prediction. Events on one campus may well trigger activity on another that otherwise might not have occurred. The targets are clear. The Negroes will seek "black relevancy" through adoption of a black studies program and "black identity" through the functioning of a black student union. The primary radical student targets are the war, the draft, ROTC nationally and local favorites such as coed dorms, fewer social restrictions, pot and hallucinogenics, and on some campuses, adoption of a free speech program. Radical successes will probably be fewer than last year, white-black dialogues will also be fewer and more strained and hopefully the heretofore silent, moderate magna-majority will more forcibly evidence its desires and presence.

Bernadine Rae Dohrn is the most vocal and erudite spokeswoman of the SDS-national office. She presently holds office on the national interim committee, the body within SDS that runs the national office between conventions. She previously (until the June 1969 convention) was the Inter-organizational Secretary, one of the top three national offices. Miss Dohrn, who publicly described herself as a "revolutionary communist" in June 1968, is an ideological party-liner perhaps a bit more radical than the CPUSA. She, in philosophy, is a Maoist but is against the PLP Negro exclusion (believed by PLP to be nationalistic and hence not purely revolutionary in terms of the "workers of the world revolt" syndrome). She is also not in agreement with the PLP worker-student alliance theory.

[REDACTED]

Miss Dohrn was born in January 1942 at Chicago. She holds a BA degree (June 1963), a MA degree (June 1964) and a Doctor of Law degree (June 1967) all from the University of Chicago. In 1967 and 1968 she served as Student Director of the National Lawyers Guild (cited by HCUA as a communist front). Miss Dohrn was one of twenty-seven American student leaders who met with the NLF of Vietnam at Budapest in September 1968 to discuss prospects of further student unrest and further draft unrest among GI's. (A trip incidentally paid for by Ramparts Magazine.) She additionally is a leading advocate of the nation-wide drive to organize high school student radicals, a drive which has unfortunately been very successful in some regions. Miss Dohrn was recently a principal guest speaker at a rally held at Berkeley's now infamous Peoples Park. Miss Dohrn is 5' 6" tall and weighs 125 pounds. She is a semi-"life styler" (long straight hair - but clean).

Miss Dohrn in a recent (mid-August) interview reported by Charles Hightower in the Daily World claimed to have met recently with representatives of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam (formerly the NLF) at Havana. After the meeting Miss Dohrn predicted the total defeat of American Imperialism in Asia and a "complete and total victory" for the PRG. As for Korea, she predictably took the straight and narrow party path (if it serves American interest she's against it). "It became clear to us that the struggle of the Korean people is a crucial struggle for the liberation of Asia. To our generation who grew up not knowing the issues of aggression in that war, when there was organized resistance in our country, we were greatly impressed by our discussions on the Korean situation."

Miss Dohrn is an intelligent, knowledgeable, and dedicated communist (with a small "c"). She seems to be a student of revolutionary history and oratorically has the gift of expression that stirs the radical soul. In the judgement of many, Miss Dohrn has taken or will takeover the progressive, new left female revolutionary leadership role once held by Betina Aptheker, peacenik Joan Baez and several others.

Five Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) officials, including Jeff Jones, the Inter-organizational Secretary, and Bernadine Dohrn, the former Inter-organizational Secretary, were arrested at Chicago, Illinois, on 22 August. Police found a knife and a twenty-two caliber pistol in the car. Dohrn was in possession of three vials of material which are being checked to determine whether the material is a form of narcotics. They were arrested when police stopped the car driven by Jones for have a defective light. Jones was unable to show proof of ownership of the car, although, it was later determined that it did belong to him.

It is reported that an officer of the extremist Black Panther Party is planning to travel to North Vietnam to attempt to obtain the release of twenty United States prisoners of war in exchange for the release of Panther Huey P. Newton who is serving a manslaughter sentence in California.

It would appear, having noted perhaps with envy and some degree of alarm the increased activism of both anti-war and racial groups within the armed services, that activists on the extreme right have been encouraged to also enter that previously verboten area for agitation and revolutionary action.

A recent investigation into an airman's association with the National Socialist White People's Party (aka American Nazi Party, ANP) revealed a new tactic of the ANP designed to recruit new members and promote racial discord within the armed services. The ANP has organized a group called the White Servicemen's League and is circulating a leaflet entitled Why Tolerate Treason. The text of the leaflet is directed towards white members of the Armed Forces and suggests that National Socialism is the answer to the "race problem." It requests that white servicemen stand with National Socialism in defense of their race and their nation. It also urges them to join the White Servicemen's League, described as an organization "pledged to the unconditional support of white racial interests." For free information, servicemen are requested to write to the White Servicemen's League at 2507 North Franklin Road, Arlington, Virginia.

ROBERT FRANKLIN WILLIAMS

According to current press reports, Robert F. Williams, a 44 year old expatriate American-born Negro from Monroe, North Carolina, who for the past eight years has kept up a barrage of militant anti-U.S./pro-Communist propaganda from Cuba, Red China, North Viet Nam, and Tanzania, is scheduled to arrive in Detroit, Michigan, by plane from London, England on Saturday, August 30th. He reportedly will there rejoin his wife and two 12-year-old sons who after sharing his "exile" returned to this country last week.

Williams, a fugitive from Federal justice on charges of kidnapping a white couple in Monroe, North Carolina, and holding them as hostages during racial disorders instigated by him in August 1961, fled to Cuba, via Canada, and there requested "political asylum". This Castro happily granted him; and he became a leading propagandist for Castro's Government.

Williams, former president of the Monroe, North Carolina, NAACP who was ousted by its National Executive Director in 1960 after he organized an armed Negro militia in Union County, North Carolina, had not confined his various activities to the local scene and in early 1961 made a tour on behalf of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, during which he took part in a FPCC meeting in the San Francisco Bay area. At this meeting, he was one of three speakers—the others being the well known Harry Bridges and Paul A. Loran, long time hard-core Communist and identified Soviet Agent who also acted as chairman of the meeting.

Defector Williams, whose case was made into a "cause celebre" by the Communist/pro-Communist press, has continued his militant racist activities throughout his self-styled "exile", by broadcasting over the Communist radio, by contributing articles to various Negro and pro-Communist publications and by continuing to publish The Crusader, a black extremist, "get-Whitcy" type Newsletter which he started in Monroe, North Carolina, in 1959. The Crusader was finally banned by U.S. Postal authorities in August 1967. Williams' anti-U.S. diatribes, which have often contained tips on how to conduct urban warfare in U.S. cities and have urged Negro troops in Viet Nam to "eliminate" their white comrades rather than the Viet Cong, have given support to "revolutionary black nationalism and Black Power", urged remembrance of Malcolm X "in the coming bloody fray" in "racist...tyrannical...white America", and cheered hate and violence ad nauseum. Since moving to Peking from Cuba in July 1966, after having visited that city in 1963 and 1964, Williams, who was lionized and feted by top Peking leaders, has consistently lauded Mao's exploits and policies and beaten pro-Chinese Communist drums.

Despite his overseas activities, Williams (who has also visited Israel where he was received by the Civil Guard and broadcast edition to American troops in South Viet Nam) has managed to become an outstanding figure, possibly the outstanding figure, in the black extremist movement in the United States. His propaganda of hate and violence reportedly led to the clandestine formation of the all negro terrorist Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), of which he is "Chairman-in-Exile";

he was named President of the Republic of New Africa (RNA) at a Black Nationalist convention in Detroit in March of 1963, which was sponsored by the Malcolm X Society; and he has long been the ideological leader of the extremist Black Panther Party. As of mid-1964, his program was allegedly being distributed among U.S. negroes by the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee, (SNCC), a militant black racist group active in anti-Viet Nam and pro-Cuban affairs, and by the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), a united civil rights effort which sponsored the Mississippi Project, which drew support from the Communist press.

According to current newspaper accounts of Williams' imminent return, Milton B. Henry, First Vice-President of the Republic of New Africa who seems to be spokesman for Williams, has indicated that Williams is finally returning to this country to take his position of leadership in the separate negro republic which the Republic of New Africa plans to set up in that part of the United States which now constitutes Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina. Henry, who is a lawyer and a former companion of Fontaine, Williams, and his brother Richard B. Henry are leaders in the Malcolm X Society; and Milton Henry was named Minister of Information of the Republic of New Africa when Williams was named President and Malcolm X's widow, Betty Sabasa, was named Vice-President. In July 1963, however, Williams, who was in Tanzania, referred to Milton Henry as his First Vice-President; and stated that he was his ranking "inside" helper. According to Williams, he was awaiting a call from his "inside" helpers to return to the United States. At the time, Williams had recently been visited by Laurence Henry, another brother of Milton Henry. The Henry brothers have apparently been Williams' chief link with Black Power groups in the United States; and another link may be Stokely Carmichael with whom he has also had contact. The meeting ground seems to always have been Tanzania, which Williams visited from May to September 1963 and where he has apparently resided since returning there from Peking in May 1967.

According to Wilson Henry's statement, as reported in the New York Times on 23 August 1960, Mrs. Williams and "the Negro" (Henry) had "worked out a deal" with Federal authorities. Also so that Williams did not face charges in his return. Should be noted, however, Henry seems to claim that he can obtain Williams' release on a writ of habeas corpus. The Washington Post and Times Herald on 20 August 1960 reported on a legislative vote to the fact that Williams, if he survives, is expected on a legislative vote. During this past week, Wilson Henry and Williams, who, until late Robinson Williams, have been active in the 1960 Legislative Committee of the Republic of New Africa which was held at All Souls' Unitarian Church in Washington, D.C., from 21 to 23 August 1960.

As can be seen, Williams has been a powerful and influential, if not a dominant, figure in the past period of the black militant groups in this country; and it would seem that he may well be continuing as the over-all centralized black militant leader of the future. Recent months have witnessed an extreme distinction in the leadership of Stokely Carmichael, H. Rap Brown, Melvin Oliver, and other black leaders; and one wonders if Williams may be about to claim the center of the black power story, with the aid of his "Negro" helpers.

August 25-31

Haverford, Pennsylvania - The War Resisters International (founded in 1923), an international pacifist group, will hold its Triennial Conference, its first conference in the Western Hemisphere. Delegates from throughout the world are expected. The theme of the conference will be "liberation and revolution - Gandhi challenge." WRI and its American counterpart, War Resisters League, are reputedly sincerely pacifist and usually ineffective. They provide a medium in which some revolutionaries operate.

August 29-30

Cleveland, Ohio - SDS is holding a mid-west conference August 29-30 at Cleveland, Ohio. This conference is considered a "kickoff" for fall action by SDS, particularly, the demonstration scheduled for Chicago, Illinois, October 8-11.

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroi Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

Los Angeles, California - The Conference will convene under the leadership of Milton Henry, President of the Republic of New Africa. Henry, however, will presumably be in Detroit, Michigan, on the 30th, to meet and greet Robert Williams, who is allegedly flying in from Africa on that date.

August 30

The National Socialist White People's Party, which is also known as the American Nazi Party, an anti-semitic and anti-Negro organization, will hold a three-day "National Socialist Congress" starting August 30, in Arlington, Virginia.

August 31

San Clemente, California - During the 17 August demonstration at the Summer White House, Robert Bland, leader of the Peace Action Council, invited the crowd to return on 31 August for another rally to symbolize the establishment of a "free-speech zone" in the shadow of the Western White House. The Peace Action Council expects to be permitted use of a previously denied state park field nearer the Nixon compound than the area of the recent rally.

Sarasota, Florida - The superintendent of the county schools advised yesterday that he heard a rumor that two members of the Black Panther Party of Sarasota and two members of the "Black Muslims," (apparently referring to the all-Negro anti-religious organization, Nation of Islam) were in Sarasota on 14 August. They allegedly were organizing five groups to bomb five unnamed school buildings in Sarasota. The inference was that if the United States District Judge in Florida decides to close the Amarillas Park Schools, the bombings will occur thereafter.

LABOR DAY

September 1

From the Daily World (Communist):

"A call for a 1969 New York Labor Day demonstration to meet the threat of rising reaction and repression has been issued by four labor and left-wing leaders.

"AFL-CIO groups in New York traditionally stage Labor Day parades only in even-numbered years.

"But due to the ultra-right threat and the growing social crisis, this Labor Day must be marked by a mass demonstration," the call said. It was signed by Louis Weinstock, Painters' Rank-and-File; Jim Haughton, Harlem Unemployment Center; Jose Stevens, New York W. E. B. Dubois Clubs; and Irving Potash, New York State Communist Party."

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania - The Harrisburg Area Peace Center (HAPC), led by Mrs. Sylvia Kramtman, will hold a Vietnam peace demonstration from 1400 to 2200 hours. The demonstration at Front and Locust Streets will consist of HAPC members reading the names of Pennsylvania Vietnam War dead. The size of the planned demonstration is currently unknown.

September 2

Washington, D. C. - A press release made by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which has sponsored several anti-war/draft demonstrations in the District of Columbia recently, announced that demonstrations will be held in Washington, D. C., each Tuesday by Women's International League for Peace and Freedom groups from different states.

September 7

New York City - The Black and Puerto Rican Student Community which led campus disruptions at City College of New York last spring are planning to disrupt the City College of New York registration. It plans to have up to 500 individuals participating.

September 9

Washington, D. C. - The Caesar Chavez-led United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, which has been promoting a grape boycott to demand higher wages for grape workers, plans to demonstrate at Washington, D. C., on 7 September. The demonstrators will hold a rally at the Sylvan Theater near the Washington Monument. At the conclusion of the rally, they will march to Arlington Cemetery, where they hope to hold a mass near the grave of Robert F. Kennedy. They are considering inviting Mrs. Ethel Kennedy to be one of the main speakers.

New Orleans, Louisiana - Southern University was the scene of much disruption the past school year and former students have now organized The Black People's Party, which is calling for the repeal of riot legislation, a retraction of the governor's statement that troops would be sent to troubled campuses, the reinstatement of suspended and expelled students, and the dismissal of legal charges against students arising from last year's disruptions. Reportedly - a group of expelled students plans to disrupt registration activities at the University beginning 9 September.

Chicago, Illinois - Eugene Gladstone, a member of the Steering Committee of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War (main organizer and sponsor of the proposed major demonstration of the Fall - November 15 - in Washington, D. C.), has stated that organizers will visit campuses after school starts in September to develop support for the Fall demonstrations. A militant, but non-violent, demonstration will be held in Chicago to support the "Chicago Eight," on 11 September.

September 12

*University of Puerto Rico - The Federation of University Students for Independence has announced that it will hold a sit-in at the University of Puerto Rico on 12 September to demand that the Reserve Officers Training Corps be abolished.

September 15-20

San Francisco, California - A five-day International Industrial Conference (IIC), a quadrennial affair conducted by the National Industrial Conference Board and Stanford Research Institute (SRI), will be held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco. The emphasis since the first conference in 1957 has been on "Closing the World's Income Gap." The conference will bring together some 500 representatives of major industries, technological, and financial firms like U. S. Steel, IBM, Chase Manhattan Bank, etc. General Conference Chairman is David Rockefeller; Chairman of the International Council is John London of Royal Dutch Shell; and U. S. Council Chairman is Roger Blough of U. S. Steel.

The April Third Movement, a coalition of protest groups at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, which has previously been active in demonstrating against the Stanford Research Institute, has announced that it will sponsor demonstrations September 15-20, during the Conference. The April Third Movement, which is dominated by SDS, is to act as the coordinator for radical demonstrations at the Conference; and Stanford University is to be used as a base of operations. An early estimate is that from 3,000 to 5,000 radical demonstrators, mainly from SDS, will travel to San Francisco for the Conference. The students say the conference "is designed to consolidate the dominion of the multi-national corporations in the third world." The movement has also announced that it will continue its investigation of Government research at both the Institute and the University and will also consider the areas. Authorities feel there is a definite possibility of violence during the demonstrations.

Southwest, United States - Mexican American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican Revolution. According to Rudolph Corky Gonzalez, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the "Chicago Eight" protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 4 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 27

Chicago, Illinois - SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight." Other protest activities are being planned later during the trial.

October - November *In view of the number of actions already noted as planned for October and November, 1969, they are not repeated in this week's calendar. As additional or new information becomes available re this period, it will be included in subsequent issues.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Syndicated columnist Marquis CHILDS, who through past observations on the American college scene seemingly has established himself as a bit of an authority (he wrote a series of articles last Spring on the Cornell University strife and accurately predicted the demise of Dr. Perkins), has addressed the subject of what lies ahead for the troubled California schools. CHILDS reports that Acting Chancellor Earl F. CHEIT at Berkeley is optimistic about conditions at the University of California. CHEIT, formerly Vice Chancellor at Berkeley, incidently appears from recent press reportage to be much like the popular Chancellor Charles E. YOUNG of UCLA, who has thus far kept the lid on in the south. It is believed that the power play of SDS, the Radical Student Union, and the Black Panthers has disillusioned the great mass of moderates among Berkeley's 28,000 students.

San Francisco State College, on the other hand, presents a pessimistic picture for the coming academic year. Another round of hostilities is expected. The black militants are still at odds over a separate black studies program and the teachers to staff it. Black disaffection with the white establishment is reportedly far-reaching.

The Berkeley Barb, pace-setting pioneer of the underground newspapers, has been sold to one Allan COULT. Reportedly, COULT, a Ph. D. in anthropology, financed the purchase of the paper by teaching this summer at the University of California's Santa Cruz campus. COULT teaches Zen, Buddhism and Yoga. The new Barb owner ventured into the publishing business first as owner of the Berkeley Fascist in order to stop the hate the Barb was spreading.

COULT plans to alter the paper's political image, veering from a marked left-wing bias toward a kind of psychedelic middle. In his first issue (press run of 58,000 plus), the new owner set forth his editorial policy, which seems almost reactionary after the anti-Establishment diatribes of former owner Max SCHERR (SCHERR, incidently, is now labelled a dirty capitalist by his former journalistic associates for selling, rather than giving away, the paper). COULT says the "new" revolution will ask nothing of the Establishment but, rather, will allow the Establishment to perish in its own greed and corruption.

Although the Barb henceforth will label no one as "pigs", in the thirteen-point policy set forth as goals for the new Barb, COULT seems in near-perfect harmony with the underground press philosophy, manifesting perhaps just a twist more of hallucinosis.

The thirteen nauseatingly constant targets of the new Barb are:

- 1.) End the war in Vietnam. Stop the draft. Empty the military stockades;
- 2.) Turn the military-industrial-educational complex to peaceful uses;
- 3.) Destroy the power of universities and colleges by establishing red centers of learning in order to expand consciousness and to foster Zen and Yoga and meaningful use of psychedelic drugs;
- 4.) Support complete sexual freedom between consenting individuals, and provide true knowledge of the sexual nature of man;
- 5.) Help all oppressed people;
- 6.) Free people from greed, hate, and corruption;
- 7.) Free children from all oppression - at home, at school, and elsewhere - so that the next generation will be healthy, sexual, and enlightened;
- 8.) Support complete freedom of all media;
- 9.) Support the repeal of abortion laws;

10.) Work to provide meaningful vocations where people can use their creative talents; 11.) End unfair taxation, and the taxation that favors the rich;

12.) Free the country from governmental parasitism; and 13.) End hypocrisy.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

August 19-29

University of Texas at El Paso, Texas - The National Student Association Congress reportedly will be attended by Tom Hayden and Mark Rudd of SDS, Robert Powell (head of NSA), and Ed Swartz, former President of NSA. Ronald Vincent, President of the Student Action Committee at the University of Texas, El Paso, reportedly has stated that he has obtained information that the Young Americans for Freedom organization is planning to send a "goon squad" to the Congress for purposes of disruption. Some of the NSA meetings reportedly will be held in Juarez, Mexico, particularly those involving militant discussions, in order to avoid "harassment" by conservative elements.

The Third World Commission (TWC) will hold a convention in El Paso at the same time and in conjunction with the NSA Congress. The purpose of the TWC Convention reportedly is to take the first step in organizing a National Association of Black Students to serve black students in a manner similar to the NSA, which some blacks feel "relates" only to white students. The TWC reportedly was formed and funded for minority group students by the NSA during the past year.

Washington, D. C. - It has been reported that the Third Legislative Convention of the Black Extremist separatist Republic of New Africa is to be held August 21-24 at All Souls Unitarian Church, 16th and Harvard Streets, Northwest, Washington, D. C. Speakers reportedly will include Representative John Conyers of Michigan and other "United States Representatives."

*Another speaker will be Mabel Williams, wife of the group's president, Robert Williams. She recently returned to this country after residing with Williams in Cuba and Peking, China, as Williams is a fugitive from North Carolina, where he has been charged with kidnapping.

*Washington, D. C. - Area Student Mobilization Committee members have scheduled a meeting for 1300 hours at 1029 Vermont Avenue, Room 907. Presumably, discussion will center around planning for the Fall's schedule of activities.

*Baltimore, Maryland - The National States Rights Party (NSRP) has been granted permission to conduct a "White Power Rally" at Riverside Park, Baltimore, from 1830-2000 hours, 23 August. The NSRP has also requested permission to use the Park on 22 August.

*Buffalo, New York - The Buffalo Coalition to End the War in Vietnam, which includes SDS and other protest groups, is sponsoring an anti-war demonstration.

*Utica, New York, and Springfield, Massachusetts: The Rochester Free School has announced a "mass turn-on" at Marlboro Field, Utica. The demonstration will be co-sponsored by the Brother Christian Freedom Movement, a subgroup of International Conspiracy, Inc. Sponsors want attendance to be so great as to render local police ineffective. A similar demonstration has been proposed for Springfield, Massachusetts, on the same date.

*Atlanta, Georgia - An organization called the National Association for African American Education plans to hold a five-day Black University Conference. Many local Negro educators have been invited to the conference, and leaders hope about 5,000 Negroes will attend. Sources, however, believe that an estimate of 1,000 is more realistic. Hugh Lang, a male Negro representing himself as the head of the National Association for African American Education from New York City, was recently in Atlanta to set up the conferences. Other information received indicates that the National Association for African American Education is headed by Preston Wilcox, described as a militant black activist.

August 25-31

Haverford, Pennsylvania - The War Resisters International (founded in 1929), an international pacifist group, will hold its Triennial Conference, its first conference in the Western Hemisphere. Delegates from throughout the world are expected. The theme of the conference will be "liberation and revolution - Gandhi challenge." WRI and its American counterpart, War Resisters League, are reputedly sincerely pacifist and usually ineffective. They provide a medium in which some revolutionaries operate.

August 26

Baltimore, Maryland - At 1930 hours, the Black United Front will hold a "political assembly" at the Western District Police Station, Baltimore. The stated purpose of the assembly will be to unify members of the black community in order to protect themselves from alleged police harassment.

August 28

Nationally - In behalf of, and often initiated by, the self-styled "Chicago 8" or "The Conspiracy" (the eight activists indicted by the government for "conspiring to incite, encourage, and promote a riot" during the August 1968 Democratic National Convention - Rennie Davis, Dave Dellinger, Tom Hayden, Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin, Bobby Seale, John Froines, and Lee Weiner), a number of fund-raising projects have been undertaken in addition to solicitation of donations from liberals. An educational tag-day was held in the streets of Chicago last June and another, this one a national tag-day, is being planned for August 28, the anniversary of the major confrontation in Chicago.

Extensive legal and propaganda efforts have been undertaken and are continuing in behalf of the defendants. An office has been established in Chicago under the name of the Conspiracy and a number of projects started in preparation for the trial which is scheduled to begin 24 September. Numerous motions, etc., have been filed by their lawyers, who include such well-known civil-rights lawyers as Charles Gerry, William Kunstler, Lennie Weinglass, Mike Tigar, Mike Kennedy, and Jerry Lefcourt.

August 29-30

*Cleveland, Ohio - SDS is holding a mid-west conference August 29-30 at Cleveland, Ohio. This conference is considered a "kickoff" for fall action by SDS, particularly, the demonstration scheduled for Chicago, Illinois, October 8-11. Groups of SDS members plan to travel to various cities to generate support for the demonstration.

August 29-31

Los Angeles, California - On 13 June, Leroy Jones, the poet and playwright, and other black leaders announced in Newark, New Jersey, that the Fourth National Black-Power Conference will be held in Los Angeles. The theme of the Conference will be "1969 Reconstruction."

August 31

San Clemente, California - During the 17 August demonstration at the Summer White House, Robert Bland, leader of the Peace Action Council, invited the crowd to return on 31 August for another rally to symbolize the establishment of a "free-speech zone" in the shadow of the Western White House. The Peace Action Council expects to be permitted use of a previously denied state park field nearer the Nixon compound than the area of the recent rally.

LABOR DAY

September 1

From the Daily World (Communist):

"A call for a 1969 New York Labor Day demonstration to meet the threat of rising reaction and repression has been issued by four labor and left-wing leaders.

"AFL, CIO groups in New York traditionally stage Labor Day parades only in even-numbered years.

"But due to the ultra-right threat and the growing social crisis, this Labor Day must be marked by a mass demonstration," the call said. It was signed by Louis Weinstock, Painters' Rank-and-File; Jim Haughton, Harlem Unemployment Center; Jose Stevens, New York W. E. B. DuBois Clubs; and Irving Potash, New York State Communist Party."

September 2

Washington, D.C. - A press release made by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which has sponsored several anti-war/draft demonstrations in the District of Columbia recently, announced that demonstrations will be held in Washington, D.C., each Tuesday by Women's International League for Peace and Freedom groups from different states.

September 7

Washington, D.C. - The Caesar Chavez-led United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, which has been promoting a grape boycott to demand higher wages for grape workers, plans to demonstrate at Washington, D.C., on 7 September. The demonstrators will hold a rally at the Sylvan Theater near the Washington Monument. At the conclusion of the rally, they will march to Arlington Cemetery, where they hope to hold a mass near the grave of Robert F. Kennedy. September 11

Chicago, Illinois - Eugene Gladstone, a member of the Steering Committee of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War (main organizer and sponsor of the proposed major demonstration of the Fall - November 15 - in Washington, D.C.), has stated that organizers will visit campuses after school starts in September to develop support for the Fall demonstrations. A militant, but non-violent, demonstration will be held in Chicago to support the "Chicago Eight," on 11 September.

September 15-20

San Francisco, California - A five-day International Industrial Conference (IIC), a quadrennial affair conducted by the National Industrial Conference Board and Stanford Research Institute (SRI), will be held at the Fairmount Hotel in San Francisco. The emphasis since the first conference in 1957 has been on "Closing the World's Income Gap." The conference will bring together some 500 representatives of major industries, technological, and financial firms like U.S. Steel, IBM, Chase Manhattan Bank, etc. General Conference Chairman is David Rockefeller; Chairman of the International Council is John Loudon of Royal Dutch Shell; and U.S. Council Chairman is Roger Blough of U.S. Steel.

The April Third Movement, a coalition of protest groups at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, which has previously been active in demonstrating against the Stanford Research Institute, has announced that it will sponsor demonstrations September 15-20, during the Conference. The April Third Movement, which is dominated by SDS, is to act as the coordinator for radical demonstrations at the Conference, and Stanford University is to be used as a base of operations. The students say the conference "is designed to consolidate the dominion of the multi-national corporations in the third world." The movement has also announced that it will continue its investigation of Government research at both the Institute and the University and will also consider the problem of stopping the University's expansion into nearby areas. Authorities feel there is a definite possibility of violence during the demonstrations.

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican Revolution. According to Rudolpho Corky Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the "Chicago Eight" protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing state lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 27

Chicago, Illinois - SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight." Other protest activities are being planned later during the trial.

October 6

Bel Air, Maryland - The trial of H. Rap Brown, militant black former head of SNCC, charged with inciting a riot and arson in a Cambridge racial disturbance two years ago, has been set for October 6 in Harford County Circuit Court. This is the second time it has been scheduled since the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, rejected Brown's request that he be tried in Cambridge, Maryland, which was the scene of a riotous disturbance in July 1967 after Brown spoke at a street rally of Negroes.

October 8-11

Chicago, Illinois - SDS leaders and spokesmen are using every opportunity to whip up support for demonstrations to protest the trials of the "Chicago Eight."

On the 8th, a march in downtown Chicago is planned;

On the 9th, the demonstrators intend to move in on schools and universities to "liberate their occupants;"

On the 10th, present plans are to disrupt the court proceedings;

The 11th has been earmarked for a massive march to "shut the city down."

A statement released by the SDS National Action Staff calls for a "National Action in Chicago on 11 October as a way of uniting the youth movement in this country in the fight for liberation."

In a free-wheeling tirade which acknowledges that "while Vietnam is the critical and most pressing issue facing us today," the War is ON - a war against imperialism, racism, and oppression - "that war must continue even after the U.S. ruling class and its occupational troops have been forced out of Vietnam for good."

"...Imperialism, the international system of capitalism, is the greatest enemy of the people of the world, and it is the cause of the War in Vietnam. Serving the people means ending the War in Vietnam as the primary task of the anti-imperialist movement."

After expressing support of the NLF of South Vietnam, and the new Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, the statement goes on to ask all GI's to respond with demonstrations on their own bases as well as joining SDS action. As with the Black Panthers and other dissident groups, it joins in the growing move to label all opposition to "movement activities" as fascist attacks.

Also, the "October 11 action will be just one step in an out-going attack: off of that action we must build a programmatic attack that reaches everywhere, an attack that makes the slogan 'Get Out of Vietnam' a reality, and builds a mass-based revolutionary movement in this country."

All across the country, radical groups are working intensively on plans for a massive descent on Chicago in mid-October.

They claim that as many as 30,000 students will gather there to protest the war and demonstrate their support for the Black Panthers and for the "Conspiracy 8."

Mark Rudd, newly elected National Secretary by the SDS "national office segment," at a news conference 31 July held in Chicago's Grant Park, scene of many disturbances during the Democratic Convention, stated that, "We intend to return to Chicago precisely because it has come to symbolize what a government held together by force is all about." Offering a little something for nearly everyone in order to swell their numbers, among the demands of the demonstrators will be: Independence for Puerto Rico, an end to the income surtax, and the freeing of Huey P. Newton and Fred Hampton, BPP leaders who are serving prison terms. Rudd said there will be similar demonstrations in other cities during October.

Bill Ayers, an official of SDS, announced that SDS will have militant demonstrations in Chicago on October 11 to protest the trials and that they will "fight back" against the ruling class. He said that the ruling class will have to be stopped through violence. Another speaker invited participants in the demonstration to "get out in the streets and fight."

Bloomington, Illinois - Chapters of SDS at four Illinois universities held a conference on 5-10 August to discuss the platform decisions set forth by the National Committee, SDS. Carrol Cox, a professor at Illinois State University, was elected spokesman. The sixty delegates present at the conference adopted the entire SDS platform. They were then encouraged to have all members of their chapters in Chicago, Illinois, on 11 October for a confrontation with the police. Further, the delegates were told to arm themselves prior to arriving in Chicago.

*Chicago, Illinois - Mark Rudd, leader of the SDS, which is one of the sponsors of the massive demonstration which will be held at Chicago, Illinois, October 8-11, to protest the trials of eight individuals indicted for their actions at the Democratic National Convention, was recently in Denver, Colorado. Rudd stated that the SDS in Denver is "very turned on" to this demonstration and is forming squads to participate in it. He estimated that 500 people from Denver will participate in the Chicago demonstration. He reportedly has met with an official of the Black Panther Party who agreed that the BPP will remain neutral concerning the demonstration and will neither approve nor denounce SDS.

Chicago, Illinois - Bernadine Dohrn, SDS (Revolutionary Youth Movement/Weatherman faction) leader, held a press conference in New York City on 19 August to publicize the scheduled Chicago demonstrations, 8-11 October. The demonstrators will demand the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam and the immediate release of all black and brown prisoners. Tactics at Chicago will consist of rallies, marches, and demonstrations at the courts and schools.

Chicago, Illinois - Negotiations are still in progress between the New Mobilization Committee and SDS to work out details for the Chicago demonstration. The Steering Committee of New Mobilization Committee has passed a motion "to continue probing, not only with SDS, but with the Panthers and other groups, the possibility of a coalition for this action." The New Mobilization Committee decided to "participate in the organization, financing, and other facets of the action to the extent that a meaningful form of collaboration can be worked out in which the Mobilization plays a role in making the decisions on the action."

October 15

Nationally - The Vietnam Moratorium Committee, headed by former Harvard Divinity student Sam Brown, a former New Hampshire canvasser for Senator Eugene McCarthy, will attempt to "shut down" all normal University activities for the day of 15 October in protest against continued American participation in the Vietnam War. Mr. Brown also hopes that his organization will in coming months work with other forces organized against military training, anti-ballistic missile systems, and racism. Mr. Brown states that his organization, which is planning a mammoth campaign, will greatly appreciate assistance from anyone including SDS. The office address of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is 1029 Vermont Avenue, Northwest (a favorite for radical groups in the D.C. area).

SDS has indicated it will take a major part in this project, called a "moratorium" rather than the more inflammatory word "strike."

*David Hawk of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee has reported that there are active workers for the October 15 school shut-down on 225 campuses and contacts on 75 others. The Student Mobilization Committee will be working with the Moratorium to shut down the schools on October 15.

October 18

San Francisco - At the recent National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism held in Oakland, California, 18-20 July, sponsored by the BPP, registration was conducted for membership in the United Front Against Fascism; and it was announced that the United Front would hold a conference 18 October 1969 in the San Francisco area.

November 8

Nationally - SDS has said that as a follow-up to the 11 October action in Chicago, regional demonstrations will be held throughout the country to make it clear that SDS will not be tricked by "phony bombing halts or troop withdrawals or any games played by liberal politicians." SDS says, "We will not be turned around."

November 13-16

*Washington, D.C. - A national conference on GI rights was announced by the GI Defense Organization in a planning session held at Chicago in early August. Part of the effort to increase GI resistance to the Vietnam War, the Conference will consider proposals including: "The guarantee of freedom of speech for GI's, freedom of the press and assembly, due process, etc., to servicemen, and legislation to enforce the prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment by the officers' caste and their agents." The American Servicemen's Union has asked organized labor to support the GI movement.

*Washington, D.C., and nationally - This Falls's "offensive against the war" has been planned for escalation during this week, culminating with a massive anti-war march in Washington, D.C., on the 15th. Primarily being organized and sponsored by the New Mobilization Committee and the Student Mobilization Committee (controlled by members of the Young Socialist Alliance - the youth group of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party), a Washington Action Committee has been formed as a working committee. This committee is reputedly very broad-based, involving a cross-section of the anti-war movement. An office and staff for the Washington Action has been set up at 1029 Vermont Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D.C. Local and regional coalitions are already being formed across the country.

Planning to date reflects the following:

13 November - The Clergymen and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam will hold a 36-hour "death march" through the streets of the District of Columbia with each demonstrator representing an individual who has been killed in Vietnam.

14 November - The Student Mobilization Committee has called for a national student strike. This may represent a second-round coordinated effort with the 15 October school shutdown being pushed by the Vietnam Moratorium Committee.

15 November - A massive anti-war march in Washington, D.C., designed to get as near the White House as possible "to bring the protest message home to the President."

Douglas Stone, a steering committee member of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, was critical of the planned Chicago demonstration on 11 October. He called instead for a massive demonstration in Washington, D.C., on the 15th of November, and stated that after the 15 November demonstration, there will be a meeting of those who want to stay and "plan other things" for the following day - 16 November.

Planning is not proceeding without some difficulty, it would seem.

The Black United Front, Washington, D.C., notified the Committee that it must pay the Front $1 for each demonstrator as a "symbolic anti-colony tax." The Front demanded that ten percent of this amount be paid now and that the Committee support the District of Columbia as the fifty-first state. The Front also demanded that its members be placed on the policy-making body of the Committee, particularly regarding the disbursement of funds. The Black United Front later modified its demands and is now insisting that a flat sum of $25,000 be paid - half within ten days and the remainder prior to the demonstration. The New Mobilization Committee has discussed this demand, but has reached no decision as to whether it will pay. A spokesman for the Committee has stated that it is in debt $8,000 from previous demonstrations and does not have the money. The Committee planned to meet to discuss these plans as the Front was threatening to disrupt the demonstrations unless the demands were met.

December 1969

Nationally - The New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam has stated that in addition to other proposed activities this Fall, a three-day student strike will be organized in December if the war is not ended.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

SDS plans for this fall - The National Action - appeared in their 23 August issue of New Left Notes. The article is reproduced below (underlining for emphasis has been added).

8-23-69 New Left Notes BRINGING THE WAR BACK HOME?
Less TALK, MORE NATIONAL ACTION

by Kathy Boudin, Bernardine Dohrn, and Terry Robbins, SDS National Action Staff

The National Action is building fast. All over the country, from Detroit to Houston, from Miami through the cities in Ohio and out to Denver, Colorado, people are digging on the action—and digging on SDS. For the past two months the National Officers, the National Action staff, and the National Office staff have been hustling ass to get out propaganda, develop a scenario with other organizations for the action itself, build contacts throughout the country, get people in motion, and develop an overall strategy for building the action in the next couple of months. In this report, we want to fill people in on what's been going on—and talk about what should be going on—in cities, chapters, and regions in order to build the action, and the Revolutionary Youth Movement.

POLITICS AND STRATEGY: BRING THE WAR HOME!

One of the most important reasons for calling the National Action lies with the decision SDS made in Ann Arbor last winter that it was possible and necessary to build an anti-imperialist, working class youth movement in the mother country; a movement that allies with and provides material aid to the people of Vietnam, of the black and brown colonies, and to all oppressed people of the world.

Over the past year, our understanding of the nature of imperialism and the capitalist system has increased tremendously: building the RYM is a programmatic response to that understanding. We know now that the failure of the white mother country movement to expand beyond the limits of bourgeois student consciousness came at least partly from the class base of our movement, and therefore from our own liberalism. We were afraid to bring our politics to the people; afraid to raise the key issues of imperialism and racism in a consistent, aggressive way. Instead, we hid behind the security of "student power", or economism, or "bread and butter issues". On campuses and in communities, we thought that if we could trick the people into any kind of struggle—and any level of struggle, no matter how low—they would see the naked teeth of the capitalist monster and join the revolution.

It didn't work. And what became clear to people—through the struggles at Columbia and Chicago, at San Francisco State and at Kent State—was that putting forward our politics in an aggressive way was the ONLY way to organize the masses of people in this country. That only by dealing with the issues of white supremacy, the black liberation struggle, Third World struggles, and the fight against imperialism, only by challenging the consciousness of the people could we ever develop a movement capable of helping topple the imperialist state.

Key to all this is the need for militancy, the need for struggle. A look around shows that the Man understands this. Events like the Woodstock gentleness freak-out and the demonstration at Nixon's home in California indicate that as long as militancy isn't a threat, pig and ruling class approval is forthcoming. But we learn from every organizing situation that people change from being challenged, and that it is in situations of sharp conflict that people are forced to act. Nixon's polity of Law and Order is the modern-day version of McCarthyism: all those who are orderly, polite, and well-behaved are welcomed to imperialism and will be absorbed.

Our strategy of building a fighting force is being put forth openly for the national action, as well as for local organizing. Because national demonstrations have their major impact on the political issues and tone which is carried back for ongoing work, we put forward a struggle scenario of the action. Because we know that revolutionaries are created in struggle and not through protest or persuasion, we say clearly that this is an action not to register a complaint or up the percentage points in public opinion polls, but to make a difference, to create the solution.

And more. We must build struggles not only because they are the way to build our own movement—but also because they are the only concrete way to relate to the vanguard struggles of black and brown people in this country, and of colonized people throughout the world. Chicago last year did more damage to the ruling class, helped build our own movement, and aided the Vietnamese in a more concrete and significant way than any mass, peaceful gathering this country has ever seen.

The National Action was conceived to speak to the need to build a mass action that ups the level of politics and ups the level of struggle. In the action we will direct ourselves not only against the war, but against the imperialist system that created the war in the first place; not only in support of withdrawal of US troops, but also in support of the heroic fight of the Vietnamese people, the NLF and the PRG, to defeat imperialism and win freedom and independence; not only to demand an end to racism, but in support of the black liberation struggle as part of the world-wide struggle of oppressed colonized peoples.

The National Action is one of the key ways of talking to young people in this country about building a class conscious revolutionary youth movement which has as its primary task the establishment of another front in the international class war—not only to defeat the imperialists in Vietnam but to BRING THE WAR HOME!

Chicago is the site. It is here that thousands of young people faced the blind terror of the military state; where dreams of grandeur and new life turned into the slaughter of innocence. And it was also here that those same people began to fight back—in struggle against the betrayal, the lies, the oppressiveness and the brutality of the state.

We are coming back to turn our city into the people's city.

THE SCENARIO

As approved by the last NYC meeting, the action will take place over a four-day period, October 8-11. The scenario as it now stands will look like this:

The action will start on Wednesday night, October 8, with a memorial rally for Che Guevara, who was murdered by CIA pigs October 8, 1967, and Nguyen Van Troi, the Vietnamese hero murdered by the US October 13, 1964 for attempting to kill Macnamara. A rally for Che and Troi and all other revolutionaries who have died in the struggle.

On Thursday, October 9, we will join with kids from high schools, community colleges, trade schools, etc. here in Chicago in an offensive against the schools. The action will be something around the idea of a "Jailbreak", and people in the Chicago region are already working with several high schools in the city to develop cadre who will help work out and co-ordinate this action. The need for tactical flexibility on this day is crucial, but it could be one of the most important actions of the week, involving thousands of local kids and getting the word out to thousands more about who we are and what's going on.

Either on Thursday or Friday there will be a women's action, planned by women from functioning political collectives all over the country. Unlike other women's actions—which focused on the symbols of cultural repression—this action will be an attack on the institutions of racism and imperialism, combatting male chauvinism in large part by being an exemplary women's army.

Thursday night we'll have a youth-rock music festival. (October 9 is the anniversary of the day when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern and burned half the damn city down.) ~~hippie~~ hippie capitalism. Build culture in struggle.

Friday we go after the courts. The trial of the "Conspiracy" will be going on at the Federal Building in the downtown Loop area. Our slogan for this action should be "Stop the Trial". Like the slogan "Stop the Convention" last year, it must indicate our commitment to fight back when the Man comes down with repression, to force the ruling class to pay an increasingly heavy price for the farce of "trying" the Conspiracy or any other political prisoners in this country.

And finally, on Saturday, October 11, we'll have the big march. We're starting to work on a route for the march, and will be seeking permits from the city. The permit, however, even if we get it, will be no guarantee of safety. As on all the other days, we must be prepared to defend ourselves in the event of any vicious attacks by the Chicago pigs.

Talks have been held concerning the possibility of a rally around "FREE ALL POLITICAL PRISONERS" to be held at the Cook County Jail on Thursday or Friday evening. In large part, this depends on our discussions with other groups in the Chicago area.

As the scenario for the four days' actions is now laid out, it builds politically and in militancy toward the October 11 march. The choice of targets for the different days, plus the systematic educational work that will be done in Chicago and in other areas that are really using the National Action as their organizing focus for the summer, will mean that a large number of people, especially young people never before touched by SDS, will know about what is happening and will in some way be relating to it. The plans for the four days are of course not finalized. Changes will undoubtedly take place; some probably will happen when Daley and the Chicago pigs begin their all-out offensive against the action. In building an action like this one, many factors will remain unknown until the actual event. But if the general strategic outlook for the demonstration is sound, we will be able to use anything that happens between now and October 8 to our own advantage.

SELF-DEFENSE

Recently, both here in Chicago and in traveling around the country, we've started to get feedback on the plans for the action. Of all the things being said, the one that presents the most serious problem is one that the pig has been spreading. The rumor has been that we are organizing white youth to bring guns to Chicago to provoke an armed confrontation. What this obviously does is give the pig the excuse to bring out his shotguns and shoot people down in the streets like they did in Berkeley. That people in and out of SDS around the country actually believed such bullshit is amazing. Even though SDS has recognized the correctness of Mao's slogan, "Political Power Grows out of the Barrel of a Gun", we have little experience with armed self-defense and have very little strategic understanding of how the RYM is going to move to the level of armed self-defense. The streets of Chicago are obviously not the place for that to happen.

Our tactics in Chicago this year will grow from the struggles we have been engaged in for the past year. We move in tight groups, taking care of each other while taking care of business, acting in an essentially defensive manner within what is actually a political offensive. This October, we must be the best we've ever been. That means that people who are committed to the action, who are organizing around it in local and regional areas, are going to be the ones with the major responsibilities for leadership in the streets of Chicago. Groups of people should form into affinity groups. Spending the summer learning karate (not for beating a pig with a gun, but for physical and mental conditioning), learning first aid, and learning how to move in the streets by organizing build-up actions in local areas to turn people on to coming to Chicago.

We must begin immediately to put together serious groups on the local level that will work self-consciously to build the action and come to it as a group. When we talk to new kids about the action we should try to get them to come as groups rather than individuals. This involves political implementation deeper than pure tactics. We no longer organize people to participate in actions as individuals because we no longer act out of individual anger or alienation. We reach out to groups because we are building a collective response to collective oppression.

In a mass action made up of many types of groups, there is naturally a wide range of experience. Some are heavy, disciplined collectives, people who are engaged in full-time movement work together and who have gone through demonstrations together before. Others might be just groups of kids who hang together, go to school together, who might never have undergone a self-conscious political experience as a group. What we have seen is that those who have experience in the streets (and other tactical situations) usually grow leadership for the action as a whole. That leadership develops within the situation, and is made real by the fact that in general people's instincts are correct:

people follow others who have shown themselves to be together and trustworthy in the context of real struggle. In every action we soon learn whom to look to for leadership. And one of the qualities of street leadership is a sensitivity to the level of struggle of the mass of people. No one except a pig is going to lead people into a slaughter situation because people don't follow leadership that moves beyond their level of militancy and self-confidence. At the same time, correct leadership does not underestimate the level of struggle that the people are willing to engage in.

OTHER ORGANIZATIONS

It is our hope that the National Action will be as broadly based and widely supported as possible. Since the National Convention, we have contacted and spoken with many organizations, asking for their support. The basis for participation in the action by other organizations has been based primarily on willingness to participate in a militant, anti-imperialist struggle.

Soon after the National Convention we met with representatives of the Mobilization Committee and we sent representatives to the Mobilization conference in Cleveland. We laid out what we were attempting to do politically with this action, and we laid out our criticisms of Mobilization actions in the past. We asked for Mobilization support for this action. What followed was a request for co-sponsorship—speakers, marshals, and a "joint" negotiating team to meet with the city.

The Mobilization has come to symbolize and represent the twice-yearly Sunday afternoon anti-war movement. We're not saying that some of those Sunday afternoons weren't heavy, like the Pentagon and Chicago last year. What we're saying is that a movement must be built with people who will fight imperialism at home as well as at national actions. The politics put forward through the Mobilization, these past years will not be sufficient this year. The request for co-sponsorship and the request for marshals (who were weak in Chicago and pigs in Washington at the inauguration) could not be met without completely changing the politics of the action. Therefore we declined their offer of support.

Of extreme importance have been our discussions with the Illinois Chapter and National Office of the Black Panther Party, the Young Lords Organization, and the Young Patriots, an organization of working class youth from Uptown Chicago. Of these, only the Patriots were totally opposed to the action, and through discussions with them significant political differences emerged.

The Patriots argued essentially that SIX was a "student" organization that wasn't interested in the people (white people), and "objectified" the people. They criticized the action for "disrupting" their local work, and complained that SIX was only interested in tearing up Chicago, and not in building a movement in the city. We strongly disagreed with this "national-local" argument, as well as with the Patriots' incorrect assessment of where SDS is at, and their tendency to ignore the issue of white supremacy and white-skin privilege in their work.

In our first discussions with the Panthers and the Lords, they raised strong reservations about the action, saying that white people did not have to go through mass struggle in the streets in order to build a revolutionary consciousness. However, the National Panther Party, through Bobby Seale and David Hilliard, indicated that they would support the action—though not work actively on it—and discussions with the Illinois Chapter, as well as with the Young Lords, will continue.

What is critical to understand here is that the level of struggle in the black and brown liberation movements is totally different from our own; that black and brown people have reached a level of consciousness where mass demonstrations are no longer so necessary. However, the white movement, riddled by timidity rather than a wealth of experience in struggle, MUST seek to escalate its seriousness and power at this time through the tactic of mass confrontation.

Also, there are hundreds of thousands of kids who are not in SDS, reached by us or able to relate to our politics, but who nonetheless are pissed off, fighting, tearing up the schools, the pigs, their parents, or the army. Many of these kids will be reached in our summer organizing projects. As well, the Yippies are supporting the action, and will be helpful in bringing many of these kids to it. They will be setting up an office in Chicago and producing mass propaganda around the action.

At the September 1 NIC, we will propose that both the Yippies and possibly the Conspiracy, who have also indicated support, co-sponsor the action along with SDS.

Other groups who have indicated support for the action include SDS, Youth Against War and Fascism, and several high school groups around the country. Discussions are in process with others.

ORGANIZING FOR THE ACTION

The National Action is now less than two months away. Two months. It is critical that if people have not yet begun to organize for the action—as is the case in many cities and chapters without summer programs—that they do so immediately. And, if people have begun to do work, they should intensify their efforts three times over for the heavy month ahead.

Schools will be re-opening. We've got to get into every high school, every junior college, every college in every city in the country: flooding them with propaganda and actions relating to October 8-11.

We've got to leaflet every factory, every National Guard Armory, every place that GIs congregate or pass by.

We've got to hit every beach, drive-in restaurant, and park, reaching youth everywhere and turning them on to the action.

In many cities, people have opened up National Action storefronts. Other places have held a series of city-wide meetings to bring in other organizations and new people. Still others have planned rock festivals, not only to get kids turned on, but to raise needed bail funds for potential arrests.

And, perhaps more important, cities and regions are planning to engage in local struggles during September that will help build the enthusiasm, confidence, and seriousness of the National Action.

When we go to Chicago we must set up a communication network so that the people who stay home won't have to rely on the bourgeois press for all of their information. The actual organization of such networks will vary; a possible model is the establishment of a news center in conjunction with the local underground press which would receive information from our people in Chicago; the contacts which we have left behind in schools, hospitals, shops, streets, welfare centers...would come to the news center to get the news—perhaps in the form of a wall poster—and take it to the people. This network is also important because it gives people who aren't in Chicago a way of being involved in it—by spreading the news.

In the past couple of weeks, we've heard enthusiastic reports from Detroit, Cleveland, Columbus, Denver, Chicago, and Houston. The National Officers and action staff have recently spent time in Boston, Baltimore, Atlanta, New Orleans, Seattle, San Francisco, and Milwaukee. And, in Chicago, where successful organizing for the action is critical, 15 people are working collectively full-time building up the troops.

Particularly helpful in getting ideas for working on the action is a Midwest National Action Conference, scheduled to be held right before the NIC on August 29-31 in Cleveland. People from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Wisconsin have already indicated that they're coming. And probably people from every region in the country should be there—to help plan stuff and generally get into it.

PROPAGANDA

The National Office has been working hard and heavy, producing literature for the action. So far, we've got the basic shotgun "Bring the War Home" (reprinted in the last issue of NLN); a shotgun on "Occupation Troops Out" and two posters.

We've got copy for stuff on political prisoners, independence for Puerto Rico, and GI rights and rebellions, and we're seeking material for a shotgun on each one of the other demands. At this point, though, we're broke—and out of paper. People should send in bread—pay for unpaid back orders, or pay for new orders. Without it, the lit will never get printed. (The price is $5 for the shotguns.)

Also, several key underground newspapers recently got up the Revolutionary Press Movement, which sees as its initial function publicizing the action. The first of several centerfold supplements for the RPM papers

(also distributed through LNS) has been sent out and used by many papers around the country. As we go to press, another supplement is in the works.

BUILD THE FALL OFFENSIVE

The people of Vietnam have won the war. With the militancy, genius, and political will of a nation fighting for its liberation, they have forced the US aggressors and their lackeys onto a totally defensive holding operation. What remains is to get the US out of Vietnam.

Our task is to provide material support in ending the war by building class struggle in the streets, schools, and shops of the imperialist mother country. The National Action is part of a larger Fall Offensive designed to aid the Vietnamese and build our movement on every possible level. Other parts of the fall offensive include:

—an action at the conference of imperialists, the International Industrialists' Conference in San Francisco September 12-14;

—the November 8th Movement, called by SDS, to bring the struggle against the war and imperialism to every region and city, attacking the local institutions of power across the country;

—the mass mobilization in Washington on November 15, called by the New Mobilization Committee; and —the Venceremos Brigade, of people who will join with the Cuban people for three months to help with the 10,000,000-ton 1970 sugar harvest.

Building from the motion of the National Action and the entire Fall Offensive, we move into the fall with the potential for increasing our numbers, our militancy, and our effectiveness; for ending the war in Vietnam, and bringing the war home!

The Militant, weekly press mouthpiece of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party (and hence the party youth organization, the Young Socialist Alliance) published in a recent issue, a letter to the editor from the University of Arkansas SDS (at Fayetteville) proclaiming the chapter's disassociation with both national leadership groups of the radical organization.

In declaring its independence, the University of Arkansas chapter labels both the PLP and the RYM-NO "bureaucratic Stalinistic" (the sublime evil in the opinion of SWP), elitist and professing policies contrary to the building of a "mass-based" revolution. The University of Arkansas SDS writes that neither national group has any understanding of or respect for the revolutionary traditions and heritages of the American proletariat. They have distorted and dogmatized the revolutionary experience of dissimilar societies.

In setting forth their beliefs the University of Arkansas SDS writes that they embrace these seven principals:

1. We support the right of self-determination of all peoples of the earth, including the black and brown colonies within the U. S.
2. We oppose oppression of women, which denies half the population of their humanity. This denial is used by the capitalist power structure to further perpetuate its dominance over both sexes.
3. The school systems of the U. S. and specifically Arkansas do not and have never represented the interests of the people. We wish and will strive to change the educational system to fit these needs.
4. We seek to destroy the imperialistic nature of the U. S. government, recognizing that imperialism is the world-wide arm of capitalism.
5. We feel that militarism is the force by which capitalism enforces its dominance on the rest of the world.
6. We support all progressive labor struggles.
7. We oppose the destructive exploitation of the environment for profit.

In conclusion, the letter, in a classic example of pot calling kettle black, the University of Arkansas chapter states, "Both NO's have degenerated all political discussion into the chanting of meaningless slogans and empty rhetoric."

In analyzing the significance of this letter it must be conceded that had it not favored the SWP point of view it would not have been published. Further, the University of Arkansas SDS chapter is believed to be a most insignificant one (in a recent national membership list of SDS from a reliable information source, not one member of SDS in Arkansas was known and the University of Arkansas has not experienced significant student demonstrations in recent years). None the less, the University of Arkansas SDS "happening" may herald the dawning of the age of more radical splintering.

To the Social Scientist, slum riots, like hurricanes to the meteorologist, run in seasons. The riot season ended on Labor Day and now those who count them and measure their intensity search for the reasons why summer 1969 was brighter by a city mile than the past several summers.

The consensus, as reported in the news media in the past several weeks (including for instance Time Magazine - 12 September; New York Times - 7 September; The Economist 23 August; Moynihan speaking for the administration and widely published), seems to be that the worst is past and if complacency doesn't set in, steady improvement can be hoped for and may be even expected. Riots have occurred and have stayed, as in the past, in the black ghettos. They have not expanded (as oft predicted and/or threatened) to the white suburbs and they have not, by any popular measure (number, size, cost, blood, death) reached the proportion of the King riots of April 1968 or the mid-summer outbreak of 1967.

Social theorists believe that the reasons why are complex and influenced by a number of interrelated variables that should be regarded as a basic formulation for advancing and accelerating black/white dialogue and cooperation in coming years. The goal (establishment of racial harmony and relative equality), simply stated, is to cut the Negro in on his rightful piece of the social, economic and political action. The problems are many and difficult. Still less than 2 percent of skilled construction trade union members are Negroes and the university population remains far below a representative racial balance, etc.

Jack Rosenthal, writing in the New York Times, attributes this summers cooling (a "Build, Baby, Build" phenomenon) to four basic metamorphoses. By and large other observers agree with the Rosenthal thesis.

1. Although abrasive police-community relations remain a prime potential flash point, many police forces have reformed their practices markedly. Stimulated by Kerner commission recommendations and International Association of Chiefs of Police training courses, they have sought to minimize provocation in minority urban communities. Police departments realize that their task of enforcement can no longer be mechanical but must function with sophistication and finesse. Police improvements in riot control are widely evident.

2. Many civic summer programs have turned from what emotionally exhausted Negroes formerly scorned as "Band-aids" to bandages. The most important projects involved employment. At Oakland (home of the Black Panthers but oddly enough never the site of a significant riot in the Negro slums) a Negro spokesman reported that 5,000 youths were engaged in "real work" and 500 of them will now go into permanent jobs.

3. News media coverage has become more careful and "more responsible" (sic). Aware that riot news from one city has a contagious effect on others, press media has been more self-censorious, concerned that even if accurately reported, playing up trouble might stimulate worse trouble.

4. Perhaps the most important restraining force, a largely psychological one, is a "sense of community" in the Negro ghettos. This sense which, ironically, may have been initially induced by rioting and ominously portends racial polarization and increasing impetus in separatism, has produced meaningful community self-development programs. Watts, since the riots of 1965, has experienced the establishment of community organized parks, stores, factories and cultural events.

Progress has been made but progress is slow. The question remains and must be answered in the next several summers, will there be coalition or collision between and among the American Social forces.

A recently reported Louie Harris poll pointed up the absence of black/white unanimity in the area of racial discrimination. Fewer whites believe now that Negroes are discriminated against than in 1966

(46 percent to 61 percent) but more meaningful is the disparity between the way Negroes and Caucasians respond to questions about discrimination in the summer 1969.

The question: Do you think Negroes are discriminated against in getting:

Dr. Robert Hessen, assistant professor of the Columbia University Graduate School of Business, an economic historian and critic of the New Left authored a recent article on Campus rebellion in Nation's Business, a monthly magazine serving the American business community. Hessen, who strongly supports the "no shenanigans" policy promulgated by Father Hesburgh of Notre Dame, advances an interesting theory on the relationship between radical white and militant black.

Hessen writes: "The search for revolutionary allies explains why white leftists are supporting separatism and even segregation. It also explains why student rebels are more eager to promote the study of Swahili and African music than the study of science or business or law or any other subjects which would give Negro students a greater stake in the American economy. To the socialists, the primary appeal of the proposed autonomous black studies departments is that they will dwell on details of slavery and discrimination, foster a sense of estrangement from American society, and thereby make Negro students receptive to the call for revolution."

Fall & Winter

Nationally - The aggressive National Welfare Rights Organization is planning a "fall & winter offensive" of school boycotts, marches on welfare offices, refusals to pay utility bills and rent strikes. Dr. George Wiley, militant black executive-director of the organizations, said welfare recipients will boycott schools and march on welfare offices if additional funds for school clothing are not granted.

At the demonstration sponsored by the Chicago Peace Council and the Conspiracy on 28 August in Chicago to commemorate the confrontation at the 1968 Democratic National Convention, Rennie Davis, one of the Conspiracy Eight defendants, was one of the main speakers. Sylvia Kushner, a CPUSA member, was the moderator. In the course of the remarks, Davis stated that he desired to see mutinies occur at Army bases in the United States. He said the fall program of the anti-war movement would include:

15 September - a demonstration at an unidentified California city, where, according to Davis, "establishment leaders," will be meeting.

24 September - a demonstration at Chicago, Illinois, to protest the trials of the Chicago Eight.

8-11 October - demonstrations in Chicago to protest the trials. SDS is calling for militant action under the slogan, "Bring the War Home." In support of SDS "doing their thing."

8 November - SDS is calling for demonstrations in the streets, on the campuses, and in factories across the country to protest the war.

15 November - massive demonstrations are planned for Washington, D. C., and San Francisco, California, as a climax of the fall program against the war - for the "biggest militant march ever."

*It was announced in the 5 September issue of the Michigan Daily, official University of Michigan student newspaper, that members of SDS, the Radical Caucus, The Resistance, and the Independent Socialist Club had met on 31 August and 3 September to discuss joint efforts to have ROTC removed from the University of Michigan campus by the end of the 1969-70 school year. Several incidents of disruption of ROTC classes have already occurred. AICI #925

The Institute's major purpose, according to its chief sponsor, Metropolitan Applied Research Center of New York and Washington, is to provide a forum for discussion and exchange of experience in the field of economic development, employment, education, housing, and other issues of importance to these officials' constituents and communities. The emphasis since the first conference in 1957 has been on "Closing the World's Income Gap." The conference will bring together some 500 representatives of major industries, technological, and financial firms like U. S. Steel, IBM, Chase Manhattan Bank, etc. General Conference Chairman is David Rockefeller; Chairman of the International Council is John London of Royal Dutch Shell; and U. S. Council Chairman is Roger Blough of U. S. Steel. WIS 31 July 1967
- The April Third Movement, a coalition of protest groups at Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, which has previously been active in demonstrating against the Stanford Research Institute, has announced that it will sponsor demonstrations September 15-20, during the Conference. The April Third Movement, which is dominated by SDS, is to act as the coordinator for radical demonstrations at the Conference, and Stanford University is to be used as a base of operations. An early estimate is that from 3,000 to 5,000 radical demonstrators, mainly from SDS, will travel to San Francisco for the Conference. The students say the conference

"is designed to consolidate the dominion of the multi-national corporations in the third world." The movement has also announced that it will continue its investigation of Government research at both the Institute and the University and will also consider other areas. Authorities feel there is a definite possibility of violence during the demonstrations. President Nixon reportedly will speak at the conference on the 18th. Leaflets and flyers distributed in the San Francisco area indicate "massive demonstrations" were advertised for that event. WI 531 July - 7 Aug.

The Coalition (see 9 September San Francisco item) is calling for demonstrations and a Peoples' Festival during the week (15-19 September). The Coalition plans demonstrations "to expose the men who own, run, and control this country and much of the world." The Coalition says it "will stop the conference."

The demonstration on the opening day - aimed at the Fairmont Hotel - calls for a rally at 11 a.m. at either Union Square or Washington Square and at 11:30 a.m. - the people will move on the Hotel "to stop IIC."

September 16

Washington, D. C. - The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom was to stage a demonstration at the Capitol in Washington, D. C., on 9 September. Information has now been received that the demonstration has been postponed until 16 September due to the death of Senator Everett M. Dirksen. Reportedly, WILPF representatives hope to demonstrate at the Department of State beginning at 1 p.m. on 16 September then plan to proceed to the munitions and Navy buildings to protest the manufacture of war materials and the war in general. (FBI IN40596 9/4/69)

September 16

Southwest, United States - Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking youths intend to shut down the schools of the Southwest on 16 September in a demonstration of solidarity and protest on the anniversary date of the Mexican Revolution. According to Rudolpho "Corky" Gonzales, leader of the Crusade for Justice, a militant Mexican-American group, it will be a demonstration "to change the whole educational system to relate to our needs."

During a speech at Fresno State College, Sacramento, California, Gonzales called for action on his "Aztlán Plan," which he hopes will unite all factions of Mexican-Americans in the United States. This plan calls for all Mexican-Americans to stand as one nation.

September 16, 17
and 18

Washington, D. C. - The American Society for Industrial Security, a non-profit, professional security society will hold the Fifteenth Annual Seminar of the Society at the Washington-Hilton Hotel. Security officials from industry and Government will join together and take a hard look at the security problems they face and attempt to arrive at intelligent solutions.

September 24

Chicago, Illinois - Trial has been set for 24 September for the "Chicago Eight" protest leaders indicted on charges of conspiracy to incite a riot in connection with the disorders at the Democratic National Convention last fall. All eight pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April. Each defendant also faces charges of crossing states lines to foment disorder or to otherwise violate the Civil Rights Act of 1968. Rennie Davis, Bobby Seale, John R. Froines, and Lee Weiner had their travel restrictions eased but are required to keep the Court fully informed of their movements.

September 27

Chicago, Illinois - SDS is reported to be planning to participate in a demonstration on 27 September in support of the trial defendants, the self-proclaimed "Conspiracy Eight." Other protest activities are being planned late during the trial.

October-November

In view of the number of actions already noted as planned for October and November, 1969, they are not repeated in this week's calendar. As additional or new information becomes available re this period, it will be included in subsequent issues.

Although some, perhaps many freshmen entering American colleges this month will, during their coming years, be radicalized by the forces (mostly from the Left) in campus motion, a recent poll conducted by The Eagle, the newspaper of American University indicates that only a few enter the northwest Washington school with radical intent.

The college paper sent questionnaires to all 1,340 entering freshmen and 574 (43%) responded. Although the poll contained several questions of purely local and non-political interest (for instance: How do you feel about coming to A. U. ? —excited, unimpressed, etc. ; and, how do you feel about paying $5.71 for a year-book?), several questions elicited political spectrological results, certainly worthy of note on a campus that experienced serious demonstrations including a building take over last year. The results tend to indicate (though an unequivocal prediction is not possible) that the trend is toward conservatism, possibly because of a decline in SDS popularity.

WOULD YOU CONSIDER JOINING SDS AT AMERICAN UNIVERSITY?

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	3.7%	1.7%	2.4%
No	72.9%	59.9%	64.8%
Maybe	17.9%	34.5%	28.2%
No Response	5.5%	3.9%	4.6%

The total number of "Yes" answers seems to confirm the generally held and oft printed belief of University administrators that the proportion of campus radical activists in the student (and faculty for that matter) population is about 2%. Another interesting factor of the answers to this question is in the "Maybe" response by women, indicating more open-mindedness from the distaff side.

One virulent remark among the "No" answers reportedly was: "I'd never join that Communist organization—hell, no!".

WILL YOU CONSIDER JOINING A FRATERNITY OR SORORITY AT AMERICAN UNIVERSITY?

	Total
Yes	33.8%
No	18.0%
Maybe	46.3%
No Response	1.9%

Results here reflect a continuing appreciation for the traditional college social experience.

SHOULD MARIJUANA BE LEGALIZED?

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	42.2%	38.8%	40.1%
No	42.7%	49.2%	46.7%
No Response	15.1%	12.0%	13.2%

IF YOU WERE LEGALLY DRAFTED TOMORROW, WOULD YOU:

	Men	Women	Total
Resist?	20.6%	17.1%	18.5%
Enlist Today?	16.1%	10.7%	12.7%
Leave the Country?	2.8%	5.1%	4.2%
Accept Draft?	47.2%	33.4%	38.7%
No Response	13.3%	33.7%	25.9%

The responses to this question reflects displeasure (or disapproval) to one or more of the several pressures on today's college generation.

either the draft system per se, the current war, or economic and academic desires, etc.; that conscription interrupts. The number of both men and women who would resist is considered most significant. Unfortunately, the Eagle did not include a question dealing with alternatives to the present Selective Service System—for instance, would you favor abolition of the draft and maintenance of a professional military? or would you prefer a lottery system?.

The next question though poorly formed and suggestively worded (adding probably the subjective feeling of the editors) produced interesting though statistically invalid results.

THE WAR IS:

	Men	Women	Total
Characteristic of a screwed up system	25.4%	20.5%	22.5%
A Tragedy	43.6%	47.5%	46.0%
A Lapse of Judgment	36.1%	21.4%	23.2%
Probably the only Course for the U. S.	7.8%	11.0%	9.8%
Necessary to America's Role	12.4%	7.0%	9.1%
No Response	5.5%	7.6%	6.9%

Further the pollsters asked a direct question of political preference invalid only because of the introduction of the name—Robert Kennedy (had Ted Kennedy been included as a choice, the generational identity, the charismatic impact of the Kennedy name, and democratic liberalism could have been validly gauged but the inclusion of Robert Kennedy because he is a somewhat martyred impossibility undoubtedly elicited an unrealistic emotional response).

YOU WOULD HAVE SUPPORTED MOST LOYALLY FOR PRESIDENT:

	Men	Women	Total
Nixon	12.3%	10.4%	11.6%
Humphrey	14.7%	11.9%	13.0%
Rockefeller	8.3%	6.7%	7.3%

	Men	Women	Total
McCarthy	14.2%	23.3%	19.9%
Robert Kennedy	41.7%	39.3%	40.2%
Dick Gregory	1.4%	1.1%	1.2%
No Response	6.4%	7.3%	7.0%

Several respondents asked why a choice for Wallace was not included (a good question). Receiving one write-in vote apiece were: Pat Paulsen, Julian Bond, Ronald Reagan, and Donkey Mazola.

Finally, the poll included a question of a racial nature and although the question is a poorly formed one which would not pass the tests of objectivity, simplicity, and clarity, it does broadly indicate current sentiment in this critical contemporary campus concern.

AU ENROLLS ONLY 15% OF ITS UNDERGRADUATES FROM THE D. C. AREA. FEW OF THEM ARE BLACK. DOES THAT INDICATE THAT AU IS RACIST? BY YOUR DEFINITION?

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	6.9%	2.8%	4.3%
No	83.0%	86.2%	85.0%
No Response	10.1%	11.0%	10.7%

Information available during recent weeks indicates that the BPP headquarters in San Diego, Los Angeles, and the national headquarters in Berkeley are being "fortified" with sandbags and in some instances plywood continues up from the sandbags covering the windows. Whether this is meant as protection from the police or from other militant blacks or both is not known.

Below is a reprint from the August 2, 1969 edition of the Black Panther and is an example of the vicious and hateful venom spread in the official BPP paper. Also note the following three pages.

Kansas City Fascist Pig Performing His Final Duty

Off-duty pig's last act-of-terror

DATE: July 22, 1969

SUBJECT: Death of the Oppressor
The people of Kansas City are in an ecstatic state today following the execution of a pig. Three (3) unknown heroic brothers had the pleasure of "offing a pig."

The late pig, John Edward Dacy, 31 year old slum lord, was shot by three black brothers. In the same area where he owns property. Dacy was a well known pig and well known exploiter of black people. The brothers, were in the process of getting back what was theirs from Jo-Arl Loan Company, 3933 Main Street, when Super Pig Dacy, who was off-duty, made the fatal mistake of trying to stop them. The brothers retaliated by firing on the pig three times, striking him in the head and upper body with a .22 caliber piece. Persons on the scene reported that pig Dacy fired two shots from his "off-duty weapon", a .38 caliber revolver. "Dead-eye" Dacy was not able to hit anyone.

The Kansas City Pig Department, with their great degree of technology, and after calling in a task force of 80 extra men, cannot locate the brothers who are still free. (Right on!) Chief Clarence M. Kelly, Chief of the Kansas City Pigs, has intensified the force by the people are protecting the brothers.

The people of Kansas City, Missouri are saying aloud, "No more occupation of our community." They are tired of the pigs that are here to contain them and carry out their fascist acts. The brothers in their revolutionary act of offing and their revolution act of offing the pig and beating the heat, set an example for others in the black colony. Chief Kelly and his sty of pigs will not find the brothers and while they are looking they had better beware. The people are at large, and "today's pig may well be tomorrow's bullet-cured bacon."

Let all the oppressors of the people beware. Dacy was an off-duty pig; the next pig may be on-duty. As Huey mentioned (In Correct Handling of a Revolution) the pig may well be sitting at a counter drinking a cup of coffee and come up missing. The brothers are ready and they will deal with the fascist pig.

WHAT WE WANT

1. We want freedom. We want power to determine the destiny of our Black Community.

3. We want an end to the robbery by the capitalist of our Black Community.

2. We want full employment for our people.

4. We want decent housing, fit for shelter of human beings.

5. We want education for our people that exposes the true nature of this decadent American society. We want education that teaches us our true history and our role in the present-day society.

6. We want all black men exempt from military service.

7. We want an immediate end to POLICE BRUTALITY and MURDER of black people.

8. We want freedom for all black men held in federal, state, county and city prisons and jails.

9. We want all black people when brought to trial to be tried in court by a jury of their peer group or people from their black communities, as defined by the Constitution of the United States.

10. We want land, bread, housing, education, clothing, justice and peace. And as our major political objective, a United Nations-supervised plebiscite to be held throughout the black colony in which only black colonial subjects will be allowed to participate, for the purpose of determining the will of black people as to their national destiny.

THE UPCOMING TRIAL OF THE "CHICAGO EIGHT"

Eight key leaders of the radical New Left who appear responsible to a large degree for the disorders at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, in August 1968, are scheduled to come to trial in that city on 24 September 1969, before Judge Julius Hoffman, on charges of conspiring to incite a riot. The eight, each of whom pleaded "not guilty" in Federal District Court on 9 April 1969, were indicted under the Thurmond Amendment to the 1968 Civil Rights Act which makes it illegal to cross state lines or use interstate commerce communications with the intent to incite, organize, promote, encourage, participate in, or carry on a riot. The eight conspirators are: David Tyre (Dave) Dellinger, Thomas Emmett (Tom) Hayden, Rennard Cardon (Rennie) Davis, Abbott H. (Abbie) Hoffman, Jerry Clyde Rubin, Bobby George Seale, and the less well-known John R. Froines, Assistant Professor of Chemistry at the University of Oregon, and Lee Weiner, Research Assistant at Northwestern University. Dellinger, Hayden, and Davis are leaders of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (recently renamed New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam), which under Dellinger's chairmanship coordinated the overall protest movement in Chicago; Hoffman and Rubin are leaders of the YIPPIE cult (Youth International Party); Seale is Chairman of the Black Panther Party; and Froines and Weiner are university radicals charged also with teaching demonstrators how to make and use an incendiary device to foment civil disorder.

It appears that the trial of the CHICAGO EIGHT will occasion widespread demonstrations by the New Left, particularly in Chicago and Washington, D.C. The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) is reported to be planning to take part in a demonstration on 27 September, in support of the self-named "Conspiracy Eight"; and other protests are being planned during the trial. The eight conspirators have set up an office in Chicago under the name of the Conspiracy and in addition to raising funds for their defense, have reportedly been cooperating with SDS in making plans for "the fall national action"—the main slogan for which is "Bring the War Home!" The action, which is scheduled for October 8 through October 11 and is to be a "new and more intense phase in the struggle against U. S. imperialism", will center in Chicago with "support action throughout the country". On Friday the tenth, there is to be a march on the Federal Building in Chicago to protest the conspiracy trial; and on the eleventh, a massive march will be held to call for withdrawal of all troops from Vietnam. On 15 November 1969, an anti-war march is scheduled to be held in Washington, D.C., under the sponsorship of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which will receive an assist from the Socialist Worker's Party in an attempt to

A new student group called Transcendental Students (TS) has grown to be the most popular attraction on the New York University campus. Basically hedonistic, the transcendentalists have even fast talked the University administration, floundering between Scylla and Charybdis (between SDS and TS), into a $5,000 contribution to keep them and their woodstock aura oriented organization solvent. Although the party-throwing TSers claim to be political in nature, offering an extracurricular alternative to both the University's knowledge factory and the SDS's nihilism, political activism seems secondary to TS.

As a measure of campus popularity, TS will draw more than 500 to a music, pot, and love "freak-out" while the purely political SDS has virtually disappeared from the scene with a current membership of about twenty-five. The TSers want change like everyone else but the change sought is life style in character. "We want a society where you can smoke grass and drop acid and have a place like "Harouts" (a renovated former Greek restaurant near the school's main building that was the reason for the New York University $5,000 allocation and is presently the principal TS watering hole). We want a revolution that will see Dick Nixon out of the White House and people living there who will paint it a different color and invite people to camp on the lawn - we want life."

TS at New York University appears a politically inoculated bastardization of the original Transcendentalism of German philosophers Kant and Hegel. The reality in and of nature as sense experiences must be discovered by processes of through (spiritual intuition) hence, an orange only becomes an orange (a taste, a shape, a color, a feel, an odor, etc.) when the individual interprets the sense meaning to the individual. Since the 19th century European transcendentalists also subscribed to a hedonistic concept (modern translation: If it feels good, do it!), the New York University group, to distinguish themselves both from the personality cult of new left radicalism and the nihilistic and pessimistic existentialism of Jean Paul Sartre (the beat generation of the post WWII period) has adopted a loose but classical philosophical concept to hang their seeming immorality on.

Understanding of the student mood is critically important now. Knowledgeable observers believe, and details of recent radical history support the belief, that SDS is crumbling. The gap is widening between "Weatherman" and RYM2" (see SIR dated 3 July 1969, pg. 3, Paragraph 2 and 3). Some college chapters, Arkansas, for example, are disavowing all national level leadership. There will be more breaks and probably at an accelerated pace. The SDS-NO reins are in the hands of Mark Rudd, an arch-radical bungler previously a joke among sophisticated new left theorists and articulate activists such as Rennie Davis, Carl Davidson and Tom Hayden. Rudd does not have the intellectual depth or imagination to pull SDS back together but instead, like a Napolconic Sisyphus, may well be the last (or one of the last) leader of a moribund organized force. A demonstration flop (which is likely) at Chicago in October on behalf of the Conspiracy 8 will probably herald the beginning of the end.

The big question searching for an answer is where does the radically involved student go from here? The PLP, the CPUSA, and the SWP all have an answer but the imagination stirring, dirty fun and games encouraging, Bohemianism of New York University's Transcendental Students has an undeniable elder-defying, taboo allure that simply can't help but grow (probably rapidly) across the nation. The bellwether campuses to watch are most likely Columbia and Harvard.

Frank R. Haig, S. J., President of Wheeling College in West Virginia was at Ann Arbor in June of this year and witnessed the block party riots. President Haig wrote his observations for the September 20 issue of America magazine. He speaks the thoughts of many observers of the demonstration torn college scene today when he says that the present generation is not more intelligent than the students of ten years ago. Ask any English teacher. The constant adulation heaped upon youth in the past few years is coming back to haunt the elders and plague the children.

Reverend Haig writes: "Perhaps it's time to return to simple honesty. Young people may be wonderful, but they are young and they need the processes and disciplines of education and experience to give them knowledge and wisdom to live their lives in rich human fashion. They have to learn that while you need never tell a bear to be a bear, you must tell a man to be a man. We should stop fooling them. They have believed our adulation. Now they trust their immediate-felt reactions. They relish their status as moral judges of their elders and many of them are being destroyed by the experience."

Some time ago it was announced that a Venceremos Brigade of young Americans would go to Cuba in November and January to aid in the Cuban sugar harvest. Organizers have announced that the Brigade will be doubled in size from 300 to 600 - 200 blacks, 200 latins, and 200 whites. The national executive committee of the Brigade plans to make a recruitment drive during the first weeks of the campus fall semester.

At a teach-in at the University of Michigan on 20 September, sponsored by the NMC, University President Robben Fleming spoke against the Vietnam War, offered use of University facilities to anti-war protesters, and promised to express his concern about the war to other presidents of universities. Rennie Davis, a principal speaker, said that cooperation of colleges with the war must be opposed. Barry Cohen, co-chairman of the Ann Arbor Moratorium Committee, claimed that 80 percent of the faculty and students at the University will join in the October 15 strike and that 400 other colleges will participate - purpose of the strike is to produce 500,000 demonstrators at Washington, D. C., on November 15.

The principal speakers at a rally later in the day were David Dellinger and Sidney Peck, both NMC officials. Dellinger said Ho Chi Minh was loved by more Americans than either Presidents Johnson or Nixon and that the November 15 demonstration at Washington will drive Nixon out of office. Peck predicted that one and a half million people will participate.

On 19 September Dr. Sidney Pelk, national director of the planned November 15 anti-war march in Washington, said that teams visiting sixty cities to rally support for the march report a good response. In all sixty cities preparations committees are being asked to leaflet workers in the shops and the unions with an appeal to join the great anti-war struggle.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee appears to have liaison with the anti-war members of Congress. Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, Vietnam critic, has offered to speak to an area-wide rally in Boston. The Moratorium claims the endorsement of the ADA and the New Democratic Coalition. Some 500 colleges (or at least student leaders at them) have indicated they will suspend normal activities on the 15th. The Colorado School of Mines in Golden, Colorado, is one of the smaller colleges participating. Students there are planning to read the list of war dead (a popular gimmick among the anti-war groups) beginning at midnight October 14-15, attend a mass for the Colorado dead in the town square at noon and march in a torchlight parade at night in which high school students will reportedly carry signs saying "Please don't send me to war."

The trial of H. Rap Brown on charges of inciting to riot and arson, which was scheduled to have started at Bel Air, Maryland, on 6 October, has been postponed. A request for delay by William H. Kunstler, Brown's attorney, was granted. Kunstler said he would be in Chicago that week in order to represent the Chicago Eight.

Washington, D. C. - Reportedly, a former member of the Black Panther Party has indicated he has plans to organize Negro women who are employed by the Government in Washington, D. C., and to train them in the use of firearms. Upon his orders, they would participate in a five-day boycott of Government offices which would be a signal for a start of an armed revolution in the Washington area. Allegedly, these plans at the present time are in the talking stage and this individual has five followers, none of whom are Government employees. No date for the boycott has been mentioned.

The trial of the eight leaders of the New Left radical groups held responsible for the Chicago riots at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August 1968, (Rennie Davis, Dave Dellinger, John Froines, Tom Hayden, Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin, Bobby Seale and Lee Weiner), got under way as scheduled on 24 September 1969, at the Federal Building in Chicago. Despite a series of attempts on the part of The Conspiracy, as the group calls itself, and its attorneys to delay the trial, its opening was assured when on 23 September Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall refused to grant a delay which the defendants sought on the grounds that one of their attorneys is ill. Each defendant faces a possible ten year jail sentence and a $20,000 fine, if found guilty of conspiring to incite the riots.

Judging from its initial session, the trial will be a long drawn out process. Attorneys for the defense are saying that they expect it to last two months or more, and some estimate three to seven months. The Conspiracy and the groups its members represent plan that before its completion anti-war demonstrations will have swept from Chicago to campuses and cities throughout the country, back to Chicago and finally to Washington, D.C., where a forty-eight hour "march against death" and a massive rally are scheduled for mid-November.

During the first day of the trial, according to a Washington Post account, "The Judge bawled out the defense attorneys. (Who have claimed that their clients can't get a fair trial in Chicago and have also claimed judicial prejudice and sought to have Judge Julius J. Hoffman disqualified.) The prosecution accused the defense attorneys of contempt in their publicity campaign. Seven of the eight defendants angered the judge by momentarily refusing to stand when he entered the court room". As the trial began, Judge Hoffman issued arrest warrants for four defense attorneys who failed to show up, after advising the prosecuting attorney by telegram that they had withdrawn from the case. He ruled that they must appear in the court and withdraw officially. At day's end, little progress had been made in the case and at adjournment the selection of jurors had just begun.

The trial is seen as having dual significance. It is the first prosecution under the 1968 Civil Rights Act's anti-riot provisions, which prohibit the crossing of state lines to provoke disorders and is, therefore, a test of the limits to radical dissent in this country; and is a major event for the radical movement which will serve as a focus for further demonstrations for political, social, and cultural changes. It is expected to launch a major offensive against the war in Vietnam.

Landmark rulings are expected to result from the trial on two counts: 1. The validity of the statute prohibiting the crossing of state lines to incite a riot. 2. The limitation on the right of the Government to maintain electronic surveillance without a specific court order. The Government claims such right in cases where it is necessary to protect the country against internal subversion.

The planned fall demonstrations, which the CHICAGO EIGHT claim will be peaceful may well erupt into a second round of Chicago riots even larger than the first. The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) has already rejected non-violent protest for the "fall peace offensive" and is planning an action in Chicago from 8 to 11 October, called "Days of Rage". However, protest demonstrations which were organized by the Black Panthers to take place outside the Court House while the eight defendants were making their initial appearance in court, which its sponsors claimed would involve 5,000 to 10,000 people, chiefly students from nearby colleges, drew a crowd of only about 500. On the other hand, a larger crowd variously estimated as at two to three thousand gathered later for a rally in Grant Park for further protest, and during the various demonstrations two policemen, two assistant city corporation counsels, and an unknown number of demonstrators were reportedly injured. Most clashes came after Rennie Davis and Abbie Hoffman addressed their followers at the rally in Grant Park; and during one confrontation, near the Federal Building, several policemen were beaten when two patrolmen were jumped by the mob and pushed to the ground and kicked, and a police captain who charged in to defend them was struck in the mouth with a lead pipe. When additional police were summoned, the mob of about 700 white and black youths fled to a near by construction site and a rock throwing melee broke out. The "flower children", so evident during the Convention riots, were notably absent.

Chicago is understandably apprehensive. There are signs that a tough line will be taken by the courts and City Hall, and security measures will inevitably be significant.

- THOMAS EMMETT HAYDEN

Tom Hayden, whose activities are currently centered in the Berkeley, California area, was one of the principal organizers of the demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in August 1968 where he and Rennie Davis were the spokesmen for the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC). This organization, which coordinated the anti-war activities of over one hundred peace and student groups there to demonstrate, was under the leadership of Dave Dellinger who like Hayden and Davis is also one of the CHICAGO EIGHT. Hayden, a co-director of NMC (with Dellinger), was a co-founder (with Davis) of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) of which he is also a former national president. He has been a key figure in college campus strikes and appears to have become a spokesman for the entire New Left, in whose "Intellectual Center", the SDS-initiated Radical Education Project, he has been active.

The twenty-nine year old Hayden was born on 11 December 1939 in Detroit, Michigan; and he attended the University of Michigan, where during his senior year he was the editor of its student-operated newspaper The Michigan Daily. He received an AB degree in June 1961; subsequently attended the University's Graduate School from September 1962 until May 1964; and while a student at the University was active in the civil rights movement in Georgia and Mississippi. In 1962 he helped found SDS and was the principal author of the Fort Huron Statement, which formed the ideological-framework of SDS. The document attacked "paranoic anti-Communism" and American support of "totalitarian governments", and advocated "participatory democracy".

A 13 November 1967 New York Times article, titled "The Improbable Radical—Thomas Emmett Hayden", noted that he was said to have been a "moderate radical" as of 1962, with friends in the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and with a wife, or former wife, named "Cosey", who was an active SNCC worker. He was described as looking, on first meeting, like a "gawky, diffident college boy. His face still marked with acne. His manner, somewhat vacant, somewhat absent, is polite." He was also said to be very practical and to "talk about votes", rather than "love and community". His politics were said over the years to have grown increasingly more revolutionary and bitter, and he was said to have "lost his faith in cooperation with liberals and moderate socialists".

This November 1967 article was occasioned by the fact that Hayden was then on one of his trips to North Vietnam where on 11 November 1967 the National Liberation Front (NLF) in Phnom Penh ceremoniously released three American prisoners to his custody, as "a representative of an American committee of war protestors". The alleged reason for the release, which according to Hayden he believed to be the true reason, was "to show sympathy for the people, black and white, who don't agree with Johnson and to show that the NLF is not difficult to deal with — it can be flexible, as long as you recognize its power". On his return to the United States, Hayden announced that morale in North Vietnam was high; that "if anyone is taking the offensive, it is the Viet Cong"; that neither the NLF nor Hanoi would change its attitude toward negotiations; and that "The problem is that they are beginning to think about Johnson the way the American people think about him. They don't believe him. They don't trust him or Rusk personally..."

While Hayden was on this trip to North Vietnam, a voice attributed to him by a Hanoi announcer spoke at great length to the American servicemen in Vietnam stating that the United States in its battles there is receiving no assistance from its friends and allies because they are not in agreement with what the United States is doing. The voice also stated that American citizens have no interest in fighting in Vietnam; that it's not our business to be there, etc. It told of the horrors resulting from United States bombings in North Vietnam, and of the tremendous support its people are giving their government. It accused President Johnson and the United States Government of furnishing false reports to the American people — a typical statement being "I am not gonna give my life to Lyndon Johnson or his war in Vietnam and I don't see any point in your doing it either". This long harrangue attributed to Hayden was apparently recorded and was delivered on 4 November 1967.

Hayden had previously made an unauthorized "fact-finding" trip to North Vietnam via Prague, Moscow, and Peking, in late December 1965/early January 1966, with CPUSA Committee Member Herbert Aptheker and Yale Assistant Professor Staughton Lynd; and following the trip had addressed several large rallies and teach-ins, condemning U.S. action in Vietnam. In the fall of 1966, he had been a worker in the Brooklyn/New York City headquarters of Aptheker, leading theoretician of the CPUSA, who was a candidate for Congress on an independent ticket; and in September 1967 had been one of the forty-one Americans who took part in the week-long conference with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong representatives in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, as also did Dave Dellinger.

Hayden has travelled extensively in connection with his attacks on U.S. policy at home and abroad and Newsday in its November 21, 1967, issue described him as an "international commuter" who "shuttled between New York and Prague, Newark and Phnom Penh, with stops in South America and occasional forays to Hanoi".

In January 1968, Hayden was in Cuba for the Cultural Congress of Havana, at which the United States was condemned for its "role of world-wide imperialist aggressor" and support was pledged to the Vietnamese people in their struggle against the United States. Returning to New York City, via Mexico City, by air on 22 January 1968, his baggage was mistakenly sent to New Orleans, where customs inspection revealed considerable material reflecting the involvement of various persons on the staff of Liberation magazine, an anti-war monthly publication, with American prisoners in detention camps in Vietnam and with their relatives in the United States. Hayden, who was involved in carrying letters from American prisoners, was an Assistant Editor of Liberation, whose Editor was self-styled "non-Soviet type Communist" Dave Dellinger and another of whose Assistant Editors was Staughton Lynd.

Hayden was involved in the Poor People's Campaign in Washington and in April 1968 was among the speakers at a rally in a Georgetown park on "Why Did Washington Burn?". Other speakers included Dick Gregory, leftist Negro comedian; Rev. James Bevel of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Arthur Waskov, and Julius Hobson; Washington activists. These, according to the New York Times Magazine of 9 June 1968, "scourged their white listeners for their guilt, for their racism and their violence". The Examiner, 19-21 April 1968, reported that Hayden's comments included a statement in connection with the death of Martin Luther King that "the FBI and CIA did it".

Hayden was arrested during the Columbia University riots of May 1968; and during that month quit his position as Assistant Editor of Liberation magazine and went to Chicago to work with the NMC. He was cited in a May 1968 HCUA report on "Guerilla Warfare Advocates in the United States", which noted that key leaders of the SDS "openly radical and leftist", have given "open support" to guerrilla warfare in the U.S. The report described Hayden as a former SDS president who "echoed the RAM philosophy when he said in an interview he granted the Communist weekly newspaper The National Guardian: 'Urban guerillas are the only realistic alternatives at this time to electoral politics or mass armed resistance.'"; and it noted that "Dee Jacobsen, Assistant National Secretary of SDS, who manages the organization's national headquarters in Chicago, has said: 'We are getting ready for the revolution.'"

Human Events for 22 June 1968, reported that Hayden was among Robert F. Kennedy's "honor vigil" at St. Patrick's Cathedral where he showed up wearing an army cap given him by Fidel Castro; was loaned a tie and a jacket by Kennedy aides; and "stood vigil" at the coffin.

In July 1968, Hayden was in France where he conferred with North Vietnamese leaders; and in August he was arrested in connection with demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago. Since then he has had speaking engagements throughout the country during which he has been extremely intemperate in criticizing the white community, especially the military, corporations, and the police whom he has referred to as "an occupying army of brutes, sadists, and thieves"—the while praising the most militant of the Blacks.

On 20 August 1968, the Chicago American published an article containing comments reportedly made by Hayden before the annual congress of the National Student Association, including his announcement that the militants would attempt to "run out of town" CIA's staff at Chicago's Federal Building.

During HCUA Hearings in December 1968, regarding alleged Communist influences among demonstrators at the Democratic National Convention, Hayden (who blamed Mayor Daley and the Chicago police) told members of the Committee that he is devoted to putting the Committee out of business, and that they represent "a racist philosophy that has no meaning in the twentieth century". Hayden also reportedly told the Committee that he once "was a dupe of the CIA...I was hired to go to the Youth Festival at Helsinki, Finland, to carry 'Old Glory' into the heartland of Communism". He later learned, he said, that he was part of a CIA plan whereby students were unknowingly used to spread the message of democracy among international youth leaders.

On 8 January 1969, Hayden gave the first of a series of advertised lectures on "The New American Revolution" before an audience of over three hundred in the Student Union on the Berkeley Campus of the University of California, replacing fugitive Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver who in the fall of 1968 had begun a series of lectures in an experimental sociology course for which the Board of Regents ruled credit could not be given. The Board of Educational Development had withheld approval of the Hayden course also.

On 28 January 1969, Hayden went on trial in Chicago charged with obstructing an officer, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct, during the Democratic National Convention. He was charged also with additional counts of resisting arrest and aggravated battery; and in February 1969, was found guilty of obstructing a policeman by deflating an unmarked police car in Lincoln Park on 25 August 1968. He was placed on a year's probation.

On 13 May 1969, both Hayden and Dellinger spoke at a teach-in at the University of California at Los Angeles—at which time Hayden stated that the real enemy of the people is the "ruling class".

It is notable how often Hayden's and Dellinger's paths have crossed and how many projects they have mutually engaged in. Unlike Dellinger, Hayden appears to have decided rapport with Black Causes and seems almost psychopathic in his support of them.

focus for further demonstrations for political, social, and cultural changes. It is expected to launch a major offensive against the war in Vietnam.

Landmark rulings are expected to result from the trial on two counts: 1. The validity of the statute prohibiting the crossing of state lines to incite a riot. 2. The limitation on the right of the Government to maintain electronic surveillance without a specific court order. The Government claims such right in cases where it is necessary to protect the country against internal subversion.

The planned fall demonstrations, which the CHICAGO EIGHT claim will be peaceful may well erupt into a second round of Chicago riots even larger than the first. The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) has already rejected non-violent protest for the "fall peace offensive" and is planning an action in Chicago from 8 to 11 October, called "Days of Rage". However, protest demonstrations which were organized by the Black Panthers to take place outside the Court House while the eight defendants were making their initial appearance in court, which its sponsors claimed would involve 5,000 to 10,000 people, chiefly students from nearby colleges, drew a crowd of only about 500. On the other hand, a larger crowd variously estimated as at two to three thousand gathered later for a rally in Grant Park for further protest, and during the various demonstrations two policemen, two assistant city corporation counsels, and an unknown number of demonstrators were reportedly injured. Most clashes came after Rennie Davis and Abbie Hoffman addressed their followers at the rally in Grant Park; and during one confrontation, near the Federal Building, several policemen were beaten when two patrolmen were jumped by the mob and pushed to the ground and kicked, and a police captain who charged in to defend them was struck in the mouth with a lead pipe. When additional police were summoned, the mob of about 700 white and black youths fled to a near by construction site and a rock throwing melee broke out. The "flower children", so evident during the Convention riots, were notably absent.

Chicago is understandably apprehensive. There are signs that a tough line will be taken by the courts and City Hall, and security measures will inevitably be significant.

A sketch of CHICAGO EIGHT member Tom Hayden is submitted below.

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

- September 27 *The University of Michigan has already seen several instances of brief take-over demonstrations this fall term. The University of Michigan SDS chapter has been leading the agitation. Reportedly they may demonstrate again on the 27th when a Navy recruiter is scheduled to visit the campus. William Ayers, a national officer of SDS, spoke at one of the recent rallies and advocated the occupation of the University President's home. A serious confrontation may be in the offing.
- September 27 *Columbia University - New York - The Workers Student Alliance, which is a SDS faction, is to hold a peaceful demonstration against the war in Vietnam at the UN Plaza. The schedule for the demonstrators is as follows: Gather at the Columbia University sundial at 1200 hours, take the subway to 59th Street and Columbus Circle, and march to the UN Plaza where the demonstration is to begin at approximately 1300 hours.
- September 27 *New Brunswick, New Jersey - The September 16 last issue of "Targum," the student newspaper, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey in commenting on President Nixon's appearance at the hundredth anniversary celebration of college football to be held at Rutgers Stadium September 27, stated it does not consider the President's visit an honor and that Rutgers University students would be remiss if they missed this televised opportunity to show the President the depth and breadth of their opposition to his Vietnam policy.
- September 27 *Providence, Rhode Island - The Rhode Island Peace and Freedom Movement, the Young Socialist Alliance, and SDS are sponsoring a demonstration at the Federal Building to protest the "repression of the BPP."
- September 27 *New Orleans, Louisiana - The New Orleans Revolutionary Youth Movement is sponsoring a demonstration at the Federal Building to demand that the United States withdraw its troops from Vietnam, end income tax on workers' incomes, and that all "political" prisoners be freed.

September 30

*Washington, D. C. - The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, a pacifist group, has announced it will hold a "memorial service for a nameless soldier who has died in Vietnam" at the White House, Washington, D. C., on 30 September. According to current plans, demonstrators will march in front of the White House read eulogies, and sing.

OCTOBER 1969

At the July 4-5 Cleveland meeting of anti-war activists - a broadly based conglomeration of representatives and individuals of many political and ideological hues and colors - despite much argument and dispute, the conference did agree to endorse or help organize a series of anti-war actions beginning in August and culminating with the November 15 Washington demonstration. To insure effective participation in SDS sponsored Chicago actions in September and to carry through the New Mobilization Committee actions in Washington in November, it was agreed to establish a "bicameral" organizational structure.

Two co-chairmen and two project directors were selected to be responsible for participation in the Chicago demonstration. The two co-chairmen are Sid Lens, a principal spokesman for the Chicago Peace Council, and Prof. Douglas Dowd, of the New University Conference. The two project directors are Rennie Davis, of the NMC and Sylvia Kushner of the staff of the Chicago Peace Council.

The co-chairmen of the Washington project are: Prof. Sid Peck, former chairman of the Cleveland Area Peace Action Council and a co-chairman of the National Mobilization, and Stewart Meacham, peace secretary of the American Friends Service Committee. Project directors are Fay Knopp, of the Philadelphia Friends staff and Abe Bloufy, chairman of Washington SANE.

To assure that the two actions will be developed in a related way, Dave Dellinger of the New York Parade Committee and National Mobilization was designated liaison coordinator between the two projects.

Following the planning of the anti-war activists in July, it became evident that the new left (with the aid of much of the old left) was also planning much activity for the fall with its first major scheduled for October while the Government trial of the "Chicago Eight" is underway in Chicago. The New National Mobilization Committee, to End the War in Vietnam and SDS have set up liaison for projected demonstrations. Coordinators for the "New MOVE" are: Prof. Douglas Dowd, Sidney Lens, Sidney Peck, Sylvia Kushner, Stewart Meacham, and Ron Young. For SDS are: Kathy Boudin, Bill Ayres, and Terry Robins. Participation by Chicago street gangs (principally black, Puerto Rican, and Mexican-American), and the Black Panthers is being sought.

Friends and/or so-called sympathizers of the Conspiracy - the "Chicago Eight" - have organized a Committee to Defend the Conspiracy with an office at 38 East Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Illinois. A strong effort to secure funds and to get the support of thousands for demonstrations in the streets of Chicago is being made.

October 1 *Huntington, West Virginia - Members of the Marshall University Chapter of the SDS reportedly will attempt to takeover old Main, the MU administration building. SDS members either have or are attempting to obtain 30 handguns and one browning automatic rifle.

October 1 *Washington, D. C. - In the early morning hours, a "surprise" demonstration will be held in support of the national grape boycott. The nature and location of the "surprise-in," in which several thousand area citizens are expected to participate, will not be made public until the event occurs, or at least so said a spokesman for the sponsoring United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (UFWOC). Area college students, union members, and their families are to take part.

The "surprise-in" actually will begin about 10 p.m. Tuesday, 30 September with a two-hour rally at the Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol Street. Following the rally, the demonstrators will go to sleep in ten nearby churches. About 3 a.m., they will eat breakfast, and then move in mass to the demonstration site. The national grape boycott, lead by Cesar Chavez and his UFWOC, is in its fifth year.

October 1

*Washington, D. C. - It has been reported that the United Defense League, self-described as a militant activist group, passed out leaflets in New York City on September 20, 1969. The leaflets advocate that the Department of Justice take action to deport subversive Arab students who are allegedly in this country for political purposes and are interfering in the affairs of this country. The leaflets said a petition would be presented to the Department of Justice in Washington, D. C., on October 1, 1969, and that "a peaceful sit-in" would be conducted at that time.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT (SPECIAL)

15 October 1969 Activities

Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania has suggested that the "quiet people" who support the administration's war policy show their support on the 15th of October by burning their auto headlights. Because of the massive backing, however, of the objectives of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee (VMC), it is highly doubtful that many headlights will be seen burning until after dark.

Next Wednesday's national peace demonstration is shaping up to be the most widely supported in American history. Although campus initiated, the October 15 demonstration has gathered aid and active assistance in many quarters of American life. Prominent businessmen have pledged they will picket Wall Street; John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit has declared the 15th as a day of prayer and fasting in the archdiocese; well over 1,000 Rabbis, nationwide, will be in the streets; scientists at Bell Laboratories in New Jersey as well as doctors at the National Institute of Health will observe the Moratorium. High-ranking Government officials (Senators, Representatives, governors, and mayors) of both parties will speak publicly and otherwise lend their prestige to the anti-war protest. Teachers' unions from coast to coast (including Washington, D. C., and Montgomery County) have voted to support the day of demonstration. The VMC has estimated that over one million Americans throughout the country will actively advance the moratorium cause. It is believed from press coverage nationally, however, indicating a clear snowballing effect, and general broad-based sympathy among the moderate forces in our society that the one million estimate is a most considerable underestimation. The actual number will probably be closer to three million participants and many millions more inactively endorsing what the VMC calls the "new politics."

The Moratorium coordinator, Sam Brown, age 26, is a former McCarthyite. Brown was born in Iowa and at one time was a Harvard divinity student. The idea for next Wednesday's protest was born in Brown's mind last spring, and in mid-June he, along with Dave Hawk of the National Student Association, opened a headquarters office in Washington (1029 Vermont Avenue, N. W.). Currently the D. C. office receives 1,500 pieces of mail daily and about $1,000 in donations. In June the Washington operation consisted of a small office, and now they occupy an entire office building floor and employ (mostly volunteer) 31 full-time headquarters workers. The organization also boasts 7,500 field workers nationally.

The VMC claims to be an effort to maximize public pressure to end the war by encouraging a broad cross section of Americans to work against it. The method is a recurring moratorium (one day in October, two in November, three in December, etc.) on "business as usual" to allow concerned citizens to spend the day participating in anti-war programs in their local communities. The 15th of October effort will be directed toward building, enlarging and lengthening subsequent moratoria. The focus is not only on ending the war by any means (except escalation), but on other war related issues such as the draft, militarism, taxes, inflation, interest rates, etc. "New Politics" calls for broad based participation including mass rallies, a media campaign, and door to door canvassing and petitioning.

The VMC believes that ending the war is the most important task facing the nation. Although few presently openly defend the war, the war goes on. The administration withdrawal policy is deemed too slow. The committee points out that death and destruction in Vietnam are unabated and billions of dollars are being spent on the war while urgent domestic problems remain unattended. The discredited policies of the past which have brought about this American tragedy have not been changed. This "student call for a Vietnam Moratorium" (in abbreviated form) has been endorsed by over 500 college student government presidents and campus newspaper editors.

Academic cooperation in various parts of the nation differs. At Rutgers, for instance, President Mason Gross fully supports the moratorium as does New Jersey Senator Clifford Case. Gross called on campus organizations to observe the moratorium by holding debates, panel discussions, conferences, music, theater, and movies suitable for such a day of critical reflection. In California, although full support statements have been issued by Senator Alan Cranston (Democrat) and other leading political figures, Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the state college system, probably with the full support of Governor Reagan, has taken a firm anti-protest line. Dumke sent a letter to the presidents of the nineteen colleges in the system prohibiting them from endorsing the moratorium. He also ordered them to take "formal disciplinary proceedings" against professors who dismiss classes.

Dr. Andrew Cordier, new President of Columbia University, in an effort to prevent the new Columbia University senate from taking a formal position in favor of the moratorium, addressed the group, stating that he personally shared the abhorrence of all to the war. He stated that the conflict has become more and more shameful and is a war that cannot be won. Cordier hoped that the University would not, however, take a stand in a political matter. Cordier's appeal failed and the University senate, heavily populated with students and younger faculty members, voted 51 to 25 to support the national moratorium. Two weeks later the Arts and Science Faculty Senate at Harvard followed suit, taking a position for the first time in Harvard's history in a national political matter.

Among the prominent national organizations actively involved in planned protest on October 15 are several well known, politically extreme left entities, among them: Dagmar Wilson's, Women's Strike for Peace; Dave Dellinger's (and Rennie Davis'), New Mobilization Committee; and Leon Trotsky's (SWP-YSA) Student Mobe. A number of more localized and lesser known groups such as Political Action for Peace, National Association of Black Students, the Detroit Coalition Committee, the National Association of Social Workers and many, many others are participating. The bulk of the promotion and propagandizing, however, has been handled (most effectively) by the VMC. This organization incidentally describes itself as an ad hoc group with only one objective—ending the present war through accelerated non-violent demonstrations. The New Mobe seems to have relinquished the October leadership role to Sam Brown and the VMC, and is pointing its major effort toward the mid-November, Stop the War demonstration.

As for personalities, the usual troublemakers are much in evidence for next week's protest. Counted among this group are baby doctor Benjamin Spock, grape picker Cesar Chavez, Noam Chomsky of MIT, and many others. New faces, however, prominent people regarded as loyal Americans, have instilled the day with respectability and even patriotism. Such people are Edmund Muskie, Cardinal Dearden, and Harvard's John Kenneth Galbraith.

The U. S. Senate and the House of Representatives have been vocal on the topic in recent days, and Wednesday the 15th is scheduled to be Vietnam Resolution's Day which was conceived as a way of expressing congressional encouragement for the nationwide classroom moratorium. A broad anti-war resolution for a speedy end to American involvement, taken by the VMC as an implied endorsement to moratorium demonstrations, was recently signed by 108 representatives. Additionally, nineteen senators (11 Democrats and 8 Republicans) have, in varying degrees supported planned activities of the VMC and many will speak at rallies next week. These Senators are McCarthy (D-Minn.), Goodell (R-N. Y.), Hatfield (R-Ore.), McGovern (D-S. D.), Harris (D-Okla.), Cooper (R-Ky.), Cook (R-Ky.), Saxbe (R-Ohio), Javits (R-N. Y.), Percy (R-Ill.), Case (R-N. J.), Hart (D-Mich.), Mansfield (D-Mont.), Fulbright (D-Ark.), Kennedy (D-Mass.), Hughes (D-Iowa), Muskie (D-Maine), Church (D-Idaho), and Cranston (D-Calif.).

With the exclusion of minor exceptions, such as planned anti-war activities in cooperation with the VMC, and spontaneous demonstrations that may erupt in several hot spots, new left radical activists are, this time, relatively uninvolved. Current SDS management (Mark Rudd and others) is virtually silent on October 15 activities (and the VMC disavows any connection with SDS) preferring instead to shake up Chicago with its own demonstration on behalf of the Conspiracy 8 which precedes the national VMC effort.

Most probably, SDS would rather prompt their own headlines rather than create the image of an "also ran" in someone else's act. Additionally, Negro groups (with the minor exception of the National Association of Black Students which recently broke away from the National Student Association) are conspicuously absent furthering evidence that the Negro collegian feels that separatism, even in popular national movements, is the black man's best course. Howard University will have their own anti-war protest along the pattern of the VMC, but will not cooperate in the general demonstration. Although the CPUSA, PLP, and SWP have not been reported in the press as participants for the demonstrations of the 15th, the old line communist groups naturally regard the moratorium as nationally divisive, therefore, good. Domestic communist newspapers have played up the magnitude and universality of the moratorium.

The 15th of October moratorium has also prompted protest activity in the Executive Branch as well as on the worker level of the Legislative Branch of Government. On October 15th pro-moratorium speakers will address employees of the Department of Agriculture, the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, the Civil Rights Commission, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Additionally, employees at a number of other agencies including the Department of Defense (Pentagon), General Services Administration, and the Library of Congress will pass out leaflets to fellow employees. Congressional staff members are planning a vigil on the Capitol's west front steps.

Added impetus, at least added grist for the anti-war propaganda mill has apparently been prompted by two recent administration moves. Both may well have been necessary, but have seemed to play into the hands of dissidents. First was Senator Scott's call in camera for a sixty day moratorium on criticism of administration policies on Vietnam. Senator Scott's sincere and probably purposeful request was immediately tagged as contrary to American freedom to dissent and petition. Then, unfortunately, President Nixon's recent statement that he would not be influenced by protest demonstrations prompted anti-war advocates to label Mr. Nixon unresponsive to the national will (a highly debatable assumption in view of the many millions of Americans who continue to believe U. S. Vietnam policy realistic under the circumstances and see the remaining U. S. demand that the South Vietnamese be allowed to choose their government by free elections, regardless of the outcome, as most reasonable). The President's well-intentioned statement, designed undoubtedly to minimize demonstration impact and at the same time to "lay it on the line" for Hanoi, seems to have backfired and may swell the protest ranks. The President's troop withdrawal and pronouncements to Vietnamize the war are considered by anti-war spokesmen, tokenism and too slow. At the present rate of troop withdrawal, anti-war supporters calculate continued American involvement until 1978. The withdrawal figure pressed by the VMC is 2,500 men a day, not, naturally, to be replaced by additional troops.

In opposition to the VMC on several campuses is a momentarily feeble Young Americans for Freedom. The YAF (like SDS, presently suffering a serious philosophical split in the YAF case between traditionalists and libertarians), founded by William Buckley in 1960, is dedicated to traditional (and libertarian) conservatism and has announced its intention to seek punishing court orders in the event college classes are suspended on the 15th. Such an approach, it can be safely predicted, will have absolutely no affect on planned vigils, teach-ins, and rallies.

As for college campus participation, about one hundred colleges and universities planning activities of a variety of natures have been mentioned in local newspapers in the past two weeks. The VMC claims, so far, to have pledges of participation from 700 colleges and expects a total of over 1,000 before the 15th. Naturally the big schools are amply represented. Prominent in the list are such schools as the University of Michigan, University of Maryland, Harvard, Columbia, University of California at Berkeley (also seriously infected with other problems), Rutgers, Princeton, and Wisconsin, just to name a few. More surprising is the pledge of participation from some small, often religiously affiliated, exclusive women's colleges, such as Mary Baldwin (Virginia), Mercer University (Georgia), Nazareth College (Rochester, New York),

[REDACTED]

Pace, Marymount and Finch (in New York). The girls at tiny Barat College at Lake Forest, Illinois (a Catholic women's college) plan an active leafletting campaign in the Chicago area. The nature of planned activity is peaceful and most schools (high schools, too) anticipate both on and off campus demonstrations consisting of teach-ins, vigils, marches, and candlelight marches, petitioning, door to door canvassing and the like.

In Washington, included in a vast number of activities planned for the area on the 15th are VMC plans for a march through downtown and a massive rally on the monument grounds at the height of the evening rush hour (beginning at 5 p. m.) and an address by Mrs. Martin Luther King at 7 p. m. Then the demonstrators plan a candlelight procession around the White House. Senator McGovern will speak at an American University rally Wednesday morning and in the afternoon, Dr. Spock is scheduled to speak at George Washington. An afternoon march is also scheduled to Selective Service Headquarters at 1724 F Street, N. W. The Washington demonstration has the complete support of D. C. Democratic national committeeman Channing Phillips and city council vice-chairman Sterling Tucker among a number of other civic leaders. The Washington demonstration will include thousands, perhaps tens of thousands of protesters, and although billed as non-violent, the possibility of isolated incidents by and among a considerable number of people, after dark cannot be completely dismissed.

In summary, the moratorium can be expected to be highly successful. Demonstrations will be massive, in totality but not separately, for the most part non-violent, broadly supported and nationwide. Although with the element of spontaneity it is most difficult to predict, if trouble (violence) comes it will most probably occur in those places with either a recent tradition for trouble (such as Columbia, New York University and San Francisco State) or places where other serious problems promote added stress to demonstrations (such as Harvard, several University of California campuses, the cities of Chicago and Madison, Wisconsin, and several other locations).

IXON SAID "UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES WILL I BE AFFECTED WHATEVER" BY OPPOSITION TO THE WAR IN VIETNAM

NEWSWEEK 13 October

10 October 1969SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The solution of social problems is the traditional mandate of the social scientists. Hence, the current literature of student revolt is rich with postpositional as well as causal theories which may promise eventual long range harmony. Those with credentials to hypothesize and prophesy, from the "root cause" school, believe that first society must understand why and then must employ the technique of artful manipulation in order to effect a cure of the apriori malady.

New York University's Dr. Louis Feuer finds that the basic problem is one of generational conflict that can, at best, be minimized. This conflict, that history records as far back as 2700 B. C., groups generations according to (usually adverse), political and social phenomena shared by a common general age group. Currently the war and the draft trigger the conflict and group those affected in common interest and concern. Prior precipitators (in recent history) have been the Korean War, the depression of the 1930's, etc. This social malaise, writes Feuer, is minimized during progressive and broad adventurous historical eras when all are involved over a relatively long period (industrial revolution, pioneer movement west, etc.).

San Francisco State's Sam I. Hayakawa blames the great universal baby sitter, the T. V. set, for many present pressing problems. In the first eighteen years of life, writes Hayakawa, today's youth spends 22,000 hours before the boob tube. He sees complex problems solved in thirty minutes. He learns that if you're sick you take a pill and presto you're healthy and smiling again. If you wish to be popular just buy a new car or smoke a certain cigarette or use a certain hair grease. The end result is the creation of a generation of impatience with the inability to relate to social reality, seeking simplistic solutions and demanding immediacy.

Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, University of Chicago educator and psychologist faults emotional development in general and believes the experience of today's higher education is not responsive to the psychic, or for that matter, the practical needs of youth. Bettelheim believes that although today's student radical leader (there would be no movement without leaders) may be alert and intelligent, his emotional development, however, remains at the age of the temper tantrum. Additionally, Bettelheim writes that under the present system of higher education, the student feels unable to find his place in a rapidly evolving world. He believes he is unneeded and unwanted and thus seeks escape in revolutionary change. Bettelheim recommends that the structure of higher education in the early stages be altered along the lines of Soviet Russian practice that provides education combined with meaningful work in the student's chosen field. Then after several years of this the really determined and academically dedicated youth enters an even higher educational level, and the others, with some secondary specialization, assimilate gracefully into the national work force. By working while learning the student would not feel alienated from society and frustrated by the alienation because he would regard himself as a part of a society he had helped to form. Interestingly, President Nixon has made generalized recommendations along the Bettelheim line. Antioch College, at both the home campus, (Yellow Springs, Ohio) and the newly instituted branch at Columbia, Maryland, has adopted this combined work while learning system.

Donald Barr, former Columbia University administrator and present headmaster of an exclusive New York private school accuses today's comfortable middle class parents. Writing in McCall's magazine, Barr believes the elders do not disapprove of what the kids are doing. Anxious to be modern, they reward precocity. Such parents have produced children who set a most extraordinary value on their own opinions. The child at the center of a child-centered household is likely to be a monster of intolerance. Children never respect what they have never been without and therefore the New Left does not hesitate openly to interfere with free speech.

Barr writes that on the day that parents stop paying for non-education; on the day they stop handing out allowances for strike funds and narcotics and renting apartments the student revolution will wither away and the real learning that must precede intelligent social change will begin.

University of New York's Arnold Rogow, a political scientist equates childhood sexual conflicts with the political spectrum. Based on a study of forty-two case histories (probably an insufficient number to assure statistical reliability) Rogow declares that left-wingers are permissive toward sex and right-wingers are anti-permissive. The left-wing personality on an unconscious level has reacted against restraints on sexual behavior and this leads to a revolt against the status quo. As children, however, the right-wingers had their sexual thoughts and sex fantasies restrained and internalized thereby creating within themselves a host of guilt feelings leading to adult feelings of restraint. Political moderates, according to Rogow are people who have come to terms with their conflicts.

The trial of the "Conspiracy 8" group in Chicago, for their activity in that city during the Democratic National Convention in 1968, has continued, as one of the eight defendants has said, to resemble a three-ring circus with Judge Julius J. Hoffman as ringmaster.

During the past week, the court was recessed for three days to permit Defense Attorney William M. Kunstler to argue in a Boston court on Monday, 6 October; and little appears to have been accomplished during this second week of the trial, though Judge Hoffman did rule that round-the-clock surveillance, which occurred during the Convention demonstrations, did not violate the defendants' right to privacy, as was claimed by the Defense. In denying a defense motion in that connection, the Judge stated that "the right to speak and assemble does not include the right to do so in public unobserved."

Beginning in the afternoon of 2 October, the prosecution concentrated on Jerry Rubin's actions in Chicago during the demonstrations, and an undercover police sergeant testified that on the evening of 25 August 1968, Rubin told a crowd in Lincoln Park that a squad of eleven policemen was trying to keep the people from using the park; shouted, "Let's get these (obscenities) out of here"; and flicked a cigarette toward the police, after which the crowd began throwing cans, rocks, sticks, etc. On the next evening, according to the witness, Rubin told a large group in the park, "The pigs started the violence but tonight the people aren't going to give up the park...we have to fight them"; shouted, "They have guns and sticks so we have to arm ourselves with rocks, sticks, and everything we can get"; and asked a group of about two hundred persons gathered in Lincoln Park to attend a demonstration on "how to fight the pigs". Abbie Hoffman demonstrated a series of motions with hands and knees; and Rubin later reminded those in the park not to forget the gigantic love-in planned for the beach that night. The police sergeant further testified that he overheard an identified man (sic) say to Rubin, "Now is the time for the flares and the fires"; and that Rubin at first disagreed, but after the man noted that nothing was happening, answered, "OK, go get them." Rubin was also quoted as shouting at the police: "your children are pigs. You're pigs...take off your guns and we'll fight you hand to hand."

On the following day, 3 October, Defense Attorney Kunstler introduced in court "another" Jerry Rubin, a twenty-seven year old assistant professor of psychology named Robert Levin, distinctively dressed in a costume similar to that in which a police sergeant had described Rubin as having been dressed while demonstrating in Chicago, and demanded of the witness: "Are you absolutely certain this was not the man you saw?" The witness stated that he was certain—that Levin had on a motorcycle helmet with a blue stripe down the middle, while Rubin had worn a similar football helmet; and that, besides, Levin is several inches taller than Rubin. Later, at a news conference, the defense contended that Levin had been mistaken for Rubin at the demonstration in Lincoln Park; and produced a third "Rubin", a student named David Boyd, who said the Chicago police had shadowed him for six days and nights during the Convention, thinking he was Rubin.

A second undercover policeman testified that Abbie Hoffman approached him in Grant Park on 29 August 1968 and pointing to a deputy police superintendent asked, "Are you with me? See that cat with the stars, if he don't talk we're going to hold him and then we can do anything we want and the police won't bother us." (The witness did not see Hoffman attempt to follow up on his statement.)

Judge Hoffman, who has taken a stern position in conducting the trial of the eight defendants in Chicago and has freely indulged in sarcasm and "stinging" rebukes in dealing with the defendants and their lawyers, is receiving a critical press. The New York Times ran an article on 5 October: "The Judge Himself Becomes an Issue in Chicago Trial"; and both Time and Life magazines have condemned him for his attitude in "consistently overruling defense motions" and in failing to demonstrate impartiality. Some legal experts, it has been reported, believe that his behavior has "already paved the way for a successful appeal, should the eight be convicted"; and thirteen members of the Harvard Law School (in objecting to Judge Hoffman's ordering the arrest of four defense attorneys who sent telegrams in withdrawing from the case) asked the Illinois Bar Association to investigate the Judge's actions, stating that "Judge Hoffman's conduct can only serve to weaken a basic American principle: The right of even the most unpopular defendant to adequate legal representation before an impartial judge."

According to the Communist newspaper Daily World on 3 October 1969, "Judge Hoffman's harassment has extended into the world of fashion."—in that he barred from the courtroom a young female staff member for the defense because of "improper attire." The attractive looking young woman, who was pictured in the Daily World, had on a micro-mini skirt some ten inches or more above her knee. (It has been reported that a member of the National Committee of the CPUSA, Arnold Johnson, was to cover the "Conspiracy 8" trial for the Daily World.)

It should be noted in defense of Judge Hoffman, however, that the conduct of the defendants and the activities of their lawyers leave much to be desired where court decorum is concerned. Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin are reported to "giggle and confer endlessly in court and pass notes back and forth like naughty school children"; and Abbie Hoffman at one point urged his fellow defendants to join him in leaping to his feet and yelling, "() the judge", when Judge Hoffman entered the courtroom. His fellow defendants declined.

In and out of court, the defendants use the trial as a platform for expounding their views and for continuing their agitation against the war and against the Nixon Administration. As Rennie Davis has put it: "We hope to make the courtroom a classroom for the nation." They have contacted foreign countries in an effort to bring the trial to the attention of the United Nations, with a view to its being handled as the South Africa racial trials were, with debate and condemnation; they are arranging a national strike of law students on 3 November, the theme of which will be "Stop the Trial"; they have initiated "Conspiracy Clubs" on several campuses and are trying to make their trial a focal point for campus anti-war demonstrations. They regularly hold press and television conferences at lunch recess where, as one Washington Post article put it, "the news conferences have given the defense an unprecedented forum to counter-prosecute the government and get its side across." They claim that the City of Chicago was responsible for the violence during the Democratic National Convention; and their constant theme is that it is Mayor Daley and former President Lyndon Johnson who should have been indicted. It was, they say, the City of Chicago, its Mayor, and the Federal Administration who "conspired to deter peaceful demonstrations." Out-of-court commentary by the defense attorneys, Weinglass and Kunstler, has been such that both are under the threat of contempt citations for violating a court rule regarding outside comments.

During the second week of the trial, 1 to 7 October, no significant disturbances took place at or near the court in Chicago where the trial is taking place, although a small group of SDS members was heard to discuss the possibility of placing a bomb in the Federal Building which contains the courtroom; and, as the trial progressed, U.S. marshalls searched everyone entering the Federal Building and security was tightened after the marshalls reported that several bomb threats had been received. The relative quiet which prevailed would obviously not continue, however, as was indicated by the reported activities of various New Left organizations, particularly the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS); and more particularly the "Weatherman" (RYM I) faction of SDS headed by Mark Rudd, who sometime ago condemned the plans of the Revolutionary Youth Movement II (RYM II) faction for a peaceful mass action, stating that it harmed the preparations under way for a violent revolutionistic encounter in Chicago.

That an increasing apprehension felt by authorities in Chicago was warranted, was demonstrated during the evening of 8 October, the first of the four days of scheduled SDS demonstrations (and the first day of the third week of the trial), when violence erupted following a Weatherman/SDS sponsored rally in Lincoln Park. First reports of the rioting, which described the melee as "reminiscent of the 1968 Democratic National Convention violence" and noted serious damage to persons and property, indicate that Judge Hoffman was a prime target. The mob, when it "surged" from the Park, headed for the Drake Hotel where Judge Hoffman resides—some wearing helmets and carrying clubs, chains, and stones. It did extensive damage to storefronts and parked cars enroute; but was dispersed by police before it reached the Judge's place of residence.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT

VIETNAM MORATORIUM DAY (VMD) 15 October 1969

WASHINGTON, D. C., AREA ACTIVITIES

Although the VMD was initially almost entirely a youth and student oriented anti-war project, and is still strongly so, it has escalated into an "against business as usual" program being participated in by a broad-base of anti-war (and/or anti-Nixon) protestants including housewives, academics, businessmen, workers, religious, etc., far beyond the hopes of the originators. Led by persons and organizations, whose names are familiar in the annals of dissent, a great number of people will be involved in the Washington area VMD actions. Supported in large part by long time dissidents, many whose motivation is suspect, it is debatable whether this VMD can have any favorable impact on an administration which must be as desirous of peace in Vietnam as are the pacifists, and, ironically, appears to be making noticeable progress towards a settlement with honor, despite the damaging effect on negotiations wrought by the domestic agitation for termination of U. S. involvement. That VMD will be a comfort to Hanoi seems self-evident.

Although overt opposition to Vietnam Moratorium Committee is generating, there is little time for it to swell into size sufficient to compete with the VMD actions which have had the benefit of enormous expenditures of time, energy, and money as well as vast publicity coverage extended by the media.

As it would be impossible, as a practical matter, for the administration, even if it had the desire and will to accede completely to the loud demands of these demonstrators, to satisfy them in the time "non-negotiably" allotted, it will be interesting to see how many people will be willing to expend the time, energy and money necessary to repeat these performances on the projected escalating scale of two days in November, three days in December, etc.

Although the cumulative total of participants in October's VMD will be large, it is expected to be composed of most of the same people who have been prominent in past anti-war actions - those students, housewives, religions, professional activists, etc. - whose "business as usual" is most easily varied. Whereas it is expected that this October VMD, with heavy emphasis on religious activities, cries for peace, and appeals for expressions of humanity to man, will for the most part be able to maintain a non-violent atmosphere, it has been indicated that proposed mid-November action may be more belligerent, demanding, and more likely to produce violence. Precautionary measures are being taken by appropriate authorities in an effort to prevent violence and disruption from escalating from any incidents which may occur.

The actual extent of participation cannot be forecast in advance of planned events but much activity has been scheduled for this anti-war moratorium on business as usual - rallies, marches, teach-ins, movies, memorial services and leaflet campaigns. Most Washington area colleges and many area high schools have programs planned.

Washington area coordinators plan to draw all local participants together for a final rally at the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument grounds about 6 p.m. University students, and others, are expected to start marches to this area about 5 p.m. for the rally assembly. As this is the height of the rush hour, traffic congestion will also be monumental. A series of speakers, music from a folk group, and finally a speech from Coretta King (Mrs. Martin Luther King, Jr.) about 7 p.m. are planned. Mrs. King will then lead a candlelight procession around the White House. It is scheduled to stop in front of the White House about 8:30 p.m. and a memorial wreath will be placed there.

GOVERNMENT

The Civil Service Commission has said - Employees may wear arm bands or "peace" buttons to work so long as "the activity does not disrupt the normal work environment."

Any participation in outside activities during official work hours must be preceded by pre-approval of annual leave otherwise employee will be considered AWOL and face the usual disciplinary measures.

CSC has been telling inquiring Federal agencies, "we don't feel it is appropriate to lend Government facilities for meetings which are designed to influence the making of what is obviously a political decision." But, each agency has the prerogative of allowing or disallowing use of its building for moratorium programs.

HEW and NIH personnel failed to get permission for speeches by Dr. Spock and others at rallies during working hours but, in a compromise, moratorium people were given permission to use the HEW and NIH and the baby Doctor to speak at the HEW auditorium between 12 to 2 p.m. - normal lunch hours.

Dr. George Wiley, NWRO, is scheduled to address Department of Agriculture employees.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development; OEO; Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; and Commission on Civil Rights have been granted permission for programs. Julius Hobson and Rev. Douglas Moore will speak to the CCR at noon.

About fifty members of Congress have scheduled speaking engagements on Wednesday and plan to discuss Vietnam. Many will make a number of addresses in scattered places - mostly in the eastern United States - some as many as eight and will be sorely pressed to maintain their schedules as will the usual anti-war activist array of speakers who are slotted for innumerable appearances.

A bi-partisan group of seventeen Senators and forty-seven Congressmen gave some air of legitimacy and elevated the level of VMD by sending a letter to the Vietnam Moratorium Committee declaring that they "share your commitment toward ending the war in Vietnam... as soon as possible."

A number of resolutions, pro and con the Vietnam War, have been introduced in Congress and debate has become increasingly acrimonious.

Republican National Chairman Roger C. B. Morton endorsed the moratorium as "great...a good thing...part of our right."

Some twenty or more Congressmen have taken advantage of an old procedural rule to reserve an hour each to make speeches after the House has concluded its business for the day on Tuesday the 14th. It is their intention to speak through the night until noon on Wednesday, the 15th, when the House opens in regular session. Opponents to this move may utilize another rarely used procedural rule to block them - a demand that a quorum of 218 members be present before the session can proceed. A group of Congressmen plans a silent vigil for forty-five minutes at noon on the east steps of the Capitol.

An ad hoc committee of city Government employees has been formed to support the moratorium. They have been asked to gather at 5 p.m. at Pershing Square and then proceed to the Sylvan Theater.

BUSINESS & PROFESSIONAL

Lawyers - A D. C. Lawyer Committee will hold a rally at 1:00 p.m. at St. Johns Church in Lafayette Square. Arthur Goldberg, a speaker.

Business and professional people - will rally at noon at Farragut Square.

COLLEGES

Activities are planned by and at most area colleges although all will ostensibly be open for classes. Most action is at Georgetown and American in D. C. and at the University of Maryland.

Howard University - will be lenient on absences. The University Student Association endorsed the moratorium in principle but declared alliances of black and white students fail. However, liberal art students plan some activities, but probably separate from Vietnam Moratorium Committee actions. A chapel service is planned for 12:30 p.m.

after a march from campus to 14th and U Streets, N. W., at 11 a.m.

Howard Law School - a teach-in - Rep. Lewis Stokes (D-Ohio) will speak.

Federal City College - limited activity - probably on an individual basis.

Georgetown University - open - students not required to attend regular classes. Panels and classes on the war encouraged. President proclaimed "day of prayer and planning for peace." Masses will be said every quarter hour beginning at 9:15 a.m. and Rev. Henle will say a mass for peace at about 4 p.m. and then lead a march to the Sylvan Theater to join the rally. Student government endorsed the moratorium. Student Senate passed a resolution calling on North Vietnam to release by Christmas the names of all American prisoners it holds. "Meal of reconciliation" on Healy Lawn at 6 p.m. followed by town meeting discussion and an 8:30 p.m. candlelight procession through Georgetown on the 14th and a sleep-in on the University front lawn. Law school will hold discussion program from 11:30 - 3 p.m. in John Carroll Auditorium. Ernest Gruening, former Senator from Alaska, to speak. Senator Joseph Tydings (D-Md.) and Frank Mankiewicz to speak at 2 p.m. rally.

George Washington University - Student Assembly passed resolution in support of moratorium. Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis.) and Joseph Rauh to speak at 11:30 to 1:30 rally behind Library. Dr. Spock to speak at rally behind Library at 3 p.m. Students plan memorial service at Selective Service Headquarters, 1724 F Street, N. W., at 2 p.m. Will be joined by persons from other communities and campuses.

School of Advanced International Studies (John Hopkins) - All day programming beginning at 7 a.m. and lasting until 5 p.m. when participants will march to White House or Sylvan Theater. Paint-in, films, speakers (Marcus Raskin and Leslie Gelb), panels, etc.

American University - open - but students and faculty may decide individually whether to attend or hold classes. Andy Young (SCLC) and Senator George McGovern (D-S.D.) to speak at a 10 a.m. rally at Woods-Brown outdoor theater. Will join the demonstration at Selective Service Headquarters at 2 p.m. On 14th at 1 p.m. - rally - speakers such as Seymour Hirsch and Sanford Gottlieb (SANE).

University of Maryland - open - plans span 13th through 15th - workshops - mass canvassing of neighborhoods and shopping centers. Outdoor platform and P. A. system supplied by University for rallies on 15th. Afternoon rally on 15th for all area college and high school students. Anti-war guerrilla theater group.

Catholic University - planning a "Day of Dialogue and Discussion." Rev. Andrew Jacobs (D-Ind.) to speak at rally about 1 p.m. which follows a 10 a.m. mass for peace on steps of University library. Workshops to follow the rally.

Dumbarton University, Columbia Union College, Trinity College, and Montgomery College, Takoma Park - students at all plan activities similar to University of Maryland but on reduced basis.

Wesley Theological Seminary - Classes suspended. Students to canvas Spring Valley area passing out anti-war literature.

George Mason College (Fairfax, Virginia) - Mid-day rally, memorial service and candlelight vigil.

Northern Virginia Community College - some limited activity.

SECONDARY & ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Ostensibly a regular school day - many will have some kind of discussion in classrooms or assemblies. High school students have not been asked by Vietnam Moratorium Committee to boycott classes but merely to take part in a "day of reflection" about the war.

Montgomery County - Will take note of moratorium at discretion of staff and students of each school

Fairfax County School Board - Business as usual, but special programs permissible.

Arlington County School Board - Agreed students would not be excused to participate in the moratorium.

Alexandria Schools - Absence only on parental request. Class discussion if desired.

Northern Virginia high schools not expected to place much emphasis on the day. Some classroom discussions likely. T. C. Williams will have voluntary assemblies.

Maryland high schools in area will have some programming. Speakers invited to several - Montgomery Blair, Walt Whitman, and Walt Johnson. Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School adherents hope to have a memorial service and wear black armbands.

District high schools - generally low-key observance. McKinley Tech - discussion - outside speakers. Western - program. - Wilson- 9 a.m. assembly program - seminars. Regular classes start at 11 a.m.

MISCELLANEOUS

The Arlington County Democratic Workshop on Civil and Human Rights is urging the citizens of Arlington County to refrain from business as usual and to initiate their own activity in support of the moratorium or actively participate in one of the many forms of study, reflection, or action planned for that day by area groups.

Herbert S. Miller, D.C. attorney residing in Reston, is spearheading plans for a Fairfax County demonstration. Plans include folk music, a non-denominational service in conjunction with a candle lighting ceremony, and a prominent anti-war speaker. Location of meeting not firm - some central Fairfax County site hoped for. This group of Northern Virginians goal will be to get petitions signed by 10,000 to present to Northern Virginia national legislators.

Maryland - State employees not excused to participate.

St. Johns Episcopal Church in Arlington, Virginia - will toll bell for two minutes of each daylight hour. Special services at 7:15 and 11 a.m. for students at Wakefield High School and the Glen Carlyn community.

Georgetown University Law Students plan to demonstrate at the Justice Department on the 15th - 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. - to protest the legal and penal standards of this nation. I. F. Stone and Marcus Raskin will speak.

RELIABILITY: Probably true.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Last spring the student body at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) elected their undergraduate president for the current academic year. Of 4,000 eligible voters only 32 percent cast a ballot and Michael Albert, a twenty-two-year-old math major from New Rochelle, New York, won the election with a meager 16 percent plus of the potential electorate.

Albert is the personification of the contemporary radical student movement. He campaigned on an extreme left platform advocating the ending of all war-related research at MIT, the complete acceptance of campus Black Student Union demands, etc. Albert in a recent feature article in the Boston Globe transmitted the usual over-exercised new left miasma (American Imperialism, Peoples wars, Che', Free Huey, etc.). Albert describes himself as a "Rosa Luxemburg" SDSer (She was a well known murdered and martyred communist in Germany at the turn of the century).

Since Albert holds the highest elected student office on the MIT campus he is charged with, among other things, the counseling and guidance of entering freshmen. In his discharge of this responsibility, Albert sees his SDS (Progressive Labor faction) mandate clearly as any fillip which tends to radicalize the students and disrupt the fragile administrative balance at MIT.

Not only does Albert propagandize the freshmen with a "package of literature" liberally laced with revolutionary invective but he reads, in an orientation speech, a "letter to freshmen" (a copy of which is included in the "package of literature") and follows the reading with a free flowing diatribe, pouncing on MIT's world famous "Center for International Studies" and the scientific research program along with anything else in the left radical attack bag.

Here, as a classic example of new left hyperbole is the manner in which Albert starts his letter:

"Brothers and Sisters:

MIT is certainly all that you've been told. Brilliant people, research, a thriving locality, hard work, and even a bit more than all that. It's a cesspool.

A cesspool is a place where scum and dirt and garbage congregate, and that's what we've got here at MIT.

Mind you now - it's clean garbage, you know, like the trash some of you take out for Mom and Dad in Suburbia; it's clean, not like the kind in the ghetto."

There follows another dozen paragraphs in the same vein.

As numerous experts these days predict (including Notre Dame's Hessburgh), if college administrators don't grab back the academic reins and direct their institutions as places of higher learning instead of permitting the kids to operate colleges as radical political fora, imposed controls will soon begin to infringe on academic freedom. A freedom which is supposedly highly cherished by academicians.

When such people as Mike Albert are permitted to produce their own brand of destruction and to pass on to impressionable others their own warped utopian anti-American ideals one must certainly ask where is the silent majority and where is the administrative leadership.

Last weekend an SDS "happening" occurred 100 miles west of Chicago that went practically unnoticed (at least unemphasized) in the national press (on 26 October the Washington Post carried in the first edition a brief report that was dropped in later editions of the same date).

In what appears to have been a harrassment probe, which resulted in minor arrest action the hierarchy of SDS-Weatherman was raided at Illinois' White Pines State Park. Two significant points are these: first, why were all the Weatherman big guns meeting in the relative seclusion of a site some distance from their Chicago headquarters? and, second, are the Chicago, or Illinois (or Federal) authorities monitoring the activities of these persons?

The meeting was probably being held to assess the SDS Chicago demonstrations (8-11 October) and plan - what next. Those present according to the Associated Press (there may have been others but they weren't mentioned) were: Mark Rudd, National Secretary; Jeff Jones, Interorganizational Secretary; Bill Ayers, Educational Secretary; Bernadine Dohrn, former Interorganizational Secretary and Linda Sue Evans, Michigan Regional Secretary and Illinois traveler. Jones was arrested for possession of a deadly weapon - a black jack (released on $1,000 bond) and Evans for not returning a rented car on time.

The Weatherman name is derived from the song (written and sung) by new left minstrel Bob Dylan. The song suggests the anti-societal philosophy of SDS-Weatherman and that faction's professed "Shock Brigade" stratagem which has already led to numerous rival confrontations and enhances extreme factional bitterness. Mark Rudd has already been beaten up twice in battles with RYM2ers and additional violent confrontations can be predicted. Rudd's life may even be in danger. Organizational espionage through cross-infiltration is undoubtedly taking place and even if Rudd can stand clear of an over zealous RYM2er he may not be able to avoid the wrath of a falsely trusted palace guard. Additionally, there must certainly be many faithful Weathermaners who feel that Rudd's ineptitude is leading the organization down the garden path of disaster.

ON THE WRONG SIDE OF THE WALL

The "Chicago 8" trial has continued throughout its fifth week (22-28 October) to be disrupted by the defendants' conduct in court which, by any normal gauge, can only be described as outrageous. The outbursts of Bobby G. Scale, still harping upon his claimed lack of legal defense, have been the most violent so far. On one occasion he made continuation of the day's session impossible and on the following day necessitated his being bound and gagged, while in-court, in order that its operation could continue and testimony be taken. For the first time during the trial, this week's testimony furnished information implicating all eight defendants and, for the first time, produced statements implicating John R. Proines and Ice Weiner, regarding whom little is generally known.

Scale's conduct began to be totally out of bounds on the morning of Monday, 27 October, when the jury was led into the jury box. Scale rose; said, "Good Morning"; asked the jurors not "to blame me for anything; and, when ordered by Judge Hoffman to be seated, denounced him and the prosecutor shouting, "You represent the corruptness of this rotten Government!" Before the jurors could leave the courtroom as ordered by the Judge, Scale exclaimed, "And those letters that they say were sent by the Black Panther Party is a lie and you know it." (The two letters previously reported upon as having been sent to the families of two female jurors and signed "The Black Panthers".) After the jury left, Scale continued to denounce Judge Hoffman stating, "You begin to stink. Oink, Oink"; and condemned "this racist Government with its superman notions and its comic book politics." When urged by a marshal to sit down, as instructed, Scale asked, "Why don't you knock me in the mouth?"; and after finally sitting down, said in a voice audible throughout the courtroom, "I demand my constitutional rights! Demand! Demand! Demand!"

It is reported to be the opinion of some lawyers that the mention of the above-referred-to-letters to the entire jury could "taint" it and provide grounds for a mistrial or an appeal. It would seem that Scale's action in this connection (as well as his and the other defendants' actions during the rest of that day and the two following days) was, in reality, the carrying out of a well-laid plan, which may have been conceived over the weekend, to force Judge Hoffman to resort to ordering that Scale be bound and gagged in court.

On 28 October, Scale continued his disruptive conduct in court by a continual shouting of accusations and questions at the Judge, and at the prosecution and its witnesses. When told by the Judge that he had "engaged in many contemptuous activities", Seale shouted back, "You're in contempt—in contempt of the masses of people for violating my rights—rights of 186,000 black men who died in the Civil War."

After an early dismissal of the jury, which obviously was the result of Seale's disruption of the court, Judge Hoffman warned Seale: "The court has the power to gag you—gag you and chain you to your chair. I don't want to do it." The seven other defendants then joined Seale in challenging the court's authority by refusing, despite repeated orders from the Judge, to stand when he recessed the court. The Judge admonished the eight defendants that they were in contempt; and when two defense lawyers declined to advise the defendants to rise, he indicated that they too were in contempt.

Seale's conduct in court on 27 October was a repetition of his conduct of the previous day, with violent outbursts and screamed accusations and insults. He reportedly "struggled at least 4 times with the marshals", and twice was wrestled into his seat. The second time, when his arm was twisted behind his back to hold him, David Dellinger tried to shoulder past the marshal to help him.

In the mid-afternoon, after still another outburst by Seale, the Judge finally told the marshals to take him into an anteroom and "deal with him as he should be dealt with in these circumstances." Seale was soon returned to the courtroom with a white muslin cloth tied around his mouth and was placed in a metal chair to which his ankles were attached with leg irons and his arms with handcuffs.

The Judge told him he would order him unchained if he indicated by a nod of his head that he would agree to be "respectful to the court": but Seale only continued a muffled harangue. He was again removed and returned a few minutes later with adhesive tape plastered over the gag. Thereafter, Judge Hoffman ignored his muffled shouts until adjournment for the day.

When, during the turmoil David Dellinger announced: "Let the record show that all the defendants support Bobby Seale in his efforts to defend himself", Judge Hoffman warned the seven other defendants that he would revoke their bail and order them jailed, if they persisted in defying the court. He also berated Kunstler for asserting that he, Judge Hoffman, was intimidating the defendants and their lawyers. Seale's first outburst of the day had followed a protest by Kunstler (that marshals were searching members of the defense legal staff) and a statement by Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Schultz (informing the Judge that during a pre-session speech by Seale in the courtroom, he three statements to the other defendants which indicated the need for courtroom security). Seale (who while offering advice to the other defendants had commented, "If anyone attacks you physically, you know the principles of the Party—self defense...Remember one thing—hold your cool."), jumped from his seat and charged Schultz, screaming: "You rotten racist pig. You liar, you liar, you're a liar. Trickie Dick Schultz, like his boss Dick Nixon, is a liar."

At this point, when marshals were attempting to wrestle Seale to his seat and Dellinger attempted to prevent it, Seale wound up in the front row of the press section when his chair tipped over near where Dr. Benjamin Spock was sitting. Spock, whose attendance at the trial has not previously been noted, also spoke at a rally which was held outside the court. He was pictured at a news conference with five of the defendants together with Dr. Howard Levy, recently released from prison after serving a two-year sentence for refusing to train Green Beret medical personnel, and Dr. Quentin Young of the Medical Committee for Human Rights.

On 30 October Judge Hoffman adjourned court following a free-for-all which took place when Seale managed to free himself from leather straps which bound him to a wooden chair. (No details are known as of this writing.)

On 29 October, a walkout was conducted at a technical high school in Chicago to protest the treatment of Bobby Seale and the fatal shooting by Chicago police, some days ago, of the black Soto brothers. About five hundred persons marched in orderly fashion throughout the Loop area, with stops at City Hall, the Board of Education, and the Federal Building, confining their activities to singing and chanting.

It is scarcely surprising, what with the distractions in court, that not many witnesses appear to have been heard during the past week.

On 23 October.

...said to have been "a regular fixture at radical gatherings in New York City", caused obvious consternation among the "Chicago 8" when called to testify. (He had become a member of the Steering Committee of Veterans for Peace, of the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee and of the Crazies, "a group noted for disrupting gatherings of liberals.")

...stated that at a March 1968 rally in Washington Square, New York City, Tom Hayden urged protesters to go to Chicago during the Democratic National Convention for the purpose of "in the Convention."; and that Hayden stated that he thought there would be violence in Chicago because of tension in black ghettos. When approached the defense table to identify Hayden, several defendants muttered "Oink, Oink", and Dellinger told him they were disappointed in him.

Regarding the (Communist) Daily World reported on 25 October that a young, black, Daily World photographer, who once worked for [redacted] and covered demonstrations with him, said that [redacted] often hinted that El Tigro, by which he had been employed for a time, was a CIA front and that his photographs might be going to CIA. (Records of the Office of Security fail to substantiate any such connection.)

On 24 October, [redacted] reporter for the Chicago Tribune, testified that while interviewing Tom Hayden in May 1968 in the Chicago office of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, Hayden received a long-distance telephone call from New Jersey during which Hayden inquired about mutual acquaintances and then said: "Fine. Send them out. We'll start the revolution now. Do they want to fight?"

On Monday, 27 October,

[redacted] said he was accepted by headquarters of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (which planned and coordinated the Chicago demonstrations) and had attended small meetings with six of the eight defendants. He said that they planned to sabotage motor cars in the Loop, in downtown Chicago, and to stage a "fill-in" during which the streets would be clogged and windows broken; and he testified that John Froines, University of Chicago chemist, urged the fire-bombing of Chicago's vast Grant Park underground garage and suggested that kerosene could be spilled in Convention hotels "because it smells like vomit."

[redacted] stated that Froines made these suggestions at a meeting of demonstration marshals on 28 August 1968, during the Democratic National Convention; and quoted Froines as telling the marshals, "I have four cans of gasoline and I haven't figured out how I'm going to use them."

[redacted] also testified that two days later, during a meeting at a suburban farm, he was told by defendant Lee Weiner, a sociologist at Northwestern University, that Weiner and Craig Shimbukaro, an indicted co-conspirator, had planned to fire-bomb the garage but that when he got to the garage, he found Shimbukaro being questioned by the police and became frightened and fled.

[redacted] testified that Dellinger was present at a meeting at which a girl sought to take up a collection to buy nails; and that Rennie

Davis supposed to lure young Convention delegates and sons and daughters of Convention dignitaries to a Lincoln Park confrontation with police, by offering "music and sex." said he had heard Rennie Davis tell demonstrators to "harass and provoke" the Chicago police; and said that he, had attended training sessions for marshals in Lincoln Park when they were told how to kick people and how to deliver judo chops to the front of the neck and the back of the nose. They also were told to punch them in the solar plexis. testimony was repeatedly interrupted by outbursts from Bobby Seale and David Dellinger, New Mobilization Committee leader.

Recent newsworthy accounts of the activities of the "Chicago 8" outside-of-the-courtroom, have dealt largely with a trip which Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman made to Washington, and an invitation which David Dellinger and Rennie Davis received from the North Vietnamese.

During the evening of 27 October, Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman made a "quickie" surprise visit to Washington, D.C., to challenge the Justice Department and the Administration to "a showdown" during the 13-15 November Vietnam war protests, and to demand that the Chicago conspiracy trial be stopped. They staged a press conference on the steps of the Justice Department, wearing boxing gloves and black sweat-shirts emblazoned "Conspiracy" to demonstrate their objection to the trial, and announced that the trial would be a national issue during the November Moratorium. Furthermore, "On November 15 we're going to make this trial a national issue and we're going to resolve the issue in the streets." Hoffman had held a press conference the day before in Concord, Massachusetts, to criticize the war and urge participation in the demonstrations to be held in Washington on 15 November.

According to Yipies Rubin and Hoffman, and to Robert Greenblatt, a New York official of the Youth International Party who is coordinating the 15 November demonstration and who also was present, there will be 500,000 participants. The plan, they said, is to have the demonstrators from the Moratorium March, which will terminate at the Elipse after parading from the Capitol to the White House, continue on along Constitution Avenue to the Justice Department, where "he will surround the Department of Justice with half a million people...(and) with that many people, Mitchell will have to stop the trial." According to Abbie Hoffman, "We're willing to use any weapons including language...(and) we're going to hang Spiro Agnew, John 'Butcher' Mitchell, and Adolph Hitler' Julius Hoffman in effigy."

Appeals by David Dellinger and Rennie Davis for permission to accept an invitation from the North Vietnamese to go to Paris to discuss the release of American prisoners of war with the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks, were denied on 24 October, by a U.S. Court of Appeals which upheld prior rulings by Judge Hoffman.

On 27 October, William H. Kunstler, New York attorney for the "Chicago 8", arrived in Paris on behalf of Dellinger and Davis to confer with the North Vietnamese delegation; and Dellinger stated during a news conference that the North Vietnamese invitation might relate to recent discussions between representatives of Hanoi and the wives of American prisoners of war. (Actually they were the wives of men missing in action, who don't know whether they are wives or widows; and it would seem equally likely, if not more so, that the invitation related to discussions between representatives of Hanoi and exiled Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, with regard to an exchange of American military prisoners for Black Panther leaders imprisoned in the United States. Davis and Tom Hayden reported during a news conference last week that such discussions had been initiated between Cleaver and the North Vietnamese.)

It will be recalled that Davis and Dellinger negotiated during the past summer for the release of three American prisoners of war and that Davis, who was under indictment but not yet involved in a trial, was permitted by a judge of the Seventh U.S. District Court of Appeals to take a trip to Hanoi in July, to have the prisoners turned over to him. Judge Hoffman, who had granted Dellinger permission to travel to Paris to arrange the release of the prisoners, refused Davis permission to travel to North Vietnam but his ruling was reversed.

On 27 October, during the usual noon press news conference held for the "Chicago 8" and their defense, Kunstler (who had returned from a weekend trip to Paris) reported that North Vietnam was ready to hand over a list of U.S. prisoners of war to the American peace movement. According to Kunstler, Hanoi was also willing to release information about the prisoner's condition and would permit "a regular flow of mail" from them. Questioned regarding the number of names involved, Kunstler said, "We did not discuss any figures, but I had the distinct impression that they would include all the American prisoners they hold, although not those held by the Vietcong in South Vietnam." All names will be provided, he said he was told, "but maybe not all once." Kunstler also said he had been told that all information about prisoners and mail from them would be channeled through an office to be set up by the American peace movement, more specifically the National Mobilization Committee. Kunstler said he got the impression that Hanoi was ready to start furnishing the information as soon as such an office was established; and Dellinger, NMC Chairman, indicated that the NMC was already at work on the matter. Details, according to Dellinger, will be announced at the peace rally in Washington, D.C., on 15 November.

According to Kunstler, the North Vietnamese told him that anyone can get information concerning prisoners, either publicly or privately, and that those requesting private responses will be visited by representatives of the Mobilization group, "probably women", who will pass the information along. Ellinger adds the comment that it was his impression that the North Vietnamese would have released the information earlier had it not been for attempts by Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator, and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird "to badger" the information out of them. Ellinger sees the North Vietnamese promise as "a major friendly act", "a peace feeler", and "an attempt to establish better relations with Washington."

The State Department and the Department of Defense are obviously not too optimistic over the claimed North Vietnamese offer; but are understandably reluctant to make any statement which might jeopardize the receipt of information about U.S. war prisoners. The Chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, however, plans to ask the Justice Department to see whether Ellinger violated Federal law in contacting North Vietnamese representatives, citing a provision of the Espionage Act which makes it a crime for a private citizen to carry on unauthorized correspondence with another government with intent to influence the conduct of that government.

All this is reminiscent of earlier activities along this same line by Ellinger and Tom Hayden, both of whom were involved in 1967 in plans for the release of American prisoners of war by the North Vietnamese; and both of whom were involved in 1967/68--and perhaps much earlier--in transmitting letters from American war prisoners in North Vietnam to their families in this country, under circumstances which were suspect. Hayden was then the assistant editor of Liberation Magazine, of which Ellinger was and still is the editor, and they and other members of the staff of the magazine were implicated.

In November 1967, Hayden was on one of his several trips to North Vietnam and on 11 November, in Haiphong, the Vietnamese National Liberation Front ceremoniously released three American prisoners of war to him, as "the representative of an American committee of war protesters." Hayden subsequently made great propaganda mileage from his activities, citing his experiences in such way as to discredit President Johnson and his Administration. It would seem that some such play may once again be in the making--with President Nixon and his Administration as targets.

Although called for New York City, the sponsors said other blacks are working toward similar shows of unity in Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Chicago. One purpose of the demonstrations is to show black opposition to "the growing conservatism" among U. S. whites. "This test of Solidarity Day will call on the majority of blacks not involved (with black activism) to show this anger in a creatively disruptive act."

A speaker for the Teachers' Council stated that "the peace rally will not be an anti-climax to the teachers' march. WASHINGTON, D. C., SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF. (U.S. News & World Report) — The following two pages from the 3 November edition of U. S. News & World Report tells the current situation quite succinctly and well, it is reprinted in total.

Biggest march ever on the nation's capital is predicted for mid-November. Nearly all of the marchers will be idealistic foes of Vietnam war. But some leaders of the march have other axes to grind—and Washington officials are worried.

Coming next in the growing antiwar campaign is a massive march on Washington, D.C., in mid-November.

It could be the biggest demonstration ever staged in the nation's capital. Its sponsors predict that it will attract at least 250,000 and perhaps as many as 500,000 people.

Sponsors pledge that the march will be "legal and nonviolent"—like the nationwide "Moratorium on Vietnam" of October 15.

Washington officials, however, are apprehensive. Federal troops will be standing by to back up D.C. police.

Officials wonder whether it is possible for so large a number of demonstrators—including many with past records of violence—to go through such an emotional protest without some outbreaks.

Feared: extremist take-over. A big fear is that extremists will move in on the peace slings and cause trouble.

Significant differences are seen between the October Moratorium and the coming march on Washington.

Organizers and leaders of the Moratorium were mostly "liberals" whose overriding objective was to end the war in Vietnam. The group which directed that event is known as the Vietnam Moratorium Committee.

The Washington march is under the direction of a group calling itself the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Its leaders include "radicals" whose aims go far beyond stopping the war. Some are openly committed to destroying or changing the U.S. system of government.

One member of the "New MOBE" steering committee is Arnold Johnson, public-relations director of the Communist Party USA—an organization that follows the Moscow line.

Other members of the steering committee include Fred Halstead and Gus Horowitz, members of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP)—known as the "Trotskyite" wing of Communism.

Also on the steering committee are Carol Lipman and Larry Siegle, members of the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), which is the youth affiliate of the Socialist Workers Party.

A co-chairman of the New Mobilization Committee is David Dellinger, a veteran leader of protest demonstrations now on trial charged with conspiracy to incite riot during last year's National Democratic Convention in Chicago.

All this does not mean that the peace demonstration scheduled for mid-November is under the control of Communists or other subversives.

THE NEXT ANTIWAR PROTEST—DAY BY DAY

Thursday, November 13

Nationwide "March Against Death" begins—2,000 march in New York City.

San Francisco "March Against Death" gets underway in Marin County—400 march along route from Sausalito Cemetery to Sausalito.

Four-day "National Conference on GI Rights" starts in Washington.

Friday, November 14

Students go on a nationwide "strike."
"March Against Death" continues, Moratorium ends.

Saturday, November 15

"March Against Death" in Washington ends.
Mass march on White House follows, with 250,000 or more marching predicted.
Another mass march in San Francisco.

Sunday, November 16

"National Workshop on the Draft" in Washington, counseling on draft resistance.

One official in close touch with the organization said:

"This is a very broad peace movement. The great bulk of its participants are honestly and idealistically opposed to the Vietnam war. There are Communists or other types of subversives in the movement. In fact, it is deeply infiltrated by them. And they are trying to exploit it for their own purposes. But there is no evidence that they have succeeded in gaining control over it."

One official concern is that the November protests will go far beyond the war itself. Issues unrelated to Vietnam have been raised.

As an example, in the September 25 issue of the "New Mobilizer," Stewart Meacham of the American Friends Service Committee, who is a chairman of the New Mobilization Committee, wrote this:

"The issues are straightforward:

"Immediate and total withdrawal from Vietnam.

"Self-determination for Vietnam and Black America.

"End ABM and all forms of militarism.

"End racism and poverty.

"Free speech for GIs.

"Self-government for Washington, D.C.

"Stop repression—free all political prisoners."

An infiltrator's report. Aims expressed by some of the march planners were reported to Congress by Max Philip Friedman, a graduate student who "infiltrated" the peace movement.

Mr. Friedman attended a "National Antiwar Conference" in Cleveland July 4 and 5 at which plans for the Washington rally were made. He reported his observations to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Telling about a Cleveland speech by Douglas Dowd, a Cornell University professor who is mobilization chairman, Mr. Friedman testified:

"Professor Dowd continued on with the questions of what was at stake in the Washington demonstration for November and what would be the tactical goals and the general approach to it.

"The short-run aim of the Washington demonstration would be to end the war in Vietnam but not to end the movement. A second, longer-range goal of the demonstration would be to change the system, to end the imperialist system which produced the war, racism and poverty—and he referred to 'this insane society,' referring to the American society."

Mr. Dowd also was quoted by Mr. Friedman as saying: "It is a system, not a policy, we are fighting."

Evidence gathered by congressional and other federal investigators makes it plain that the march on Washington is a product of long and careful planning by experts at big demonstrations.

The idea was conceived at least as early as last spring. It was discussed in a June meeting in East Berlin attended by some of the American war protesters. Senator Paul J. Fannin (Rep.), of Arizona, in a speech October 13, said:

"During the late spring of 1969, a call to a National Antiwar Conference held in Cleveland, Ohio, July 4-5, 1969.

"The call was initiated for the most part by individuals associated with the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (MOBE), a Communist-oriented organization which has functioned as a coalition for numerous antiwar groups operating throughout the country. . . . The conference was attended by approximately 900 persons, many of whom were delegates from antiwar groups comprising individuals identified in sworn testimony as Communists, well-known Communist sympathizers and radical pacifists."

"The truth is—" Other members of Congress also have expressed concern about the antiwar demonstrations. On October 16, Representative John M. Ashbrook (Rep.), of Ohio, said in a House speech:

"The truth of the matter is that the organizers of the October 15 Moratorium and forthcoming protests represent a galaxy of who is who in radical life today. The draft evaders, draft-card burners, flag burners, rioters, Communists and anarchists with all their obscenity and hate-filled propaganda get the ball rolling and good, sincere American liberals follow behind their banner. The banner, for the most part, is down-the-line anti-Americanism and propaganda."

Members of Congress who supported the October 15 protest are not rushing to get on the November bandwagon.

There is some division, also, among war protesters themselves.

The Young People's Socialist League, which supported the Moratorium, urged its followers not to go to Washington, saying:

"The MOBE leadership is discredited. It includes many people who are more committed to an NLF [Viet Cong] victory than to peace."

"Students for a Democratic Society, a group noted for campus violence, is not taking part in the planning, but individual chapters are expected to send some early all the organizations that took part in the Moratorium are joining the march. The Moratorium Committee, itself, after publicly holding off for weeks, endorsed the Washington rally on October 21. This committee also is staging another nationwide Moratorium on November 13 and 14.

The Students Mobilization Committee—which is organizing a nationwide student "strike" on November 14—also has agreed to support the march.

According to the New Mobilization Committee, endorsements of the march have come from several labor-union officials, religious leaders, and Senator Charles Goodell (Rep.), of New York.

There is a professional touch to the planning of the Washington rally.

A "Memo on Logistics," issued October 16, described preparations for a reviewing stage, communications, signs, banners and placards, order of march, marshals to direct the marchers, public address systems and medical aid.

A "March Against Death," in the planned 40-hour "March Against Death," each of 46,000 marchers will carry a placard bearing the name of an American who died or a village destroyed in Vietnam. This will be followed, on November 15, by a mass march on the White House. Also, as the schedule on page 23 shows, there will be a four-day "Conference on GI Rights."

Like the October Moratorium, the November action in Washington is expected to draw together almost every type of war opponent—young and old, moderate and radical.

One highly placed American official made this comment:

"One of the worst effects of the war is that, for the first time in years, Communists now have an issue—antiwar—which is popular enough to permit them to get a hearing from large numbers of non-Communist Americans."

Military view, page 25; Washington's big debate over the war, 6.

Candlelight procession past White House in October Moratorium was peaceful. But November 15 march will be much larger—and different. Will it prove as peaceful?

November 14 & 15 *California - The Coordinator of the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) in Los Angeles, California, held a press conference on October 27 during which she stated that 100,000 individuals are expected to participate in the San Francisco, California, demonstration on November 15. She stated there will be demonstrations on November 14 in industrial areas and at induction centers in southern California.

November 14 *Seattle, Washington - The SMC at the University of Washington is organizing a march and rally to support the demonstrations at San Francisco and Washington, D. C.

November 15 *Washington, D. C. - Jerry Rubin, Abbie Hoffman, and Robert Greenblatt, leaders of the YIPPIES (Youth International Party), which originated as a put-on and still is primarily a figment of their imagination with no real organization or membership, have announced their intention to lead the Mobilization marchers from the Ellipse, which is the terminal point of the November 15 mass march, to the Justice Department, six blocks away. They predict that the peace marchers will follow them in a demonstration to demand an end of the Chicago Eight trial. Greenblatt said he is negotiating for a permit from the Washington Police.

Mobilization officials reportedly have completed most of the details for their Capitol-White House march.

November 15 Berkeley, California - A confidential source has advised that the extremist Black Panther Party plans to hold a benefit in the Berkeley, California, area on or about 15 November 1969. The purpose of the benefit is to raise money to be used as a legal defense fund for arrested leaders and members of the BPP, including its chairman Bobby Seale. The BPP plans to have well-known personalities and entertainers to participate in the benefit, including professional entertainer and civil rights activist Dick Gregory, and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Reportedly, the BPP recently received word that Abernathy is willing to help and is waiting to be contacted by a representative of the BPP.

November 16

Washington, D. C. - Student opponents of the Three Sisters Bridge announced that they will hold a mass march on November 16 with the aid of anti-war protestors here for the March Against Death and Peace march on November 14 & 15. Claiming to be in touch with the NMC leaders, the D. C. Students on the Transportation Crisis vowed they will halt bridge construction. No details have been set as yet.

November 18

Washington, D. C. - The appearance of black militant Robert F. Williams before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee scheduled for 30 September was postponed until 18 November, according to Conrad Lynn, one of Williams' lawyers. Williams faces kidnapping charges in North Carolina.

November 19-22

Washington, D. C. - The Committee of Returned Volunteers plans to participate in the November demonstrations and to hold a conference dealing with "American Imperialism in Asia." It will also demonstrate November 19-22 at Washington, D. C., during a conference on Okinawa between the President and the Prime Minister of Japan.

November 21-24

Chicago, Illinois - The New Democratic Coalition steering committee announced a national conference will be held at which Sen. Harold Hughes (D-Iowa) will be the principal speaker.

November 28-30

Mississippi or Georgia - The National Conference on Black Power had a three-conference schedule for 1969 - the first in July in Bermuda - the second 29-31 August in Los Angeles, and the third - "to synthesize the results of the previous two" will be in Mississippi or Georgia during the Thanksgiving weekend (November 27). It will be international in scope - including black peoples from North America, the Caribbean, Africa, and South America.

Anti-Vietnam War Protest - November 1969

PREFACE

In spite of the past performances of Indo-Chinese communism, characterized by blood bath tactics and terrorism, the anti-war element somehow chooses to believe, or at least chooses to state, that an immediate U. S. pullout would not result, necessarily, in wholesale slaughter of hundreds of thousands of innocent Vietnamese. Since the repressive power of "Uncle Ho" consolidated in the mid-1950's, Viet history has been liberally punctuated with a brutal death dealing repression of any semblance of infinitesimal resistance. Doctor Tom Dooley wrote of Viet Minh bamboo stakes being driven into the ears of helpless children merely for the crime of being the progeny of petty village leaders. John G. Hubbell writing in the Readers Digest (an article read into the Congressional Record by Ohio's Representative John Ashbrook on 16 October 1969) deals, in gory detail, with the atrocities wrought upon the innocent and even the passive neutrals who did not voice support for Ho and his proletarian ideals. Hubbell estimates that possibly as many as 100,000 people were tortured and slaughtered by the Hanoi machine in the decade 1953-63. The North Vietnamese (and the Viet Cong) have brought to violent practice the peaceful follower philosophy of Jesus Christ - if you are not for me, you are against me - and the somewhat less peaceful plagiarism of Eldridge Cleaver - if you are not part of the solution, you are part of the problem. Why is it that those who support the thesis that killing is evil either don't know or don't accept the probability (perhaps the certainty) that a precipitant U. S. pullout could be followed by unconscionable carnage? How can those attempting to formulate foreign policy in the streets and who profess to treasure human life justify a move by the U. S. Government which would jeopardize the lives of those who have sought American help, those who fled the North in the 1953-54 period (one and a half million, mostly Catholics) and numerous others, to escape a communist designed supine fate? The President undoubtedly continues to enjoy the support of a large majority of the American people. The national interest and moral issues are clear, the President's choices are limited and he has taken a course that history will note to have been simple and logical and realistic.

Many of those who promote withdrawal promote other things as well. Twenty-three-year-old Don Gurewitz for instance, who is a national organizer for the Student Mobe (the Student Mobe is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance - youth organization of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party) demands not only an immediate American troop pullout but also cessation of all military aid to the South Vietnamese. Gurewitz' motivation appears not just in the best interests of American fighting men but more positively in the interest of spreading international communism regardless of the human life consequences. A number of other anti-war activist leaders, though not as vocal on this topic (probably because mature revolutionary judgement holds that such pronouncements would be costly in terms of naive mass support), in statements of policy, support it because they are indeed communists of one stripe or another. Among the companion demands are telltale tracks of a design to weaken the United States militarily (drastic reduction of the military establishment and a reappraisal of national priorities), to radicalize as many Americans as possible (with the issues of racism, poverty, and revolutionary domestic "reform") and to lessen the credibility of American diplomacy (through the renouncing of conventional international policies - an end to "American imperialism").

As in massive demonstrations of the past, the mid-November leadership role is being played by the dedicated peaceniks, communists, and sympathizers who have, thanks to American news media, become known national personalities. The New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, a lineal descendant of A. J. Muste's November 8 Mobilization Committee for Peace in Vietnam, was born at a Cleveland meeting last summer. The call for a national anti-war conference was issued in late spring and 900 persons attended. Assorted communists, well-known sympathizers and radical pacifists formed the leadership. The planned demonstrations of 13-15 November were probably formulated at the Cleveland meeting too. Senator Paul Fannin of Arizona has stated, however, that November 15 Mobilization Day was concocted last June at a communist controlled World Assembly for Peace in East Berlin. Quite probably, sympathy demonstrations scheduled in other countries including England, France, and Germany were planned at the East Berlin conclave. Fannin has cited two members of the New Mobe steering committee who attended the June meeting. They are Barbara Bick, a leader of the heavily infiltrated Women's Strike for Peace and sponsor of the predecessor "Old Mobe" and Irving Sarnoff, member of the alleged communist front, the Los Angeles Peace Action Council, and an identified member of the Communist Party.*

The November 15 demonstrations, the child of the New Mobe with the Trotskyite Student Mobe in the mid-wife role is nothing more and nothing less than a modern manifestation of the classic "united front" operation in the old left tradition. Preferring to call itself an Umbrella, sheltering administratively, the sixty odd, protest prone, national and regional leftist and radical pacifist organizations, the New Mobe's planned demonstrations have the wholehearted support, with the exception of some SDS factions and the Young Peoples Socialist League, of all forces from the American extreme left. The YPSL, the Norman Thomas breed, believe that the November action leadership is more committed to a Communist victory than to peace in Vietnam. The philosophically-oriented SDSers hold that Vietnam is merely a calculated integral of American foreign policy, that can only be corrected by violently overthrowing the nation's political and social institutions through extra-establishment technique. They view peaceful mass protest marches as playing the establishment game. Therefore, only those in the ranks of SDS who subscribe to a culture of political masochism through violence and wish not to be confined by philosophy can be expected to participate and their participation cannot be expected to follow the professed non-violent posture being claimed by New Mobe leaders. As for the old left, in a September meeting of the National Committee of the CPUSA, CP General Secretary Gus Hall urged that every effort should be made to get as many people as possible to Washington for the 15th.

The principal organizations among the sixty under the New Mobe umbrella are the previously mentioned Student Mobe which is controlled by the Socialist Workers Party's Young Socialist Alliance (Trotskyite Communist), the Cleveland Area Peace Action Council, a microcosmic umbrella itself which coordinates the activities of several Cleveland anti-war groups, the CPUSA and their soon to be replaced youth group, W. E. B. DuBois Clubs of America, the National Lawyers Guild, the Chicago Peace Council, the Southern California (Los Angeles) Peace Action Council, Veterans for Peace in Vietnam, the Socialist Workers Party, Young Socialist Alliance, Youth Against War and Fascism, the Fifth Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee, Women's Strike for Peace and some chapters of some factions of SDS.

New Mobe literature lists several additional participating groups including the Quaker Action Group, American Friends Service Committee, SANE, War Resisters League, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Resistance, Resist, Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, GI groups and next of kin of GI's who have been killed in Vietnam.

The actions of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee which has now also thrown in under the umbrella (or more properly, along with the New Mobe and Student Mobe have reluctantly decided to become a rib of it) because of their national impact in mid-October demonstrations, warrant individual treatment. Apparently reading failure written on the wall, for their previously stated policy of monthly escalation of a moratorium on business as usual, the VMC has now proposed a policy of "low visibility" demonstrations at campuses and communities throughout the country on 13 and 14 November. Early, after the successes of October 15 (dubious in view of Dr. Gallup's poll reflecting positive support for the President rising from 52 percent before to 58 percent after October 15) the VMC big guns, Sam Brown, Dave Hawk, Marge Sklencar (sometimes called Marge Boxcar in view of her physical abundance) and David Mixner, perceived that the November show was fully in the New Mobe tent.

There followed undoubtedly a painful appraisal with the alternatives rather limited. They could either renounce New Mobe plans and jeopardize their future viability through a November failure (how could they sustain their average of October with everyone death marching in the Capitol) or they could embrace the New Mobe plan and hope that on the morning after they could emerge unsoiled and uncolored as a continuing "liberal" force for sincere peaceniks to rally round. Backs to the wall, the VMC leadership opted for lukewarm endorsement that has now grown to active participation and organizing. The VMC has paid a tremendous price for their decision. The committee has at least temporarily, lost practically all support in the halls of Congress including New York Senator Charles Goodell. The Clergy, too, for the most part seem to have recognized the New Mobe for what it is and have shied away from endorsing November activities. If there was ever any question that the VMC was different, was wholesome and was a suitable tub for sincere anti-war Americans to bathe in, that question is being answered more graphically each day. Those dupes and do-gooders somewhere on the path toward leftist radicalism, would know if they explored the pronouncements of the New Mobe (completely endorsed now by the VMC) that they must, to be good anti-war scouts, accept the statement of policy which sets forth that the Paris Peace negotiations can only be meaningful after all U. S. troops, equipment, planes, and helicopters are withdrawn and all bases dismantled. The New Mobe holds that all support should be withdrawn from the Thieu-Ky government and the people of Vietnam should be permitted to decide their own fate. These items, say the Mobilization do not lend themselves to negotiation at the talks in Paris. Rather, they must be announced by the United States as its unilateral decision to withdraw. "Then, and only then, can the Paris talks concern themselves with the only item which can be negotiated: reparations to the Vietnamese people for the damage the United States has done to their country."*

The VMC has probably chosen unwisely. Not only has their respectable support evaporated but, whether violence occurs at Washington (or at San Francisco) or not, they will probably be unable to muster noticeable support for their moratorium planned for December. VMC leadership will probably join the Dave Dellingers and Sidney Pecks and leave the democratic liberals to the fillip of Senator McCarthy et al. Draft evader Dave Ilaw, a VMC leader, presently serves on the New Mobe steering committee.

*Reported in Guardian, 1 November 1969.

Of the forty-eight persons on the New Niobe steering committee, thirty are activist hangers-on from the National Mobe. This group, including such characters as Fred Halstead, SWP; Carol Lipman, Student Mobe and YSA; Arnold Johnson, public relations man for the CPUSA; Donald Kalish, UCLA's communist sympathizing professor, and many, many others, in the absence of an official list, probably comprises the roll of many of the most dangerous political revolutionaries in the United States today. Included are organizers par excellence such as Dave Dellinger and Rennie Davis and self-appointed radical philosophers such as Sidney Peck, Kalish, and Sidney Lens. There can be little doubt that U. S. involvement in Vietnam serves only as a carrier cause celebre for the ulterior motives of the New Niobe leadership. It would seem that the names of unfortunate Americans who have given their lives in Asia as well as the unconscious dupes in the ranks of the VMC and the Mobcs are merely being used to promote the traditional objectives of international communism.

It appears that support for President Nixon's war policy and Vietnamization program is growing. His speech of November 3 will not have the effect of swelling the ranks of the protest as protest leaders, pursuing a hoped for band wagon effect, say. Neither have the recent speeches of Vice-President Agnew significantly enlarged the body protest. If the President's speech had any strong impact on the American public, it was a positive one consolidating popular support behind him. The President can be clearly seen traveling every avenue, doing all he can to end a bitter war with some assurance of stabilization in Asia and protecting American diplomatic credibility. The critiques following the November 3 address by various batteries of network "reporters-cum-foreign policy expert" indicated that they failed to hear anything other than the President's appeal to the "great silent majority." Because of the White House response (reported telegrams, letters, and calls) and a Gallup telephone poll following the speech of the 3rd, the American people, fortunately, heard considerably more than the critics. Although the validity of Dr. Gallup's quickie on the evening of the 3rd is practically unmeasurable it is most certainly significant that 77 percent supported President Nixon and even more significant that only 10 percent openly rejected the policy of his administration.

Some counter-action to New Mobe demonstrations is being planned but it appears that it may be traditionally feeble. Not that there is not sufficient support of the President's Vietnam policies, but mainly because it comes from people who just don't normally demonstrate their convictions in a flamboyant extroverted manner. The National States Rights Party (hardly a political knight in shining armor) at a recent Cincinnati meeting announced plans for seventy members to come to Washington in an effort to stir up trouble with the hippies and to disrupt the demonstration. Veteran groups, more sincerely but probably not with overwhelming success, are planning a counter-offensive with the code name "tell it to Hanoi." They will launch a telephone campaign and on Veterans Day will promote flying American flags and burning porch lights and headlights. Among the involved groups are the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Disabled American Veterans.

The schedule of Washington events has remained relatively constant. The demonstrators will assemble on the evening of the 13th and will march and rally until the evening of the 15th (see SIR calendars for detail of events). Plans call for protest "rock" entertainment but so far no specific acts have been announced. Organizers, however, recognize the draw power of the Woodstock Festival and won't hesitate to employ such tactics to increase and excite the crowd. The matter of licenses and permits is still being negotiated between New Mobe leaders and Mr. Dean of the Justice Department.

As for numbers involved, the mid-November demonstration shapes up to be extremely large. Estimates have ranged from 50,000 to 600,000 and organizers and observers alike seem to admit by their estimates that they just don't know. Buses, planes, and trains have been chartered, however, and Washington will surely be full to overflowing. All local universities, usually through chapters of the Student Mobe, will be active. The best guess, based on various estimates from all sides and reported in media of all types to date is that the demonstration will number in the neighborhood of 150,000.

Unlike the protests of October 15, all the signs are up that November will not be totally non-violent. The New Mobe is unquestionably more violence prone than the VMC. Then, too, other far more irrational elements are scheduled to be present in just one place (two places counting San Francisco) than a month ago. If violence is planned (and it may be by such groups as Weatherman-SDS and Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman's YIPPIES) any exact plans are naturally unknown. Aside, however, from planned violence, with such a group, of such a size, spontaneity, accidental police confrontation and bickering among participating factions must be regarded as a highly potential trouble syndrome. Factionalism has badly split the San Francisco effort and as a result the crowd will probably be smaller (best guess 50,000), but madder.

Other, peripheral activities may also provide a fertile climate for violence. The YIPPIES and SDS Weatherman plan a march on the Justice Department, an action not endorsed by the Umbrella. The Washington anti-Three Sisters Bridge advocates have also asked for volunteers to remain in Washington on Sunday for another round of protests. With all the violence potential, it would seem indeed a miracle if, come Monday the 17th, no heads and no glass had been broken in the streets of Washington and San Francisco.

There are no stated plans by the New Mobe to take over buildings or to resort to physical means to shut down Government operations. The greatest potential for trouble appears to be Weatherman and Abbie Hoffman's threat to lead his bearded and sandled followers in an assault on the Department of Justice in support of the Conspiracy 8 (minus 1). CIA facilities have not been specifically mentioned to date and will probably remain uninvolved, although any serious disturbances that occur could escalate and involve CIA facilities that happened to be in the immediate area.

New Mobe leaders appear convinced that if violence occurs the movement loses and the administration wins. If they are sincere in anything it is probable that they are sincere in fervently discouraging violence by the sprinkling of militants in their ranks. Since, however, the Mobe has not directly excluded participation by any group or any individual and has denied responsibility for any and all peripheral demonstrations, if violence occurs, the aftermath will most likely see an attempt to shift responsibility for the violence to police brutality and the "fascist establishment." They have picked and allegedly trained a corp of marshalls to promote order. Only time will chronicle their success.

Anti-Vietnam War Protest - November 1969 - II

As the demonstration weekend approaches, several significant factors tend to influence the size and impact of anti-war protests being staged under the auspices of the New Mobe. According to New Mobe sources who are still counting on 200,000 plus, the logistical problems continue to be staggering. The call to local churches for housing assistance has reportedly been disappointing and after weeks of soliciting, the umbrella organizations report a continuing deficiency of sleeping space, toilets, feeding facilities and transportation.

The previously estimated number of participants (150,000) can probably be revised downward. Protest leaders are now talking in terms of "tens of thousands." Many will be local protest perennials and principally of college age. Although few Washington (or out town) Negroes plan to take direct part, general disruption of the city is being stimulated by the Washington Black United Front. The BUF, to grind their own anti-D. C. Transit axe, is encouraging the local Negro community to force their collective way onto area buses to promote policing problems for the Washington administration.

Potential for violence continues high even though a Pennsylvania Avenue parade route has been approved by the Justice Department thus partially removing what might have been a violence rallying issue. The Justice Department, Embassy of South Vietnam and Labor Department have all been identified by "revolutionary brigade" forces as confrontation targets. The South Vietnam Embassy has been the subject of bomb threats by a New York City group and the subject of an invasion threat by SDS Weatherman (on the evening of November 13) if they feel after meeting that they have sufficient strength to do so. Although prominent spokesmen including Dave Dellinger, Rennie Davis, Spock, and many, many others dismiss the violence potential as an establishment plot, designed to minimize the turn out, and speak of promises extracted from SDS and others to behave themselves in the interest of discrediting the general anti-war movement, it is not believed that they can guarantee delivery of 100 percent tranquility.

In the past several days, several of the most prominent Congressional peaceniks have "dove"-tailed back into the anti-war bird. Now Senators McCarthy, McGovern, and Goodell along with Representatives Lowenstein and Rosenthal (both of New York) not only support but will participate in demonstrations on the 15th. The violence quotient, however, along with the dedicated extreme left political character of New Mobe leaders, has discouraged the large block of Congressional support enjoyed by the VMC on October 15.

Entertainment has reportedly now been lined up and the demonstrators will be amused on the evening of the 15th by old hands in the protest machine. The performers include Arlo Guthrie, Dick Gregory, Pete Seeger, Peter, Paul, and Mary, and the cast of the musical "Hair." It is also reported that the New Mobe has recruited crowd organizers and managers, whose claim to magna-mob handling fame, dates back to the Woodstock Festival last summer (at which, apparently, the crowd was literally too drugged to protest the environment).

The November 11, pro-administration show of support is not expected to influence one way or another the size of the weekend. Although a patriotic showing was significant in some locations on the 11th, that showing came largely from expected quarters - vet groups, Mendel Rivers, Lester Maddox, and the eclipsed generation of the plus 40 age group, and the like. The Bob Hope drive for national unity might be felt next time, but for now, it is too little, too late, and too directed toward those, who as a matter of moderate principle, don't get involved.

To the undoubted chagrin of New Mobe organizers, according to a recent Gallup Poll, Vice-President Agnew's popularity has grown since his "effete impudent snobs" speech. Be it by combined administration calculation or by Mr. Agnew's independent personal conviction, his "call it as he sees it" public utterances have helped, not hurt, the establishment point of defense. On the other hand, the public pronouncements of advocates for the protests will likely push many rail straddlers into the Government camp. A spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union, Lawrence Speiser, for example, during the permits negotiations criticized the administration bargaining position as being either "stupidity bordering on criminal negligence or cynical provocation of violence to achieve the administration's political goals."

The New Mobe umbrella is competing on November 14 with the Apollo 12 moon shot. To date public enthusiasm for Apollo 12 appears astoundingly slight. As a scientific event, people seem to feel that it's already been done. Much of the public can't even name the voyagers. Apollo 12 will probably not significantly influence the demonstration nose count except during blastoff.

The weatherman (meteorologist) is forecasting pro-establishment conditions, at least for the beginning of the protest weekend. Thursday night and Friday presents a 60% chance of rain with temperatures hovering slightly above freezing Thursday night, and rising only to the mid-forties on Friday. There is some chance of snow mixed with rain in the predawn hours on Friday. Wind conditions are also forecast, making the climatic outlook bleak for demonstration participants and further complicating the logistics problems. The New Mobe leaders felt several weeks ago, that all that was needed to swell protest ranks to mammoth proportions was another speech by Vice-President Agnew (which occurred) and good weather (which may not occur). Those out-of-towners who are coming to Washington will probably not change their plans. They will be cold and wet, if present forecasts hold up, but they will be here. The local, casual protesters, however, who comprise a sizable contingent, represent a different story. If bad weather persists through the weekend, many locals will opt for staying home, thus dropping the crowd several percentage points.

The activities of November 13-15, whether successful or not, or meaningful or not, shape up to be the second largest protest demonstration in the history of the nation's capitol. An estimated 200,000 people took part in the 1963 civil rights demonstration. The New Mobe leadership appears ready, as do the forces charged with maintaining civil order. Monday morning quarterbacks are probably ready too.

November 13 - 1745

Approximately 45,000 - 50,000 persons to be led by Mrs. M. L. King, Jr., to march from Arlington Cemetery, past the White House to the Capitol. Stepping off single file at a rate of approximately one every three seconds - 1200 an hour, they will cover about a four and a half mile route requiring about two hours of steady walking - about 40 hours overall, terminating midmorning (1000) Saturday, November 15. Each marcher is to carry a placard bearing the name of an American serviceman killed in the war or the name of a Vietnamese village destroyed in the war. Marchers are to call out the name on the placard as they pass the White House - upon reaching the Capitol, the placard will be placed in one of several dozen coffins. There is some question as to the parade's point of origin - especially in view of fairly recently announced rules of conduct applicable to Arlington Cemetery. Organizers first claimed the parade would start at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and proceed through the Cemetery. The Cemetery is normally closed at night. The march will probably start outside the Cemetery and proceed down Arlington Memorial Drive - across Arlington Memorial Bridge - then Henry Bacon Drive - Constitution Avenue - 17th Street - Pennsylvania Avenue in front of White House - 15th Street - Pennsylvania Avenue - Constitution Avenue - Delaware Avenue - to the coffins which will be placed on the East steps of the Capitol (See map above). Marchers are to use normal pedestrian walkways - marshals will be assigned to keep march orderly and protected. Night marchers will carry candles. About 0800, Saturday, November 15, the coffins will be transported from the East steps of the Capitol to the Mall, west of the Capitol, where remaining placards will be placed in the coffins.

This march presents a challenging logistical and control problem. Marchers are to be organized by State groupings - representative of the number of dead from each state. In view of lack of participants available on the 13th and 14th from distant places (especially western states), many state marchers will be represented by volunteer proxies from local and nearby areas. It is possible some die hard activists may have to make the trip more than once. Transportation to the Cemetery is being organized from movement centers as parking facilities will not be available there for private cars. More than half the march will be undertaken during the hours of darkness.

The Catholic and Episcopal Fellowship groups plan to hold a mass at the Pentagon concourse. Some 200 individuals are expected. The time has not been disclosed.

2000 - Julius Hobson, militant black D. C. school board and Black United Front member, and Bruce Terris, D. C. Democratic Central Committee chairman and activist, will speak at the Washington Ethical Society, 7750-16th Street, N. W., on "The District and the Distant War." Auspices of VMC.

All day - speeches, rallies, and vigils will be held at a number of area colleges and universities and at several Federal agencies. Auspices of VMC.

2030 - Allegedly the Niagara (New York) Regional SDS, along with the YIPPIES and the Mad Dogs (New York), will gather at Dupont Circle, march to the South Vietnamese Embassy and, if they have sufficient strength, attempt to occupy it. Reportedly, there is some feeling the action should be delayed until the 14th so as not to "turn off" too many peaceable demonstrators so early in the weekend.

The National Association of Black Students will attempt to contact as many D. C. area relatives of Negroes killed in Vietnam as possible, and urge that they participate in a protest march near the White House on November 14 or 15. No time set yet.

Night: RYM-II-SDS reportedly planning a march Friday night from Dupont Circle to the South Vietnamese Embassy on Massachusetts Avenue, N. W. Also, Niagara Regional SDS, YIPPIES, and Mad Dogs action planned for Thursday tentatively, but probably to be postponed to Friday night. There is some indication the YIPPIES would like to also agitate at the Australian and New Zealand Embassies.

Also, alleged that the Revolutionary Brigade (SDS-Columbia) reportedly planning violence at South Vietnamese Embassy.

0800 - Transfer of coffins from East steps of Capitol to Mall, west of Capitol.

0900 - Marchers for mass march - begin to assemble at the Mall, near 3rd Street. Cross streets east of 3rd Street between Madison and Jefferson will be used for lining up march contingents.

0930 - "March Against Death" ends with short memorial service at the Mall site. Coffins may then be sent to White House but later plans indicate they will be in forefront of the mass march.

The NMC - Mass March

1000-1100 - The mass march to begin between 10 and 11 a.m. with Pennsylvania Avenue kept open to marchers until 12:30.

The approved protest march route.

From the assembly point on the mall in front of the Capitol just west of 3rd Street, it will move along the south side of Pennsylvania Avenue to 15th Street, a block from the White House, and then south on 15th Street to the Washington Monument grounds (See map above.).

Despite the professed "nonviolent" posture, Rennie Davis said the march will proceed by the White House, with or without a permit; however, NMC leaders and Government authorities have compromised on the aforesaid route. If the marching crowd numbers over 50,000, much of the excess will be expected to proceed directly through the mall from the Capitol to the Monument grounds. NMC has guaranteed some 2,500 marshals to organize, control, and monitor the march. Two thousand are to keep demonstrators on the south side of Pennsylvania Avenue, and 500 are to keep the crowds away from government buildings. Suffice it to say that these marshals are supplementary to government security personnel. NMC was originally claiming they would have some 2,000 to 6,000 trained civilian marshals, equipped with walky-talkies linked to a central communications post. Both the number of marshals and the degree of training is suspect.

March contingents are to be in the following order:

Coffin contingent

The Worker Student Alliance (controlled by the PLP) of SDS has indicated that its people will break away from the mass march to protest at the Labor Department in support of striking G. E. workers.

1200 - The mass rally and folk-rock concert to begin at the Washington Monument grounds: Peter, Paul, and Mary; Arlo Guthrie; cast of "Hair;" etc. Dick Gregory, Mitch Miller, and Pete Seeger, also.

1400-1700 - Speeches. Dr. Benjamin Spock will be Master of Ceremonies. Speakers:

- The three co-chairmen of the NMC sponsored rally - Rev. William Sloane Coffin, Dr. Benjamin Spock, and George Wiley of NWRO;
Julius Hobson of Washington BUF;
Harold Gibbons, Vice President of International Brotherhood of Teamsters;
Sen. Charles Goodell (R-N. Y.);
Sen. George McGovern (D-S. D.);
Perhaps Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.);

Mrs. Artie Seale will read a message from Bobby Seale, imprisoned BPP leader, and then introduce Phil
Hutchings, former head of SNCC;
A GI antiwar activist will speak, as will a high school student and a representative of SMC;
Prof. George Wald;
A member of the VMC; and then Ossie Davis will speak and call for a collection of funds.

Speakers are to limit themselves to 10 minutes. The rally is supposed to disperse at dark and the bulk of the out-of-towners are to return to transports for movement to home areas.

Approx. 1700 - March from Monument grounds to the Justice Department after the NMC rally - sponsored by YIPPIES and The Conspiracy - called for and led by 4 of the "Chicago 8"—Dellinger, Froines, Weiner, and Hoffman--and being coordinated by Mrs. Margaret Kallen of D.C. Despite denials by NMC for support of this action, it would appear that Dellinger et al. will be able to muster a goodly sized crowd for this protest against the Chicago conspiracy trial. Abbie Hoffman predicts 100,000 will march on the "Department of Injustice, surround it, picket it, and pick it up and take it home." Weatherman SDS reportedly feels the Justice Department action has the "greatest potential." RYM-II SDS will also participate, as will, reputedly, the Revolutionary Brigade. Many of the SDS members, as well as the Conspiracy 8, are out on bonds. Any arrest would probably revoke their bail bonds.

1200-1900 - A splinter group of RYM-II (SDS) is reportedly considering some militant action against the Vietnamese Embassy during the 11/15 march/rally.

1900 - A Havdalah (end of Sabbath) service for peace will be held at the Washington Hebrew Congregation, Massachusetts Avenue and McComb Street, N. W.

2000 - Activities at various movement centers.

November 16

Continuing activity by constituent groups.

Conference - National Council to Repeal the Draft

Conference - "The Movement - Issues and Direction" - sponsored by Resist - place and time to be announced.

1200 - Demonstration at White House - by Jews for Urban Justice.

1200 - Rally at Georgetown University, followed by a march to Three Sisters Bridge construction site - possible militant action pressured by militant D. C. Emergency Committee on the Transportation Crisis (Reginald Booker, Chairman) using student activists and Washington Action participants.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Last February as the spring term began on American college campuses, Vernon I. Cheadle, chancellor of the University of California at San Barbara published, for the benefit of his community, the results of partial negotiations his administration had experienced with activists, mainly of the "Third World" variety. In step by step sequence, Cheadle dealt with the progress achieved (inoffensively, implying at times the unreasoned inflexibility of the dissidents who broke off negotiations prematurely) and his inability to act on some demands considering state law, university finances, and inconsistency with his rational administrative judgment. Perhaps it was coincidental but spring at Santa Barbara was cooler than the fall term had been.

In concluding his written statement Cheadle expressed de novo the trust and measured confidence in the future that practically all experienced and dedicated academic leaders appear to share in the turbulent climate of the present. In short, Cheadle's conclusion, though perhaps a bit on the idealistic flank, is down the middle and worth contemplating.

"The University along with higher education in general in this country and abroad is confronting a revolution in values that promises to alter in fundamental ways the structure and workings of our institutions of higher education. We shall find our way through these turbulent times, I believe, to a university more contemporary in spirit, more diverse in membership, more pluralistic in means and more encompassing in goals if we maintain now our faith in reason, our respect for others, our confidence in our democracy, and our sense of humor.

I am certain that this campus will meet the challenge."

February 18, 1969

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which was founded at a 1967 New York City peace march is growing in popularity and may have a greater appeal for the high school apprentice activist than SDS as well as other left or right radical manifestations. The SMC has recently announced a "No Peace for Nixon Campaign" which SMC spokesmen describe as an organized plan to demonstrate (non-violently) across the nation at every public Presidential appearance. The SMC executive secretary believes (perhaps wishfully) that SDS is isolating itself from most other anti-war, new left groups, and is so involved with factional infighting that it will be supplanted before the end of the year by the ever growing SMC. Although the SMC is fully supporting the New NMC, don't think that once the war is over all will be academic sweetness and post activism light. The executive secretary says that SMC will be an "ongoing" student organization that could turn its attention to educational and social problems.

SMC claims over 1,000 chapters nationally and details its present existence in the Washington metropolitan area thusly:

1. University chapters at: American, Maryland, Georgetown, and Montgomery J. C.
2. Existing high school chapters at: Montgomery-Blair, Springbrook and Bethesda-Chevy Chase (all in Montgomery county).
3. High school groups being established at: Walter Johnson, Albert Einstein, Walt Whitman, Woodward, Gaithersburg, JFK, Paint Branch, Sherwood, and Winston Churchill (all in Montgomery County), Herndon, J. E. B. Stewart, Thomas Jefferson, and Madison (Fairfax County), Bowie and Duval (Prince Georges), Wakefield (Arlington) and finally Francis Hammond and George Washington (Alexandria).

(note the total absence of predominately Negro enrolled inner-city high schools)

The SMC is reliably reported to be controlled by members of the Young Socialist Alliance, the youth division of the Trotskyite SWP which has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450 as a subversive organization.

Prior information indicated that Jimmy Garrett, a former member of the Black Panther Party in California, is attempting to form a new black nationalist group made up of dissident Black Panther Party personnel and planned to establish a Malcolm X Liberation University for the purpose of producing black militants. Information was received that Garrett was to be at the "Malcolm X Liberation University" at Durham, North Carolina, on 26 and 27 September to meet other leaders of this movement. Garrett has been named to head a branch of the University which will be known as the Center for Black Education, 1437 Fairmount Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Reportedly, on 29 September several members of the extremist Black Panther Party (BPP) attended a student anti-war conference held in a high school in San Francisco, California, on 28 September. David Hilliard, BPP Chief of Staff, stated that the present position of the BPP was for an end to the War in Vietnam, bringing all the troops home now, and that political repression must end or the BPP will open up a new front in the United States. A resolution was adopted supporting a demand by the BPP that they be allowed to go to North Vietnam to arrange an exchange of United States prisoners of war for the freedom of Bobby Seale, BPP National Chairman.

The trial of the self-styled "Conspiracy 8" in the U. S. District Court in Chicago has gotten off to a controversial start marked by verbal clashes between the defense and Judge Julius J. Hoffman. Much of the time in court has been devoted to matters involving four defense lawyers whom Judge Hoffman held in contempt of court for their failure to show up when the trial began on Wednesday, September 24th. They notified the court of their withdrawal from the case by telegram and the judge objected to their failure to appear and withdraw formally. Their arrest was ordered on the first day of the trial and on Friday, the 26th, two of the four, Michael A. Tigar, a former Washington, D.C., lawyer now living in California, and Gerald B. Lefcourt of New York City, were jailed without bond, pending a hearing on Monday. Late in the day, however, they were released on their own recognizance pending further appeal, after a motion was filed in the U. S. Court of Appeals. A Federal judge in San Francisco refused to enforce arrest warrants against the other two, Michael A. Kennedy and Dennis Roberts of the Bay area, because the warrants failed to state an offense.

Further tension developed early in the trial when, upon being introduced by the prosecution, Jerry Rubin, dressed in a yellow and red-striped polo shirt, rose and waved; Abbie Hoffman, in a tunic with Indian designs, blew the jury a kiss; and Tom Hayden, in a blouse made of Berkeley liberation flags, rose with a clenched fist gesture—and Judge Hoffman reprimanded them.

The jury was empaneled on the second day of the trial amid various charges and counter charges; (It has been described as a "middle-aged, Middle America jury" of two men and ten women, two of whom are Negroes); and presentation of arguments began on the third day, after two days of sparring between Judge Hoffman and defense attorneys Wm. M. Kunstler and Leonard I. Weinglass, during which about twenty-five defense motions were denied. The prosecution promised to prove that the eight defendants were in contact with each other and had conspired to "use the unpopularity of the war in Vietnam and the people who came to Chicago to protest...to create a situation that would bring a physical confrontation between protesters and police". Defense Counsel Kunstler, in his opening, declared that the defendants went to the convention for the purpose of lawful protest but that the police "embarked on a conspiracy of berserk, brutal action" and that "the real conspiracy in this case was a conspiracy to curtail and prevent the protest against the war in Vietnam".

Also during the third day of the trial, which saw the arrest of defense lawyers Tigar and Lefcourt and the issuance of an order that Kennedy and Roberts be brought to Chicago from California, Black Panther leader Bobby Seale was sternly reprimanded from the bench when he announced in court that if he were denied the constitutional right of legal defense of his choice, he could "only see Judge Hoffman as a blatant racist". Seale has insisted that the trial be postponed until such time as west coast attorney Charles R. Garry, who often represents the Black Panthers, recuperates from a gall bladder operation and is able to represent him; but the Supreme Court, as well as Judge Hoffman, has denied continuance of the case because of Garry's incapacity.

Over the weekend of the 27th-28th, a group of lawyers from throughout the country gathered in Chicago to protest the arrest of the four defense lawyers and on Monday, the 29th, fifty appeared at the courthouse to present their protest. Later in the day, after holding a press conference, this group, whose spokesman is Victor Rabinowitz of New York, President of the National Lawyers Guild, selected a committee to draw up impeachment charges against Judge Hoffman. The group, which will be called "The Ad Hoc Committee of Lawyers to Stop the Trial of the Conspiracy 8", hopes to attract at least five hundred attorneys to Chicago on 7 October to protest "the political-legal repression which is occurring in this trial". (Simultaneously, the San Francisco Branch of the NLG was demonstrating, and demanding Judge Hoffman's impeachment, and announced that it is sponsoring a massive demonstration at San Francisco on 13 October to protest the trials.)

Within the courthouse, on this fourth day of the trial, defense attorney Kunstler submitted a motion in the U. S. District Court that Judge Hoffman should either declare a mistrial or disqualify himself because of his treatment of the defense lawyers; and U. S. Attorneys claimed that the defendants and their lawyers were attempting to try the case in the newspapers rather than in the courtroom. The motion for a mistrial, which was denied by Judge Hoffman, was reportedly based on a newspaper story that Judge Hoffman while in an elevator on his way to the courtroom after a noon break, said in the presence of Washington Post columnist Nicholas von Hoffman: "Now we are going to hear this wild man Weinglass." (Leonard I. Weinglass, a defense attorney scheduled to deliver an opening statement in the case that afternoon). It was reported that von Hoffman was subpoenaed by the defense but that Judge Hoffman stated he did not wish to hear him. Meanwhile, the Judge removed contempt of court charges against the four defense lawyers and permitted them to withdraw from the case.

On Tuesday, September 30th, Judge Hoffman ordered the jury sequestered in a downtown hotel following indications that two jurors had been threatened. The threatening letters, to two female jurors, signed "The Black Panthers", were examined by the Judge in his chambers together with prosecution and defense lawyers; and thereafter, six of the eight defendants charged at a news conference that they were "phony" and part of a continuing government effort to "frame" them. Bobby Seale issued a separate statement denying that his Party had sent the letters and he accused the "Fascist Government" of doing it "because they know that the rotten racist Hoffman has made them look bad". Seale announced in the early afternoon that he had ordered the Black Panther Party to "shut down the trial"; and following that announcement, and against their lawyers' advice, he and Tom Hayden informed the news media that they were calling for a demonstration by the Illinois Chapter of the Black Panther Party to "shut down the trial". Hayden also claimed that Federal authorities had tampered with the jury and that defense attorneys would call for a mistrial.

On Wednesday, October 1st, one of the two jurors who received a threatening letter was excused from the jury when she replied in the negative when asked (after reading the letter in court) if she could still be a fair and impartial juror. The letter, which read "You are being watched" and was signed "The Black Panthers", had been turned over to the FBI by her family; and questioning by Judge Hoffman revealed that the woman had not previously seen it.

Defense attorney Kunstler immediately objected and accused Judge Hoffman of having "led" the juror into saying she could no longer be impartial. The objection was overruled and the twenty-three year old juror was replaced by a twenty-two year old woman, the first alternate juror.

At a noon recess news conference, defendant Dave Dellinger accused the Government of having succeeded in "sandbagging one of the jurors of whom they were afraid"; and stated that it "adds up to collusion between the judge and the Government to deprive us of a fair and impartial juror". Because of her youth, the defense had considered her one of the jurors most likely to be favorable to their case, which will rely, to a degree, on an explanation of the "new youth culture" and the political and social views of young dissidents. The defendants had to concede, however, that the replacement actually lowered the average age of the jury.

The second juror who received a threatening letter remained on the jury, as she stated that it would not affect her ability to be impartial and she thought it was her duty to remain. A third juror, who had been told of the letter by the second, said she too would remain impartial and she too was retained.

As has been indicated, a number of potentially "big" demonstrations are being sponsored for the coming weeks of the Conspiracy 8 trial, including one for which the Progressive Labor Faction of SDS has been granted a permit to allow 3000 to demonstrate, at noon on 4 October at Buckingham Fountain in Grant Park, Chicago. To date, however, demonstrations on behalf of "the 8" which one of their spokesmen claimed would be "a combination of the Scopes trial, revolution in the street, the Woodstock Festival, and People's Park all rolled into one", have (happily) failed to reach such proportions; and several Conspiracy members have indicated their disappointment in the results so far. The largest turn-out was one of about 3000, two-thirds of whom were black youths. It may be, as one of the Conspiracy 8 said, that the Government's big mistake was "bringing Bobby (Seale) into the trial. It is the same as doubling our support, our constituency. The Blacks wouldn't have been too concerned otherwise. But now they are leading the demonstrations."

BOBBY GEORGE SCALE

Bobby Scale, the only Negro among the "Chicago 8" defendants being prosecuted under the 1968 Civil Rights Act's anti-riot provisions for his activities in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention, was born on 22 October 1936 in Dallas, Texas. The thirty-three year old Scale has an arrest record dating from 1955, which reflects a history of violence and involvement in black nationalist activities in the San Francisco Bay area, particularly in Oakland.

Scale was enrolled for one semester in 1964-1965 as a probationary student at Merritt Junior College in Oakland, California, and while there shared quarters with an active member of the Revolutionary Action Movement (RAM), a secret, all-Negro, Marxist-Leninist, Feking-oriented group which advocates guerilla warfare to obtain its goals. Scale was said to be a member of the now defunct RAM and is known to have joined in some of its activities.

In December 1966, Scale together with Huey P. Newton founded the Black Panther Party for Self Defense, in Oakland. This organization, which follows the revolutionary precepts of Mao Tse-tung and other world revolutionaries, is a black, anti-American, extremist group whose members, openly armed, deliberately provoke confrontations with police, threaten nation-wide assassination of police, and plan the ultimate destruction of the Government of the United States through a series of sustained urban guerilla actions. The headquarters of the group, which since 1968 has been known as the Black Panther Party, is in Oakland, California. Branches, however, have been opened in various parts of the country.

Scale, National Chairman of the Black Panther Party which is currently the most active and powerful of the national black radical organizations, has been a leader in the Party since its inception. He became its chief spokesman when Huey Newton was arrested in October 1967 for the murder of an Oakland police officer. With Newton in prison and Eldridge Cleaver out of the country after having jumped bail in December 1968 while under indictment for attempted murder and assault with a deadly weapon, he is the undisputed head of the Panthers—although he, too, is under indictment in connection with the murder of a fellow Panther. During the 1968 Presidential campaign, Scale campaigned actively for Cleaver, the coalition candidate of the Black Panther and Peace and Freedom Parties.

Seale has been active as a speaker who pulls no punches in expressing his hatred of the white race. He has made many highly inflammatory speeches urging Negroes to buy guns and take over black communities; and he openly states that the BPP advocates revolution, which according to him is the only effective means of change. On one occasion in May 1968, he declared the intention of the Panthers to remove the Alameda County District Attorney from office "by any means necessary, including guns and force"; and during the period of Huey Newton's trial, 15 July to 8 September 1968, he made numerous threats of retaliation against police and society and warned that Newton's conviction would result in the deaths of five to six hundred policemen (Huey was convicted of voluntary manslaughter on 8 September 1968).

At the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August 1968, Seale spoke at a large rally in Lincoln Park, where he criticized the police, said all blacks should have shotguns and rifles, and urged the crowd to go to the Loop with weapons and create as much violence as possible.

Seale has been a proponent of the National Liberation Front (NLF) in Vietnam and in December 1968 attended a Hemispheric Conference Against War In Vietnam which was held in Montreal, Canada. Speaking later about the Conference, he commented on the internationalism of the Black Panthers whose purpose, he said, was "to support the Vietnamese in their struggle against American imperialism, our common enemy". Regarding the NLF, he said, "we help them by making a revolution in America".

Seale was arrested on 19 August 1969, when he was seized by the FBI in Berkeley, California, on charges of fleeing from Connecticut to avoid prosecution in connection with the kidnapping and murder of a member of the BPP in New Haven, Connecticut in May 1969. When summoned to Chicago for the "Conspiracy 8" trial, he was transported from California in the custody of U. S. marshalls. His attorneys have charged that he was kidnapped from the San Francisco County Jail on 12 September, was hidden for six days, and when located by them on 17 September, was in the Cook County Jail in Chicago.

Seale has taken a prominent part in the Chicago trial, so far; and through control of his followers appears to have played a key role in promoting demonstrations on behalf of the "Conspiracy 8".

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

"Protests" are definitely "in" this fall season and, unfortunately probably for many seasons to come. The proliferation of organizations and loose coalitions of organizations who espouse causes, rational or irrational, actual or fictitious, has reached fantastic numbers and their expenditure of time, money, and energy almost unbelievable. No group or grouping in itself has any great amount of support except perhaps the anti-war protesters who can muster considerable support from individuals and groups with a related goal - the end of the Vietnam War - although there is wide divergence in their purpose. Currently active in the protest arena, either singly or, more frequently, in concert with others are: anti-war, anti-draft, pacifist types; civil-rights proponents; students - left and right; welfare recipients and workers; minority race activists - Black, Puerto Rican, Mexican, Oriental, and American Indian; the "old left"; etc., etc., etc. While trouble on "college campuses" has continued from last spring and students have altered tactics somewhat in an effort to involve the off-campus community, the notable increase in racial incidents at the secondary school level seems more significant. Racial polarization with resulting clashes is evidenced in many communities but nowhere more graphically or perhaps more ominously and disappointingly, than among the young in integrated schools and communities.

October 2-5

*Greensboro, North Carolina - The Black Students United for Liberation, a newly formed campus organization at Agricultural and Technical State University, has scheduled a workshop to be held on the campus on these dates. The organizer, a self-described member of the extremist Black Panther Party, has invited representatives from six North Carolina cities to attend the workshop and topics to be discussed include: "How to Overcome Police Lines"; "Affecting Campus Confusion"; and "Making of Homemade Bombs and Molotov Cocktails."

October 4

*Washington, D. C. - The Young Americans for Freedom and the American Conservative Union have announced plans for a jointly sponsored dinner to honor one Senator and one Congressman who have rendered outstanding (and conservative) service. Titled as the First Annual Conservative Awards Dinner, it will be held in the Sheraton Park Hotel.

October 1

*Atlanta, Georgia - SDS reportedly will be demonstrating in front of the Federal Building against the FBI and CIA in order to stir up interest in Atlanta in the SDS-sponsored activities for Chicago. 8-11 October.

October 1

*Wrightstown, New Jersey - A meeting of the marshals for the 12 October Ft. Dix demonstration will be held at 1900 hours. 4 October, at the Ft. Dix Collective Farm House. Approximately twenty groups will send representatives to the meeting to include the Quakers, Black Panthers, Sane, the Resistance, and the Student Mobilization Committee. The number of participants planning to attend is unknown.

October 4

*Eugene, Oregon - The Eugene Police Department issued a parade permit. The theme of the parade is the War in Vietnam, and it is being sponsored by the SDS. The group estimate in applying for the permit was 500-1,000 persons. Marchers are to form at the Student Union Building, University of Oregon and proceed to the park blocks, (a park), downtown Eugene. No incidents are expected.

October 4

*Chicago, Illinois - The Progressive Labor Faction of SDS was granted a permit to hold a demonstration with 3,000 people at 1200 hours at Buckingham Fountain, Grant Park, Chicago. Demonstrators are to march from Grant Park to the Federal Building, site of the trial for the "Conspiracy 8," where they will form discussion groups to discuss the war.

October 4-5

*Baltimore, Maryland - The Maryland Unit of the National States Rights Party (NSRP) has received a police permit to hold political rallies at Riverside Park between 1600 and 1800 hours on 4 and 5 October. Scheduled speakers are James H. Madole, Richard Bayer, and Louis Mostaccio of the National Renaissance Party; and Roland W. Rode of the Baltimore NSRP.

October 7

*The Student Government Council and other groups at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan, had called for a student strike on 29 September to support demands for a student-run bookstore. Less than five percent of the students participated in the strike. At a subsequent rally, participants voted to end the strike immediately and to hold another rally on 7 October if their demands have not been met.

October 8-11

Chicago, Illinois - The normal problems and tensions existing in a city the size of Chicago which has many street gangs, minority race militants, and white labor and civil rights activists, have been increased of late by two major actions: first, the aggressive campaign to increase the utilization of blacks in the construction trades and second, the conduct of the conspiracy trial of the Chicago Eight, with its attendant demonstrations and disruptions. Certainly not the least of these pre-planned activities, are those sponsored by the "Weatherman" faction of SDS for the period 8-11 October. This four-day series of actions around the theme "Bring the War Home" and more recently being referred to as "Days of Rage" has had mixed response from potential supporters. Reputedly, the sponsoring SDS faction is spelling for confrontations repetitive of the Democratic National Convention actions and there is some reluctance by other groups to risk the attendant dangers of arrest and/or injury. SDS is fragmented and the factions other than Weatherman are not so disposed toward agitation without probability of significant gain. With the probable exception of Rubin and Hoffman, the irrational Yippies, and Seale, the Black Panther, the Chicago Eight defendants seem to sense that street violence will not aid their cause. Seale has some control over the Black Panthers but cannot control all black militants, especially as he is under custody, and besides he is not noted for his good judgment. It is impossible to predict the amount of outside support (that is, influx of activists from outside the Chicago environs) the SDS actions will generate; however, even with only a minimal infusion from outside, there will be sufficient agitators available to cause major disturbances. Speakers for the Worker Student Alliance (WSA) the PLP controlled faction of SDS, stated in New York City that it will not support the October demonstrations in Chicago as the National Office faction of SDS wants violence. Needless to say, Chicago is tense but the authorities are prepared.

TENTATIVE

October 8

Second anniversary of Che's death. Demonstrators will meet in Chicago at movement centers. There may be a march in downtown Chicago. Street action possible that night and meeting with the BPP and the Young Lords relative to cooperative efforts. Friction between SDS and BPP needs resolution.

October 9

Anniversary of the Chicago fire-actions at local high schools, in particular those where SDS organizers have done their political work. At the end of the day, there will be a city-wide high school rally or a rally around the trial of the Conspiracy Eight. Involvement of university students is a goal. Support from labor unions and the black community sought. In view of current strife in construction trades, a cooperative effort by those two groups seems most improbable.

October 10

Mass mobilization - everyone to gather in the Loop near the courthouse where the trial is being held. Plans are to "stop the trial." Disruptive tactics. Possible small parade. In the evening, small groups of demonstrators will roam the streets attempting to cause vandalism and disturbances.

October 11

Mass mobilization - to "shut the city down." A giant demonstration and march with or without a parade permit.

October 8

*Chicago, Illinois - A new left-type commune sponsored by SDS has been organized in Cleveland, Ohio, under the leadership of Raphael Rodrigues. This group reportedly has a rifle and is attempting to obtain additional firearms. This group reportedly will attend demonstrations in Chicago beginning 8 October.

October 9

*Women Strike for Peace (WSP) plans to demonstrate at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C., on 9 October when Mrs. Richard Nixon addresses the national Council of Jewish women. WSP is preparing an anti-war telegram which it hopes to deliver to Mrs. Nixon at the Shoreham Hotel. Copies of the telegram will be distributed to individuals attending the meeting.

October 10

*Chicago, Illinois - "End the War Now" will be the theme of a mass meeting called by the African-American Heritage Association for Sunday, 10 October at 3 p.m. at the Louis Theatre, 35th at Michigan Streets. Speakers will include Charlene Mitchell, CPUSA candidate for President in 1968; Fred Hampton, Chicago BPP leader; and other prominent black activists. Other themes of the meeting will be police brutality, women's equality, and progress in Africa.

October 10

*New York City - A meeting to mark the 20th anniversary of the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Universalist Church, Central Park West and 76th St. The meeting, organized by an Ad Hoc Committee will hear Jack Spiegel, Illinois district organizer of the United Shoe Workers, and

As expressed in the current issue of Newsweek, the "Chicago 8" trial "staggered into its sixth week in a thorough state of judicial dishevelment. The radical defendants eager to make a mockery of justice as dispensed by a 'system' they despise..."

During this sixth week (29 October - 4 November), the court continued its battle with Seale over his constant interruptions to insist upon his rights to represent himself and question witnesses, or to give vent to outbursts of invective against the Judge, the court and the Federal Government. Matters came to a head on Wednesday, 29 October, when Judge Hoffman finally carried out his threat to have Seale gagged and shackled; and until the trial was recessed at midday on Friday, 31 October, (to permit defense representatives to fly to San Francisco to consult with Attorney Charles R. Garry, who was kept from representing Seale by reasons of health), Seale was carried into and out of court strapped to a chair and gagged. He refused to indicate a willingness to be "respectful of the court"; and continued to make his protests audible in spite of his gag.

On Monday, 3 November, the court was described as seeming almost normal. Seale appeared in court without gag or shackles, despite his refusal to comply with Judge Hoffman's request for assurance that he would refrain from speaking out in court. Twice during the day, he repeated his demand that he be allowed to defend himself; but there was no "sustained interruption", other than a speech Seale made accusing Judge Hoffman of using "cruel and unusual punishment" to prevent him from demanding his constitutional rights, and protesting his treatment by U.S. marshals.

Defense Attorney Leonard I. Weinglass (who with Tom Hayden and Jerry Rubin had made a trip to California over the weekend to talk with Garry and see if he could join the defense sooner than the anticipated

(date of 15 November) reported that Garry would not enter the trial due to the fact that his health would not permit it, and because he had no interest in becoming involved in a trial in which his participation "could in no way cure the fundamental constitutional infirmities with which it is already plagued." Weinglass read a lengthy statement by Garry into the record, in which Garry blamed the Government and the trial judge for violating Seale's "fundamental constitutional rights" and protested that he was "inhumanly and cruelly punished, insulted and degraded."

Meanwhile, in San Francisco, Garry attacked the Judge and the prosecution and announced that he would file a suit demanding a stop to the gagging and shackling of Seale, whom he described as "a kind loveable human being", and demanding also that the Government apologize to Seale and pay reparations for having shackled him. Judge Hoffman and Attorney General Mitchell would, he said, be charged with violating Seale's civil rights.

On 4 November, the prosecution presented "two more witnesses" who testified about an incident, at the time of the Democratic Convention, during which butyric acid was thrown into a go-go lounge in the basement of the Palmer House.

In the afternoon of the 4th, however, after two days of relative calm, "the confrontation between Bobby G. Seale and Judge Julius J. Hoffman resumed with new vigor." The renewed disruption of the court occurred following testimony by a San Mateo, California deputy sheriff, Bill H. Ray, that he had seen Seale and two other "male Negro adults" board a Chicago-bound plane at the San Francisco airport on the morning of 27 August 1968. Seale jumped up and objected "on the grounds that you have denied my constitutional rights to an attorney." Ordered to sit down, he did so; but rose again, following Ray's testimony, and announced in a loud determined voice, "I want to cross-examine this witness." When Judge Hoffman again ruled that he was adequately represented by William M. Kunstler, Seale pointed at Kunstler and said, "I don't want this man as my attorney. You never asked whether I wanted him as my lawyer". Ignoring Federal marshals' warnings to be seated, he asserted (as he had previously) that Judge Hoffman was "like those slave-owner Presidents on your wall"—referring to pictures of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and others hanging on the wall behind the bench. At this point, Judge Hoffman recessed the trial, twenty minutes earlier than usual, until the following morning.

[REDACTED]

Predictably, the Communist Party has been loud in its denunciation of the conduct of the trial; and the Leftist and Communist press has opened up on the "unprecedented action" against Seale. On 31 October, the (Communist) Daily World carried a banner headline:

"SEALE IN CHAINS

and ran numerous articles harping on the "slavery-time treatment" of Seale by a system inspired by "all the hatred and sadism of the racist Establishment."

"The Communist Party", reported the Daily World, "calls upon all progressives--all people who cherish democracy and peace--to speak out... Demand that the Justice Department intervene now to dismiss the entire indictment against the Chicago 8... Demand that immediate steps be taken to impeach Judge Hoffman for blatant violations of the Constitution and of due process of law." The National Lawyers Guild, it quoted as having "blasted" the courtroom gagging and shackling as "an outrage"; and "The special treatment meted out to Seale", it said, "brings into the open the viciousness and utter depravity of racism in the United States."

The Daily World also reported the comments of various individuals. It quoted: demands made by William L. Patterson, Chairman of the Communist Party Black Liberation Commission, in a telegram to the Attorney General, for the impeachment of Judge Hoffman and the dropping of the indictments against all eight defendants; comments of Rasheed Storey, Communist Party candidate for mayor of New York City, who referred to "the action of the Judge in chaining, gagging, and roughing up Bobby Seale" as "outrageous and a throwback to the slavery period... We demand an impeachment of Judge Hoffman... We demand the dismissal of the indictment against all 8 in this gross travesty of Justice" etc., etc.; and remarks of Henry Winston, National Chairman of the CPUSA, "on behalf of the Party's entire membership", which characterized Judge Hoffman's actions as "fascist-like" and said the court's atmosphere of "an armed encampment" is an example of how Nixon's policy of law and order will operate. Winston was also quoted by the Daily World as stating that, as the only "black defendant", Seale has been "the special target of racist hostility and bestial repression."

Daily World accounts have made no reference to Seale's outbursts and vituperation in court; and regarding his conduct (which Seale surely intended should force Judge Hoffman to take drastic action against him), it reported that he "attempted to exercise his rights to defend himself in the absence of Charles Garry, counsel of his own choosing... in an orderly fashion." He has, it reported, "in no way interfered with the conduct of the trial. When he requested yesterday to address the court on his own behalf, Judge Hoffman ordered the marshals to take Seale into an adjoining room and deal with him. An audible gasp rose from the spectators and reporters. They feared the worst, for they know what these words have meant in the past when uttered by other upholders of law and order."

There is no hint in the Communist press that Seale's conduct in court has been such as to cause Time magazine to characterize him as "Ringleader in the disruptions" of a court described as having a "nightmare setting". Nor is there mention of the defendants' tactics, which Time described as "identical to those used on the streets during the Convention riots; they seek to provoke Hoffman in the same way that demonstrators baited Chicago police into over-reaction."

The Guardian, on 1 November, published a full page transcript of an interview with Defense Attorneys William M. Kunstler and Leonard I. Weinglass, giving them yet another chance to blast the conduct of the trial and to make a plea to those "in the movement" that they send money to meet the expenses of the defense, that they join protests against the trial, and that they condemn the trial with "a flood of letters" to editors, to Congressmen, and so on.

Demonstrations on behalf of the "Chicago 8", and more particularly on behalf of Bobby Seale, have continued but they have apparently failed to draw large numbers of demonstrators.

Early in the morning of 30 October, ten members of the Black Panther Party began picketing the Federal Building in Chicago, some wearing gags; and they remained outside of the building for most of the day.

On 1 November, according to an FBI message of 31 October, a rally would be held in Chicago to protest the trial and all the defendants, except Seale, would be present. Some of them were to speak; and Seale was to be represented by the Chairman of the Black Panther Party of Illinois. When the demonstration came off, 250 participated.

On 3 November, the Coalition for United Community Action was reported to be sponsoring a city-wide strike and rally at Chicago that day to demand that Seale be freed. It was hoped that 25,000 would participate; but in view of a lack of national news coverage, it would seem that this was a highly optimistic and vain hope.

Also on 3 November, the Black Panther Party (BPP) was sponsoring demonstrations at Chicago, San Francisco, and New York to protest the treatment of Seale; and it was believed that the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and youth gangs might participate. According to confidential FBI informants, a BPP leader had issued instructions that demonstrations should be held on that date (3 Nov.) in front of Federal Buildings in New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, and New Haven; and according to the informant, demonstrations would occur also in Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Seattle—for the purpose of showing support for Bobby Seale, and to advocate the exchange of Black Panthers confined in the United States for Americans being held by North Vietnam.

According to a 4 November FBI message, relatively small demonstrations occurred in New York City, Boston, New Haven, Philadelphia, Chicago, and San Francisco; and at the New Haven demonstration, it was announced that additional rallies would be held on 5 November. At the New York City rally, members of the Communist Party, USA, were observed; and at the rally in Boston, there were members of the anarchistic Students for a Democratic Society (SDS). No mention was made of demonstrations in Los Angeles or Seattle.

Meanwhile, it is interesting to note that after an exhaustive review of the TV coverage of last year's National Democratic Convention, "House investigators" have concluded that the TV networks seemed hostile to the Democratic Party and that cautious legislation is needed to prohibit "the falsification of purportedly bona fide news events." According to the press on 5 November, a confidential report to the House Commerce Committee stated that TV coverage seemed to present "a one-sided picture which in a large measure exonerates the demonstrators and protesters", and cited case after case as evidence of misleading and phony photographic reporting by large networks.

Since preparation of the above, it has been reported in the press that Bobby Seale has been found by Judge Hoffman to be in contempt of court on sixteen counts and has been sentenced to four years in prison. At the same time, Judge Hoffman declared a mistrial in Seale's case, severing it from that of the seven other "Chicago 8" defendants.

A fund-raising party has reportedly been scheduled during the week of 10 November at the home of Hugh Hefner, publisher of "Playboy" magazine, to raise funds for the NMC. Several unidentified high-ranking Government officials are expected to attend.

*November 11 Washington, D. C.

A Coalition of Blacks Against the War in Vietnam, composed of representatives of some twenty-five Negro organizations in D. C., has been formed to conduct its own rally against the Vietnam War and reportedly will not participate in any great numbers in the anti-Vietnam War activities planned for 13-15 November by the New Move, Vietnam Mobilization Committee, and the Student Mobilization Committee which are almost exclusively of white leadership. Members of the coalition - ranging from moderate clergymen to militant young blacks - have said they felt they ought to become involved in a kind of movement over which they could have some control. Co-chairmen Mrs. Willie J. Hardy and Roena Rand announced that the Black Moratorium Day Rally will be at the D. C. Armory at 4:30 p.m. 265 21110

The Black Coalition has a list of District war dead, and the next of kin will be contacted and invited to take part in the program at the Armory. Tentative plans for the late afternoon program call for reading the names of District war dead, introduction of their families, lighting of candles in their memory and perhaps speeches by some others. As tentatively scheduled the Armory program will run from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. and may include appearances by Mrs. Martin Luther King and Mahalia Jackson, who is to sing at Arlington National Cemetery earlier that day.

It appears that "Veterans Day" will be marked this year by more than the usual memorial services. Lead primarily by veterans organizations, some effort is being expended to plan activities in the nature of a counter-offensive against the anti-war protests. The groups plan to observe National Confidence Week beginning November 10.

Under a project called "Tell it to Hanoi," each member of a veterans' group will tell five persons, asking each to call five more. Then, on Veterans Day they will fly the U. S. flag, burn headlights on cars and turn on their porch lights at night. Groups participating are the American Legion, VFW, Military Order of the World Wars, World War I Veterans, American Veterans of World War II, Disabled American Veterans, Retired Officers Association, Reserve Officers, and Fleet Reserve Association. The VFW, with its national "Operation Speakout" and other groups are asking labor, church and fraternal organizations to join in statements to newspapers and in other ways to show solidarity behind President Nixon.

In a similar gesture, the chief of the National Guard Bureau, Major General Winston P. Wilson, is asking the nation's 500,000 guardsmen to stage what amounts to a counter-demonstration to the planned anti-war protests. In a move probably unprecedented in the long history of the National Guard, the General sent in an appeal to the adjutants general of all fifty states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. The General asked that between November 11 and 16 all guardsmen:

Drive their autos with the headlights turned on, fly the American Flag at their homes and businesses and leave their porch lights burning.

Terming it a national effort that would show North Vietnam the nation's determination "to follow a prudent course in Vietnam," he also urged guardsmen to encourage other citizens to take part in the counter-activity.

Also, the Veterans Administration has sent 100,000 educators and community leaders, a Veterans Day packet containing a detailed scenario, with appropriate pauses for band music, for November 11 observances designed in part to counter the anti-war activities planned for November 13-15. The packet includes complete speeches, program formats, and statements for the newspapers and radio announcements.

In Washington, D. C., a "Freedom Rally" intended to give the silent majority a chance to speak out is being sponsored principally by the American Legion and VFW. It will be held at 2 p.m. Veterans Day on the Washington Monument grounds and will feature as speakers, Senator Tower, R-Texas; Rep. Lukens, R-Ohio; Rep. Buchanan, R-Alabama; and Rep. Marsh, D-Virginia.

*November 11 Baltimore, Maryland

A pro-U. S. demonstration and concert has been scheduled, 1900-2200 hours, at the War Memorial Plaza. A past National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans and others will speak. Counter-demonstrations are anticipated. AER 9310

On 5 November representatives of fourteen social action groups (including National Emergency Civil Liberties Committee; American Civil Liberties Union; New York Civil Liberties Union; National Lawyers Guild; Black Law Students Association; Law Center for Constitutional Rights; etc.) issued a statement calling for "total political freedom" for lawyers. To underscore their demand for an end to "harassment," they announced plans for marches around Federal Courthouses in New York and ten other cities. Among other things, the statement protested contempt citations against four lawyers connected with the defendants in the current Chicago conspiracy trial and urged support for those demanding an end to the trial. *N.Y. The National Association of Black Students has selected these two days to extend special consideration to the black mothers and fathers who have lost sons in the Vietnam war. NABS is encouraging rallies concerning the Vietnam war and the draft as they relate to black people. It is urging, also, that "mothers, sisters and loved ones" go to local draft boards on November 14 and insist that they be drafted instead of the young men. Daily World 21 Oct 69

A National Conference on GI Rights was announced by the GI Defense Organization in a planning session held at Chicago in early August. Part of the effort to increase GI resistance to the Vietnam war, the Conference will consider proposals including: "The guarantee

The American Servicemen's Union has asked organized labor to support the GI movement. The Conference will be held at the Shoreham Hotel. Rep. Shirley Chisholm will be the featured speaker.

*November 13-14 Washington, D. C.

The Committee of Returned Volunteers (CRV), an organization of radicalized former Peace Corps and similar organization volunteers, has become active in anti-war activities and is participating in the November 13-16 actions of NMC. "Independently" it will sponsor a November 13-14 conference here of scholars concerned with U. S. policy toward Asia. The conference would be aimed at "building a base for organizing "demonstrations" when the Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Satō arrives here November 19 to discuss the status of Okinawa and other matters.

*November 15 San Francisco, California

There is dissension in the West Coast NMC concerning the proposed demonstration at San Francisco, California, on 15 November. Terrence Hallinan, an official of the W. E. B. The purpose of the benefit is to raise money to be used as a legal defense fund for arrested leaders and members of the BPP, including its chairman Bobby Seale. The BPP plans to have well-known personalities and entertainers to participate in the benefit, including professional entertainer and civil rights activist Dick Gregory, and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, President of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Reportedly, the BPP recently received word that Abernathy is willing to help and is waiting to be contacted by a representative of the BPP. November 15 mass march, to the Justice Department, six blocks away. They predict that the peace marchers will follow them in a demonstration to demand an end of the Chicago Eight trial. Greenblatt said he is negotiating for a permit from the Washington Police.

The NMC steering committee, after a reportedly heated argument in executive session, decided to state their position (at least for the record) as being one of not endorsing any post-parade or rally activities on the 15th. It should be noted, however, that later, Dave Dellinger, who seems to be the leading figure in the anti-war movement generally and the NMC specifically, said that he will join the YIPPIES in leading a march on the Justice Department.

Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin reportedly have commented that if they can get support from the crowd, an attempt will be made to break into the Department of Justice, breaking windows, and possibly using Molotov cocktails. While police are busy at the scene, an attempt will be made to blow up the South Vietnamese Embassy. Hoffman and Rubin are masters at exaggeration and preposterous statements.

The Communist Party's (CPUSA) latest effort to appropriate a bigger slice of America's radical scene will be launched in Chicago on 26-28 December. According to the recent call to Party faithful, the founding convention of a "working class Marxist-Leninist youth organization" will be convened in the Windy City on those dates and work towards formation of an alliance of blacks, whites, Chicanos, Puerto Ricans and Indians which "will take up every struggle of the working class" militantly "fighting on every front against oppression."

Why a new organization? Mike Zagarell, Party secretary for youth affairs, and Jarvis Tyner, Chairman of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs of America, provided the answer. Even though the past nine years of New Leftism in America is viewed by the Party as "very important" and experiences of New Left groups, such as Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), a "positive development," the Old Left spokesmen maintain there is a "crisis in the New Left because they are unable to deal with the radicalization of young people." Primarily, CPUSA objects to the New Left habit of relegating working class youth to a position subordinate to that of students. The New Left fails to comprehend true Marxist-Leninism, i. e., "the realization that the working class will play the decisive role in any revolutionary changes in the country," and Zagarell says the new organization will reaffirm the primacy of workers in the leadership of the struggle.

Tyner told a People's World reporter that the new organization will stress the strengthening of black and white unity, a necessity he said "which the New Left has not understood." It will reject the New Left theory that "black liberation is a parallel movement to white movements," he claimed. That such "unity" will be a keystone of the new Organization is reaffirmed by a review of the founding principles, a major portion of which deals specifically with black, white and minority group solidarity.

The founding principles of the new youth organization seem to contain nothing startling. What does become apparent, when reviewing these guidelines, is that the CPUSA's failure to make inroads among radical youth necessitated a new approach. The continuing debate in top CP councils regarding its relationship with New Left and Black Power groups has spurred the hard liners to compromise. The new organization is the method, for while it ostensibly will be "organizationally independent, developing its own programs and tactics," it will also fight for "the closest fraternal relations with older Communists based on similarity of outlook."

The new organization will allow CPUSA to maintain its historical, doctrinaire posture, while at the same time, its control of the new organization will permit flexibility, experimentation and accommodation of other Marxist oriented youth without loss of face. The CPUSA, in other words, would retain its purity while attempting to gain mass support and converts at the coalition level. Politically, failure of the "independent" coalition, could be disavowed by CPUSA, while successes would accrue to its benefit.

This tactic is crucial in the realm of white-black relations. CPUSA has long championed civil rights, anti-racism, etc., but the recent growth of Black Power militancy, its popularity among the youth (workers and students) and the Party's reluctance to embrace it whole heartedly (for fear of alienating Negro moderates) probably did more to dictate founding of a new organization than any other single factor. The utter failure of the DuBois Clubs (about 100 members in early 1969) pointed up CPUSA's lack of success in gaining any influence in New Left and Black Power circles. Some students of the CPUSA indicate the debate over Black Power threatened to split the Party. The new Marxist-Leninist youth organization is the result.

In the beginning of the seventh week of the trial of the "Chicago 8" (5-11 November), it abruptly became a trial of seven, when during the afternoon court session on Wednesday, 5 November, Judge Hoffman cited Bobby G. Seale on sixteen counts of contempt of court and sentenced him to four years in prison. At the same time, he declared a mistrial, insofar as Seale is concerned, and severed his case from that of the seven other defendants. Seale's trial on the charge that he conspired to incite a riot during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, has now been set by Judge Hoffman for 23 April 1970.

For the first two and one-half days of the prior week of the trial, Seale had been bound to a chair and gagged in a vain effort to prevent the disruptive outbursts by which he made it virtually impossible to conduct the court—outbursts which ranged from the shouting of obscenities in the courtroom to calling the Judge a "rotten, racist, Fascist pig" whose outlook he characterized as having stemmed from "the superman syndrome of comic book politics." His outrages, which seemed calculated to force Judge Hoffman to order him bound and gagged so that the trial could proceed, were hurled, not only at the Judge and prosecution attorneys, but at the President of the United States and its Government.

In sentencing Seale, Judge Hoffman ruled that his behavior throughout the trial "constituted a deliberate and willful attack on the administration of justice and an attempt to sabotage the functioning of the Federal judicial system." He said that he had selected the sixteen "most flagrant" of Seale's violations during the trial, each of which constituted "a separate contempt of court", and he sentenced him to three months on each count.

Judge Hoffman's determination to end Seale's bid to sabotage the trial came when Seale, after two days of relative calm, defied new warnings and admonitions and persisted in attempting to cross-examine a witness. He refused to remain seated as ordered; began once again to abuse the Judge; and caused the early dismissal of the court. During the hour and a half it took Judge Hoffman to read his decision, Seale shouted, "That's a lie!", on several occasions, and repeated his charge that the Judge is a "racist", a "fascist", and a "pig".

When given permission to speak, Seale maintained that he was not in contempt of court and that he had "a right to stand up in court and ask for his constitutional rights"—adding, "I'll continue to ask for my rights as a black man living in the scope of racist, decadent America." He resumed his seat mumbling, "Enough of this. I've got my suit to deal with. I'm suing you. It's going to a higher court and we'll see what happens there—if it's possible to get justice anywhere in America." The suit he mentioned had reference to the fact that on 4 November, twenty-eight lawyers filed a suit in a Chicago Federal District Court asking that Seale be allowed to defend himself and seeking a permanent injunction restraining all court proceedings in the trial until he was permitted to do so. (Seale, it will be recalled, has persisted throughout the trial in demanding that he be allowed to act as his own defense, since the only attorney he finds acceptable, Black Panther Attorney Charles R. Garry, has been unable by reasons of health to represent him. Seale has refused to acknowledge that he is represented by William M. Kunstler, who is officially listed as the attorney of record for him.) The suit charged that the binding and gagging of Seale was "inhuman and cruel"; but U. S. District Judge Edwin A. Robson, who dismissed the suit, ruled that "no other remedy was available" to Judge Hoffman when he ordered Seale restrained.

There has been considerable criticism of Judge Hoffman over the severity of the four-year contempt sentence he gave Seale; and doubt of its validity has been expressed in view of a 1968 Supreme Court ruling that in cases of serious contempt and long sentences, a defendant can demand a jury trial. There has also been criticism in certain legal and academic circles that Hoffman has "over-reacted" and has created constitutional problems which could have been avoided. Furthermore, some believe that Hoffman did in fact deny Seale's constitutional rights by refusing to allow him to defend himself in court. The Executive Director of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) denounced the sentence as "vicious" and "excessive"; and ACLU lawyers were to meet with an attorney from Charles R. Garry's office. Garry, in San Francisco, called the sentence "savage" and said he would appeal it "to the highest court in the land." On the other hand, the President of the Chicago Bar Association said he would ask for a study of what is needed to cope with "revolutionary tactics in the courtroom."

Seale's lawyer Francis J. McTernan, a partner of Garry, moved that he be granted bail pending an appeal that has been filed on his contempt citation, but the motion was denied by Judge Hoffman on the grounds that Seale is a dangerous man.

As of 10 November, Seale, who has been returned to California where he is fighting extradition to Connecticut on a murder charge, was at the San Francisco City Prison, and Garry announced that he will ask that the conspiracy charges against him be dropped or that he be tried immediately.

On 6 November, Judge Hoffman refused to call a mistrial for the remaining seven defendants, which Kunstler sought on the grounds that Seale's separation from the case "comes much too late in the game." According to Kunstler, the "inflammatory testimony" about Seale's part in the alleged conspiracy to incite a riot will prejudice the jury against the other seven defendants. Kunstler also sought the interrogation of jurors, one by one, to see if the panel could still reach an impartial verdict; but this motion too was denied.

Despite his no longer being connected with the conspiracy trial, Seale has continued to hold the spotlight in news regarding the "Chicago 8", and rallies, demonstrations, and articles on his behalf have continued.

Defendant Tom Hayden wrote a special article in support of Seale, "Freedom Cannot be Gagged", which appeared as the lead article in the Guardian on 8 November; and as is usual in Communist writings dealt in half-truths and platitudes. He wrote of the denial of the "fundamental constitutional rights" of the defendants by the court and the Government and stated that Seale and the other defendants "are accused of disrupting the judicial process because they insist upon exercising their rights." He made no mention whatever of their provocative behavior, unruly conduct, and violent language in court; and regarding Seale's continual disruption of the proceedings by his shouting of obscenities and vituperations, commented that he "only spoke when his name was mentioned by a witness or when the other attorneys had finished cross-examination."

On 6 November, approximately fifty persons took part in New Haven, Connecticut, in a Black Panther Party-led "People's rally to protest the treatment of Bobby Seale", at which members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) were observed. Several SDS representatives made announcements complaining of Seale's having been sentenced to four years for contempt of court; and one leader said that demonstrations will take place in front of Federal Buildings throughout the country on 13 November, to show support for Seale.

On 9 November, defendant Abbie Hoffman spoke at the American University in Washington, D. C., to a crowd of about twelve hundred, mostly students, neatly tying in the trial of the "Chicago 8" with the anti-Vietnam war (anti-Administration) sentiments of much of his audience by stating, regarding the trial of the "Chicago 8": "It's chilling now. It used to be comical." The prosecution, he said, is "chilling our young people who want to oppose Government policy. They'll think twice now before crossing the line or pressing their right to assemble or to seek redress of grievance."

According to the evening Star on 11 November, "Other marches this week (other than the mass Moratorium-Mobilization March on 15 November and the forty-hour march against death, 13-15 November) are being announced almost every day. The 'conspiracy'--the Chicago defendants--still are planning their march from the Monument Grounds to the Justice Department, several blocks away, after the Mobilization rally." The article noted further that the remaining seven of the "Chicago 8" still on trial would lead the "mass march" but it now appears from the last minute television news, that Jerry Rubin will be unable to make it.

As of 10 November, the SDS in Boston, Massachusetts, was calling for a rally to be held on 13 November at the "New Federal Building", to protest Seale's having been cited for contempt; and Jerry Rubin, on some unstated date in Boston, spoke for about twenty minutes at an SDS sponsored rally of approximately three hundred persons and called for a march of one hundred thousand to the Department of Justice in Washington, D. C., at 5 p. m. on November, to demand Seale's release.

In connection with the 15 November demonstrations to be held in Washington, D. C., defendants David Dellinger and Rennie Davis, leaders of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, have made a number of trips to this city. Davis declared to an audience at the Georgetown Law Center in Washington, D.C., on 8 November, that protesters will march on the White House on Saturday, 15 November, whether they receive a permit to do so or not. According to Davis, "We feel that a quarter of a million people constitutes a permit and we're going to the White House." If there is violence in Washington during the anti-war protests, he said, it will be the fault of the Government. The parade route for the Saturday mass march has been the subject of great controversy between Mobilization leaders and representatives of the Department of Justice. The insistence of Mobilization leaders that the march route include either Pennsylvania Avenue or the area around the White House was objected to by the Justice Department; but a "compromise" agreement has finally been announced and the mass march down Pennsylvania Avenue will be permitted—as Mobilization leaders have claimed all along that it would.

Regarding the "Conspiracy 8" and its part in the mid-November Mobilization/Moratorium demonstrations in Washington, Tom Hayden commented in the Guardian: "As for The Conspiracy, we are aiming our struggle at the Nov. 13-15 anti-war demonstrations led by Rennie Davis and Dave Dellinger on the two coasts and a march on the Justice Department Nov. 15 to stop the trial and free Eddy. On the East Coast it is really necessary to tie the Nov. 15 demonstration to the trial. There should be actions on the 13th and 14th at federal buildings throughout the country to stop the trial."

During the past week, little was reported in the press regarding trial testimony, and doubtless little was accomplished. How could it have been? The amount has, however, begun to pick up since Seale's departure from the courtroom. The 10 November session of the court was devoted to cross-examination by the defense of Mrs. Barbara Callendar, a Chicago policewoman who testified last week that she observed Jerry Rubin make inflammatory speeches in Lincoln Park. According to Mrs. Callendar, who posed as a hippie during the Convention, she followed Rubin around because she felt he was "a very obnoxious man", and heard him make such comments as "Don't let the pigs push you around" and "Arm yourselves." She quoted him as having frequently uttered obscenities. She also referred to Tom Hayden, regarding whom she commented that he has "beady eyes"; but she refused to agree with Attorney Kunstler's suggestion that "You don't like these defendants very much."

11 and 12 November were devoted to the testimony of police undercover agent Irwin Bock who said he had infiltrated the top ranks of anti-war organizations and heard the defendants discuss plans to tie up the Chicago Police Force with street violence and vandalism during the 1968 Democratic National Convention. At a pre-Convention meeting attended by six of the "Chicago 7", he said he heard Thomas Hayden suggest such tactics as "breaking windows in the Loop, setting off fire alarms, and setting small fires"; and he quoted Hayden as saying, "It will take the whole police force to watch the demonstrators."

It was the mention of Jerry Rubin's name during Bock's testimony on 12 November which led to the ordering of Rubin's arrest by Judge Hoffman, when it was found that he was not in the courtroom or anywhere in the Federal Office Building. Kunstler explained that Rubin left the court early to catch a plane to keep a speaking engagement at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, New Jersey, and left behind a written waiver of his constitutional right to be present at his trial. According to Kunstler, Rubin's absention from the court stemmed from a misunderstanding over the defendants' privileges. (The seven defendants have been permitted to travel widely both at night and over weekends, providing they informed the U. S. Attorney of their itinerary.) Judge Hoffman insisted that there was "no misunderstanding at all" about the defendants' privileges and he informed Kunstler that he (the Judge) is the one to determine when a defendant may leave. Rubin did not appear at Rutgers University, where Abbie Hoffman spoke in his place, and later surrendered to U. S. marshals. He was placed in the Cook County Jail pending an appearance before Judge Hoffman—but according to the radio has been released and is back in court.

It has been announced that Mayor Richard J. Daley has agreed to appear at the trial of the "Chicago 8" in response to a subpoena by the defense, which will attempt to show that the real conspiracy during the summer of 1968 in Chicago was not committed by the defendants, but by the Mayor and others who the defense claims sought to stifle all effective protest. The appearance of Mayor Daley promises to be a highlight of the trial.

"Venceremos" means "we shall win" in Spanish. It's also supposed to mean hard work for Americans volunteering for a two-month Cuban tour of duty with the Venceremos Brigade (VB).

The Brigade allegedly materialized from a brainstorming session earlier this year between visiting Americans and Cuban Government officials and was designed ostensibly to demonstrate American radical solidarity with the Cuban revolution through participation in the 1969-1970 Cuban sugar cane harvest. Its guiding principles were published in the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) organ, New Left Notes, and are significant in that they reveal the importance of the political, rather than the economic, aspects of Brigade activity:

1. To give political, moral, and material support to Cuba for the critical sugar harvest in 1970;
2. To educate people about the international revolution against imperialism; and,
3. To gain a practical understanding of creative application of communist principles on a day to day basis.

According to the Brigade's SDS-dominated National Executive Committee (P. O. Box 643, Cathedral Station, N. Y. C.) and regional spokesmen, 300 Americans selected "on the basis of their support for Cuba and their commitment to changing the system in this country," will travel to Fidel's paradise in two groups - 150 each in November and January - to work in the canefields. (Lack of recent publicity about the November departure plus slippage in the final filing date for applicants - originally 20 September, then revised to 30 October - seems to indicate a Brigade problem in reaching published goals). Some later data points to an attempt to increase recruitment to 600, twice the original goal of 300 cane cutters, however, whether this is a smokescreen to allow extension of the filing date or whether it is true that the original number has been attained and more are desired is not clear at this point. Organizers are fuzzy about Brigade financing but have apparently raised several thousand dollars to defray transportation costs should the Cuban regime be unable to do so.

In keeping with the stated agrarian nature of the venture, would-be applicants are warned that the VB is all work - Brigade volunteers will live in the field, in sexually segregated barracks or tents. While free food will be provided, members will live the rigorous life of Cuban farmers and no hanky-panky will be allowed. Strict Cuban laws prohibiting use of marijuana, and other drugs will be enforced and violators will be deported.

VB leaders hope to recruit equal numbers of blacks, whites, and Latin Americans for each trip... "just average Americans who want to see what a revolutionary and socialist society is like," as one staffer put it. The bulk of volunteers is expected to be made up of SDS and Black Panther Party (BPP) members, as well as working class youths, ex-GI's, high school and university students, and drop-outs.

The stress on economic assistance to Cuba by the Brigade Committee has caused at least one U. S. official to deplore the program. Representative Ross Adair (R., Ind.) sees the program as a plot to assist Cuba economically at a time he feels U. S. economic sanctions on Fidel are just beginning to "achieve the desired result of placing such a burden on the Cuban economy that it is incapable of exporting Communist revolutions elsewhere in Latin America." In this regard the U. S. State Department is helpless to prevent the trips. It can deny people the right to travel to certain countries, but recent Supreme Court and appellate court decisions will not allow prosecution of violators. In spite of Congressman Adair's concern for economics, it's pretty clear that the Brigade's raison d'etre is deeply political, with economic considerations playing second fiddle.

The total economic impact of 300...or 600...inexperienced city-folk (nowhere does VB literature indicate American farm youth will be recruited) on Castro's goal to double last year's 4.5-million ton harvest has to be viewed as insignificant. If, as some observers claim, Fidel's power position is now shaky and will vacillate in relation to sugar production, it's reasonable to discount VB canecutting as a stabilizing influence. Some Cuba-watchers feel that the signs of a harvest failure are already there and that even the help of Castro's 50,000man Youth Centennial Column (created in 1968 by the Union of Young Communists to help the country's agricultural sector) cannot reach the 10-million ton goal. Recent campaigns to get high-ranking communists from behind their desks and into the cane-fields is one indicator of Fidel's anxiety about the crop. And even visiting VIP's, like the People's World writer Robert P. Kaufman, have been asked to donate time in the fields. Another signal is stepped-up propaganda describing the growing "CIA-instigated canefield fire and sabotage program."

It's doubtful that any evidence of impending crop problems in Cuba would deter Brigade leaders from their plans; potential political gains far outweigh the economic considerations. Logically, it has to be expected that American radicals will be afforded political indoctrination, a la Castro-style communism, as well as intensive training in such esoteric skills as agitation, propaganda, sabotage and guerrilla warfare. Besides the publicity value which the American presence gives both hosts and visitors, it's a reasonable assumption that one of the real motives of the trip...for the Americans...is to develop a cadre sophisticated in all the arts of revolution. Cuba-loving BPP and SDS members will have little trouble getting top grades.

At this writing there is no data on who will be in the Brigade. Only the organizing leaders have been identified...SDSers Mike Klonsky, Julie Nichamin and Karen Ashley; Arlene E. Bergman, from the radical The Movement; Chicago Newsreel's Jerry Long; Allen Young, of Liberation News Service; LaRaza's Al Martinet; John McAuliff, from the Committee of Returned Volunteers; and David Dellinger of Liberation Magazine and "Chicago 8" fame.

While some of the leaders may accompany the Brigade, other members are unknown at this time. It's difficult to expect that leaders will be able to recruit many of the politically unsophisticated "average" persons they insist they want. The time factor alone presents a serious problem. Few high school or college students could stand a two-month vacation from class (even if school authorities gave permission) and only the most sympathetic of employers would release a worker for that length of time. Brigade members, it would logically follow, will most likely be professional radicals... those with full-time positions in the movement... or come from self-employed professional groups such as physicians, lawyers, dentists, journalists, etc. Scholars able to obtain leave or on sabbaticals, are prime candidates as well as people at the other end of the economic spectrum... the unemployed or partially unemployed. Further refinement of categories would be pure guesswork, but even with this limited analysis, it's predictable that Brigade members will contain very few "average" people. It's more likely to be filled with established radicals of the New Left and Black Power movements, eager to hone their techniques... to develop revolutionary skills... and to return to their native land determined to destroy that land "by whatever means necessary."

The intransigent "Old Left" is still in trouble. Latest victim in the continuing struggles inside socialist organizations... to reconcile differences between basic principles and today's brand of U. S. radicalism... is the Socialist Labor Party (SLP). Never a large or influential party, SLP is splitting... again! And for the same reason as before; its failure to adapt, to cope with and relate to the main currents of America's leftism.

In 1931 it was a similar story - SLP would not join with the then burgeoning trade union movement which was sweeping the country. It was content to sit on the sidelines, shouting "fraud" at workers' gains, since in the view of SLP father-figure Daniel DeLeon, such gains were reformist... capitalist crumbs, dispensed to workers via corrupt labor leaders to still legitimate worker demands against capitalist management. Today's SLP rebels faced the same problem. SLP leadership refused to join with modern leftists and militants; it refused to join in "mass" actions.

Eric Hass, the most notable defector, served SLP for over forty years; since 1938 as the editor of the party organ, The Weekly People. He resigned in April. A portion of his resignation rationale, quoted below, is noteworthy in that it reveals just how deeply the stimulation and potential of the New Left... of black power militancy... has stirred members of the old guard.

"I am personally convinced that there are SLP members who are secretly at odds with the National Office over its hostile attitude toward the Vietcong and toward anti-war protesters. I believe there are SLP members who disagree with the party's antagonistic attitude toward militant blacks and radical student movements, and who believe that, instead of trying to keep the party 'pure' and antiseptic by forbidding any contact with such groups, the party ought to be wrestling with the question: How can we get SLP ideas across to them?

"And there are members who have misgivings over both the erosion of party democracy and the intellectual stultification that is a logical consequence of the substitution of dogma for dialectics, and indoctrination for education."

From this type of blanket condemnation by a long-time party faithful, it's pretty obvious the debate in SLP councils has been concluded. Its leaders have taken refuge again in sectarian DeLeonism, something younger members are unable to stomach. To them, New Left gains and black militancy are waves of the future, not to be ignored by true socialists.

While Hass and other dissenters will form new splinter groups, and join in this wave, it seems safe to predict that SLP can be written off as a viable member of America's left. It failed to learn from its mistakes of the 1930's... and its current policy places it outside the circle of influential (albeit insidious) radical movements today. It's difficult to view SLP as anything but a wholly isolated sect unable to relate to other activist groups or movements.

Reportedly, an invitation has been received from Hanoi for three members of the Women Strike for Peace organization to visit North Vietnam. Cora Weiss, Ethel Taylor, and Madeline Davies are scheduled to make the trip. (FBI 1A 9.3.146)

Also during the third day of the trial, which saw the arrest of defence lawyers Tigar and Lefcourt and the issuance of an order that Kennedy and Roberts be brought to Chicago from California, Black Panther leader Bobby Seale was sternly reprimanded from the bench when he announced in court that if he were denied the constitutional right of legal defense of his choice, he could "only see Judge Hoffman as a blatant racist". Seale has insisted that the trial be postponed until such time as west coast attorney Charles R. Garry, who often represents the Black Panthers, recuperates from a gall bladder operation and is able to represent him; but the Supreme Court, as well as Judge Hoffman, has denied continuance of the case because of Garry's incapacity.

Over the weekend of the 27th-28th, a group of lawyers from throughout the country gathered in Chicago to protest the arrest of the four defense lawyers and on Monday, the 29th, fifty appeared at the courthouse to present their protest. Later in the day, after holding a press conference, this group, whose spokesman is Victor Rabinowitz of New York, President of the National Lawyers Guild, selected a committee to draw up impeachment charges against Judge Hoffman. The group, which will be called "The Ad Hoc Committee of Lawyers to Stop the Trial of the Conspiracy 8", hopes to attract at least five hundred attorneys to Chicago on 7 October to protest "the political-legal repression which is occurring in this trial". (Simultaneously, the San Francisco Branch of the NLG was demonstrating, and demanding Judge Hoffman's impeachment, and announced that it is sponsoring a massive demonstration at San Francisco on 13 October to protest the trials.)

Within the courthouse, on this fourth day of the trial, defense attorney Kunstler submitted a motion in the U. S. District Court that Judge Hoffman should either declare a mistrial or disqualify himself because of his treatment of the defense lawyers; and U. S. Attorneys claimed that the defendants and their lawyers were attempting to try the case in the newspapers rather than in the courtroom. The motion for a mistrial, which was denied by Judge Hoffman, was reportedly based on a newspaper story that Judge Hoffman while in an elevator on his way to the courtroom after a noon break, said in the presence of Washington Post columnist Nicholas von Hoffman: "Now we are going to hear this wild man Weinglass." (Leonard I. Weinglass, a defense attorney scheduled to deliver an opening statement in the case that afternoon). It was reported that von Hoffman was subpoenaed by the defense but that Judge Hoffman stated he did not wish to hear him. Meanwhile, the Judge removed contempt of court charges against the four defense lawyers and permitted them to withdraw from the case.

On Tuesday, September 30th, Judge Hoffman ordered the jury sequestered in a downtown hotel following indications that two jurors had been threatened. The threatening letters, to two female jurors, signed "The Black Panthers", were examined by the Judge in his chambers together with prosecution and defense lawyers; and thereafter, six of the eight defendants charged at a news conference that they were "phony" and part of a continuing government effort to "frame" them. Bobby Seale issued a separate statement denying that his Party had sent the letters and he accused the "Fascist Government" of doing it "because they know that the rotten racist Hoffman has made them look bad". Seale announced in the early afternoon that he had ordered the Black Panther Party to "shut down the trial"; and following that announcement, and against their lawyers' advice, he and Tom Hayden informed the news media that they were calling for a demonstration by the Illinois Chapter of the Black Panther Party to "shut down the trial". Hayden also claimed that Federal authorities had tampered with the jury and that defense attorneys would call for a mistrial.

On Wednesday, October 1st, one of the two jurors who received a threatening letter was excused from the jury when she replied in the negative when asked (after reading the letter in court) if she could still be a fair and impartial juror. The letter, which read "You are being watched" and was signed "The Black Panthers", had been turned over to the FBI by her family; and questioning by Judge Hoffman revealed that the woman had not previously seen it.

Defense attorney Kunstler immediately objected and accused Judge Hoffman of having "led" the juror into saying she could no longer be impartial. The objection was overruled and the twenty-three year old juror was replaced by a twenty-two year old woman, the first alternate juror.

At a noon recess news conference, defendant Dave Dellinger accused the Government of having succeeded in "sandbagging one of the jurors of whom they were afraid"; and stated that it "adds up to collusion between the judge and the Government to deprive us of a fair and impartial juror". Because of her youth, the defense had considered her one of the jurors most likely to be favorable to their case, which will rely, to a degree, on an explanation of the "new youth culture" and the political and social views of young dissidents. The defendants had to concede, however, that the replacement actually lowered the average age of the jury.

The second juror who received a threatening letter remained on the jury, as she stated that it would not affect her ability to be

impartial and she thought it was her duty to remain. A third juror, who had been told of the letter by the second, said she too would remain impartial and she too was retained.

As has been indicated, a number of potentially "big" demonstrations are being sponsored for the coming weeks of the Conspiracy 8 trial, including one for which the Progressive Labor Faction of SDS has been granted a permit to allow 3000 to demonstrate, at noon on 4 October at Buckingham Fountain in Grant Park, Chicago. To date, however, demonstrations on behalf of "the 8" which one of their spokesmen claimed would be "a combination of the Scopes trial, revolution in the street, the Woodstock Festival, and People's Park all rolled into one", have (happily) failed to reach such proportions; and several Conspiracy members have indicated their disappointment in the results so far. The largest turn-out was one of about 3000, two-thirds of whom were black youths. It may be, as one of the Conspiracy 8 said, that the Government's big mistake was "bringing Bobby (Seale) into the trial. It is the same as doubling our support, our constituency. The Blacks wouldn't have been too concerned otherwise. But now they are leading the demonstrations."

During the ninth and tenth weeks of the trial (19 November-2 December) the prosecution continued to present its witnesses against the "Chicago 7"; and on Friday, 5 December, in the eleventh week of the trial, the Government rested its case.

Public interest in the trial, or at least the interest of some segments of the public, has perhaps begun to wane. The New York Times, on 19 November, noted that the spectator section in the courtroom, "which usually has been packed early, was only three-fourths full yesterday and the press section contained only representatives of the Chicago news media."

Defense Attorney William M. Kunstler continued during the week beginning on the 19th, "to attempt to chip away" at the testimony of undercover Chicago policeman Irvin Bock, who infiltrated the leadership of Chicago and National antiwar groups and attended the sessions at which they planned the demonstrations which took place during the Democratic National Convention. Bock testified during an almost week-long cross-examination that he talked with Abbie Hoffman at headquarters of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NMC) on 27 August 1968, and that Hoffman asked if he saw the police car "busted up" in Lincoln Park the night before—commenting that it was a wild scene and adding that more demonstrations were planned for that night (28 August) in the Park. He also testified about a speech he heard Bobby Seale give in Lincoln Park during Convention week.

Considerable argument was heard as to whether or not certain files of the Chicago Police Department's undercover agency (its "Red Squad") should be turned over to the defense. Judge Hoffman originally ruled that records of undercover investigations during the four and one-half months in 1968 covered in the indictment of the "Chicago 7" must be shown to defense lawyers. However, the Judge's order which would have involved the turning over of all reports and names of undercover agents involved, was protested by the Chicago Police Department—it being argued that the surrender of this information "would emasculate the subversion unit of the intelligence division" by revealing the identities of its agents. Judge Hoffman finally modified his original order and ruled in a lengthy opinion from the bench that the subversion unit need not disclose material concerning the case if the agents who collected it are still involved in undercover operations related to other investigations. This he considered necessary to conceal the identity of agents working on investigations of organized crime. The defense reportedly had expected to rebut testimony given by some undercover agents with the reports of other police agents who allegedly provided conflicting testimony.

On 20 November, the defense failed in its effort to prevent the showing at the trial of a three-minute television film taken by a CBS cameraman which pictured demonstrators hauling down an American flag in Grant Park. Defense attorneys argued that the prosecution wanted to show the flag incident "to inflame and prejudice the jury" and claimed that none of the seven defendants had been tied to the planning or the execution of the incident. The prosecution, while conceding that the film showed none of the defendants, said there would be testimony that Rubin was involved in the incident and that it demonstrated "the mood of the crowd" shortly before defendant David Dellinger addressed it.

Joseph Hale, an agent of the Chicago Police Department's subversive unit during the Convention, testified that he heard Jerry Rubin scream, "Kill the pigs" and "Get the pigs" while objects were being thrown at policemen.

On 24 November, the prosecution asked Judge Hoffman to rule that a prima facie case of conspiracy had been proved against the "Chicago 7", claiming that it had established that a conspiracy existed among the seven defendants accused of crossing state lines to start a riot at the Democratic National Convention last year and citing nearly forty instances to sustain its claim.

Defense Attorney Kunstler objected strongly to the Government's contention, claiming that it had not proved the existence of any conspiratorial agreement among the defendants. Judge Hoffman, however, agreed with the Government's claim and was reported to have asked Government lawyers "to prepare additional language to be used in instructing the jury." According to newspaper accounts, Judge Hoffman "will now instruct the jury that any evidence previously admitted against one or more defendants can be applied against all seven of them."

Typical, perhaps, of what may be expected to be the reaction of the court, is the fact that the first defense witness called was terminated by Judge Hoffman without being allowed to testify. Edward Sparling, President Emeritus of Roosevelt University, had been subpoenaed by the defense to testify regarding a citizens report which found Chicago police guilty of "brutalizing" peace demonstrators in April 1968. (This was, of course, months before the violence connected with the Democratic National Convention.) Sparling was chairman of the citizens committee which accused the police of "brutalizing some demonstrators without provocation." The defense maintained that it was in reaction to this "brutalizing" that the defendants undertook protective measures before the Convention began in August 1968. Those measures included holding karate practice sessions, instructing protesters to bring helmets, etc. Government witnesses had cited these measures as evidence that the defendants had intended to cause violence at the Convention.

On 10 December, a woman member of the British Parliament testified regarding her experience outside the Conrad Hilton Hotel on 28 August 1968, that police picked her up and threw her into the police wagon when, upon being told by them "to move along" she replied: "I'm just talking to these young people." The woman, who addressed Judge Hoffman as "My Lord" and told him "Just call me Anne", put on quite a show in the courtroom. She insisted upon being furnished a Bible to swear on, despite Judge Hoffman's statement that there was none in court and that none was necessary; and subsequently demonstrated, in a clear voice, how she had stood on tiptoe in the paddy wagon and sung "We Shall Overcome" out of the paddy wagon window. A policeman on the outside sprayed mace in her face, she said. Judge Hoffman repeatedly cautioned her not to embellish her testimony with personal opinion and personal objections.

Also on 10 December, Cornell graduate student Sarah Diamant, who said she went to Chicago during the Convention to take film for her doctoral dissertation comparing nineteenth century abolitionists with current student activists, was put on the stand as the sixth defense witness to testify about police action in Grant Park and outside the Conrad Hilton Hotel on 28 August. According to the witness, she, her husband, and another Cornell student were filming and tape recording events in front of the Hilton when police charged into the ranks of the demonstrators "beating people and pushing people up against buildings." She said a policeman hit her with his club about the neck and shoulders and beat across the nose a man who tried to help her. She also testified to having been "maced" twice while trying to film confrontations. All six witnesses reportedly agreed that the police initiated the confrontations and used unnecessary force. A film taken by Mrs. Diamant was shown to the court at the request of the defense--portions of which the prosecution objected to as "clearly editorial."

During the day, Attorney Leonard I. Weinglass accused Judge Hoffman of showing favoritism when he refused to permit Fred Gardner, radical writer and editor, to continue to testify about what some of the defendants told him during the Convention. He had already testified that Tom Hayden told him that two policemen threatened to kill him, and had begun to testify about a threat allegedly made against the life of Abbie Hoffman.

On 11 December, the defense presented as witnesses Allen Ginsberg, the "poet", and Phil Ochs, protest singer. According to radio reports, the two nearly succeeded in turning the court into a sort of circus, what with chanting, singing, and playing on musical instruments; and did succeed in causing Judge Hoffman to adjourn the trial. As an account of Ginsberg's confrontation with Judge Hoffman in court can best be appreciated in as full detail as possible, a copy of the New York Times account is attached.

Meanwhile, out of court, the defendants continued to pursue their outside activities--speaking, writing, giving interviews, etc. Tom Hayden, whose latest book "Repression and Rebellion" has just come off the press, wrote in an article on the "conspiracy" trial which appeared in the Guardian on 29 November, "We are attempting to create a political trial this time with wide international repercussions." He commented that the courts, which earlier, "protected our right to continue the struggle", are "today... more nearly the assembly points on the road to detention camps"; and he concluded his article: "Knowing that 'the decade of protest' is over, and our rulers have had their fair trial, can we do anything less than find the Government guilty and sentence it to death and go on with the building of a society of our own?"

her husband, and another Cornell student were filming and tape recording events in front of the Hilton when police charged into the ranks of the demonstrators "beating people and pushing people up against buildings." She said a policeman hit her with his club about the neck and shoulders and beat across the nose a man who tried to help her. She also testified to having been "maced" twice while trying to film confrontations. All six witnesses reportedly agreed that the police initiated the confrontations and used unnecessary force. A film taken by Mrs. Diamant was shown to the court at the request of the defense--portions of which the prosecution objected to as "clearly editorial."

During the day, Attorney Leonard I. Weinglass accused Judge Hoffman of showing favoritism when he refused to permit Fred Gardner, radical writer and editor, to continue to testify about what some of the defendants told him during the Convention. He had already testified that Tom Hayden told him that two policemen threatened to kill him, and had begun to testify about a threat allegedly made against the life of Abbie Hoffman.

On 11 December, the defense presented as witnesses Allen Ginsberg, the "poet", and Phil Ochs, protest singer. According to radio reports, the two nearly succeeded in turning the court into a sort of circus, what with chanting, singing, and playing on musical instruments; and did succeed in causing Judge Hoffman to adjourn the trial. As an account of Ginsberg's confrontation with Judge Hoffman in court can best be appreciated in as full detail as possible, a copy of the New York Times account is attached.

Meanwhile, out of court, the defendants continued to pursue their outside activities--speaking, writing, giving interviews, etc. Tom Hayden, whose latest book "Repression and Rebellion" has just come off the press, wrote in an article on the "conspiracy" trial which appeared in the Guardian on 29 November, "We are attempting to create a political trial this time with wide international repercussions." He commented that the courts, which earlier, "protected our right to continue the struggle", are "today...more nearly the assembly points on the road to detention camps"; and he concluded his article: "Knowing that 'the decade of protest' is over, and our rulers have had their fair trial, can we do anything less than find the Government guilty and sentence it to death and go on with the building of a society of our own?"

Earlier in the day, Judge Hoffman had rejected a defense motion to stop the trial on the grounds that it is having "a chilling effect" on the right to dissent--ruling that the motion was "wholly without foundation." The day's session lasted only two and one-half hours, in order that Defense Attorney Kunstler could argue a case before the Virginia Supreme Court.

On 25 November, tape recordings made during the Lincoln Park rally on 27 August 1968, by a civilian investigator for the Navy who had been assigned to assist the Secret Service in protecting prominent Government officials during the Convention, were introduced over defense objections. The following day, the agent while under cross-examination by the defense agreed that David Dellinger had, in Grant Park, repeatedly pleaded with the crowd to remain calm and not clash with the police.

On 26 November, a day in court described as "tumultuous", Judge Hoffman refused a defense motion for a writ of habeas corpus to release John Sinclair, a White Panther Party leader jailed on a marijuana charge, to permit him to be brought to Chicago as a defense witness. According to defense attorneys, Sinclair, a former Yippie member, was "the only person available in the country" who could testify to the peaceful intentions of the Yippies during the Convention demonstrations. Judge Hoffman, however, ruled that his testimony would be "cumulative" with testimony that could be given by another witness; and commented on the element of danger in bringing convicts from another state. The ruling brought loud angry protests from the defense, notably David Dellinger, Abbie Hoffman, and Rennie Davis; and Attorney Kunstler asked for a recess, stating that his clients wished to discuss "this decision which has shocked and stunned them." The day ended in a shouting match between the lawyers, after Judge Hoffman told the jury he was sorry they would have to be sequestered in their hotel during Thanksgiving. Kunstler leaped up declaring: "It's not our fault. The defense moved to have sequestration ended weeks ago"; and Assistant U. S. Attorney Richard Schultz interrupted saying: "If the defense weren't stalling, the trial would be over now and you would all be home."

On 28 November, following Thanksgiving recess, the Deputy Superintendent of Chicago Police testified that he was attacked by a National Mobilization Committee leader outside the Conrad Hilton Hotel on 28 August 1968; and had met with David Dellinger during demonstrations outside the hotel that evening, to try and work out an agreement to avoid violence. According to his testimony, he told Dellinger the demonstrators would be permitted to continue their rally in the band shell in Grant Park or to march north to Lincoln Park, but would under no circumstances be permitted to march to the International Amphitheater where the Convention was being held. Dellinger told him, "We're going to march. We're going to the Amphitheater. I do not have to listen to you." Dellinger then turned his back and walked away--whereupon the demonstrators suddenly "flooded" into the street and demonstration marshals began shouting: "We're through the police lines; we're out into Michigan Avenue; the street is ours." When confronted by police who headed them off as they marched south, they began throwing "bottles, rocks, ash trays, boards, balls with nails through them, shoes, every conceivable missile." Incidents of spitting and shouting began; the police "responded"; and fighting broke out that lasted about fifteen minutes before the police superintendent was able to regain control of the group of police officers and bring the situation under control.

The Government's final witness, Albert Baugher, an assistant director of Chicago's Department of Human Resources, who was heard on 4 December, testified that several of the defendants expressed willingness to see violence in the streets during the Democratic National Convention. Baugher said he met with David Dellinger the day before the Convention opened and warned him that the planned demonstrations could cause riots. He was told by Dellinger, he said, that the demonstrators didn't care about riots; that they were going to march anyway; and that the riots were Chicago's problem. Abbie Hoffman, he testified, had told him earlier that he was "willing to die in the streets if necessary to open this city up."

Mr. Baugher, whose testimony was regarded by some observers as the most damaging during the ten-week-long trial, had been assigned in the summer of 1968 to help in dealing with the groups planning demonstrations during the Convention; and in that capacity had met several times with a number of the defendants to discuss applications for permits, proposed march routes, etc. At a meeting on 7 August 1968, Mr. Baugher recalled, Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin angrily asked why the city was not issuing them permits to march and to sleep in the city's parks, and were told by him that they had already had at least one permit but had surrendered it. He told them it was his understanding that the Free City Survival Committee, a group of Chicago Hippies, had given up their permit because they feared the planned events in Lincoln Park during the Convention would "not be a festival of life but a festival of blood." At a meeting on 12 August, David Dellinger and Rennie Davis both warned that many Americans were willing to use violence if necessary to obtain their civil rights. During the afternoon of 26 August, in Lincoln Park, Abbie Hoffman warned several times that unless the demonstrators were given facilities for a rock concert, they would "tear this Goddam park apart."; and when several demonstrators began closing in on the police and heaving stones and other objects, Mr. Baugher said he heard Hoffman mutter "This is beautiful, this is beautiful."

Upon completion of Mr. Baugher's testimony which terminated the case for the prosecution, and after his cross-examination by defense lawyers, the defense immediately moved for a directed verdict of acquittal—Attorney Kunstler stating that defense arguments on the request would be extensive. Judge Hoffman replied, "only as extensive as I permit it to be."; and during the following session of court rejected the motion.

Earlier Judge Hoffman had quashed a defense subpoena of confidential FBI records, to include all reports on the defendants and alleged co-conspirators as well as reports resulting from electronic surveillance, and the addresses of all agents and informers. He also quashed a demand that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testify, saying that it was a "fishing" expedition.

The trial of the "Chicago 7" during the presentation of the case for the defense, which began on Monday, December 8, promises to be no less unorthodox than it was during the ten weeks of the prosecution's presentation. In an interview shortly before the defense opened, Tom Hayden stated that the jury will be invited to "commit civil disobedience against the Judge's (final) instructions... Chicago 1968 will be recreated." He said that the "hidden issues" behind the "persecution" of the defendants will be disclosed and that the defense will prove that the seven acted legally and "came to Chicago as participants in the recreation of a new society in the streets... which continues its growth with its own natural laws, structures, language, and symbols." The defense will, he said, argue the necessity of revolution against "dinosaurs controlling an obsolete system."

David Dellinger, one of the "activists" in the Venceremos Brigade which is currently involved in sending Americans (many from U. S. campuses) to Cuba to help harvest the sugarcane crop, has found time to be interviewed at length by Radio Havana regarding the "Chicago 8", their trial and their roles "in the North American radical movement." Typical was his statement regarding Bobby Seale that "He simply stood at the call of his name and asked that he be allowed to cross-examine the witnesses." This, almost word for word, is the statement invariably made in Communist publications in picturing Seale's conduct when he was one of the eight defendants in Chicago. According to Dellinger, as phrased by Radio Havana, "the definite purpose" of the trial is "to smash the growing antiwar movement in the United States," and "to crush the black liberation." Dellinger pointed out that the last time he spoke with Radio Havana was during the Democratic National Convention.

Dellinger and Rennie Davis, co-chairmen of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, on 26 November released a list of 59 U. S. military personnel held prisoner by the North Vietnamese which they had received some days before from a member of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks. Five were not previously known to be prisoners of war and were carried as missing in action. Dellinger said they had had the list "for several days," while they tried to find a way to notify the next of kin; and according to him, the North Vietnamese will make public, through him, the names of other Americans being held. The Department of Defense criticized the pair for not having released the names immediately--pointing out that a collect telephone call to the Pentagon would immediately have provided names of the next of kin.

There has continued to be considerable editorial expression of concern over Judge Hoffman's handling of the case and over his lack of judicial restraint and impartiality--though all concede the strong provocation under which he labors. There has also been at least some editorial expression, even by those on the Left, of the belief that the conduct in court of the "Chicago 8" has been such that they have provoked a reaction which will work against them and their causes. Well-known radical Saul Alinsky has complained that they have committed "the highest form of social treason", which is to engage in actions which bring reactions that strengthen the opposition.

Three months into the school year university administrators, Government leaders, and private citizens are breathing a bit easier. Campus revolt seems to be on the decline. The splintering of once-powerful Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), many observers feel, reduces it to isolated, sectarian struggles, a far cry from its former mass movement capabilities. Militant black campus groups are under attack by students who dislike their reliance on terrorist tactics and reverse racism. Despite such favorable omens, student radicalism is not dead...and it is worthwhile to take a look at the organization which expects to benefit most from New Left disenchantment, an organization which appears to be emerging as the new leader of radical youth - the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA).

There's plenty of evidence to support this contention...that the YSA, youth arm of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party (SWP), has the inside line with campus rebels today. And that's exactly what SWP had in mind when it formed a loose amalgamation of youth, of various left socialist tendencies, in October 1957. By April 1960 YSA had reached the point where official unified direction was needed. The resulting founding convention formed a National Executive Committee (totally SWP composed) which aligned YSA with the "traditions of Marxian socialism as developed by Lenin, Trotsky, Luxemburg and Liebknecht." (Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht, German socialists, were leaders in the 1919 Spartacist uprising.) YSA, in turn, recognized SWP as the "only existing leadership on class struggle principles." Thus, the Alliance became SWP's hope for radical youth leadership and recruiting base for future SWPers.

YSA's "emergence" hinged on several factors. Free of the taint of foreign direction (such as USSR-dominated CPUSA or Peking-lining PLP), it appealed to radical youth with its "Americanism," its concern with national issues and its seeming willingness to peacefully work for change within the system, i. e., via ballot box (YSA supports SWP candidates for national and local office). It ostensibly seeks an American socialist state operating in a world socialist community.

Discipline, enforced by the old left principle of "democratic centralism," is an essential tool of YSA leadership. "We can argue points in our meetings," explained oceanographic major Jay LaVassar, "but after the vote is taken everybody is required to abide by the decision of the majority." Thus, tactical decisions on local issues are made at the campus chapter level, but always within the bounds of national strategy - determined by SWP. To avoid isolation and harsh response from authorities YSA's current tactics require "defensively-formulated demands." YSA views demands like "Shut the University Down" as poor, putting students on the defensive to defend their demand. Rather, clear, reasonable demands, such as "Support Black Control of Black Studies" is good, rallying broad support and putting the university on the defensive. Such demands, in YSA's view, have the added advantage of putting the "onus for any violence that occurs where it properly belongs - on the university administration, not on the students."

At the national level "united front" is the name of the YSA game. Mass support, Alliance leaders feel, requires issues evoking the broadest sympathy and implying majority backing. Peter Camejo (formerly YSAer, now SWPer and non-student leader of Berkeley's YSA chapter) told his audience (YSA educational conference) in mid-1969, "You should try to get everybody who is against the war to work together. The YSA understands that the best way to end this war, and to weaken the ruling class, is to get massive consciousness against the war - and to break the concept that the people against the war are a minority." Trotskyites have always been anti-war (they view war as imperialism's ultimate weapon of oppression) and YSA expanded this anti-war thesis into its central rallying issue. It's "united front" was a loose coalition of youthful anti-war protest movements which now calls itself the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam (SMC). Formed in December 1966 SMC activists led Vietnam Week protests in April 1967; later that year were major participants in the Pentagon demonstration; and in April 1968 organized the nationwide student strike. More recently SMC, operating within the New Mobilization Committee's protest coalition, "got out" the young during November anti-war demonstrations in Washington and San Francisco.

YSA's view that anti-war action is essentially anti-imperialist in character (therefore anti-U. S. capitalism), led it to regard the Vietnam War as its "single issue" around which to rally mass support and provide a base for radical education (a la Trotsky). From its anti-war base YSA attempts to enlarge student consciousness regarding other "imperialistic" tools.

On-campus, YSA issues encompass "institutionalized racism," war related research, ROTC, minority discrimination, corporate "domination" of college administrations and meaningless education. Its program embraces such non-campus issues as support of black power, black control of black communities and anti-draft and GI protest movements.

National reform is only one aspect of YSA. Internationally it joins with dissident youth organs from other countries like the French Jeunesse Communiste Revolutionnaire (Revolutionary Communist Youth) led by Alain Krivine who polled 1.06 percent in 1968 French presidential elections; the German Socialist Students Federation; Belgian Youth Guard; Japan's violence-prone Zengakuren; and Canada's Ligue des Jeunes Socialistes (League of Young Socialists). Three days of wild demonstrations erupted in Berkeley in 1968 as YSA led a coalition of youth groups protesting DeGaulle's treatment of French student rioters. Despite a 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew, over forty persons were injured and 132 arrests were made.

In this hemisphere, YSA's historical support for Castro continues. Fourteen YSAers spent 6 weeks celebrating the Revolution's 10th Anniversary in January-February this year. SWP has apparently recovered from the trauma induced when Cuba gave critical endorsement to Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia. Subsequent SWP-Cuban discussions resulted in continued SWP support for Castro but the vaguely worded communique...which reserved for SWP its "own independent and sometimes differing view on various issues"...conveyed SWP disappointment. After all, Cuba was SWP's model of socialism, "the Socialist example for the development of the colonial revolution," and any USSR support must have been crushing to Trotskyites.

The Cuban compromise highlights the "flexibility" of SWP-YSA politics. Its ability to compromise contrasts with the absolutism of other radicals. For example, YSA usually labels "social democrats" as "reformist" however, it supported Dubcek's social democracy against Red Army occupation and called for Warsaw pact troop withdrawal. Earlier it supported Hungarian and Polish workers uprisings. It views both the USSR and Communist China as bureaucratic revisionists inflicting on workers their own style of oppression.

So... YSA had something for everyone. Even so, its appeals resulted in only minor growth up to mid-1968. Then, as National Chairman Charles Bolduc reported, membership "doubled from 400 to 800 during the last six months of 1968." Some of this spurt can be laid to "switching" by disaffected SDSers and a modest increase in high school members. But most of it apparently stemmed from stepped-up YSA/SMC recruiting coupled with growing sentiment against the Vietnam War. At the 1968 National Convention high school recruiting received additional stress and membership requirements were "relaxed"... in an attempt to swell membership to several thousand and increase campus chapters from 38 to 100 during 1969. There's no indication these goals were met, but judging from YSA/SMC's growing leadership role among radicals (and peace advocates, often well-intentioned, sincere students who are unaware of SMC's role as a Trotskyite front) some increase in both college and high school members can be expected. YSA should also have benefitted by attracting the lion's share of disenchanted SDSers whose own organization disintegrated in mid-summer. Continued modest membership growth can be predicted for 1970, however, most can be expected to come directly from YSA/SMC recruiting, rather than from defecting competitors.

The forthcoming 9th YSA National Convention (University of Minnesota, 27-30 December) will probably contain few surprises. Past success should dictate continuation of present policies. YSA's present single-issue campaign based on an anti-war posture will continue. Massive American troop withdrawal from Vietnam could blunt YSA's main thrust, however, such a withdrawal is not likely in 1970. Expect mass action and united front tactics to continue also. YSA will attempt to strengthen and broaden SMC's role in anti-war actions (as well as on-campus issues) and will stress support to GI-dissenters and draft opposition. High school recruiting will be emphasized again in 1970. The recently enacted draft legislation will, as one YSAer views it, cause a "further extension and deepening of the radicalization in the high schools, the place where the 19-year-olds will come from." Greater effort to involve black and third world minorities in the anti-war drive is anticipated. YSA's "black liberation" program is already receiving a large share of attention at pre-convention educational seminars on various campuses.

While the "old left" may not be as glamorous as recent groups of New Left anarchists, its threat potential may be greater and its aim the same - destruction of American democracy. It is willing to forego immediate change in favor of a program of gradual erosion of democratic institutions. It seeks to build a large base of members and sympathizers to pave the way for revolution in 10, 20, or even 30 years. Socialism's target is today's impressionable youth. The Young Socialist Alliance, SWP's action arm among youth, merits close and continuing attention.

THE EVENING STAR
Washington, D. C., Wednesday, December 10, 1969

This weekend the nation will experience round three in the Vietnam Moratorium Committee's battle to get the troops out of Southeast Asia. To recapitulate, the first moratorium was in mid-October after extensive planning (since at least June) and, from a sinistral point of view was highly successful. The greatest single accomplishment was turning 100,000 people out in Boston Commons. In mid-November the VMC was forced to share the limelight with the New Mobe who, like the VMC in October, had devoted many months to the November protests. The New Mobe dominated November, closely followed by the Student Mobe leaving the once ambitious and perhaps over-enthusiastic VMC little more than a sippet.

VMC leaders, who march to the rhythm of a different drummer, now concede that December will be the last expanded protest (one day in October, two in November, three in December, etc.). Marge Sklencar, one of the four national coordinators recently asked "what could we do for eight days in May."

The December demonstrations planned for the 12th, 13th, and 24th are shaping up to be generally unproductive and dull to the point of boredom. It appears that December will be for the youngsters. They will leaflet shopping center Christmas shoppers, sing Christmas carols (with a peace on earth theme), and promote church services, pray-ins, and sing-ins. All forms of press media (conventional, radical, and underground) have failed to see newsworthiness in the December effort and therefore have not afforded the VMC all the free publicity of last October.

Former Pennsylvania Senator Joseph S. Clark, President of United World Federalists, as well as chairman of the little known and ineffective Coalition for National Priorities and Military Policy has thrown his coalition in with Sam Brown and the VMC and will organize a series of town meetings in several dozen American communities to discuss such over-worked topics as local needs, military spending and Federal taxes.

Although no big names in the communist-radical-peacenik ranks have been publicized for the December demonstration speech making effort there will probably be a few usual, anti-administration, anti-war diatribes around the country. It is hard to imagine Spock, Dellinger, Rennie Davis, Carol Lipman, and many others missing an opportunity to kick the establishment shin.

One may well hear a few more voices singing Christmas songs and may be handed a pamphlet by a youthful hippie at the shopping center but otherwise there will be no excitement this weekend or Christmas eve, except for the usual excitement of the typical American office party.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTCALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

The NMC recently held a press conference to announce plans for a "winter-spring" offensive against the war which would have three themes: 1. Protest repression of dissent and support the rights of the BPP and the "Chicago Conspiracy 7"; 2. Educational program to expose corporations profiting from war and costs of war effects on U.S. citizens to culminate in massive demonstrations on 15 April; 3. Teach and support the legal and moral rights of GI's to refuse service in Vietnam.

*December 13 and 24, Nationally

After the mass demonstration approach of the November 13-15 actions in Washington, D.C., San Francisco, and other major cities the Vietnam Moratorium Committee plans for December called for three days of action split between the 12th and 13th of December and the 24th but on a peaceful, small-sized, low-key, decentralized, individual community level. Reputedly, VMC thinking now is that future VMC-sponsored activities will not be scheduled to escalate a day a month as previously planned nor are they to include mass demonstrations. Plans are to work peacefully through the electoral system and to create dialogue on the Vietnam war. As noted earlier, the plans of the New Move have not been firmed up yet, but it is anticipated that they will entail much more aggressive actions.

VMC activities planned and suggested to local anti-war groups include:

Peaceful "town meetings" in 25 major American cities to discuss the war, to remind local 1970 political candidates that Vietnam will be a major issue, and to encourage adults to take a more active anti-war role;

A deluge of postcards and telegrams to President Nixon urging a faster withdrawal of all American forces;

Peaceful anti-war "USO-type" concerts by anti-war entertainers;

Peaceful silent vigils at shopping centers;

Interdenominational "services for peace" Christmas Eve;

Public "silent night" vigils and Christmas carolling with theme of "Peace on Earth" on Christmas Eve;

Peaceful goodwill visits to Vets Hospitals and military bases;

Visits to home offices of Congressmen pledging support only if they are anti-war; and, broadened contact with the GI anti-war movement.

118SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTVenceremos Brigade Update

While most Americans spend year-end holidays at home or with friends, and several thousands more devote themselves to low-key, hometown anti-war vigils, sing-ins, and peace demonstrations, another much smaller group will be hacking and stacking sugar cane in Cuba's Havana Province. These will be predominantly Black Panthers and members of Students for a Democratic Society, plus other radicalized American youth, all sharing pro-Castro sentiments and opposing what they term U. S. imperialism.

The first Venceremos Brigade contingent was comprised of 216 Americans. Geographically, California's Bay Area provided 50 to 100 youth; 30 came from the Seattle area; D. C. supplied 12; and the remainder came from the New York-Boston and Detroit-Chicago complexes. The average age of Brigade members is in the early twenties, with some teenagers, and a few older men. They paid their own transportation (from personal or contributed funds) to Mexico City during the first week in December, where they immediately boarded Cubana Airline planes for the flight to Havana. Dwight Hankin, 19-year-old Detroit black, was spokesman at the airport for the first group of 74. About 70 percent of the volunteers are white, despite organizers' efforts to attract equal groups of white, black, and brown youth. Half of the travelers are women.

The Brigade "campamento" (tent camp) is located near Aquacate, about a two-hour bus ride from Havana. Its director is Javier Ardizones, international relations coordinator for the Young Communist League, who told the volunteers their presence helped to destroy the U. S. attempts to "Blockade Cuba from the rest of the world." His listeners cheered when they learned the Cuban harvest was dedicated to the people of Vietnam. Afterwards, Americans were issued work shirts, trousers and shoes.

A typical workday begins with the 6:00 a.m. bugle, followed by breakfast (rolls, coffee and milk). Then the 10 sub-Brigades - consisting of Americans and Cuban counterparts (members of a specially formed Cuban Brigade) - march to the worksite, each under a distinctive unit banner. A 7-hour day, 5 1/2 day week is the norm.

Some problems surfaced almost immediately. When women were designated cane stackers, rather than cane cutters like the men, they protested, feeling it might be discrimination. Locals explained both jobs were equally important and productivity would be the determining factor in who did what. Cuba's "emulation" incentive system nettled some Americans. It smacked of "capitalist competition," they felt. This was quickly overcome, according to one radical press report, and the volunteers soon "caught the revolutionary spirit" and worked to out-produce other sub-brigades. Winner of the first week's "Vanguard" cane-cutter award was Charles "Woody" Woodson, 29-year-old San Franciscan. Production for the first two weeks was 194,933 arrobas (an arroba equals 25 pounds of cut cane). Leading "macheteros" besides Woodson, are Clyde Kelly, Clarence "Chip" Sills, Leslie Cagan (or Kagan) and Carol Ann Gilbert. With typical socialist showmanship, week-end ceremonies are held to award individuals and unit merit badges and flags, usually presented by a national labor hero.

Brigade members will work for 6 weeks. The final two weeks of the two-month visit are reserved for recreation including a tour of Cuba, during which cameras and recorders will be busy. Propaganda drums are beginning to beat louder. Havana's Prensa Latina carries taped messages, in English and Spanish, from Brigade members. Mike LaGuardia and Joan Gandini are the interviewers. Three Bostonians, Michael Kaysahn, Neil Birnbaum and Richard Cord (all phonetic) told their friends in the U. S. how Cuba's struggle against U. S. imperialism (typified by the U. S. blockade-breaking harvest) is "the same struggle that we will fight when we get back to the United States." Tom Lee, a Detroitier, wanted to get back home soon to fight against U. S. repression against liberation movements like the Black Panthers.

Undoubtedly, international publicity about the Brigade will increase in January. A major publisher, one observer notes, has contracted to compile a book based on the diaries of interested Brigade members. And a recent news broadcast told of Fidel Castro's visit to the Venceremos camp on Christmas Day (Castro had officially postponed Cuban Christmas festivities until July to allow uninterrupted harvesting operations).

A second Venceremos contingent, hoped to contain about 400 American volunteers, is expected in Havana in early February.

Sociologists and ecologists generally seem to hold that the two great problems facing civilization, namely overpopulation and environmental pollution, develop hand-in-hand. Scientists believe that if we are to survive, as a world, and add to the qualitative dimension of human life, both problems must be addressed, and expeditiously. Birth controls, both pre- and post-conceptional, have been effective in some places but still remain a problem from a technological as well as an ethical moralistic point of view. Although the industrialized world is now showing some slowdown in the birth rate due to improved scientific contraceptive technique and changing laws and moral values regarding abortion, the so-called underdeveloped world (the agrarian economies) has not yet touched the problem, and will be unable to without an outside deus ex machina and an evolving interpretation of morality and religious ethics. Overpopulation then, that implies a quantitative rather than a qualitative human experience, promotes two burdens on the natural order. The first is the very obvious spectre of famine and hunger, which scientists feel they can partially control through existing capabilities (greatly increased protein production, greater crop yield, desalinization, etc.) for several decades at least. The second is environmental pollution.

The pollution of nature is a tiger of a different stripe. The consensus, among all who profess to know the forces of nature, is that mankind doesn't have the time luxury in the pollution arena. Something must be started and soon before a return to relative purity of the air, earth, and waters is irretrievable. The believed imminence of the ecological pollution problem dictates the great probability that the revolutionary wave of the 1970's may well be a coalition to overcome the environmental problems faced by all. Such science and technology, fueled by public arrousal and the massive introduction of money, and oiled by the elbow grease and zeal of the present day activist could reasonably be expected to serve as the stimulus leading to increased international understanding and cooperation, as well as, on the national level, to a transcending of the conflict of generations.

Historically, the concepts that have brought us to "pollution 1970" are complex and ancient. Some ecologically-oriented sociologists and theologians of ecology believe that the world would today be a cleaner place if Baal and other nature gods of the pre-Judeo-Christian era had triumphed over Jehovah. The fundamental teachings of Genesis that man, created in God's image, should have "dominion" over the rest of creation has tended to legitimize man's total exploitation of his environment. Modern Christian thought is more community directed. In the 13th century, St. Francis of Assisi challenged the idea of man's limitless rule over nature and most contemporary theologians of ecology believe that man's "dominion" over creation must be tempered by responsibility and that the raping of natural resources for personal gain is essentially sinful.

Rising concern about the environmental crisis is sweeping the nation's campuses with an intensity that may be on its way to eclipsing student discontent over the war in Vietnam. The administration seems to be on the right track both in President Nixon's Vietnamization programs and in his recent pronouncement that "the 1970's absolutely must be the years when America pays its debt to the past by reclaiming the purity of its air, its water and our living environment. It is literally now or never." The President on New Year's Day signed the National Environmental Policy Act but has deferred additional comment for his State of the Union message scheduled for later this month. Yet to be heard, but certainly necessary, is a money commitment and commissioning of study groups to place the pollution solution in responsible perspective.

The young people, principally the college kids, are moving and Federal Government officials (Senator Muskie, Wisconsin's Senator Nelson and others) seem in concert with them. It would appear now appropriate for the administration to pitch in with what it pitches best - namely money, organization, guidance, and public stimulation. Credit courses in environmental studies are forming in more than a few colleges and action organizations such as the Ecology Action Council at UCLA and the Center for Environmental Quality at Michigan State are off and winging. Gladwin Hill writing recently in the New York Times states "...deterioration of the nation's quality of life is a pervasive, here-and-now, long-term problem that students of all political shadings can sink their teeth and energies into. And they are doing it." Many reportedly are dropping SDS and other anarchist groups and instead are becoming active in the environmental movement. Further, young people seem to view the battle as important enough for all and are welcoming participation of their professors and the extra-campus community.

In a recent article, the underground Los Angeles Free Press characterizes ecology as priority number one and the Berkeley Barb (granddaddy of the Undergrounds) runs a regular column entitled Ecology Notes. The approach, of course, is negative but the thought and impact is there. One item reported recently in the Barb detailed a few suggestions from a hippie organization in Berkeley. Use biodegradable soaps and cleaners or none at all. Don't take a bath everyday (unless you are dirty or stink). Put bricks in your toilet tank to conserve water when flushing. Refuse to buy products in non-reusable containers. Keep a compost heap of grass and tend a park. Don't drive a car.

Already the student environmental front can point to many accomplishments. Student activists played significant roles in the campaigns to save San Francisco bay and the northern California redwoods. They have helped to block the construction of new dams on the Colorado River (which may or may not have been wholesomely motivated and of ecological value). Groups have been formed on many campuses which in the past were more associated with student nihilism and political radicalism - such schools as San Francisco State, Stanford, Wisconsin, Minnesota (recently associated with recognition of homosexual campus clubs), Illinois, Boston University, and many others. Since the philosophy of anarchism is anti-system, and since ecology implies a theoretical system of natural balance and conservation, the environmental movement should not attract the hard core anarchist and should moderate the radical railsitter.

Many of the over-30 environmentalists see the present student enthusiasm as the catalyst if not the main driving force that will get the purification of our surroundings rolling and overcome the older generation's tacit resignation to the status quo. Even the renowned anthropologist, Margaret Mead (allegedly called the "white Goddess" by young anthropologists), best known for her study of Samoan adolescents, 30 plus years ago, continuing to think young despite her 68 years, has urged a new ethic, acceptable to all nations, to hold down the birth rate, while the world gets busy with pollution.

The problem is neither an American one nor a free world one. The smog is settling over eastern Europe and scientists in Vienna, Prague, Budapest and Bucharest have recognized pollution as a major concern in their industrial centers. Fish are dying in Polish rivers and automobile exhaust is burning the foliage off the trees of Belgrade. From the burning of soft coal and other low efficiency combustibles, a Prague scientist estimates that 2.8 million tons of ashes fall on Czechoslovakian cities each year. Bulgaria has reportedly adopted anti-pollution laws (though weak) and progress has been reported in halting the fouling of rivers. Student activism, which for the most part is suppressed in eastern Europe, has not yet figured in the Soviet Bloc's solution of the problem.

William S. White, writing in the Washington Post, reports that in private conversations with many students, physical environment is succeeding "revolt" as a center of student concern. White believes that if the nation's youth can be encouraged further along this road, where their sense of passion against things as they are is both healthy and useful, we shall see a far better new year than had seemed possible only a little while ago.

The usefulness and vitality of the new movement among American youth lies yet a few months ahead. It cannot be determined a priori that the anti-pollution battle will follow a purely constructive line. A case in point was mentioned earlier. Would it have been good or bad from a conservation point of view as well as a technologically efficient use of natural resources to have built those additional dams on the Colorado? Will the student power be properly motivated and will their targets be realistic? These questions hopefully will be answered, at least in part next April. "D-Day" falls on April 22 when nationwide environmental "teach-ins" will be conducted across the nation. Coordination is being handled from the office of Wisconsin's Senator Gaylord Nelson. In any event a wind is blowing across the campus. Hopefully it will be a fresh wind and a fair wind.

"What's The Outlook For The Last Thirty Years Of This Century?"

The Communist Party's (CPUSA) new school opened its doors in November 1969. Its name, the Center for Marxist Education, no doubt reflects the "respectability" Karl Marx's teachings enjoy in today's New Leftish atmosphere (Marx is a must for any really serious dissenter). Part of the Party's bid to build a youth cadre, the school's initial enrollment totaled 325... ranging in age from 25 to 40, and including 39 on full scholarships from the Jim Peake Fund (named for the late sports editor of the Party's Daily World).

Director of the Center is John Gallo, bearded and 32, a sometime musician, and currently Executive Director of New York's Freedom and Peace Party... an amalgam of pacifists, liberals, leftists and other anti-Establishment critics, including Communists, which endorsed baby Dr. Spock for President in 1968. During one interview Gallo refused to concede outright CPUSA control of the Center but said there "was a relation (to the Party)... we name those (faculty members) with Party affiliations... but this is a separate organization." The separation line is extremely blurred. Initial catalog offerings include 17 courses, largely taught by CP functionaries, writers for CP publications and leadership elements of the nearly defunct W. E. B. DuBois Clubs youth front. Lecturers include a number of far lefters with impressive credentials as fellow travelers and sympathizers.

During the first month of operations, students could tune in on CP chairman Henry Winston's "On the Leninist Revolutionary Party" or Party theoretician Dr. Herbert Aptheker's "The Life and Work of W. E. B. DuBois: Their Meaning for Today." Aptheker also teaches a course in Afro-American history. Course material reflects in large part CPUSA concern with areas pioneered by the New Left - World Imperialism; National Liberation and Socialism; Women's Suppression and Women's Liberation; and National Liberation and Socialism in the Middle East. A recent panel discussion ($1.50 admission) featured a "united front" of such diverse feminists as Susan Bellamy (Black Panther Communications Secretary for New York), CPUSA's Clara Colon (Women's Commission), Margie Blake and Doris Doughty (executive board members of the Citywide Coordinating Committee of Welfare Rights) and Peggy Dobbins from WITCH (Women's International Terrorist Conspiracy from Hell).

And the Center has other uses too. Even before the first class convened, while volunteers still painted, wired and plastered, about 150 youth met in the auditorium to plan the January 1970 founding convention of the Party's New Marxist-Leninist Youth Organization - latest CP device to develop youth activist cadres for industrial infiltration and to attract other dissident youth to the Party banner.

It's expected that the Center will follow the traditions of earlier Party "educational" institutions - the Abraham Lincoln School, Jefferson School for Social Science and the California Labor School. It certainly represents one aspect of what seems to be a major rebuilding effort. While still weakened by several factors - its failure to recruit among youth during the 1950's when it went partially underground; its utter rejection by New Leftists; and the internal challenge to Party Secretary Hall's leadership over his support of the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia - the Party now seems to be ready to make a serious bid for radical youth leadership. Recent election endorsements have featured younger members of the Party. Its coalition activities with typically youthful anti-war protestors is another sign. And finally, it is increasing its support to black liberation movements. Both its soon-to-be formed youth organization and the Center for Marxist Education are part and parcel of this vigorous drive.

As has the New Mobe, the VMC has announced that it will, at least for the time being, abandon "massive visibility" demonstrations against the war and instead will concentrate on grass roots political action. The VMC said it would make "thousands and thousands" of political organizers available to support as many as 50 Congressional candidates it considers "sound" on the issue of war and peace.

In a parallel development a group of youthful anti-war and anti-poverty workers announced formation of an organization that is to be called "Referendum '70" to help liberal candidates for the Senate and House win election next fall. The groups claim no rivalry and no schism but it is evident that there will be a heavy overlapping of supporters and goals. While VMC will be pushing for candidates deemed acceptable on the war issue the "Referendum '70" group will be supporting "liberal" candidates running on a variety of issues.

The VMC is abandoning its "cumulative formula" of days monthly devoted to anti-war demonstrations, but instead has designated the 15th day of each month as "Peace Action Day" on which local peace organizations will sponsor local anti-war activities. The first will take place on January 15, the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., when the activity "will focus on the unique and tragic way the Vietnam War affects black Americans."

April 15 will feature "taxpayer rallies" in a score or more cities when demonstrators will protest "the issue of high taxes due to disproportionate military spending." A three-day fast is also scheduled for mid-April, with the money saved from not eating to be donated to "victims of the war, both here and abroad."

The NMC to End the War in Vietnam held a national steering committee meeting in Cleveland on 13-14 December to make decisions regarding its future policy and activity. Rather than disband, this coalition that was responsible for the mass mobilizations in San Francisco and Washington, D. C., on November 15, decided to branch out and will not only protest the war in Vietnam but also war profits, political repression, and the draft. The new emphasis is an obvious effort to radicalize new constituencies recently drawn into the anti-war movement. No massive protests similar to those of November 15 were contemplated for the immediate future, however, smaller mass protests in numerous cities sometime around April 15 are tentatively being considered.

"The committee adopted a tentative three-point program for the new year and subcommittees were established to revise and expand on the points, which were considered approved as to direction but not necessarily as to actual formulation. Here is the program adopted by the steering committee:

'1. Repression (January and February emphasis).
a. Development of Mobe position paper on relation of the war and repression. b. Mobe support for Panther demand that UN investigate genocide. c. Mobe support Conspiracy through organizing People's Juries. d. Mobe support for GI's on trial and civilians who assist them, (deserters, etc.).

'2. Who Pays for the War and Who Profits from the War? Educational efforts cresting on or around April 15 with strikes, anti-inflation picketing and boycotts at groceries, etc.; group tax protests or refusals, visits to IRS offices, tax payments to the poor, etc.; support for strikers resisting efforts of business and government to put the burden of the war on the workers; demonstrations, sitdowns, etc., at offices and stockholders meetings of major war corporations; savings bonds returns (GI's); demonstrations, etc., protesting perpetuation of poverty, low level of welfare and medical payments, etc., caused by the war.

'3. GI's; Pre-Inductees, the Draft, War and War Crimes. Actions on Good Friday (March 27) especially on war crimes, morality, etc., and on Memorial Day with demonstrations at a number of bases - arranged with GI movement. "

*January 9-11, 1970, Chicago, Illinois

The CPUSA has disseminated a document entitled "A Call to Found a Revolutionary Working Class Youth Organization." The founding convention of this new Marxist-Leninist Youth organization was originally scheduled for December 26-28, 1969. Later materials indicate it is now planned for 9-11 or 10-12 January 1970.

The stated purpose of this new, communist-oriented youth organization will be to replace the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs and draw membership from the Young Socialist Alliance. "Intimate contact" will be maintained by the group with the CPUSA.

*January 14, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

The Weekly Action Project plans anti-draft, anti-Vietnam demonstrations at Philadelphia draft boards and Armed Forces Entrance and Examining Station. Activists plan to enter those offices and commit acts of civil disobedience to get arrested.

*January 15, Washington, D. C.

A series of ceremonies and religious services will be conducted to mark the birth of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Despite repeated pressure on Congress, it has not been declared a legal holiday.

The city government has agreed to a liberal leave policy so that city employees can attend various ceremonies. The D. C. teachers union will seek a massive teach-in in District schools and have asked that schools be closed at 1 p.m. to permit students to participate in the SCLC rally at the D. C. Coliseum. Union President William Simons has advised that the teach-in will include programs about King, the "immoral" Vietnamese war and the "racist institutions that govern America."

January 18, New York City

The American Association to Combat Fascism, Racism, and Anti-Semitism has issued a call for a January 18 conference in New York City at the Penn-Garden Hotel, 7th Avenue, and 31st Street from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The call highlighted the "danger of the ultra-right and facism at home and abroad" and, among other things, states that over 400 ultra-right organizations and outlets are encouraged by the military-industrial complex, and the Nixon administration attacks on the news media and hints of censorship.

January 19, 1970, Bcl Air, Maryland

H. Rap Brown, head of the Student National Coordinating Committee, who has been free on $10,000 bond in connection with charges stemming from racial disorders in July 1967 on Maryland's Eastern Shore, is tentatively scheduled to be tried on 19 January 1970. William B. Kunstler, Brown's attorney to defend him on the charges of arson and inciting to riot, is also chief counsel for the Chicago Eight.

January 23-25, Detroit, Michigan

Reportedly, a Republic of New Africa (RNA) conference was held on November 29, 1969, in Brooklyn, New York, and was attended by approximately forty individuals. The conference voted to hold a constitutional convention in Detroit, Michigan, on 24 January. At the conference, the resignation of Robert F. Williams as RNA President was announced. The RNA is a violence-prone black extremist, separatist organization headquartered in Detroit, Michigan. Robert Williams currently resides in Detroit where he is awaiting extradition to North Carolina, on a kidnapping charge. It has been reported that the RNA is currently split into three factions. It is headed by Pontiac, Michigan, black militant attorney, Milton R. Henry, who acted as its leader in past years while Williams was in exile. Henry will probably run for the RNA presidency at the convention.

Spectators returning to Judge Julius Hoffman's Chicago courtroom on 12 December were treated to more of "poet" Allen Ginsberg's creativity, as he recited poetry, with frequent interruptions to chant "Om" - he used this mystical chant, he claimed, to calm crowds during convention disorders. After direct testimony, defense attorney William Kunstler objected to a prosecution request for early recess prior to cross-examination, claiming a delay would cost the defense two witnesses unable to remain in Chicago until Monday. U. S. attorney Thomas A. Foran argued that the defense had been granted recesses after each of 54 prosecution witnesses. Kunstler continued to protest, loudly enough for Judge Hoffman to admonish him for shouting. "I will not sit here and allow you to be disrespectful to this court," said the Judge. Kunstler replied, "Your honor has shouted too." Hoffman ordered his remarks put in the record. Ginsberg chanted "Om" from the witness stand. The Judge ordered him down and recessed the session.

That afternoon, Ginsberg was allowed to recite more poetry, apparently a prosecution effort to get some of his "vivid sexual imagery" and frequent obscenities into the trial transcript. Following the colorful Ginsberg to the stand, William Styron, Pulitzer Prize winning author of "The Confessions of Nat Turner," testified that police "hurled people through the broken window" of a Conrad Hilton Hotel bar and chased people through the bar and into the lobby of the Convention Headquarters hotel.

The trial's thirteenth week (15-19 December) was marked by heightened defense-prosecution histrionics and accusations, courtroom outbursts and harsh rulings by a judge increasingly irritated by defense efforts to make a shambles of his court. Witnesses included a young underground newspaper reporter named Angus MacKenzie, radical activist Linda Morse, Troy (Ohio) Evening News editor and publisher Thomas W. Pew, stage director Jacques

MacKenzie, 18, admitted lowering the American flag to half-mast during a Grant Park rally 28 August 1968 and said four to six policemen seized him and repeatedly beat him with nightsticks. When defense counsel Leonard I. Weinglass submitted four photographs of the arrest as exhibits, prosecutor Foran objected, claiming three of the four pictures had no borders, strongly suggesting they had been "cropped" (a darkroom technique to eliminate unwanted negative detail from a finished print). Judge Hoffman upheld the objection "without prejudice to the defense's right to introduce them in the future, if they could produce the photographers who had taken and printed them." At the words "without prejudice" laughing and snickering broke out in the defense table area. Hoffman pointed at Stuart Ball, a young lawyer assisting the defense (and nephew of George Ball, former U. S. Assistant Secretary of State and Ambassador to the United Nations), ordered him removed from the room and excluded from future trial participation. Kunstler loudly protested, claiming he needed Ball. Hoffman reminded him that Ball was not admitted to practice before his court. When Kunstler said Ball was admitted to practice in the District of Columbia, the Judge suggested Ball go there and practice.

At this point defendant David Dellinger rose and told Hoffman, "You're being very prejudicial and unfair, you're the assistant prosecutor; maybe the chief prosecutor. You're depriving us of a fair trial. That's why I call this a Fascist court. We're interested in the truth and you're not, and that's what the conflict is here." Several spectators shouted, "right on" - a slogan used by supporters of black liberation and anti-war movements. Federal marshals removed the shouters.

Linda Morse's appearance as a witness was significant. It marked the first time jurors were given an extensive insight into the politics of a radical. While insertion of political beliefs into the trial had earlier been forbidden, prosecution lawyer Richard Schultz questioned Miss Morse (also known as Linda Dannenberg) extensively about her radical philosophy. After direct testimony about activities during convention week, during which she often contradicted testimony of Government witnesses, Schultz used her September 1969 interview with Playboy magazine as a basis for cross-examination. Morse told him how she moved from her earlier pacifist beliefs to an anarchist position after viewing the events in Chicago (Morse had been a member of the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee and a National Coordinator of the Students Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam). "What I saw going on at the convention convinced me the political process in this country was falling apart," she said. She said she also told Playboy, "This country is going to have to be changed radically through a revolution, and the revolution will entail the use of violence, both to defend ourselves and to tear down the establishment." When Schultz asked her if she was prepared to die and kill for the revolution, Morse at first said she was, but added "only for self-defense." Later, she said, "I still don't know whether I could kill anyone - I haven't reached that point yet."

The Convention radicalized her, she claimed, and "Eventually I see a need... There's no way out... for people to use weapons in guerrilla warfare." She admitted she was learning to use an M-1 rifle and practicing karate, presently for self-defense, but perhaps for use one day in a revolutionary situation. Mayor Daley's refusal to give radicals permits and actions of police and National Guard troopers convinced her, she said, "that the system couldn't be changed, that the police state that existed outside the convention also extended inside, that we would have to defend ourselves or be wiped out." She conceded she had told Playboy, "The more I realize the system is sick, the more I want to tear it limb from limb," and mentioned the "horrors perpetrated by this Government," such as the "murder" of Black Panther Fred Hampton (killed two weeks earlier in a police raid on Panther headquarters in Chicago), "starvation of millions of children" and "pollution caused by off-shore oil drilling."

In a courtroom strangely quiet, jurors and spectators strained to hear Miss Morse's soft spoken explanations. Defense attorneys never objected to Schultz's questions. They obviously welcomed the injection of "politics" into the trial, a tactic which follows closely defendants' claims that they are political prisoners, not criminals.

"Our defense is, first of all, to focus on the intentions of not only the defendants, but everyone who came to Chicago. We will bring in expert witnesses on imperialism, racism, youth culture, and the Democratic Party. The area we'll concentrate on is our politics: what's this crisis about, what's the showdown about, in this decade.

Judge Hoffman will obviously throw a lot of that out since he's not interested in hearing what really went on, but we'll get the word out through press conferences."

Rennie Davis

Dock of the Bay, 25 November 1969

While some of Miss Morse's attempts to offer fuller explanations of her beliefs were stopped by counsel as "unresponsive" and expunged from the record, the jury got an eye-opening account of what radicals want and how the more militant variety intends to use violence to gain objectives.

Newspaperman Pew said he saw two policemen push a youth into a revolving door at the Hilton Hotel, jam it partially shut with their feet and strike the trapped youth 20 to 30 times with their nightsticks. He told Kunstler he wrote letters about the incident to Mayor Daley, Milton Eisenhower and Ohio Democratic Senator Steven M. Young. Before he could tell of any replies to his letters, Judge Hoffman upheld prosecution objections of "irrelevancy." Under cross examination, Pew said he saw none of the violent acts of demonstrators about which Schultz questioned him. Schultz asked him if he'd seen demonstrators throwing chunks of nail-studded concrete, but Kunstler objected that such questions were "fanciful," without foundation in testimony. At that, Schultz produced a styrofoam ball with two inch nails driven through it and asked Pew if he'd seen objects like it thrown by demonstrators. Kunstler again objected and charged that police had "fabricated" the object. Schultz said the Government would present evidence that the ball had been found at the site of a police-demonstrator clash which was the climax of the convention disorders.

Later, Judge Hoffman refused more than a one-day Christmas break in the trial. The defense had requested a 2 1/2 day recess allowing jury members a holiday weekend at home (they had been sequestered in a hotel since the trial started). Hoffman also refused the plea of Stuart S. Ball, President of Montgomery Ward and Company (and a long-time friend of the judge) to reinstate his son Stuart whom Hoffman had banished from the trial earlier.

Jacques Levy testified he helped plan the Yippie (Youth International Party) "Festival of Life" with defendants Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin. This Festival attracted several thousand young people to Chicago during the Democratic Convention and violence erupted when police tried to clear them from Lincoln Park. Cross-examination of Levy concentrated on his successful staging of "Oh Calcutta," focusing on its celebrated nude scenes.

The week ended as it began - with shouting. In a strange bit of courtroom drama, Judge Hoffman indicated he didn't know what a "love in" was when Timothy Leary, "high priest of LSD," was on the stand. When Attorney Kunstler asked Leary to tell the court about one, the prosecution objected, and Hoffman upheld the objection. Leary had told the court that Hoffman and Rubin expressed their fears about police violence as early as January 1968 when they formed the Youth International Party (Yippie). According to Leary, the defendants wanted to bring the "politics of love" to the convention as an alternative to the Democratic Party's "politics of death." Leary's mention of first meeting Rubin and Hoffman at a "love-in" prompted the Judge's question.

Friday's afternoon session was the most tumultuous of the week. It began as Kunstler asked Chicago Daily News photographer Paul Sequeira about incidents occurring in the early morning hours of 27 August 1968. U. S. Attorney Schultz objected before the witness could reply, arguing that the incident was the subject of a case already tried and decided in another Federal court (the Linstead Case, in which 8 Chicago policemen were indicted on charges growing out of assaults on demonstrators. All but one of the defendants had been acquitted). Schultz claimed it was improper to re-try that case during the conspiracy trial, that it had no relation to charges against the defendants. Kunstler disputed this, saying it was related and that the guilt of the policemen should be exposed at this trial. He claimed the Government's case in the other case was a "sham prosecution to begin with." "You cannot convict a police officer in the city of Chicago," he said. "Don't speak for me," Judge Hoffman interrupted, "I have convicted a policeman." Attorney Foran said Mr. Kunstler should have handled the matter differently, "if he was even a decent man." At this, both defense counsels rushed to the lectern, demanding the Judge admonish Foran. Hoffman refused, and ordered Marshals to seat one of the counsels. Finally, Hoffman dismissed the jury, then told the lawyers he would research the Linstead case over the weekend and decide whether the witness would be permitted to respond to defense questions.

Outside activities of trial defendants continued to make news during the week. On 18 December Rennie Davis addressed a DeKalb, Illinois Student Mobilization Committee rally and told his 1,100 listeners that Memorial Day was to be celebrated on Army posts by "long hair students and short hair GI's." And on 15 December three weapons (possession) charges were dismissed against Abbie Hoffman in Manhattan Criminal Court. These charges grew out of a police raid in March 1969 on Hoffman's apartment, but the District Attorney's office told the Judge it had insufficient evidence to prosecute.

Weeks number 14 and 15 (15 December-2 January) of Chicago's conspiracy trial belonged, mostly, to 33-year-old Yippie leader Abbott (Abbie) Hoffman, first of the defendants to take the stand. His direct testimony, interrupted by a five day bout with bronchitis, was the first serious defense effort to convince jurors Hoffman's cult of Yippies (and his Youth International Party) was a myth, a great hoax, a "put-on" to which Chicago police over-reacted with brutality and violence. Prosecutors countered during cross-examination, to prove Hoffman and his Yippies were intent on violence and tried to carve out a "liberated zone" in the heart of Chicago during the convention where laws would be suspended and people could do as they pleased.

As soon as Hoffman took the stand it became apparent the open hostility between defense and prosecution would continue. When counsel Leonard I. Weinglass asked his name, Hoffman replied, "My name is Abbie. I'm an orphan of America." Prosecutor Richard Schultz objected, requesting the record show defendant Hoffman was on the stand. Judge Julius Hoffman so ordered, noting Hoffman was the name on the indictment. Another argument erupted when Weinglass asked where the defendant lived. "I live in the Woodstock Nation," he said. (Woodstock Nation, the title of a book written by Hoffman, takes its name from the rock festival attended by several hundred thousand young people last summer in upstate New York.) Schultz protested the reply was unresponsive. Witness Hoffman explained that Woodstock Nation was not a place, but a "state of mind" - "a nation of alienated young people which we carry around with us in our minds just as the Sioux Indians carried around the Sioux Nations in their minds."

"Just tell us where you live," said the Judge, "Nothing about philosophy or Indians." When asked his age, Hoffman said he was physically born in 1936 but that psychologically he was born in 1960. To another question he replied, "My occupation is a cultural revolutionary, but I'm really a defendant full-time." And so it went. Each whimsical reply eliciting a prosecution objection, as Weinglass attempted to have his witness give his view on youth culture, the generation gap, hippies, yippies, guerrilla theater and "the politics of ecstasy." At one point, Schultz charged, "I know the game the witness is trying to play here, but Mr. Weinglass shouldn't play along with him." Both defense counsels protested that they were not playing a game, that this was "serious business" to the witness and other defendants.

Later that day, William M. Kunstler, defense counsel, charged the Government was preparing to "launch an assault" against the jury by seeking the removal of one of the jurors. He identified Mrs. Jean Fritz, a Des Plaines, Illinois, housewife, as the target. U. S. attorney Schultz conceded he had information about a juror which was currently being investigated and would report to the court when it was completed. This news apparently caused concern among the defense since Mrs. Fritz is considered by the defendants as the juror most favorable to them.

The defendants seem always busy. In its 23 December issue, the New York Times carried a group photograph of the "Seven," reporting they had posed for a greeting card the day before. The card's message: "Make a New Year's Revolution - Join the Conspiracy."

After Hoffman was hospitalized on 24 December, the Judge frustrated renewed defense attempts to obtain a 4-day holiday break, by ordering a 26 December hearing to determine Hoffman's condition (by a court-appointed physician). Defense refused to waive the witness's right to be present so the trial could continue and indicated they intended to call Chicago Mayor Daley as a witness on 26 December. After hearing from the doctor on Friday, Judge Hoffman recessed the trial for the weekend. Jurors, sequestered in a downtown hotel, joined with U. S. Marshals in a Christmas Eve party and exchanged gifts. They also made monitored telephone calls to their families on Christmas Day.

Abbie Hoffman returned to the stand on 29 December, as colorful as ever and apparently still a bit groggy from sedatives ("It ain't my usual stuff," he said). Seemingly serious for the first time since taking the oath, Hoffman recounted for defense counsel Weinglass events leading to the Yippie's role at the Convention. The term "Yippie" is derived from Youth International Party, but Hoffman said the party never existed. "It was a 'out-on' for the media," he claimed. "Everybody would think we were a big international conspiracy when actually we were just a party where everybody was having fun." The so-called Yippie office and staff at 32 Union Square (New York City), he claimed, was actually an "energy center" where a "tribe" or "family" operated. Yippie activities preceding the convention were, as Hoffman put it, "a trip to Appleton, Wisconsin, to summon the spirit of the late Joseph McCarthy to join the Democratic Party" and a "mock raid on the campus of Stony Brook."

Prosecutor Schultz objected that any "mock raid" was irrelevant to charges against the defendant. Weinglass countered that defendants were being tried for their "state of mind" when they came to Chicago and that to defend themselves they had to explain how that state of mind developed. Judge Hoffman sustained the objection. The witness said, "You missed a good story."

Hoffman claimed Yippie leaders planned no violence during their "Festival of Life" in Lincoln Park during convention week. They came to Chicago, he said, to "put on a little circus" and "bring a kind of life-style" to the convention. He claimed an exhortation "to fight and die here" in a pamphlet he wrote in advance of the convention, was only metaphorical, and that pre-convention week training for anti-war protestors in karate, snake-dancing and how to fall down were "just silliness." Yippies saw politics as "what people did with their lives, what they did with their money, how they related to each other," Hoffman said. This view didn't sit well with other radicals, he claimed, who took their politics seriously. When Hoffman called for a totally free society, in which "even pay toilets would be abolished," other radicals didn't like it, he said.

The witness denied he fought with police, threw rocks or built barricades in Chicago. He said he even urged others to obey police orders to leave at curfew time. "When they (the police) came in swinging and shooting gas," he told the jury, "I took off."

Under cross-examination Hoffman agreed that part of the Yippie myth involved the concept of "liberated areas," places where people could do whatever they wanted to. He also conceded that Yippies had experimented with that concept twice in New York during the spring of 1968, at a "Yip-In" in Grand Central Station and at a "Yip-Out" in Central Park. After first answering "No," Mr. Hoffman then agreed that Yippies had tried to create another such zone in Lincoln Park but he wrangled with prosecutor Schultz over definitions of "liberation," "control" and "freedom." When Schultz suggested Yippies wanted zones without laws where young people could commit all sorts of crimes against public safety and morality, Hoffman argued that "it was not so sinister as your tone implies." Liberated zones, he contended, were largely in "peoples minds."

Hoffman maintained that Yippies were perfectly capable of policing themselves and had not sought lawlessness in Chicago. They wanted police only to be more "permissive in applying laws about what people did with their own bodies," Hoffman said. Schultz continued to suggest that Hoffman and other Yippies really sought a virtual suspension of Chicago's laws, something the city could not be expected to grant.

During his second day of cross-examination witness Hoffman attempted to show Schultz that his statements about impending violence before the 1968 convention were merely predictions, not directives to Yippies. "Did you intend to create a state in which the city had to bring in the Army and the National Guard to protect the safety of the delegates and make it look as though the convention had to be held under military conditions?" asked Schultz. "No," replied Hoffman. "You can do that now with a yo-yo in this country. You can see that from this courtroom - police all around... that was not a plan. I was aware that it would happen because I knew this country."

On 31 December Judge Hoffman agreed to an early recess when witness Hoffman said he felt weak from his bout with bronchitis. Another defendant, Lee Weiner, busied himself during that day, autographing poster-sized cards at the defense table. The cards showed a photograph of Weiner and a woman named Sharon, who had also signed them, nude in a coital embrace. The card's caption: "Make a New Year's revolution, kids! It'll bring you closer together."

In another development, the court was told of possible illegal activities by a jury member. U. S. Attorney Thomas Foran presented affidavits from two campus policemen at Northern Illinois University stating that on December 18, after a speech by defendant Rennie Davis, a girl in the audience stated that her mother was a jury member and said her mother had told her that "the Government has given no proof that would convict the Chicago Seven." Although the jury member was not named, the affidavits probably refer to Mrs. Jean Fritz who was named by defense attorney Kunstler on 23 December as the subject of a Government investigation. Judge Hoffman accepted the affidavits as part of the case file, pending further action in the matter.

Hoffman also was questioned about his alleged plan to kidnap a high-ranking Chicago police officer (Deputy Superintendent James Rochford). Hoffman refused at first to reply, citing the Fifth Amendment. Counsel Weinglass objected to questions relating to Hoffman's activities on 29 August, recalling he had asked no questions on direct examination about that date. Schultz said Weinglass opened the subject earlier by asking Hoffman a broad question on whether he was guilty of the acts he was charged with. (As well as being tried for "conspiracy" each defendant is charged with an overt act... Hoffman's is the alleged kidnap attempt.) Weinglass's previous question did not mention the indictment or the overt act. Nevertheless Judge Hoffman overruled defense objections and Weinglass claimed the Judge's action was unprecedented. "This is the first time in the entire trial that Your Honor has allowed cross-examination beyond the scope of the direct examination," he claimed. Judge Hoffman ordered him to be quiet. When he persisted, a Federal Marshal was ordered to forcibly seat him. Hoffman, after the question was again asked, replied, "I consider that an unfair ruling and I won't answer. I take the Fifth Amendment," Schultz said Hoffman waived his Fifth Amendment privilege the day before. Judge Hoffman agreed and ordered the witness to answer. Hoffman retorted, "In all my years on the witness stand I've never heard anything like that." Hoffman denied he said, "Let's hold the cat (police officer) and then we can do what we want." He claimed statements attributed to him were taken out of context and that testimony given by Government witnesses that he urged crowds in Lincoln Park to use broken bricks for weapons was "an absolute lie." He did admit joining a protest march on 29 August and when it was stopped by the National Guard, he had lain down in front of a "tank" with his middle finger in the air.

Prosecution questions were an effort to break the defense contention that Abbie Hoffman is just a "put-on," that he's not real, and that much of his actions and statements are a big joke.

More vituperation erupted on 2 January when defense attorneys conducting redirect examination of Hoffman attempted to introduce a 17-minute film into evidence. Weinglass called the film "essential" since it showed Abbie Hoffman's state of mind. He conceded it was not serious, but "neither was the Yippie myths," he claimed. The Hoffman-produced film was made in response to "What Trees do They Plant" (a film made by the City of Chicago to rebut criticism of its actions during convention weeks and to show the demonstrations grew out of a conspiracy). Entitled, "The Yippies Come to Chicago," the film shows clips of Mayor Daley's news conferences (those in which he made verbal gaffes) interspersed with footage of battlefield and orgy scenes from old movies, clips from Keystone Cops comedies and clashes between demonstrators and police. It also included a mock nomination of a pig for the Presidency and a demonstration of a police billy smashing an egg, a tomato, an eggplant and a Yippie helmet.

After refusing to admit the film into evidence (Judge Hoffman had dismissed the jury during its showing), Schultz was permitted to question Hoffman at length about statements made in his book, "Revolution for the Hell of It." The book described in some detail the Yippie view of convention events. Defense counsels objected loudly at this. The Judge had not permitted the defense to introduce the book as evidence earlier, but now gave Schultz permission to use it in cross-examination. He also permitted Schultz to question Hoffman about statements he allegedly made more than a year after the Convention disorders. Weinglass contended such statements could not possibly reflect Hoffman's state of mind or intent when he came to the convention in 1968. Defense objections were overruled.

As the week ended, counsel Kunstler announced that Mayor Daley would not be called until January 6.

The American Association to Combat Fascism, Racism, and Anti-Semitism has issued a call for a January 18 conference in New York City at the Penn-Garden Hotel, 7th Avenue, and 31st Street from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The call highlighted the "danger of the ultra-right and facism at home and abroad" and, among other things, states that over 400 ultra-right organizations and outlets are encouraged by the military-industrial complex, and the Nixon administration attacks on the news media and hints of censorship.

January 23-25, Detroit, Michigan

Reportedly, a Republic of New Africa (RNA) conference was held on 29 November 1969 in Brooklyn, New York, and was attended by approximately forty individuals. The conference voted to hold a constitutional convention in Detroit, Michigan, on 24 January. At the conference, the resignation of Robert F. Williams as RNA President was announced. The RNA is a violence-prone black extremist, separatist organization headquartered in Detroit, Michigan. Robert Williams currently resides in Detroit where he is awaiting extradition to North Carolina, on a kidnapping charge. It has been reported that the RNA is currently split into three factions. It is headed by Pontiac, Michigan, black militant attorney, Milton R. Henry, who acted as its leader in past years while Williams was in exile. Henry will probably run for the RNA presidency at the convention which will undoubtedly be an extremely volatile affair and could result in a complete separation of some of the factions.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTHIGHLIGHTS

I. The Washington Committee to Defend the Conspiracy met on 5 February 1970, and discussed plans for "TDA" (the day after the verdict in the trial of the Chicago 7). This meeting and earlier ones were led by Richard Davis (brother of Rennie, one of the Chicago defendants) and one Betty Garman, a protest activist who reportedly was one of those arrested during the mid-October "Weatherman" riots in Chicago. A reliable source of information reflects that the 14 persons attending the meeting decided that "TDA" action will start at 4:00 p.m. (evening rush hour to increase disruption) on the day following the verdict. Demonstrators will march from George Washington University to the Watergate Apartments where Attorney General Mitchell resides. The demonstrators will not apply for a permit and plan to confront police if stopped. The demonstration is planned to humiliate and embarrass the attorney general. If not locked out, they will tour (and probably vandalize) the Watergate to "see how the ruling class people live."

At the same time as the Watergate march, a synchronized "diversionary group" is scheduled to march on the Department of Justice building where they will place a "For Sale" sign. The Washington Committee expects from 1,000 to 1,500 participants (probably an exaggerated estimate).

In previous meetings (late January and early February) a number of alternative action strategies were discussed and may still be in the committee's protest bag. The alternatives included the placing of anti-war signs on the Iwo Jima Memorial, a demonstration at the house of J. Edgar Hoover, throwing ketchup-filled balloons at the Watergate Apartments and holding a "Guerrilla Theater" play entitled "The Rape of Justice." In this presentation actors portray the attorney general and other politicians who "rape" justice, a role played by a girl.

At one of the earlier meetings, Betty Garman (mentioned above) advised that she had checked out a building belonging to CIA as a possible demonstration site on "TDA." No additional details, or the location of the CIA building Garman had in mind, are known at this time.

The exact date of "TDA" is not definitely ascertainable. The case will probably go to the jury late Thursday or Friday. Because of the mass accumulation of testimony, the jury will be virtually unable to come to a quick verdict. Further, they may or may not deliberate on Sunday. The best guess is that the verdict will not be rendered until Monday or Tuesday (16 or 17 February) at the earliest. Committee leaders promise "TDA" demonstrations regardless of conviction or acquittal. "TDA" activities are also planned in other cities.

II. The founding convention of the new CPUSA political youth organization was held at Chicago between 7 and 9 February. The convention, attended by about 400 delegates, claims a current membership of 800 in 30 urban areas. It is expected that the new organization (designed to replace the monolithic and moribund W. E. B. duBois Clubs) will not ostensibly be tied to the parent as tightly as its predecessors have been thus, hopefully, being more attractive to the nondoctrinaire and multi-varied Marxist adolescents. The new organization's name (in typical CPUSA character) is Young (Communist) Workers' Liberation League (YWLL).

III. The New Mobe met recently and announced their "winter-spring offensive." They will not attempt, during this period, to stage another mass demonstration on the order of last November 15, at Washington, D.C., and San Francisco. Instead, the New Mobe leaders plan smaller protests centered in many American cities and hitting hard at certain themes at certain times.

The first effort comes next week (14-21 February) allegedly in 100 U.S. cities and is obviously designed to encourage more Negroes to take part in future anti-war activities, an area in which the New Mobe umbrella has failed dismally to date. An additional emphasis is aimed at what the New Mobe calls political prisoners. The political prisoner issue will tend to highlight the plight of the Black Panthers, the Dow Company trespassers (the D.C. 9) and, of course, the Chicago Conspiracy 7. Most, if not all, of the Chicago 7 are wheels in the New Mobe, most especially world traveller Rennie Davis and admitted revolutionary communist David Dellinger. Although the two February causes (repression of blacks and political prisoners) will be staged throughout the country, the main focus will be on Chicago and Washington, D.C. Either by design or designed coincidence, New Mobe February demonstrations will undoubtedly overlap with TDA activities planned by the Washington Committee to Defend the Conspiracy. Such coordinated planning will probably increase the mob size and has already resulted in added news media (free) publicity.

During the week, Mobe leaders plan teach-ins, marches and rallies against "Nixon's repression," climaxing on the last day, 21 February, with a mass march to the D.C. courts. On February 18, a demonstration is scheduled for the Justice Department building. Demonstrations will include guerrilla theater skits and mock trials designed to embarrass U.S. District Judge Julius Hoffman and Government officials. It is also reported (reliability unknown) that on the 21st protestors will infiltrate the regular FBI tour and attempt to disrupt and embarrass that bureau.

9 Feb 1970 Movement

The New Mobe, which falsely claims to advance a peace in Vietnam major theme (but actually is directed toward a communist revolution in America) represents more than 100 peace interested organizations ranging from the National Council of Churches to the CPUSA. In its "back to the grass roots" winter-spring planning, March will be anti-draft and April anti-income tax. In March New Mobesters will try to disrupt as many draft boards as possible through a "dialogue of confrontation." During the week (16 to 22 March) the 19th has been selected as the day of large scale, nonviolent confrontation with draft board employees. The April week (13th through the 19th) will deal with the Vietnam impact on the economy and will encourage tax resistance and the withholding of income taxes. More information on March and April events will be forthcoming in subsequent Situation Information Reports. Plans for Easter weekend are still vague and contradictory, but the peaceniks will certainly not miss the chance to exploit the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Although individually sponsoring separate activities, the three main coalition umbrellas of anti-war, anti-establishment dissidents: the New Mobilization Committee, the Student Mobilization Committee, and the Vietnam Moratorium Committee: are jointly supporting one another's actions and with heavy overlapping of membership and leadership, most activities will represent combined effort. As part of the "back to the grass roots" winter-spring planned activities, March is intended to be highlighted by concentrating on anti-draft actions with the emphasis in the week of 16-22 March. The 19th has been selected as the day of large scale, non-violent confrontations with draft board employees.

A National Black Referendum on Vietnam has been organized to allegedly determine whether or not Black people favor the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam. According to one piece of organizational literature, "Official voting will begin Palm Sunday, 22 March, and continue daily that entire week, ending on Easter Sunday, March 29, at 2 p.m. Voting stations will be all Black churches participating in the campaign, in every Black community throughout the entire U.S." Supplied by the organizers of the Referendum is a kit of literature giving instructions on propagandizing and conducting the Referendum and expressing a strong stand against the war. The likes of Ossie DAVIS, Julian BOND, LeRoi JONES, Dr. George WILEY, and H. Rap BROWN are on the National Executive Council of the Referendum. Irving DAVIS of SNCC is one of the national program coordinators.

How many "votes" will be tallied is conjectural but not the result--which will obviously show almost all those voting to be for the ballot's one simple proposition: the total, immediate withdrawal of all American troops and money from Vietnam.

23-26 March - 8:30-10 p.m. EST, National Educational TV

National Educational Television (NET) will devote an unprecedented 6-hour block of prime time March 23-26 for the showing of "Trial--The City and County of Denver vs. Loren R. Watson." The documentary marks the first time that the complete scope of a single trial is examined on an American television program.

The program is broken into four 90-minute portions to correspond with the trial's four days. As a result, the usual NET schedule has been preempted so that these portions may be presented on successive nights (Monday through Thursday) from 8:30-10 p.m. EST.

Loren Watson, the defendant in the trial, was arrested by a Denver patrolman and charged with resisting and interfering with a police officer. "The issue has national implications, involving police and Panthers, the American system and the blackman," notes Don Dixon, NET's director of public affairs programming. "The case is really a microcosm, reflecting one of our country's most critical concerns." The antagonism between Watson and the Denver police forms a subcurrent within the trial and is a basis of Attorney Leonard Davies' defense of Watson.

"We wanted to represent the ritual drama of American justice," says producer Robert M. Fresco. "Therefore, everything within the trial is placed chronologically in the documentary." Within four days, Fresco has interspersed interviews with Watson, Davies, Judge Zita Weinshienk, Assistant City Attorney Wright Morgan, prosecutor in this case, and police officer Robert C. Cantwell, who made the charge against Watson.

The University of California Ecology Action organization at the Berkeley campus is staging a "survival walk" from Sacramento to Los Angeles. Between 100 and 200 marchers are expected to participate with other persons joining for rallies along the way. A major stop is planned at Delano, center of the chronic grape pickers labor strife. Presently, along the ecology line, Mexican-American grape pickers are protesting the use of pesticides in the field. The "survival walk" will terminate on Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, probably on 1 May.

25-29 March, Denver, Colorado

A major conference of Chicanos will be held in Denver at the end of March. The conference is sponsored by the militant Crusade for Justice, a leading Chicano force in the southwest headed by Corky Gonzalez, and will run from March 25-29. Chicano groups are expected from all parts of the country. Puerto Rican activists have also been invited. It is the second such Chicano parley. Last year a Chicano conference in Denver drew 1500 persons. A three day Chicano Youth Conference March 25-27 will open the parley.

On March 28, Chicanos will convene to discuss El Plan de Aztlan which calls for the formation of an independent local, regional and national Chicano political party. The National Congress of Aztlan has been called for March 29. The congress will discuss a program for a nation "autonomously free, culturally, socially, economically and politically." El Plan de Aztlan provides the underlying theme for the conference. The program says that Chicanos "must use their nationalism as the key or common denominator for mass mobilization and organization."

At a statewide conference "against repression" held at Rutgers University in late February, participants from defense, peace, black freedom, student, church, political and civic groups adopted a program of demands and immediate actions. 4 April (Saturday), Washington, D.C.

"March for Victory"-- Main sponsor, Dr. Carl McIntire, President of International Council of Christian Churches. Mass march and rally to demand an immediate "military victory" in Vietnam. Fairly broadly sponsored by number of conservative, right-wing, patriotic, and religious groups as response to prior left-wing anti-war demonstrations.

Assembly--11:00 a.m. at 4th and the Mall

Parade--12:00 noon--2:00 p.m. at 4th to 15th on Pa. Avenue N.W., over to Washington Monument for Rally--2:00 p.m.--5:00 p.m. Speakers to include McIntire, Georgia Governor Lester MADDUX, etc.

Backers are optimistically predicting more than 100,000 participants from all over the country and Canada.

Dr. McIntire, also described as a fundamentalist radio preacher, had requested the use of the Washington National Cathedral for a "rally" on April 3 in conjunction with the projected "March for Victory" scheduled the following day. According to the press, McIntire in the past has attacked the Cathedral and Cathedral authorities on his radio program. Rev. Sayre, dean of the Cathedral, has turned down the request saying that he did not wish to offer facilities to one who had refused to give his unqualified assurance that the proposed "prayer meeting" would be conducted in accordance with the precepts of brotherly love and tolerance.

4 April

This date is the second anniversary of the assassination of Martin Luther King. So far little enthusiasm for memorial demonstrations has been reported from the Negro community. Last year, in Washington and elsewhere in areas of heavy black population, considerable agitation for a school, business and civic moratorium in Dr. King's honor was proposed by community leaders. The reasons for this year's apparent cooling are undetermined but are probably attributable in part to a slight lessening of racial tension in the cities, lack of enthusiasm among the leadership, the recent national showing of the King motion picture (serving as an emotional cathartic) and the fact that this year the 4th falls on a Saturday, a non-school day. Some demonstrations may be scheduled or erupt but they have not as yet been publicized.

*4-5 April, Baltimore, Maryland

An East Coast GI conference is being organized by the Ft. Bragg GI's United Against the War in Vietnam. Intent is to unify the GI movement and plan for a spring-summer offensive. *11 April, Little Rock, Arkansas

"Taxpayer's Rally" in support of Vietnam Moratorium Committee (VMC) nationally scheduled activities in Little Rock, Arkansas, sponsored by the Arkansas Moratorium Coalition.

*13-18 April, Week of Antiwar Activities, National

The three major antiwar coalitions (The New Mobe, The Vietnam Moratorium Committee and the Student Mobe) have jointly and severally planned a great number of activities for this period, 13-18 April, Vietnam Week. In most areas, action will be highlighted by mass demonstrations and student strikes on the 15th--Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland, and Washington, D.C. Some cities have settled on Saturday, the 18th, for their massive citywide actions--Atlanta, Madison, Seattle, and San Francisco. Many areas have planned special women's actions, like women's teach-ins, led and organized by and for women on the war and its relationship to women's liberation. Reportedly the "High School Bill of Rights" and campus complicity will be the focus of the student strikes. Also, there will be concentration on the 15th on the relationship of taxes to the war effort.

*13-14 April, National

A nationwide student referendum on the war in Vietnam will be conducted by American University's Student Association Vietnam Committee in conjunction with the antiwar Student Mobe and the conservative Young Americans for Freedom.

Plans call for a weekend of debates, April 10-12, with the voting following on the 13th and 14th. The SMC (YSA youth arm) will provide much of the planning and organizational effort on many campuses.

*15 April, National

Primarily sponsored by the Vietnam Moratorium Committee is the idea of nationwide tax protest on April 15, the traditional last day to file income tax returns. Such activities are planned as the dumping of tea bags as a Colonial era-style tax protest, march on the Internal Revenue Service offices, and the distribution of leaflets at factories to show workers how much of their tax dollar goes to support the War. The VMC will circulate big, fake dollars with bar graphs depicting the amount of expenditures on the War and is running newspaper ads sarcastically proclaiming April 15 to be "Support the Pentagon Day." The VMC predicts that there will be "Taxpayer rallies" in 30 cities and about 100 smaller communities.

the Vietnam War." The DPC advises further that the proposed work stoppage has also been endorsed by the International Peace Conference (held in Vancouver, B. C., last February).

*15 April, Arkansas

The conference called for a mass march and demonstration in St. Petersburg on 18 April, with local areas building a week of antiwar activity 13-18 April. Peace activists also plan massive demonstrations at St. Petersburg from 10 to 18 May, where 30,000 (their estimate) are expected to march for peace. No further details at this time.

Memorandum 3-12-70

*22 April, National

Designated as "National Earth Day," this date will be marked by extensive activity related to the burgeoning ecological protest movement. Details will be included in the next Situation Information Report.

*Late April, National

In a new approach to the antiwar protest movement, the peace activists in concert with many other dissident groups are planning a spring offensive to highlight the economic impact of the War in Vietnam. In addition to the past actions against the military-industrial-establishment which consisted of picketting, propagandizing, and various other forms of harassment and has recently taken the more violent form of bomb threats and actual bombings, a new tactic has been adopted. The New Move is sponsoring regional demonstrations at stockholder's meetings of major corporations doing war-related business. While claiming that their actions will be peaceful and nondisruptive, it is highly unlikely that such will be the case. Some protest planners have said that no disruptions were planned, but some acts of nonviolent civil disobedience had not been ruled out. In order to gain entry into the meetings, protestors have gathered proxies and will thus be entitled to the rights and privileges of any stockholder.

Some of the proposed sites for activity are stockholder's meetings:

- 22 April--G. E., Minneapolis, Minnesota
- 27 April--Boeing, Seattle, Washington
- 28 April--Gulf Oil Corp., Pittsburgh, Pa.
- 28 April--Honeywell, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.
- 30 April--Olin, Stamford, Connecticut

*7-12 April, Washington, D.C.

A local group of young people calling itself "Environment Inc." during this period (and running concurrently with Washington's Cherry Blossom Festival), is staging a week of demonstrations and workshops entitled "Survival Week." The Atomic Energy Commission has rented a tent to the environmental activists to be used as an exhibit center. The tent has been pitched in the heavily tourist traveled area near the Lincoln Memorial. A spokesman for the group advises that the demonstration was planned for Cherry Blossom Week for two reasons: first because of the large number of tourists expected in the city during this time and second to show a contrast between the blossoms and the polluted air and water near the Memorial. Allegedly, Environment Inc. does not plan to disrupt the festival and will emphasize a broad range of environmental dangers including soil erosion, overpopulation, water and air pollution, and the proliferation of freeways. Highlights of "Survival Week" will be cleanup activities on the Potomac on Sunday and guerilla theater productions at various times and places throughout the week.

*13-18 April, Nationwide

The spring antiwar offensive, which began in limited form with the March antidraft actions, culminates the week of April 13-18. Nationwide mass demonstrations, organized locally, will take place in at least 25 major cities on April 15, the deadline for income tax returns and consequently a symbolic date for the new focus on "who profits" and "who pays" for the war in Vietnam.

A partial scenario of the April activities already planned in a number of cities was released last week by the New Mobilization Committee. In addition to the New Mobe plans, the Vietnam Moratorium Committee and the Student Mobilization Committee have also announced actions against the war for the same week.

So far, plans include nationwide student strikes, mass marches and rallies, work stoppages, demonstrations at Internal Revenue Service offices and at corporate stockholders' meetings, a national black referendum on the war and tax refusals. Specific actions and the days of their occurrence vary with each city, but generally the large demonstrations are scheduled for the 15th. A few cities will have marches on the 18th and in those areas where corporations with defense contracts are holding stockholders' meetings the demonstrations will occur later in the month.

The major cities where tentative plans for April were announced are San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Detroit, Milwaukee, Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Seattle, Minneapolis, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Birmingham, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Denver, Houston, and Washington, D. C. Quintessence Times 4/12/70

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee is asking all Americans who oppose the war to join a Fast for Peace on the above dates. The money saved by so doing should be sent to the VMC to aid the victims of the war in Vietnam (North or South not mentioned in VMC propaganda but presumably both) and in the United States. Funds collected will allegedly be equally divided among the American Friends Service Committee Vietnam Relief Program, the National Welfare Rights Organization and the United Farm Workers of America. Recent VMC publicity implies support for this effort by such well-known personalities as Ramsey Clark, Julian Bond, William Sloane Coffin, Jane Fonda, Mayor Lindsay, Senator McCarthy and others. Reportedly, student council heads at more than 200 U.S. colleges have promised to promote the fast on their campuses and students will ask for a rebate on uneaten meals.

The antiwar activists have designated the 14th as Women and the War day. Discussions on women's oppression in relation to the war are planned at Georgia State and Emory University. On the 16th, 17th, and 18th of April, demonstrations will be staged in support of the GI antiwar movement at Ft. McPherson and Ft. *13-18 April, Boston, Massachusetts and Vicinity

During the week a number of demonstrations are planned in other Massachusetts cities around repression, in support of the Panthers and against taxes and the draft. The main rally is scheduled for Boston on the 15th. The morning of the 15th student strikes at Boston University, Northeastern University and possibly Harvard and MIT will point up local campus complicity in the Vietnam War. Many feeder marches will pause at specific targets such as IRS and Selective Service offices before joining the main rally on the Boston Common. A candlelight march will follow the main rally.

Harvard University Law School students have distributed leaflets reporting that the rally on Boston Common will demand that Congress withdraw all United States troops from Vietnam by December 1.

Early last month 1200 people representing 40 Boston area antiwar groups met at MIT and planned a variety of actions for demonstration week. Included then and probably still on the agenda are: 5-day student strikes, work stoppage where possible, a campaign to put the Vietnam War issue on the ballot, and support for the largest number of people ever to assemble on Boston Common for a rally. (Last October 15 drew about 100,000.)

"A group of Boston area radicals intends to stage a protest march from the Boston Common to Cambridge City Hall at the conclusion of the April 15 moratorium demonstration on the Common. The organization which drew an estimated 10,000 people to government center last month to protest the Chicago 7 conspiracy trial verdict will demonstrate against the war in Southeast Asia and against 'racism and repression at home.'"

Spokesman for the group planning the march described Cambridge, the target of the protest, as an "imperial city" by virtue of the location of a CIA office, MIT, and several firms that do war-related research.

In the past, the organization has used several names including "The Day After" and the "November Action Coalition." During the April 15 demonstration it will call itself the "Bobby Seale Contingent." Tactics for the march are uncertain but several organizers of the protest acknowledged privately that it would probably include window breaking and rock throwing. The co-chairman of the Moratorium Committee, Ray Dongan, in denouncing plans for the march to Cambridge, said: "Ours is a non-violent, legal demonstration. There is no one in our coalition who thinks anything is accomplished by breaking windows or spitting on a policeman or yelling obscenities at a passerby."

The American University chapter of the Student Mobe is taking the opportunity during the planned national antiwar demonstration to get in a few localized "licks" of its own. The AU example will probably be followed at other U.S. colleges. The Student Mobe is the mass action organization of the Socialist Workers Party, whose members control virtually all leadership posts within the Student Mobe. The Trotskyite SWP interest in the Student Mobe goes much deeper than just ending the war, and recently literature published by the AU Student Mobe fully substantiates the thesis of disruption motives of the parent organization. On 15 April, aside from the war strike, AU students are also being prodded to "strike against the administration of AU to demand more student power in decision making." Additionally the students are being encouraged to strike for an alternative life style, against tuition increases, student placement on the board of trustees, cafeteria facilities, etc. If the war were suddenly to end, the Student-Mobe would mobilize against some alternate establishment institution.

The new breed of student militants, the environmentalists, formed into such groups as "Environmental Teach-In Inc., Environmental Action, Ecology Action, Active Conservation Tactics," and many others with like names, are laying the groundwork on campuses across the country for a declaration on the 22nd that America must change its way of living or smother in its own waste. To underscore the message, students are considering a range of activities from quiet panel discussions and symposia to blocking traffic on busy city streets.

Although the target date for "Earth Day" is April 22, on many campuses the observance will span a week and in some cases a month or more. "Earth Day" was originally conceived by its sponsors--including Senator Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin--as primarily a day of education through environmental teach-ins. The movement has subsequently escalated in a few areas to include rallies, picketting, demonstrations and other protests.

Although New Left activists would undoubtedly like to co-opt, radicalize and take over the ecology movement, now popular on a broad front, and direct enthusiasm toward political goals, indications are that most activities will be orderly and responsible and confined to programs such as lectures, exhibits and seminars. The objective will be to bring home the facts of the environmental crisis.

A spokesman for Environmental Teach-In Inc., advised the press in mid-March that 900 colleges and 3,000 high schools were readying programs for "Earth Day." If trouble comes it will be manifested in attacks on big industrial polluters such as General Motors, and Standard Oil and directed toward perennial war villains such as Dow Chemical (Dow reportedly has contributed thousands of dollars to "Environmental Action for Survival" at the University of Michigan). Radical activities stemming from the antiwar week of 13 to 18 April staged across the country by the New Mobe, the VMC and the Student Mobe may take some steam out of confrontation protests that might otherwise have occurred.

At a recent meeting at Ann Arbor, teach-in planners met opposition from Marxists who believe that the pollution elimination and environmental control is an evasion of needed social and political revolution. Militant Negro leaders charged that the preoccupation with pollution was a "white middle-class cop-out" from attending to the problems of Negroes and poor people.

Why April 22 was selected (and by whom) for "Earth-Day" observances has caused some concern. Denis A. Hayes, national coordinator of student environmental action, was recently asked why by Kentucky's Congressman Tim Lee Carter. Hayes answered that the date was probably picked by Senator Gaylord Nelson who allegedly originated the teach-in idea. Carter pointed out that the 22nd was Lenin's birthday and Hayes responded "It's also the birthday of Queen Elizabeth, William Shakespeare, Mary Ann Kaufman (a member of Hayes' staff) and her Aunt Alice."

Sampling of Activities for 22 April:

Ashtabula, Ohio--Students at Kent State University plan a mock funeral for the "children of tomorrow" with a horse-drawn hearse leading a cortege of mourners through the streets.

Berkeley, California--The University of California Ecology Action group, one of several groups on the Berkeley campus, are continuing their "survival walk" from Sacramento to Los Angeles.

Boston, Massachusetts--Area college environmental action groups have discussed the blocking of major traffic arteries in the city, including the Callahan Tunnels linking the city to Logan International Airport.

Detroit, Michigan--Wayne State University students plan to picket the General Motors building and may attempt to halt traffic.

NY Times 18 April 76

New York City, New York--Anti-pollution activists are discussing tying up traffic on major Manhattan streets and causing disruptions at the corporate offices of companies regarded by student activists as major polluters.

Olympia and Seattle, Washington--University of Washington students plan an "environmental scavenger hunt" to gather examples of various kinds of waste to be delivered to the state capital in order to "bring the environment home to legislature."

Providence, Rhode Island--Ecology activists hope to block off a street and set up a "model transit system" of Volkswagen buses to demonstrate that motor vehicles should carry more than one person thereby reducing traffic as well as air pollution. Similar activity pointing up the problems of one-passenger automobiles is being planned in the San Francisco Bay area.

Urbana, Illinois--University of Illinois students hope to use borrowed equipment to clean up a 6-block stretch of polluted stream. A similar effort several weeks ago yielded 30 tons of debris.

Teach-ins, seminars and exhibits are also planned at Pennsylvania State University, the University of Virginia, University of Colorado, the University of Maine, Smith College and many others. It is reported that many student radicals are suspicious of "Earth Day observances, believing them to be too much cooperation with the establishment. The SDS and the YAF, some observers believe, seem to be approaching observances with some reserve. Many members of politically-oriented campus organizations will undoubtedly participate but probably as individuals.

American Indian groups in the Los Angeles, California, area plan to mail petitions to the Bureau of Indian Affairs demanding increased control of Indian affairs by Indians. Unless the demands are granted within 30 days, the Bureau of Indian Affairs facilities will be "physically accosted." Neither an actual nor a tentative date for the action has been indicated. *9 May, Washington, D.C.

Although the local college scene is cooling somewhat and Maryland and American Universities are theoretically back in session, plans continue for a massive demonstration on the Washington Monument grounds. The New Mobe, contrary to past patterns and theory that the staging of a successful protest takes considerable advance planning time (months), has been rushing preparations to take maximum advantage of the present campus climate. Antiwar sentiment and anger over the Kent State tragedy is running high. There are signs that the administration senses it has gone too far in alienating the college generation. President Nixon's reference to college "bums" has been taken out of context by radicals and even some moderate college elements to apply to the entire college population, a reference that the President did not make or intend. The Vice President, probably a principal target in last Thursday's meeting between Mr. Nixon and 8 college presidents, has also been often criticized in recent weeks for his biting (tho perhaps accurate) public utterances. In a TV tape recording made Thursday for exposure next week on the David Frost talk show, the Vice President reportedly tones down his candid remarks of the past and directs his comments instead toward the over-reaction of the Ohio National Guard for the Kent State affair and labels their action possibly murder--a statement he is likely also to be criticized for, but this time from those on the middle and right of the political spectrum.

The President is spending May 8 at Camp David preparing for a 10 p.m. press conference from the White House when he will undoubtedly be asked questions which will allow him to clarify his Cambodia involvement and fully express his feelings on the current serious rash of campus unrest.

New Mobe leaders and spokesmen meanwhile are urging individuals from throughout the nation to participate in Saturday's demonstration. As of this writing, the New Mobe still desires a demonstration in front of the White House but city and Federal officials will probably not back off this time. A speaker's platform with audio equipment, as well as toilet and drinking water facilities, have been installed at the Monument. Cornell Professor Douglas Dowd, one of many New Mobe co-chairmen, urged in a speech last week that the antiwar element in America "must make it difficult for Nixon to govern this nation." Marshals are being trained in Washington on a crash basis (at a number of local churches mainly). All (including Dellinger and Spock) are counseling non-violence believing that violence would be counter-productive both in terms of uniting and decimating the crowd and in opening the New Mobe to criticism by the administration backers.

As for Saturday, many of the radical "big guns" will be on hand in Washington. Signs indicate that most Negroes will stay out as has been their habit for the past two years where white radicals and peace activists are doing their thing.

Crowd control and other security measures will be in effect. Planning and preparation is now based on considerable earlier experience and appropriate security forces most assuredly will be alerted and available. Estimates of the size of the crowd have varied from 10 to 100 thousand, with the best guesses being something in the middle.

Hopefully, the college and high school students, who will probably make up the bulk of the crowds, will have expended most of their energies and venom in earlier protests, and may be constrained from senseless violent protests and acts. However, with a hard core of agitating, provoking young radicals in some of the groups, the possibility of some "trashing" or even stronger action must not be discounted.

Although it seems unlikely that CIA facilities will be directly threatened, it is possible that some protest may be directed at the overt Agency complex. Location of CIA Headquarters at some distance from the hub of protest action site definitely reduces the likelihood of its being targeted for protest action. (S.S. 1000)

9 May, Stone Mountain, Georgia

The Atlanta Mob has cancelled its previously planned demonstration during the President's visit as it felt the demonstrators might be "creamed" due to the large crowds expected at Stone Mountain. In view of the recent campus turmoil and the planned demonstrations and rallies in Washington on the 9th, it seems probable that the President will not be present at the Stone Mountain dedication ceremonies.

*9-10 May, Yale, New Haven, Connecticut

The Black Students Alliance at Yale has proposed a national conference of black organizations to be held at Yale this weekend. No additional information regarding this conference has been noted since the 25 April announcement. NY Times 4/25/68

*10 May, Nationwide

A number of well-known mothers, including Shirley Maclaine, Shelley Winters and Betsy Palmer, the actresses, and such well-known liberal / radical activists as Cora Weiss (Women Strike for Peace), Mrs. Jules Feiffer, and Eleanor Norton (N.Y.'s Commissioner of Human Rights) have called on women to celebrate Mother's Day by protesting the expansion of the war into Cambodia. Calling themselves the Emergency Committee to Boycott Mother's Day, they urge women to spend Sunday visiting their congressmen's homes to lobby against the war. Miss Palmer asked mothers to write "Stop the War" on the cards they receive and to forward them to the President...

16 May, Armed Forces Day, Nationwide

Dissident GI's and GI organizations and their supporters are planning to demonstrate their dissatisfaction with the war, the military and the government. Reportedly, GI's at over 26 bases across the country will be taking actions--each different and relating specifically to the situation at each base. The New Mobc, noting the recent proliferation of student disobedient activity, has jumped back into action to take advantage of the unrest, and has geared up to enlist support for these demonstrations.

In Washington, D. C. and Baltimore, the GI's have decided to focus their attention on Ft. Meade.

*16 May, Ft. Dix, Wrightstown, New Jersey

Among the antiwar actions on and near GI bases around the world May 16, Armed Forces Day, will be a "Return to Ft. Dix," scene of a number of strong protest actions in the past. Organizations and individuals are being asked to join in a noon rally and march on the perimeter of the Ft. Dix base. Speakers tentatively scheduled are members of the BPP, Young Lords, Conspiracy, Ft. Dix 38, Ft. Dix Coffeehouse Collective, etc.

A group of Princeton University students believed to be affiliated with SDS has also announced plans for a march and rally at Ft. Dix. A leaflet announcing the rally states that the GI movement is suffering from crippling repression at Ft. Dix.

16 May, Fayetteville, North Carolina

GI's United Against the War in Vietnam is sponsoring an anti-armed forces day rally at Fayetteville, N. C. Jane Fonda, an actress who has been active in demonstrations, and Abbie Hoffman and Rennie Davis have been invited to speak. Hoffman and Davis were recently convicted for violation of the antiriot law. During a rally at Chapel Hill, N. C., on 12 April, Davis called for a "mass show of opposition to the Vietnam War" at the May 16 rally.

16 May, Ft. Bragg, North Carolina

During a highly-publicized peace protest sparked by rock and country music at the University of North Carolina on April 11 and 12, Rennie Davis, the main speaker, called for a massive demonstration May 16 at Ft. Bragg. What had been intended as the biggest protest scene in the South missed its mark. Crowds of only two to three thousand turned out and they seemed more interested in music than politics.

*22 May, Annual Meeting of GM Corp.

A fairly strong drive by a so-called reform group calling itself the Campaign to Make GM Responsible, or more popularly just Campaign GM, is increasing its pressure and propaganda proposing changes in the policies of the world's largest manufacturing firm. The young lawyers running the reform campaign--which seeks to change the company's policies in such areas as pollution, race relations and safety--charged that GM has mounted a high-powered, million dollar "pressure" campaign in opposition to their efforts. GM denies this and contends that they are doing little more than they normally do in preparing their stockholders for the annual stockholders' meeting.

Although they have little chance of getting control of any substantial portion of the stock of this vast corporation, the Campaign GM is making highly publicized attempts to secure the commitment of the many universities which hold GM stock in their investment portfolios.

22 May, Houston, Texas

SDS leaders in Houston, Texas, are formulating plans to demonstrate against Vice President Agnew when he visits Houston on May 22. They plan to involve as many blacks, Mexican-Americans, and white radicals as possible in the demonstration which will be held at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel where the Vice President reportedly will be staying.

* 30 May, Memorial Day, Nationwide

The SMC, also quick to tune in on the accelerated protest possibilities arising from U.S. action in Cambodia and the unfortunate Kent State University confrontation deaths, has been active in promoting this week's student strikes and is planning for additional demonstrations on Memorial Day.

*30 May, Chicago, Illinois

The Chicago Peace Council (an amalgam of antiwar groups with strong Communist representation) responded to President Nixon's war speech last week by calling for a mass demonstration May 30 for the immediate withdrawal of all troops and materials from Southeast Asia.

29-31 May, Toronto, Canada

Reportedly, a World Jurist Conference on Vietnam is to be held Memorial Day weekend, May 29-31, tentatively set for Glendon College, York University, Toronto, Canada. A memorandum announcing same appeared under a letterhead of the Lawyers Committee on American Policy towards Vietnam. Members of the "Consultative Council" listed on the letterhead are individuals, such as Richard J. Barnett (Institute for Policy Studies), Hans J. Morgenthau (University of Chicago), and Quincy Wright (University of Chicago). Lawyers delegations from North Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam will reportedly be present.

*29 May-1 June, Montreal, Quebec

A four-day pan-Canada conference of groups supporting American deserters and draft-resisters will be held. Its purpose is to establish political coordination between Americans in exile, Canadian support groups and the U.S. antiwar movement. Because of the similarity in timing and purpose with the World Jurist Conference on Vietnam previously announced for Toronto, Canada, there is a possibility that the Montreal conference is the same conference but at a newly selected site.

*6 June, Washington, D.C.

During the May 1-3 rallies at New Haven, on one occasion BPP Chief of Staff David Hilliard called for a massive rally to be held at the Lincoln Memorial. No later information has been noted.

*4 July, Washington, D.C. Nationwide

Both the New Mobe and the Student Mobe have taken new heart from the current heightened campus unrest and are considering revamping their earlier conviction that mass protests had at least temporarily lost their appeal. Both are looking towards July 4 as a possible mass protest day. They have not yet had time to define their plans and goals.

*4-5 July, Chicago, Illinois

The first National GI Antiwar Conference is planned as an outgrowth of a caucus at the SMC meeting in Cleveland in February.

*August, Nationwide

Upon arriving in Saint John, New Brunswick, on the first leg of their return to the U.S. from Cuba, the second contingent of the so-called "Venceremos Brigade" said they would sail to Cuba again in August to help with the fruit picking.

*9-19 August, St. Paul, Minnesota

The National Student Association will hold its 23rd annual congress at Macalester College.

*26 August, Nationwide

During the NOW (National Organization for Women) conference in March, Betty Friedan called for a general strike by women on August 26, the 50th anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the vote. To protest sex discrimination, she proposed a march by women carrying lighted candles "into the halls of politics" and a massive sit-in for women's rights. Plans are continuing. Aileen Hernandez, new national president succeeding Friedan, said at a press conference in early May, that the demonstration will not be merely "symbolic." She said mothers will leave their children in government and business offices to dramatize the need for a national child care system. Women will refrain from shopping, secretaries from typing, and wives will debate their husbands in their homes, etc.

*23 May, Atlanta, Georgia

Ralph Abernathy's march through Georgia principally protesting the recent deaths at Augusta and Jackson is scheduled to end at the capital with speeches and demonstrations on Saturday. So far, enthusiasm for Abernathy's effort to rekindle the nonviolent spark of the mid-60's has been spotty. Last Thursday the walkers had dwindled to 200 and the chief spokesman for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference was resorting to publicity stunts to build a wider acceptance and participation that would have shocked the sensitivities of Martin King. First Abernathy called for President Nixon to provide federal assistance to protect the safety of the marchers (as President Johnson had done in the 1965 Selma to Montgomery march when major violence was threatened). Secondly, Abernathy has called for Panther and Black Muslim support and has scheduled prominent Black Panther David Hilliard to speak on Saturday. What King was able to promote with personal dynamics and "chutzpah", the duller Abernathy must attempt by trickery. A train of sympathizers is still scheduled to depart Washington Friday to take part in demonstrations on Saturday. Many observers of the racial scene believe Abernathy may be more interested in promoting Abernathy and the SCLC than in memorializing the recent victims of violence.

*24 May, Atlanta, Georgia

President Hugh Gloster of Morehouse College has called an emergency meeting of presidents and student leaders from the nation's 123 Negro colleges. Gloster stated last week that the college leaders will formulate a presentation for President Nixon and the various governors on the problems and reactions of the black academic community to the recent deaths of two Negroes at Jackson State.

*30 May, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Phoenix, Seattle, San Francisco, New York, Gainesville, Chicago and Philadelphia

The Student Mobe which is controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers' Party is planning massive demonstrations in the above listed cities for Memorial Day. The national office of the Student Mobe in a wishful but highly inaccurate statement says that the planned demonstrations are the beginning of a developing coalition between students, labor and the black community in the fight against war and its extensions at home. The theme of the demonstrations will be "Stop the Killing, No More Vietnams, Cambodias, Kents, Augustas, or Jacksons. Bring all the troops home from Southeast Asia now."

The Georgia Mobe (which is affiliated with the New Mobe and not the Student Mobe) has also announced a peace rally at Atlanta for the southeastern states.

The Chicago Peace Council (an amalgam of antiwar groups with strong communist representation) has also called for mass demonstrations promoting the immediate withdrawal from Vietnam.

Graduation Season, Nationwide

Although campus tempers are cooling for the most part, the National Strike Information Center at Brandeis University still claims that over 200 college and university student bodies are still disrupting the academic order. At Fresno State College in California student fire bombing caused over $1,000,000 damage to a brand new computer center this week--probably a record in terms of property loss. Student rioters at Northern Illinois University (at DeKalb) took over a busy boulevard (in the style originated at the University of Maryland, and oft imitated at other campuses in recent weeks) and destroyed a state vehicle with fire bombs. A dozen or so schools have been closed for the year and at most others seriously effected by a student strike in the wake of Cambodia (estimated at about 500) the haggling goes on over grades, final exams, amnesty, suspensions, police and national guard tactics, etc. Many schools have cancelled spring social events which usually accompany commencement exercises but most universities will go ahead with graduation as usual during the last week in May and the first week in June.

According to its sponsors the "Peace Commencement Fund" has spread to 150 campuses. The PCF is a movement to have graduates contribute money ordinarily spent for cap and gown rental to congressional peace candidates for their up-coming campaigns. Certainly many graduation exercises will be disrupted in coming weeks and many anti-Vietnam speeches will be heard. Calls will also be made to free all political prisoners (Bobby Seale, Conspiracy 8, Panther 21, etc.), clean up pollution and the rest of the manifest of radical cause celebres. Commencement exercises speakers on the various campuses have been virtually unpublicized and it is probable that ranking administration spokesmen as well as most other national figures who support the President's policies will skip the speaking dates this year in the interest of campus tranquility.

*10 June, Nationwide

At a Princeton University meeting on 21 May the Union for National Draft Opposition (UNDO) assembled 250 delegates from 25 states and designated 10 June as "national antidraft day." The assemblage resolved that the position of the organization would be to resist and not cooperate with Selective Service. The delegates approved the circulation of the "Charlottesville Pledge" that states that after 100,000 eligible men have signed an antidraft pledge, all will turn their draft cards in to the national resistance headquarters at Princeton. The several thousand draft cards that have already been turned in will be deposited at Union College, Schenectady, New York. Earlier in the week the organization heard Yale chaplain William Sloane Coffin call President Nixon "the most subversive influence." The UNDO reportedly grew out of a suggestion made by politics professor Stanley Kelley who has urged that students take positive action in opposition to the draft.

*Summer, Nationwide

The Strike Information Center at Brandeis and the National Student Strike Committee conference recently held at Yale propose that campuses be kept opened during the summer as centers for draft resistance, support for labor, education of the communities and support for the Panthers. The Brandeis group in a recent newsletter was in a snit over media treatment of the strike objectives. They claimed that the press had only reported demand no. 2 which states "that the U.S. Government cease its expansion of the Vietnam War into Cambodia and Laos; (and) that it unilaterally and immediately withdraw all forces from Southeast Asia." The Brandeis organization is accurate in their indictment of the press because the only press reference to demands no. 1 and 3 appeared in a mid-May issue of the Daily World. The failure of the media to cover all three demands is unfortunate because if there was ever any doubt, nos. 1 and 3 remove the strike leadership from the ranks of peacenik dissent and places them firmly in the radical camp. No. 1 reads: "that the U.S. Government end its systematic repression of political dissidents and release all political prisoners, such as Bobby Seale and other members of the Black Panther Party." No. 3 reads: "that the universities end their complicity with the U.S. war machine by an immediate end to defense research, ROTC, counterinsurgency research, and all other such programs."

Three regional strike centers were chosen at the Yale conference. They are Brandeis, Grinnell University in Iowa, and UCLA. The delegates also discussed the formation of a "liberation brigade" to confront police and the military. The brigade will engage in harassing tactics and agitation principally at Washington, D.C. and at New Haven.

During the summer the strikers plan to close induction centers and draft boards indefinitely by "peaceful persuasion" (!). A massive draft card turn-in on July 4 has been proposed to coincide with a planned general GI strike (the New Mobe will probably have a piece of this action). Yippie clown Abbie Hoffman has also proposed establishment of "Insurrection City" on the Washington Monument grounds for July 4. The Yale session also urged the boycotting of Coca Cola and Phillip Morris products during the summer to force these companies to use their lobbies in Washington to urge the administration to end the war.

Knowledgeable confidential sources advise that they believe the local center of antiwar protest will be George Washington University. GWU has been picked (as opposed to other area campuses) because of its strategic location near the protest parade paths and its community integrated campus which renders police control more difficult and escape easier.

#3-5 July, Toronto, Canada

A peace festival is being staged at Mosport auto race track at Toronto and as a main attraction will feature the Beatles. John Lennon and his Yoko will perform on the "largest bed in history" (a wall-to-wall mattress stage). Additional details will be reported if and when they become available.

Plans were approved in the closing session (May 21) of a three-day conference called by the Union for National Draft Opposition (UNDO), an anti-war movement begun on the Princeton University campus following the invasion of the Cambodian sanctuaries. Anti-war students from over 90 colleges called for open resistance to Selective Service beginning with a "National Anti-draft Day" on 10 June.

Students will begin to gather signatures on the "Charlottesville Pledge"—an anti-draft pledge in which the signer will commit himself to turning in his draft card once 100,000 names are collected. Other activities to be carried out that day include rallies, teach-ins, and sit-ins at Selective Service boards.

Another source has reported that an official of the Bronx, New York, chapter of the BPP plans to release a statement concerning a mass march and demonstration at the Lincoln Memorial on 19 June. A New Mobe sponsored national anti-war conference is being planned for 27 and 28 June at which time it is expected a final decision will be made whether to return to earlier tactics of large-scale, "non-violent, civil disobedience." The belief of many members of the Mobe's liberal-radical coalition that the May 9th anti-war demonstration in Washington was a "disaster" accomplishing little with its traditional march-rally scenario has them leaning towards more militant action for the future. Final plans as to the nature and place of the activities should come out of this conference. Regardless of the consensus decision of the group, a number of the more radical leaders and groups will opt for this return to militancy and will go it alone or form new coalitions. WASH. The Youth International Party (Yippies), the over-publicized brainchild of radical clowns Jerry Rubin, Abbie Hoffman, et al, is reportedly planning a national action in Washington on July 4th to coincide with earlier reports of a "Smoke-In" on the Washington Monument grounds. According to Hoffman, in a Yippie news release, "We're asking people from all over Amerika (sic) to come to D. C. for a Constitutional Convention in July. First we're gonna proclaim ourselves a new nation, then we're gonna declare war on Amerika."

"It's gonna be a summer of siege for Washington. We're out to occupy the Capitol and have a hot three months of liberation." In addition to other things, the release states that the convention will last several days and include refreshments, musical entertainment, a free fireworks show provided by the U. S. Government, recognition by other groups abroad of the "new nation's sovereignty, and who knows what else."

To coordinate the July 4th action, a national Yippie headquarters will open in New York City.

As usual, much of the Hoffman rhetoric is pure bombast and hyperbole, but presumably some effort will be made to desecrate the usual Independence Day memorial services and celebrations.

Quick Silver Times

Hoffman and his Yippies will undoubtedly be the victims of a conflict in scheduling. Also planned for the Monument area (the Sylvan Theater) is a parade and rally sponsored by the Blackman's Development Center to protest the illegal drug traffic.

The recently scheduled event in Washington which will undoubtedly top the other three (Hoffman's Insurrection City, the underground press Smoke-in, and the BDC protest) is the Billy Graham-Bob Hope sponsored "Honor America Day." According to a Hope statement on Thursday, the Honor America celebration (not demonstration) has the support of a number of large and powerful people and organizations. Counted among the groups are the Boy Scouts of America, Vet groups, the Grange, the Catholic Archdiocese of Washington and others. Some of the prominent people who will support, entertain, and serve the celebration are Hope and Graham, of course, Johnny Cash, Glen Campbell, Billy Casper, Henry Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Borman, and many others. Hope also indicated that President Nixon might put in an appearance.

Hope added that the Honor America Day is being supported to bring a divided country together and will not deal in the pros and cons of the Indo-China war.

The all-day celebration on the Monument grounds will be staged by Walt Disney productions and the honorary chairmen of the rally are Mamie Eisenhower, Harry Truman, and Lyndon Johnson. Hope intends to demonstrate that Americans can put aside honest differences and show a degree of national unity and respect for the flag.

Additional details will be issued in coming weeks from the rally headquarters at 1725 DeSales Street in Washington.

During the NOW (National Organization for Women) conference in March, Betty Friedan called for a general strike by women on August 26, the 50th anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the vote. To protest sex discrimination, she proposed a march by women carrying lighted candles "into the halls of politics" and a massive sit-in for women's rights. Plans are continuing. Aileen Hernandez, new national president succeeding Friedan, said at a press conference in early May, that the demonstration will not be merely "symbolic." She said mothers will leave their children

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

Summer, Nationwide

The Weatherman faction of SDS will probably be heard from again this summer. As was widely predicted, the Weatherman "Days of Terror" demonstrations last October in Chicago where 284 arrests were made (the largest campus contingent was Kent State with 9) flopped badly. The remnants of the Weatherman faction have now been driven underground. The Weatherman leadership, which presently includes Mark Rudd, Bernardine Dohrn and others, since October has been reported meeting twice, once immediately following the October demonstrations in a remote Illinois state park and again around Christmas time at Flint, Michigan. Subsequent Weatherman events have been the explosion of the New York bomb factory and a federal indictment against 12 charged with violation of the riot laws in connection with the Chicago demonstration.

Since last fall Weatherman philosophy has obviously changed from one of mass membership to one of an elite core of revolutionary terrorists (a revolutionary vanguard). It cannot be logically supposed that the New York bomb factory was the only one.

Widely circulated in recent weeks is a communication from the underground allegedly authored by Bernardine Dohrn, entitled "Declaration of a State of War." Dohrn, who has always been an outspoken Weatherman spokeswoman and is perhaps the most rabid female radical in the country, speaks in this communication (a tape recording) in typical revolutionary rhetoric. Whether the voice is Dohrn's or not is insignificant because the message transmitted is in the Weatherman mood and had prophesied that within two weeks Weatherman would attack a symbol of American injustice. Within two weeks of the Dohrn message a New York City police building was bombed, creating extensive damage and injuring several people. On 11 June another bomb was exploded in a building of the Omaha, Nebraska, police department. The New York bombing is probably the work of Weatherman and the Omaha explosion may also be. The Dohrn tape recording additionally identified the third member killed in the New York bomb works blast. The victim, says Dohrn, was Terry Robbins; and, although police authorities are unable to verify this disclosure, the whereabouts of Robbins is unknown. Robbins, like the two confirmed deaths (Diana Oughton and Theodore Gold) had a past record of second string Weatherman leadership. An interesting coincidence is that Robbins was active up until a year or so ago on the campus of Kent State in Ohio.

Only one of many for whom the police have been searching has thus far been found. Linda Sue Evans was arrested some weeks ago in New York. Although the CIA has not been specifically identified as a prime Weatherman target, because of the organization's place in "the establishment," a continuing bomb threat to Agency facilities cannot be disregarded. An attack on the Agency would undoubtedly be considered a major coup within the radical movement.

The Weatherman events of past weeks, their lack of cooperation with other radical units and their virtual disappearance into the hippie and commune nether world indicates an agreed-upon plan to foment violent revolution through their previously enunciated "shock brigade" tactics in a number of American urban areas. The hostile and seriously alienated youth that comprise the present Weatherman faction have threatened violence, and it is believed that their threats must be taken seriously.

A serious breach seems to have developed between the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and the once closely affiliated member, the Socialist Workers' Party. This breach will probably widen during the coming summer months. At a New Mobe steering committee conference at Atlanta in May, the New Mobe cold-shouldered a plan for this weekend's antiwar conference in Cleveland that was apparently a SWP brain child.

The New Mobe in recent weeks has also shown itself to be in a quandary over to continue or discontinue the mass rally concept, that has been successful in some places on some occasions in the past. The most notable success was last November 15, at Washington. Although there is no question but what a well-planned rally can produce the bodies, New Mobe leaders fear that the festive atmosphere that increasingly creeps into the mass antiwar, anti-establishment rallies is counterproductive in two ways: first, nose count alone does not seem to impress the establishment and second, mass rallies are fast becoming "old hat" and the participants are too interested in rock music and pot to care much one way or the other what the radical political merchants are selling. Although they have not defined exactly what they mean, New Mobe spokesmen have now verbalized a need for civil disobedience and direct action. This widely discussed tactical change to do away with the mass protest philosophy by the New Mobe has tended to alienate its former comrade in dissent, the SWP, who still believes in the value of the mass demonstration and hastens to point out that Hanoi likes them too.

The SWP, through its youth group, the Young Socialist Alliance, has indeed built a formidable mass movement body in the form of the SMC (Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam). The SWP undoubtedly sees its organization work within the SMC subverted by its former New Mobe associates. The SWP additionally takes umbrage at the seemingly sincere but misguided motives of several New Mobe organizations to work for peace candidates through the summer and into the fall. The SWP does not believe that such methods are the road to American revolution.

To further complicate the serious rifts and en-fighting among the organizations of the radical left, the Maoist Progressive Labor Party and the SWP's Student Mobe have recently battled in Boston. It will be remembered that last summer the PLP faction of SDS split away at Chicago and formed the SDS Worker Student Alliance. On 24 May the National Steering Committee of the Student Mobe met at Boston and the SDS/WSAers tried to crash the party. A battle ensued in which a number of over-zealous radicals were injured.

What is clearly implied is that the power factions in the doctrinaire communist left in scrambling for movement supremacy will intensify the battle against one another in coming months. In all of this the Communist Party, U.S.A. is trying to stand on the sidelines and will probably eventually pick up the pieces. The CPUSA is undoubtedly the best organized of the old left and has the coolest hand.

As a capper, the Black Panther Party is also on the outs with the entire white left radical movement. See details under 19 June Panther activities scheduled for Washington.

Summer, Georgia

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference has announced a summer political action program for the South in general and Georgia in particular. The Summer Community Organization and Political Education (SCOPE) program specifies three major objectives: mass voter registration, political education and community organization. SCOPE volunteers reportedly will spend ten weeks working in all 149 Georgia counties and possibly in Alabama and Mississippi as well. This week the volunteers began a one-week intensive training and orientation program at Atlanta. The SCOPE address is c/o SCLC, 344 Auburn Street, N.E., Atlanta.

*19 June, Los Angeles, California

At a mid-May meeting of the University of California Regents, Chancellor Young of UCLA announced his intentions to rehire Negro, admitted communist, instructor Angela Davis. Miss Davis' initial appointment to the UCLA philosophy staff last fall caused considerable dislocation of campus tranquility and seriously divided the regents from the university faculty and administration. Davis was a protégé of new left pasha Herbert Marcuse at San Diego State and was appointed to the staff by tenured radical leftist philosophy department chairman Donald Kalish. California law provides for a loyalty oath and precludes those from state jobs who are members of the Communist Party. Miss Davis in the turmoil shouted racial foul; and to further irritate and alienate the regents, Kalish assigned Davis several additional classes to teach.

At the May meeting the regents overwhelmingly voted to strip Chancellor Young of his appointment prerogatives (vote of 15 to 6) and will make the decision on Davis at the regents meeting on the 19th.

Since the regents are largely in the Governor Reagan camp there is little doubt how they will vote. If they reject her reappointment, serious trouble could erupt on the heretofore mostly docile UCLA campus. Chancellor Young who in philosophy falls somewhere between Nathan Pusey of Harvard and Kingman Brewster of Yale will probably tender his resignation. Since Young has been given much personal credit for keeping the lid on at UCLA (and probably with sound justification), the trouble of the northern schools could well shift to southern California next fall.

*19 June, Washington, D.C.

The BPP is planning a "Jubilee Day" rally and national press conference at Washington on the above date. According to a BPP source, the Party will announce a "4th executive mandate" by Huey Newton. This mandate allegedly will call for the convening of a constitutional convention (an Eldridge Cleaver brain child) to establish a provisional revolutionary government for the United States. The time and place for the constitutional convention will be made public on "Jubilee Day." FBI IN 091914 6 PM '76

According to another source, an additional purpose of the BP action is to protest the denial of rights to black people. Ralph D. Abernathy may address the gathering.

19 June at the Lincoln Memorial has been selected because this is the date on which the enforcement of Abraham Lincoln's emancipation proclamation supposedly went into effect in 1863. The Panthers have called for an end to "Nixon's era of facism."

The planned Panther activity in Washington constitutes a departure from past activities. Signs are that Panther membership is growing and that Panther leaders have adopted the time-honored mass movement approach so successfully employed by revolutionary forces of the past. The Panthers have in recent weeks been busy in public relations and in organizing a number of front organizations in major American cities. The euphemistic cover names are the "National Committee to Combat Facism" (active in Washington as well as other cities) and "Black Community Information Centers." Under the shelter of these innocent sounding fronts Panther leaders are aggressively continuing organizing activities throughout the country despite claims that no new BP chapters are being established. It would appear that this disclaimer is a deliberate deception. The new front groups are under complete BPP control and discipline and must follow all Party instruction from the Black Panther national headquarters. Currently, aside from Washington, D.C., the National Committee to Combat Facism units are operating in the following cities: Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, Lima, Milwaukee, Tulsa, Omaha, Augusta, Portland (Ore.), Bridgeport, Hartford, Winston-Salem, Newark, East St. Louis, Cambridge, Atlantic City and Jersey City. Black Community Information Centers are now functioning in Baltimore, New York City, Mount Vernon (N.Y.), and Gary (Indiana). In process of being organized in either one or the other front names are sub-rosa BP groups in Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, Albany, Greenville (Mississippi), Providence, Des Moines, Flint, and Kankakee (Illinois).

Last July the Panthers held a national conference at Oakland, California, aimed at bringing together all elements, black and white, of the new left. It was at this conference that the name "National Committee to Combat Facism" was originated. In attendance at the Oakland meeting were members of the Communist Party, SDS, and other extremist elements. One of the immediate goals of the NCCF is community control of police forces.

Although the July conference flopped, most likely Communist Party delegates to the conference offered advice to the Black Panthers in the proven value of fronts.

The Panthers are also involved in the current rash of feuds among extremists. Among the Panther epithets for white radicals whom they dislike are Zionists, ideological phonies, pseudo-revolutionaries, egotistical racists--and numerous other ferocious names. Principal rhetorical spokesman for the Party is Elbert Emcy (Big Man) Howard who is deputy minister of information and managing editor of the Party newspaper, the Black Panther. Among the bitter invective Big Man heaps on the new left whites is that the new left possesses the "socialist traits of the Nazis."

In coming months the BPP will probably experience additional growth through the utilization of front organizations and will probably attempt to dispell their current super-violent image in the interest of building a greater mass foundation following.

Panther literature distributed by the NCCF Washington office at 2327 18th Street, N.W., announcing the Lincoln Memorial rally also is promoting community discussions. The NCCF offers to send spokesmen to home discussions groups by appointment to deal with such topics as the U.S. fascist government, why a constitutional convention must be held and positive alternatives to the present system of exploitation, slavery, brutality, and injustice.

*19-21 June, Cleveland, Ohio

A National Emergency Conference against Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam War will be held at Cuyahoga Community College, Cleveland, Ohio, 19-21 June. This conference is being sponsored by the Student Mobe and the Cleveland Area Peace Action Council. Its purpose is to plan future antiwar activity. Participants in the conference plan to demonstrate at Cleveland on 20 June when the Vice President visits that city to speak at a fund-raising dinner. FBI 100-104527 16 June 70

This conference is dislocating many radical noses. The New Mobe is shying away from the Ohio meet as is the large and powerful Chicago Peace Action Council which is dominated by the CPUSA sympathy group. The game of domination politics is being played out and probably the Student Mobe (controlled by the Trotskyite SWP/YSA) will be left holding an empty antiwar leadership bag at Cleveland. FBI 100-104527 16 June 70

Reportedly, the New Mobe which is feuding with the SWP (see p. 2) has co-opted the SCLC which will support and take part of next weekend's New Mobe conference at Milwaukee but will shun or token attend the emergency conference at Cleveland. FBI 100-104527 16 June 70

The SDS Worker Student Alliance is planning to send two bus loads of radicals to the Cleveland conference and a WSA spokesman states that they are going to Cleveland to fight the Student Mobe both politically and physically. FBI 100-104527 16 June 70

*26 June, Carbondale, Illinois

The Committee of Returned Volunteers and the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars are sponsoring a conference June 26-27, at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs is located on the campus of the university. FBI 100-104527 17 June 70

*26 June-5 July, Detroit, Michigan

The National Association of Black Students plans to hold a convention at Wayne State U., Detroit, Michigan. It is attempting to obtain a university building for the convention; however, university authorities have not yet agreed to furnish a building. The association has been advised that university buildings cannot be used on 4 July. The association has also called for a rally at Belle Isle and authorities are concerned inasmuch as large crowds traditionally celebrate 4 July there.

27-28 June, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

A New Mobe sponsored national antiwar conference is being planned for 27 and 28 June at which time it is expected a final decision will be made whether or not to return to earlier tactics of large-scale, "non-violent, civil disobedience." The belief of many members of the Mobe's liberal-radical coalition that the May 9 antiwar demonstration in Washington was a "disaster" accomplishing little with its traditional march-rally scenario has them leaning towards more militant action for the future. Final plans as to the nature and place of the activities should come out of this conference. Regardless of the consensus decision of the group, a number of the more radical leaders and groups will opt for more militancy and will go it alone or form new coalitions.

Among a number of summer programs tentatively approved at a New Mobe steering committee meeting in Atlanta in May, was the organization of some sort of mass, non-violent demonstration at the end of the summer involving civil disobedience.

The Brandeis Student Strike Information Center for whom the Student Mobe also has a "mad-on" will meet at Waltham. The Student Mobe pointingly labels the Strike Information Center as a "self appointed grouping with no significant base in the student movement." This meeting has been called, believe Student Mobe spokesmen, deliberately to lessen the impact of the Cleveland emergency conference.

Recent issues of the Communist Party Daily World have given considerable publicity for a National Rank-and-File Conference of the American labor movement. The Daily World has announced that a delegation from Seattle will also take part in the June conference. One of the topics to be discussed in Chicago is the war in Vietnam and the manner in which pressure can be brought on the Nixon administration to end the conflict now, bring the troops home and bring a halt to the "bloody dissent and repression at home." The conference additionally is designed to defend trade union and membership rights against the "Nixon big business, anti-labor, racist onslaught." Daily World publicity criticizes such responsible labor leaders as George Meany, and although it is not spelled out it is obvious that the planned conference is a CPUSA operation. Daily World 1 June 70

*Late June, Cleveland, Ohio

According to a source, contact with whom has been insufficient to determine reliability, the BPP plans to bomb a building in Cleveland, Ohio, on the day in late June that Vice President Spiro Agnew plans a visit. The targeted building will be in an area removed from the Vice President's itinerary and will be symbolic in nature. [1] IN 1914 (June 70)

*1 July, San Francisco, California

The conviction of Black Panther minister of defense, Huey Newton, has been reversed by the California courts. An appeal by the state is presently in progress but will probably be denied, and Newton is expected to be freed from the California Men's Colony in San Luis Obispo on about the 1st of July. Newton was convicted in September 1968 for manslaughter in the shooting to death of an Oakland policeman. He has been serving a 2-15 year sentence. There are still a number of legal technicalities to be satisfied before Newton is free. If released in early July, the posting of bail will be necessary. Since Newton is such a charismatic Panther figure there is little doubt that sufficient funds for bail can be collected. Newton's release can be expected to trigger jubilation in the Panther strongholds principally in the San Francisco Bay area, but no immediate violence as a result of the Newton release is anticipated.

*1 July, Washington, D.C.

President Nixon has set 1 July as the date for the 1970 draft lottery (for men turning 19 during 1970). Lottery proceeding will probably again be followed by claims of foul play, establishment roulette, etc. Additionally, renewed new left draft abolition rhetoric can be expected to make some minor headlines in parts of the nation.

6-9 July, Edgewood Arsenal and Ft. Detrick

The War Resisters League and a Philadelphia Quaker action group are jointly sponsoring a campaign against the production of chemical and biological weapons. Of principal concern to the protestors is the production and storage of nerve gas. The groups will demonstrate in front of the White House at 10 a.m. followed by a 1 p.m. march to the Capitol. At 3 p.m. the demonstrators will begin a march from the Capitol to Baltimore, Maryland, which is scheduled to arrive there on July 4. A mass demonstration is then scheduled for Baltimore on 5 July, and from 6-9 July the demonstrators will make separate walks to Edgewood Arsenal (7 July) and to Ft. Detrick (9 July). Reportedly civil disobedience is being planned for Ft. Detrick. The demonstrators will attempt to enter the Fort to demand that it be converted to a world health center.

* 4 July, Washington, D.C.,

Plans for the Bob Hope-Billy Graham originated Honor America Day being produced by Walt Disney Productions are progressing. The guest list and participating organizations appear to be growing. Along with those previously reported as participants (Johnny Cash, Glen Campbell, Billy Casper, Henry Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Borman and others) a number of ranking government officials, both hawks and doves, have endorsed the celebration. Among those prominent members of Congress in the dove category who have sent endorsements are Sens. Church, Cooper, Hatfield, McGovern and Muskie. The hawks who have endorsed Honor America Day so far are Senator Stennis and Reps. Ford and Teague.

The event will be televised live by the CBS Washington affiliate WTOP TV. Charles S. O'Malley, an official of the organizing staff, has advised that city officials are whole-heartedly supporting the celebration. Mayor Washington is an honorary vice chairman and City Council Chairman Gilbert Hahn is a member of the executive committee.

In the wake of the initial announcement, the Washington Post was snidely critical of the Honor America Day plan. The Post editorial implied that this year's 4th of July observances will take on the trappings of a pro-war rally in support of the President's Vietnam policy.

The Post editors believed that just the identity of the principal figures who have associated themselves with the idea have made the planned day of celebration suspect. The Post suggested that to equalize the day a number of well-known doves should step forward and offer to participate. The Post should, therefore, be pleased to note those congressional doves mentioned above who have come forward. 1.5

Although the reasons are unexplained, a recent press article reflects growing uncertainty about the relationship of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Washington to the July 4 event. 1.5

The day's plans call for an 11 a.m. religious patriotic service at the Lincoln Memorial followed by an afternoon of entertainment on the Washington Monument grounds. Details will be announced in the near future by Walt Disney Productions. The day's entertainment will be capped by the usual 45 minute fireworks display on the Washington Monument grounds. Predictions are that Honor America Day may turn out as many as 500,000 participants. This would undoubtedly comprise the largest demonstration in the history of the city and perhaps of the world. The planners have several factors going for them over and above the basic call of patriotism. Many tens of thousands turn out annually in any event for the city's spectacular fireworks display. There will also be many thousands who will come for the outstanding slate of entertainers.

Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin and the Yippies have not altered their plans for a smoke-in and an insurrection city for the Monument grounds for the same day. Like the Black Panthers, Hoffman has called for a constitutional convention. He says, "First we're gonna proclaim ourselves a new nation, then we're gonna declare war on Amerika. It's gonna be a summer of siege for Washington. We're out to occupy the Capitol and have a hot three months of liberation." 1.5

It has been reported that the Yippies had planned a confrontation with the police. A reliable source, however, has recently advised that the Yippies are now shying away from violent demonstrations believing them no longer to be useful. Yippie party members allegedly prefer to be in the background and appear "straight" so that they can execute projects of a larger scale. One project that has been recently discussed in Yippie circles for instance is the kidnapping of a foreign ambassador and the holding of him for ransom of a political prisoner such as Bobby Seale. Yippie leaders feel that such an action would set a pattern for other radical groups and create fear among elected officials. No definite plans have been made for political kidnappings. Unfortunately, such talk among the irrational revolutionaries cannot be easily laughed off. Although the Yippies are known for big mouth and little action, the very dire possible consequences of their thinking regarding kidnappings could be extremely serious.

David Giltinan, a New Mobe spokesman, has stated that the New Mobe expects the 4th of July to be a "real blood bath" due to the conflicting demonstrations scheduled on that date. Giltinan's statement was probably an effort on the part of the New Mobe to discourage attendance at the Hope-Graham affair. Although there may be some skirmishes on the Monument grounds, a major confrontation between pro and anti-war forces seem not to be in the cards this time. The Yippies should be outnumbered 1000:1 and against such odds, crazy as they seem, the Yippies should not provoke the "straights."

A national Chicano moratorium is being planned by radical leftist Mexican-American organizations principally in the San Francisco Bay area. Additionally, demonstrations are planned in a number of western cities between now and 29 August. The themes of the planned protest actions are the usual--bring the boys home, let the Vietnamese employ self determination, etc. Involved in the various National Moratorium Committees are a number of organizations that often involve

The Student Mobe held a national emergency conference at Cleveland the third weekend in June. By a vote of two to one the Student Mobe decided on the following summer-fall action by the Student Mobe: a summer of intensive effort to mobilize labor unions for the antiwar movement; support of antiwar Congressional candidates and local peace referenda; national demonstrations during the period of 6-9 August (the 25th anniversary of the dropping of the atom bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki) to protest renewal of the United States-Japan security treaty; support of a Mexican-American demonstration in Los Angeles on 29 August; and nationally coordinated demonstrations in major cities throughout the country on 31 October to protest the Indo-China war and to support peace candidates in the November election.

The Trotskyite Socialist Workers' Party has announced a schedule for a socialist summer school which will meet at the George Washington University Student Center throughout the summer. Lectures cost $.50 each or $7 for the entire series. The topics that will be treated during the summer are: Building the Revolutionary Party, The Coming American Revolution (lecture by Fred Halstead, the 1968 SWP candidate), The Struggle for Black Self-Determination: Past and Present, Women's Liberation and Socialism, and Stalinism Vs. Bolshevism.

Files from 1969 of Socialist Summer School

Summer, Washington, D. C.

The New Mobe and the SCLC concluded their Milwaukee meeting as scheduled on 27 June. Most of the presently prominent antiwar, anti-establishment leftist organizations except the SWP and its affiliates had a piece of the Milwaukee action. Included at the conference aside from the New Mobe and the SCLC were representatives from the National Welfare Rights Organization, the National Student Association, Women's Liberation, the Union for National Draft Opposition, the Chicano Moratorium, Women's Strike for Peace, and a number of other local and national radical groups. Missing from Milwaukee were the Black Panthers (who were originally scheduled to participate) and the SDS who generally believe that the war is a planned part of American foreign policy.

Out of this Milwaukee strategy action conference a three part plan has tentatively evolved. The first part calls for the formation of radical collectives on a local and national level which will attempt to draw together all disenchanted people into activist groups. These collectives will then attack a variety of issues such as war and racism. The second part of the New Mobe strategy calls for a series of "long marches" on Washington. It is tentatively planned that these marches will proceed for weeks and will originate at such symbolic places as Kent, Ohio, and Jackson, Mississippi. Once in Washington, the participants in these marches would engage in militant civil disobedience, such as blocking streets and sealing off Government buildings to create a crisis aimed at forcing the Government to end the war. This plan was opposed by some of the women's groups and other radicals who argued that if martial law was imposed in Washington the black population would suffer most.

Professor Douglas Dowd of Cornell, an involved radical, called for several alternatives to the Washington marches. Dowd prefers demonstrations of a more disruptive nature and the deliberate blocking of all modes of transportation as well as other actions aimed at creating as much upheaval and disruption as possible. The disruptive phases of the long marches that are yet to be agreed upon constitute the third phase of strategy action. Phase three may well last as long as a week and is principally aimed at civil disobedience intended to disrupt the war machine.

A number of the usual hands were present at Milwaukee, including radical leader Arthur Waskow of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, David Dellinger (long-time radical activist), and Rennie Davis who, according to press accounts, seemed to be the principal spokesman for the Milwaukee conference.

pot-smoking set. Several weeks ago the Atlanta City Fathers laid down the law to the band of hippies that had migrated into Atlanta who were disturbing the orderliness of the city. It can be expected that Georgia police authorities will conduct a close surveillance of festival activities and may well fill the Macon, Georgia, jailhouse. Although the three-day festival seems expensive ($14 for the whole three days including camping privileges) the weekend festivities will probably attract upwards from 20,000 people. Mayor Sam Massell of Atlanta has recently tried to run an advertisement in 12 national underground newspapers. The article states in part "Unless you have bread and a pad, please find your thing somewhere else--or face a bad scene." It is Mayor Massell's intention that hippies not congregate in Atlanta this summer. The Great Speckled Bird, however, has refused the ad and will encourage other underground papers not to run the ad either or else to publish a statement from hippie leaders beside it.

A group of Massachusetts women plan to picket the White House during the dinner dance that Tricia Nixon is holding in honor of visiting Britons, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. The Concerned American Mothers, described as an embryonic grass roots group of women who have been uncommitted until now, do not believe that the President should be dancing while American soldiers are dying in Vietnam.

Although no announcements have been made, other protests during the royal visit can be anticipated in Washington during the coming weekend. It is not believed that any of them will be particularly disruptive or threatening to the British guests. (ASH 3805 7-16 70)

Included among the recipients are the Young Lords, the White Panthers, and a conglomeration known as the Revolutionary Youth Party Collective. This collective unites such groups as the Gay Liberation Front, the Committee to Defend the New York Panther 21, the Youth International Party, and the Underground Press Syndicate. The "Chaplain of Sunset Strip" and a small entourage arrived in Washington this week wheeling a 105 pound cross. The chaplain, Arthur Blessitt, announced his evangelistic plans for Washington on the coming weekend. Next Saturday night he and his team will drag their cross through Georgetown and mingle with the hippies. Blessitt expects earlier on Saturday to be in the downtown area trying to drum up interest for a big rally at the Washington Monument. Sunday will be a call for prayer, presumably at the Washington Monument grounds, and the entire metropolitan area is invited to participate. It is not anticipated that the hippie Southern Baptist evangelist will create any disruption in the city.

The preacher, whose motives seem pure though bizzare, visits Washington as one stop on his nationwide trek that started last Christmas and eventually will return to Los Angeles. Blessitt states "we want to call this nation back to God and real brotherhood."

The Environmental Action organization is sponsoring a strategy session on "what next" at a United Auto Workers lodge for 200 community leaders as well as Leonard Woodcock, new UAW president, and Frank E. Fitzsimmons, head of the Teamster Union. Environmental Action, which operates a small office in the hippie DuPont Circle area of N. W. Washington, is presently pushing opposition to the supersonic transport and trying to promote tough air pollution legislation. Although Environmental Action is playing ball with a number of traditional and respectable naturalist organizations such as the National Audubon Society and the Sierra Club, their political balance is still the subject of some doubt. The Michigan meeting will be attended by representatives of the National Welfare Rights Organization and Neighborhood Legal Services. The ecology movement since its initial emphasis about a year ago has been a natural repository for the so-called ecology freaks (compulsive, idealistic naturalists), and the movement continues to be regarded as a prime target for radical leftists and antiwar revolutionaries. The very makeup of the ecology movement makes it a fertile recruiting ground for organizations with other and highly ulterior motives. The cooperation of the UAW and the Teamsters remains something of a mystery. One of the points listed by Environmental Action that they will strive for is banning of the internal combustion engine after 1975. This point must certainly irritate the sensibilities of the unions' leaders whose rank-and-file is so completely dependent upon the engine.

The remainder of the small group (about 10 people) are relatively unknown representatives of other American anti-establishment movements. Included are representatives of the Berkeley (California) Student Movement, the Women's Liberation Movement, Newsreel, Movement for a Democratic Military, and San Francisco's Chinatown Red Guard. The group's journey has been accompanied by the usual anti-American rhetoric dealing with the time-worn topics of U.S. imperialism and American brainwashing and propagandizing about Korea. still under the control of slightly left wing dedicated pacifists rather than communists. The organization has been active in legislative lobbying and social work and strongly endorsed the Poor People's Campaign. The WILPF is on record with three principal international goals: 1) total and universal disarmament, 2) economic and social well-being and protection of civil rights, and 3) the formation of a world organization functioning democratically within the framework of law for the settlement of international economic and social problems.

During the forth-coming campaign, women will be asked to refrain from shopping on the first Saturday of each month as a dramatization of their serious concern for peace in Vietnam. Shoppers will be asked to concentrate on a list of consumer items manufactured by major producers of war materials. Among the manufacturers mentioned in a recent two-day meeting were Westinghouse, Motorola, Dow, and General Electric. A second action planned by the ladies is to work for the election of peace candidates next November. A third action will be to support and participate in an international peace conference to be held in Canada in October which Indo-Chinese women will also attend.

Additional suggestions to emerge from the recent conference were to support sons, husbands, and brothers who resist the draft and the encouraging of women to participate actively in preventing the Selective Service System from functioning. It was also suggested that the ladies refuse to pay telephone taxes and other Federal taxes which are used for military purposes and to support the just demands of all minority groups in their struggle for legal justice and equal opportunities.

The Women's Liberation Movement is planning several events during this period. From 28-30 August, a national conference on feminism is being sponsored by Human Rights for Women, Inc. This organization provides free legal assistance for women seeking redress against sex discrimination.

Betty Friedan, head of the advisory board of the National Organization for Women, has announced a Women's Strike for Equality Day on 26 August. This date is the 50th anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the vote. A number of bizarre events have been scheduled for this day of demonstration. To protest sex discrimination, Mrs. Friedan has proposed a march by women carrying lighted candles into the halls of politics as well as a massive "sit-in" and "baby-in" where infants are to be placed on the laps of city fathers to show the need for child care centers in New York.

The present president of NOW, Aileen Hernandez, in a May press conference stated that the demonstration will not be merely symbolic. Women on the 26th of August will refrain from shopping, secretaries will stop typing, and wives will debate their husbands in the home. Women in Boston plan to distribute 4,000 pressurized cans of contraceptive foam on Boston Commons.

Mrs. Friedan has listed three major objectives for the strike: free abortion on demand in every state, 24-hour child care centers under the control of parents, and true equality in education and employment.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTDirection of the Antiwar Movement

In June two national meetings were held in the U.S. by leaders in the antiwar movement. Significant events took place both at Cleveland and at Milwaukee, largely missed by news media, which give salient evidence with regard to future antiwar activities in America.

First the National Emergency Conference Against the Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam War was staged at Cuyahoga Community College under the sponsorship of the Cleveland Area Peace Action Council. The conference was held from 18-21 June and attracted about 1,400 activists. Among the sponsors were such well-known revolutionaries as M.I.T.'s professor Noam Chomsky, black radical clown Dick Gregory and Trotskyite communist Fred Halstead. Representatives were present from a number of small second string radical leftist groups including the National Chicago Moratorium, the San Francisco Peace and Freedom Party, Chicago Women's Liberation Union, Workers League and the Spartacists. The latter two groups reportedly created some comic relief by their incessant bickering and name-calling over trivial ideological differences.

The principal and most significant breach in conference unity was perpetrated by the two leading groups which indulged in a three-day running battle over both tactic and objective. These two groups, the Student Mobe and the Worker Student Alliance (which was out-gunned by about 2:1) exchanged denunciation and angry rhetoric. Since the Student Mobe (inspite of announced conference sponsorship) was the principal conference mover, they managed to out-vote the WSA on all critical votes.

In summary (and over-simplified) the Student Mobe is the creation of exceedingly strange bedfellows. Several years ago the CPUSA, the Progressive Labor Party (which is Maoist) and the SWP (which is Trotskyite) jointly launched what was to be, for classical communist motives, a mass antiwar youth group that promised to attract many young people falling somewhere on the political spectrum between extreme left and mid-center. After a year or so of hassling and ideological indigestion, the CPUSA dropped out of the alliance in favor of buoying up its own, then sagging and now defunct, W. E. B. DuBois Club. A short time later, after a number of successes in takeover operations of the SDS, PLP also quit the shaky alliance. For the past several years then the Student Mobe has been under sole guidance and control of the SWP. The Young Socialist Alliance, the direct youth appendage of the SWP and in Marxist jargon the youth vanguard (numbering at present probably 2,000 kids), directs the activities of the Student Mobe; and YSA'ers occupy all significant leadership posts within this broad-based group. In practical terms then, as for guidance and direction, when one sees in print Student Mobe, it is safe to think Marx-Trotsky-SWP.

The WSA can more completely be named the Students for a Democratic Society, Progressive Labor, Worker Student Alliance (SDS-PL, WSA). Drawing its principal strength (in terms of constituency) generally in New England, the WSA dropped the first bomb at Chicago in the summer of 1969 that destroyed the national unity and viability of the then mushrooming SDS. The WSA is Maoist in philosophy and still holds strongly to the Marxist teaching that to pull off a successful revolution a movement must attract and conscript the worker (defined as rank-and-file as opposed to labor leaders which the SWP favors).

The conflict then that poses a very serious threat to the unity of the communist-cum-peacenik movement in America is simply one of strong and dogmatic ideological collision. One of the SWP watchwords is patience, another is "single issue strategy." It is the SWP design to first use their mass of kids (the Student Mobe), a known factor, for continued mass demonstration similar to last November's successful turnout at Washington (and lesser but still good show at San Francisco) and keep it peaceful in the hope of attracting even larger numbers of tilting moderates who would be turned off by violence. Secondly, the SWP leaders adhere (and usually have in the past) to a single issue at a time. They view America's soft spot at present as Southeast Asia and that is the wound that should get the salt. Student Mobe leaders (really YSA'ers) have publicly conceded that once they have ended the war they'll pick another target, then another until patient pressure brings the nation down on the heads of those who control the means of production. The SWP, in order to reach the long-term goal, further subscribes to the classic United Front philosophy. If liberal politicians help one whit they should be used co-opted or not.

The WSA is at odds with SWP thinking. First at the risk of isolating the antiwar movement, they regard liberal politicians as just the other side of the conservative coin. They lean toward a confrontation with violence strategy, scuttling the mass demonstration tactic because they believe as do most antiwar activists outside the echelons of SWP that past protestors are tiring of parading and are more interested in festival than political indoctrination and finally, past massing of bodies has accomplished little. The WSA watchword is impatience and they embrace a "multi-issue tactic." Not only should America's Vietnam shin be kicked (including ROTC and military research) but also racism, repression, male chauvinism, imperialism, ecological pollution, etc., etc.

This major split in the antiwar left was underlined the following week at Milwaukee. At a Strategy Action Conference staged there by the New Mobe (who the Student Mobe calls "a bunch of generals without an army") several events occurred among hectic debate and auto-disruption (like the Cleveland meeting and all others in recent months, when petty chiefs are brought together no one wants to be an Indian) that were not widely noted in the straight press. First, under the influence of Rennie Davis, Ron Young and numerous other violence-prone activists, the conference (like the WSA posture at Cleveland) turned away from the now traditional mass demonstration technique. Among the future antiwar activities that will be considered at forthcoming planning sessions are deliberate blockage of transportation, electrical and communication systems and other acts of "civil disobedience" (translated probably as police confrontation). The New Mobe is also at odds with the totally unrelated Student Mobe and plans to follow a multi-issue offensive. This philosophy is certainly a quid pro quo deal in order to build a bigger total force for disruption. For the first time, and this is the major significant point to emerge from Milwaukee, a large and generally respectable group among American Negroes has joined the fray. Ralph Abernathy has apparently committed Martin King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference to the field of antiwarism and has extracted in return New Mobe support and probably a promise of activism in SCLC pet programs. Among the issues now under attack by New Mobesters are racism, repression, equality, etc. New Mobe leaders have further adulterated pure antiwarism by their pledge to the National Welfare Rights Organization that they will support their demand for a minimum income for a family of four to something in excess of $5,000 a year.

In summary, unity has been breached along a broad and widening front. The schism can be expected to continue and much energy previously directed against American democratic order will now be spent on factionalism as history and tradition of political extremism again repeats. The true forces at play are the varied shades and doctrines of international communism (resplendent with the usual array of suckers and dupes) with an added American flavor. The war, though critically important as a short range hub of radicalism from the left, is in fact only a spoke in the long haul revolutionary wheel of the continuing battle to interdict the path of democratic freedom.

#SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTUnited Nations-Sponsored World Youth Assembly

The U. N. -sponsored World Youth Assembly, after a loud and argumentive nine-day history, ended on 17 July 1970. The conference, attended by some 650 delegates from approximately 130 nations, was undoubtedly a major disappointment to many moderate diplomats. The conference was so completely dominated by delegates from communist states and their sympathizers that this conference, the first sponsored by the U. N., will probably also be the last.

Interestingly, the Russians were initially opposed to the concept of a world youth conference. After the plan was approved, however, the Russians wasted no time in organizing all world forces from the left. By contrast, western-oriented and uncommitted national delegates were naively trapped in the political manipulation of the world communist movement. Observers believe that generally speaking the major engineering job of the conference was handled by professional young leftists from the Prague-based International Union of Students and the Budapest-based World Federation of Democratic Youth. Although participants were supposed to be 25 years of age or younger, a number of the east block participants were recognized professionals who had learned their tactics at past youth festivals in various communist capitals. Many of the communist so-called youth delegates were pressing 40 years of age.

The conference was highlighted by denunciation and by delegate walkouts, not to mention cat-call and hissing tactics during various sessions of the conference. When the western or noncommitted delegates walked out the result was merely one of face-saving dignity. When the communists walked out, however, it was always at a critical time designed to prevent valid votes on key topics.

Some of the noteworthy events and products of the Youth Assembly were these: The delegates were treated to a tour of the worst of New York's slum areas; they further had the opportunity to hear an address by Jarvis Tyner, long-time CPUSA youth activist and present.

chairman of the fledgling communist youth organization, the Young Workers Liberation League; in a post assembly meeting one of the assembly committees sent a telegram to Northern Ireland's Bernadette Devlin, deploring her recent imprisonment on charges of inciting to riot; the assembly condemned all fascist regimes including Greece, Spain and Portugal; it called for the abolition of the big power veto in the U.N. Security Council; it demanded the withdrawal of Israelis from occupied Arab territories; it called for the admission of Communist China to the U.N.; it called for the establishment of a democratic state in Palestine; and it demanded the immediate cessation of American aggression against the Indo-Chinese people and the withdrawal of American troops and the recognition of the right of the people of Indo-China to determine their own destiny without foreign interference. As an afterthought (an amendment by the Israeli delegates), the assembly, after heated wrangling, also demanded that the Russians leave Czechoslovakia.

It has been reliably reported that the American delegates to the assembly were, by and large, ineffective. The communist forces succeeded in securing most key votes in outside committees by the simple act of summoning sympathizer strength from other meetings in time to cast a vote.

In summary, the assembly in recognition of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the U.N. was an absolute fiasco and international communist propaganda forum in which the western delegates played it straight and observed the rules and the communist governments made sure that nothing would be left to chance. In a number of cases, ambassadors coached from the sidelines and some diplomats actually participated as delegates. As the assembly ended, Secretary General U Thant praised the participants for "your behavior and spirit of cooperation."

The Powder Ridge music festival scheduled for a ski area near Middlefield has come under considerable fire in recent days. Reportedly, 20,000 tickets have already been sold and possibly 50,000 persons will attend the festival at Middlefield, a town of approximately 4,000 people. Ruling that the music festival would create a public nuisance in the town, a Connecticut state superior court judge has issued an injunction banning the affair. The promoters have appealed and the legality of the festival is in serious doubt. Joseph Middleton, the promoter, allegedly has already spent $135,000 for performers and has budgeted an additional $50,000 for advertising. All of the big names in the rock music business are scheduled to perform at Middlefield.

NY Times 6/24/70

Legal or illegal, it will probably be held and reportedly hippie-type young people are already beginning to assemble in the area. Recent experiences with music festivals of this type (in Georgia, at Chicago's Grant Park, at the Merriweather Post Pavillion in Columbia, Md., and at New York City's Randall's Island) indicate that if no more than 20,000 tickets are sold there will be more gate crashers than stub holders. If the court order holds, there is little doubt that there will be police confrontations, probably considerable property damage to the town and innumerable serious personal injuries.

If Judge Sirica finds in favor of the continuance of Three Sisters Bridge, demonstrations and police confrontations can be anticipated on the Potomac. Wash. News 6-24-76

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, a pacifist group with representation in some 50 countries, and the Women's Division of the American Jewish Congress will initiate a national campaign on the first of August toward ending the war in Vietnam. Although reportedly in its 55 years of existence the WILPF has been influenced, and in some chapters dominated, by communists the organization appears still under the control of slightly left wing dedicated pacifists rather than communists. The organization has been active in legislative lobbying and social work and strongly endorsed the Poor People's Campaign. The WILPF is on record with three principal international goals: 1) total and universal disarmament, 2) economic and social well-being and protection of civil rights, and 3) the formation of a world organization functioning democratically within the framework of law for the settlement of international economic and social problems.

During the forth-coming campaign, women will be asked to refrain from shopping on the first Saturday of each month as a dramatization of their serious concern for peace in Vietnam. Shoppers will be asked to concentrate on a list of consumer items manufactured by major producers of war materials. Among the manufacturers mentioned in a recent two-day meeting were Westinghouse, Motorola, Dow, and General Electric. A second action planned by the ladies is to work for the election of peace candidates next November. A third action will be to support and participate in an international peace conference to be held in Canada in October which Indo-Chinese women will also attend.

Additional suggestions to emerge from the recent conference were to support sons, husbands, and brothers who resist the draft and the encouraging of women to participate actively in preventing the Selective Service System from functioning. It was also suggested that the ladies refuse to pay telephone taxes and other Federal taxes which are used for military purposes and to support the just demands of all minority groups in their struggle for legal justice and equal opportunities.

The newly formed group called Peace Incorporated is promoting the New York Summer Festival for Peace at Shea Stadium on 6 August. The same group helped coordinate the 8-hour long Winter Carnival for Peace staged at Madison Square Garden last January. That event drew 21,000 people and raised $60,000 for the Vietnam Moratorium Committee. The organizers tentatively plan to hold a series of similar festivals in different parts of the country. One is already being planned for Philadelphia on August 9. Admission charges for the Shea Stadium affair will probably range from $5 to $10. The promoters idealistically state that such events are the emergence of a new political force that would be an alternative to street action for young people. "It's a positive affirmation of love and the ability to create change within the system," states Philip Friedmann, one of the organizers.

Proceeds from the affair (after the promoters have pocketed their profit) will go to support the candidacy of peace advocates in the coming November election. A special committee which will decide to what candidates funds will be given is being formed. Among those in the committee are the following: Princeton professor Jim Johnson, who was chairman of the Princeton Strike Committee; Marian Adelman, a lawyer who was active in the Mississippi civil rights movement between 1964-68; Rev. Richard Fernandez, executive director of Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam; Stewart Mott, the eccentric philanthropist; David Hawk, former coordinator of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee; and Michael Brewer, an officer in the liberal Republican Ripon Society. Reportedly, all performers have donated their talent and among those who allegedly will participate are Janis Joplin, Country Joe, Dionne Warwick, Judy Collins, Steppenwolf, the cast of "Hair" and others.

Col. Hassan Jeru Ahmed-Bey, who heads the Black Man's Volunteer Army for Liberation, is planning a rally at the Washington Monument grounds to emphasize the fight against the illegal drug traffic. The rally was originally scheduled for 4 July, but was postponed due to the site and date preemption by Bob Hope's Honor America Day. Col. Hassan's organization reportedly has a national membership of 14,000 persons.

The Black Man's Volunteer Army is particularly concerned with the treatment and cure of drug addiction in the black community. The organization has met a degree of success in treating black drug addicts.

and has now been given some public funds to continue the effort. On the plus side, Negro addicts trust the Colonel and feel secure that all treatment administered by the Volunteer Army will be kept confidential. To be sure, many drug addicts have sought treatment from one of the several local outlets who would not have sought treatment from Washington public health facilities. On the minus side, however, considerable shortcomings have been cited by public health authorities in the Colonel's operation. One criticism is a lack of professional medical supervision in the administration of the addictive but less disastrous drug methadone. Additionally, the centers run by Col. Hassan have to date not provided sufficient laboratory testing facilities to assure that addicts under treatment have not reverted to the use of heroin. For these minus reasons, Col. Hassan's operation is considered only partially successful. SD 81-10-1100000 7/24/76 File 231 241

Betty Friedan, chairman of the advisory board of the National Organization for Women, continues to promote the militant feminist plan for a nationwide women's strike on August 26. Betty Friedan, who calls herself the "chairperson" of August 26 activities, lists three strike demands: free abortions, basic equality and child care centers. The "chairperson" states that political parties, corporations, hospitals, churches, unions, mass media and all the other establishment groups have not yet felt the urgency and power of women who constitute 53 per cent of the national electorate. In her role as a modern Lysistrata, the "chairperson" is urging women to march, demonstrate, sit-in, rap, stop typing, stop vacuuming, stop buying and, if appropriate, stop making love. She labels the strike as really a confrontation. The August date was selected because it coincides with the 50th anniversary of the 19th amendment giving women the vote. WASH SINC 11/26/76 File 347674

Marches and demonstrations are planned this year in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Syracuse and other cities. In Syracuse freedom trash cans will be set up for women to dump some object of their oppression. Karen de Crow, Eastern regional director of the National Organization for Women, advises women to use freedom trash cans to dispose of an apron, a copy of Dr. Spock, hair curlers and, states de Crow, "I fully expect that someone will deposit her husband."

The National Coalition of Nuns, which claims a membership of 1,800, have allegedly agreed to participate in the Chicago protest. New York leaders are also discussing placing infants on the steps of city hall to dramatize the need for child care centers. The day's motto for housewives will be "Don't Iron While the Strike Is Hot." The strike has been endorsed by the League of Women Voters, the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Labor Department and almost every women's liberation group in the political spectrum. Sponsors include New York Rep. Shirley Chisholm, writer Gloria Steinem and Jeannette Rankin, the first woman member of the U.S. House of Representatives. So far the ladies have aroused little collective interest from large groups of women such as nurses, telephone workers and factory employees. The more radical women's groups are not disclosing their plans but they forecast a highly energetic protest. Some surprises are probably in store from the extreme radical feminists.

In Washington, D.C., a protest demonstration is scheduled for Lafayette Park on the 26th. The sponsorship of the Washington protest is by Federally Employed Women, Inc., an organization coordinated by Mrs. Julius Hobson.

The Black Academy of Arts and Letters, founded 16 months ago by 50 black scholars, artists and authors, has announced that three black Americans will be enrolled in the academy's newly established Hall of Fame in September. One of those elected to the Hall of Fame is the late W. E. B. DuBois. DuBois, a founder of the NAACP, joined the Communist Party in 1961 at the age of 93. Before his death a year or so later, he had renounced his American citizenship and had become a citizen of Ghana. The former Communist Party youth group which was succeeded 8 months ago by the present Young Workers Liberation League was named for Dr. DuBois.

Dr. C. Eric Lincoln, president of the board of the Black Academy, has expressed considerable chagrin at the denial of a visa for DuBois' widow, Shirley Graham DuBois, who wanted to attend the ceremonies. The 71 year old Mrs. DuBois, a citizen of Ghana living in Cairo, attempted to obtain a visa to travel to America earlier this year. Reportedly, the Department of Justice overruled State Department approval for the visa. Recently in Harlem David Hilliard, Black Panther chief of staff, has announced that the Panther minister of defense, Huey P. Since the initial organization of the BPP in the San Francisco Bay area, Harlem has reportedly been at best lukewarm to the Party. Repeated organizational efforts have been made in the New York area with scant success. Newton, who has become a martyr and a legend, is probably planning to establish himself in New York in an effort to organize a strong and well-subscribed chapter there.

Newton was serving time in the California Men's Colony for the killing of an Oakland policeman in a 1967 shootout. He will soon be released because the courts have ruled that irregularities existed in the trial judge's charge to the jury that convicted him. Newton will probably be retried in California but a new trial date has not been set and is probably many months if not years in the future. See 6/14/76 File 527510

Antiwar protest groups at Portland are sponsoring a "People's Army Jamboree" (PAJ) on the above dates. The national convention of the American Legion is being held concurrently at Portland. President PAJ has revealed plans for a 30 August parade following the one scheduled by the Legion. Allegedly permits for PAJ have not yet been granted by the city.

"There is a deep crisis in our nation. Public confidence in our foreign policy is faltering, as indicated by the rising dissent concerning military involvement in Southeast Asia. There is continuing oppression of black and brown people in America and a growing skepticism in a significant segment of youths and adults who are losing faith in the present use of established political processes in dealing with national issues.

"In recognition of this crisis and as an approach to dealing effectively with the issues--

"Be it resolved, That, we, the members of the Executive Council:

1. Endorse the Presiding Bishop's address to the Council May 19, 1970 concerning the crisis in American life, and "A Message to the Churches" signed by him and other religious leaders, and recommend wide distribution of these documents to the entire church.
2. Call for the total (sic) withdrawal of all American forces from Southeast Asia now, and an end to the war.
3. Approve Congressional efforts to assure this immediate withdrawal by asserting its constitutional responsibilities regarding appropriation of funds and the commitment of American Military Forces to combat.

4. Call for a re-allocation of the resources of this country from military involvement abroad to domestic programs such as a full employment program, an adequate Family Assistance Program, increased production of housing for low-income and moderate-income households and extension of anti-pollution programs.

5. Urge the President of the United States and the Congress to take every initiative for world peace, especially between the super-powers, by offering to reduce our ballistic systems in the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks and to take such other actions as are appropriate to this end.

6. Support the national student strike against oppressive and unjust actions by the government such as harassment of the Black Panther members, the killing of students on campuses by the National Guard and police forces, and the use of American resources for the destruction of human life.

7. Support efforts of students and other young people to renew the democratic process of this society by participating in the governance of all institutions of this country.

8. Recommend a special voluntary (sic) offering to be taken throughout the entire Church on the 3rd Sunday of September 1970 for the support of student strike activities, including their political educational campaigns, and that said offering be administered by appropriate staff of the Council.

9. Support the current Georgia March led by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and urge Episcopalians to participate.

10. Request the President of this Council to direct its staff to develop programs to implement this Resolution and to act as resource persons to the various Diocese of this Church as they in turn develop their own responses to this crisis.

11. Commend these concerns for the prayers of the Church.

12. Support the call to the Emergency Religious Convocation on the War in Southeast Asia, May 26-27, 1970."

The Justice Department has announced that during the month of October Dept. officials will fan out to 50 college campuses across the nation in an effort to convince students that the Justice Dept. is neither repressive nor lukewarm on civil rights issues. Assistant Attorney General William Ruckelshaus, who is in charge of the program, has defined the objective of the campus visits as an effort to dispel the belief among many students that the Justice Dept. is following unenlightened policies. The Justice Dept. officials also wish to hear complaints of students.

The Department has already received over 200 invitations and the campuses to be chosen will span the entire country and include large, small, public and private institutions. Invitations will not be accepted from student political groups, and every effort will be made to have the meetings sponsored by the institutions themselves. N.Y. Times 9-8-70

An article recently published in the underground newspaper, Kaleidoscope, dealt with an account of the recent bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin. The newspaper reported that the bombing was perpetrated by an organization known as the "New Year's Gang" and that dire consequences would follow if University of Wisconsin officials would not grant several gang demands. Among the demands were release of three Black Panthers presently being held in Wisconsin, the abolition of ROTC on the University of Wisconsin campus and elimination of a new curfew for women at the university. Unless these demands are met, the article continues, "revolutionary measures of an intensity never before seen in this country will be taken by our cadres." Included among these measures were open warfare, kidnapping of important officials and assassination. Further details on the composition and political orientation of the "New Year's Gang" are unknown. The entire composition of the group may well have been the four men presently fugitives from justice and accused of the Wisconsin bombing. The demands deadline was 30 October.

31 October, Washington, D.C.

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, in a Cleveland meeting last June, adopted a proposal for mass demonstrations in various American cities on the 31st of October. The demonstrations, which are allegedly nationally coordinated will be centered around the demand for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all U.S. troops as well as material from Southeast Asia. The October emphasis will be placed on relating the war directly to the issues of racial oppression, inflation, poverty, unemployment, political repression, GI rights and women's liberation.

The Student Mobe (which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance, youth affiliate of the Socialist Workers Party) will continue its effort to involve the labor movement, third world groups and members of the military in opposition to the war. The Student Mobe, persisting in their philosophy, believe that demonstrations in major urban centers is the best way at this time to increase participation in the antiwar movement.

Specific New Mobe plans for particular American cities have thus far not been widely publicized. Principal target cities and demonstration tactics will probably become known in coming weeks.

*4 November, Washington, D.C.

The Black Panther Party-sponsored Constitutional Convention ended last weekend at Philadelphia and is scheduled to reconvene at Washington on 4 November. A site in Washington has not yet been selected but Panther spokesmen believe that the November meeting will exceed in attendance the approximate 6,000 that attended at Philadelphia.

The recently concluded meeting was reportedly chaotic and accomplished little aside from the usual brand of Panther rhetoric. Michael Tabor (one of the New York bomb conspirators to stand trial soon), radical attorney Charles Garry, and Panther minister of information "Big Man" Howard encouraged the usual "kill the pigs" action. Interestingly, Huey Newton, the Panther's undisputed No. 1 leader and martyr, was considerably more moderate in his address to the gathering. Newton assumed more of a "black self-defense" posture that was in fact a basic original concept of the Black Panther movement.

Apparently most of the organizational acumen during the Philadelphia meeting was the product of white radicals. Varying estimates range as high as 40 per cent participation by white youth during the Panther convention. Aside from the Panthers, organizations represented at Philadelphia who will probably also play radical-political football with the Panthers at Washington were the Communist Party, Socialist Worker's Party, Gay Liberation Front, Young Lords, Student Mobe, SDS, Women's Liberation Front, and the Women's Strike for Peace. The Philadelphia meeting followed the normal pattern in that the plenary session broke into work groups on specific topics which later reported to the general assembly. Little or nothing was defined aside from a decision that a new U.S. constitution should be heavily weighted against oppression.

More details of the 4 November convention will be reported as they are received.

*3 October, Washington, D.C.

Rev. Carl McIntire, the hawkish radio preacher, is staging a March for Victory in Vietnam at Washington, D.C., on this date. The guest of honor is still scheduled to be South Vietnam's Vice President Ky. Ky left Saigon on 22 September for a stop first in Paris before his trip to Washington. Ambassador Bunker was among the group of dignitaries seeing Ky off at the Saigon Airport. Extensive press coverage has been noted in the past two weeks about the Ky visit. It was for a time regarded highly doubtful that Ky would make an appearance at the McIntire rally. At this time it seems that South Vietnam's Vice President is determined to do so. This development in America's pro-war community has prompted antiwar forces to schedule counterdemonstrations in Washington on the same date.

In a recent article in Washington's underground Quicksilver Times (15-25 September 1970), a spokesman for the Youth International Party (Yippie) states that if Ky shows up he will be met by 100,000 "stoned freaks." The Yippies plan on 3 October to distribute 5,000 Vietnamese flags so that Ky can be exposed to those who side with the North.

Less bizarre but possibly more ominous is another counterdemonstration planned for Ky's visit on the 3rd. On 21 September Rennie Davis, the radical leftist spokesman for the New Mobe, was at George Washington University (GWU) stirring up support for a somewhat more civilized but potentially violent and confrontational antiwar demonstration. In attendance at the meeting at GWU were students from GWU, American University, Georgetown University and the University of Maryland. Press reports reflect that the plan supported by Davis was vague in nature and resulted in confused debate among participants. At the GWU meeting the Student Mobe at GWU proposed a massive peaceful non-confrontational demonstration, but the group opted for more militancy as proposed by Davis. Davis told the students "we must declare Ky a war criminal and demand his arrest. We will march together to the war rally at Washington Memorial, surround Ky, and then arrest him as a war criminal." (Yippie spokesmen have also threatened to arrest Ky.)

The fact that Davis of the New Mobe as well as representatives from the Student Mobe participated at the GWU gathering is of some significance in and of itself. These two groups which represent basic differences in American communism have been feuding since last fall and only in recent weeks have been showing several signs of reconciliation, at least temporarily.

Since the present plans by pro- and antiwar factions at the same place on the same date constitute serious and profound differences of approach to American foreign policy, specifically with regard to our Southeast Asian involvement, all elements of a serious and, potentially bloody confrontation are present. Not only are most elements scheduling demonstrations on 3 October militant in approach, but narcotics in quantity will probably be present and be used. Additionally, a sizable number of people can be expected. Since the rock music festival season has passed, the Yippies will probably muster at least 10-15,000 street people. Although the Rennie Davis effort is late in starting, local colleges alone could produce many thousands of protestors. McIntire promises one half million but more realistically will probably attract between 50,000 and 70,000. Vice President Ky certainly must be regarded as a strong drawing card for the demonstration. It should also be pointed out that many of the McIntire followers are blue collar types, and undoubtedly many subscribe to a "hard hat" mentality.

On 23 September, Davis and fellow radical leftist antiwar leader, Prof. Sidney Peck, announced formation of the Ad Hoc Committee to Protest the Presence of Ky in Washington. Their plan is to march on the 3rd from the HEW building at 4th and Independence Avenue to the Monument grounds and engage in "civil disobedience" (a philosophy of "militant civil disobedience" as enunciated by Davis and others several months ago is one of the several serious strategy differences between the New Mobe and the Trotskyite Student Mobe who subscribe to "massive nonviolence"; the dropping of the word "militant" is probably not an accident but rather a compromise to elicit support of local Student Mobesters; one of the other serious strategy problems between the antiwar radical groups--that of a "one issue at a time" tactic advanced by the Trotskyites--is not at issue this time out).

David Ifshin, newly elected president of the National Student Association (past student body president of Syracuse University where he championed several radical causes) announced on 23 September that a delegation of NSAers has begun a vigil and hunger strike at Lafayette Park that will continue until 3 October. NSA will probably not be involved en masse in demonstrations at the Washington Monument.

No threat to government buildings has been mentioned in demonstration rhetoric, and it is not believed that federal agencies have been targeted for 3 October.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT

Prospects for Washington Disruption by Black Militants, November 1970

The Black Panther Party has scheduled the second session of a constitutional convention for Washington in November (the first session was held at Philadelphia over Labor Day weekend). The convention dates are still not firm but are believed to be for a beginning either on 4 November or 11 November and will run for several days. The site has also not yet been determined. The Panthers are trying to obtain the National Guard armory. Reportedly, Washington police are attempting to prevent the use of the armory for the event.

In a late September address to several hundred students at the University of Maryland, Rennie Davis, leading new left spokesman and one of the recently convicted Chicago conspirators, brought up the use of Maryland's Cole Field House as a possible site for the Panther convention. The request has since been considered by the student government (which split 8:7 in favor) and the administration. Use of the Cole Field House has since been denied by the student government and university administration (in a combined statement) for a number of valid reasons. The Panthers have not publicly expressed disappointment and probably neither expected nor wanted a site so far removed from the more friendly environs of Washington.

Prominent Black Panther personalities will be in town for the convention. Huey Newton, David Hilliard, Elbert "Big Man" Howard and Willie Dawkins are expected among others. Dawkins, principal leader of Washington activities for the Panthers and reportedly a major drafter of the new constitution, is presently a fugitive. Dawkins, recently involved in a Louisiana "shoot out," is sought by police on conspiracy to riot charges.

At this date, local police expect no trouble from the anticipated convention. The gathering is expected to be, in fact, a convention and not a demonstration. The Du Pont Circle area has not been noted in underground or radical publications as a possible site for black militant demonstrations, and the D.C. police intelligence unit is not in possession of any information indicating this possibility. The Du Pont Circle area is known as the domain of the hippies of Washington, a community characterized as principally Caucasian.

There are several disturbing factors that must, however, be considered. It is known, for instance, that white new left radicals embracing varied philosophies are soliciting the allegiance of black dissidents. At the first Panther constitutional convention session (a chaotic and nonproductive effort) white radicals in attendance numbered about 40 per cent. The percentage will probably be that high in Washington. The white radicals' extra-campus sympathy stronghold in Washington would be among the "hippie" community, hence Du Pont Circle cannot be completely dismissed as a possible white radical inspired and led Panther demonstration site. Secondly, the Panthers may fail to find a large and suitable meeting place. Washington police are expecting between 20,000 and 25,000 people to attend, and radical organizers (white or black) have never been known to call off or postpone meetings over "minor" technicalities. The obvious result would be 25,000 people bent on dissent and militancy with no place to meet except the streets of Washington.

No other black militant groups are believed to have sufficient strength and support in Washington to stage a significant and/or violent demonstration in the city at this time.

In summary, the chance of a black militant demonstration of consequence in Washington, specifically in the Du Pont Circle area in November, is considered unlikely.

As additional information is developed, it will be reported.

The tape recording reflected that the Weatherman faction was responsible for the recent bombing of the statue in Chicago's Haymarket Square and reflected further that next week "begins the fall offensive of youth resistance that will spread from Santa Barbara to Boston, back to Kent and Kansas. Now we are everywhere and next week families and tribes will attack the enemy around the country." The tape recording continued in a threatening tone and dealt with alleged American injustice in various popular areas.

If the Bernardine Dohrn tape recording is in earnest, the targets will probably continue to be municipal police structures.

Reportedly petitions will be presented to the city council and demonstrations will be held at welfare offices and at the Panther 21 trial relating other issues to the war. A rally will also be staged at city hall.

The Student Mobe is also planning rallies on three New York City campuses for this date. The rallies scheduled at Columbia, New York University and Queen's College are in an effort to build for the major demonstrations on 31 October and to demand that university resources be turned over to the antiwar movement.

In a mid-September meeting at the Milwaukee campus at the University of Wisconsin, protest groups including the Trotskyite Young Socialist Alliance and the Communist Party adopted resolutions to hold antiwar demonstrations in major U.S. cities during the last two weeks in October.

*31 October, Nationwide

National Peace Action Day is scheduled for many cities on 31 October. Activities on this date are under the sponsorship of the National Peace Action Coalition. This coalition was begun last June at a Cleveland meeting of the Trotskyite SWP-YSA-Student Mobe. The name was adopted because the Trotskyites have picked up some support from nonstudents. Their plans for antiwar activities have been endorsed by some labor leaders and western Mexican-American radicals.

The cities involved are undoubtedly where significant Student Mobe chapters are located. Those named to date are: Atlanta, Austin, Boston, Chicago, Denver, Twin Cities, New Haven, Racine, Columbus, Tampa, Seattle, Washington, Philadelphia, El Paso, St. Louis, San Francisco, Portland, Los Angeles, Niagara Falls, Salt Lake City, Trenton, Phoenix, Providence, and Lawrence. The total of those demonstrating in all cities will probably not exceed last November's highly successful antiwar rally in Washington that reached about 250,000. It will not be surprising if based on President Nixon's continued efforts to disengage and signs of increasing student apathy for marching that the turn-out will be very disappointing to antiwar leaders.

*19 October, Chicago, Illinois

The SMC is calling for a demonstration near the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago on 19 October during a speech by the Vice President at that hotel. Definite plans have not yet been made by the SMC.

*23-25 October, Voluntown, Connecticut

The Committee for Nonviolent Action, Voluntown, Connecticut, is sponsoring an antiwar conference there on 23-25 October. Participants will include a representative of the BPP. Reportedly the Dept. of Justice will be considered as much a target for disruption as the Selective Service System.

*24 October, Ft. Worth-Dallas Area

The Ft. Worth and Dallas Peace Coalition plans to hold demonstrations during the Vice President's visit to that area. A spokesman for the group stated that Ramsey Clark and Jane Fonda have been invited to participate. The group feels that the President may visit Texas at the same time as the Vice President.

26 October-1 November, International

During a strategy action conference held at Milwaukee from 11-13 September, delegates from the Student Strike Committee at the University of California at Berkeley reported that a week of international protest against the war in Southeast Asia on the above dates would be coordinated by the Berkeley group. Targets of the international protest are U.S. corporations with visibility abroad. General Motors, General Electric, International Telephone and Telegraph, Standard Oil and Pan American Airways have been named as some targets of the protest. These protests which will probably be in the form of demonstrations are being organized in Australia, Japan, New Zealand, Nationalist China (Taiwan), West Germany, South Korea, Thailand, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark.

30 October, Madison, Wisconsin

An article recently published in the underground newspaper, Kaleidoscope, dealt with an account of the recent bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin. The newspaper reported that the bombing was perpetrated by an organization known as the "New Year's Gang" and that dire consequences would follow if University of Wisconsin officials would not grant several gang demands. Among the demands were release of three Black Panthers presently being held in Wisconsin, the abolition of ROTC on the University of Wisconsin campus and elimination of a new curfew for women at the university. Unless these demands are met, the article continues, "revolutionary measures of an intensity never before seen in this country will be taken by our cadres." Included among these measures were open warfare, kidnapping of important officials and assassination. Further details on the composition and political orientation of the "New Year's Gang" are unknown. The entire composition of the group may well have been the four men presently fugitives from justice and accused of the Wisconsin bombing. The demands deadline was 30 October.

*1 November, New York

The New York Third World Coalition is planning an antiwar march through Harlem on the above date.

*4 (11) November, Washington, D.C.

The second session of the Black Panther Party constitutional convention is scheduled for Washington beginning on either the 4th or 11th of November. The site for the Washington convention has not yet been determined but reportedly the Black Panther Party is attempting to obtain use of Washington's National Guard Armory. Washington police estimate that between 20,000 and 25,000 persons will be in attendance for the convention. The first session was held in Philadelphia last Labor Day weekend and was generally regarded as a nonproductive effort. White radicals at Philadelphia numbered approximately 40 per cent and a like number can be expected for the Washington gathering.

*22 November, South Bend, Indiana

A regional strategy action conference, which contains elements of the New Mobe, met at South Bend, Indiana, on 30 September to plan a demonstration against the Vietnam War and unemployment at South Bend on 22 November. Of the 14 individuals present, six reportedly are current members of the Communist Party. Jay Schaffner stated he was hopeful United States Senator McGovern will attend a planning session at South Bend on the morning of 10 October. This meeting will be a statewide meeting of antiwar elements.

*30 November-2 December, Detroit, Michigan

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War will hold a national inquiry at Detroit to document atrocities committed by U.S. forces against the Vietnamese people.

9 October 1970SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTSan Fernando Valley State College

Valley State, founded in 1948 as one of the 18 schools in the California state college system, became newsworthy nationally in November 1968. The incident began when a delegation of black students demanded the removal of the white freshman football coach on the grounds that he was prejudiced. When the athletic director refused, the campus of some 15,000 located in the upper middle-class community of Northridge, a Los Angeles suburb, was thrown into turmoil when the angry blacks marched to the administration building and occupied significant parts of it. Members of the faculty and administrative employees were detained against their will and the then acting president, Dr. Paul Blumgren, was forced to sign a statement agreeing to a list of student demands. Blumgren later repudiated the statement stating that it had been signed under threat of violence.

Several hundred arrests followed and the ringleaders were brought to trial and convicted in the fall of 1969. Most of those involved were convicted on felony charges and several were sentenced to terms in prison of from 1 to 25 years. The others were given lesser sentences. The trial was considered highly significant in legal circles in Los Angeles because the students had been tried and convicted on felony charges for campus demonstrations. Legal observers believed that the Valley State trial could signify a growing crackdown against youthful dissenters in California.

At the moment, the campus is quiet, and intelligence sources in Los Angeles believe it will remain so this year. The reasons they believe this, however, and the obvious political climate at Valley State are ominous and discouraging. Current information indicates a tense and highly politicized campus. The current student government which was elected by a political coalition of white radical, black and Mexican-American organizations counts 17 "new left" and "movement" activists among the total of 19 members. The student government at Valley State (as on most American campuses) controls the funding for all student organizations, and according to a reliable source it is becoming increasingly evident that those organizations not siding with the new left are losing their funding and their charter.

The campus is quiet compared to last year because the student government reportedly has the administrative and academic operations of the school seriously intimidated. They have the legal means to harass the administration at will to accomplish their objectives, hence, no need for violent confrontation. A member of the "movement" was recently heard to express the thought that this year radical objectives can be gained nonviolently.

Those groups active at Valley State are the Peoples' Revolution Group (the campus political party that controls the student government), the Black Student Union, Students for a Democratic Society (now only a few members), the Student Revolutionary Anarchist Family, International Workers of the World, the Social Action Corps, MECHA (a Mexican-American group), the Progressive Labor Party and the Che-Lamumba Club (more information about C-L Club below). There is little cohesion among them, however; and, as is the case nationally, they are all vying for radical leadership. Los Angeles intelligence officials flatly state that Valley State College is the most radical college in Southern California in terms of membership numbers and the ability of the old and new left to control student activities.

Racially, the situation is quiet but tense. Minority students are reportedly still fuming over what they (and the American Civil Liberties Union) regarded as harsh punishment handed out by Judge Brandler to Negro students for the November 1968 incident. The two whites involved were convicted on misdemeanor charges only. (All 20 who were sentenced, incidentally, exhausted all appeals and all served about 6 months. They have now been released and reportedly several have returned to school at Valley State.) The BSU at Valley State is regarded by intelligence sources in Los Angeles as the strongest in the United States. At present, the BSU is reportedly angry over 24 recent indictments of their people handed down by the Los Angeles county district attorney in connection with campus disturbances last year.

The student newspaper, the Sundial, is oriented to the left and under the funding control of the student government. Token faculty guidance and virtually no censorship characterize Sundial operations. Financial support comes from the general fund (student fees paid at time of registration).

In addition to the normal courses offered, several borderline radical subjects are officially taught at Valley State. Two such courses are Social Change and Problems of Cultural Change. Additionally, there is an "experimental college" on campus (using college facilities but not college funds) that is operated by white and black radicals and Chicanos offering, for no credit, the usual offbeat subjects such as Hypnosis, Yoga, Astrology, Occult Sciences, etc. Finally, offered off campus by the Che-Lamumba Club, are such subjects as Revolution and Kidnapping and Hijacking. Reportedly, the as yet unidentified instructor of Kidnapping and Hijacking is Cuban and believed to be a Cuban agent. The club has been infiltrated by police intelligence officers who also plan to enroll in Kidnapping and Hijacking.

The State of California has decided to reduce drastically the size of Valley State over the next several years. The purpose for the reduction is unclear but is believed ostensibly to be alleviation of overcrowding and promotion of the image of a community college. The reduction of admissions has also caused serious problems for the school. A year ago, the administration agreed to accept 700 minority students each year to balance the overall enrollment ethnically. Now that admissions are down 50 per cent, the blacks and Chicanos are not willing to sustain a 50 per cent cut in minority admissions.

With all of its problems, Valley State still educates many moderates and conservatives. Radicals there probably number between 5 and 10 per cent (very high, most observers believe 2 per cent is about the standard on American campuses). Just a few days ago, Jesse M. Unruh, a prominent California politician and present Democratic candidate for governor, gave rough treatment to a student heckler to the applause of most of the 2,000 students in attendance.

In summary, San Fernando Valley State College is politically troubled and racially tense. The odds are that the school will get through the year without bombings and without violence, but no one will be surprised if it does not make it.

A Cuban student organization (Federacion Estudiantil Cubana) plans to demonstrate at the UN Building on the above date to protest the reported appearance of Fidel Castro and Cuban President Dorticos at the 25th anniversary of the UN. Reportedly an official of the FEC which allegedly has college chapters in various parts of the United States has been in New York since 13 October coordinating plans for the demonstration. The FEC will picket the UN Building, and an anonymous telephone call will be made to the New York City Police Dept. reporting that a bomb has been placed inside the UN Building. The FEC anticipates that authorities will then remove all UN delegates from the building at which time FEC members will attempt to rush police lines and enter the building. FBI 100-5-8 10/24/68

*26 October, Greenville, South Carolina

Father Michael Kaney, chairman of the Greenville chapter of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a pacifist group, has applied for a permit to hold an antiwar rally at Greenville during Vice President Agnew's visit on the 26th. A rally is scheduled across the street from the auditorium in which the Vice President is to speak. The demonstrators then plan to march to a downtown park where another rally will be held. Reportedly the radical student movement at Furman University will participate in the demonstration. FILE 10/1/70

*26 October, Raleigh, North Carolina

The Youth International Party and an unidentified group of students have announced demonstrations at North Carolina State University during Vice President Agnew's visit to that campus. The Yippies plan a "spoof of the Agnew rhetoric," and plan to disrupt the Vice President's speech through continued applause. The unidentified student group will hold a "free people's lunch" on the campus and will listen to the Vice President's speech over a loud speaker and then will have their own speakers discuss the Agnew statement. Reportedly chaplains at the university have donated $225 to the demonstrators. One student, FILE 10/1/70, allegedly has obtained a number of tickets to the Vice President's speech but has not indicated what use will be made of them.

26 October - 1 November, International

During a strategy action conference held at Milwaukee from 11-13 September, delegates from the Student Strike Committee at the University of California at Berkeley reported that a week of international protest against the war in Southeast Asia on the above dates would be coordinated by the Berkeley group. 30 October, Madison, Wisconsin

The New Year's Gang, a small group claiming credit for the August bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin, has threatened dire consequences if several gang demands are not met by 30 October. Included among measures that the gang will take are open warfare, kidnapping of important officials and assassination. Since all known members of the gang are presently fugitives and believed to be out of the country, it is not expected that gang threats for Madison on 30 October will be implemented. 1/05/55 4/5/55 - 10/1/55 - 10/1/55 - 10/1/55

*30 October, New York

A Cleveland Puerto Rican group seeking independence for Puerto Rico plans to demonstrate at the UN Building on 30 October. Demonstrators will demand that the UN "listen to the voices of liberation for Puerto Rico," and "identify the U.S. as the exploiter of Puerto Rico." A spokesman for the group has stated that he has a permit for the demonstration along with the BPP on the proposed date. Two hundred persons are expected from Cleveland, and the spokesman indicated that the demonstration will be peaceful. "Violence," states the spokesman, "will depend on the reaction of the authorities."

FILE 150556 OCT 10

*31 October, Nationwide

Protest demonstrations in a growing number of American cities will be sponsored on this date by the National Peace Action Coalition. This coalition was begun last June at a Cleveland meeting dominated and controlled by the Trotskyite family of organizations (SWP, YSA, Student Mobe). The new name was adopted because the Trotskyites have picked up some support from nonstudent organizations including some labor groups, some Mexican-American radicals in the Western United States, and others. Reportedly Women's Liberation and some "Third World" organizations as well as GI groups are lending some support to scheduled demonstrations.

The National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression, which is basically the successor organization to the New Mobe and comprises those individuals and organizations who are in disagreement with the Trotskyite single issue approach, has not formally endorsed the scheduled demonstrations on 31 October. It is possible, however, that some NCAWRR members may speak at selected rallies. The NCAWRR is now calling for its own mass demonstration at the UN Building in New York on 15 November. A sampling of demonstration plans that have been publicized so far include: at Philadelphia, a march from the JFK Plaza to Independence Mall; at Boston, a demonstration on the Boston Commons; at Trenton, a demonstration on the state capitol grounds; at Austin, a demonstration at the capitol including military personnel from Ft. Sam Houston, Ft. Hood, and Bergstrom AFB; and at Chicago, a 1 p.m. march through the Loop to the Grand Park Bandshell for a rally at 3 p.m. Organizations that have allegedly endorsed the Chicago march include UAW Local 1083, the American Federation of Government Employees, the Medical Committee for Human Rights, Chicago Women's Liberation Union, Veterans for Peace in Vietnam, and the Communications Industry for Peace and Freedom.

F I Plans at Washington, D.C., are for a rally to be held in Lafayette Park where thousands of people are expected by the planners in defiance of the limit of 500 demonstrators which has been set by the U.S. Department of Interior. At Madison, Wisconsin, the University of Wisconsin Student Mobe chapter is seeking permission to demonstrate during a weekend football game. In addition, an antiwar march is scheduled for the following day, 1 November, at Madison. At Tuscaloosa demonstrators will attempt to march in the University of Alabama's homecoming parade and then will hold an antiwar rally on the campus. At Tucson demonstrators plan to occupy the University of Arizona administration building.]

So far demonstrations have been announced in the following cities: Albany, Amherst (Mass.), Atlanta, Austin, Boston, Cedar Falls, Chicago, Columbus (Ohio), Denver, Detroit, El Paso, Ft. Worth, Lawrence (Kansas), Logan (Utah), Los Angeles, Madison, Minneapolis, New Haven, New York City, Niagara Falls, Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Phoenix, Portland, Providence, Racine, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Tampa, Trenton, Tucson, Tuscaloosa, Washington, D.C., Worcester (Mass.), and York.

Jerry Gordon, chairman of the NPAC, expects the biggest rallies and marches on the 31st to be at New York and Boston. In a mid-October press conference Gordon also advised that rallies and marches throughout the country would be peaceful and confrontations would be forbidden. Those demonstrating in all cities named (and probably several that will yet be added) will probably not be as successful as antiwar leaders hope in terms of number of participants. The Metropolitan Washington, D.C. Police Intelligence Unit is not expecting any problems in controlling what they believe will be a disappointingly small turnout for demonstration planners. It would appear that enthusiasm for demonstrations of this type is on the wane, and the demonstrations scheduled for 31 October may herald the beginning of the end for continued demonstrations of this type. If the 31 October demonstrations fail miserably, future protests will probably be calculated to be smaller but angrier.

It is not believed that Government facilities are targeted for disruption on 31 October. (London 10/2/70 - FLE 11/01/70 - LVT 11/1/70)

*November, Washington, D.C.

The BPP continues to schedule the second session of a constitutional convention sometime during the month. The dates are not firm because the site has not yet been determined. With the assistance of the prestigious Washington law firm Arnold and Porter the Panthers go to court on 26 October to seek the legal right to stage their convention at Washington's National Guard Armory. Washington police officials expect the Panthers to lose their legal battle, and they will again be seeking suitable facilities for the convention. At this time the best bet continues to be facilities of Howard University. (LVT 11/1/70)

1 November, New York

The Third World Coalition is scheduling an antiwar march through Harlem on the above date. No additional details are known. (LVT 11/1/70)

*3 November, San Francisco and Chicago

Allegedly a "Day of Wrath" was planned in an August meeting of the interim committee of SDS (SDS faction unknown but probably Revolutionary Youth Movement). According to very skimpy details, "something big" is scheduled to occur in Chicago and in the San Francisco Bay area on the above date. No further details are known. (LVT 11/1/70)

*3 November, Detroit

National headquarters of SDS (PLP faction) at Boston has scheduled a demonstration at Detroit on election day. The demonstration will be in support of the auto workers strike and will have other themes including "elections are a hoax," "U.S. stop negotiations and get out of Vietnam now," and "support ghetto rebellions." (LVT 11/1/70)

*9 November, New York

An extradition hearing will be held for Angela Davis on 9 November. It is expected that she will be returned to California for trial on charges of kidnapping and murder. (LVT 11/1/70)

*15 November, New York City

The NCAWRR has recently announced plans for a mass demonstration at the UN Building on this date. No additional details of NCAWRR plans are known at this time.

*17 November, Washington, D.C.

Mayor Walter E. Washington and Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe have announced a public hearing on the Three Sisters Bridge on the above date. Construction of the bridge over the Three Sister Islands has, in the past, motivated environmental activists to protest and demonstrate at the river bank to impede construction of the planned span. If it is eventually decided to continue construction across the Three Sister's, additional protest demonstrations by concerned citizens with help from the Washington street people community can be anticipated.

*21 November, Toronto, Canada

The trial of William Kunstler, well known radical lawyer, will convene in Toronto on the above date. Kunstler is charged with assault causing bodily harm as a result of his striking a leader of a Canadian right-wing organization on the head with a water pitcher several months ago. Kunstler, at the time, was in Canada on a speaking engagement. He has pleaded not guilty to the charges.

22 November, South Bend, Indiana

A regional strategy action conference, which contains elements of the New Mobe, met at South Bend on 30 September to plan a demonstration against the Vietnam War and unemployment at South Bend on 22 November. Of the 14 individuals present at the 30 September conference, six reportedly are current members of the Communist Party.

30 November-2 December, Detroit

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War will hold an antiwar press conference at Detroit on the above dates. A similar press conference was held on 25 September at Minneapolis where five members of the organization gave eye witness accounts of atrocities committed against the Vietnamese people by U.S. forces.

*4-6 December, Unknown Location

The National Peace Action Coalition which is sponsoring anti-war demonstrations on 31 October in a number of American cities is scheduling a national convention of the antiwar movement at an as yet undecided location on the above dates. Depending on the success or failure of the 31 October protests, this convention may well reunite the now feuding major elements in the antiwar movement. If the turnout of 31 October is rated by the Trotskyite leadership as marginally successful or better, the Trotskyites (SWP, YSA, Student Mobc) will probably elect to continue going it alone with their "single issue" tactic. If activities planned for 31 October, on the other hand, flop, the Trotskyites may well reunite with the CPUSA-dominated NCAWRR. [REDACTED]

November, Washington, D.C.

The BPP continues to schedule the second session of a constitutional convention in Washington sometime during November. Last week a three-judge appeals court turned down the Panther request for use of Washington's National Guard Armory, and the Panthers have so far been unable to obtain other suitable quarters. Panther attorneys are now petitioning for a full nine-judge appeals court hearing. The tentative dates for the convention are 27-29 November. It is now believed likely that the Panthers may have to postpone their convention. Howard University continues to be the most likely location for a Panther convention at Washington in November. W.H. 1st

9 November, Nationwide

Michael Lerner, a leader of the Seattle Liberation Front, has announced demonstrations in a number of U.S. cities on the above date to support the trial of the "Seattle 8." The "Seattle 8" refers to 8 members of the Seattle Liberation Front including Lerner who are charged with violation of the antiriot laws and whose trial begins at Seattle on 9 November. Lerner and others of the front are allegedly displeased with poor national media coverage and the demonstrations will focus on media offices demanding that the trial receive daily coverage. Lerner, along with Rennie Davis, since at least last August has been pushing the plan to shut down Washington, D.C. next May. Lerner apparently believes that the Seattle trial should receive the same in depth news coverage as the now famous Chicago trial of Davis, Delinger, et al., received last year. FILE 100-100000-10

*9 November, New York

An extradition hearing in New York is to be held for Angela Davis on the above date in which it is expected that she will be returned to California for trial on charges of kidnapping and murder. Miss Davis has understandably been receiving considerable publicity in the Daily World, the East Coast newspaper of the CPUSA. The Daily World as well as other radical papers are attempting to pressure Gov. Rockefeller into refusing to sign extradition papers. There will undoubtedly be a sizable and probably angry demonstration at 100 Centre Street in Manhattan during the hearing which is scheduled at 10 a.m.

*11 November, Washington, D.C.

The predominately black National Alliance of Postal and Federal Employees are scheduling a rally on the above date. The group which is protesting racial discrimination in Government employment practices will meet at 7:30 p.m. at a church at 11th and R Street, N.W. Among the speakers will be local activists Julius Hobson and Anita Shelton.

The National Coalition Against War, Racism, and Repression, the CP-dominated successor organization to the New Mobe, has announced plans for demonstrations at the UN Building on the above dates. The group reportedly will present an end-the-war petition to the UN. On 21 November the demonstration will be in the form of a march from the Columbus Circle to the UN Building with the possibility of some acts of civil disobedience at the conclusion of the march. FILE 11/15/70

*17 November, New Haven, Connecticut

BPP leader Bobby Seale and Ericka Huggins, a New Haven Panther, are scheduled to go on trial in New Haven on the above date. Seale and Huggins are charged in connection with the kidnapping and murder of fellow Black Panther Alex Rackley. There will probably be demonstrations at the courthouse of Panthers and other assorted radicals.

*22 November, South Bend, Indiana

The mid-West region of NCAWRR under the domination of the CPUSA is planning a demonstration for South Bend in an effort to stop the war. As part of the coalition for this activity a number of CP-dominated organizations are represented including the Chicago Peace Council, the Michigan City Peace Council, the National Coordinating Committee for Trade Union Action and Democracy, and others. South-bend has been selected as the site because it is the center of a number of alleged ills of current interest to the NCAWRR. Among the slogans for the South Bend action are "immediate end to the war and withdrawal of troops and supplies," "reform the tax structure to make the rich pay," "guaranteed minimum income of $5,500," "stipends to all students," etc.

No Panther demonstrations in the city are planned at this time, and police are not anticipating major trouble. Out of town visitors will probably number several thousand, and several thousand locals can be expected to attend. The trial of William M. Kunstler, prominent radical attorney, has again been rescheduled to begin on 30 November. Kunstler faces charges in Canada of assaulting two members of the right-wing Edmund Burke Society last June. NY Times 11-17-70

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War will hold an antiwar press conference at Detroit on the above dates. A similar press conference was held on 25 September at Minneapolis where five members of the organization gave eye witness accounts of atrocities committed against the Vietnamese people by the U.S. forces. NY Times 11-17-70

*Late November, Hawaii

Sources report that the leadership of the SDS--The Resistance--on learning of the probable visit of Vice President Agnew to Hawaii during the latter part of November, are reportedly planning to organize "an aggressive disruptive-type activity" during the visit. No specific plans for this demonstration have been reported to date. NY Times 11-17-70

*4-6 December, Chicago

The Trotskyite family of organizations (SWP, YSA, Student Mobe, National Peace Action Coalition) has scheduled a national convention of the U.S. Antiwar Movement at Chicago's Packinghouse Labor Center on the above dates. Although advertised as the "U.S. Antiwar Movement," this meeting will probably not be attended in significant numbers by rival antiwar factions. The purpose of the convention is to plan massive antiwar activities for the spring of 1971. It is questionable that the Trotskyites will continue passive antiwar demonstrations in the wake of the dismal results registered on 31 October. The alternatives remaining for the Trotskyites, however, are either continuing going it alone in the ineffective style of 31 October, or coming again to terms with the CPUSA-dominated NCAWRR which is pressing for increased militancy in the antiwar movement. The only noticeable outside help that the Trotskyites received last October came from Mexican-American dissidents principally in the Southwestern United States. In any case, regional chapters in Eastern cities (New York and Washington for sure) are preparing to send delegates to the Chicago conference. Memorandum from KS, 26-29 Dec 70, 1st of 2 pgs

On 2 November a meeting of the leaders of the SDS, WSA faction, was held at Wayne State University in Detroit. At the Detroit meeting it was decided to hold a national convention at Chicago on the above dates.

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

*Late December, San Francisco Bay Area

An informant of undetermined reliability has advised that forthcoming revolutionary acts will be called the "Winter Offensive." This informant provided information that before 1 January 1971 a group of Weathermen, Black Panthers and other radicals will attack the Bank of America at San Francisco (branch unknown) and will kill as many policemen as possible in San Francisco, Berkeley and Oakland. The National Guard and the Marine Reserve Unit in San Francisco have also been indicated as targets.

A diversionary attack allegedly is also being considered on the East Coast. One diversionary target may be a railroad line which transports coal out of West Virginia. The purpose of these violent activities is to force the United States to declare martial law, an act which is hoped will bring sizable support to the side of the revolutionaries which, within a period of several years, would encompass sufficient manpower to overthrow the Government.

The source of this information claims that he received it from more than one source. No additional details are known, but it is regarded as unlikely that the events mentioned will in fact be carried out.

Two New York City groups, Emmaus House and the Christian Community, will assemble at Washington's First Trinity Lutheran Church on 18 December and march to L'Enfant Square near the Justice Building. The demonstrators plan to hold an overnight vigil in the Square for the purpose of protesting recent publicity of a plot to kidnap Government officials and to sabotage certain Washington, D.C. facilities. Tentative speakers for the demonstration are Robert Drinan, dean of the Boston College Law School and Senators Eugene McCarthy and Charles Goodell. It is not anticipated that the planned demonstration will be sizable or particularly significant. 2. 11 14 1970

The War Resisters League, a pacifist organization centered in New York, has undertaken a project aimed at crippling the Selective Service System in 1971. Their plan calls for obtaining 100,000 signatures of men of draft age on a petition of non-cooperation with Selective Service. The plan also calls for a national strike against the draft starting on 1 January 1971. Reportedly the National Student Association which has in recent months turned more radically left is one of the organizations that is cooperating with the War Resisters League in this effort. 181 IN 224867, 11/24/70

The second manslaughter trial of Huey P. Newton, Black Panther supreme commander, for the 1967 killing of an Oakland policeman is scheduled to commence on the above date.

20 January 1971

A federal judge at Detroit has set 20 January for the beginning of the trial of three members of the radical White Panther Party in connection with the 1968 bombing of the CIA office at Ann Arbor. The three defendants are Lawrence Plamondon, John Sinclair and Jack Forest.

*24 April 1971

From 4-6 December the Trotskyite National Peace Action Coalition convened at Chicago to plan forthcoming antiwar demonstrations. About 1,000 people were in attendance at Chicago; and the meeting, not surprisingly, was completely dominated by the Socialist Workers Party family of organizations (SWP, YSA, Student Mobe, NPAC). The convention decided to call for mass antiwar demonstrations on the above date, and it is believed that they will generally follow the pattern of 31 October. Probably this spring, however, additional emphasis will be placed on a certain several cities. One of those cities probably will be Washington, D.C. Additional details will be published within the next week or so, and considerable coverage will be given this antiwar planning in subsequent Situation Information Reports.

*28-31 January, Boston, Chicago, New Haven and New York

Reportedly Black Panther Party leader Huey P. Newton will travel to the cities named above on a personal appearance tour. He is to be accompanied by the Panther chief of staff David Hilliard and Party functionary Connie Matthews. He is scheduled to speak at a community rally in New Haven on 31 January in support of imprisoned Panther chairman Bobby Seale. His speaking tour may include sessions at Princeton and Syracuse, and Newton reportedly is attempting to contract with Yale for several lectures for a $5,000 fee.

Recent speaking engagements of Newton have been what some describe as Hitleresque. His remunerative demands are high, and he insists that the entire audience be seated 10 minutes before he appears and remain seated until 10 minutes after he concludes. He brings his own thug security force, and all persons who attend are frisked. Newton also demands that he alone will be on the podium during his lecture. Several colleges reportedly have canceled him out because of these outlandish demands, but several also have gone along with him.

No change has as yet been made in the plan to begin Newton's second manslaughter trial at Oakland, California, on 11 February. Newton will be tried for the 1967 killing of an Oakland policeman. He was released from prison last September 5 after his case had been reviewed by the California Supreme Court and judged to have been improper. When released, Newton had served two years on the earlier conviction in the gun battle death of the police officer.

The trial date has already been postponed once and will probably be postponed again. Newton's attorney, Charles Garry, the best-known Black Panther defender, is presently involved in the defense of Bobby Seale at New Haven. Since the Seale trial already in progress for many weeks has not yet completed the jury selection, the 11 February date for the Newton trial will probably undergo considerable postponement. It is not believed likely that the State of California will force Newton to trial unless he can be represented by an attorney of his choice. Garry, incidentally, is already in trouble with California judicial authority because he has in the past failed to meet court dates.

*29-31 January, Los Angeles, California

The National Chicano Moratorium Committee plans to demonstrate at Los Angeles on the above dates. Reportedly the demonstrators will begin marching from five different Los Angeles locations on the 29th. The march is scheduled to end in a mass rally at Belvedere Park in East Los Angeles on the 31st. During the march which is for the purpose of protesting "police brutality" police stations and sheriff offices will be picketed.

In connection with this demonstration the Chicano Moratorium Committee demonstrated at the Los Angeles police administration building on 9 January. During this demonstration violence erupted, and 42 persons were arrested for vandalism and other similar offenses. On 14 January Los Angeles police chief Edward M. Davis held a press conference to tell the Mexican-American community that the Chicano youth was being exploited by the Brown Berets and by sophisticated Bolsheviks who he described as "swimming pool communists." Chief Davis explained that he meant by this that the Mexican-American group in Los Angeles was being turned into "prison fodder" by outside communists agitators. Of the 42 arrests early in January, none belong to the group of instigators. Chief Davis' appeal during this press conference was to the parents of Mexican-American youth, an appeal that the parents put a stop to it. Davis stated that "15 months ago a judgment was made by the Communist Party to switch activities from the black community to the Mexican-American community. They saw the black people were not going to hold still and be exploited by the Communist Party so they concentrated on the Mexican-American community." During the press conference Chief Davis identified a number of affluent persons sponsoring the Chicano demonstration who he stated have been identified in Government records as Bolsheviks or communists. Also involved according to the police chief is the Los Angeles Peace Action Council which is believed to be communist-dominated.

It cannot be determined whether the chief's news conference will take any steam out of the weekend demonstration or not. Chicano demonstrations in Los Angeles in the past have been violent resulting in death and serious injury, and the term "blood bath" has been used in connection with activities scheduled this coming weekend. It is believed highly likely that serious violence is in the offing for Los Angeles this weekend.

*30-31 January, Washington, D.C.; Ann Arbor, Michigan; Kent, Ohio and Elsewhere in the United States

This weekend significant conferences are being held both by the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression, the CPUSA-controlled successor to the New Mobilization Committee, and by the Socialist Workers Party family of organizations (SWP, YSA, Student Mobe and National Peace Action Coalition). Both antiwar organizations will continue planning their spring antiwar activities. It is still considered highly doubtful that a meeting of the minds between these two major antiwar groups will be reached. The SWP group continues to push for major mass demonstrations in Washington and San Francisco of a nonviolent nature on 24 April. The NCAWRR persists in its plans for early May at Washington. The NCAWRR is expected to adopt a policy of "militant civil disobedience" of a disruptive nature and will protest all grievances, not just the war (which is the strategy of the SWP group).

The results of these conferences and additional details about forthcoming spring antiwar activities will be presented in future Situation Information Reports.

Reportedly over 2,000 veterans of the Vietnam War are sponsoring these three days of formal hearings of American atrocities in Vietnam. The organizational sponsor of these hearings is the Winter Soldier's Investigation, and their purpose is to show that the 1968 Mylai massacre was not an isolated incident. Over 100 veterans are scheduled to testify that such incidents are a matter of national U.S. policy.

Guardian 23 Jan 71

On the last day of the hearings, Vietnamese victims of the war will testify from across the Detroit River in Windsor, Canada, by closed-circuit television.

Reportedly former military personnel from Marine and Army divisions will testify about U.S. ground tactics and the mistreatment of civilians. Former prison guards will relate stories of U.S. torture of war prisoners, and Navy and Air Force veterans will tell about the use of high explosives and napalm in highly populated areas. Marine and Army artillery officers will tell of the indiscriminate use of artillery against farmers, women and children. (Guardian 23 Jan 71)

*2 February, New York

Ralph Abernathy, successor to Martin L. King, Jr. as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will be a featured speaker at a citywide rally promoting the freedom of Angela Davis to be held at 8 p.m. in the Manhattan Center. The rally reportedly will present speakers, entertainments and an hour and one half film entitled "Angela, Portrait of a Revolutionary." The film portrays the imprisoned black communist's life and struggle. Among the list of speakers is black Georgia legislator Julian Bond. The BPP and the Young Lords have also endorsed the rally. The citywide rally is being publicized by the Communist Party organ, the Daily World.

The New York address for the Committee to Free Angela Davis is 29 West 15th Street. (Daily World 13 Jan 71)

Last fall Abernathy was talking up another poor people's march on Washington for this spring. No recent publicity has been noted; and because of the advance planning required for success in such a venture, it can be assumed with relative safety that the march is off for this spring. The Committee of Returned Volunteers, an antiwar group, has announced that a conference of organizations concerned with American imperialism and the liberation movement will be held at the theological seminary at the University of Chicago on the above dates. The National Youth Alliance, a right-wing group supporting victory in Vietnam, plans to demonstrate daily at the White House through 20 February. The demonstrators will demand that the United States win the war and bring back prisoners of war now. Two groups, U.S. Patriots Victory March Committee and Sheldon College students, have been invited to participate. The march committee and Sheldon College are both under the direct control of ultraconservative radio preacher Dr. Carl McIntire who has for the past several years sponsored demonstrations demanding a Vietnam victory. The National Youth Alliance estimates 100 individuals will participate daily in White House demonstrations.

imperialism and the liberation movement will be held at the theological seminary at the University of Chicago on the above dates. The principal purpose of this session is to promote the "People's Peace Treaty" that representatives from the National Student Association (led by David Ifshin) brought back from Hanoi in December. The Chicago meeting will attempt to drum up widespread support for the acceptance of the treaty.

*19-21 February, Washington, D.C.

The Student Mobilization Committee will hold a national student antiwar conference at Catholic University on the above dates. They plan to discuss and make decisions on united mass action scheduled for this coming spring in the struggle against campus complicity in the war effort, building an abolish-the-draft movement, high school rights, support for the GI antiwar movements, and the mobilization of women, workers and Third World people against the war.

The SMC has furnished a liability insurance policy to Catholic University in the amount of $1 million. They have further agreed that arrangements will be made to feed and lodge conference delegates off campus. No disruption is expected in connection with this conference.

*22 February, New York

A demonstration is scheduled in New York City on the above date by the Washington's Birthday Defense Committee. This organization, formed recently at Washington, was organized for the express purpose of defending Father Philip Berrigan et al., who have been indicted for conspiracy to kidnap a Government official and damage Government property. The committee has called the indictments "oppression by the Government" and aside from the scheduled 22 February demonstration has urged committee participation in demonstrations planned for 2-4 April to commemorate the assassination of Martin Luther King. (See entry under 2-4 April.)

22 February, Key Biscayne, Florida

Although no additional details have been reported in recent weeks, 22 February is still believed to be on the schedule of Rev. Carl McIntire and his March for Victory organization to demonstrate at President Nixon's Florida home. Still on the McIntire schedule are demonstrations planned in 50 state capitals for 17 March and a third March for Victory down Pennsylvania Avenue on 8 May. The 8 May date may cause some serious complications because representatives of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (formerly the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression) will be busy in the city on that date, and a major confrontation between pro and antiwar forces may result.

*Late February to 4 April, Miami and Tallahassee, Florida

Reportedly plans are currently being formulated by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference to conduct a protest march in connection with the anniversary date of the assassination of Martin Luther King. As tentative plans presently stand, the march will begin at Miami in late February and end in Tallahassee on 4 April. Marchers will protest the alleged discriminatory practices at Florida hospitals and training centers. The exact route of the march has not yet been determined.

*23 February, Washington, D. C.

Senator Sam J. Ervin of North Carolina, a champion for the past decade of individual constitutional rights, will open nine days of committee hearings on the above date. The principal topic of Senator Ervin's hearings will be domestic spying charges recently brought against the Army and reported in recent weeks at considerable length in national press media. Several former Army intelligence agents are scheduled to give testimony on 24 February. Senator Ervin has also recently expressed concern of excessive use of Social Security numbers, believing that such use may constitute a violation of the individual's constitutional right of privacy.

*1 March, Honolulu, Hawaii

The University of Hawaii chapter of the SDS will conclude demonstrations on the above date staged to demand the elimination of ROTC on the university campus. Between now and the first of March demonstrations have been scheduled for each Thursday, oriented to demand the elimination of ROTC.

A fourth Venceremos Brigade has reportedly been formed and is tentatively scheduled to leave Canada for Cuba on the above date. Members of the brigade will stay in Cuba until the middle of May.

During their stay the participants numbering approximately 300 will divide their time between sugar cane cutting and political indoctrination. Reportedly the Venceremos Brigade National Committee is placing emphasis on recruiting "quality individuals" between the ages of 19-28 years of age from radical groups sympathetic to the "socialist cause." The brigade has issued instructions that individuals who participate are not to submit to interviews by authorities upon return to the United States.

*5 March, Oakland, California

Birthday celebrations for Black Panther boss Huey Newton are now scheduled for 5 March at Oakland. Some disruption in the ghetto neighborhoods at Oakland can be expected during the celebration.

7 March, Washington, D.C.

The Young Socialist Alliance, youth group of the Socialist Workers Party, held its national convention at New York City during the week between Christmas and New Years. During a Women's Liberation report to the convention by a representative of the YSA National Office, the speaker stated that plans are being formulated by a "radical group" of women within the Women's Liberation movement to carry out an assault on the Pentagon on the above date.

*9 March, San Rafael, California

Attorneys for black militant Angela Davis have filed for dismissal of the murder and kidnapping charges against her in the Marin County shootout last 7 August. A retired judge, John P. McMurray, will hear the Davis case. All five Marin County Superior Court judges have disqualified themselves because of their friendship with the slain Judge Harold J. Haley. Charged with Angela Davis is Russell Magee, a San Quentin convict who was the only survivor among the four persons in the escape attempt from Judge Haley's courtroom.

*13-19 March

The above dates have been scheduled by the Black Panther Party as the first in a series of solidarity weeks. On the above dates the Party will honor the Viet Cong. Additional solidarity weeks that have been scheduled are the week of 15 May, with the people of Palestine, and on 5 June with the Arab people. In the promotion of these celebrations some added Panther rhetoric can be expected but no disruptive activity. In a recent column written by Victor Riesel the top nine personalities in the BPP have been listed. The following list represents a fairly good consensus of opinion on their positions of power and influence in the Party. The nine principal leaders in order are: 1) Huey Newton, 2) Bobby Seale, 3) Eldridge Cleaver, 4) David Hilliard, 5) Elbert "Big Man" Howard, 6) Raymond Hewitt, 7) Emory Douglas, 8) Donald Cox and 9) Kathleen Cleaver.

Victor Riesel's article points out additionally that only 43 branches of the BPP (including affiliates) are known to exist. Their membership of hard-core activists numbers between 700-1000. Of the 43 known chapters only 13 call themselves BPP. The remaining 30 are either known as Community Information Centers or the Committee to Combat Fascism.

Panther activities have recently taken some interesting turns. First Eldridge Cleaver and his Algiers contingent have apparently become disenchanted with the antics of Tim Leary and his wife, Rosemary. Electing to call their action protective custody, Cleaver and company, on their own authority, have put Tim and Rosemary under house arrest due most probably to the Leary's continued use of hallucinogenic drugs.

In another recent interesting event Henry Winston, long-time chairman of the CPUSA, has chided Cleaver for doing what Winston terms as a distinct disservice for the fight for freedom of Bobby Seale, Ericka Huggins (on trial with Seale for murder in Connecticut) and all other victims of U.S. reaction in the BPP. Although Cleaver's exact statement reportedly printed in the Party newspaper, the Black Panther, has not yet been reviewed, Winston is highly critical of Cleaver's comments about Angela Davis. Winston characterizes Cleaver's recommendations as demonstrating complete ignorance of developments in the U.S. in general and about black political prisoners in particular. Winston stated in a recent interview that Cleaver's statements about Angela Davis in a recent interview could send her to the gas chamber. Cleaver apparently criticized worldwide communist support for Angela Davis and apparently calls the world communist support for her a "smokescreen" in order to advance ulterior communist motives. The Winston statement demonstrates the continuing push and pull between the pro-Chinese and pro-Russian communist factions and their efforts to control the American Panther movement.

The Progressive Labor Party, a pro-Chinese communist group, is sponsoring a march on Washington on the above date. The march is to protest the high rate of unemployment in the U.S., and marchers are expected from Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. A PLP spokesman has estimated that 2,000 persons will participate. The actual figure will probably be closer to 200, and no disruptions are anticipated.

*2-4 April, Nationwide

Demonstrations to commemorate the assassination date of Dr. Martin Luther King have been scheduled by all significant antiwar coalitions during the weekend of 2 April. On the first day of the demonstration weekend, 2 April, plans call for actions at Washington consisting of lobbying at Federal agencies concerning poverty and welfare. On 3 April hunger marches are scheduled to demand an end to the Vietnam War. Participants will attempt to get businessmen to sponsor them and pay so much per mile for every mile marched. Reportedly money raised by this method will be contributed to religious and poverty groups. April 4 will be a day of commemoration of the assassination of Dr. King. Scheduled activities will be religious in tone and under the direction of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. In addition planners hope that a public fast involving a number of prominent individuals will commence on 2 April. Included among the list of potential fasters are: Ralph Abernathy, King's successor in SCLC; Caesar Chavez of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee; George Wiley of the National Welfare Rights Organization; antiwar activist and self-described Marxist David Dellinger, and possibly Mrs. M.L. King. Those participating in the fast will demand an end to the war and a guaranteed income of $5,500 a year. All of the above listed plans are regarded as tentative because the SCLC has not yet confirmed these plans and as King's old organization will be given primary responsibility for scheduled activities on this weekend.

About the only joint effort that has been agreed upon by the two principal and seriously feuding antiwar groups is the endorsement for demonstrations on the above dates. The National Peace Action Coalition, a Socialist Workers Party front, and the CPUSA-influenced National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression remain otherwise at serious odds on the timing, directions and strategy of spring antiwar activities. The NCAWRR, incidentally, has again changed its name and now answers to the name of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. The reason for the recent name change remains for the moment obscure.

3 April, Nationwide.

The Worker Student Alliance faction of SDS is sponsoring nationwide campus demonstrations against ROTC on the above date. No recent publicity for this demonstration has been noted; and since it will emotionally be preempted by M. L. King assassination demonstrations, it is not believed that the SDS action will disrupt any campus anywhere.

*24 April, Washington, D.C. and San Francisco, California

At several recent steering committee meetings the Socialist Workers Party family of organizations (YSA, SMC, NPAC) are persisting in their plans for massive peaceful demonstrations on the above date. The 24th of April actually is being scheduled as the culmination day for nationwide demonstrations beginning on Saturday, 17 April. It is not believed, however, that significant activities will take place prior to 24 April. The National Peace Action Coalition under whose auspices this demonstration is being staged is still in serious conflict with the CPUSA-influenced People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (formerly the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression, New Mobe, National Mobe, etc.). Additional details of this demonstration will be reported in subsequent Information Reports, but it is believed at the moment that the scheduled demonstration will produce fewer than 10,000 demonstrators at Washington and at San Francisco, and no disruption of either city with the exception of minor vandalism.

*1-9 May, Washington, D.C.

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice continues to plan for major demonstrations at Washington on the above dates. Planning for this event remains fluid at this time. As plans become firm they will be reported in Information Reports. At present it seems likely that the original plan being promoted by Rennie Davis, Michael Lerner of the Seattle Liberation Front, Abbie Hoffman and others to disrupt the city of Washington by stalling vehicles on bridges and access roads has been abandoned. This plan, the product of Washington's radical think tank, the Institute for Policy Studies, is strongly opposed by theoreticians and ideologists of both the CPUSA and the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party. It is felt by senior officials in both old line radical leftist organizations that a planned disruption of this nature would tend to alienate trade unionists and preclude involving the working class in demonstrations against the war.

In the absence of a firm scenario which is still being written in national and regional conferences, several conclusions about antiwar activities in May can be assumed. There will be demonstrations centered and principally conducted in Washington and San Francisco during the first week of May. There will be an increase in the emphasis toward civil disobedience, and antiwar activists will continue to solicit support and endorsements of the People's Peace Treaty which most factions of the antiwar left regard as a powerful psychological rallying instrument. Exactly how the peace treaty with its hundreds of thousands of endorsing signatures will be used in connection with the May activities is still undetermined.

One seemingly minor but actually principal road block towards unity in the antiwar movement revolves around the timing of U.S. withdrawal from the Indochinese war. The CPUSA-influenced PCPJ want President Nixon to set a date for total withdrawal while the NPAC demand immediate withdrawal, a seemingly minor yet actually important difference in organizational approach within the antiwar coalitions.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTDemonstrations Scheduled for Spring 1971

Protests of the two major antiwar coalitions are beginning to focus now on plans for demonstrations in Washington eight days apart.

At this point the National Peace Action Coalition, the antiwar manifestation of the Socialist Workers Party family of organizations is firmly committed to a protest demonstration date of 24 April. Over the past weekend the NPAC has advertised in the New York Times for funds and participants and has listed a number of prominent sponsors. Although efforts have been and will continue to be made to bring together the NPAC with the CPUSA-influenced People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, it is not believed that a reconciliation will be effected before the spring demonstration season. The PCPJ, incidentally, is the successor organization to the National Coalition Against War, Racism and Repression which itself was the successor organization to the New Mobilization Committee. The names have changed and their goals have multiplied, but the leadership remains the same-- Rennie Davis, Dave Dellinger, Sidney Peck, etc.

The NPAC continues to adhere to the one-issue-at-a-time strategy demanding an immediate withdrawal of American participation in the war. Their house rule seems to be that any accompanying radical demand must be directly related to the war. The PCPJ, on the other hand, proposes a variety list that requires the Government to "set a date" for complying to their various demands.

The demands of PCPJ are clearly designed to elicit support from numerous factions of discontent in American society. Their demands are these: 1) that the U.S. set a date now for complete withdrawal of U.S. military air, land and sea forces from Vietnam, 2) that the U.S. set a date for guaranteed annual income for a family of four of $5,500 and 3) that the U.S. set a date for freeing political prisoners.

The tentative schedule of events for the PCPJ's May demonstration which will probably be the most militant and disruptive of the two is also designed to provide something for everyone. A demonstration week is scheduled to begin on 1 May. On that date workshops, concerts and lectures will be held in the nation's capital. On Sunday, 2 May, beginning at 11 a.m. there will be what PCPJ spokesmen call a "mammoth assembly" to raise the organization's three demands. PCPJ spokesmen emphasize that these days, 1-2 May, will consist of legal and nonviolent demonstrations. On 3 May the PCPJ will up the ante. By Monday, 3 May, the casual demonstrators who have not been convinced of the necessary course of civil disobedience will have left the city. PCPJ spokesmen believe that direct action and civil disobedience which advance beyond marches and rallies are now the only viable forms of mass action to bring about an end to the Indochinese war. On 3-4 May a "people's lobby" outside Congress will demand social justice and an end to militarism. On 5 May the PCPJ has called for a nationwide moratorium on business as usual which in Washington will include leafletting, picketing and sustained nonviolent action in the capital city as well as at other locations. Plans for the remainder of the week if formulated are not yet known. The PCPJ does, however, plan actions of solidarity with GIs on Armed Forces Day, 16 May.

The only degree of cooperation between the two major antiwar factions is in connection with a tribute to Martin Luther King, Jr. from 1-4 April. The PCPJ as well as the NPAC have apparently farmed out the leadership of planned King demonstrations (in commemoration of the anniversary of his assassination) to organizations more closely associated with the King mystique. The leading organizations that have been mentioned are the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Farm Workers Organizing Committee (Caesar Chavez), and the National Welfare Rights Organization.

Military activities in Laos have undoubtedly added another dimension to the sting of radical antiwar rhetoric. The Laos operation will undoubtedly significantly enhance the size and anger of the demonstrations. At this point it is not believed, however, that either of the planned demonstrations will disrupt the city. The activities of 24 April by an organization that has voiced its opposition to violence and extra legal activity should have little or no impact on any Government agency or the normal functioning of the city. The May activity, on the other hand, may be somewhat more troublesome. Rennie Davis, Dave Dellinger, Michael Lerner, Sidney Peck and others have for some months been promoting increased militancy and civil disobedience as the only remaining approach toward curing the Government perpetrated ills of America. Those remaining in Washington, however, after the initial May stage will probably be few in number and readily controllable by police authorities.

The tactic of blocking traffic into the city in early May seems definitely out. This plan which was preached throughout the United States for several months has now completely disappeared from the rhetoric. The only time such a plan is spoken of in recent weeks is in isolated cases of little-known radicals addressing high school and college audiences. It is believed that those who still propose such a strategy simply have not yet gotten the word that the old time leftists regard such a tactic as counterproductive because it would alienate the blue collar class.

Both organizations planning spring activities are fully committed to conducting their protests outside of Washington's black ghetto. Such a pledge probably based on black militant threats as much as on rational discussions should further limit both planned national demonstrations geographically.

Exactly what use will be made of the People's Peace Treaty remains vague. It is probable that radical planners, though high on the treaty as an antiwar movement building block, do not know the best method of utilization. As for the significance of dates, the May plans have been scheduled to fall on the first anniversary of the Cambodian incursion and the Kent State aftermath. April 24 has been arbitrarily selected and will lose some impact as a result.

It is not believed at this time that the Agency will be subjected to significant disruption, but the gates will probably be picketed and employees will probably be leafletted.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTCALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

*5 March, Las Vegas, Nevada

In late February a joint press conference was held at Washington by Ralph Abernathy, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and by George Wiley, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization. During the press conference, Wiley called for a guaranteed minimum income of $6,500 for a family of four, equal justice for minority groups, free education for all citizens and an end to the war. Abernathy announced that a Poor People's Campaign will begin on 5 March at Las Vegas where demonstrations will be held to "confront the forces of organized gambling and prostitution." Following the Las Vegas demonstration, mass marches will be organized on various state capitals and on economic establishments (presumably securities exchanges), and a mule train will travel from New York to Washington. Abernathy was vague about the SCLC plans for Washington but alluded to the fact that the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice would be conducting demonstrations in the capital at the time of the arrival of the mule train. In a proposed program sheet distributed at the news conference it was reported that massive antiwar rallies will be held at Washington on 1-2 May followed by a week of "nonviolent civil disobedience to protest the war." The program sheet also mentioned that Government workers will be urged to strike in protest against continued poverty, repression and war. (See entry under the heading "24 April-9 May" for additional details.)

Members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, a Philadelphia-based protest group that has held a series of hearings mainly in Michigan for the past several months to expose American war atrocities, is planning a series of meetings with Vietnamese students attending school in Canada. The proposed purpose of the meeting is to exchange ideas for closer cooperation between all of the people of North and South Vietnam and the Vietnam Veterans group. Plans will also be discussed at the Canada meeting for a proposed trip by VVAW representatives next summer to Hanoi. FILE 27/4/67 2/4/67

*7 March, Washington, D.C.

In late December and early January plans were announced at a convention of the Young Socialist Alliance for a Women's Liberation march at the Pentagon on the above date. No additional reports of this plan have been noted, and in view of plans being formulated for later in the spring it is not believed that the "assault on the Pentagon" is still scheduled for this weekend. FILE 27/4/67 2/4/67

*8-10 March, Florida

Black extremist Stokely Carmichael, the author of the black power philosophy who presently resides in Conakry, Guinea, with his wife Miriam Makeba, is presently in the United States conducting a fund-raising speaking tour. Carmichael will speak at Florida Agriculture and Mechanical College in Tallahassee on 8 March, at Santa Fe Junior College in Gainesville on 9 March and at Florida Presbyterian College in St. Petersburg on 10 March. Reportedly Carmichael has also been invited to speak at a rally of the Junta of Militant Organization (JOMO) in Tampa on 10 March. It is further reported that plans are being made for Carmichael to address the Lexington, Kentucky, chapter of JOMO later in the month. JOMO is a Florida-based black extremist organization. FILE 27/4/67 2/4/67

The preliminary stages of the trial of Angela Davis are scheduled to begin on the above date. Within the past several days the prosecution has filed briefs in connection with a number of defense motions presented to the court last month. The prosecution reportedly took serious exception to the defense motion that Angela Davis be authorized to act as a co-counsel in her own defense. The prosecution believes that if this motion is granted the eventual trial will be converted into a political circus. Wash Post 26 Feb 71

Bernadette Devlin's American speaking tour is scheduled to be concluded on this date. There will probably be some press coverage of her departure for Ireland, but no significant demonstrations are anticipated at this time. N. Day - Wash Post 5/1/71

*11 March, Williamsburg, Virginia

A group called the Peninsula Concerned Citizens for Peace plans to demonstrate at Williamsburg on the above date in connection with President Nixon's planned visit to that city. The demonstrators hope to present the President with their endorsement of the People's Peace Treaty recently negotiated with North Vietnamese youth by representatives of the now radical National Student Association. While in Hanoi in December, incidentally, the present chairman of the NSA, David Ifshin, made a tape recording that was later broadcast over Radio Hanoi to American forces fighting in South Vietnam. The radio broadcast encouraged American GIs to refuse to fight, to turn on their officers, and otherwise disrupt the war effort against the communists in every possible way. FBI 276542 1/10/71

*13-14 March, Fayetteville, North Carolina

• Actress Jane Fonda and former Army captain Dr. Howard B. Levy who served 26 months in prison for refusing to train Vietnam-bound soldiers have announced the formation of an antiwar entertainment group which will tour Army bases in the style of Bob Hope to entertain the troops. It is undoubtedly the plan of this newly formed group to intersperse with entertainment a political message designed to disrupt the psychological preparedness of American fighting men. The group has asked for the same type logistics support that is afforded establishment entertainers such as Bob Hope, Martha Raye and others. In case the group is denied facilities at Fort Bragg (near Fayetteville), entertainment will be performed at the Haymarket Square Coffeehouse in Fayetteville.

The antiwar troop of entertainers is being sponsored by the U.S. Servicemen's Fund which was established in 1967 to encourage the antiwar movement within military ranks. Entertainment groups generally require an official invitation from a base commanding officer in order to perform on base. It can be expected that, even though he is regarded a liberal commander, Lt. Gen. John J. Tolson, III, who commands Fort Bragg, will turn the Fonda group down flat. Along with Jane Fonda other show business personalities among the approximately dozen well-known entertainers who have pledged to give support and talent are actor-director Mike Nichols, actor Elliott Gould, cartoonist Jules Feiffer, Negro comic Dick Gregory, writer Herb Gardner, actors Donald Sutherland and Peter Boyle, folksingers Barbara Dane and Pete Seeger, and a rock music group known as Swamp Dogg.

At a recently held national conference of the SDS, Worker Student Alliance faction, 14 March was designated as National ROTC Day. Reportedly anti-ROTC demonstrations will be conducted on various campuses with the theme "ROTC Must Go." Although it is difficult to predict the severity of any planned disruptions around the nation, it should be kept in mind that a similar demonstration recently conducted at the University of Hawaii resulted in the destruction of the ROTC building by firebombing. F/E 2/1/71 28 Feb 71

14 March, Albany, Boston, Trenton, Harrisburg, Philadelphia

At 12 noon on the above date the Jewish Defense League will "sit-in" on seats of government at the above mentioned cities. This group has been militantly active in recent months by harassing Soviet diplomats and disrupting presentations of touring Soviet artists. The alleged purpose of these "sit-ins" is to dramatize the concern of activist Jews for Russian Jewry. FBI 3/19/71 11/24/71

During the last week of February, representatives from 24 major religious denominations met at New York City and formed an organization called "Set the Date Now." The group has planned a campaign that will press the Nixon administration and the Congress to designate a specific date for the withdrawal of all direct and indirect U.S. military involvement in Southeast Asia. The date that the organization is pressing for is 31 December 1971. Mr. Herschel Halbert has been named as the director of the "Set the Date Now" campaign. Halbert was formerly director of the International League for the Rights of Man and is presently the secretary of the International Affairs Council of the Episcopal Church.

The religious denominations that have pledged their support to the campaign are as follows: American Baptist Convention, American Ethical Union, American Humanist Association, Church of the Brethren, Church Women United, Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, Disciples of Christ, Episcopal Church, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Friends Committee on National Legislation, Lutheran Church in America, Mennonite Central Committee, National Catholic Council for Interracial Justice, National Coalition of American Nuns, National Council of Churches, Philadelphia Meeting of the Society of Friends, Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern), United Presbyterian Church, Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Unitarian Universalist Association, United Church of Christ, Board of Social Concerns of the United Methodist Church, World Conference of Religion for Peace, and Women's Division of the United Presbyterian Church. 1/1/71 3/25/71

*20 March, Washington, D.C.

A march on Washington is planned for the above date by the Progressive Labor Party, a pro-Chinese Communist group, and by the PLP-dominated Worker Student Alliance faction of SDS. These groups will march to protest unemployment, and following an assembly at the Banneker Center the demonstrators will march to the Department of Labor where a second rally will be held. Reportedly marchers are expected from Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Estimates of the size of the assembly issued by SDS and PLP range from 2,000-5,000 persons. The actual figure will probably be only several hundred. No major disruption is anticipated. FFE 27/04/71 - 28/04/71

*21 March, Washington, D.C.

The Jewish Defense League (see entry under "14 March") is planning a noon rally at the main gate of the White House. The national coordinator of the JDL has announced that he hopes 15,000 people will attend the White House demonstration. Since in the past the Washington Jewish community has not been in sympathy with the militancy of the JDL, it is not believed that the demonstrators will number more than several hundred. 2-4 April, Nationwide

National demonstrations in commemoration of the date of the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. have been scheduled by all national groups in the antiwar and civil rights arena. At this late date plans still remain somewhat vague, but according to press sources plans will include demonstrations at Federal agencies concerning poverty and welfare, hunger marches and demonstrations demanding the end to the Indochinese War. Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Dr. King's successor as leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has already started a series of fasts in an effort to bring about an end to a variety of national ills as he interprets them. Abernathy and his organization have for the past six months initiated a degree of cooperation with the CPUSA-dominated People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. The PCPJ, in order to satisfy the objectives of Abernathy, George Wiley of the National Welfare Rights Organization, union organizer Cesar Chavez and others, has amended their charter since the days of the New Move to provide a cause for anyone and everyone interested in public protest against established order. Additional details regarding planned demonstrations in early April will be reported when and if they become known. FFE 27/04/71 - 28/04/71

*8 April, New York City, New York

A demonstration commemorating International Women's Day will be staged at New York on the above date by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. This organization that has survived for several decades has often been the target of communist penetration but remains relatively free of radical leadership or ideologies. The league can be described as liberal but not radical. FFE 27/04/71 - 28/04/71

*24 April-9 May, Washington, D.C.; San Francisco, California; and Nationwide

A most significant meeting was held at Washington on 27-28 February. As a result of this meeting a temporary truce between the two feuding major antiwar factions in the United States has been agreed upon for spring antiwar protest demonstrations. At this date plans are still not firm and are subject to considerable change during coming weeks. A final and stable scenario of events during this period will probably not be known until mid-April. It has been recently reported that pressure was brought to bear on the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice and the National Peace Action Coalition by the Fellowship of Reconciliation, Clergy and Laymen Concerned About the War and the American Friends Service Committee to bury the hatchet in the interest of a unified and hence forceful appeal for unilateral American withdrawal from Indochina. The coalition of these two groups must be viewed as an extremely shaky one because it joins again in a united front the significantly differing philosophies of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party (the power behind the NPAC) and the CPUSA (the power behind the PCPJ).

For many weeks the PCPJ has pressured the NPAC to drop their plans for 24 April. Failing in this they now propose jointly to sponsor 24 April activities and carry straight through their previously planned demonstration schedule during the first week in May. Their plans as they are presently specified are as follows: following the cosponsored demonstration of 24 April at Washington and San Francisco, the PCPJ on 25 April will conduct workshops and religious services at Washington. On 26-27 April the demonstrators plan to lobby with Congressmen and at Government agencies. On 28 April civil disobedience is scheduled to begin at various Government buildings. Government buildings susceptible to the most harassment probably will be those housing war-related departments. The Pentagon and the CIA facility at Langley will undoubtedly be on the program if present plans persist. On Friday, 30 April, continued civil disobedience is scheduled to reach a peak in Washington. On the first of May Rennie Davis and his small band of followers, the May Day Collective, have been tentatively given the green light for additional "civil disobedience" in Washington. Davis' support by a coalition of the NPAC and the PCPJ depends upon his pledge that all planned actions remain non-violent.

Unfortunately, the strategy of blocking the roads and highways has again entered the rhetoric and at this stage must be considered once more a highly probable tactic that will be employed probably on Monday, 3 May. On Sunday, 2 May, the PCPJ plans a massive assembly of a "religious nature" to prepare demonstrators for the increased intensive nonviolent activities scheduled for later in the week. The theme for 5 May will be "Stop the War or We'll Stop the Government." It would seem that the intention during the first week in May is a constant increase in pressure on the Government to get out of Southeast Asia.

Rennie Davis apparently took serious exception to the joining of forces between the antiwar groups. This office predicted one month ago that as a long shot possibility Davis might decide to go it alone with what he regards as a superior tactic with a youth constituency that he has been building for many months. If successful in his bridge-blocking tactics, sit-ins, and teach-ins with Government employees, Davis undoubtedly would view his position as the emerging single leader of domestic antiwar activity. On the first of March Davis addressed a friendly audience of 1,500 students at Davidson College at North Carolina and resumed his call for blocking the highways and bridges of Washington. Davis' action is clearly contrary to the wishes and desires of the CPUSA which believes such a tactic would be counter-productive. At this time it is a stronger possibility than ever that Davis will indeed keep his own counsel and go his own path this spring. If he does, his efforts could produce considerable disruption in the city and considerable violence in clashes principally between his immediate family of followers (the May Day Collective) and police authorities. The May Day Collective, incidentally, is a radical, political commune located in Washington.

Admittedly the details of forthcoming demonstrations are complex and cloudy. The influence of the Laotian operation will undoubtedly add fuel to the antiwar fire, and the recent bombing of the capitol will tend to neutralize planned demonstrations somewhat. Although the coalition that has now been formed is an uneasy one, it should multiply the numbers who come to the city during the spring protest season. Due to the lengthy plans, however, which encompass a period of approximately three weeks, the impact of disruption if it occurs could be watered down and provide no single peak period of large numbers of participants. WFL 2/11/71 2:11 PM

The Continuations Committee of the NPAC/PCPJ coalition has set its next meeting for 13 March to make additional plans for spring demonstrations. Additional plans and programs for the spring demonstration season will be reported as they become known. WFL 2/11/71 2:11 PM

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTTentative Plans for Joint Demonstrations to Commemorate the Third Anniversary of the Assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr., Scheduled from 2-5 April 1971 at New York

Massive demonstrations principally at New York City have been called by representatives of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Welfare Rights Organization, the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice to commemorate the King assassination. A partial list of the architects of early April activities includes Dr. Ralph Abernathy, chairman of the SCLC; George Wiley, executive director of the NWRO; Dave Dellinger, Vietnam Peace Parade Committee; Bob Albert, War Tax Resistance; Al Evanoff, District 65 of the Distributive Workers Union (New York); Al Hubbard, Vietnam Veterans Against the War; and Sidney Peck, PCPJ. The participation of Caesar Chavez of the UFWOC remains somewhat in doubt. His organization, however, has been represented in planning for this event.

The principal demands of this series of demonstrations will be a guaranteed income of $6,500 a year, an end to hunger of the nation's 15 million hungry, decent jobs for all workers, the right of all workers to organize for just pay, the abolition of capital punishment and equal justice for the rich and the poor, quality education, the 18-year-old vote, an end to the war now, and a total rejection and official repudiation of racism in all aspects of American life.

Cordell Jackson, coordinator for the SCLC (at New York), has detailed the following scenario for this series of demonstrations:

On 2 April the third anniversary of the King assassination will be marked in New York by a march on City Hall at noon to demand decent housing for welfare recipients. Other actions on 2 April will include teach-ins and school assemblies. On Saturday, 3 April, a "people to people talk festival" will be staged at the Central Park Band Shell near 72nd Street. Music and entertainment will open the festival.

(S was of this report 12:20 PM 4/6/71) and a "people's meeting" will begin at about 1:00 p.m. Principal scheduled speakers for the 3 April rally are Abernathy, George Wiley, Dave Dellinger, Doris Turner of the Drug and Hospital Workers Union, Jeanette Washington who is regional chairman of the NWRO, and Mary Emeny who is representing the "People's Peace Treaty."

On 4 April Abernathy reportedly will lead a mule train to a large church somewhere in the city (not further identified) where he will conduct services.

On 5 April participants will focus their attention on the "profiteers of war and poverty," in a march on Wall Street. The parade is scheduled to commence at 14th Street and Union Square and continue down Broadway culminating in a rally at the Treasury Building at 12:30 p.m. Other participants in this march are reported to be Hosea Williams of Operation Breadbasket (a Chicago affiliate of SCLC), Democratic Congresswoman Bella Abzug, and a representative from the UFWOC. Reportedly, the principal organizations for these four days of actions across the nation will be joined by groups of trade unions, peace groups, Negro, Mexican-American and Puerto Rican liberation groups, women's organizations, and civil rights groups. Although demonstrations will take place in other parts of the country, specific details are sparse. The principal action is definitely planned for New York City where the principal leaders of all participating groups will be found on this weekend. Planned events for New York should draw large numbers of people, mostly Negroes and young radical whites. From press coverage carried recently in the Daily World, it appears that this event is fully endorsed and probably supported by the CPUSA. It additionally has been reported that financial assistance has come from the PCPJ.

Disruptions will probably occur on Monday the 5th, but violence does not appear to be on the schedule and probably will not occur.

264SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTSpring Demonstrations at Washington, D.C. from 1-5 May 1971

As the time nears for the most serious potential disruption of the city by antiwar protesters, extensive preparations are being made by all involved police jurisdictions. It remains the intention of antiwar protesters led by Rennie Davis, John Froines, David Dellinger and many other well-known activists to block a number of key bridges and highways in the city and to disrupt the operations of several key Government buildings.

Among the identified "action targets" that have been specified by the Mayday Collective which appears to have usurped the major leadership role from the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, there are several that are generally regarded as key targets that bear the brunt of possible major demonstrations on Monday morning, 3 May. At this reporting the No. 1 target appears to be both inbound and outbound channels of the 14th Street Bridge. Second priority targets are believed to be Memorial Bridge, Roosevelt Bridge and Key Bridge. Targets of lesser importance to orderly traffic patterns of the city but areas that are believed to be highly vulnerable are Dupont Circle and Washington Circle. A lesser target but one that has been identified as a highly potential one is Chain Bridge.

The population of Peace City has grown but slightly during the last week in April, and estimates presently vary between 1000 and 2000 persons. The conduct of the camp to date has served as a counter-productive manifestation that should hurt the efforts of organizers to amass a large turnout for scheduled activities on 3 May. Presently a rock festival is scheduled for Saturday; and other festivities, some of a quasi-religious nature, are intended to hold a mass of people in the center of the city on Sunday. A number of rock groups and folk performers are scheduled for Saturday including Arlo Guthrie, Phil Ochs, Barbara Dane, the Jefferson Airplane, the Company of Jesus Christ Super Star (which is performing this weekend at American University) and popular black soul singer James Brown. Among the scheduled speakers for Sunday are Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Caesar Chavez of the Farm Workers, George Wiley of the National Welfare Rights Organization, Benjamin Spock, Rennie Davis and Father Groppi. Some of the proposed entertainers for Sunday's festivities are Aretha Franklin (who has volunteered to make bail for Angela Davis if bail is ever set), Buffy St. Marie, the Detroit Wheels and others. It is believed that the weekend festivities will draw a large number of local youth more interested in free fun and music than pacifism or political ideology. It is not believed that the demonstration leadership will be able to hold this group of young people for participation in activities scheduled for Monday morning.

Police planning and the coordination among various police jurisdictions are extensive and are well-considered and complete. Beginning at 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon, 2 May, police surveillance will begin at all area bridges including Cabin John and Woodrow Wilson which link Maryland to Virginia on the Beltway. At 5 a.m. on 3 May Washington police and Arlington police commence with 12-hour shifts for all personnel. All leaves have been canceled. The police manpower complement at the various key targets is as follows: 14th Street Bridge complex, D.C. side 300 uniformed police (u.p.), Virginia side 250 u.p. from Virginia State Police, Fairfax County and Arlington; Memorial Bridge, D.C. side 200 u.p., Virginia side 100 u.p.; Roosevelt Bridge, D.C. side 200 u.p., Virginia side 100 u.p.; Key Bridge, D.C. side 200 u.p., Virginia side 100 u.p.; Chain Bridge, D.C. side 100 u.p., Virginia side 50 u.p.; and in the Mixing Bowl area west of the Pentagon approximately 100 u.p. The Cabin John Bridge and the Woodrow Wilson Bridge will be covered by local police jurisdictions also but to a lesser degree unless it becomes apparent that police reinforcements are needed.

Virginia authorities have established three observation points overlooking key bridge approaches. They will have men stationed on the fifth floor of the Marriott Hotel overlooking the Rosslyn and Key Bridge area. A second observation point is in the Arlington Towers complex overlooking the Roosevelt Bridge approaches, and the third observation point is at the IDA Building overlooking the Pentagon and the 14th Street Bridge approaches.

During the entire disruption period, two Arlington police cruisers staffed with two men will be patrolling the Agency's buildings in the Rosslyn area. The Washington, D.C. Harbor Police boat will be on duty in full complement in the Potomac River channel between 14th and Key Bridges early on the morning of 3 May. The Washington, D.C. fire boat with a full complement will also be patrolling in the channel with the facility of hoisting fire-fighting gear to the bridge surfaces in the event that they are needed. Highway clearing and wrecking equipment will be stationed on the bridges by Washington authorities, and Virginia will have approximately 40 pieces of heavy highway equipment located in key target areas. Virginia authorities are also providing 20 busses in the event mass detention is required.

At 2 p.m. on 2 May the D.C. National Guard will be activated and remain on duty through Friday, 7 May. These troops will be used as they were during the 24 April demonstration to assist police in patrolling outlying areas of the city. They will additionally provide security for police buildings and police equipment. The Third Infantry at Ft. Meyer has been designated to maintain security at the White House and at the homes and offices of key Government officials. The Army has reportedly also activated troops (identity unknown) to protect the Pentagon.

Local police jurisdictions are presently geared for three days of potential disruption, 3-5 May. Authorities do not believe that activities scheduled for Saturday and Sunday will cause serious disruption. The requirements for the days following 5 May will be determined, and a police staffing will be according to requirements.

Allegedly, the hard-core body of the demonstration intends to depart the city in time for a demonstration at New Haven on 7 May (in connection with the Bobby Seale, Ericka Huggins Black Panther murder trial). As for the number of persons that will be on hand and demonstrating in the city, beginning on the morning of 3 May, estimates vary widely. There are several unknown factors which could significantly affect the size of the turnout. Demonstration leaders hope for 70,000. Realistic estimates vary between 6,000 and 30,000. The most uncertain variable at this time is the question of whether or not demonstration planners will be able to hold large numbers of young people in the area who come in for a weekend of fun and frolic. A considered estimate is that, barring some presently unforeseen circumstance, the bulk of young people will depart before the action starts. Most probably those present and active in the city on the morning of 3 May will be only the hard-core radicals, and it is believed that their showing will disappoint the demonstration leadership. Those active in attacking the designated targets on 3 May could number as few as several thousand and will probably not exceed 10-15,000.

As for planned acts of terrorism during the demonstration period, it does not appear to be in the cards. Although those protesters in the city during this period represent a varied and elusive consensus ideology, leaders such as Rennie Davis and David Dellinger and others are experienced enough to realize that a bombing in the early stages would be highly counterproductive. The possibility that a small group of fanatics will be present in the city during the period with the full capability of committing a planned act of terrorism cannot and should not be lightly regarded and dismissed. It is not believed, however, that the major forces present in the city personified by would-be leaders of the antiwar and anti-establishment movement would support or condone a terrorist act during this period.

Although bombings have increased throughout the country (principally the West Coast) in recent weeks, it is not believed that they are seriously scheduled by major involved organizations during the forthcoming period. If such a terroristic event is planned, the most probable date, based solely on ideologies involved and in the interest of an effective demonstration in the city, would most likely occur late on 5 May or in the early hours of 6 May.

Although there have been several vague references to CIA as a target for disruptive activities, it has not been a prominent entry in the literature. After early morning disruption next week the identified targets are the Pentagon on Monday, the Justice Department on Tuesday and the Capitol Building on Wednesday (the last day of planned disruption). It is not believed at this time that Headquarters will be subjected to direct protest demonstrations during the coming period. However, in the event of presently unforeseen moves against the Agency, appropriate forces and equipment will be stationed by Fairfax County authorities in and around the Langley compound.

145SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTCALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

*7 May, New Haven, Connecticut

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice has tentative plans to demonstrate for the release of Bobby Seale and Ericka Huggins on the above date. Demonstrators will call for an end to the kidnapping and murder trial in which Seale and Huggins are defendants claiming that they are "political prisoners."

*8 May, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Carl McIntire, the fundamentalist radio preacher, has scheduled another March for Victory on the above date. The Rev. McIntire has staged similar protest marches in Washington in the past, and the purpose of his demonstrations is to encourage his followers to demand all-out military victory in Vietnam.

As presently scheduled, the march will begin at Pennsylvania Avenue and 4th Street, N.W., at noon. The marchers will proceed along Pennsylvania Avenue to 15th Street and proceed south to the northeast corner of the Washington Monument Grounds where a rally is scheduled. This demonstration, as past Victory in Vietnam Committee rallies have been, will probably be legal and totally nonviolent. The number of participants that McIntire predicts is 100,000. His last production in Washington produced about 40,000 (McIntire claimed, following the demonstration, about 500,000). The March for Victory Committee has staged marches and demonstrations around the nation for the past several months; and they have all been poorly attended, easy to handle, inconsequential and lightly covered in the press.

The demonstration scheduled for this coming Saturday at Washington will probably draw considerably fewer than the 25,000 predicted by Metropolitan Police officials and will pose no threat of disruption to the city or the Government.

*9 May, Washington, D.C.

The National Capitol Chapter of the National Organization of Women, a Women's Liberation organization, at a recent press conference announced a Mother's Day march to be held on the above date between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Reportedly, the focus of the demonstration will be on the issue of Federally-sponsored day care centers and will be staged in the vicinity of the White House. It is not believed that this demonstration will be disruptive to the city or the Government.

*15-22 May

Several months ago the Black Panther Party scheduled a number of solidarity weeks. The third week in May (beginning on the 15th) was scheduled as a week of solidarity with the people of Palestine. It is not known if the Black Panthers have scheduled any programs in any areas during this period; but since the organization is now badly split and generally in retreat around the nation, it is not believed that any plans for disruptive activities will pose any problems even if such plans have been made.

*16 May, Nationwide

Antiwar activists, principally under the sponsorship of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, have scheduled this date as Solidarity Day with the GI antiwar movement. Demonstrations have tentatively been scheduled for various military bases. It is believed that recent antiwar activities in Washington, D.C. have disillusioned and thereby depleted many who would have otherwise involved themselves in 16 May activities. It is not believed, therefore, that activities scheduled on 16 May will pose serious disruptions at U.S. military facilities.

*17 May, Washington, D.C.

The Black Caucus which consists of the 13 Black House of Representatives' members has set 17 May as the deadline for a response from President Nixon to approximately 60 proposals made by the group to the President in late March.

#22-23 May, Washington, D.C.

The CPUSA and its youth group, the Young Workers Liberation League, have tentatively scheduled a march in Washington on the above dates. The purpose of the protest march is to demonstrate against the high unemployment rate. The CPUSA hopes to attract at least 1,000 demonstrators for this march, and it may be successful in attracting this number of people. A similar march staged several weeks ago by the Progressive Labor Party (Maoist Communists) was successful in attracting an unusually large number of persons. It is not believed that this scheduled demonstration poses any serious threat to the city or the Government.

#25-28 May, Indianapolis

The Indianapolis People's Peace Treaty Committee, a group formed recently to promote the Peace Treaty drafted in Hanoi last December, plans to stage a demonstration against NATO and President Nixon on the above dates. During this period NATO representatives are scheduled to meet in Indianapolis to discuss "the problems of cities." Reportedly, President Nixon plans to make an appearance during the conference. The Indianapolis People's Peace Treaty Committee in attempting to organize demonstrations plans to show the President that there is no safety while he continues "his imperialistic, fascist, mad-dog ravages."

*Summer/Fall 1971, Nationwide

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice concluded its big summer meeting at Milwaukee on 27 June. Proposals and plans advanced and adopted during the three-day session were encumbered with the usual rhetoric, and at this point they are regarded as sketchy and highly indefinite.

Antiwar events which took place in Washington and San Francisco in the spring clearly indicate that the leading role in antiwar activities in the immediate future will be played by the Trotskyite-dominated National Peace Action Coalition. The Milwaukee conference even decided to join with the NPAC in cooperative ventures this fall. It can be expected that when the NPAC meets at Hunter College in New York this coming weekend that they will call the shots for forthcoming antiwar activities. Their strength at this time is probably so great that the PCPJ will be faced with the alternatives of either playing the game by the NPAC rules or facing the highly likely prospects of dismal failure. The NPAC in order to exercise the leadership role will probably reject many of the plans adopted by the CPUSA-dominated PCPJ. The Rennie Davis-led May Day Collective which is one of many organizations making up the PCPJ can be expected to go it alone in disruptive tactics as they did last spring with a degree of success. The MDC after the efforts to close down Washington last May has emerged as the most radical element in the antiwar movement. This group has rejected political orthodoxy, has established itself as drug oriented, and appears to subscribe to the general philosophy of "revolution for the hell of it."

It has been recently reported that the MDC has purchased a tract of land somewhere in the Carolinas where they will establish a revolutionary commune. It is reasonably certain that the MDC will be heard from again, but they will probably alter their disruptive tactics of the past in an effort to increase their potential for success. It should be anticipated that their future disruptive activities at Washington and elsewhere will probably be planned in increasing confidential circles in an effort to catch those responsible for law enforcement off guard.

Last weekend's conference at Milwaukee from early reports appears to have been better organized and more tightly controlled than past conferences staged by this group and its predecessor organizations. Approximately 400 persons reportedly were in attendance (although conference organizers claimed between 800 and 1,000 registrants), and reportedly policy decisions were made by the leadership without consulting the delegates. Organizers reported that approximately 100 organizations were represented, the most prominent ones as in the past were the May Day Collective, the National Welfare Rights Organization, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. The same faces, too, dominated activities; and those prominent figures in attendance were David Dellinger, Sidney Peck, Father James Groppi and others (although it has not yet been confirmed, Rennie Davis, leader of the MDC, probably was present at Milwaukee). Black comedian Dick Gregory spoke to the gathering, promoting a consumer boycott at Thanksgiving and Christmas time this year. The mother of Angela Davis and Al Hubbard who represented the VVAW also addressed the group. The articulate spokesman for the Vietnam veterans, ex-lieutenant John Forbes Kerry, was not reported in attendance and probably was not there. Kerry's popularity during spring antiwar activities and his willingness to embrace the publicity afforded him by national television has been criticized by members of his organization, and he is reportedly on his way out of his leadership role with the veteran's group for the crime of "elitism."

At the same time the Milwaukee conference was in session, 175 people attended the Northwest May Day Collective conference at Eugene, Oregon. Reportedly this meeting produced nothing but a drug-inspired euphoria among the participants and the open-ended decision that some form of demonstration was in order in coming months.

The Milwaukee meeting decided on the activities listed below. It should be emphasized that at this point their scheduled plans should not be taken seriously; these plans are highly subject to change, and without considerable advance planning and the approval of the NPAC they have very scant chance of success:

4-6 July, New York

The May Day Coalition caucus at the Milwaukee conference planned a May Day party at Rockefeller Center.

At Boston, Massachusetts, the May Day Coalition decided to invade Boston beaches where guerrilla theaters will be conducted.

In Chicago block parties will be scheduled featuring acts of vandalism.

Washington, D.C. -- Although not a decision made at the Milwaukee conference, a related event by drug users has been publicized in underground newspapers for the Capital City over the Independence Day weekend. Probably under the sponsorship of the Underground Press Syndicate but with added participation by Yippies, Vietnam Veterans, White Panthers and streetniks, a marijuana "smoke-in" will be conducted in the city to demand that the U.S. sign the People's Peace Treaty as well as repeal all drug laws and guarantee an adequate supply of marijuana for everyone. The "smoke-in" at the Washington Monument on the 4th and coupled with a rock festival at the "P Street Beach" on the 6th will also call for the release of all political prisoners and may attempt to attack the South Vietnam embassy on 6 July. It is not believed that the Washington demonstration will cause significant disruption but will probably result in a number of drug-related arrests. Participation should be light to moderate in size.

1 August

The national May Day Coalition is planning a convention on 1 August at a location not yet selected.

6-9 August, Nationwide

Commemoration and observance of Hiroshima and Nagasaki Days (plans indefinite).

7 August, Birmingham

Demonstrations in support of Angela Davis.

1 September, Washington, D.C.

NWRO will rally and demonstrate in the city in an effort to stop the enactment of President Nixon's Family Assistance Plan. The NWRO has campaigned for some time for a guaranteed family income of $6,500 for a family of four. (The NWRO has also been subject to the pressures of inflation. Over the past two years their demands have gone from $4,500 to $5,500 and now to $6,500.)

6-16 October, Nationwide

This period represents the first significant possibility of disruption at Washington, D.C. and other cities similar to the street action of last May. This time period reportedly will start with massive regional demonstrations with New York City singled out for heavy demonstrations on 13 October (a Wednesday). This date will probably be advanced for activities to be scheduled by the NPAC at the forthcoming session in New York. It is then hoped by PCPJ leaders that the demonstration will move to Washington for 14-15 October. Boston, Massachusetts, is scheduled as the prime target for 16 October where sit-down demonstrations at military bases will be scheduled. Hanscomb Field in the Boston area was specifically mentioned at Milwaukee. October 13 has tentatively been scheduled as a day of national moratorium to stop business as usual. This tactic has been tried a number of times in the past always resulting in dismal failure. The 14th and 15th of October also have been designated as days of locally organized civil disobedience around the country.

6-13 November, San Francisco, New York, Chicago and Washington, D.C.

The PCPJ has planned a series of activities during this period at the above cities and possibly elsewhere. The 6th of November, a Saturday, is scheduled for a demonstration march in support of the People's Peace Treaty. On 7 November organizers envision a "soul rally" at Washington probably featuring rock music groups in an effort once again to amass youthful music lovers for an assault on the city scheduled for Monday, 8 November. Demonstration planners anticipate closing down the "military aspects of the Government" for two or three days. The scenario for November appears so far to be a carbon copy of activities staged last May. Although the dates are still highly subject to change, at this time it appears that 8 November is considered the most likely day for the next serious effort at disrupting the city and certain agencies of Government.

Additional details will be reported as they become available. The forthcoming New York meeting of the Trotskyite group could and probably will significantly alter demonstration planning. Additionally, the seriously planned disruptions and demonstrations will not be firmly identified until publicity has begun.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORTCALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

*Summer/Fall 1971, Nationwide

The plans of major antiwar groups are now beginning to take form and both major organizations, the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice and the National Peace Action Coalition have published their summer and fall schedules.

Antiwar leaders met with Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, the chief Viet Cong Paris negotiator, immediately following activities in early May, and she reportedly both criticized and praised antiwar activists for their May efforts. Additionally, she indicated several desirable changes in American antiwar tactics that have since indeed been adopted by the American organizations. One area in which Mme. Binh criticized the American antiwar movement was their constant bickering which served to affect adversely the unity of the movement. Leaders of the two major groups (probably because of Binh's criticism) have met in recent weeks and have agreed on joint sponsorship of some scheduled forthcoming activities. The leadership meeting between groups has not been publicized, and it would appear obvious that leaders desire to keep their meeting of the minds as quiet as possible because the two groups serve different ideological masters. The PCPJ leaders, following the suggestion of Mme. Binh, have changed their slogan to "set the date." The Trotskyite-controlled NPAC has recently adopted the slogan "out now." Both groups have dropped the reference to "stopping the government." As close as sloganers have come to a usage of "stop the government" was coined some weeks ago by David Dellinger when he offered the slogan, "stop the military aspect of government." Yet to be accomplished was the Mme. Binh guidance that antiwar activists in America form a political party, that could eventually exercise ballot box strength. Because of their basic differences (both philosophically and tactically), any pretense at unity must be regarded as shaky at best.

Combat 15 J.C. 11

The PCPJ and the NPAC have agreed to endorse and support the following three antiwar demonstrations. From August 6-9 both groups will stage local demonstrations throughout the United States (principally in the several largest American cities) based on the theme of American perpetration of Asian genocide. The PCPJ additionally will demonstrate during this period for the release of what they regard as black political prisoners in the U.S.A. Since any demonstration not directly war related is contrary to the ideological concepts of the NPAC, that organization will not support protests directed toward the black political prisoner issue. Yet another protest target during this period will be atomic testing and will probably be supported to some extent by both major groups.

San Juan 14 Jul 71

The second date on which the PCPJ and the NPAC will join forces is October 13 for a nationwide moratorium on business as usual in as many communities across the country as antiwar radicals and agitators are able to organize. Moratorium activities will endeavor to encompass college campuses, and PCPJ leaders have employed the term "militant action" in connection with activities planned on 13 October. As for the October 13 date, it should be noted that at a recent Communist Party USA conference in New York, the CP General Secretary, Gus Hall, stressed the October 13 date over and above all other scheduled summer/fall activities. The idea of a moratorium on business as usual has been tried by antiwar activists in the past and has always resulted in dismal failure. It can be anticipated on October 13 (a Wednesday), that efforts by activists to halt the economy will be no more successful than in the past.

Daily World 15 Jul 71

The third date on which both groups have agreed to cooperate is November 6. On this date principally under the guidance and control of the NPAC, a series of regional massive antiwar demonstrations in the streets are scheduled. So far, 15 cities have been identified by the NPAC. They are New York, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Houston or Austin, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Seattle, Tampa, and Washington. From planning to date, it would appear that the NPAC intends for November 6 to be a carbon copy of last April 24 at Washington D.C. It is believed that this activity on the sixth will encourage little actual assistance from leaders or rank and file of the PCPJ. It would further appear that by extending what will probably be peaceful and ordered demonstrations to at least 15 urban centers, the NPAC leadership will thin out the impact that a single larger demonstration would have. The organization is obviously searching for a national participation figure that can be massaged in the propaganda mill in an effort to add a band wagon aura to the antiwar movement. At present this tactic does not appear to offer the results that Jerry Gordon and the Socialist Workers Party leadership hope to accomplish in November. As for the PCPJ, on 6 November their efforts will probably be centered in Washington D.C. where they are now planning disruptive tactics during the several days following Saturday, November 6.

Academy 17 Jul 71
NY Times 18 Jul 71

4/11/77 5 Jul 77

Aside from the above three demonstration dates, both organizations have scheduled activities independantly. The NPAC in their national meeting in New York City in early July, designated 25 October as a day of solidarity with Vietnam veterans. Their demonstration plans for that date, if any, are so far unknown, but it is not believed that the NPAC will attempt to muster a significant complement of demonstrators anywhere. The organization has additionally designated the weeks from 25 October through 5 November as National Peace Action Weeks, but once again their demonstration plans are nebulous and indefinite except for a national student strike that the NPAC is promoting for 3 November. Additional plans of the NPAC will probably evolve in coming weeks. They will be reported and analysed as they appear in information sources.

See above 14 Jul 77

As for the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, they, too, plan independant activities that go beyond the joint efforts scheduled by the two organizations. A regional conference of the PCPJ was held at Milwaukee last weekend attended by approximately 100 individuals from Wisconsin, Maryland, Illinois, Minnesota, and Michigan. The regional conference made plans for several disruptive demonstrations in Wisconsin in coming weeks and an August 7 protest march from the Illinois Institute of Technology to the University of Chicago. It was further announced at these conferences that from 6-8 August the PCPJ would concentrate activities in Seattle, Los Angeles, Houston or Dallas, Miami, Chicago, and Washington.

11/12/77 30.23 79 11 Jul 77

Reportedly being conducted now is a PCPJ summer educational program which is supposed to be trying to bring to the American people in local communities the issues of war, racism, sexism, and repression. The PCPJ also reportedly is attempting to enlist GIs in support of their various struggles. During the first week of September, the PCPJ component organization, The National Welfare Rights Organization, will engage in "militant non-violent actions" in Washington at the Senate in an effort to defeat the President's Family Assistance Plan. The National Welfare Rights Organization is opposed to the President's plan and favors instead a guaranteed annual income for a family of four of $6,500. Aside from this project, the PCPJ has targeted other American economic institutions which they regard as examples of American imperialism. On October 14 and 15 the PCPJ is scheduling locally organized non-violent direct action at federal government buildings and American corporations involved in perpetrating the war and social injustice. This is the first date during the summer/fall season that may be propagandized and built into activities which may disrupt this agency as well as other departments of the Federal Government. It is not believed, however, that the mid-October dates will be built into a significant threat to the government.

Principal disruptive activities that will next occur in Washington are believed scheduled for the several days following 6 November. On the evening of November 6, the PCPJ will sponsor an all-night march at Washington to promote once again the People's Peace Treaty, a document drafted last Christmas by North and South Vietnamese Communists and American radicals at Hanoi. Since the peace treaty was drafted, it has been widely circulated in the United States and signed by those who support the antiwar movement. It would appear that to date, antiwar radicals have not been able to gain the propaganda mileage from the document that they had hoped for.

On November 7 the PCPJ plans an inspirational "soul rally," probably in the area of the Washington Monument, where they will attempt in the fashion of last May to attract and hold a large number of radical street people as well as youthful rock music fans for an onslaught on Washington on November 8. November 8, as it is presently envisioned, will be a re-run of last May third with disruptive tactics scheduled throughout the city. Some tactical changes can be anticipated, but they are not yet apparent in the literature. One sure bet is that plans and targets will not be as widely and as boastfully publicized as they were last May.

So far, there appears little enthusiasm for activities on 8 November, and some of the most outspoken voices have not yet been heard. Chapters of the May Day Collective (the Rennie Davis constituency) have not yet held significant planning sessions. It is this group which is a loose part of the PCPJ that will lead and conduct the illegal and disruptive attacks on the city as in May. There will be little or no black participation, no participation by elements of the NPAC and probably no participation by liberal politicians. It is not believed at this time that leadership elements in the planned disruption of Washington will be able to stage as disruptive an attack on the city as occurred last May.

At the July fourth weekend conference of the Socialist Workers Party controlled National Peace Action Coalition, contingents representing the Progressive Labor Party and the PLP controlled SDS, as well as a communist splinter group, the Spartacist League, created serious disruption during speeches by liberal Senator Vance Hartke and UAW spokesman, Victor Reuther. The disruptions, after being allowed to continue all through the Hartke speech, were finally brought under control by conference marshalls (referred to by the disrupters as "goons") led by long-time SWP functionary, Fred Halstead. These disruptions were significant because they tended to challenge SWP's absolute control over their own session and set apart the ideological differences embraced by the pro-Maoist Progressive Labor Party. The Spartacist League, which numbers probably fewer than 200, has a history of disagreeing with everyone. As in the past both the fourth of July conference of the NPAC and the late June Milwaukee conference of the PCPJ must be regarded as simple stage dressing. The real action and the real plans are always evolved in steering committee planning sessions attended by the trusted old-line radical political purists who adhere to the differing philosophies of the major antiwar groups.

6-9 August, Nationwide

The activities scheduled above by the major antiwar groups are in commemoration of the anniversary of the dropping of the atom bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Additionally, this weekend (7 August) is the anniversary of the Marin County shooting for which Angela Davis and Ruchell Magee are to stand trial.

7 August, Birmingham

Demonstrations are scheduled in support of Angela Davis.

*10-17 August, Atlanta

The May Day Collective (the Washington chapter has changed its name to the "Potomac Revolutionary Gang"), the violence-prone component of the PCPJ, will hold its national conference at Atlanta on the above dates. Additional refinement of fall antiwar plans will probably be publicized at the conclusion of the conference.

*9-12 September, Harrisburg, Pa

The Lehigh Valley Chapter of Veterans Against the War has announced that it will conduct a march from Bethlehem to the Pennsylvania State Capitol from 9-12 September. On the twelfth a rally is scheduled at the capitol building. The purpose of the march and rally is to protest continued U.S. presence in Vietnam.

FBI IN 354769 16 Jul 71

*12-15 September, San Juan, Puerto Rico

A national governors' conference is scheduled for San Juan. On the above dates threats to disrupt the conference and cause bodily harm to the governors have been made supposedly by Puerto Rican radicals.

3 August 1971SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT*CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

Major antiwar organizations as well as a number of lesser known and less significant groups are planning demonstrations around the nation for the weekend of August 6-8. The general theme of these demonstrations is the commemoration of the atomic bombing of Japanese cities some decades ago. It is difficult to see what this event has to do with ending the war in Vietnam, aside from the apparent desire of radical left wing antiwar activists to embarrass the nation and portray the American military effort as traditionally genocidal and racist.

It is not anticipated that any of the demonstrations scheduled for various parts of the nation will be violent or disruptive. It is further not believed that they will be particularly well attended with the possible exception of the Boston area and the New York area.

This weekend also is the first anniversary of the Marin County shootings for which Angela Davis and Rutchell Magee will be tried for murder. Some of the weekend antiwar demonstrations will also encompass the freeing of political prisoners and hence the plight of Angela and Rutchell will be spoken of at rallies and marches.

The following is a sample of demonstrations that have been scheduled in various cities around the country for the weekend from 6-8 August.

Cambridge, Lexington and New Bedford, Massachusetts

The Cambridge Chapter of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice will sponsor a rally at the City Common followed by a march to Lexington. Plans for Lexington are a rally at the Lexington United Methodist Church and the blocking of an entrance to Hanscom Field at

New Bedford, Massachusetts. The Boston Chapter of the PCPJ has also announced plans for a demonstration at Hanscom Field and an informed source estimates that as many as 1,000 persons will take part in an effort to block the entrance to the field. Reportedly, the Boston Chapter of the PCPJ has also considered defoliating the Vermont residence of Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker. FBI IN 305574 26 Jul 71

*Chicago, Illinois FBI IN 307448 27 Jul 71

The Socialist Workers Party controlled National Peace Action Coalition and The Chicago Peace Council are sponsoring a rally on the seventh at the Fermi Nuclear Statue at the University of Chicago. Reportedly, NPAC representatives will gather a caravan of automobiles at the Chicago Civic Center and will proceed to the statue for the planned demonstration. Members of the Chicago Peace Council will march from the Illinois Institute of Technology to the statue. FBI IN 390654 30 Jul 71

*Detroit, Michigan

The Detroit Chapter of the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party will sponsor a Hiroshima Action Day on the sixth. *Honolulu, Hawaii

A Hiroshima memorial march is being staged this week at Honolulu and is scheduled to end on the sixth. At the conclusion of the march, memorial services will be held under the sponsorship of the Hawaii People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. FBI IN 304601 22 Jul 71

*Los Angeles, California

The Peace Action Council at Los Angeles plans a weekend of demonstrations in California. On August 6 a memorial service will be held at the Buddhist Temple, 815 East First Street, Los Angeles, followed by a candlelight march to the Federal Building and Civic Center. On August 7 a demonstration will be held in front of the Los Angeles Times followed by a motorcade scheduled to proceed to the Sargent-Fletcher Aircraft Company in El Monte (the significance of demonstrations at this commercial enterprise is unknown). Following that, the motorcade will travel to the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara then to the Marin County Courthouse at San Rafael, California and finally to Sacramento. At Sacramento participants will welcome the arrival of protestors who are participating in the Chicano War Moratorium March through California. The stop in San Rafael will protest the incarceration of Angela Davis on murder and conspiracy charges.

*Newark, New Jersey

Demonstrations are scheduled for Newark by the War Resisters League at the Federal Building in commemoration of the atomic bombing of Japan and in protest of the Vietnam war. (It has been reported that the War Resisters League "bankrolled" a considerable portion of spring 1971 demonstration activities at Washington.)

FBI IN 355460 20 Jul 71

*Elizabeth, New Jersey

The Fifth Avenue Vietnam Peace Parade Committee and the New York Peace Action Coalition are cosponsoring a rally in that city this weekend. On August 6 an assembly and rally will take place at Duffy Square to be followed by a march to Central Park. Also scheduled for August 6--The Scientists and Engineers for Social and Political Action will sponsor a memorial service at the Riverside Research Institute, 80 West End Avenue. On 9 August the Peace Parade Committee will sponsor a leafletting demonstration in front of the New York Stock Exchange Building and throughout the financial district. On the ninth also, The War Tax Resistance will sponsor a march from City Hall Park to the Internal Revenue Service Building on Church Street, where they will inaugurate a project for non-payment of taxes to oppose the Vietnam war.

*Washington D.C.

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice and the Washington Area Peace Action Coalition will hold workshops as part of its program in commemorating the bombing of Japan. There will also be a showing of antiwar films at Saint Stephens and the Incarnation Church.

FBI 10387624 29 Jul 71

Antiwar radicals have also planned activities in various other parts of the country over the weekend. Some other cities that have been mentioned for possible activities are Houston, Seattle, Dallas, and Miami.

*7 August, Sacramento, California

The National Chicano War Moratorium Committee March is scheduled to terminate at the California Capitol Building at Sacramento on the above date. This march which began some weeks ago at Calexico was scheduled to protest a number of injustices, including police brutality and oppression against Mexican-Americans, injustices from the Department of Immigration and American Imperialistic Genocide in Vietnam. Reportedly, a number of militant Mexican-American Brown Berets will be in the group at Sacramento and this violence-prone organization could very well incite a police reaction at the California capitol. Spokesmen have stated that if authorities interfere with the marchers, there will be bombing and burning at Sacramento and at Whittier. It is believed that the Brown Beret Organization will certainly try to bring about violence. They have tried in the past and have been highly successful.

*10-13 August, Washington D.C.

A regional conference of the May Day Collective will be held from the tenth to the thirteenth of August. It is anticipated that the regional conference will be formulating plans for regional participation to propose to the national conference of May Day Collectives to be held at Atlanta later in the month. It should be noted that the Washington Chapter of the May Day Collective (now named the Potomac Revolutionary Gang) has moved to new quarters at 1620 New Hampshire Avenue N.W.

*13-17 August, Atlanta

A national conference of the May Day Collective will meet in Atlanta on the above dates. In recent weeks, various regional May Day Collectives have been meeting to formulate local plans to submit to the national organization. Although the principal target date is still uncertain, activities that have taken place recently indicate that Washington will probably not soon again be a virtual singular target. Future target areas will probably be multiple and the major cities, chosen because of their industrial importance, with little regard for the presence of governmental installations. The May Day Collective apparently reasons that pressuring the government has failed and now bringing pressure to bear against industrial complexes to stop the Vietnam war is worth a try.

Asterisked items are either reported for the first time, or contain additions or changes to previously reported activities.

Several hundred activists of various May Day Collectives met at Atlanta in mid-August. The gathering of the groups had been announced many weeks prior, and the announced purpose of the Atlanta session was to formulate and co-ordinate plans for antiwar demonstrations in the fall.

This conference, participated in by extremely radical and unpredictable activists, was perhaps more chaotic than any preceding session of similar organizations in recent history. In the early days of the conference, a women's collective factionalized over a very basic issue. One faction maintained a philosophy of government reform, and the other proposed abandoning this strategy and held that changes should occur through revolutions and that preparations for revolution should be organized now in the form of a people's army.

Before any fall plans could be discussed, the May Day Conference was taken over by male and female homosexuals. The remaining sessions were devoted to debates on sexism and how best to bring to the surface the "gayness in all of us." The thrust of the homosexual participants (estimated between one third and one half of those attending) were such arguments as, "you can't fight imperialism until sexism has been conquered," and the philosophy that gayness is anti-capitalist and anti-imperialist. The argument goes that "gayness is non-competitive and loving while capitalism is competitive and hateful."

As all other radical conferences break into workshops and study groups, the May Day assemblage also adopted this course. The categories, however, instead of being war oriented or welfare oriented, divided into such categories as "gay women," "gay men," "straight women," and "straight men." An example of the purpose of the workshop entitled

D.C. News 19 Aug 71

"straight men" was how best the participants could prove to their homosexual brothers and sisters by their practice in the next several days that they were "struggling with their sexism."

One of the meeting places during the May Day week in Atlanta was the church of Ralph Abernathy. It was reportedly at this site that Abernathy, addressing an evening session, was hissed and booed for mentioning the names of former Senator Eugene McCarthy and Daniel Ellsberg (who are regarded as hopeless liberals). This expression of disapproval was followed by a black homosexual participant's denunciation of the reaction to Abernathy as "racist." This participant walked out and was followed by the remainder of the homosexual men in attendance. These actions led in turn to one outburst after another, and the evening ended in chaos.

P.C. New 14 Aug 71

Finally, toward the end of the week's activities, a workshop was called simply to inform participants of various fall antiwar proposals. Only about 80 persons showed up, and after some objections that only 20 women and four homosexuals were present, the conference had its first discussion on the antiwar struggle. What emerged from the discussion were two outlines for fall action. The first, termed the "New York City Give the Man a Heart Attack proposal," called for civil disobedience to shut down the New York stock exchange on November 8. This proposal additionally called for participation along with the National Peace Action Coalition and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice in a mass march at New York on November 6. Also included in this proposal was a call for smaller disruptive actions against "racist and sexist" targets in New York on November 5.

Guardian 25 Aug 71

The alternate proposal expressed more of a trend than a firm plan. Basically, the advocates of the second alternative sought a regional and local emphasis rather than a National May Day action. In effect, it would cast May Day groups in the role of endorsing PCPJ actions and call for May Day adherents to participate in PCPJ actions as contingents. Both proposals were formulated to encompass illegal, civil disobedience and reject the mass mobilization tactics of the NPAC as non-productive. Neither proposal received clear endorsement, and implementation of various ideas was left up to regions involved.

One well-informed radical left-wing observer, SDS founder Carl Davidson, writing in the independent radical newspaper, the Guardian, concluded that the Atlanta conference marked a political crisis within the white radical youth movement. Davidson's view was that organizationally and in the area of leadership, the May Day Movement was in serious trouble. Not only was the conference hamstrung repeatedly by anarchism, but little in the way of new ideas was presented. The meeting itself was unrepresentative in that at least one third were homosexuals, all but six were white, and very few were students. It is further Davidson's view that critical to the May Day future was the absence at Atlanta of several of its key leaders of spring protest activities. Rennie Davis, the generally recognized national May Day leader, and his chief lieutenant, John Froines, were not in attendance and their virtual boycott of this meeting leads to speculation that plans are under way to simply let the organization die out.

Davidson 25 Aug 71

Although the date has not been set, it is presently planned that another meeting of the May Day Collectives will be held in New York in September.

D.C. News 19 Aug 71

For practical purposes the meaning of the May Day Conference fiasco at Atlanta indicates at this time that disruptive activities staged in Washington last May third will probably not re-occur this fall. It can be expected that the May Day Collective enthusiasm will not be sustained without the charisma of Rennie Davis and others. Other factors, such as a reduction in even a semblance of national direction as well as planning and implementation being left to regional collectives, strongly indicate not only a lack of strategy but a lack of intention to stage another May third.

Plans of the Socialist Workers Party dominated National Coalition are also not yet firm for fall. It seems at this point, however, that they, too, will not attempt to match their success of last spring in one giant assembly but rather will elect to stage more modest antiwar demonstrations in a number of locations next time. In short, the present signal is for the pressure to be off Washington this autumn.

It is believed that the next several months will also see some drift in radical activities away from the Vietnamese War. The unaffiliated radical leftists, as well as the Communist Party USA dominated People's Coalition for Peace and Justice and the pro-Maoist Progressive Labor Party, already adhere to a multi-issue tactic. As the war dies out, the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party will be faced with either a shift to other radical causes celebre or face extinction. It is quite likely that the Trotskyites, as the war continues to wind down, will jump on the President's recently-implemented economic policy in order to try once again the wooing of American labor. A second fertile field for cultivation in the general strategy of revolutionaries is likely to be in the field of welfare. Since the war as a single topic will be difficult for the Trotskyites to follow, there will probably occur some modifications in their single-issue tactic.

19-29 August, Fort Collins, Colorado

The annual National Student Congress of the National Student Association will take place during this period at Colorado State University. Approximately 1,000 student government leaders, representing over 400 colleges and universities, will be in attendance to determine National Student Association policy for the coming year and elect national officers (the term of radical David Ifshin of Potomac, Maryland, is now up, and Ifshin will be replaced by another student radical). Workshops have been scheduled on such topics as student legal rights, sexism, ecology, student power, racism, voter registration and educational reform. While in session, conferees will hear speeches by such national figures as Doctor Daniel Ellsberg, Senator Birch Bayh, Senator George McGovern, Representative Paul McCloskey, antiwar baby doctor Benjamin Spock, self-admitted revolutionary communist David Dellinger, and National Welfare Rights Organization leader George Wiley.

The organizer of the camp is a group known as the Association of Vietnamese Patriots. The purposes of the summer camp are reportedly to encourage closer contacts between the Vietnamese living in Canada and activists in the United States antiwar movement, to exchange political viewpoints, to help bring antiwar movements closer together, and to co-ordinate joint efforts to bring the Vietnamese War to an end.

*6 November, Nationwide

The National Peace Action Coalition steering committee conference was held at Cleveland in mid-August. This conference directed its attention to the topic of a successful antiwar campaign this fall. Conference leaders discussed the need for minimizing the success of all demonstrations being planned by May Day Collectives. Conferees expressed the opinion that should May Day Collectives meet with success in their fall demonstrations, it would siphon off enthusiasm and support for planned NPAC demonstrations on November 6. There was some expression by conferees that a need for unity with the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice was required for a successful fall antiwar campaign. Reportedly, regional conferences to be held in the weeks ahead will plan the various demonstrations scheduled around the country.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORTNational Governor's Conference at Puerto Rico, from 12-15 September 1971

An anonymous telephone call was received at the office of the executive director of the Puerto Rican National Governor's Conference last March tenth. The caller demanded that work cease on the National Conference and that "we will make trouble for you" if you bring the governors to Puerto Rico. The caller threatened that the governors might all be killed.

FBI IN 284960 20d 11mch 71

More specific acts of terrorism have since been detailed by two or more informants of the FBI. Under the auspices and guidance of several radical left-wing Puerto Rican independence movement organizations (The Movimiento Pro Independencia de Puerto Rico, The Partido Independentista Puerto Riqueno, The Partido Autentico Soberanista, and The Federacion Estudiantil Pro Independencia) reportedly, violence, and possibly assassination and kidnapping are slated to occur.

FBI IN 413574 21 Aug 71

According to the son of Juan Mari Bras, secretary general of the Movimiento Pro Independencia, riots and bloodshed on the campus of the University of Puerto Rico will coincide with the opening of the conference on September twelfth. This diversionary tactic is expected to draw police and security forces from the hotel district where the governor's conference is being held. Reportedly, high school as well as junior high school students have been enlisted to assist in the disruption on the campus.

FBI IN 411272 27 Aug 71

Sources report that propagandizing against the presence of the governors will begin on September sixth through acts of vandalism and destruction, particularly attacks on American establishments in San Juan. During the conference, activists will protest continued "exploitation" of Puerto Rico. Violence is definitely being incited. Joaquin Parrilla, an independence activist, has stated that the governors should be greeted with bombs instead of flowers.

FBI IN 413574 31 Aug 71

Observations

Reports of this type have in the past often tended to be over pessimistic. Many reported plans of antiwar activists in the United States for instance, received from FBI sources, have simply not come off as severely as indicated by informants reporting to the FBI. Puerto Rico, of course, presents a more complex situation. Movements for independence (usually of a Marxist-Leninist flavor) as well as movements for statehood (proportionately fewer in recent years) have been part of Puerto Rican political reality since way before the homegrown U.S. protests of the early 1960's.

It can be reasonably concluded that Puerto Rican radicals will not miss the forum presented by the presence on the island of the governors. There will be protest demonstrations at San Juan conducted by the several organizations and it can be assumed that those responsible for the security of the conferees will be prepared for the worst. The worst, interpreted as bodily harm to the conferees, will probably not occur, but prudence on the part of those attending is certainly warranted.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Demonstrations planned by antiwar and anti-establishment radicals for the fall season have now been scheduled and there remains only the matter of tactics before the country is again faced with disruptions aimed at protesting not only the war but a wide variety of alleged national shortcomings. There has been in recent weeks some drift away from the single-issue strategy which has traditionally been embraced by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party family of organizations. Although the National Peace Action Coalition still maintains a superficial single-issue posture, other issues are creeping into the protest dialogue. National Peace Action Coalition spokesmen and supporters are beginning to attack the President's economic policy and at a recent Washington news conference, Charles Cheng, number two man in Washington, D.C.'s Teachers' Union, was promoting militant street action by labor if the economic freeze continues past its designated termination date.

FBI IN 420602 10/2/71

As for the Communist Party USA influenced People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, it appears now that they have dropped plans that were originally proposed to follow the fall mass demonstrations of the NPAC. The battle continues between the two major ideologies in the protest movement and PCPJ spokesmen undoubtedly feel that by preceding scheduled plans by the NPAC, they may be able to preempt the leadership in the anti-establishment struggle. It will be remembered that last spring PCPJ activities followed the mass march on Washington and as a result, observers feel the Trotskyites scored a major victory in the battle to dominate the American left-wing dissident movement.

The May Day Collective movement has made a number of militant recommendations for civil disobedience that will probably, at least in part, be adopted by the PCPJ. May Day as an organization, however, seems definitely on the way out. They were forced out of Washington offices last week because they were unable to pay the rent. Probably most May Day activists will be welcomed into the ranks of the PCPJ, but it is also possible that still another dissident radical political entity will emerge from fall activities. Such prominent leaders as Rennie Davis, John Froines, and others are leaders and not followers and if they fail to gain significant control of established organizations, the easy avenue is simply to start a group of their own.

The PCPJ and remnants of the May Day Collective have also decided this fall to ride on the coattails of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, led now principally by Al Hubbard. The veterans group has for some time been planning activities on Veteran's Day, October 25 and the PCPJ has jumped on this date, has claimed joint sponsorship, and undoubtedly hope to gather added movement sympathy through co-operation with the vets. The Vietnam Veterans Against the War received a remarkably sympathetic greeting from a number of members of Congress last spring. Political acceptance is undoubtedly viewed as a valuable plus in promoting leftist causes and challenging the established order.

The PCPJ in recent weeks has drifted into a number of channels in its continuing effort to enlist a broad base of support. It has long since been the tactic of CPUSA-oriented organizations to offer something for everyone, most especially the American labor movement. A Washington PCPJ task force which met two weeks ago and was attended by a variety of left-wing radicals including Rennie Davis, Bob Greenblatt, of the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, Al Hubbard, Brad Lyttle, PCPJ national co-ordinator; Carol Kitchen, Steve Sacks, Bob Lamb, John Walsh, and Mike Walleck--all of May Day; and Carol Cullum, newly elected president of the National Student Association, put forward a number of highly diversified recommendations. The May Day representatives recommended the theme "Answer the Call." "Answer the Call" could apply to almost anything radicals desire. Their recommendations included a call for an anti-heroin campaign, a call for no more federal grand juries, a call for economic reforms (obviously other than the President's present economic freeze), a call for an end to American imperialism (particularly in the East Pakistan Revolution), and a call for acceptance of the seven-point peace proposal of the Vietnam Communists. -FBI/N 446614 (3/3/67)

The major antiwar organizations seem as far as ever away from co-operating with one another. Except for the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and the relatively small Maoist Progressive Labor Party, no other major movement organization seems to be able to maintain its integrity as a unit and all have fallen into one camp or the other. Such organizations as the American Friends Service Committee, The War Resisters League, The Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, The National Welfare Rights Organization, and all others with various axes to grind have embraced either the Trotskyite NPAC or the CPUSA influenced PCPJ. Bad ideological blood remains between the two major forces.

*2 October, Danbury, Connecticut

Mass demonstrations have been scheduled at the Danbury Prison in solidarity with the Berrigan Brothers as well as "other political prisoners." Plans reportedly are being formulated by Catholic resistance forces for a nationwide action at prisons across the country as well as at the Saigon Embassy in Washington (to display solidarity with Vietnamese political prisoners). Other targets specifically mention for action on October 2 are the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary in Pennsylvania and at San Quentin in Marin County in California. The recent events at the Attica State Prison in New York might lend some impetus to these plans for October second, but basically it is not believed that major protest activities will result on this date. (Guardian 8 Sept. 71)

*13-14 October, Nationwide

A moratorium on business as usual is planned by both major organizations as well as the National Student Association for this date. Protesters are planning meetings, rallies, demonstrations and teach-ins "in every city, every town, and every village." Protest leaders allege that trade union locals and rank and file worker groups will plan work stoppages and rallies at factories beginning at noon on the thirteenth. The Student Mobilization Committee co-ordinator, Debbie Bustin, has stated that the character of protest actions will be left to demonstrators in the various localities. (W. H. Star 26 Aug. 71 - Guardian 8 Sept. 71)

*25-29 October, Washington, D.C. and Nationwide

This week is scheduled as the main event by the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. Unlike the activities of last spring, mass disruption of the city in the early morning hours seems out. Probably in anticipation of a smaller turnout, plans presently call for specific targets on specific dates. Tactics will change between now and then as well as targets, but protesters will attempt to disrupt agencies of government on various days during this week. One information source has advised that an anti-heroin march and rally at a CIA office will take place on October 25. The address reflected by this source of information, however, is one that does not house agency facilities and in fact does not exist. October 26 calls for a march on the Justice Department to protest the use of grand juries. The form of this protest has been suggested as a people's tribunal (apparently on the steps of the Justice Department), and teach-ins. October 27--a march and rally has been proposed at the Department of Commerce Building and at the Labor Department to protest the wage freeze as well as the Family Assistance Plan. October 28--PCPJ demonstrators are scheduled to march to the State Department to protest American imperialism and the oppression of other countries with the emphasis on the East Pakistan-Bengla-Desh Revolution (no mention of Vietnam). To climax the week's activities October 29, it has been proposed that groups will assemble at points of interest in the city (Justice Department, State Department, Selective Service, etc.) and starting at noontime, will march to the White House to engage in "massive civil disobedience." Protest spokesmen hope that this week's activities will increase interest in the protest movement and encourage demonstrators to remain in Washington for another week. Another plan being considered during this period by the Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam is to have a group of clergymen engaged in daily civil disobedience at the White House.

LEILA 7/6/74 357 715

The NPAC, which rejects the tactic of civil disobedience, considers the timing of the PCPJ action as a violation of the agreement between the coalitions and one designed to detract from NPAC major efforts scheduled for November 6.

Regarded as crucial to the success of the actions of late October is the support of radical youth who were mobilized with reasonable success last May. This mobilization has not yet taken place, either through May Day or any other organization, and activities have been poorly publicized both in the legitimate press and in underground press media. It is believed that it is now too late for the necessary large-scale propaganda campaign that would enable planners to be successful in October. It is believed at this time that demonstration numbers in October will be counted in the hundreds and not in the thousands. As in the past, PCPJ activities will not appeal to the Negro community or to organized labor. At this time, no threat to the CIA facilities is anticipated.

*3 November, Nationwide

A student strike has been proposed under the sponsorship of several antiwar organizations on this date. It too has so far been poorly publicized, but publicity can be expected to increase as the college year begins. There will probably be increased absenteeism on many campuses, but no serious consequences of the proposed student strike is likely. The Student Mobilization Committee, which is controlled by the Young

November 857 71

Socialist Alliance, the "youth group" of the Socialist Workers Party, has proposed that on this date college and high school students will go into nearby communities to build support for the NPAC mass march scheduled for 6 November. Washington Sept 7/

*6 November, Nationwide

The National Peace Action Coalition is scheduling mass marches patterned after last April 24 in various American cities. It does not appear that this organization will be as successful as it was in the spring. So far, mass media publicity has been virtually non-existent, and it is believed that since success is measured by numbers that the NPAC is spread too thin to produce significant demonstrations everywhere. Demonstrations which are billed as peaceful, orderly, and non-violent will take place in the following American cities: Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Philadelphia, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Tampa, and Washington, D. C. The main demand will be for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all American forces from Indochina. The cities where success seems most likely are Boston, New York, San Francisco, and Washington. Sept 7/

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Fall antiwar activities are now being publicized. Although somewhat less optimistic on the potential for disruptions, it is still not believed that plans by left-wing activists will approach the dimensions of last spring. Plans for a moratorium on October 13 and for antiwar marches and demonstrations on November 6 are being jointly sponsored by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party controlled National Peace Action Coalition and the Communist Party USA influenced People's Coalition for Peace and Justice. Other activities scheduled during the next several weeks continue to be pressed by the PCPJ only.

An advertisement appeared in last Sunday's New York Times encouraging participation on National Moratorium Day (October 13) and the "mass" marches to be held in sixteen cities on November 6. The cities that have been designated are New York, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Tampa, and Washington. The Times advertisement was signed by over a hundred perennial spokesmen for a variety of pacifists, antiwar, and miscellaneous radical causes. Included in the list of sponsors that ran from Abernathy to Zinn were the traditional troublemakers such as Rennie Davis, Dave Dellinger, Bella Abzug, and the recently martyred Daniel Ellsberg as well as the moderately liberal California Senator John V. Tunney. Senator Tunney's name on such a list is somewhat surprising. Another advertisement was published in mid-September in the Los Angeles Free Press, which called on working people to demonstrate against the war. This full-page ad, which referred to "Nixon's wage freeze" and "Nixon's War," encouraged participation in the October 13 moratorium as well as the November 6 antiwar demonstrations. It was signed by 100 labor leaders, but organizational sponsorship of this advertisement was not given. The fall antiwar offensive has also been publicized in the independent radical paper the Guardian. In a recent advertisement, sponsored singly by the PCPJ, the call was not only for participation in the joint sponsorship dates but also prison demonstrations planned for October second and "non-violent" direct action in Washington, D.C. scheduled for the week October 25-29. The PCPJ appeal as has traditionally been the case, is more oriented toward a variety of causes rather than keying all of society's ills to the Vietnamese War. The PCPJ ad referred to the neglect of American urban centers and repression through the abuse of grand juries and governmental agencies as well as problems of poverty, and general political repression and oppression. Since mid-September and the events at Attica, emphasis has also been added to the plight of the American convict, who is usually referred to as a political prisoner. Guardian 22 Sept 71 San Diego Tribune 17 Sept 71

*Guardian 20 Sept 71 Los Angeles Free Press 17 Sept 71
N.Y.T. 20 Sept 71*

N.Y. Times 26 Sept 71

From publicity for fall demonstrations now appearing, activists have indeed gained additional support from organized labor. It is still not believed, however, that the two major scheduled events will pose a serious threat of disruption. Intelligence sources in the Washington area concur in this appraisal.

As for the troublesome May Day Collective, it would appear that they do not presently have the resources or the organization for a go-it-alone activity of the type which resulted in the numerous arrests during the spring protest season. In general, the emphasis this season manifests a regional flavor by all antiwar organizations. The May Day Collective, which is depleted and disorganized, must join the PCPJ if their impact is to be felt this fall at all.

*30 September--3 October

The Christian Political Union, 1320 E Street NW, Washington, D.C. has scheduled demonstrations to protest the withdrawal of United States support from Southeast Asia on the above dates. The Christian Political Union programs call for a rally in Lafayette Park at 7 p.m. on the thirtieth of September, which will install a 24-hour vigil to be held in front of the White House. On 2 October pro-war demonstrators will gather at Dupont Circle and then visit the South Vietnamese and South Korean Embassies. On 3 October a candlelight procession will be held from Lafayette Park down 17th Street to the Mall and then to the Lincoln Memorial for a final rally. In requesting a permit, spokesmen for the Christian Political Union have estimated 200 persons will participate.

*1 October, San Diego

Antiwar activists have persisted in their efforts to prevent the sailing of the aircraft carrier Constellation for its sixth deployment to the war zone since 1964. Led by David Harris, convicted draft evader and his wife Joan Baez, a straw ballot referendum was recently conducted in San Diego which drew over 54,000 votes. By a 5:1 margin, those voting expressed the belief that the Constellation should stay in port at San Diego. Reportedly activists have considered a number of tactics to prevent the crew from reaching its ship, and a flotilla of small boats in the harbor to block the aircraft carrier's departure. Violence might well erupt in San Diego this weekend. N.Y.T. 26 Sept 71 Wash Post 27 Sept 71

*1 October, Washington, D.C. --- 2 October, Nationwide

Antiwar leaders are planning a prison protest on the above dates. On 1 October a demonstration is scheduled at the Washington, D.C. Parole Board, 101 Indiana Avenue to advance a policy of allowing prisoners at the Lorton Reformatory to run their own prison. On 2 October Washington activists plan a demonstration to be held at the White House in commemoration of those killed at Attica. Civil disobedience is possible. FBI 452 578 27 Sept 71

Under the sponsorship of the PCPJ as well as a number of independent activists a nationwide series of demonstrations at prisons is planned for 2 October. The principal demonstration is scheduled at the Danbury, Connecticut facility where Father Berrigan is located. Activists will demonstrate urging reform in prison policies both in the United States and in South Vietnam. One of the leading spokesmen for the prison demonstration is Sister Elizabeth McAlister, who is one of the eight persons indicted some months ago by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to kidnap presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger and to bomb buildings in the Washington area. Participating in a recent news conference with Sister McAlister where protest plans were presented was Harvard biologist Doctor George Wald, Beulah Sanders of the National Welfare Rights Organization, Tom Davidson, a member of the Harrisburg Defense Committee, and others. N.Y.T. 27 Sept 71

The prison facilities that have been named as centers of this demonstration are the Federal Correctional Institute at Danbury, Connecticut; Alderson Women's Federal Prison at Alderson, West Virginia; Cuyahoga County Prison at Cleveland; the Federal Youth Correctional facility at Ashland, Kentucky; California State Penitentiary at San Quentin; the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pennsylvania; and the penal facilities at Springfield, Missouri; Terminal Island, California; Sandstone, Minnesota; and Joliet, Illinois. Added to the list will certainly be the New York Correctional facility at Attica. N.Y.T. 27 Sept 71

The Attica riots of mid-September will undoubtedly fuel the zeal of demonstrators at prisons throughout the country. The principal theme is the "Plight of Political Prisoners" both in the United States and in Vietnam and the tactic will be to emphasize the twenty-eight demands made by the prisoners of Attica. Activists that have been mentioned in connection with the prison demonstrations aside from the Berrigan group are Shirley Chisholm, William Kunstler, David Dellinger, and many others. Representatives of the National Peace Action Coalition have neither propagandized nor generally endorsed these demonstrations.

FILE IN 430137 23 Sept 71

In addition to activities scheduled at various prisons, a Washington, D.C. group (possibly from George Washington University) is planning a demonstration at the South Vietnamese Embassy to protest the imprisonment of political leaders in South Vietnam.

*2 October, Washington, D.C.

The Maryland center for United Labor Action will sponsor a demonstration at the White House and at Lafayette Park on the above date. The purpose of the demonstration is to protest the wage freeze. The activity's co-ordinator is Astrid H. Nader, who is also reported to have been active in the Womens Liberation Movement as well as Womens Strike for Peace.

*4 October, Washington, D.C.

Two organizations, Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam and the Women's Strike for Peace, have scheduled a "lay-in" at the White House on the above dates to protest the war. Scheduled for the day after the South Vietnamese elections the "lay-in" will consist of hundreds of people laying down in front of the White House each day for a week to demonstrate the numbers of people being killed daily in Indochina. Reportedly, demonstration spokesmen expect arrests.

FILE IN 430137 23 Sept 71

New York Corrections Commissioner Oswald recently involved in the Attica prisoner revolt is scheduled to receive a humanitarian award at New York's George Washington Hotel on the above date. A demonstration will probably occur at this event.

Roy Innis, the national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, has announced the organization's annual convention to be held at the New York State Armory at Fifth Avenue and 142d Street in Harlem on the above dates. Several of the speakers scheduled to address the convention are New York Representative Shirley Chisholm, Senator Birch Bayh, California Representative Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., and Senator George McGovern. At a recent press conference, Roy Innis hinted that CORE may endorse the candidacy of Shirley Chisholm for President of the United States. Mr. Innis who several weeks ago at a similar press conference embraced a theme of Pan-Africanism did not follow a similar course while announcing detailed plans for the convention. His theme tended to dwell more in the arena of black autonomy advocating what he referred to as "cityhood" where blacks would acquire control of black urban centers such as Chicago's South Side, Watts in Los Angeles, and Harlem in New York.

*12 October, Oakland, California

Black Panther leader Huey Newton is scheduled for a re-trial on the above date for manslaughter in the death of a police officer in a 1968 Oakland shootout. Newton is presently visiting in the Peoples Republic of China.

*13 October, Denver, Colorado

Another rally sponsored by the Free Angela Davis Committee is scheduled for Denver on the above dates. The demonstration will protest the imprisonment of Miss Davis and to call for her immediate release.

FBI IN 451067 27 Sept 71

*13 October, Nationwide

In protest against the war a moratorium on business as usual is planned for this date. Under the joint sponsorship of the NPAC and the PCPJ and with the endorsement of a larger than usual collection of labor leaders, mid-day rallies are planned around the nation. The moratorium intends to stop business as usual and most reports have emphasized that the demonstrations would be legal and non-violent. College and high school students will also be encouraged to "strike" on the thirteenth as well as on the fourteenth of October. The Communist Party USA has strongly endorsed moratorium activities on the thirteenth. The National Welfare Rights Organization has also picked this date to publicize the shortcomings of President Nixon's Family Assistance Program.

FBI IN 404185 25 Sept 71

A spokesman for the War Resisters League (an organization which reportedly largely financed last spring's activities) has circulated a proposal to disrupt government agencies including FBI offices on October thirteenth. This spokesman, one David McReynolds, has allegedly contacted the PCPJ, The American Friends Service Committee, and The Fellowship of Reconciliation to gain support for a plan of disruption. It is not believed that McReynolds' plan will gain general acceptance and no disturbances of government agencies is expected on October thirteenth.

*14 October, New York

New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller is to be presented with a humanitarian award at the Hilton Hotel on the above date. Demonstrators protesting the governor's handling of the Attica prisoner revolt will probably demonstrate at the hotel.

FBI 11/43/001 24 Sept 71

*25-29 October, Washington, D.C.

During this period the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, remnants of the May Day Collective, principally local Washington street people, and The Vietnam Veterans Against the War will attempt to disrupt the city. The VVAW will demonstrate at the annual Veteran's Day parade in the city. They hope to use the event to propagandize their opposition to the war in Indochina. Additionally, an anti-heroin march is planned in Washington on October 25 followed by a noon rally at the Sylvan Theater. It was previously reported that the anti-heroin attack will target a CIA facility but no additional confirmation has been obtained. The original address reported was a non-existent one in Georgetown. Additional details concerning a possible attack on agency facilities will be reported when and if received. It is not believed at this time that a serious threat against any agency facility exists. The rally planned for the Sylvan Theater on this date will probably take place. Demonstration spokesmen claim that they will declare a "People's Armistice Day" and urge acceptance by the United States of the Vietnamese Communist seven-point peace proposal.

FBI Current Intelligence Vol. 1, No. 55, 20 Sept 71 FBI 11/430137 23 Sept 71

On October 26 antiwar and anti-establishment demonstrators plan to march to the White House and commit "large-scale civil disobedience" by sitting on the sidewalk. A protest of grand jury procedures will be held in front of the Department of Justice and demonstrators will seek a civil magistrate to issue a restraining order against grand juries. Tentative plans have also been made on this date to protest the deaths at Attica.

FBI 11/430137 23 Sept 71

On October 27 demonstrations protesting the economy, poverty, and repression will be held at the Department of Health Education and Welfare, at the Commerce Department, and at the Labor Department by women's liberation groups and the National Welfare Rights Organization. These organizations undoubtedly will also count on support by antiwar generalists and the Washington street people community.

NYT IN 430137 23 Sept 71

*30 October, Washington, D.C.

A press conference has been scheduled on the above date (or possibly the thirty-first of October) to discuss events of the preceding week at Washington. Based on the degree of success and the size of participation, events for the week of 1-5 November will be revealed. That week, 1-5 November, has been declared Peace Action Week by antiwar activists.

NYT IN 430137 23 Sept 71

*1 November, San Raphael, California

Judge Richard E. Arnason has postponed the murder-conspiracy trial of Angela Davis to allow her attorneys sufficient time to argue pre-trial motions including a request for a change of venue. Angela Davis continues to receive extensive publicity in the Communist press and has been the rallying point for numerous radical speakers throughout the nation. Miss Davis, a protege of Communist philosopher Herbert Marcuse, is a classic example of what radicals on the left consider a political prisoner. Miss Davis, the rhetoric goes, is being punished not for murder and conspiracy but rather because she is a woman, a Negro, and a Communist.

*3 November, Nationwide

The National Peace Action Coalition has called for a national student strike on the above date. The Student Mobilization Committee, the mass organization of the Trotskyite family of organizations, is reportedly in charge of the student strike activities but little publicity for such a strike has been noted in recent weeks. It is believed that activists see greater promise in building a substantial moratorium date on October 13 incorporating a student walkout than on this date in November.

6 November, Nationwide

The jointly-sponsored massive non-violent demonstrations have been scheduled in the sixteen population centers on this date. Although publicity is now being generated, it is not believed that plans for 6 November will be disruptive or particularly spectacular in terms of the number of participants. As the protest season evolves, additional plans for activities on 6 November will appear in Situation Information Reports.

*7 November, Washington, D.C.

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice has indicated plans to continue the demonstration season with a "soul rally" in Washington on the above date. Canadian 7 July 71

*8 November, Washington, D.C.

Massive non-violent direct action demonstrations to move the government to "Set the Date" for withdrawal of all armed forces from Indochina and to demand full employment and an end to government repression was scheduled some time ago on the above date. This activity as well as the 7 November "soul rally" have not been publicized in recent weeks, and it is believed that these plans may be abandoned. Apparently, plans for demonstrations by the New York City chapter of the May Day Collective in the New York financial district in early November have been dropped. FBI IN 930137 23 Sept 71

*9 November, Los Angeles, California

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

It is highly improbable that plans by antiwar activists for disruption of Washington in the next few weeks will provoke serious concern by law enforcement agencies. The rhetoric remains heated (by Rennie Davis and others), but the transferal to street action appears sluggish and significant popular support seems unlikely. There has been little new publicity generated in the last week, and the enthusiasm of seasons past just is not present this time. Demonstrators will number in the hundreds and not in the thousands and can be expected to stay in the downtown section of the city. No threat to CIA facilities has as yet been detected through the fall demonstration period.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The National Peace Action Coalition and the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice which operate independently and have serious disagreements on many basic issues, reportedly are jointly sponsoring and mobilizing support for the November 6 demonstrations in major cities. The cities mentioned so far are Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Philadelphia, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle, Tampa and Washington, D.C. Senators Birch Bayh (D-Ind.) John Tunney (D-Calif.), and Walter Mondale (D-Minn.) have endorsed the November 6 demonstration against the war (as well as the wage freeze). Activists have gained some minor additional support from leaders of organized labor (not from rank and file). It is not believed that the scheduled demonstrations will be disruptive or particularly spectacular in terms of the number of participants.

Recent events staged in Washington by the CPUSA influenced PCPJ under the perennial leadership of Dave Dellinger, Rennie Davis, Father Groppi, Dr. Spock, and other left-wing radicals were as predicted, disappointing. The antiwar movement is in rapid retreat and observers see little chance for a successful showing on Saturday. Crowds in the various cities will range from several hundred to several thousand with the greatest participation expected in New York, Boston, San Francisco and Washington.

Although joint sponsorship has been publicized, events scheduled on the sixth are clearly being staged by the Trotskyite family of organizations (SWP, YSA, Student Mobilization and the National Peace Action Coalition). This group continues to adhere to a legal, non-confrontational and non-violent strategy and even if numbers of demonstrators exceed expectations, no serious or threatening incidents are anticipated. There will be the usual marches, speeches and slogans but little enthusiasm. The only change in the composition of the crowd will be the reduced college student participation. As in the past, blacks will stay away in droves.

No threat to CIA facilities is expected. Violence will be precipitated only by small splinter groups such as the dregs of the old May Day Collective, the YIPPIES and the like, if it occurs at all. November 6 may be the last conventional antiwar demonstration the nation will have to endure for many seasons. The attached article appeared in the New York Times October 31st and contains a map of the route of assembly points in New York City and the schedule of rallies in other cities. New York Times 23 Oct 71 p. 4 T-5 24/71

We don't know how many people we can fit into midtown Manhattan.
Help us find out on Saturday, November 6.

NEW YORK TIMES 31 OCT 1971

November 6 is the day to join the growing antiwar sentiment in this country. It's Peace Action Day and it starts at 10:00 a.m. in New York and 16 other major cities across the country. It's the day for massive, peaceful, non-confrontational demonstrations to let Nixon know that even one American death in a war the majority of Americans no longer support is one death too many.

Nixon believes he can pursue his war policy unfettered by public opinion because the American people no longer care. He's wrong.

He got out of Cambodia because hundreds of thousands of Americans rose up in horror at his renewed escalation of the war. He set a gradual withdrawal policy because the peace movement expanded to include more and more of Middle America—labor unions, professional groups and businessmen—who demand we get out now.

More than 170 labor leaders throughout the country are supporting the November 6 peace actions. Working people in unprecedented numbers will be joining with hundreds of other groups.

Nixon will be watching. Remember, to him antiwar people who stay home are the same as supporters of the war. Come out on November 6 to show Nixon more of us are for peace than ever before and that the way to peace is: Halt the Bombings Now. Return All U.S. Troops and Material Now. End the Financial and Military Support to the Thieu Dictatorship Now.

The National Peace Action Coalition has called for a national student strike on the above date. The student mobilization committee, which is controlled by the Young Socialist Alliance, the youth group of the Socialist Workers Party, has proposed that on this date college and high school students will go into nearby communities to build support for the NPAC mass march scheduled for 6 November. There has been little evidence in recent weeks that the scheduled student strike has much potential for success.

Rosénary Reuther, a student at Howard University and recently a juror on the peoples panel (peoples grand jury), has announced that beginning November 4 and continuing through Thanksgiving 300 persons per day from various cities are signing up to stage a sit-down protest against the war in front of the White House. November 23 is designated as Washington, D.C.'s day.

The Washington Area Peace Action Coalition estimates 60,000 people will participate in this rally. On the evening of November 6 the PCPJ will sponsor an all-night march at Washington to promote once again the Peoples Peace Treaty, a document drafted last Christmas by North and South Vietnamese Communists and American radicals at Hanoi. The estimate of the number of participants is regarded as grossly exaggerated.

The War Resisters League, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and the Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam are planning to demonstrate on the above dates. This demonstration has been termed the "Death Toll Project" and is designed to dramatize the number of deaths occurring daily in Vietnam. These groups reportedly will attempt, through civil disobedience, to force 300 arrests a day at the White House by jamming and blocking the gates. Headquarters for this project is located at 245 Second Street N.E. Washington, D.C. Longtime activist Ron Young of the Fellowship of Reconciliation is project director.

A group of enlisted men from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea has reported that nearly a fourth of the crew has signed a petition protesting the vessel's return to Vietnam on 12 November. Their petition will be presented in Congress by Representative Ronald Dellums (D-Calif.). Larry Harris, a crewman from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and a spokesman for the petition signers, told newsmen that if the petition does not work, the group has other means to prevent the departure of the Coral Sea. He declined to specify what he meant. Harris said his group calls itself "S.O.S." an acronym for "save our ship."

*14 November, Kansas City, Missouri

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War, an organization of veterans opposed to the continuation of the war in Southeast Asia, is planning a strategy conference of regional coordinators and members of the steering committee on the above date. Approximately 50 members of the organization are expected to attend. The proposed purpose of the meeting is to decide the nature of antiwar actions that the organization is planning to conduct at Washington, D.C. in late November this year.

*Mid-November, Washington, D.C.

A demonstration sponsored by the PCPJ in Washington, D.C. on 26 October was supported by only 600 participants. Demonstration leaders had predicted between 5,000 and 10,000 would attend. Two hundred and ninety-eight antiwar demonstrators including Rennie Davis, David Dellinger, and

Rev. James Groppi were arrested when they blocked the intersection of 15th and H Street. The trial of those arrested is scheduled for mid-November, and those failing to appear will forfeit $50 collateral. Oct 30 - 1971 28 Oct 71

The U.S. Servicemen's Fund and the Entertainment Industry for Peace and Justice are jointly sponsoring a tour of U.S. Army installations in Asia in coming months. The 15-member troupe of antiwar entertainers including Jane Fonda, Donald Sutherland, and Dick Gregory, will present its show entitled "Salute to the GI Movement" at Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum over the weekend of November 20 and 21. The New York presentation is designed to raise funds for the Asian tour.

In addition to the regular cast of the show, the Madison Square Garden production will feature prominent rock groups, a contingent from the Broadway theater and other well-known actors and entertainers. Among those scheduled to appear are Country Joe McDonald, Swamp Dogg, Len Chandler, Ossie Davis, and Rita Martinson.

The troupe plans to leave the U.S. November 24 and will appear at 11 different base areas in Japan, Okinawa, Hawaii and the Philippines from late November to Christmas. The troupe has applied to General Creighton Abrams and the U.S. Army for official permission to present their show on military bases and has also requested clearance to travel to South Vietnam and South Korea to perform for U.S. soldiers in those areas. The troupe has also addressed a letter to President Nixon asking him to expedite their request to Abrams. Anticipating that their request will be either denied or ignored, the U.S. Servicemen's Fund is prepared to file suit for an injunction that would require the military to give them permission to perform. USSF will make provisions for alternate facilities in case the army refused permission for the show to play at the bases. The purpose of this overseas tour of the antiwar show, which has played at GI coffee houses throughout the U.S. for the past 7 months, was to show "solidarity with the GI's there and with the Asian people who seek an end to hostilities." Goodman 20 Oct 71 -

Left-wing activists undoubtedly prompted by recent failures in the technique of mass protest demonstrations have launched a new approach to radicalism which appears a transition toward political orthodoxy. After the collapse of SDS in Chicago in the summer of 1969, many radicals became disenchanted with the violence and militancy propounded by the remaining feuding factions of SDS. A number of added factors have played a role in what now appears to be the radical strategy for 1972 and perhaps beyond. The changing tenor of campuses across the nation, the winding down of the war, the changes in the selective service system, and the nation's present economic crunch are all factors in the new left shift to an action strategy more acceptable to the sympathetic masses believed to be abroad crying out for rational leadership.

Although the strategy of the 60's of mass and militant demonstrations experienced some success, the overwhelming failure of last November 6 as well as the perennial failure of the left to enlist the support of those elements of American society believed necessary to effect a revolution have been largely unsuccessful. All of the bluster and ballyhoo, the propaganda, and the pleading have failed to elicit significant support from America's vast working class.

Shortly after the May Day demonstrations which attempted to shutdown Washington, a group of left-wing activists, principally former SDS'ers, began the spade work for the formation of a radical political party that would provide leadership to what left-wing spokesmen believe to be 20 percent of the American population. It should be noted that in her critique of May Day activities in Washington, Mrs. Binh, the Vietcong negotiator in Paris, encouraged the formation of such a political party in the United States. Under the principal leadership of Staughton Lynd the former Ivy League history professor who has been involved in radical leftism for a generation and Michael Lerner of the Seattle Liberation Front who has been much in the radical spotlight in recent years, the New American Movement began organizing last June. These men and others operated on the premise that the main impediment to effective political development is the left itself, which has made itself increasingly irrelevant and unresponsive at a time when most people are straining to hear a coherent account of the crises they experience in their lives.

It was the belief of Lynd, Lerner and others that many of the major new left doctrines needed new thinking, organizing, and practice to alter the disintegration of the past two years. NAM and its founders will, during 1972, reject what they regard as errors of the past. These errors include the misuse and overglorification of the "third world" and its revolutionary struggles. NAM will also reject the past unwillingness to launch a serious socialist analysis of anti-imperialism and the continuing struggle against an economic system which permits imperialism to function. NAM leaders propose to alter the glorification of spontaneity (principle of "participatory democracy") and the failure to undertake a meaningful scientific study of the American society.

NAM, according to principal spokesmen, will reject the adoption of militancy as the substance rather than the form of movement politics. Inwardly, NAM will endeavor to transform society rather than just the political left (a criticism of past radical infighting) and will reject the notion that leadership is illegitimate elitism.

In rejecting these alleged mistakes, the New American Movement intends to start in a different direction and envisions a fresh orientation directed outward and able to speak with purpose and with candor to the majority of the American people. The objective, in short, is a mass membership organization.

The first significant formation convention was held by approximately 400 left-wing radicals at Davenport, Iowa over the Thanksgiving Day weekend. Those in attendance represented a number of local organizations from around the country and a number of former SDS activists. The convention established a 13-member national interim committee (standard organizing procedure for such groups) limited to an advisory role until next June when the organization expects to hold its formal founding convention. NAM claims to have chapters presently forming in 25 American cities. All are still quite small. The orientation at Davenport was aimed at economic problems and control of local institutions and made little or no mention of America's Vietnam involvement other than cliches and generalizations about imperialism. NAM intends to develop programs around which people can be "mobilized" to struggle (an old Communist doctrine).

Programs will be geared to include the struggle for worker control in the factory and community control in the cities, states, and in the national political arena. NAM will also promote community control of economic institutions and attack the established policies of health care, tax reform, the oppression of women, "Nixonomics", racism, etc. According to Michael Lerner, these programs will be put forward around a socio-political analysis which calls for the complete restructuring of economic and political life in America.

It is felt that the New American Movement and other new, radical political parties still in various stages of development, may be highly significant during 1972. The organizational brain trust of NAM is not yet fully known, but if the remainder are radical thinkers of the caliber of Lerner and Lynd, a controlled approach (the party system) may indeed hold the key to the decade of the 70's. When a radical political organization crumbles or the action tactic becomes unacceptable to the constituent masses, it cannot be concluded that the disillusioned will henceforth embrace the rational philosophies of the major American parties.

The sheep are in the field and Lerner and Lynd regard themselves capable of shepherding the lost ones into the left-wing body politic. If properly directed and properly paced, the New American Movement may indeed enjoy considerable success in 1972. At the Davenport meeting the leadership rejected the propagandizing of a small group of Maoist Progressive Labor Party types but encouraged the participation in NAM of the widest possible variety of unhappy Americans. NAM is soliciting the support of working people, housewives, older people, and street people, as well as youth. Most of those attending the Davenport meeting were in their late twenties and most were longtime new leftists. The development of the New American Movement will be followed closely in coming months.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The culmination of the fall "antiwar offensive" was November 6. The movement spirits are no longer high, as the nationwide fall protest was a failure. The new left it appears can no longer count on the anti-war sentiment to mobilize mass outpourings of citizens.

As for the future, the movement is divided, Rennie Davis says "there is no motion in this country for Vietnam" and has called for a year-long campaign to "Evict Nixon." The Communist Party influenced People's Coalition for Peace and Justice seem to endorse the "Evict Nixon" Plan. The Trotskyite groups, the Socialist Workers Party, and the National Peace Action Coalition still intended to concentrate on their displeasure with the war and having forsaken both Republicans and Democrats long ago will probably support the SWP candidates next November. The New Left is in a period of regrouping and re-evaluating its tactics.

*16 December, Washington, D.C.

Al Hubbard, a leader of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, has announced that his organization plans to demonstrate at Lafayette Park on the above date to coincide with the annual lighting of the National Christmas tree by President Nixon. According to the VVAW officials, the demonstration is to take the form of a memorial service and between 300-500 participants are expected. The proposed schedule calls for assembly in Lafayette Park during the morning and early afternoon with guest speakers addressing the group between 4:30 and 6 p.m. Following the speeches a vigil will be conducted until midnight. Hubbard has also stated that the VVAW may attempt to defoliate or deface the National Christmas tree on 24 December.

*19-24 December, Woodstock, New York and the U.S. Military Academy at West Point

The Mid-Hudson Non-Violence Center and the Rockland Peace and Life Community has announced their sponsorship of a Christmas "peace walk" during the above indicated period. A group of demonstrators plan to walk from Woodstock to the Military Academy where on Christmas Eve demonstrators plan to enter the chapel at West Point and turn the Christmas Eve service into a peace service. FBI IN 477297

*22 December--31 January, Valley Forge, Pa. and elsewhere

The VVAW has announced that during this period they will conduct Valley Forge II, a program consisting of civil disobedience by VVAW groups in Valley Forge, Pa.; Chicago, Ill.; Killeen, Texas; and Washington, D.C. A small group of VVAW members plan to meet with unnamed U.S. Congressmen in Washington to gain publicity. They may possibly attempt to handcuff themselves to the Congressmen. A part of this program may consist of an attempt to throw napalm on the National Christmas tree. FBI IN 477297

*24 December--1 January, Killeen, Texas; Chicago, Ill.; Valley Forge, Pa.; Atlanta, Georgia; and San Francisco, Calif.

The VVAW has announced plans to conduct antiwar protest activities in the cities listed above during this period. Among the activities planned are the following: 1. A non-Christmas dinner in which persons will be charged admission to sit-down at a dinner of empty plates; 2. public donation by VVAW members of blood to blood banks designating its use for the people of the world on Christmas Day; 3. Public testimony of VVAW members on alleged American atrocities committed during past Christmas truces; 4. Civil disobedience (to be performed on Christmas Day); and 5. The establishment of sanctuaries near military bases for servicemen desiring to desert. FBI IN 477297

*28 December--1 January, Houston, Texas

The Socialist Workers Party, a Trotskyite group, has forbidden its youth group the Young Socialist Alliance to have SWP members address the YSA national convention scheduled on the above dates. It is likely, however, that exceptions to the rule will be made for Linda Jenness and Andrew Pulley, the 1972 presidential and vice-presidential candidates. The conventioners will discuss the role of the Young Socialist Alliance in building the independent and growing women's liberation movement. Delegates will also discuss the campaign for the repeal of all anti-abortion laws. Not Review Publication 10/22/71

*31 December, New York City

The VVAW has recently discussed the possibility of a demonstration in Times Square, New York City on New Year's Eve. The organization is considering encircling the Allied Chemical Building at 8 p.m. prior to the arrival of the usual large crowd. It is then proposed that a group of vets will unfold a large sign on a nearby building at midnight indicating that those in the crowd are declared prisoners of war. The VVAW believes that a demonstration will require the assistance of other antiwar groups in the New York City area. The VVAW has also tentatively planned a demonstration at the Statue of Liberty sometime during December 1971. Final plans have not been made.

*1 January, Pasadena, California

The militant Red Sun Tribe, a West Coast group composed of radical street people widely credited with bombing the ROTC building on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles last May, is threatening to conduct a massive demonstration to disrupt the Rose Bowl Parade if the war in Vietnam is not over by 31 December.

*3-9 January, San Antonio, Texas

The National Association of Student Government Presidents announced the formation of the National Youth Caucus designed to be a political force in the 1972 presidential nominating conventions. The caucus which describes itself as non-partisan opposes the re-nomination of President Nixon and the nomination of Senator Henry A. Jackson for President. The first meeting of the caucus was held at Loyola University in Chicago on 3 December at which time it disclosed plans to emphasize political organizing among high school students and its program to elect young delegates to the Democratic and Republican National Conventions. Duane Draper, executive director of the caucus, told a news conference that cities in the South would be a main target because political efforts could have a greater impact there than in the North. The conference has been scheduled on the above dates in San Antonio for students of voting age from that city and from Dallas, Houston, Austin, El Paso, and Corpus Christi. After a follow-up meeting in each city, students are scheduled to begin precinct organizing.

*10 January, Harrisburg, Pa.

The trial is scheduled to begin on the above date for the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and seven other antiwar activists charged with plotting to destroy government buildings and kidnap Henry A. Kissinger.

*13-16 January, Kansas City, Missouri

A nationwide interreligious movement called the "Ecumenical Witness" is under the sponsorship of 125 Protestant, Eastern Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Jewish leaders. The Rev. Robert S. Bilheimer, executive director of the Department of International Affairs of the National Council of Churches, is coordinator of the movement. Members of this group are concerned with the moral issues in the Indochina War and have gathered in front of the White House to pray for peace. Dr. Bilheimer has announced they will hold a national conference on the above dates. N.Y.T. 2/9/71

*26 January, Detroit, Michigan

The Michigan Committee to Free Angela Davis and the Young Workers Liberation League (youth organization of the Communist Party, U.S.A.) have announced a joint drive to make January 26 (Angela Davis's birthday), Angela Day. The two groups are calling on the mayor and city council of Detroit to declare the date for Angela Davis Day and make public facilities available. Students of different high schools have agreed to participate and will circulate a petition for the Angela Davis Day and solicit bail for Angela. Daily News 2/26/71

*31 January, San Jose, California

The trial of Angela Davis has been scheduled to start on the above date. Miss Davis, an avowed Communist and a former philosophy instructor at UCLA is accused of having provided weapons used in the shootout at the Marin County Courthouse in August 1970. N.Y.T. 2/26/71

*15 April

At the recent PCPJ national coordinators meeting in Chicago, a split occurred between the radical and conservative factions of the organization. The radical faction led by Jay Craven and Tim Butz expressed the opinion PCPJ should engage in disruptive tactics at the 1972 Republican Convention in San Diego and the Democratic National Convention in Miami. The conservative faction led by David Dellinger is opposed to this plan on the grounds PCPJ would lose the support it enjoys from religious pacifist organizations should it participate in such activities. A meeting was held in New York City on 7 December in an attempt to resolve the differences between the two factions which could unite them around a single election year program. PCPJ will concentrate on social and political issues and will not endorse any candidate for the presidency. PCPJ spokesmen believe that in contrast to the NPAC, they have developed close relationships with a wider and more diverse number of groups ranging from the Catholic Left to the Communist Party and including the Fellowship of Reconciliation, War Resisters League, Women Strike for Peace, Womens International League for Peace and Freedom, Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, May Day Collectives, National Welfare Rights Organization, SCLC, and Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

The PCPJ has designated April 15, Tax Day, for demonstrations throughout the country against the war and its tax burden. The character of their actions are to be determined early next year by a newly elected interim leadership committee.

*16-22 April, New York City

The National Peace Action Coalition held a national convention on the campus of Cuyahoga Community College, Cleveland, Ohio on December 4-5. The Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice received an open letter from the NPAC inviting PCPJ to join in the "unity conference" in Cleveland this December. The PCPJ rejected the NPAC's unity offer citing profound political disagreements and what they described as a manipulated approach on the part of NPAC during previous antiwar demonstrations where there was supposed to be joint sponsorship. The PCPJ made a reply in an open letter to the National Peace Action Coalition pointing out the differences between the two groups with PCPJ's multi-issue approach consciously emphasizing the links between war, racism, the wage freeze and other social issues; and NPAC's refusal to support the seven-point peace proposal of the provisional revolutionary government in South Vietnam.

The NPAC has announced plans for their spring offensive to be held in New York City during the period 16-22 April 1972 and a West Coast city which is to be chosen at a later date. The theme of the demonstration reportedly will be the same as that of the past demonstrations: End the war in Vietnam, withdrawal of all troops and stop the bombing.

18-21 February, New York City

The CPUSA has issued a pamphlet which presents in preliminary form the major social and political issues to be considered at the 20th National Convention to be held on the above dates. The document reflects the following several points: that a majority of Americans want to end the war in Indochina; the establishment of the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice is an important development toward the unification of the peace movement and; the Trotskyite group, the National Peace Action Coalition, is the deadly enemy of unity in the fight for peace. Convention delegates in order to strengthen the national party will consider: the extension of intermediate organizational forms to all areas of struggle; the publicizing of the 1972 Communist Presidential ticket (Gus Hall and Jarvis Tyner); higher standards of membership and leadership; increasing the speed of training and promotion of cadre and the education of the membership; ways of doubling the membership of the Party and; methods to give assistance in the building of the Young Workers Liberation League. The Communist Party in Michigan has launched a petition campaign for 20,000 signatures by May 1 to place the Party on the ballot in the 1972 elections.

* The Daily World, the Communist Newspaper, has made frequent recent reference to the 20th convention but has not given the location where it will be held. It is assumed it will be located in New York City.

These demonstrations are to be known as "R-Day" and stand for resist, refuse, and reform. They have also discussed the possibility of establishing a "Revolution City" at the Republican National Convention in San Diego. The Revolution City would be similar to the "Resurrection City" which was established in Washington, D.C. several years ago.

The theme of the demonstration reportedly will be the same as that of the past demonstrations: End the war in Vietnam, withdrawal of all troops and cessation of the bombing. Stephanie Coontz, a NPAC coordinator, stated she had recently met with North Vietnamese delegates in Paris and had been told that the North Vietnamese wholly support NPAC efforts.

Project Air War, a Washington group whose sole purpose is to make the U.S. military look bad, has agreed to furnish information to NPAC for publicity purposes.

*28-30 April, 1 May, Chicago

Jarvis Tyner, national chairman of the Young Workers Liberation League, youth group of the CPUSA, and vice presidential candidate on the Communist Party ticket has announced that the YWLL will hold its first convention since its founding (February 1970) on the above dates. A draft resolution evaluating the work of YWLL developments among youth during the last two years, and projections for work in the future will be circulated among the membership for further refinement. The theme of the draft resolution will be how to build a mass united youth front in the shops, communities, high schools, college campuses and among soldiers and veterans. Tyner stated that the priorities of these united youth front movements must be freedom for Angela Davis, an end to the war, and defeat of President Nixon's economic offensive. International guests invited to the convention include representatives of the World Federation of Democratic Youth, of which YWLL is the U.S. affiliate, and the International Union of Students and their world affiliates. There will also be guests invited from organizations and movements in the U.S. Plans are being made for a major May Day rally during the convention.

*July, Miami Beach, Florida

The Peoples Party (as well as the Coalition of Peace and Freedom, and reportedly other minor political parties) will hold its national nominating convention a few days after the close of the Democratic National Convention in mid-July. The Peoples Party has nominated Dr. Benjamin Snock, pediatrician and peace activist as a stand-in Presidential candidate and Julius Hobson, a former Washington, D.C. school board official for Vice President, pending a convention decision. Representatives of the Peoples Party are trying to negotiate an agreement with the three television networks to cover its deliberations. Senator Eugene McCarthy has stated that his supporters may rent a hall in Miami Beach to be used for caucuses of delegates committed to him. McCarthy has hinted that he may walk out of the Democratic Convention and run as a candidate for a new party. So far, he has not indicated any desire to unite with the Peoples Party. Reportedly, the Peoples Party national chairman, Charles Briody, intends to meet with Senator McCarthy later this month to discuss plans.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Leaders of the various left-wing organizations have turned their attention to the Republican National Convention scheduled for San Diego next August. There are meetings being held to discuss plans for the convention, but the results of these discussions and plans being developed may not be known for some time.

The San Diego Convention Coalition, a self-proclaimed group organized to coordinate demonstrations during the GOR Convention, is proposing 3 days of demonstrations. The first 2 days will be devoted to peaceful picketing and attempting to place issues before the convention. The third day was referred to as "Kamikaze Day," an obvious reference to a day of violence. George Katsiaficas (former SDS'er) a leader of the San Diego Convention Coalition reportedly has contacted William Kittredge to obtain his assistance in working with the Coalition. Kittredge is a past coordinator of the New York chapter of the May Day Collective, the militant antiwar group responsible for disrupting Washington last spring. He also is closely associated with several other groups on the eastern seaboard.

In December 1971 a series of meetings were held at the Peter Stuyvesant Farm at Allamuchy, New Jersey out of which the "Allamuchy Tribe" was formed. The tribe was organized to direct movement activities during the election year, culminating with demonstrations at the Republican National Convention. The organization has now moved into office space in New York City and has changed its name to the Election Year Strategy Information Center. Leaders of the organization are Rennie Davis, former member of SDS and one of the defendants in the Chicago 7 trials; Jerry Rubin, a self-professed Communist, Chicago 7 defendant and former leader of the Youth International Party; and Stewart Albert and Jay Craven, both of whom were activists in May Day Collectives and who participated in the activities of the CPUSA influenced Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice. Reportedly, a large sum of money has been given to this organization by former Beatle singer John Lennon. - FBI 1A 409728

A group of prisoner of war relatives has opened a political headquarters in Washington, D.C. to campaign against President Nixon in all the states which hold primary elections. The Capitol Hill headquarters is sponsored by a group called Families for Immediate Release which claims it represents some 500 families of servicemen either captured or missing in Southeast Asia. Miss Sheila Cronin recently announced that the group will send a delegation to New Hampshire where the nation's first Presidential primary is scheduled March 7. President Nixon is being opposed in the New Hampshire Republican primary by Rep. Paul M. McCloskey, an antiwar Republican from California and by Rep. John M. Ashbrook an Ohio conservative. Mark Post

*29-30 April, Washington, D.C.

The National Spanish-speaking Coalition Task Force, Inc., has announced plans for a national convention on the above dates. A conference was held last October which disintegrated into acrimonious shouting over specifics, such as the prospect of a separate Spanish-speaking political party and Puerto Rican statehood. The prime issue at the April convention will obviously be the formation of a separate political party.

*July, Miami Beach, Florida

The Peoples Party (a coalition of peace groups including the Peace and Freedom Party and the New Party) has scheduled its national nominating convention a few days after the close of the Democratic National Convention in mid-July. The Peoples Party has nominated Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician and peace activist as a stand-in Presidential candidate and Julian Hobson, a former Washington, D.C. School Board official for vice president, pending a convention decision.

At a recent news conference Dr. Spock surprised some reporters by taking some of the following positions that are essentially undistinguishable from those of George C. Wallace of Alabama:

1. He favors maintenance of neighborhood schools under the control of local citizens, attended by whatever racial balance of pupils happen to live in the immediate area.
2. He is opposed to integrating the public schools by busing, although he would not permit any discrimination in housing or employment.
3. He is unimpressed with the argument that he might help defeat the major party candidate.

Among the Spock policy positions that he does not presumably share with Governor Wallace are: withdrawal of American troops from all overseas bases, free medical care for all Americans, industrial production based on worker decisions and a ban on discrimination against homosexuals. Dr. Spock has denied that the Peoples Party had made him its provisional nominee so that it would be free to switch to Eugene J. McCarthy if the Minnesotan is not chosen at the Democratic Convention.

Rpt. # 3SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The radical community in San Diego is already starting to plan their strategy for the GOP Convention next August 21-23. The principal organization involved is the San Diego Convention Coalition which is headed by local state college activist Bill Ritter. The core of the coalition is a group of about 80 young local radicals who are active in San Diego "movement" organizations. The SDCC is organized to coordinate demonstrations during the convention period.

W. A. Pitt 31 Dec 71
In January, two shots were fired into a residence which houses the Ocean Beach Collective as well as the headquarters of the SDCC. One of the residents Peter G. Bohmer, an economics professor at San Diego State College, has been the subject of numerous right-wing attacks and last month faced dismissal charges for discriminating against conservative students. A radical conservative group calling itself the "Secret Army Organization" recently distributed a leaflet in San Diego accusing Bohmer of "treason." The shooting came several days after the leaflet was distributed. Reportedly, some radicals think the gunfire was aimed at Mr. Bohmer while others think the attack was primarily on the SDCC headquarters. Wounded in the attack was Paula Tharp, a spokeswoman for the coalition. The shooting has not deterred radical activists who insist that they want a peaceful convention as much as the city does. Pam Cole one of the organizers stated "If the demonstrations aren't nonviolent, then people will be afraid to come." Even though recent large-scale demonstrations in Washington and elsewhere have fizzled, organizers feel the San Diego protests will attract a huge crowd of people determined to show their opposition to the Nixon administration. W. A. Pitt 31 Dec 71

The tentative plans of the anti-convention actions are:

1. A mass march on the Republican Convention is scheduled to be held at the San Diego Sports Arena to protest the war in Vietnam.
2. Formulation of a "People's Platform" to be presented to the GOP Convention with the demand that all rules and procedures be suspended and consideration be given to the platform presented by the SDGC.

3. Follow-up demonstrations on the succeeding two days by individual interest groups.

4. An exposition to be called "Expose '72," including exhibits on the airwar in Indochina, Chicano and black movements, health care, and women movements.

5. Before the convention, efforts will be made to circulate a petition seeking 100,000 signatures of residents opposing San Diego as the convention site. It is intended that the petition will be transmitted to the White House.

W. J. [unclear] 21 Dec 71

This following statement has been approved by the coalition for circulation:

We, the people of San Diego, are faced with many problems:

We are being forced to spend our tax money to host the Republican Convention. No one asked us if we wanted to do this.

The majority of San Diegans want peace yet the massive air war over Indochina continues. None of us thinks the war is "winding down" when we see aircraft carriers leave for Vietnamese waters.

We are suffering from unemployment and those of us who can find work have our inadequate wages controlled. Meanwhile, prices continue to rise and corporate profits soar.

In our minority communities, we are faced with the manifestations of the ill-fated Nixon policies; crime, drug abuse, police brutality and poverty are still rampant with no solution in sight.

Women continue to be the victims of discrimination and oppression and as a result suffer even greater social and economic exploitation than men.

We need such things as decent housing, adequate medical care, child care, and a clean environment. We are tired of being deceived by politicians who fail to fulfill their promises.

We feel that the policies of the leadership of the Republican Party do not meet the needs of most of the people of the U.S. Therefore, we are opposed to the coming of the Republican Convention to San Diego.

AFIS 1N 530847

The residents of San Diego are concerned over the Convention because they fear, another Chicago where 10,000 young political demonstrators engaged in violent confrontation with Chicago police during the Democratic Convention in 1968. San Diego has applied for a federal grant of $920,287 to implement much of its convention security and police preparedness training.

Members of the Community Congress, a newly formed militant group which has grown out of a largely successful local drug abuse and counseling coalition, plan to use the GOP Convention to call attention to a need for federal funding for free drug clinics, ex-convict rehabilitation agencies, halfway houses for runaways and unmarried pregnant girls, and a criminal justice reform task force.

The New York City Harrisburg Defense Committee has instituted a "40-Day Committee" headquartered at the Henry Hudson Hotel. The "40-Day Committee" will coordinate 40 days of "Resistance to Death" demonstrations beginning at 12 noon on Ash Wednesday at New York's Foley Square. At 10 a.m. on 16 February a "Pageant of Resistance" will begin and reportedly attempts will be made to deface target institutions with handprints made from the ashes of burnt documents originating in the various target institutions. Beginning on Sunday the twentieth of February one week will be spent demonstrating against each of the following target organizations:

20-26 February--The Tombs Jail.

27 February-4 March--Selective Service System and the Department of HEW.

5-11 March--Internal Revenue Service (to be directed by the New York City War Tax Resistance).

12-18 March--Trinity Church (reason for selecting this church unknown.)

19-25 March--Federal Courthouse.

The above locations have been selected because of their proximity to Foley Square involving a minimal distance for participants to travel. In addition to demonstrations scheduled above, every Monday evening at 9 p.m. public meetings will be held at Saint Clements Church, 423 West 46th St. In a direct effort to ridicule indictments brought against the Harrisburg conspirators, planners of the public meetings claim that during the Monday evening sessions participants will conspire to commit identical crimes to those with which the "Harrisburg 8" have been charged. Reportedly, the national office of the Catholic Peace Fellowship is in the forefront of planning the New York City demonstrations. FBI IN 535918 11 Feb 72

The second group will consist of nonworking radicals who can form demonstrations on short notice. In order to have both groups perform effectively PCPJ is presently searching for President Nixon's speaking itinerary.

*25-28 February, New York City

The Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Southeast Asia (formerly to End the War in Vietnam) is presently the nation's largest student antiwar organization. The Student Mobe which is controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party and its youth group, the Young Socialist Alliance, has participated in virtually every antiwar action in recent years and true to the image of the masters has embraced the single-issue strategy (i.e. the war). The Student Mobe will sponsor a National Student Antiwar Conference in New York in late February. Student Mobe leaders again hope for mass participation on the high school and college campuses throughout the nation in "teach-ins" and assemblies designed to rekindle an antiwar sentiment. Due to a variety of factors, success will be scant at best. The Student Mobe, not unexpectedly, has recently endorsed planned demonstrations by the National Peace Action Coalition at New York and Los Angeles in late April. The NPAC is also controlled by the SWP.

The Congressional Black Caucus and other elected Negro officials and civil rights leaders have announced plans to hold the first National Black Political Convention on the above dates.

The caucus has elected Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, as its new chairman, replacing Rep. Charles C. Diggs, Jr. of Michigan whom some members considered too conservative as a leader. Diggs stated at a news conference that he had advised the caucus several weeks ago that he would not seek re-election as caucus chairman because he was too busy with foreign affairs duties.

The announced purpose of the Gary Convention is to discuss the political positions blacks should take this year and to "crystallize a black agenda" of needs that will be presented to the Democratic and Republican National Conventions this summer. The Black Caucus has not endorsed any presidential candidate, though one of its members Rep. Shirley Chisholm (D-N. Y.) is a candidate.

Wiley estimated that "tens of thousands of children and their concerned parents" will participate, and 20 key eastern cities would be canvassed for supporters to attend the Washington demonstration. The demonstration will protest the Nixon administration welfare policies. The coalition opposes the

The Versailles resolutions brushed aside President Nixon's 8-point peace plan as "hypocritical and fallacious." The delegates have agreed to support the following demonstrations:

25 March--The National Welfare Rights Organization's "children's march" in Washington, D. C.

1 April--A major demonstration in Harrisburg, Pa. to support Philip Berrigan and 6 other antiwar activists.

Not only will petitioners be asked to witness against the presence of the convention but will be asked to sign a "catch all" statement criticizing practically all of the imagined ills of contemporary society including environmental pollution, the oppression and economic exploitation of women, price and wage controls, crime, drug abuse, the war, etc. These petitions are being circulated in the San Diego area by the San Diego Convention Coalition, a recently formed group of radicals. It has been reported that in May one John Huyler, a former Navy pilot who is active in the coalition, will bring the signed petitions to Washington where he will confront members of Congress.

Due to a recent decision by the California supreme court abolishing the death penalty, Davis was released on bail on February 23. Only $2,500 cash was required and a surety bond of $100,000. It has not yet been disclosed who put up the money or who has guaranteed the bond. Singer Aretha Franklin previously offered but the cash probably came from the CPUSA. In a similar case some years ago Eldridge Cleaver failed to appear in a California court on 23 December 1968 thereby forcing six supporters who had filed bail affidavits in Cleaver's behalf to forfeit the total sum of $50,000. 5SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Black activist Angela Davis, an avowed Communist who allegedly provided the weapons used in the shootout at the Marin County Courthouse in August 1970, was recently freed on bail. Miss Davis had been in jail 16 months because of a California law which prohibits granting bail for anyone facing trial on a capital charge. Recently, the California supreme court ruled that the death penalty was unconstitutional, hence, making Davis and many others held in California prisons on capital charges eligible for bail.

Los Angeles Times 25 Feb 72

About a year ago Rodger L. McAfee (age 33) visited the Oakland home of Albert J. Lema, chairman of the Communist Party in northern California and offered a deed to 405 acres of farmland to be used as collateral if and when Miss Davis is granted bail. Last week McAfee put up the 405 acres (valued at $330,000) to free Miss Davis on $102,500 bail. Mr. McAfee is a part-time farmer and a radical political activist who operates and owns with his family a 1,100-acre dairy farm known as McAfee Family Cooperative in the flatland of Caruthers about 17 miles southwest of Fresno.

N.Y. Times 25 Feb 72

Reportedly, McAfee met Miss Davis at an antiwar rally at Fort Ord, California two years ago. The clear way in which she presented the issues impressed him. McAfee has in the past worked with several volunteer associations in Latin American countries ostensibly designed to provide technical assistance to farms in cooperative ventures. In 1962 federal immigration authorities arrested him for alleged violation of passport regulations. However, charges were later dropped. In 1963 he was deported from Mexico after being accused by Mexican officials of disseminating alien ideas. Two years ago he went to Albania for the twenty-fifth anniversary of President Hoxha's regime there. McAfee never graduated from high school but has traveled in 32 countries by his own account. As a result of his sponsoring Davis, he and his family have received a number of telephone calls threatening the life and limb of his wife (Darlene) and five sons. The Communist Party posted guards around his home and he, his wife and family have gone into hiding. Reportedly, Rodger is currently seeking admission to the Communist Party.

Wash. Post 25 Feb 72

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War held a national convention at Denver three weeks ago. Several significant trends emerged from this meeting which indicate the direction this group of antiwar activists will be taking in the immediate future. First, there are obvious signs that (so often the case with radical organizations) the VVAW has split into two conflicting factions. Originally this veterans organization was not only pacifistic but concerned itself with a broad range of social issues. It appears now more heavily weighted in the direction of political radicalism and the organizational temperament is leaning more toward the stereotyped political philosophies of the early SDS.

Issued at the conclusion of the Denver convention was a policy draft that set forth the organization plans for the next six months. The organization intends to engage in broad-based demonstrations at San Diego during the Republican National Convention with the specified goal of reaching new constituencies in order to strip the "ruling class" of legitimacy. The VVAW will attempt to build an ongoing movement capable of leading and sustaining national and local struggles to defeat President Nixon next November. As an example of the organization's new-found radical political ideology, the policy draft warned against being co-opted in their efforts by the Democrats or the electoral process in general.

In order to obtain the objective of broad and diversified constituencies, the VVAW plans to involve people who have never before participated in movement politics. The organization feels that if they are successful both a direct and indirect benefit will result. The direct benefit will be realized by those who come to San Diego for actual participation. The indirect effect will be the message carried through the news media, of demonstrations occurring in San Diego, to Americans throughout the nation.

As has been previously reported, a "peoples petition" will be circulated among San Diegans attacking imagined ills in political leadership across a broad spectrum. A successful petition campaign, the veterans believe, would illustrate a broad-based opposition to the Republicans convening in San Diego as opposed to the relatively small number of militant fringe radicals who disrupted Chicago at the Democratic Convention in 1968. The veterans further believe that a demonstrated broad-based opposition would shift the blame for disruptions and inconveniences during the convention from the militants to President Nixon and the Republicans.

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War (which claims a membership of 20,000 members nationally) will hold an executive meeting from 7-10 April at Houston where additional plans for San Diego will be made. The executive meeting will also select a delegation which the veterans plan to send to Hanoi in late spring or early summer. The purpose of the planned Hanoi trip, if it involves objectives other than propaganda and publicity, is unknown at this time. For additional details of activities planned by the VVAW see calendar of forthcoming activities.

Friday night the conference is to be held in the lounge of the Student Center at the University of California at Santa Barbara, and the other meetings are to be held at the "LaCasa" a Chicano community center. This conference will set forth the objectives of the SDCC during the Republican Convention. The coalition has issued a call which states the following:

FBI 12554605 9 MAR 72

"Because we view the Nixon Doctrine politically and militarily, at home and abroad, as a supreme threat to all peoples of the world, we believe that massive opposition to Nixon's policies must be demonstrated here in San Diego in August of '72.

The demonstrations being planned can outflank Nixon domestically and internationally. Coalitions of Blacks, Chicanos, Asians, women, working people, and the unemployed can reveal the depth of domestic opposition. International opposition can be expressed by obtaining the authority of other countries and liberation movements to carry their flags in our demonstrations.

In addition to demonstrations, we will be preparing with other groups a peoples' platform and a large exposition in the campsite called "expose '72," which with movies, exhibits, and displays will portray the struggles of people all over the world. We need your ideas and skills to make the platform and the "expose '72" truly reflect the present situation..."

Two groups have decided to give financial assistance to organizations in San Diego who are protesting the Republican Convention. The first organization called the Joint Service Action Center has a budget of $51,000. The San Diego Convention Coalition is attempting to obtain the total amount. The second organization called the Inter-faith Task Force (most active in N. Y. C. and Washington, D. C.) is composed of various religious dominations who are interested in church participation at the forthcoming GPO Convention. Rev. Van Anderson, a member of the San Diego Inter-faith Task Force and an organization known as the Community Congress, has been conducting speaking engagements at churches and civic clubs in the area. Anderson is urging participation in the Inter-faith Task Force and the Community Congress programs which include housing, feeding and counseling the street people who will be in San Diego during the convention. Anderson claims to have served on the staff of the University of Missouri at Kansas City as a sociologist and reportedly was in Chicago during the 1968 Democratic Convention.

Members of the Community Congress of San Diego have requested financial support from the Joint Service Action Center and the Inter-faith Task Force. The Community Congress is a newly formed militant group which has grown out of a largely successful San Diego drug abuse and counseling activity. The CC plans to use the GOP Convention to call attention to a need for federal funding for free drug clinics, ex-convict rehabilitation agencies, halfway houses for runaways and unmarried pregnant girls and a criminal justice reform task force. In the past the CC has displayed greater interest in social reform than in politics.

Clinton Extreme Matter 11 Jan 72

Reportedly, John P. Adams a member of the Joint Service Action Center and the Inter-faith Task Force, has recently been in San Diego investigating the San Diego Convention Coalition and the Community Congress regarding their request for funds. (The SDCC has requested $102,000 and the CC has requested $23,000). Adam was in contact with the San Diego Police Department in an effort to determine if the SDCC and the CC are violence prone organizations.

demonstrate against the party. The union also has an immediate plan to send 250 members to its boycott offices in 32 cities to begin the anti-Republican campaign. N.Y.T. 10/11/72

The organizations which have endorsed the march include the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and other antiwar and women's liberation groups. SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The vanguard of thousands of young activists who are expected to converge upon San Diego for protest demonstrations at this summer's Republican Convention has begun drifting into the city's already crowded "hippieland" along the ocean front.

Reportedly, there is open hostility towards the new arrivals from the citizens of San Diego, including the community of street people who reside there permanently. They fear the activists will not conduct peaceful demonstrations, thereby creating problems for them. Property owners have been organizing protest rallies and collecting petitions urging the city council to overrule efforts by the city manager's office to set up "crash pads" in public recreation areas with sleeping accommodations and sanitary facilities for the hippie visitors. Assistant City Manager John Lockwood announced that a dollar-a-night "crash pad" would be opened this month and continue to operate through the convention at the Santa Clara Point Recreation Center in Mission Bay. This center is three miles north of the San Diego Sports Arena where the republicans will convene. The Mission Beach town council, responding to protests from local civic groups, urged the San Diego city council to override Mr. Lockwood's decision. Other neighboring seashore communities fear the Santa Clara Point Project might lead to the activists setting up campsites in recreational areas all along San Diego County's 70 miles of beaches. The San Diego city council has not yet taken action on the petitions signed by 800 area citizens.

Lonnie Powell, housing chairman for the Community Congress, (a group which has in the past displayed greater interest in social reform than in politics), recently introduced the idea of the recreation area "crash pads" to Lockwood.

The San Diego Park and Recreation Board and the Mission Beach Precise Plan and Implementation Board, a city-sponsored improvement group, have gone on record against the hostel. Opponents have urged that the youths be lodged at the Marine Corps Depot or the Naval Training Station near the Sports Arena or on Fiesta Island in Mission Bay. The Fiesta Island (440 acres) suggestion is already being attacked on all sides. Would-be protesters call the area a "Suicide Swamp" where police could isolate them conveniently from the convention, as there is only a single access road. letter from [redacted] 72

An underground newspaper, the Door, reported that the San Diego police have requested that all hotel and motel managers in the area notify them if any groups which are not affiliated with the Republican Party book reservations. Reportedly, the police department has provided hotel managers with information about radical groups prominent in Chicago at the 1968 Democratic Convention and in some cases have asked the managers to hold the reservation requests until the groups' credentials can be checked out. The Staff [redacted] 72

The San Diego Convention Coalition consisting of 20 groups of activists including students, professors, antiwar and women's liberation organizations, and representatives of the legal and medical professions, recently announced that "Jerry Rubin and the other leaders of the Youth International Party will accept the SDCC's leadership in organizing convention demonstrations that will be massive, legal, non-violent and dignified." The Vietnam Veterans Against the War, an organization that is becoming increasingly more radical, has promised that San Diego will be witness to massive broad-based demonstrations against the war during the GOP Convention. [redacted] 72

The San Diego Convention Coalition, as previously reported, held a Western Regional Conference on March 17. The 340 delegates attending the conference were young adult caucasians in their late teens or early twenties. Reportedly, delegates were in attendance from California, Oregon, Washington, and at least eight other states west of the Mississippi River as well as from the District of Columbia. The conference was disorganized and little was accomplished other than the announcement of two additional regional conferences prior to the Republican Convention. On March 25 the San Francisco Bay Area Conference was held at Berkeley, California (no reports in as yet) and an interim regional conference is scheduled for San Diego on May 13. The delegates at Santa Barbara adopted the final draft as follows: 1-37 1A 5466 501141 72

1. Participants in SDCC cannot initiate violence; however, nonviolent civil disobedience is acceptable and it will be permissible to defend oneself from attacks by police. Representatives of the legal workshop are preparing for legal assistance with regard to mass arrests during the demonstrations. They also further announced their intention to file suit to obtain a restraining order prohibiting further U.S. imperialism. This reportedly is for the purpose of propaganda and publicity.

2. During the demonstration no participant will be allowed to endorse anyone as a presidential candidate.
3. Call for immediate end to U.S. aggression in Vietnam and support the seven-point peace proposal put forth at the Paris peace talks by the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.
4. Oppose President Nixon's policies of imperialism and repression. (Reportedly, the Third World Constituency strongly opposed using the word imperialism as they felt members of the black community would not understand the meaning.)
5. Oppose all interference in the internal affairs of other countries.
6. No interference with leadership of groups participating in SDCC alliance from other groups in the alliance.
7. Concentrate on fighting racism in white communities.

NYT 5/16/68 p. 1
The United Farm Workers of California (UFWOC) who sponsored a peaceful demonstration on March 19 at the Los Angeles Convention Center has announced that they will send 25,000 farm workers to the GOP Convention to demonstrate against the party.

As was expected a leadership challenge to demonstration organizers at San Diego has now been introduced. Unconfirmed east coast reports reflect that a coalition to dominate convention demonstrations has been assembled following a recent meeting at New York organized by Tom Hayden, Rennie Davis and Daniel Ellsberg. Although it is highly doubtful, reports reflect that these three seasoned radical leaders have brought together the feuding forces of the Socialist Workers Party controlled National Peace Action Coalition, the Communist Party USA influenced Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice and the New Party of baby doctor Benjamin Spock. Reportedly, it will be this group that will determine the direction of anticonvention activities. Although the unconfirmed report specifies that the San Diego Convention Coalition will "go along" with the leadership of Hayden, Davis, and Ellsburg, it is not believed that it will do so. Organizing to date reflects a distinct westcoast homegrown flavor to plans at San Diego and it is believed that convention coalition leaders will not accept outside domination except by force. It is believed likely that the introduction of nationally known and principally eastcoast radicals will bring a new dimension to San Diego in August. Opened hostilities among radicals could ignite a complicating factional war at San Diego.

*29-31 March, Oakland, California and vicinity

The non-militant Newton-Seale faction of the Black Panther Party reportedly will sponsor a "Black Community Survival Conference" in the "East Bay Area" of San Francisco during the above time period. The conference is scheduled at the following times and locations:

29 March--Oakland Auditorium (1700 hours)

30 March--Greenman Field, Oakland (1200 hours)

31 March--SanPablo Park, Berkeley (1200 hours)

The objectives of the conference are to register thousands to vote, to distribute free bags of groceries, and to take 10,000 free sickle cell anemia tests. Tentative speakers will include Bobby Seale, chairman of the party; Sister Johnnie Tillman, national chairman of the Welfare Rights Organization; Ericka Huggins, a Panther who stood trial for murder a year ago with Bobby Seale in the gang killing of Alex Rackley at New Haven (hung jury); Ron Dellums; Julian Bond and others. Bobby Seale has alerted the press that 10,000 free bags of groceries with a chicken in every bag will be given away during the three-day conference.

*30 March--2 April, Cambridge, Mass.

As previously reported the Students for a Democratic Society has scheduled a "National Convention Against Racism" at Harvard University on the above dates. Dean Archie Epps announced the University has granted SDS permission to use the college facilities for the convention; however, the permit does not cover the full amount of time. The group asked to begin the convention Thursday March 30, but Dean Epps informed them he could not grant them the time Thursday or Friday because classes would be in session. The Harvard Crimson undergraduate newspaper quoted an SDS spokesman as saying the group would start on Thursday anyway.

Members of SDS are planning to hold workshops to condemn the racism of certain university professors who have suggested that I.Q. differences between races may be a result of hereditary factors as well as environmental. The choice of Harvard University as the convention site is no coincidence. Professor Richard Herrnstein a member of the psychology faculty at Harvard became a marked man to the radicals when he published his views on racial differences in the September 1971 issue of Atlantic Monthly Magazine. Other noted professors who have been tagged as racist are Arthur Jensen of the University of California and William Shockley of Stanford University. During much of the past decade SDS was considered to be the most powerful revolutionary group in the country. However, members attending the 1969 National Convention in Chicago became disillusioned by the failure to achieve their objectives and consequently, resulted in splintering the organization into factions. Since then the remains of SDS have been controlled by the Progressive Labor Party. SDS chieftains now expect to ride the racism issue back to power in the revolutionary movement. The PLP/SDS has announced that the convention will be open but reportedly official representatives of the Young Socialist Alliance and other Trotskyite organizations will be banned. The Communist Party USA also expects to gain from a revival of SDS because they consider the group a major recruiting territory for party ranks. The SDS leadership has announced that representatives from Canada, Puerto Rico, Finland, Japan, Germany and Mexico are expected to attend the convention. A non-SDS group of Latin American students from Brandeis University called GRITA is also expected to attend.

*1 April--20 May, Nationwide

The Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice which is under the influence of the Communist Party USA, reportedly will not actively support demonstrations sponsored by the National Peace Action Coalition on April 22. The PCPJ has recently announced a calendar of events for March and April:

1 April--Two concurrent mass antiwar demonstrations are planned for Harrisburg, Pa. and San Jose, California, the sites of the trials of Philip Berrigan and six other antiwar defendants and Angela Davis. The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee, PCPJ's New York City affiliate, reportedly has already reserved 100 buses for the Harrisburg demonstration.

15 April--The War Resisters League, War-Tax Resistance and PCPJ will sponsor local demonstrations across the country protesting the use of tax money for continuation of the war while pressing domestic needs are neglected.

10 May--Demonstrations are planned at the headquarters of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, New York City.

20 May--Demonstrations at undisclosed army bases and federal buildings.

7-9 April, Palo Alto, California

Governor Reagan is scheduled to speak to approximately 400 delegates attending the California Republican Assembly Conference on the above date. There are indications that vice president Agnew may attend the conference. Although no information has emerged pursuant to planned demonstrations, bay area radicals will not miss the opportunity afforded by this conference to conduct at least a minor protest.

*12 April, New York City, New York

The New York Chapter of Women Strike for Peace, a pacifist group actively opposed to the war, plan to hold a demonstration at the offices of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company on 12 April. The demonstration will consist of a "lie-in" to protest the company's support of U.S. bombing in Southeast Asia.

*13 April, Ottawa, Canada

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee of Canada, an international antiwar group, has scheduled an antiwar demonstration for Ottawa on 13 April during President Nixon's visit there. Edward Martin Sloan, president of the VMC Canadian group, states that the demonstration was decided upon in March at Versailles, France, where committee representatives from 84 countries met.

*7-8 April, Crane, Indiana

Recently the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Southeast Asia sponsored a state antiwar conference to formalize a program of antiwar demonstrations to be held in Indiana this spring. The demonstration originally planned for April 15 at the Crane, Indiana Naval Ammunition Depot has now been changed to April 7-8. The depot was chosen because one-third to one-half of all ammunition used in Indochina is produced there, according to the Student Mobe.

The Student Mobilization Committee, controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party and its youth group, the Young Socialist Alliance, also recently sponsored a National Student Antiwar Conference in New York City. College and high school students attending the conference agreed to support the following activities:

19 April--Organize nationwide high school "speakouts" across the nation to build for a mass demonstration on 22 April.

22 April--Support the demonstrations sponsored by the National Peace Action Coalition at New York and Los Angeles.

The above activities also have been endorsed by the National Welfare Rights Organization, the Defense Committee for Angela Davis and the Berrigans, and other national left-wing organizations.

*22 April, New York City and Los Angeles

The National Peace Action Coalition (Trotskyite group) has announced plans for their spring offensive to be held in New York City on the above date to coincide with a similar demonstration in Los Angeles.

The demonstrations will be held on April 22, traditionally "Earth Day," so that people can protest "the destruction of the earth in Indochina" as well as to dramatize the fact that U.S. planes have dropped a total of six pounds of chemicals and herbicides for every living man, woman and child in South Vietnam.

A spokesman for NPAC recently announced international protests are to be held in France, Lebanon, Sweden, Switzerland and Holland on April 22 to call attention to "the automation of the Vietnam War."

The Progressive Labor Party, a militant Communist splinter group openly following the Maoist line, reportedly will hold a demonstration in Washington, D. C. on 29 April to celebrate "May Day." Although no estimate of numbers of participants has yet been made, it should be noted that the last time the Progressive Labor Party sponsored a demonstration in Washington the protest was considerably larger than predicted. - / 47

The National Spanish-speaking Coalition Task Force, Inc. has scheduled a national convention on the above dates. Reportedly, the main issue at the convention will be the formation of a separate Spanish-speaking political party.

Kpt 118SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The American revolutionaries have already started a propaganda campaign designed to insure a big turnout of protesters for the Democratic National Convention to be held July 10-13 at Miami Beach. Rennie Davis, one of the "Chicago 7" has declared that 40,000 nonviolent antiwar demonstrators will participate in the demonstrations next July. The Florida People's Coalition also known as the Florida People's Platform Coalition, is the self-proclaimed state-wide group organized to coordinate demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention. Jack Lamont, news director of Miami Beach radio station WBUS-FM and a member of the coalition, has stated that the FPC is an anti-sexist, anti-racist and anti-imperialistic organization.

The FPC is proposing two days of nonviolent demonstrations. A meeting of the steering committee of the FPC was held at the University of Miami, Coral Gables on 25 March. Approximately 25 individuals attended, representing such Florida cities as Tampa, Tallahassee, Jacksonville, St. Petersburg, Gainesville, and Miami. The meeting was reportedly dominated by the Miami contingent who insisted that all actions be peaceful and nonviolent.

The following activities were tentatively decided upon by the steering committee:

12 July--A rally will be held from 10 a.m. to noon at Bayfront Park in downtown Miami. Following the rally, participants will disperse throughout the city to hold teach-ins and distribute literature from door-to-door.

13 July--At 12 noon there will be an assembly in Bayfront Park and at 3 p.m., following a short rally, participants will march to the convention site in Miami Beach. At 6 p.m. another rally will be held at the convention site which will include speeches, music, and distribution of food.

When the democratic candidate for president is announced, attempts will be made to have him appear at the rally, at which time he will be confronted with the Peoples Platform. The platform demands that the Democratic Party nominee pledge to end the Vietnam War within 24 hours after taking office, pull all U. S. troops out of Indochina no later than April 29, 1973, and withdraw American support from South Vietnam's anti-Communist government.

The Peoples Party (a coalition of peace groups including Peace and Freedom Party and the New Party) will hold its national nominating convention a few days after the close of the Democratic National Convention in mid-July. The Peoples Party has nominated Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician and peace activist, as a stand-in presidential candidate and Julius Hobson, former Washington, D. C. School Board president as vice president, pending a convention decision. The PP has four sites under consideration for this summer's national convention and they are Kansas City, Miami, St. Louis, and San Diego. Bob Kunst convention coordinator has recommended Miami but there are several political and logical considerations which favor a St. Louis convention. Kunst has based his argument on the following four assumptions: Disillusioned delegates will walk out of the Democratic Convention and join the PP Convention; the street people demonstrating in Miami will attend the PP Convention; one or more unsuccessful candidates will offer to be the PP candidate and; members of the press will stay in Miami to cover the PP Convention.

The ad hoc committee for a St. Louis convention has taken issue with Kunst's arguments. This committee feels that there is no reason to expect a mass defection of democratic delegates. In 1968 when the New Party made an effort to recruit delegates to help form a fourth party one delegate actually lent support. On Kunst's second point, the committee does not foresee the street people being financially able to stay an additional four or five days in Miami. A democrat seeking the PP nomination would have to agree to help build a fourth party to support the platform which the committee does not foresee. With reference to the press, the committee believes the press will cover the PP Convention only if it merits national attention.

St. Louis allegedly has offered facilities for the PP Convention. Many state representatives have indicated they will not come to Miami and possibly this could result in splitting the PP down the middle.

In the past the NPAC has stressed legal and nonviolent demonstrations. It is not believed that they will alter this philosophy this time out. Although publicity for this demonstration (as well as one scheduled the same day in Los Angeles) has been apparent for many months, it is not believed that the size of the crowd will approach or exceed the amount of demonstrators attracted to the April 1971 rally in Washington, D.C.

*22 April, San Francisco, California

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The spring fires of protest have been ignited on college campuses across the nation triggered in large part by the resumption of American bombing in North Vietnam.

The National Student Association reacted to the renewed bombing by holding an emergency meeting at their Washington, D.C. headquarters on April 15. As a result of this meeting, a nationwide campus strike that was not highly successful was staged on 21 April to protest the escalation of the war. In addition, NSA planned and scheduled a nationwide moratorium action for the first of May.

Activists across the United States were urged by radical leaders to use their collective skills to organize and energize sustained intensive antiwar actions during the ensuing spring and summer months.

It appears that rekindled interest in antiwar demonstrations of possible increased intensity will plague American college campuses for the next 60 days. In the past week in fact several active campuses have experienced civil disobedience which erupted into violence and resulted in numerous arrests, property damage, and personal injuries.

With the prospect of the Republican and Democratic Conventions looming in the not too distant future, American revolutionaries it seems will not pass up an opportunity to use the collective college protests as an additional lever to redress their grievances and gain stated goals. A new generation of campus radicals, quiet for the past year now appears eager to be heard.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Antiwar activists have since the re-introduction of the bombing in North Vietnam, especially in the areas of Haiphong and Hanoi, increased demonstration activities throughout the nation. It is significant to note that although demonstrations have been numerous, they have generally been ill-attended and have not seemed to capture the imagination of the mass of American youth. Shortly after the American led incursion into Cambodia one year ago, activists produced 60 to 70,000 protesters in the streets of Washington. By comparison, activities of recent weeks have been largely unsuccessful.

President Nixon's announcement of 8 May, of his decision to mine the harbors, interdict shipping, and destroy rail and communication lines can be expected to cause increased antiwar activities on many American campuses. Several of the larger national left-wing organizations as well as local campus groups will form the organizational nucleus for renewed attacks on ROTC buildings and miscellaneous university administrative facilities. The several areas most likely to experience trouble are: campuses in the Boston, Mass. area, the University of Maryland, Michigan State University and the University of Michigan, Columbia, Wisconsin, the University of California at Berkeley and Stanford.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Can black Americans be mobilized into as powerful a pressure group for the liberation of Southern Africa as American Jews have been for Israel?

This is the dream, admittedly a long way off, of a growing number of black leaders who see the destiny of American blacks linked with the continent from which their ancestors came. As a result of this dream, the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee was established in January of this year.

The ALDCC, organized as an ad hoc committee, has attracted the most broadly based political group of black leaders to join together for any project in recent memory. Owusa Sadauki, president of Malcolm X Liberation University in Greensboro, North Carolina, is the chairman of ALDCC and Cleveland Sellers, a former Student National Coordinating Committee organizer, is the field coordinator. Members of its steering committee run the gamut from churchmen to Black Panthers and from Congressmen to avowed Communists.

The list includes the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Angela Davis, an acknowledged Communist now on trial in California for conspiracy to murder and kidnap; Representatives John Conyers, Jr., (D-Michigan) and Charles C. Diggs (D-Michigan); the Rev. L. Maynard Catchings, communications executive of the National Council of Churches; H. Rap Brown, now in a New York jail awaiting trial for robbery; the Rev. Dr. Charles Spivey of the World Council of Churches; and Black Panther leader Huey P. Newton.

The ALDCC has been active since its formation. A conference on the theme, "The United States and South Africa," sponsored by ALDCC was held in Washington, D. C. on 16 and 17 March. The conference drew more than 300 persons--representatives of churches, human rights organizations, labor unions and individuals "hung up" on Africa. The stated purpose of the conference was to explore ways in which concerned persons and groups in this country could provide support of various kinds for African liberation movements. The committee supported the April 21st rally at the Portuguese Embassy in Washington, D. C. protesting the bombing of Tanzanian territory. Just recently ALDCC supported the Pan-African Liberation Council and the Harvard-Radcliffe Afro-Student Association (pro-African liberation groups) in their effort to pressure Harvard University into divesting itself of its $21 million in Gulf Oil stock (large investments in Portuguese Angola).

Much of the financial and logistical support for the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee is coming from church sources by way of the Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization. IFCO was set up five years ago in the wake of the Detroit and Newark riots to help churches put their money where their resolutions were.

With the recent decline of church income and a noticeable white backlash within some denominations, IFCO seeks to continue as a bridge (though increasingly fragile) between minority groups and its supporting white denominations.

On 15 March, a non-tax exempt spinoff organization, IFCO Action, was formed with the avowed purpose of attempting to influence legislation and effect social change. Support of the African liberation struggle is one of its top priorities. It should be noted that IFCO Action was involved in the unsuccessful attempt to prevent the unloading of the Rhodesian chrome in Burnside, La., on 20 March 1972.

The African liberation movement is an issue that lends itself well to the unification of the black community in America. If the movement can entice antiwar advocates, the new left, and "progressive" movements to play a more active role in supporting their cause, the liberationists will be far down the road to creating an utopian Africa solely for black people.

*May, Washington, D. C.

The National Peace Action Coalition which is controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party and the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice which is influenced by the CPUSA have announced that they will co-sponsor the following calendar of events in Washington, D. C. during the month:

18 May--Planned civil disobedience demonstrations in the halls of Congress.

27 May or 29 May--A mass rally--details unknown as yet.

22-30 May--Disruption of Federal functions wherever applicable.

source: FBI IN 60-619 11/10/72

It is not believed at this time that these demonstrations will produce great numbers of people or cause significant disruption of the city. Demonstrations in recent weeks (following the Hanoi bombing) have been numerous but poorly attended and highly ineffective. The enthusiasm is missing.

The Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice has also announced the following schedule of activities for the month:

18 May--A massive demonstration will take place at the Capitol, which will include civil disobedience and calls on congressmen.

20 May (Armed Forces Day)--Antiwar demonstrations are planned for military installations throughout the country.

21 May--A massive march and rally are planned at the Capitol to protest the war in Southeast Asia. A few thousand will probably attend.

22 May--A "peoples blockade of the Pentagon" demonstration is planned and will include blockading all entrances to the Pentagon in an act of civil disobedience to protest the War in Vietnam. Some minor violence could result. One of the leading spokesmen of the Pentagon blockade is Rennie Davis who has been an advocate of militancy and civil disobedience in the past. This demonstration will not be near the magnitude of last May in Washington but a few fanatics may be troublesome.

*18-19-20 May, Washington, D.C.

Right-wing fundamentalist preacher Carl McIntire, who is national chairman of the March for Victory Committee, has announced plans for a demonstration on 20 May. The purpose of the demonstration is to show support of the U.S. position in Vietnam and to protest President Nixon's visit to Russia.

Demonstrators will assemble at 4th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue at 12 noon to begin a march down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Washington Monument where a rally will be held at 2 p.m. Reportedly Governor Maddox of Alabama will be one of the guest speakers. Leaflets are being circulated which call for five hundred thousand Americans to join in the stand for a free America and a free world. Realistically, attendance will probably not top several thousand. Demonstrations sponsored by the March for Victory Committee in the past have been non-violent.

Recently, McIntire announced plans to hold a press conference at the Pentagon at 12 noon on 18 May. The following day (19 May) will be called Embassy Day at which time they will visit some of the embassies which include Saigon, Philippines, Formosa, Japan and others.

*May through August, Nationwide

The following calendar of events was decided upon by the steering committee of the National Peace Action Coalition (Trotskyite group) at their 7 May meeting in Washington, D.C. :

20 May--Nationwide antiwar actions are planned for Armed Forces Day. The Washington, D.C. action will consist of demonstrators assembling at West Potomac Park between Independence Avenue and West Ohio Drive from 10 a.m. until noon, a march from West Potomac Park down Ohio Drive to Memorial Bridge, across the bridge to the Pentagon, concluding with a mass antiwar rally at the Pentagon. Several thousand participants are expected. The probability is for a legal, non-violent demonstration.

27 May--A mass antiwar march is scheduled for Washington, D.C. from the West side of the Capitol to the Ellipse by way of Pennsylvania Avenue and 15th Street from 10 a.m. to noon.

23 June--A trade union antiwar conference will be held on 23 June at the Teamsters headquarters in St. Louis, Mo.

21 July--An antiwar national conference will be held at Los Angeles, California.

6-9 August--Nationwide antiwar demonstrations are scheduled to commemorate the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. As in the past, indications are for a light turn out for these demonstrations.

*19-22 May, Washington, D.C.

As previously reported, the National Peace Action Coalition to Free Soviet Jews, organized by the militant Jewish Defense League has scheduled 24 hour-a-day prayer vigils at Lafayette Park on the above dates. The purpose of the demonstration is to influence President Nixon to intervene on behalf of the suppressed Soviet Jews during his visit to Moscow slated to begin on 22 May 1972.

Recently William M. Perl, chairman of the Greater Washington, D.C. chapter of the JDL met with representatives of the JDL in New York City concerning plans for the demonstrations. JDL leaders from New York City projected that 600 individuals from New York City and the surrounding area would participate; however, Perl stated he is making plans for only 300 participants from all areas.

The original plans to erect a tent city at Lafayette Park to house the demonstrators has been cancelled. Perl now intends to obtain other housing facilities, including private residences as well as an undisclosed church in the Washington area.

Leaders of the JDL advised they have no specific activities scheduled for 19 May, but small organized and/or spontaneous actions might take place in the vicinity of Soviet diplomatic establishments and/or the residences of Soviet diplomats. Demonstrators will be located at the White House and at Andrews Air Force Base on 20 May, prior to President Nixon's departure for Russia. There are no specific plans for actions on the night of 20 May, after President Nixon's departure for Russia, but the possibility exists that there will be JDL actions in the vicinity of the residences of Soviet diplomats.

*27 May, Washington, D.C., San Francisco, Calif., and Toronto, Canada

As previously reported, the African Liberation Day Coordinating Committee, 2207 14th Street, N.W., is planning mass "African Liberation Day" demonstrations in Washington, San Francisco, and Toronto on the above date.

The demonstrations are designed to signify the United States' observance of "African Solidarity Day" (May 25th) established in Africa by the Maoist influenced Organization of African Unity (41 independent African nation members).

The Washington, D.C. action is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. on the premises of Malcolm X Park. At 11 a.m., participants will march to the Portuguese Embassy, the Rhodesian Information Center, the South African Embassy, and the U.S. State Department. At each stop along the way an indictment of the government concerned will be read by various individuals representing organizations supporting the indictments. The demonstration will culminate at 4 p.m. with a mass rally at Sylvan Theatre near the base of the Washington Monument.

The purpose of the stateside demonstrations is to mobilize black Americans in support of the liberation movements in Africa and to protest American business involvement in Southern Africa.

Ten international unions representing more than 4,000,000 workers will officially participate in a "Labor for Peace" conference at the headquarters of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Local 688 in St. Louis on 23-24 June.

*The purpose of the conference is to establish a new "Labor for Peace" organization whose principal aim will be to bring an immediate end to the war in Southeast Asia.

The international unions participating in the conference include the following: The International Brotherhood of Teamsters; United Auto Workers; Amalgamated Clothing Workers; AFL-CIO; the West Coast International Longshoremen Union; the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers; the National Council of Distributive Workers; the National Hospital Union; the International Jewelry Workers; and the Furniture Workers Union.

The "Labor for Peace" group is being spearheaded by the leadership of the United Auto Workers. Leftist labor leaders backing the antiwar group are: David Livingston, secretary treasurer of the Distributive Workers of America; Harold Gibbons, international vice president of the Teamsters; Clifton Caldwell, vice president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union and William Simons, vice president of the American Federation of Teachers.

David Livingston who was once active in the Young Communist League organized the Communist Party-led "bring-the boys-home-strikes" in the mid 1940's. He is currently a spokesman for the CPUSA influenced Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice. Harold J. Gibbons was once active in the Workers Defense League (1951) an affiliate of the Socialist Party (a Marxist organization), the National Council Against Conscription (a cited Communist front group in 1948), and is currently a spokesman for the National Peace Action Coalition which is controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party. William Simons of the Washington, D.C. teachers union was a most vocal backer of the left-wing "Childrens March for Survival!"

Early Work, 3 June 72

held in Washington, D.C. on 25 March 1972. Hanoi traveler Clifton Caldwell is currently advocating the complete and immediate withdrawal of all American military forces from Indochina on Hanoi's terms.

Livingston, Gibbons, and Caldwell recently returned from North Vietnam (April 72) where they conferred with Le Duc Tho, Hanoi's chief Paris negotiator and other Communist chieftains. Upon their return to the states, the three trade union leaders condemned the United States participation in the war and called for the U.S. to accept the current Hanoi peace package.

Promoters of the new "Labor for Peace" organization promise to mobilize the rank and file of the labor movement and its leaders to bring the Vietnam War to an immediate end. Some 1,500 to 2,000 official trade union delegates are expected to attend the proposed conference. Actually, the new group is an effort to undercut AFL-CIO Chief George Meany, a consistent supporter of U.S. policy in Vietnam. In 1967 a similar effort, the "Labor Assembly for Peace" was staged and judged a dismal failure because few working men would support a sellout to the Communists in Southeast Asia. It is felt that the "Labor for Peace" Conference in June will also fail to accomplish its goal.

The Institute for the Study of Nonviolence, an antiwar organization founded by folk singer Joan Baez in 1965, plans to sponsor a "Ring Around the Congress" antiwar demonstration at the Capitol Building on the above date.

Plans call for mass encirclement of the Capitol by mothers and their children to show "American outrage" at the Vietnam War. After encircling the Capitol, the protesters are scheduled to break up into groups, visit individual members of Congress and ask them to sign statements supporting an immediate cut-off of funds for the war. Demonstrators are then instructed to reassemble either in the Capitol Rotunda or on the steps of the Capitol to conduct a public "roll call" to determine which House and Senate members signed the statements.

Joan Baez, current president of IFSN, civil rights activist Coretta Scott King, actresses Candice Bergen and Jane Fonda, and folk singer Judy Collins (all antiwar activists) plan to join in the above protest. SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Press accounts reflect that many residents of Miami Beach, where the median age is 65, are having a paranoid reaction to the prospect of their sunny paradise being invaded by thousands of long-haired and possibly violent youths. Much of the opposition to the likely presence of protesters stems from a fear that Miami Beach 1972 may prove a repetition of Chicago 1968 when thousands of demonstrators clashed with police.

So as not to offend potential voters, the Democratic National Committee's professed chief thrust is toward making certain that all the non-delegates who come to Miami to be heard get that chance. To accommodate those expected to attend the Convention which opens July 10, the committee reportedly has lined up 20,000 hotel rooms.

The big question remaining is what kinds of services will be provided for a crowd of protesters variously estimated between 10,000 and 100,000 strong. Many are expected to arrive without the money for housing or even food. There is a widespread belief that the moving of the Republican Convention to Miami Beach from San Diego will greatly increase the youth contingent. The committee would like to set aside a high school athletic field and a few golf courses; however, the city council has rejected this proposal. Local sources stated that Dade County officials will provide campsites for protesters but will postpone an announcement hoping the delay will keep some protesters away.

The Democrats are setting up a beach front Youth Center in an auditorium to give the youth a vocal gathering place. They will have booths for legal and medical aid and also information on the candidates. A special feature of the center will be an "ombudsman" operation to aid anyone who feels he is being "hassled" either by the politicians or the police. There also will be rock concerts, political workshops and other activities to interest the non-delegates.

The YMCA has announced sponsorship for 100 professional counselors to function as third parties in street disputes in an effort to keep arrests at a minimum. The county has announced it will run around-the-clock courts to provide speedy justice during both conventions.

Meanwhile, as the politicians and protesters squabble over where the campsite should be, Police Chief Rocky Pomerance, using part of a $395,000 Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration Grant, is readying his forces to handle the crowds. Police officers are taking special training courses at Florida International University. Courses include police tactics and crowd control, but the real emphasis is on such non-police topics as the history and philosophy of dissent, the reasons for the Bill of Rights, the First Amendment and constitutional law.

The city council has passed an ordinance banning demonstrations without a permit. An area will be set aside in front of the Convention Hall for the demonstrators.

Reportedly, the wildest threat against the public order, a nude march by 100,000 Yippies in front of the Convention Hall, was immediately disclaimed by leaders of the Youth International Party. The Yippies who four years ago campaigned for Pigasus the Pig for president, have now gone moderately respectable. Twenty-one year old Miami University dropout Jerry Gorde along with Jerry Rubin, Stu Albert, Abbie Hoffman and other seasoned Yippie leaders are planning a counterconvention for the Yippies. Gorde has stated that the Yippie encampment will be a showcase of youth culture, music, art and poetry. This giant gathering of young people during the Democratic and Republican Conventions will be called the "Celebration of Change--Ten Days to End the World." Protest marches will be held from the Yippie campgrounds to the Convention Hall to protest the war. The theme of the "Celebration of Change" will be change in all areas of life by any means necessary. Major rock groups have agreed to appear as well as "superstars," yogi and juggling acts. No rock festivals are as yet planned for this summer elsewhere so Miami Beach could attract many young people.

Among the other groups planning to come to the convention are homosexuals of Gay Liberation who want a campsite on the 21st street beach so they will be close to the social and community gay life in Miami. They have also asked that only gay doctors be assigned to care for them.

The National Welfare Rights Organization has booked 1200 Miami Beach hotel rooms for its own meeting a week before the Democratic Convention. The NWRO is planning a rally for July 10, the opening day of the convention.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference is contemplating another Resurrection City but reportedly has not completed its plans nor picked a site.

The "Zippies" who claim the Youth International Party label reportedly have rented a house in Miami's Coconut Grove area far from convention activities. They plan a smoke-in as their lobbying effort to legalize marijuana. Rather than the pig again, the "Zippies" will campaign for a rock for president (the rock is expected to carry a lot of weight with the silent majority!).

Recently the Congressional Black Caucus has invited black delegates to a meeting to formulate strategy to influence the Democratic Convention. The meeting has been set for July 9, the day before the official opening of the convention in Miami Beach. The Congressional Black Caucus will present a set of recommendations called a Black Bill of Rights for incorporation into the party's platform.

The Congressional Black Caucus would like to see a coalition formed by the black delegates, the caucus, and members of the Black National Convention. Both sets of proposals urged a host of reforms and programs which include economic aid to blacks at home and in Africa. There will be three different classes of black representation at the convention--those tied to organized labor, to the Congressional Black Caucus, and the Black Political Convention.

The Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, the national director of People United to Save Humanity and a former Chicago director for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has announced "a mass march of jobless" demonstration for Washington, D. C., on the 4th of July.

This will be Jackson's first significant national demonstration, since he broke with the SCLC earlier this year over Operation Breadbasket, an economic program in Chicago.

Jackson became prominent for his leadership role at "Resurrection City," the tent encampment SCLC built on the Mall in front of the Lincoln Memorial in conjunction with the poor peoples campaign 4 years ago. He then moved to Chicago from his native state of South Carolina to organize SCLC's Operation Breadbasket, which used boycotts and other economic pressures to help blacks.

Jackson has said, "you've got to demonstrate power to deal with unemployment problems." He estimates as many as 400,000 to 500,000 unemployed persons will march on Washington, to protest the high percentage of widespread black unemployment. The march has been poorly publicized and not more than several thousand participants are expected.

The Congressional Black Caucus (13 members of the U. S. House of Representatives) has endorsed the demonstration and the SCLC favors it despite a feud presently existing between Jackson and Ralph Abernathy.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

With a flare for "guerrilla theater" actions that has won them national attention again and again, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War Organization has emerged as one of the most outspoken militant peace groups in the country.

Founded by six young veterans from New York City in 1967, the current leadership claims the group has grown in size to more than 25,000 members with approximately 8000 active participants. It is interesting to note that a former VVAW officer recently estimated the active membership at closer to 1000. The organization is currently controlled by six national coordinators, each with a specific function, who provide executive leadership to 26 regions throughout the United States. N.Y.T. 16 Jul 72

The Vietnam Veterans Against the War adhere to nine objectives. Included among these are demands for an immediate withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam, liberalization of legal rights for servicemen, amnesty for deserters and draft evaders, and changing "the economic institutions that have caused and permitted the continuance of war." N.Y.T. 14 Jul 72

The group received widespread attention on 14 July 1972 when six of its national leaders were indicted by a federal grand jury in Tallahassee, Florida, for conspiring to disrupt the Republican National Convention with firebombs and shootings. Previously, the VVAW was involved in another notable action that took place last December when protesters occupied the Statue of Liberty, Betsy Ross House in Philadelphia, Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C., a military hospital ward in California and a South Vietnamese consulate in San Francisco, all in the course of one week, to publicize the organization's opposition to the Vietnamese war. N.Y.T. 16 Jul 72

John F. Kerry, a 27 year old former Navy Lt. who won a Silver Star, a Bronze Star and 3 Purple Hearts in Vietnam, resigned as the national coordinator of VVAW in December of 1971 to run for a seat in the House of Representatives from the Fifth District in Boston, Mass. Kerry is an eloquent speaker and adhered to a non-violent, knowledgeable protest approach during his tenure as chief spokesman for the VVAW Organization. Since Kerry's resignation, the VVAW has taken on a more militant posture. Witness their recent demonstrations at the Federal Buildings in St. Petersburg, Florida, and Kansas City, Mo.

With a current philosophy oriented towards violence, particularly hit-and-run tactics, it is possible that VVAW activists will be arrested in acts of civil disobedience during the up and coming Republican National Convention. VVAW has dubbed their planned activities for the GOP Convention, "Operation County Fair." They are not publicly announcing the intended tactics except to demand that President Nixon stand trial for his war crimes in Vietnam. With the presence of VVAW radicals on the scene, the possibility exists that U.S. Government federal buildings in the greater Miami area are susceptible to potential acts of violence during the Republican National Convention.

On the first day, August 21, there is a massive, legal march scheduled for the benefit of convention delegates and a national viewing audience. Protesting organizations are planning to march in contingents with floats and banners that illustrate their opposition to President Nixon's policies. The purpose of the massive march is to show just how large and diverse are the groups and constituencies opposed to President Nixon's policies.

The second day, August 22, has been reserved for regional and constituency actions. The Miami Convention Coalition, a confederation of antiwar forces, women libbers, gay activists, and other diversified groups, will coordinate these actions. Tentatively planned are a women's action to emphasize the existence of a strong, independent women's presence, an action by the VVAW, and a march of the unemployed.

The third and last day of the GOP National Convention, a mass march is planned to decry the renomination of President Richard M. Nixon.

SPECIAL REPORT

1972 Republican National Convention (RNC)

Preparations for organized demonstrations at the Republican National Convention (August 21 - 23) appear to be more sophisticated than that which took place during the recent Democratic National Convention. Miami Herald Summary 3 Aug 72

The Miami Convention Coalition (MCC), a confederation of anti-war forces, women libbers, gay activists and other diversified groups led by radical activists Rennie Davis and Dave Dellinger, appears to be the principal spokesman and organizer for most of the groups that plan some sort of protest action during the coming GOP Convention. Sixty antiwar and social action groups are reportedly slated to participate. Miami Herald Summary 3 Aug 72

One of the most difficult problems for these protest groups is attempting to arrange coordinated activities that will have broad appeal and contain a variety of issues and tactics with which the various groups can find identity. To accomplish this end, it appears MCC has implemented the following three strategies: First, it is exploiting the participation of well-known personalities who are not identified with any particular group, such as Daniel Berrigan, the radical priest, and Jane Fonda the antiwar celebrity; secondly, it has designed a broad "Scenario" of events to provide continuity for the various groups involved; and third, it is continuing its rather novel approach of entertaining and amusing the elderly citizens of Miami Beach which gained widespread publicity during the '72 Democratic Convention. Miami Herald Summary 3 Aug 72

Protest activities are expected to begin August 14 with the opening of "Expose '72," an anti-imperialist education project that will feature exhibits, workshops and lectures on the war and U.S. imperialism. Miami Herald 12 Aug 72 Expose '72 Anti-imperialist (MCC)

One of the themes of "Expose" will be an attack on the CIA for their involvement in the affairs and governments of S. E. Asia. (Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia) as well as its supposed involvement in heroin traffic. Handwritten: 10/2/72, 5/2/72, 10/2/72, 10/2/72

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement expects the following radical organizations to be involved in unlawful protest activities during the convention: the Communist-influenced Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, (VVAW), a major power in the MCC; the Progressive Labor Party; Workers Action Movement, (PLP/WAM), a militant Communist splinter group openly following the Maoist line; and the Youth International Party, (Yippies). The ultra-radical "Zippies," a militant faction of the Youth International Party, are openly predicting violence during the Republican Convention. Dana Beal, a Zippie leader, has promised "to try and push Nixon into the sea with an army of militant protesters." Handwritten: 10/2/72, 5/2/72, 10/2/72

The Underground Press Syndicate which feeds material to scores of radical newspapers around the nation, has been promoting a heavy turnout of protesters for months; however, to date there has been no evidence of any massive move to Miami. Sgt. Pete Corso, a Miami Beach police information officer, stated on or about 9 August 1972 that authorities "have been looking for some noticeable buildup, but there just hasn't been one." Informed sources are predicting less than 5,000 protest demonstrators will be present in Miami Beach during the 1972 RNC.

Whatever the size of their ranks, authorities seem to have the situation well in hand. Protest leaders are advocating a militant non-violent confrontation policy. If this policy is followed, demonstrators will express themselves in the strongest possible manner but remain non-violent. Handwritten: 10/2/72, 5/2/72, 10/2/72, 10/2/72

13, 14 August

The VVAW organization has announced plans for a national caravan of protesters originating in the San Francisco Bay area and the New England area on 13, 14 August and arriving in Miami on 20 August. Handwritten: 10/2/72, 5/2/72, 10/2/72, 10/2/72

14 - 21 August

The Florida chapter of the VVAW will hold a "March Against Handwritten: 10/2/72, 5/2/72, 10/2/72, 10/2/72

Militarism" from Fort Pierce, Fla. to Miami Beach, Fla. The march will be climaxed by the participants throwing their military medals and ribbons over the fence surrounding the Convention Center.

14 - 23 August

"Expose '72" will "seek to confront and expose the U.S. Government and educate and unite the demonstrators. "Expose," also being referred to as a "Peoples World Fair," will be comprised of films, photographs, guerrilla theater and speeches. These exhibits are to be set up at the demonstrators main campsite, Flamingo Park, and several hotels where delegates will be residing.

20 - 23 August

The Miami Women's Coalition (MWC), a heterogeneous group of determined women's libbers organized specifically to confront delegates to the Democratic and Republican Conventions, plans to openly challenge the American governmental process during the GOP National Convention by blockading Miami's International Airport and the convention hotels.

21 August - a. m.

The "War Crimes Tribunal," patterned after the "Peoples Grand Jury" staged in Washington, D.C. by the Communist-influenced Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) in October 1971, will convene on the above date. This two-day mock trial will consist of senior citizens or Miami Beach hearing testimony from veterans, ex-prisoners, labor representatives, blacks, welfare recipients and gays on the crimes of the administration.

21 August - p. m.

A Vietnamese Student Cultural Event is scheduled to take place this date. Veterans and Vietnamese living in the United States will present a history of Vietnam through song, dance and guerrilla theater.

A George Jackson Memorial Service will also be conducted by the above mentioned group. The service will emphasize George Jackson's philosophy and how it may be implemented into one's routine way of life. Jackson was one of the Soledad Brothers who was shot and killed on 21 August 1972 by a guard during an attempted San Quentin Prison break.

*San Quentin 9 Aug 72
NYT dtd 9 Aug 72*

22 August

The War Crimes Tribunal will continue to hear testimony throughout the morning. In the evening as the delegates are going to the Convention Hall, protesters will line Collins Avenue, which is to be renamed "Street Without Joy" and draw the war crimes of the administration to the attention of the delegations as they drive through the "Gauntlet of Shame."

The "Street Without Joy" action will be followed by the "March Against Murder" led by the militant VVAW group who will present the poor peoples platform and a seven point peace proposal at the Convention Hall.

23 August

At 3 p. m. , protesters are scheduled to conduct a militant non-violent march to the Doral Hotel (GOP Headquarters) with the intent of preventing delegates from attending the Convention. At 6 p. m. demonstrators will march to the Convention Center and attempt to block entrances using "Mobile Civil Disobedience Tactics."

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The militant Cleaver faction of the Black Panther Party appears to be decaying while the non-militant Newton-Seale faction undergoes a rebirth.

The Cleaver faction or International Section of the BPP was established in Algeria in September 1969, under the leadership of Eldridge Cleaver. Cleaver has been living in self-imposed exile to avoid imprisonment in the United States for a parole violation infraction.

FBI IN 67792 211100

In 1969, Cleaver had been welcomed in Algeria as a revolutionary hero after jumping bail and evading arrest in the U. S. on charges arising from a 1968 Panther shootout in Oakland, California. The government of President Houari Boumedienne set him up in a white stucco villa in the diplomatic suburb of El Biar and granted him an allowance of $500 a month.

Time mag. 4 Sept.

The government of Algeria has put up with its somewhat difficult guest until shortly after the 31 July hijacking of a Delta Airlines jet by three men and two women connected with Cleaver's Afro-American Liberation Army, the international arm of the Black Panther Party. Flight 841 was skyjacked to Algeria for $1,000,000 which has since been returned to the U. S. airline by the Boumedienne regime. The Algerian government showed no intention of letting the Panthers get their hands on the Delta ransom. In fact, after an open letter to Boumedienne written by Cleaver on 2 August, the government of Algeria placed restrictions on the movements of the Black Panther exile colony, as well as placing under house arrest, all radicals who have hijacked airliners to Algeria in recent months.

1. we 199. (Cleaver's return 20 Aug 72)

Cleaver was reportedly called in for a scolding by a ranking member of the government party of Algeria, the National Liberation Front. Two weeks ago, when the Panthers invited political exiles,

Communist diplomats and journalists to an "international day of solidarity" at their villa, Algerian police showed up instead. They confiscated the photographer's film and chased the would-be guests away. Last week the villa was empty and Cleaver was gone. In New York City, Bernice Jones, communications secretary for the faction's New York office, charged that Algeria has been making "reactionary moves" and hinted that Cleaver and his groups would move to one of the more revolution-minded African states, such as Guinea or Libya, which like Algeria, have no extradition treaty with the U.S. 11/17/72 4:30p

Kathleen Cleaver, wife of fugitive Eldridge Cleaver, announced in a news conference in Compton, California on 19 August '72 that her husband was a "political prisoner" in Algeria. Mrs. Cleaver stated that her husband is no longer safe in Algeria since his life has been threatened by people "representing interests marshalled by the Central Intelligence Agency." Later in the day during a radio interview in San Francisco, she announced that her purpose in the United States is to organize a legal-political-religious-financial campaign to aid the return of her husband to this country without his being immediately subjected to incarceration as a parole violator. She stated that Eldridge Cleaver is willing to face charges stemming from a 1968 shootout with the Oakland Police Department. FBI IN 69 3145 8/27/72

In order to facilitate his return to the U.S., the Cleaver faction has even gone to the extent of applying for admission of a new nation, "Nigretia," to the United Nations. If successful, the faction hopes eventually to establish Nigretian consulates throughout the United States and issue Cleaver diplomatic credentials to enter the country under diplomatic immunity. FBI IN 69 3145 8/27/72

In direct contrast, the non-militant Newton-Seale faction of the BPP appears to be enjoying renewed popularity with the black community.

Sixteen months ago, two Black Panthers, Erika Huggins and Bobby Seale, were on trial for their lives in a Connecticut courthouse. Today, Mrs. Huggins is an elected member of the Berkeley Community Development Council as well as the California city's anti-poverty agency. Mr. Seale is a candidate for mayor of Oakland, California. 11/7/72 2:00p

Their political activity is indicative of a major change in the policy and direction of the national Black Panther Party. BPP reports from two dozen cities show that the Newton-Seale faction, the dominant 11/7/72 2:00p faction in the BPP, has put down the gun and picked up the ballot as its new weapon. 11-11-72

With political activity in the San Francisco Bay area serving as a model for other chapters, the Panthers are not only conducting voter education and registration drives but are also forming political coalitions with other organizations, such as civil rights and community groups, taking their image change before establishment organizations, such as the Jaycees, and making political endorsements of candidates they can support. As an example, the BPP endorsed Rep. Shirley Chisholm, Democrat of Brooklyn, for President and contributed $1,000 to her campaign. 11-4-72

While violent confrontation between Panthers and the police has declined appreciably, the organization's reputation as a group fully capable of extreme violence persists. This stereotyped reputation and the hidden fear and power it represents lends itself well to the party's entry into the legitimate image structure field of politics and persuasion. The image of respectability, the undertone of fear and violence, and the public programs to "take care of their people" all faintly resemble the early days of the so-called American Mafia. We could very well be witnessing the birth of Mafia-type activities designed to gain control of the black ghetto communities where sanctuaries for long-range revolutionary activities would be assured. 11-4-72

5, 6 September, Seaside - Fort Ord, California

The VVAW will hold a Winter Soldier-style tribunal called "The Army on Trial" to begin 5 September. Testimony on racism in the military will be given and read by veterans and active-duty GIs. This latest tribunal will open a day before the Pvt. Billy Dean Smith court-martial beginning 6 September at Fort Ord.

The VVAW has in the past held similar investigative hearings concerning war crimes in Vietnam and drug addiction. Reportedly, a march will be conducted from Seaside to Fort Ord to protest the trial of Pvt. Smith who is charged with the murder of two army officers. Sponsors of the march are the VVAW, Communist Party USA, Black Panthers and the Venceremos Organization. In the past few months preliminary hearings have produced only small-scale demonstrations;

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The American Civil Liberties Union has recently petitioned the highest court in the land on behalf of Vincent L. Marchetti, a former Central Intelligence Agency official who wants to publish a book exposing past and current classified CIA operations. The ramifications and consequences of an ACLU victory in this case could be adverse to the security interests of the Intelligence Community.

For the information of the reader, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) was founded in 1920 by Roger Baldwin, a former conscientious objector and ex-convict. The organization's national headquarters was established in New York City and has remained there since its creation.

Baldwin's philosophy set the stage for future development of the ACLU organization. When Baldwin first organized the Union, he was head of the civil liberties bureau of the American Union Against Militarism, a pacifist organization which opposed U.S. entry into World War I. He believed in civil liberties, not as an end in themselves, but as a means to an end. In a letter to the New York Times in 1933, Baldwin clarified his viewpoint on the above issue--"Civil liberties like democracy are useful only as tools for social change." Mr. Baldwin remained as Executive Director of ACLU from 1920 until 1950.

During its first few years the organization consisted of a conglomeration of lawyers, social workers, liberal reformers and radicals. Among them were Jim Addams, John Dewey, Felix Frankfurter, Norman Thomas and William Z. Foster, later chairman of the American Communist Party.

From the start, the ACLU constitution declared that its purpose was to "maintain and advance civil liberties, including the freedoms of associations, press, religion, and speech . . . without political partisanship."

ACLU's early work was largely directed at combatting the deportation of aliens for their radical beliefs; opposing attacks on the rights of the Industrial Workers of the World (a cited left-wing anarchist labor group) and guaranteeing trade unions the right to organize and hold meetings.

In 1940, after the Hitler-Stalin Pact, the ACLU adopted an "antitotalitarian" resolution, barring from its board and staff anyone (including Communists and Fascists) who supported totalitarian dictatorship in any country. (The resolution was rescinded in 1967)

During the Second World War, ACLU defended conscientious objectors, and protested the internment of Japanese-Americans. In the 50's, it battled the alleged excesses of the federal government's security program.

Today the ACLU is thriving. Its current total national membership approximates 180,000 which is more than double the 85,000 who belonged just five years ago. Nationwide, the ACLU has about 5,000 volunteer attorneys, including 300 in the Washington, D.C. area, and they need more. Last year the organization spent $5 million and handled approximately 4,000 cases.

As a result of its efforts over the past few years, the rights of criminal defendants have been expanded (and the difficulties of prosecutors have increased); government wiretapping has been curtailed (causing the Justice Department to drop several of its pending cases); welfare regulations have been liberalized (and the number of welfare cases has increased); homosexuals have gained recognition and the provision of the Hatch Act that bars federal employees from taking part in partisan political campaigns has been attacked.

Locally the range of ACLU's activities has also been broad: prison reform in Virginia; school spending equalization in Washington (the Hobson case); limiting the police (Washington, D.C.) from making wide-scale arrests under the disorderly conduct and vagrancy laws (1971 May Day demonstration - D.C.); and securing government security clearances for homosexuals.

Overall, ACLU now has approximately 150 active cases in the Washington, D.C. area -- nearly double the number it had two years ago.

The impact of the group, largely through successful lawsuits, has grown enormously. After the U.S. Government, ACLU has become the second most frequent litigant before the Supreme Court. In the late 1960's according to its most recent annual report, ACLU won 80 per cent of its cases there. In 1970 - 1971 however, with the recent appointees on the Court, its success rate has fallen to 50 per cent.

As previously reported, the trial for six members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War scheduled to begin on 10 October has been postponed indefinitely.

The attorneys for the defense are seeking a delay in the trial until January and the removal of Judge David L. Middlebrooks.

These veterans were allegedly charged with conspiring to commit violence during the Republican National Convention. The conspiracy charges against the veterans are similar to the "Chicago 7" conspiracy case. The 1968 Chicago indictments came after the Democratic Convention and the 1972 Florida indictments came before the Republican Convention.

Recently, Honeywell Inc., a major contractor for the Department of Defense has been selected as a fall 1972 target of the Clergy and Laymen Concerned. Some 40 local chapters of CALC will be involved in "Campaign Honeywell" and the organizers are seeking the involvement of other antiwar groups. The usual tactics of leafletting, picketing and holding services outside Honeywell facilities are being planned. CALC officials have indicated that civil disobedience tactics will be used whenever possible in an effort to persuade Honeywell to cease working on the production of weapons.

The theme of the four-day Congress was "black unity," but a lack of unity among black leaders for the idea of a separate political party was evident.

The 12 members of Black Congressional Caucus boycotted the meeting, as have leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and many other civil rights organizations.

The seven workshop sessions were based almost entirely on the controversial 55-page "Political Agenda" adopted at the black political convention held in Gary, Indiana in March.

The Gary Agenda was repudiated by the Black Congressional Caucus which countered by drafting its own more moderate black bill of rights. The NAACP also rejected the agenda because of a difference in ideology.

The opportunities for building community grass roots organizations to work toward a national black party was discussed and will be placed before the steering committee of the National Black Assembly when it meets in Chicago on the above dates.

26 October -- Nationwide

The latest effort to revitalize the antiwar movement is being sponsored by the National Peace Action Coalition. Officials have announced plans for two major demonstrations to be held in 13 cities on 26 October and 18 November. Members refer to the buildup demonstration to be held on 26 October as a reminder to candidates for office that the war will be the primary issue of this election. The principal demonstration will be held on 18 November to insure that the Presidential candidate elect understands that the American people want an end to the war. The 13 cities that have been targeted by the protesters are as follows: Atlanta, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Boston, Denver, Chicago, Houston, Detroit, New York, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and Washington, D.C. The principal targets for the 26 October demonstrations are the Internal Revenue Service for its role in collecting war taxes and the FBI for its efforts in monitoring the radical left-wingers.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The American Civil Liberties Union has recently petitioned the highest court in the land on behalf of Vincent L. Marchetti, a former Central Intelligence Agency official who wants to publish a book exposing past and current classified CIA operations. The ramifications and consequences of an ACLU victory in this case could be adverse to the security interests of the Intelligence Community.

For the information of the reader, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) was founded in 1920 by Roger Baldwin, a former conscientious objector and ex-convict. The organization's national headquarters was established in New York City and has remained there since its creation.

Baldwin's philosophy set the stage for future development of the ACLU organization. When Baldwin first organized the Union, he was head of the civil liberties bureau of the American Union Against Militarism, a pacifist organization which opposed U. S. entry into World War I. He believed in civil liberties, not as an end in themselves, but as a means to an end. In a letter to the New York Times in 1933, Baldwin clarified his viewpoint on the above issue--"Civil liberties like democracy are useful only as tools for social change." Mr. Baldwin remained as Executive Director of ACLU from 1920 until 1950.

During its first few years the organization consisted of a conglomeration of lawyers, social workers, liberal reformers and radicals. Among them were Jim Addams, John Dewey, Felix Frankfurter, Norman Thomas and William Z. Foster, later chairman of the American Communist Party.

From the start, the ACLU constitution declared that its purpose was to "maintain and advance civil liberties, including the freedoms of associations, press, religion, and speech . . . without political partisanship."

The impact of the group, largely through successful lawsuits, has grown enormously. After the U.S. Government, ACLU has become the second most frequent litigant before the Supreme Court. In the late 1960's according to its most recent annual report, ACLU won 80 per cent of its cases there. In 1970 - 1971 however, with the recent appointees on the Court, its success rate has fallen to 50 per cent.

CALENDAR OF TENTATIVELY SCHEDULED ACTIVITIES

Indefinite date - Gainesville, Florida

As previously reported, the trial for six members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War scheduled to begin on 10 October has been postponed indefinitely.

The attorneys for the defense are seeking a delay in the trial until January and the removal of Judge David L. Middlebrooks.

These veterans were allegedly charged with conspiring to commit violence during the Republican National Convention. The conspiracy charges against the veterans are similar to the "Chicago 7" conspiracy case. The 1963 Chicago indictments came after the Democratic Convention and the 1972 Florida indictments came before the Republican Convention.

12 - 14 October -- New York

A number of well-known figures in the antiwar movement have begun an educational project called the "Indochina Peace Campaign" for the purpose of making the war an issue in the presidential election. Reportedly, $40,000 has been raised for a nine-week speaking tour to be conducted by movie actress Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden who recently visited the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. In recent weeks Miss Fonda has exhibited slides of alleged U.S. bombings of dikes in North Vietnam. George Smith, a former prisoner of war will also accompany Miss Fonda on the tour from Labor Day to Election Day.

Recently, Fonda proposed a second tour comprised of Hollywood movie stars which include Fred Branson, John Voight and Don Sutherland. Tentative tour schedule through Upstate New York is as follows:

ACLU's early work was largely directed at combatting the deportation of aliens for their radical beliefs; opposing attacks on the rights of the Industrial Workers of the World (a cited left-wing anarchist labor group) and guaranteeing trade unions the right to organize and hold meetings.

In 1940, after the Hitler-Stalin Pact, the ACLU adopted an "antitotalitarian" resolution, barring from its board and staff anyone (including Communists and Fascists) who supported totalitarian dictatorship in any country. (The resolution was rescinded in 1967)

During the Second World War, ACLU defended conscientious objectors, and protested the internment of Japanese-Americans. In the 50's, it battled the alleged excesses of the federal government's security program.

Today the ACLU is thriving. Its current total national membership approximates 180,000 which is more than double the 85,000 who belonged just five years ago. Nationwide, the ACLU has about 5,000 volunteer attorneys, including 300 in the Washington, D.C. area, and they need more. Last year the organization spent $5 million and handled approximately 4,000 cases.

As a result of its efforts over the past few years, the rights of criminal defendants have been expanded (and the difficulties of prosecutors have increased); government wiretapping has been curtailed (causing the Justice Department to drop several of its pending cases); welfare regulations have been liberalized (and the number of welfare cases has increased); homosexuals have gained recognition and the provision of the Hatch Act that bars federal employees from taking part in partisan political campaigns has been attacked.

Locally the range of ACLU's activities has also been broad: prison reform in Virginia; school spending equalization in Washington (the Hobson case); limiting the police (Washington, D.C.) from making wide-scale arrests under the disorderly conduct and vagrancy laws (1971 May Day demonstration - D.C.); and securing government security clearances for homosexuals.

Overall, ACLU now has approximately 150 active cases in the Washington, D.C. area -- nearly double the number it had two years ago.

*14 October -- Portland, New York City, Los Angeles, Seattle, San Francisco

Reportedly, a coalition of protest groups who call themselves the "Committee for October 14" are organizing a demonstration in the Portland area to protest the war in Vietnam.

Several public buildings have been selected as symbolic targets by the demonstrators. These targets include the Honeywell Corporation Building, the Armed Forces Examination and Entrance Station, and the U. S. Courthouse.

Demonstration plans include the possibility of tearing up railroad tracks for the purpose of stopping the shipment of war materials and the destruction of the records at a local Honeywell Corporation office.

Recently, Honeywell Inc., a major contractor for the Department of Defense has been selected as a fall 1972 target of the Clergy and Laymen Concerned. Some 40 local chapters of CALC will be involved in "Campaign Honeywell" and the organizers are seeking the involvement of other antiwar groups. The usual tactics of leafletting, picketing and holding services outside Honeywell facilities are being planned. CALC officials have indicated that civil disobedience tactics will be used whenever possible in an effort to persuade Honeywell to cease working on the production of weapons.

The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee has announced plans to co-sponsor a day of protest with the "October 14 Coalition." Tentative plans for the parade to be held in New York City include a 1 p. m. assembly in front of the Nixon campaign headquarters located at the Roosevelt Hotel (Madison Ave. and 45th St.) and a march to Sheep Meadow in Central Park. A booth is to be set up in front of the Nixon headquarters on October 14 to collect contributions to the Medical Aid for Indochina Organization. A highlight of the day's activities will be a People's Peace Fair in Central Park's Sheep Meadow. Antiwar organizations will set up booths to distribute literature and present displays to dramatize the fight against President Nixon's war program. The Senate Committee also included plans to establish stations throughout the New York area for the Medical Aid for Indochina Committee.

The Coalition has distributed leaflets calling for a rally and march on 14 October in Los Angeles. Demonstrators will assemble at 10 a.m. in Pershing Square and march to the Federal Building at 2 p.m. where they will hold a rally.

The so-called Ad Hoc Committee to Honor Julius Hobson has advertised that tickets can be obtained by writing to their office located at 1346 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 1122. This address is the same as the Student Mobilization Committee (a front of the Communist Young Socialist Alliance). Also tickets can be obtained by calling 293-3855, which is the number of the Washington Area Peace Action Coalition, the local branch of the National Peace Action Coalition (Trotskyite group). Reportedly, the Washington Area Peace Action Coalition will receive one-half of the financial take from the dinner in honor of Hobson.

Officials of the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) have been disappointed by the small number of participants in recent antiwar demonstrations across the country. They have scheduled massive nationwide demonstrations on 18 November; however, current trends indicate that the demonstrations will generate little response.

The first national convention of the Mexican-American activist group, La Raza Unida (United People) was held at El Paso, Texas 1 - 4 September 1972. Some 3,000 people attended the convention, including 500 official delegates. Without funds, staff, or real political experience, they formed a political party. La Raza Unida was founded by Jose Angel Gutierrez in late 1969 as a local third party in Crystal City, Texas. The party has organized itself as a national political party which does not endorse any presidential candidate but concentrates on state and local campaigns.

At the convention, the delegates elected Jose Angel Gutierrez chairman for the next two years, defeating Rodolfo Gonzalez of the ultra militant faction. The convention delegates elected a steering committee to further the party platform and to codify the more than 500 resolutions passed which will be known as the Congresso de Aztlan. The Congresso de Aztlan will consist of 54 members (three representatives from each of 18 states) who will meet in Albuquerque, New Mexico on the above dates. All party business will be conducted through the individual state chairmen.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Campus unrest is definitely in the air again. The antiwar sentiment has been replaced by the teachers' drive for security and the students' desire to influence policy decisions.

In recent weeks, elections have been held among faculty on a number of American campuses to determine whether professors wanted a collective bargaining unit to deal with the administration. Fordham, Michigan State, Temple, Rhode Island, and Hawaii were among the universities where faculty were asked to decide. In some cases the vote was clearly against union representation, in others the outcome either favored a particular union or was indecisive, necessitating runoff elections now pending.

The trend is unmistakable. The state university systems of New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania have collective bargaining. Most Massachusetts state colleges and a great many two-year community colleges are in the union fold.

The upsurge in collective bargaining dates from 1968 when an estimated 10,000 teachers in higher education were covered by such contracts. Today, some 100,000 faculty have this status, about one-eighth of the national total, and it is rising. This development has surprised many college administrators and trustees.

Faculty members usually have a great deal of freedom and authority in their work. They and their department heads largely control what is taught and how, and they have a strong voice in campus affairs. Once given tenure (normally after seven years), they are virtually guaranteed lifelong job security. In addition, their income has been rising. While salaries are not comparable to those of executives in industry or government, they are substantial. Furthermore, faculty members often augment their paychecks by writing for publications, serving as consultants or addressing meetings.

Since pay and job security do not appear on the surface to be the burning issues, why the campus agitation? The fact is that times have changed. The situation described above is less true than formerly for many faculty, and it hardly applies to the burgeoning numbers of instructors in community colleges. Full professors, well-established and with the shield of tenure, are not prone to support collective bargaining, but their colleagues with lower status often feel a need for the protection which unionization seems to offer.

Competing for faculty favor are three organizations: the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), the National Education Association (NEA), and the American Federation of Teachers (AFT), an AFL-CIO union.

The AFT made the initial effort to organize teachers in the early 1960's in the New York City schools. The communist-influenced AFT has a history of supporting leftist causes dating back to the early 1950's. More recently, the leftist union has been actively organizing faculty in community colleges across the nation.

The NEA, best known as a professional association of school teachers and administrators, announced this year at its national convention an all-out drive to unionize U. S. college faculty. It should be noted, that the formation of a National Coalition for Teacher Unity was announced on 11 December 1972 by leaders of the AFT union and a 400,000 member branch of the NEA union.

Full merger of the NEA and the AFT foundered last June when NEA voted to stay out of any affiliation with an AFL-CIO union.

Marge Beach, president of the National Council of Urban Education Associations, made up of 150 NEA locals, advised that the new Coalition will work for a NEA-AFT merger "within the next two or three years."

AAUP, the long-established professional organization of the nation's faculty, has countered by becoming more aggressive in the collective bargaining fray.

What will come of all this? There seems little doubt that a new era is coming to the American college campus. In the immediate future, this will materialize as a time of unsettled relations and uneasiness as administrators, faculty and students jockey for power positions.

Students faced with a loss of recently acquired gains in curriculum selection and policy determination are turning toward the collective bargaining process to maintain their position of power. The National Student Association which has produced such leadership as Tom Hayden, Rennie Davis, Jesse Jackson, Sam Brown and Allard Lowenstein, has gone on record supporting student unionization. The out-going president of NSA, Marge Tabankin, said at NSA's twenty-fifth annual congress this past summer, "The next direction NSA must go to survive is to organize student locals on individual campuses, especially given the new found muscle of faculty unionization."

With the decline and eminent demise of the antiwar movement, U. S. revolutionaries are seeking new issues to rally their forces behind. The college unionization confrontation between administration, faculty and students appears to be a ready-made issue for the radical forces to seize upon.

Once again the spotlight will be on the Nation's Capital, focusing on the upcoming Presidential Inauguration. The following New Left organizations have made tentative plans for this event:

Students for a Democratic Society

Representatives of the Students for a Democratic Society/Workers Student Alliance held an Executive Committee Meeting in Cleveland, Ohio on 11 November 1972. These representatives decided that SDS would hold a large demonstration in Washington, D.C. on Inauguration Day. Tentative plans call for a general rally at a presently undetermined location, followed by small rallies at each block along the parade route. The theme of the demonstrations will be "Indict the U. S. Government for Genocide and Racism."

Officials of SDS/WSA are expecting 1,500 to 3,000 to participate; however, the Metropolitan Police Department is doubtful that more than a fraction of that estimate will turn out. It is possible that members of SDS will use illegal and disruptive tactics during the Inauguration.

SDS's parent organization, the Progressive Labor Party, has thus far made no plans to participate in this action.

Members will begin arriving in Washington, D.C. the week before the demonstration to assist in the preparation of the protest.

Attica Brigade

The Attica Brigade, a loose coalition of militant left organizations in New York City, was present at the Republican Convention in Miami Beach and participated in a disruption at the U. S. Capitol Building resulting in approximately 80 arrests.

Various factions of the Attica Brigade are planning some type of action at the Inauguration and at present it is too early to determine their strength.

Youth International Party

Recently, a Yippie Congress was held in Columbus, Ohio on 23-26 November 1972. Members of the congress agreed to send demonstrators to Washington, D.C. for the Inauguration and tentative plans call for acts of guerrilla theater. FBI IV 773 499 3 Nov 72

Vietnam Veterans Against the War

The VVAW held a regional conference in December at which time they decided that they will send representatives to the Inaugural ceremonies in Washington, D.C. Demonstrations will be formulated at a national steering committee meeting which will be held in Chicago on 4 January 1973. FBI 77770 (6 Dec 72)

People's Coalition for Peace and Justice

The PCPJ held a national conference in Chicago over the Thanksgiving weekend. The purpose of the gathering was to revitalize an inefficient organizational structure and to make policies and plans in the context of "President Nixon's victory, anticipated settlement of the war in Vietnam, and the forthcoming Presidential Inauguration." Much concern had been voiced in the past that the PCPJ would die a natural death at the conclusion of the war.

At the conference a new interim committee was elected composed of David Dellinger, Sidney Lens, Cora Weiss and others. The interim committee will set up five commissions dealing with peace, racism, repression and political prisoners, poverty, unemployment, and women. The commission will be headquartered in cities throughout the country. PCPJ headquarters will remain in New York City. Under the auspices of the PCPJ, a national petition campaign to compel President Nixon to sign the Vietnam cease-fire agreement was announced at a news conference in New York City on 4 December.

Recently, David Dellinger stated that if the agreement is not signed by Christmas, then the U.S. peace movement will move into more active confrontation with the Nixon Administration. Actions would then focus on the opening of Congress on 3 January and the Inauguration. The week of 17-23 December was designated for additional demonstrations to intensify pressure on the Nixon Administration.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT"Dial-a-Hawk"

The now defunct Allen Ginsberg publication Avant-Garde, published an article in edition 12 (May 1970), entitled "A Ringing New Form of Antiwar Protest: Dial-a-Hawk." The very brief text of the article is as follows:

Nixon's reaction to the outcry over the invasion of Cambodia shows that the Administration is, at long last, listening to the antiwar forces of this country. And to ensure that the Administration keeps on listening, the editors of Avant-Garde have devised a new form of antiwar protest. It is called Dial-a-Hawk.

Through painstaking research, Avant-Garde has collected the private home telephone numbers of all of the Administration's leading hawks. They appear on the next three pages. We urge you to call a hawk this evening, or this weekend, and let him know how you feel about the war. Tell him that you're goddam sick and ashamed over it, and you want it ended NOW! The Administration says that it wants to listen to us, so let's give our leaders an ear-full--and not just from a park across the street from the White House, but in direct mouth-to-ear confrontation.

After you've made your call (or calls), write and tell us what happened. We'll print a selection of the letters in our next issue.

Almost every one of the telephone numbers on the following pages is a direct, private line into a hawk's home.

There are three exceptions, however, where you'll have to go through a switchboard. If the operator gives you a hard time -- or if she says that the hawk has changed his number and doesn't want his new one given out -- just tell her that the call is a matter of life and death. As, indeed, it is.

Listed thereafter are 54 names of prominent government spokesmen, including Melvin Laird, Admiral Thomas Moorer, Congressman L. Mendel Rivers, General Cushman, Mr. Helms, and others.

The complete list is available if needed.

SPECIAL REPORT"BLACK SEPTEMBER"

The 5 September 1972 massacre of 11 Israeli Olympic team members in Munich; the 28 November 1971 assassination of Jordanian Premier Wasfi Tal; the worldwide letter bomb conspiracy; and the recent 29 October 1972 hijacking of a Lufthansa 727 jet airliner, engineered to free three Black September guerrillas held by West German authorities in connection with the Munich massacre -- all these incidents pose an acute question as to what can be done to combat the rise in international terrorism posed by the Black September organization. Printed below in its full text is an article analyzing the background of the recent outburst of violence by the Black September group and allied fedayeen revolutionists written by Ibrahim Saleh Hagar, an exceptionally well-informed author based in Rome, Italy.

Behind Black September - Ibrahim Saleh Hagar

All the indications are that Palestinian terrorist organizations, which have conducted a desperate but on the whole futile struggle against the State of Israel for the last twenty years, stand at a crossroads in their history. They may turn their attention increasingly to the outside world, in particular Europe, and possibly later on, other continents. In the latter event, all pretense of concentrating on "military" targets will go, and the whole western world will find itself involved in a deadly dangerous confrontation with Palestinian Arab terrorism.

Of crucial importance in the phase of 'diffused' terrorism which seems to be beginning is an organization calling itself 'Jihaz al Rasd' -- RASD for short, or "Operation Network." This organization, which has been built up in its present form over the past three years, has been described as the "unseen other half" of the "Fatah" movement led by Yassir Arafat and constituting by far the largest of the dozen or so Palestinian Arab terrorist groups. The RASD controls the "Black September" activist group, which has carried out numerous acts of banditry, sabotage and murder. Black September has, in turn, links with the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) and other groups affiliated with Fatah. All of these groups, again, are linked with the ostensibly "respectable" Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO). A West German secret service report has shown that Fatah, PFLP and other activist delegates have seats on the thirteen-man Executive Committee of the PLO.

RASD and Black September, between them, organized the hijacking of the Sabena airliner on May 8, 1972, the murder of the Jordanian Prime Minister, Wasfi Tal, in Cairo on November 28, 1971, and the blowing up of the Rotterdam oil refinery on March 15, 1971. They were almost certainly responsible for the attempted murder of the Jordanian Ambassador in London, Mr. Zaid al Rifai, on December 15, 1971, for the attempted destruction of an El Al airliner on the Rome-Tel Aviv run on August 16, 1972, and for the blowing up of part of the Trieste oil refinery later in the same month. It seems probable that RASD and Black September collaborated with the PFLP in the hiring of the trained Japanese murderers who killed twenty-seven civilians and wounded seventy-eight more in the Lod Airport massacre of May 30, 1972.

RASD itself began operations in the early 1960's primarily as an intelligence organization, to gain information about Israel and screen recruits for the Fatah. Early RASD members were trained by the Egyptian Intelligence Service, which has drawn heavily in the past on ex-members of the Nazi SS for its expertise. In the last three years RASD has changed its character into something approaching an Arab Mafia. It has carried out killings and kidnappings for money, and has built up financial reserves in Italy, West Germany and Switzerland totalling an estimated $100 million. It has financed large-scale smuggling operations, the most intriguing being that of hashish -- grown in Lebanon and dispatched in half-kilo packages, gaily decorated with the picture of an Arab commando holding his machinegun at the ready. It has recruited agents in Europe and supplied them with forged papers, and has established close working relations with "indigenous" terrorist gangs in European countries, particularly West Germany and Italy.

RASD has its own "action cells" in half a dozen European countries and may already be seeking to establish them in the New World. European members of these cells have been trained very often in Syria; their special value to RASD is their local knowledge and the fact that they are not so easily identifiable as Arabs. The action cells have been responsible for the extensive stockpiling of weapons, but their purchase has been carried out by much more "respectable" elements of society. Thus in Rome, which is becoming RASD's main centre in Europe, contact is fostered through the Diplomats Club, owned by RASD. Only at the end of August did the Italian police learn of the liaison between Arab diplomats and Palestinian terrorists in Rome.

There is one interesting difference between RASD cooperation with indigenous terrorist groups in West Germany and Italy. In West Germany, contact has been maintained exclusively with leftist groups of a radical kind, chief among them the so-called "Baader-Meinhoff gang." In Italy, RASD and other Palestinian organizations have links with the neo-fascist Right as well as the Left. The Irish Republic is another interesting case; there is close liaison in the field of propaganda between the Palestinians, the IRA and the embryonic Irish Communist Party, but entirely separate contact exists between Arab offices and Anglo-Irish conservatives -- apparently of a relatively harmless nature so far.

The titular head of RASD is Abu Hasan, the son of a Palestinian sheikh killed by the Israelis in 1948. But the real leaders of the organization are members of the Hussein family, who produced Haj Amin, the last Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, and a supporter of the Germans during the war who advised the Nazis not to spare Jewish children in their plan to exterminate European Jewry. Three members of the Hussein family have high posts in RASD; in addition, several members of Fatah's political bureau are related by family or by marriage.

There is a further feudal connection between Fatah and the Hussein clan; many of the Palestinian terrorist commandos have been recruited as a result of having been labourers, and sons of labourers, on Hussein land. RASD, even more than Fatah, has been built up on the basis of a "family elite," which is in no way unusual in the Arab world but is common to other international organizations like the Mafia or Cosa Nostra. One member of the Hussein family is RASD's technical adviser, responsible for murder and sabotage operations; another is chief executive officer, organizing the planning branch which carried out Wasfi Tal's assassination.

The emergence of RASD as a real force in Palestinian terrorism is doubly significant in that it has come at a time when the protagonists of more orthodox armed conflict against Israel are in a state of despair. The bloody and ruthless battles fought against the terrorists by King Hussein's Jordanian army at the end of 1970 and in the spring of 1971 forced them to withdraw into the Lebanon and Syria. Neither of these countries is prepared to allow terrorists to operate without restriction across their frontiers with Israel, but there are obvious differences in the terrorist positions in the two countries.

In Lebanon there are about 2,000 terrorists in the Arkoub area, known as "Fatahland" and close to Israel's northeastern border. There are another 3,000 on the Lebanese-Syrian frontier close to Mount Hermon. Under the December 1969 Cairo agreement they were allowed to raid into Israel from secure bases in Lebanon, as long as they did not fire across the frontier and provoke Israeli counter-action. The terrorists did not keep to the terms of this agreement, and heavy Israeli reprisal raids have now led to the Lebanese government obtaining a promise of no further military action, at least until after the summer ends. In return, the terrorists are allowed to maintain close contact in Beirut with Arab offices, planning staffs and propaganda organs.

Syria has attached the Palestinian activists to its own armed forces and has grouped them in the para-military "Saiqa" organization. Armed and controlled from Damascus, Saiqa has an estimated strength of 15,000 to 20,000 men. Saiqa is linked with other groups through the Palestine Armed Struggle Command (PASC), in which Arafat plays a leading role and which has in the past tried unavailingly to coordinate overall terrorist activity.

Paradoxically, the efforts of the terrorists to re-group in Lebanon and Syria would, if successful, have the effect of diminishing the threat posed to the western world by RASD, Black September and other murder gangs. Successful regrouping would mean that the struggle against Israel would be carried on in the Middle East itself. Yet the odds must be against a "terrorist renaissance" on Israel's northern and north-eastern borders. Israel's frontier with Lebanon is comparatively short and easy to defend, and the Lebanese authorities will continue to discourage persistent shelling across the frontier which brings swift and heavy retribution. And no Syrian government is likely to be foolish enough to encourage large-scale terrorist activity against an Israeli enemy which is only two hours' drive from the gates of Damascus.

It has been estimated that 30,000 to 50,000 Palestinians have been given military training, and elite squads have received additional training for sabotage and murder operations. While King Hussein of Jordan appears to be thinking more in terms of a negotiated peace with Israel, and President Sadat of Egypt has ejected his Soviet advisers, technicians and airmen and thus diminished his effective military striking power, the Palestinian Arabs are increasingly isolated and unhappy with the "no-war-no-peace" situation. The civilised world, at the same time, is becoming more and more angered by sabotage and hijacking operations, and by brutal and murderous attacks on harmless civilians. Yet Rome and Bonn are already threatened by mounting terrorist activity; tomorrow it may be the turn of London and other western capitals.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

Once again the dying coals of the U. S. antiwar movement have been stirred by the resumption of widespread bombing in North Vietnam beginning on/or about 18 December 1972.

The nation's two largest antiwar groups, the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC), a tightly disciplined group run in considerable part by Trotskyist cadres of the Socialist Workers Party; and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ), a looser coalition of free-wheeling radicals and unaligned groups, announced on 5 January 73 that they were linking forces to mount a mass Inaugural Day Demonstration in Washington, D. C. to demand a total withdrawal of all American forces from Indochina.

Riding the crest of what they believe to be a new wave of anti-Nixon sentiment, NPAC/PCPJ organizers expect "thousands" to turnout. A joint NPAC/PCPJ communique calls for "an inauguration of conscience, not confrontation."

NPAC and PCPJ, jointly and separately, have brought large antiwar crowds to Washington in the past (175,000 to 200,000 in April 1971), but the possibility of a mass mobilization for the 1973 Inaugural seems remote for the following reasons: (1) the continued impasse in the Paris peace talks appears to have been resolved, (2) the President halted all bombing of the North Vietnamese on 15 January 1973, (3) the coalitions have not had sufficient time to properly organize their constituents, (4) the organizations do not have the money to finance a massive demonstration, and (5) after nine years of protesting U. S. involvement in Vietnam the issue has lost some of its appeal.

Although a mass mobilization of radicals is unlikely, there are a number of groups which could cause civil disturbances during the 1973 Inaugural festivities: the radical Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), a front group of the Progressive Labor Party, whose members spearheaded some of the most militant street actions during the 1972 political conventions; the Youth Against War and Fascism (YAWF), a militant and violence-prone communist front group, with support from active East Coast chapters could cause trouble; the militant "Zippie" faction of the Youth International Party (Yippies); the Attica Brigade (AB), self-described as a student-based anti-imperialistic organization; and finally, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW), a militant antiwar organization whose presence was felt during the 1972 Miami conventions.

Security precautions for the 1973 Inauguration are the tightest ever. A special "Public Safety Committee" has been organized to conduct and coordinate security procedures during the three-day period starting Thursday, 18 January 1973. In overall command is Washington Police Chief Jerry Wilson, who will work out of a central command post equipped with a vast array of electronic devices and manned by representatives of all the U. S. Government agencies involved.

Working closely with him will be U. S. Secret Service Director James Rowley, whose agency has the direct year-round responsibility for the physical safety of the President and his family. Rowley has ordered about 400 special agents into the Capitol to re-enforce his regular White House detail. In addition to the Secret Service and Wilson's Metropolitan Police force (numbering 5,100) the security forces on patrol will be drawn from the General Services Administration's Government Building Guards (1,500), the Capitol police (1,000), the Executive Protective Service (800), and the National Park Police (450)---a law enforcement army of around 10,000.

As can be seen, responsible officials expect acts of civil disobedience from the above mentioned militant groups and have taken appropriate action to reasonably assure the orderly, peaceful, and successful conduct of all Inaugural activities.

To date, CIA has not been mentioned as a target of the radicals. However, with an estimated 15,000 demonstrators on hand in the greater Washington, D.C. area for the 1973 Inaugural, the possibility always exists that the Agency will be singled out.

CALENDAR OF ACTIVITIES RELATED

PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURATION

National Peace Action Coalition/Peoples Coalition for Peace & Justice

Antiwar organizers, divided on tactics and targets but united on a general concept of mass street actions, are working day and night to bring dissidents to Washington to protest President Nixon's second Inauguration.

The two largest peace groups in the country, the PCPJ and the NPAC, have joined forces to demand a total withdrawal from Vietnam. Officials of NPAC/PCPJ are expecting 50,000 to participate in the demonstrations to be held on the Washington Monument Grounds on 20 January. Two main factors to be considered in determining the size of a rally are: (1) the weather (the National Weather Bureau Long Range Weather Forecast is predicting fair weather with temperatures in the middle 50's), (2) the support they will receive since President Nixon has forbidden further bombing in North Vietnam (officials of NPAC/PCPJ have stated that this will not change anything).

Law enforcement agencies have indicated that they expect 10,000 - 15,000 to participate. Organizers have emphasized that they want to avoid actions such as those against President Nixon's first Inauguration in January 1969 when demonstrators stoned the Presidential limousine, clashed with police, and vandalized portions of downtown Washington.

NPAC/PCPJ have been granted a permit for the following events scheduled for January 20. Demonstrators will assemble at the Lincoln Memorial from 10 a. m. to noon at which time they will march down Constitution Avenue to the Washington Monument Grounds. Following the march, a rally will be held on the north side of the Monument Grounds adjacent to 15th Street, N. W. It is estimated that the rally will last until late in the afternoon.

Other groups planning to join the NPAC/PCPJ are: Students for a Democratic Society, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, Student Mobilization Committee, National Student Association, American Friends Service Committee, and the Clergy and Laity Concerned. Some of these organizations are quite capable of creating trouble but the main body of this group, from all present indications, should remain orderly.

Other demonstrations are scheduled on 20 January for Denver, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, San Diego, Houston, Portland and Seattle.

At 2 p. m. Friday (19 January) a twelve member PCPJ delegation will bring a petition with some 25,000 signatures to the White House gates, demanding the U. S. sign a tentative accord reportedly reached during the Paris Peace Talks last October 26.

PCPJ will sponsor marches in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston and other cities on January 19: W. H. S. S. H. C. 11 Jan 73

Student Democratic Society

The SDS/Worker Student Alliance which is dominated by the Progressive Labor Party has scheduled a demonstration on 18 January in Washington, D. C. Demonstrators will assemble in front of the Smithsonian Institution's History and Technology Building (14th and Constitution Avenue, N. W.) where a reception for Vice President Agnew will be held between 2 and 5 p. m. This demonstration is not expected to be large due to the fact that only local participation is expected.

Members of the Washington, D. C. Chapter of SDS have made arrangements for the use of St. Stephens Church (16th and Newton streets, N. W.) and All Souls Church (16th and Harvard Streets, N. W.) for housing the demonstrators. Officials of SDS will reside at the Albert Pick Motor Inn (12th and K Streets, N. W.) which will also serve as Headquarters.

The U. S. Park Service has granted a Parade permit for joint demonstrations to be held at Union Station Plaza on 20 January by SDS, Progressive Labor Party, and the Youth International Party. Demonstrators will assemble at 8th and H Streets, N. W., and at 10:30 proceed to the Union Station Plaza where a rally will take place between noon and 1 p. m. SDS leaders are hopeful that their sound equipment will create enough noise to be heard by those attending the Inaugural ceremonies on the Capitol steps.

Reportedly, the New York City Chapter of the Women's Strike for Peace will join this demonstration. Leaders of the militant SDS are expecting 1,000 to 1,500 hard core protestors to attend this rally.

Following the rally, SDS members will march near the Capitol where some will try to disrupt the Inaugural Parade and confront police on Pennsylvania Avenue. SDS will leave the Inaugural Parade and march to the Washington Monument Grounds where they will join the National Peace Action Coalition/Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice rally being held there. Later in the evening SDS will demonstrate at the Kennedy Center where several Inaugural Balls will be held. Recently, SDS announced they will hold a national conference in Washington, D. C. at Howard University (Medical Auditorium) on 21 January.

this service they will march in formation with signs and banners from Arlington Cemetery, across Memorial Bridge, down Independence Avenue, S. W., to the D. C. War Memorial located on the Mall.

A rally will be held at the War Memorial where Indo-Chinese music will be played and several tables will be set up for collecting signatures calling for the nine-point peace treaty. Reportedly, guerrilla theater skits may be performed relating to the Vietnamese struggle and American imperialism.

Following the rally, they will disband and quite possibly join the NPAC/PCPJ rally nearby at the Monument Grounds. Officials of VVAW are expecting 1,500 participants; however, law enforcement agencies are expecting their numbers may approach half that figure.

Reportedly, officials of VVAW have canceled its previously announced vigil at traffic circles and main arteries in Washington, D. C. Thus far, no information has been received that VVAW is planning any illegal activities.

Reportedly, the Counterinaugural Ball may be held at a church or other facility during the evening of 20 January.

Student Mobilization Committee/NSA

The Student Mobilization Committee, controlled by the Trotskyite Socialist Workers Party and its youth group the Young Socialist Alliance, has called for a "National Day of Student Antiwar Protest" on Friday (19 January). Teach-ins and small-scale rallies are planned on some campuses. Recently at a press conference SMC representatives stated they will throw their support behind the NPAC/PCPJ mass rally at the Washington Monument on 20 January. Reportedly, the National Student Association has also endorsed this rally.

participate in the rally at the Washington Monument sponsored by NPAC/PCPJ. YAWF is a militant and violence-prone communist organization which will probably appear as a militant contingent to the relatively orderly rally. 2007.1.11

American Friends Service Committee - Clergy & Laity Concerned

Recently, AFSC and CALC have met with Congressmen and Senators to urge a cut-off of war funds and an end to the war. Officials of AFSC and CALC have mapped out plans for a nationwide "inauguration of conscience" from 19 - 21 January. Tentative plans call for demonstrations in cities throughout the country on 19 January followed by a day of fast on 20 January and a religious service for peace on 21 January.

AFSC and CALC are planning to attend the concert to be held at the Washington Cathedral at 9 p. m. on 19 January. Leonard Bernstein will conduct Haydn's "Mass in Time of War." It will be a free concert and the event is calling for a "plea for peace."

Both organizations cancelled their plans to hold a demonstration at the White House on 20 January. Recently, officials have announced that they will join the NPAC/PCPJ rally at the Washington Monument. 1/17/73

Youth International Party

It has been reported that on 19 January the Yippies will once again try to solicit support of local high school students at which time they will distribute free dope. Officials of YIP have announced they will jointly sponsor demonstrations with the Students for a Democratic Society and the Progressive Labor Party at the Union Station Plaza on 20 January.

There is a rumor that the Yippies will have a giant rat float in the march accompanied by Yippies dressed in rat suits to portray President Nixon as a diseased rodent. 1/17/73

Black Task Force

A plot to foster support from the D. C. Black Community, the PCPF and the NPAC have created a "Black Task Force."

John Gibson a community organizer has announced a rally will be held at Meridian Hill Park, 16th and Euclid Sts., N. W. (also known as Malcolm X Park) at 5:30 p. m. in support of what they call self-determination for both the District of Columbia and Vietnam. Following the rally, participants will be encouraged to go to All Souls Unitarian Church (16th and Harvard Sts., N. W.) where films will be shown. The group is scheduled to march to the Forrestal Building (10th and Independence Avenue, S. W.) at 11 p. m., 19 January, where they plan to conduct an all-night vigil. In the past the D. C. Black Community has not responded to such events, and the metropolitan police has estimated that this entire scenario may involve less than 100 persons.

The Forrestal Building was chosen because it is "another Pentagon" and symbolizes the racism of the U. S. military. This vigil is to continue until 10 a. m. on 20 January to commemorate the Vietnam war dead. Following the vigil some of the members of the group will join the SDS rally at Union Station Plaza. Others will proceed to the Inaugural Parade route at 15th and Pennsylvania Avenue. Their purpose would be to attract as much attention as possible by shouting or waving signs and banners.

SPECIAL INFORMATION REPORT

The Black Power Movement

The conflict between black and white Americans is deep and cuts across such complex issues as prejudice, employment and poverty. Those conflicts cannot quickly be resolved, and as the President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders reported in 1968, even the best and most costly solutions might not forestall further disorders. The Commission concluded that "if the Negro population as a whole developed even stronger feelings of being wrongly penned in and discriminated against, many of its members might come to support not only riots, but the rebellion now being preached by only a handful."

There are black Americans who are convinced that black people as a group are relegated to a permanent minority status and that the white majority will never - without great pressure - allow black people to achieve full equality. Those who hold such deep-seated convictions are offering alternative philosophies to the American black people; and each of those philosophies hold the prospect of further civil conflict. Although there are scores of black activist organizations, most fall within the definition of one of three philosophies: the Nationalists, the Integrationists and the Revolutionaries.

The Integrationists reached their pinnacle of prominence in the mid-1960's following several years of sit-ins and massive civil rights marches, principally in the southern states. Their tactic was "massive demand." They demanded entrance to universities, open housing, unrestricted use of public facilities. They challenged and confronted existing institutions and practices. They demanded change. Their demands pricked the conscience of America and led to far reaching civil rights legislation. By the latter 1960's the movement had lost its thrust, and urban riots produced a growing resistance to black activism. Society was no longer responsive to the Integrationist movement, and the old coalition of integrationist leaders and groups began to break apart. There are still prominent black leaders who believe that the Integrationist movement is the most reasonable and least dangerous form of black activism. Some of those leaders are attempting to revive the tactic of massive demand while broadening their base of appeal on such issues as poverty and unemployment.

The Nationalists offer the ideology of separatism. They do not believe that integration can ever achieve full equality for black people, and thus advocate withdrawal from the mainstream of society and the establishment of a parallel and self-sufficient black society independent of "white patronage." They seek self determination arguing that only black people can deal with black problems. They concentrate on black capitalism where produce from black-owned farms will be hauled to black communities by black-owned transportation systems. According to a nationally recognized authority on black nationalists and revolutionary movements, black nationalism has emerged since 1970 "spectacularly to displace both the integrationist and revolutionary movements in the black community." The more than 70 Muslim sects in the United States - including the Black Muslims - are considered nationalist in philosophy. Most nationalists can be characterized by an intense mistrust and hatred toward white people. In many respects the growing influence of the nationalist movement tends to endorse the warnings of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders that the United States is moving toward two separate societies.

Like the Nationalists, the Revolutionaries also see no hope for black people to achieve equality through integration. But unlike the Nationalists, the Revolutionaries believe that equality and justice can only be achieved by destroying government as it exists today (or prompting it to destroy itself) and replacing it with a system that insures equality.

While it is comparatively easy to describe philosophies, it is almost impossible to neatly fit existing organizations into one or another category. In practice, most activist groups and individuals draw from each philosophy. And each of the practicing philosophies supplement and complement each other. While the Nationalists as a group claim that they are not aggressively violent (but admit advocating violence in self defense), adherents of that persuasion accounted for the recent hotel-roof shootout in New Orleans, the Muslim sect massacre in Washington, D.C. and the two-day sporting goods store siege in New York. While the Integration Movement was founded on the principle of non-violent civil disobedience, their marches and protests often led to violence. And while revolutionaries discount the value of the integrationist theory, they support their activities because they contribute to confusion in society.

It should be understood that black extremists can enjoy some degree of influence only when social conditions exist within the black community which lend credence to their philosophies. It is perhaps a universal human law that as people become more desperate in their search for quality of life, they will progressively resort to more desperate means to achieve it.

The real question is what the majority of black Americans perceive their situation to be. Are they so desperate that frustration will lead to renewed racial disorders? Are they so desperate that they would resort to the extremes of revolutionary violence? Are black Americans so frustrated that they would answer the call of the Nationalist movement and divorce themselves from mainstream society? Or do commentators, columnists and spokesmen for and analyzers of the black movement exaggerate the plight of black Americans?

Arthur Fletcher, director of the United Negro College Fund, and formerly an Assistant Secretary in the Labor Department, said in January that the nation's blacks are facing the same kind of moral despair they faced in the 1940's and 1950's, and that "the generation of peace will become a generation of hell for black youth if they are allowed to grow outside this country's mainstream."

On 2 February, Dr. Alvin Poussaint, professor of psychiatry at Harvard University sounded an even stronger warning. According to him, rage and frustrations are rising explosively in black communities all over America, particularly among ghetto young people. "Black communities too are increasingly becoming victims of violence born in the frustrations of joblessness, loss of self-esteem and a feeling of powerlessness to compel change." He finds that the vast majority of white Americans "don't really believe in equality and integration, and are actively running away from it . . . until that attitude changes within the American majority, the danger of explosion with the dehumanized American minority will grow." The consequence, he warns, may yet be renewal of "open warfare in the streets."

On 2 February, the Copley News Service reported the impressions of Vernon E. Brown, a black news service columnist: "The blacks are united in what I call black suicidal tendencies. It means that Black America is no longer afraid to die. This means that Black America feels there is no longer any hope. It means that many blacks no longer say, 'We shall overcome', but now say, 'Whatever the price, let us begin'. Black America's leadership is not able to solve its problem. Henry Kissinger can't come and make peace with an angry people. Congress has no time to debate. President Nixon has no time to confer with his aides over a long period." Brown further pointed out that just as the blacks are becoming more violent over frustrations, real or imagined, white America is also becoming aroused: "The police are getting tired of being called pigs and dodging black bullets . . . and Whites are tired of getting beat up and humiliated when they go into the black community." Another Copley columnist, John Pinkerman, assessed Brown's impressions as follows: "If Brown is right, we are in tough shape. If Blacks no longer are afraid to die and whites are getting near the end in tolerating black violence, we are nearing the bursting point in domestic danger."

Harris Opinion Polls taken in November 1972 found that blacks have the least confidence in the leaders of American institutions; blacks tend to feel that American society generally has turned its back on the poor; blacks do not feel they have shared in the general recovery that has been taking place in the economy; blacks feel that white America has lost interest in the problems of black America.

If America's 20 million black citizens are in fact losing faith in American society as reports would seem to indicate, then society will surely be faced with conflict and crisis. With America's pain-tolerance level heightened and her skin toughened by years of antiwar protests, it is unlikely that mere massive protests would produce the immediate changes sought. The Nationalist Movement while currently growing in strength would probably appear too philosophical and the benefits too distant to appeal to the impatient black youth in the long run. Violence - in an age of violence - would appear more likely. Whether spontaneously ignited out of deep felt frustration, or inspired by cunning design, renewed street violence of massive proportions cannot be discounted.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) is in the process of trying to organize a new national multi-issue front organization to replace its antiwar contingent, the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ). This "united front" concept is a typical CPUSA tactic implemented to attract broad-based support from minority, religious, and nonaligned U.S. revolutionaries.

The new coalition, the National Defense Organization Against Racist and Political Repression (NDO) plans to focus its attention on the issues of prisons, police brutality, political repression, and the U.S. legal system.

Support for the NDO is being generated by a number of diverse "leftist" groups who met in New York City on March 17 for a national pre-conference meeting organized by Charlene Mitchell, CPUSA candidate for the U.S. Presidency in 1968.

A national organizing conference sponsored by the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Rev. Dan Berrigan; Julian Bond; Prof. Noam Chomsky, MIT; Rep. John Conyers (D-Mich); Bert Corona of Casa Hermanidad; Ricardo Cruz, Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, L.A.; Rep. Ronald Dellums (D-Calif.); Patrick Gorman, president, Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butchers; Rev. James Groppi; Fannie Lou Hamer; William Kunstler, attorney; John Lewis, Southern Voters Education Project; Alfred Lopez, Puerto Rican Socialist Party; Javier Rodriguez, Los Tres del Barrio Defense Committee; Modjeska Simkins, president, Southern Conference Education Fund; Jarvis Tyner, chairman, Young Workers Liberation League, and Henry Winston, chairman of the Communist Party, USA, was held in Chicago, Illinois on May 11-13, 1973 to launch the NDO.

Seven hundred and sixty-nine representatives of black, white, Chicano, Puerto Rican, American Indian, Asian, and labor organizations attended the founding NDO Conference. Angela Davis, Bert Corona of Casa Hermandad, and Carl Bradden of the Southern Conference Education Fund were elected co-chairpersons of the new coalition. Those elected as vice co-chairpersons were Clyde Bellecourt of the American Indian Movement; Alfredo Lopez of the Carlos Feliciano Defense Committee and the Puerto Rican Socialist Party; Rev. Ben Chavis of the Commission of Racial Justice and the United Church of Christ; Bill Takahashi of the United Defense Against Repression, Los Angeles; and Fred Bell of the United Defense of Political Prisoners, Dallas, Texas.

The founding conference, in addition to launching a new national communist-dominated coalition, brought into sharp focus the disunity within the "radical left" in the U. S. today. Fractionalism highlighted the organizing conference. According to reliable sources, each attending group strove to establish itself as the "revolutionary vanguard" of the new coalition and consequently very little concrete organizing was actually accomplished. It should be noted, that the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) and other Trotskyist splinter groups did not participate. In addition, the Maoist organizations chose to boycott the conference.

There are basic ideological problems to be overcome if these groups are to become involved. It remains to be seen, if the new coalition will be able to accommodate the ideologically different "leftist sects" and still be a viable organization.

26 May, Nationwide

A second nationwide African Liberation Day has been announced and will be held in 25 cities across the country on the above date to show support and solidarity with Africans in southern Africa.

Committee chairman Owusu Sadaukai, president of Malcolm X University in Greensboro, North Carolina, recently issued a call for sponsors to raise at least $50,000 to support the liberation movement in southern Africa.

Members of the African-Liberation Day-Support Committee have been holding rallies and going door-to-door to collect funds and solicit support from local churches, schools, neighborhoods and organizational institutions. Among the supporters of the African Liberation are the following: members of the Congressional Black Caucus; Anderson Young of Georgia; Percy Sutton of Manhattan; the Rev. John Walker; Marion Barry; Leroi Jones; Leonard Ball (Black Labor Leaders Coalition) and Don L. Lee, Institute for Positive Education, Chicago.

African Liberation Day will be observed in the following cities: Atlanta, Ga.; Boston, Mass.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Columbia, S. C.; Columbus, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Houston, Tex.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Jackson, Miss.; Kansas City, Mo.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Memphis, Tenn.; Nashville, Tenn.; Newark, N. J.; New Orleans, La.; Oakland, Calif.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Portland, Ore.; Raleigh, N. C.; San Francisco, Calif.; St. Paul, Minn.; and Washington, D. C.

The ALDSC was granted permission to conduct a parade on 26 May from 11:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. in Washington, D. C. The Metropolitan police anticipate that the 800 to 1,200 figure called for by the organizers will participate; however, last year's demonstrations drew 12,000 people to Washington, D. C.

Recently the organizers of ALDSC were granted permission to use the Meridian Hill Park until 10:00 p. m., and they have made plans to have entertainment furnished by rock bands at the conclusion of the parade. This recent change of plans in all probability will increase the number of participants to 3 or 4,000 persons.

Tentative speakers for the rallies will consist of such local activists as the Rev. Douglas Moore (Black United Front), Rev. Ben Chavis (African Prisoner of War Solidarity Committee) and the Rev. Smallwood Williams (local activist). Reportedly, Edison J. M. Zvobgo

(an exile from Rhodesia) has claimed that plans are being made to take over the Rhodesian Embassy in Washington, D.C. by force; however, Rhodesia does not have an embassy in Washington but it does have a Rhodesian Information Office, 2852 McGill Terrace, N.W. This information has not been confirmed. There has also been talk of causing damage to a Gulf service station along the route, possibly 23rd and "P" Sts., N.W. and the ITT Building, Connecticut Ave. and "L" Sts., N.W. The Gulf Oil Co. and ITT have been singled out by this organization because they are allegedly exploiting blacks in southern Africa.

The parade will form at the Meridian Hill Park, 16th and Euclid Sts., N.W. and return to the same location. Attached is a route of the march and rallies for the African Liberation Day activities to be held in Washington, D.C.

In New York City, demonstrators will meet at 9:00 a.m. at Dag Hammarskjold Plaza and march from there to the Charles Young Park at Lenox Avenue and 145th Street where a rally will be held at 2:00 p.m.

26 May, Washington, D.C.

The Ukrainian Committee of America will sponsor a demonstration to protest the Russian suppression of the Ukrainian people. Organizers of the demonstration are calling for 3,000 participants to gather at the Taras Schevchenko Monument, 22nd and "P" Sts., N.W. After this rally, they will march to Scott Circle where they will disband.

The Ukrainian Committee is an adult group that held the same type demonstration last year with no problems; however, there is a Ukrainian youth and student organization of the Ukrainian Committee of America that held a demonstration on 19 May 1972 which resulted in the arrest of 64 participants for blocking the sidewalk in front of the White House. Police chased the demonstrators from the White House to 16th and "K" Sts., N.W. where a group of 400 demonstrators blocked traffic and burned trash in the intersection.

This year the demonstration will be a combination of the youth and adult groups with participants generally coming from the East Coast. Metropolitan police are expecting 1,500 persons to participate in the demonstration.

16 June, Washington, D.C.

Reportedly, the National Peace Action Coalition has announced tentative plans to hold a demonstration on the above date to protest U. S. involvement in S. E. Asia.

Details are unknown at this time but will be reported when they become available.

Sec 25. Label 23 MAY 73

16 June, Washington, D.C.

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice has outlined plans to hold demonstrations in three locations (Washington, D.C., a city in the Mid-West and the East Coast which are unknown at this time). The purpose of these demonstrations is to protest the bombing of Cambodia and the alleged widespread discontent of Government handling of domestic matters.

Tentative plans for the demonstration in Washington, D.C. call for demonstrators to assemble at noon at the Watergate Apartment Building complex. Reportedly, Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo will be the speakers at the Watergate Building.

The demonstration will be in the form of a march which is scheduled to begin at 1:00 p. m. Demonstrators will march from the Watergate Building to the State Department Building, to the Bureau of Indian Affairs and to the White House where they will pause for 20 minutes then proceed to the Justice Department.

Laurie Sandow, a member of the New York City interim committee of PCPJ, and Barbara Webster, a member of the New York City national staff of PCPJ, will come to Washington to set up an office to run the demonstration. Headquarters will probably be located at the VISTA office building (18th and "M" Sts.). The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee is attempting to raise $16,500 for a train to carry demonstrators from New York City to Washington, D.C.

More information will be reported when it becomes available.

1973 MARCH and MARCH 26 "AFRICAN LIBERATION DAY", Saturday, May 26, 1973

30 March 1973

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Coalition of Black Trade Unionists (CBTU), formed in September 1972 by five militant black labor union officials, could be one of the comers within the black power movement.

Bill Lucy, Secretary-Treasurer of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees; Charles Hayes of the Amalgamated Meatcutters Union; and Nelson Jack Edwards of the United Auto Workers are spearheading CBTU's five-man organizing committee.

On 24 February 1973 at Chicago, Illinois, CBTU's five-man Steering Committee met with some one hundred black labor leaders from western Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. This meeting constituted the initial step toward formally organizing a national intrastructured black unionized workers' organization. In addition, regional organizing conferences were scheduled for Cleveland, (March 10), Detroit (March 31), and New York (April 14). The purpose of these regional conferences -- to hammer out a provisional constitution which would be presented at CBTU's national convention scheduled for May 25-27 in Washington, D.C. It should be noted that only 2 million out of approximately 9.8 million blacks in the nation's work force are members of trade unions.

CBTU's ultimate stated aim is militant black representation on the AFL-CIO Executive Council and on the executive boards of its affiliated unions. They are demanding that the black quota system of hiring by those who do business with the Government be reinstated; they are swinging into the fight to keep the Office of Economic Opportunity going; and they plan to sponsor street rallies in the nation's major industrial cities with heavy black populations -- Detroit, Philadelphia, New York, Washington and Atlanta to conduct membership drives and to publicize their organization and its viewpoints.

This movement within a movement will bear watching -- it could be the newest black power threat on the national scene.

A coalition of antiwar organizations calling themselves the "San Clemente Coalition" will sponsor demonstrations protesting the visit of South Vietnam President Nguyen van Thieu. Groups participating in the Coalition include the Peace Action Council, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, National Peace Action Coalition and the Indochina Peace Campaign.

Recently, the VVAW announced a demonstration will be held at the Beverly Hills Hotel at 6 p.m. on 31 March at which time President Thieu is tentatively scheduled to address the Los Angeles Businessmen. Antiwar activist Jane Fonda has announced that demonstrators will assemble in San Clemente State Park on 1 April and hold an all-night vigil.

The organizations' officials have stated the demonstrations are being held to demand the following: President Nixon and President Thieu abide by the Peace Agreement; the U.S. stop all aid to President Thieu; release all political prisoners held by Saigon; recognize the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam; and for the U.S. Government to rebuild South Vietnam.

The "San Clemente Coalition" will sponsor a demonstration on 2 April beginning at noon at the San Clemente State Park followed by a march to the western White House where they will picket.

4 April, Nationwide

The main thrust of the civil rights movement in recent years has increasingly turned from civil rights issues to such economic matters as poverty, welfare, jobs, and minority capitalism. The new civil rights movement plans to utilize the tactics of old in a "National Spring Offensive" against President Nixon's domestic policies. The offensive will consist of a series of marches, lobbying activities, demonstrations and civil disobedience.

Demonstrations will start 4 April in Atlanta, Washington, D.C. and other major cities across the country. These demonstrations are being sponsored by the following organizations: People United to Save Humanity, SCLC, and the National Welfare Rights Organization. Also, 4 April marks the fifth anniversary of the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Reportedly, demonstrators in Chicago will assemble at Buckingham Fountain in Grant Park at 10:30 a.m. and march to the Federal Building where a mass rally will be held at noon.

In the Washington, D.C. area, there has not been any information reported on where demonstrations will be held on 4 April. see file 11700 23

The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee (antiwar organization) is planning to sponsor a demonstration at Times Square, New York City from 5 to 7 p.m. The demonstration will be held to protest President Thieu's visit to the U.S. FBI 4/6/79 #22 Mar 73

Recently, the Coalition for Survival (a group of 76 D. C. social service and community action-oriented organizations) has announced they will hold demonstrations to protest against work stoppage. Demonstrations will be held at Mayor Washington's office and D. C. Councilmen's offices on the above date.

5 April, Washington, D. C.

The Washington Area Peace Action Coalition (an affiliate of the National Peace Action Coalition) and the Student Mobilization Committee have announced they are jointly sponsoring a demonstration on 5 April to protest the visit of President Thieu.

Officials of the organization are expecting 150 demonstrators in front of the White House at 4:30 p.m. Following the demonstration, a rally will be held in Lafayette Park from 6:00 to 6:30 p.m.

Other demonstrations protesting President Thieu's visit to the United States are being planned in the following cities: Atlanta, Boston, Houston, Minneapolis, New York City, and Philadelphia. (Carrollan 2/14/79) FBI 4/5/79 #22 Mar 73

5 April, Washington, D. C.

Rev. Carl McIntire has announced a welcome rally will be held in Lafayette Park from 7 to 9 p.m. for President Thieu.

7 April, Washington, D. C.

The Coalition for Survival has announced plans to assemble at the U.S. Capitol Building at 9 a.m. and march to Lafayette Park where they will hold a rally to protest OEO's cutbacks.

Officials of the Coalition are expecting 5,000 to participate at the rally. As yet, the permit has not been granted because the U.S. Park Service will not allow over 500 to demonstrate in the park. In all probability, the rally will be held on the Ellipse.

14 April, Washington, D.C.

The Rev. Carl McIntire will lead a March for Victory at the Washington Monument from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on the above date.

28 April, Washington, D.C.

Recently, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference has announced they will hold a rally in Washington on the above date. Officials of SCLC are expecting 500,000 to participate. Detailed information will be reported when it becomes available.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Underground Press

The origins of the underground press can probably be traced to the establishment of New York's Village Voice in 1955. Until the mid-1960's, the Village Voice was a voice calling in the wilderness.

But as dissent from the Vietnam War grew on college campuses and few conventional sources of journalistic opinion reflected this viewpoint, the need for an alternative arose. The first effort that could truly be called an underground press began in 1964 with the establishment of the Los Angeles Free Press. Not surprisingly, that inveterate haunt of radical politics, Berkeley, California, spawned the second major underground enterprise, the Berkeley Barb in 1965. Its first appearance coincided directly with one of the first active manifestations of antiwar dissent, the attempt to halt a troop train at the Santa Fe Railroad Station in Berkeley.

The underground press, an inaccurate name used mostly for its romantic connotations, was the product of a changing national consciousness reflected most visibly by young people. But if changing consciousness created the need for an alternative press, it was advancements in printing technology that made it possible.

Newspapers, both commercial and underground, could be printed cheaper and easier by the offset press, an innovation that gained widespread usage during this time. It cut production costs of tabloid newspapers by more than half and greatly reduced the amount of expertise and time required to prepare hard copy for printing. Most of the essential skills could be learned in a few months of practice. Another significant advancement was the development of "cold type." Cold type - basically a very sophisticated typewriter - could be set in the kitchen, bedroom or storefront crash pad by anyone who knew how to type.

The underground press of the 1960's appealed primarily to middle class youths who had the money and leisure time to explore "life styles" that posed alternatives to the "nine-to-five" work week syndrome. The pages of the underground press carried news and information on drugs, sexual "liberation," rock music, Asian religions and to some degree the antiwar and anti-draft movements and student struggles.

The editorial line relentlessly blasted the "straight, authoritarian world" and supported all aspects of the struggle for "total freedom." Liberation of the spirit through karma forces, LSD, and electronic music were familiar themes.

By 1968 the existing underground press was undergoing a radical change and newspapers with a more political approach were created. The antiwar movement, third world liberation movements, police brutality, the military-industrial complex, racism, and students' rights became central issues. Each new radical group went into print with its own paper. The Black Panthers put out the Black Panther, the Young Lords published Palante, and the Progressive Labor Party circulated Challenge.

Although lacking a clear analysis of current events, many of the new underground papers - and the old ones that didn't fold up in the transitional stage - made motions to Marxism but actually leaned heavily toward anarchism.

The Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) helped give direction to a good number of the largely student-oriented underground newspapers. The Rag in Austin, Texas, the Rat in New York, and the Washington Free Press followed the SDS party line.

The 1969 SDS national convention, which split SDS into a number of opposing factions, signaled the downfall of the underground press.

[REDACTED]

Lacking national focus and leadership, each paper was forced to define its role and develop its own political line based on what remained of the radical youth movement, its own readership, and financial backers. Most papers vacillated during the ensuing months and many more folded in the process.

The underground press is now in decline. It would appear that the vitality of the "alternative" press was directly proportional to the health of the radical movement in general. The underground press arose from the ferment of the times and the abatement of that ferment has undercut its strength and need.

In the last year, the Quicksilver Times in Washington, D.C., Space City in Houston, The Seed in Chicago, The East Village Other in New York City and scores of other underground newspapers have reluctantly thrown in the towel. The trend indicates more may follow.

The decline of the underground press reflects a fundamental change in the political, ideological and cultural nature of its six million readers. The press's inability to transcend the depoliticization of the generation that it has served, has apparently led it to the brink of extinction.

28 April, Washington, D.C.

As previously reported, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and People United to Save Humanity had planned to hold a rally in Washington, D.C. on the above date.

Due to the lack of support and the financial instability of SCLC/PUSH, the rally has been cancelled. The U.S. Park Service reported no permits have been requested for this event and other Government agencies have confirmed this report. Unconfirmed information states the rally will take place in August 1973 in Washington, D.C. This delay will enable SCLC/PUSH to gather support from OEO (Office of Economic Opportunity) recipients whose funds may be cut off in June 1973.

28 April, Washington, D.C.

The local chapter of the American Indian Defense Committee, made up of members from the Youth Against War and Fascism (a military and violence prone communist front group), are planning a demonstration in Lafayette Park on 28 April at 1:00 p. m.

The purpose of the demonstration is to gain support for the American Indian Movement. Reportedly, plans for the demonstration are still being formulated and the total number of participants is unknown at this time.

28-29 April, New York City, San Francisco, and Toronto

The Worker Action Movement, a front group controlled by the Progressive Labor Party, has scheduled three regional conventions for the above dates. Recently announced convention sites are New York City, San Francisco, and Toronto. The WAM are calling the meetings with the hope of making "30 for 40" a new left-wing cause.

The term "30 for 40" was coined by the PLP and refers to demands that workers be able to work 30 hours and receive pay for 40 hours. Since competitors on the revolutionary left have been ignoring the "30 for 40" issue, PLP is hopeful that it can have this issue all to itself and thus pick up some badly needed recruits.

foundings conference for the formation of a national defense organization against racist and political repression to be held at the Pick Congress Hotel. Registration for the conference by official delegates from local and regional organizations will take place from 7 to 11 p. m. on 11 May. The opening session is scheduled for 9:30 a. m. on 12 May.

Workshops will be held on 12 and 13 May to discuss the following topics: prisoners and prisons, police brutality, immigration and deportation, repression in the military, amnesty, repression and labor and repression of political organizations and individuals.

26 May, Nationwide

In addition, simultaneous "African Liberation Day" demonstrations are planned for Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Jackson, Mississippi, Los Angeles, Newark, New York, Philadelphia, and San Francisco.

The nationwide demonstrations are designed to "awaken the black community to the fact that a war is going on in South Africa." A similar demonstration last year drew 12,000 people to Washington, D. C. Information will be reported as it becomes available.

SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

The Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) is in the process of trying to organize a new national multi-issue front organization to replace its antiwar contingent, the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ). This "united front" concept is a typical CPUSA tactic implemented to attract broad-based support from minority, religious, and nonaligned U. S. revolutionaries.

The new coalition, the National Defense Organization Against Racist and Political Repression (NDO) plans to focus its attention on the issues of prisons, police brutality, political repression, and the U. S. legal system.

Support for the NDO is being generated by a number of diverse "leftist" groups who met in New York City on March 17 for a national pre-conference meeting organized by Charlene Mitchell, CPUSA candidate for the U. S. Presidency in 1968.

A national organizing conference sponsored by the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Rev. Dan Berrigan; Julian Bond; Prof. Noam Chomsky, MIT; Rep. John Conyers (D-Mich); Bert Corona of Casa Hermanidad; Ricardo Cruz, Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, L.A.; Rep. Ronald Dellums (D-Calif.); Patrick Gorman, president, Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butchers; Rev. James Groppi; Fannie Lou Hamer; William Kunstler, attorney; John Lewis, Southern Voters Education Project; Alfred Lopez, Puerto Rican Socialist Party; Javier Rodriguez, Los Tres del Barrio Defense Committee; Modjeska Simkins, president, Southern Conference Education Fund; Jarvis Tyner, chairman, Young Workers Liberation League, and Henry Winston, chairman of the Communist Party, USA, was held in Chicago, Illinois on May 11-13, 1973 to launch the NDO.

Seven hundred and sixty-nine representatives of black, white, Chicano, Puerto Rican, American Indian, Asian, and labor organizations attended the founding NDO Conference. Angela Davis, Bert Corona of Casa Hermanidad, and Carl Braden of the Southern Conference Education Fund were elected co-chairpersons of the new coalition. Those elected as vice co-chairpersons were Clyde Bellecourt of the American Indian Movement; Alfredo Lopez of the Carlos Feliciano Defense Committee and the Puerto Rican Socialist Party; Rev. Ben Chavis of the Commission of Racial Justice and the United Church of Christ; Bill Takahashi of the United Defense Against Repression, Los Angeles; and Fred Bell of the United Defense of Political Prisoners, Dallas, Texas.

The founding conference, in addition to launching a new national communist-dominated coalition, brought into sharp focus the disunity within the "radical left" in the U. S. today. Fractionalism highlighted the organizing conference. According to reliable sources, each attending group strove to establish itself as the "revolutionary vanguard" of the new coalition and consequently very little concrete organizing was actually accomplished. It should be noted, that the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) and other Trotskyist splinter groups did not participate. In addition, the Maoist organizations chose to boycott the conference.

There are basic ideological problems to be overcome if these groups are to become involved. It remains to be seen, if the new coalition will be able to accommodate the ideologically different "leftist sects" and still be a viable organization.

26 May, Nationwide

A second nationwide African Liberation Day has been announced and will be held in 25 cities across the country on the above date to show support and solidarity with Africans in southern Africa.

Committee chairman Owusu Sadaukai, president of Malcolm X University in Greensboro, North Carolina, recently issued a call for sponsors to raise at least $50,000 to support the liberation movement in southern Africa.

Members of the African Liberation Day Support Committee have been holding rallies and going door-to-door to collect funds and solicit support from local churches, schools, neighborhoods and organizational institutions. Among the supporters of the African Liberation are the following: members of the Congressional Black Caucus; Anderson Young of Georgia; Percy Sutton of Manhattan; the Rev. John Walker; Marion Barry; Leroi Jones; Leonard Ball (Black Labor Leaders Coalition) and Don L. Lee, Institute for Positive Education, Chicago.

African Liberation Day will be observed in the following cities: Atlanta, Ga.; Boston, Mass; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Columbia, S. C.; Columbus, Ohio; Detroit, Mich.; Houston, Tex.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Jackson, Miss.; Kansas City, Mo.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Memphis, Tenn.; Nashville, Tenn.; Newark, N. J.; New Orleans, La.; Oakland, Calif.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Pa.; Portland, Ore.; Raleigh, N. C.; San Francisco, Calif.; St. Paul, Minn.; and Washington, D.C.

The ALDSC was granted permission to conduct a parade on 26 May from 11:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. in Washington, D. C. The Metropolitan police anticipate that the 800 to 1, 200 figure called for by the organizers will participate; however, last year's demonstrations drew 12,000 people to Washington, D. C.

Recently the organizers of ALDSC were granted permission to use the Meridian Hill Park until 10:00 p. m., and they have made plans to have entertainment furnished by rock bands at the conclusion of the parade. This recent change of plans in all probability will increase the number of participants to 3 or 4,000 persons.

Tentative speakers for the rallies will consist of such local activists as the Rev. Douglas Moore (Black United Front), Rev. Ben Chavis (African Prisoner of War Solidarity Committee) and the Rev. Smallwood Williams (local activist). Reportedly, Edison J. M. Zvobgo

(an exile from Rhodesia) has claimed that plans are being made to take over the Rhodesian Embassy in Washington, D.C. by force; however, Rhodesia does not have an embassy in Washington but it does have a Rhodesian Information Office, 2852 McGill Terrace, N.W. This information has not been confirmed. There has also been talk of causing damage to a Gulf service station along the route, possibly 23rd and "P" Sts., N.W. and the ITT Building, Connecticut Ave. and "L" Sts., N.W. The Gulf Oil Co. and ITT have been singled out by this organization because they are allegedly exploiting blacks in southern Africa.

The parade will form at the Meridian Hill Park, 16th and Euclid Sts., N.W. and return to the same location. Attached is a route of the march and rallies for the African Liberation Day activities to be held in Washington, D.C.

In New York City, demonstrators will meet at 9:00 a. m. at Dag Hammarskjold Plaza and march from there to the Charles Young Park at Lenox Avenue and 145th Street where a rally will be held at 2:00 p. m.

26 May, Washington, D.C.

The Ukrainian Committee of America will sponsor a demonstration to protest the Russian suppression of the Ukrainian people. Organizers of the demonstration are calling for 3,000 participants to gather at the Taras Schevchenko Monument, 22nd and "P" Sts., N.W. After this rally, they will march to Scott Circle where they will disband.

The Ukrainian Committee is an adult group that held the same type demonstration last year with no problems; however, there is a Ukrainian youth and student organization of the Ukrainian Committee of America that held a demonstration on 19 May 1972 which resulted in the arrest of 64 participants for blocking the sidewalk in front of the White House. Police chased the demonstrators from the White House to 16th and "K" Sts., N.W. where a group of 400 demonstrators blocked traffic and burned trash in the intersection.

This year the demonstration will be a combination of the youth and adult groups with participants generally coming from the East Coast. Metropolitan police are expecting 1,500 persons to participate in the demonstration.

16 June, Washington, D.C.

Reportedly, the National Peace Action Coalition has announced tentative plans to hold a demonstration on the above date to protest U.S. involvement in S.E. Asia.

Details are unknown at this time but will be reported when they become available.

16 June, Washington, D.C.

The People's Coalition for Peace and Justice has outlined plans to hold demonstrations in three locations (Washington, D.C., a city in the Mid-West and the East Coast which are unknown at this time). The purpose of these demonstrations is to protest the bombing of Cambodia and the alleged widespread discontent of Government handling of domestic matters.

Tentative plans for the demonstration in Washington, D.C. call for demonstrators to assemble at noon at the Watergate Apartment Building complex. Reportedly, Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo will be the speakers at the Watergate Building.

The demonstration will be in the form of a march which is scheduled to begin at 1:00 p.m. Demonstrators will march from the Watergate Building to the State Department Building, to the Bureau of Indian Affairs and to the White House where they will pause for 20 minutes then proceed to the Justice Department.

Laurie Sandow, a member of the New York City interim committee of PCPJ, and Barbara Webster, a member of the New York City national staff of PCPJ, will come to Washington to set up an office to run the demonstration. Headquarters will probably be located at the VISTA office building (16th and "M" Sts.). The Vietnam Peace Parade Committee is attempting to raise $16,500 for a train to carry demonstrators from New York City to Washington, D.C.

More information will be reported when it becomes available.

SYNOPSIS

Confidential Informant, R-1, provided information concerning local Project Resistance movements in the North Central Texas area, indicating that most of the activities concerning the peace movement, including the activities of the Students For A Democratic Society and the Dallas Committee For A Peaceful Solution To The War In Viet Nam, have established a center at 4915 Swiss Avenue in Dallas, which they call the Peace House. He additionally advised that it has become increasingly evident in recent weeks that the leaders of these groups are associating with narcotics addicts and pushers in the Dallas area and that the Dallas Police Department hope to collect sufficient evidence to establish a definite relationship between local peace movement leaders and the narcotics trade and ultimately discredit these leaders as the result of publication of such information through a cooperative effort with the local news media. R-1 additionally advised that a Black Power Conference is scheduled for Dallas, to take place sometime in the next two or three months. Additionally it appears that there are some noteworthy activities on the Bishop College campus and it appears the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee might be becoming more active in the Dallas area and the "peaceniks" are still holding their weekly vigils in Dealy Plaza. The January 17 to 31, 1968 edition of Notes To The Underground was obtained and attached to the report.

GENERAL:

At Dallas, Texas:

On 26 January 1968, Confidential Informant, K-1, provided information concerning local Project Assistance movements in the North Central Texas area, which appeared to be quite significant. The Informant said that uppermost on this list is the fact that a "Peace House" has been established at 4915 Swiss Avenue in Dallas, Texas and this appears to be the center of most of the activities of The Students For A Democratic Society and the Dallas Committee For A Peaceful Solution To The War In Viet Nam. The Informant said that most of the peace movement groups appear to hang out at this location and this is apparently the coordinating center for most of their local efforts.

K-1 further indicated that a Black Power Conference has been scheduled for the Dallas area sometime in the next two or three months. He said that allegedly this conference was initially scheduled to be held at the aforementioned Peace House, however, there are indications that these plans may be changed and there has apparently been some sort of a delay in the scheduling of the conference, as it initially appeared the conference would be held sometime in February or March, and now the rumors are that it will not be held until April or May. K-1 said that it also appears that possibly the conference may not be held at the Peace House, as originally planned, but may be held somewhere outside of Dallas City proper. The Informant said there is not a great deal of concrete information available concerning this proposed conference and there is even a possibility that it eventually might be cancelled.

K-1 advised that there has been a significant development recently concerning the local peace movement in that in that it appears that there has been an increasing degree of association between peace movement leaders and local narcotics addicts and pushers. The Informant said that the local police department hopes to collect sufficient information to establish a definite relationship between leaders of the local peace movement and the narcotics trade and then discredit the movements by publishing the evidence through a cooperative effort with the local news media.

The Informant said that there has been some significant activity on the Bishop College campus in recent weeks. It appears that a local chapter of SNICK is in the process of being organized on this campus. The Informant additionally said that 38 students recently arrived on the campus from New York City and that it is rumored these students are from the Neighborhood Improvement Corps in that area and apparently have been sent to Bishop College for some sort of an organizational effort associated with the interests of this group. The Informant said that for some unexplained reason, the faculty apparently refused admittance to 12 of these students and they have since returned to the New York City area. The Informant said he feels this activity bears close scrutiny in the future.

It should be noted that the "peaceniks", who consist primarily of representatives of the Students For A Democratic Society and members of the Dallas Committee For A Peaceful Solution To The War In Viet Nam, are still holding their weekly vigils on Saturday mornings in Dealy Plaza, and these vigils are still picketed by the local chapter of the American Nazi Party. It appears that there are approximately 25 people taking an active part in the "peacenik" vigils each Saturday morning.

U-1 said that there is evidence that the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee is becoming more active in the Dallas area and he said that nine members of this group, which probably represent the majority of activists associated with this group in the local area, were invited to the Casa View Methodist Church recently and each of the nine members spoke for five minutes to a rather large assembled audience. The Informant said there was a significant development at this meeting in that five of the members of the group, who appeared, were Negroes and four were Latin Americans. The Informant said this is the first time in the Dallas area that association between these two groups has been noted. The Informant said the group was led by Marion Ernest McILLAN, II, who is the leader of the local chapter of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee. The Informant said that this meeting at the Casa View Methodist Church apparently took place on about 12 January and he explained this church is apparently a progressive type church, with an inter-racial committee. He said apparently the group was invited by the committee and offered an opportunity to express their views to the assembled parishioners. The Informant had no information as to how the program was received.

#533 989

The Informant advised that the new organization on the Texas Christian University campus, Students For Peace, has been extremely quiet since its organization and there appears to be few significant new developments in the Fort Worth area concerning Project Resistance.

On 23 January 1968, the most recent copy of Notes From The Underground, the January 17 to 31, 1968 edition, was obtained on a local news stand and accompanies the report as Attachment #1.

FILE NO. 533 989DATE 27 May 1968

SYNOPSIS

Confidential Informant R-1 indicated that activities of student and Black Power groups of interest to Project Resistance have been extremely limited in the past month. There have been no significant developments in the North Central Texas area and few if any noteworthy incidents, other than a rally to welcome the Poor People's March at the time it was in the Dallas area.

GENERAL:

At Dallas, Texas:

On 23 May 1968, Confidential Informant, R-1, was contacted and advised that there have been very few significant developments in the North Central Texas area which would concern Project Resistance in the past month. The Informant stated that the Students For A Democratic Society have been unusually quiet on the local college campuses and it appears that the southwestern leadership of this group is attempting to consolidate and strengthen its position before initiating any new programs or aggressive actions. R-1 said that from rumors it would appear that the organization is attempting to establish a Southwestern regional office for this organization, somewhere in the North Central Texas area, however, the attempts are still apparently in the formative stages and no definite action has as yet been taken.

The Informant said there have been no recent peace vigils in Dealy Plaza and this project has apparently been abandoned by the Committee For A Peaceful Solution in Viet Nam and the Students For A Democratic Society. The informant said that apparently about the only effort being made by these two groups at present are in behalf of the McCarthy For President campaign.

R-1 further advised that his sources indicate that Black Power activities in the North Central Texas area have also been curtailed in recent weeks and about the only activity engaged in by this group and its sympathizers was a rally to welcome the local contingent of the Poor People's March at the time it was in the Dallas area. The Informant said that a large number of those making up this welcoming committee were students from Bishop College. It appeared a number of people had been brought into the area from other metropolitan areas, probably Houston, for this occasion. R-1 and local news media reported that the rally and welcoming of the Poor People's March group was extremely quiet and well organized and there were no incidents associated with the activity.

Notes From The Underground continues to be published in the Dallas area and the 16 to 31 May 1968 edition is attached as Exhibit #1. The edition covering the first two weeks in May was not obtainable and it is noted that a number of news stands, which previously carried this publication, no longer continue to handle it.

Students sponsored a speech by Helmut Altmeppen, a citizen and a member of the G.D.R. Communist Party since 1962. The presentation ran from 8:00 to 10:00 PM in a lecture room at the J. J. Goethe University in Frankfurt.

The presentation was well publicized on the half-century campus a week in advance with posters and hand-drawn pamphlets. Despite the advance publicity, relatively few students, approximately 100, attended the event. The A.S. (Association of Students) and other "New Left" student groups did not support the presentation nor did they attend it in large numbers. The A.S. (Association of Students) is itself one of the smaller student organizations at the university.

Helmut Altmeppen was accompanied by a woman, also a Communist Party member.

1962. The presentation ran from 8:00 to 10:00 PM in a lecture room at the J. F. Goethe University in Frankfurt.

The presentation was well publicized on the daily campus papers in advance with posters and printed pamphlets. Despite the advance publicity, a relatively few students, approximately forty, attended the event. The SDS (Canadian Student Society for Democratic Action) and other "New Left" student groups did not support the presentation nor did they send any delegates in large numbers. The SDS (Association of Students in Science) is itself one of the smaller student organizations at the University.

introduced by her mother name. Her father, Herbert Althaus, is a well-known Marxist philosopher.

In her speech Althaus described in detail, from her viewpoint as a student at the University of California at Berkeley, the radical "New Left" student activities on that campus with particular emphasis on the repressive measures that were used against the students by state police and National Guard troops. She described the Berkeley student confrontation with state authorities as being symptomatic of a larger social revolution resulting from four interrelated social trends in the United States: an increasing monopoly of economic production; the deterioration of confidence in social and political institutions, increased racial conflict, and continuing U.S. overseas imperialism. Althaus stated that the student conflicts with the authorities who are under the control of the California Board of Regents represented a confrontation with the capitalistic monopolies which had gained control of the state government and its educational system. She concluded that in light of the four social trends characterizing U.S. society, a political polarization of left radicalism and right reactionary conservatism within the society is inescapable. She stated that the primary purpose of the Communist Party in the United States was to stimulate the polarization by increasing the radical political awareness of the students and young workers. She noted the particular importance of opposing the power of the "pro-imperialistic" AFL-CIO labor unions.

During the question and answer period which followed the presentation, [redacted] was asked to clarify the relationship of the Communist Party to the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) role in the Berkeley student demonstrations. She attempted to avoid the question and responded in only general terms stating that the Communist Party had been influential in the early student civil rights demonstrations, and that at Berkeley, as at other university campuses, Communist Party members had worked hard to support student demands and demonstrations. She described Communist Party efforts at Berkeley to organize the clerical and staff employees at the University into unions which by striking could assist the student movement by "totally shutting down the University". [redacted] stated that there was considerable debate within the Communist Party in California over whether or not to support the Black Panther Party. Many of the older and more traditional party members regarded the Black Panthers as unreliable opportunists. Despite the discussion, she said the Party did assist the Black Panther Party by providing pamphlets distributed by Black Panther Party members to help defend Huey Newton, a Black Panther serving a prison sentence in California.

There was, generally, a mixed reaction to the presentation by the audience, which during the speech diminished to about half of its original size. Many in the audience, which included at least a dozen anti-Communist "leftist" students, plus several American [redacted] representative of the Communist Party was attempting to command undue credit for merely stating positions students and other "New Left" student groups. The effectiveness of the speech was also reduced by a laborious and time consuming translation from English into German despite the fact that the majority of the audience understood the speech in English.

In February 1967 the DDS directed the Office of Security to assist the Office of Personnel Recruiting Division in any way possible. This was based primarily on a recruiter being held a prisoner at Columbia University for several hours. The instructions to the field offices presented a great deal of a challenge due to the fact that the recruiters are open and field offices are under cover. However previously the recruiter based his predictions of difficulty on his own experiences, contact with DCS and information he could get from FBI at Washington, D. C., contact with Security people was forbidden.

Security was first asked to afford available information, make discreet inquiries and to set up space for recruiters in Federal space when trouble was anticipated. Trouble was then defined as violent confrontations, possible physical harm to recruiters and great publicity.

Harrassment developed along the following lines:

Harrassments --

1. Passing out handbills saying "You may have already won" Call such & such number which was the recruiter's number.
2. Reporter signing up for employment interviews.
3. Dissidents signing up for employment interviews.
4. Picketing
5. Obscene and threatening phone calls.
6. Sit-ins or Be-ins.

7. Obstructing halls and door ways.
8. Confrontation -- attempting to have dialog with recruiter to explain Government or CIA policy.
9. Actually holding them prisoners.
10. Finally as in Ann Arbor - blowing up the recruiting office.

They threatened entrapment -- getting a female interviewer into a closed room with recruiter, tearing clothing messing her hair and yelling rape -- This fortunately hasn't happened.

Mr. Osborn addressed the September 1968 Recruiters' Conference where he promised them prompt intelligence so as not to walk into a hotbed, a network of field contacts, reliable and quick communications and moral support but no body guards. The official policy for recruiters prompted by the President and the DCI was no eyeball to eyeball confrontations with resulting publicity but to ignore pickets or photos of recruiters and to utilize campus security but leave if that security breaks down. Security was to recommend but ultimate decision to visit a campus remained with recruiter.

This prompted one of the few purely intelligence gathering assignments to the field offices. Restrictions on contacting FBI at local levels were dropped; recruiters, field offices and resident agents were in direct contact.

The field offices responded extremely well. They used existing contacts at the various colleges, developed new informants and came up with information that would indicate that they attended some of the dissident meetings. They developed files on the universities and colleges, came to know all the campus security people, special units in the local and state police as well as other knowledgeable people not further identified.

The field office information combined with the take from Project RESISTANCE explained recently by an officer of SAD, has given us the ability to give an excellent prediction on the possible dissident activity at the various campuses prior to a recruiter's scheduled visit.

We have been able to recommend against a recruiter's visit where publicity has occurred on all but one or two cases, which I believe could not have been determined in any event. These were cases where two or three people crawled out of the woodwork apparently operating independently of any organized group and without prior planning.

As Security could only make recommendations against not going to a college there were a few times when Security and recruiters disagreed on the possibility of trouble, one must understand that the more aggressive recruiter wanted to do his job -- didn't want to back down from the creeps, and so forth and it was his decision to go or call it off. When this occurred, we would send a man to stay on the fringe area, attempt to spot build-ups and advise further action by the recruiter plus communicating the information to Headquarters. On some situations Headquarters was receiving calls every 30 minutes on the actions and a few times where Security decided there was danger in remaining, the information was sent up to _____ to Mr. Osborn who then used his influence to get the recruiter out. Paint and acid was being thrown in some cases bomb threats made against the building.

During the September 1969 Recruiters' Conference the guidelines became more strict to the point that there was to be "no publicity" connected with recruiting. This is almost impossible. Especially in view of the fact that the recruiters' not going to a campus created publicity. We recommended against going to one campus and the recruiter cancelled his trip. The dissidents didn't believe the school officials that the recruiter was not on campus and made a physical search of the school, intending to throw him off bodily. The result was, of course, publicity. It also caused a flurry of memoranda at Headquarters.

With experience we are now avoiding the trouble spots so little publicity is being given recruiters unless they happen to be on campus with Dow or GE who are the primary targets now. Fortunately the black groups have not caused as much trouble. But in the Support to Recruitment, when we do not get publicity is when we are doing the best job. Also we get calls now from other staff people wanting to know the situation at various schools, on behalf of their attending the school or of interest to their children. Recently DIA, who has experienced some of our difficulties, wanted a briefing on our methods of operation.

When ~~the~~ Chief, Recruiting Division, recently spoke to the SAC Conference he stated that the bearded ones had at least accomplished one good thing. They had caused Security and Personnel to work more closely together than in the history of the Agency.

[REDACTED]

Attached is a list of the Long Beach Black Panther Party officers and members who are known to [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Members of the Panthers have small red books which are purchased from the Los Angeles Office and which must be read and brought to all of the meetings. According to [REDACTED], the books contain revolutionary thoughts, possibly by Mao Tse TUNG. According to [REDACTED] members of the Black Panthers must be at least sixteen years of age. Those under sixteen, are called Junior Panthers.

- D. [REDACTED] stated that biographic information regarding the above unidentified persons would be furnished as soon as possible.

VI. INDEPENDENT STUDENTS

A.

[REDACTED] that there would be off-campus newspapers on each of the high school campuses in the Long Beach area. [REDACTED] obtained a copy of CAT'S GLOW at Jordan High School on 18 September 1968. The newspaper dealt with the need for an "underground" newspaper.

D.

- C. According to [REDACTED], the first edition of LOUD MOUTH appeared on 10 March 1967 as an unofficial off-campus newspaper at Wilson High School. In June of the same year, the name changed to LOUD SQUEAKER; however, the name was again changed to LOUD MOUTH. Michael Lee LUCAS, 2120 Clark, Long Beach, is the editor of the LOUD MOUTH which, in 1967, was printed at the Long Beach Peace Center (often known as Students for Democracies Society Center), 2628 East Anaheim. From its inception, according to [REDACTED] the newspaper has followed the "get out of Vietnam" line and claimed censorship of official high school publications as a reason for its existence. In August 1967, according to [REDACTED] met with twelve other editors of off-campus newspapers at a meeting sponsored by the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla. As a result of that meeting, all editors from various underground newspapers have formed what they call "Student Underground Press Association".

Three of the occupants wear white turtle-neck sweaters and the fourth, the team leader, wears a black turtle-neck sweater. They reportedly cruise until they find a police unit. Then they reportedly attempt to commit a traffic violation; and, when cited, they provoke an incident. As a means of identifying themselves to each other, they remove the hub caps on the rear wheels of the vehicles. At Williamsburg, Virginia: Current dissident activity at the College of William and Mary is mainly directed towards the unseating of the Dean of Students, Carson H. BARNES, Jr. BARNES is the center of resistance to the radical left, whose known population at the college is estimated to be 10 instructors and less than 200 students. Identities of the above faculty members are contained in this report. GENERAL

At Williamsburg, Virginia:

This report is prepared under the requirements established by PROJECT RESISTANCE but should not be considered solely in that regard.

A previous report of dissident activities at the college of William and Mary is contained. [REDACTED] dated 26 November 1969. Since that time Viet Nam moratorium activities have been continued on a small scale (see attachment number one) and these student activist groups known as Student Action Movement (SAM) have ceased to be openly active. There has been no further significant harassment of the college ROTC. Most activist energy has for some time been diverted toward obtaining greater student representation, expanding black enrollment, and obtaining open dormitory visitation privileges. As noted in the above reference report, the latter issue created a confrontation in October 1969 as did anti-ROTC activities. These issues were met head on and diffused by the dean of men, Carson H. BARNES, Jr., who has since become the prime target of radical faculty and students. The crux of this report concerns Dean BARNES, who was promoted to Dean of students in January 1970 and the dissident elements, who oppose him. BARNES was dean of men from 1959 until his promotion. He represents the cynosure of the conservative atmosphere at the college, although in his words, "I have always considered myself a liberal dedicated to progressive education". He can best be described as intelligent, capable, perceptive, and most importantly accurate. He is young, personable, energetic, loyal, devoted, and sincerely interested in the welfare of students. During the October confrontations he acted with restrained authority and the physical courage he possesses as a former football player and coach.

The attack on BARNES began after the October demonstrations and were initiated in the main by a small group of instructors, within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. During this period BARNES addressed the Kiwanis Club of Williamsburg, in which he described the October demonstrations because the local community wanted more information on these incidents. In his speech BARNES criticized the few faculty members who encouraged confrontation and escalation of campus differences and crises. The speech was released to the local and campus press and reaction was immediate by the campus newspaper, The Flat Hat, The Student Association, and various fragmented radical student groups, who number less than 200 persons.

On 10 February 1970, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, one of four such faculties, whose membership represents about one-third of the entire instructional force, voted a lack of confidence in BARNES and deplored his promotion to Dean of students. Approximately 60 to 80 members attended this particular meeting, thereby lacking more than half of its total membership. Following the lead of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, a student referendum was held during the weekend of 14-15 February 1970. The referendum, admittedly conducted under highly questionable circumstances, resulted in a vote of no confidence in BARNES by the students. Slightly more than one-third of the student body participated, voting about five to one against BARNES. The manner in which the referendum was conducted has been criticized by all interested parties, because of late and inequitable ballot distribution and improper accounting. Many ballots did not reach or were not returned from most known conservative campus groups, such as fraternities, sororities, and those dormitories known to house conservative minor students, such as ROTC members.

On 17 February 1970, the Student Association Assembly passed a resolution expressing, "a lack of confidence" in BARNES and voiced "strong" disapproval of his elevation to Dean of students by a vote of 36 to 13 with six abstentions. To indicate the mood of this meeting, the Student Association Assembly also passed a resolution urging Governor HOLTEN to appoint two students and two faculty members to the Board of Visitors, approve the Constitution of the Williamsburg Moratorium Committee, and supporter of the repeal of the college's regulation prohibiting open visitation in men's dormitories.

On 4 March 1970, [REDACTED] was interviewed [REDACTED]

#533 989

[REDACTED]

As a matter of background, it is to be noted that President PASCHALL has been under fire from many sources. The Student Association attempted to unseat him during the 1968-69 school session, he is currently being criticized for increased tuitions, his suspected approval of BARNES, and additionally he is severely tested by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare regarding equal opportunities for blacks.

[REDACTED]

The informant reported that he cannot understand the apparent dissolvment of SAM unless it represents planning for the surfacing of a stronger organization. The informant said that in the light of present attitudes on campus, there is a good possibility that a stronger organization might take the form of a Students for Democratic Society (SDS) chapter. The informant noted that by regulation, any such organization would be sanctioned by the college if it is approved by the Student Association. The informant noted previously expressed opinions that SAM receives literature and directions from SDS. The informant opined that only strong and immediate action by conservative groups could prevent the eventual sanctioning of an SDS chapter at the college and he would be surprised if the administration opposed such an organization. At the same time the informant noted the recent regrouping of the campus chapter of Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) after two years of inactivity as well as the appearance of the small conservative campus newspaper.

During the course of the interview [REDACTED]

The informant said that there are about 10 such persons, each of whom works to influence five or six friends to secure their vote in accordance with the will of the smaller group. The informant stressed the influence that this group has been able to exert on the Student Association and the college newspaper, and he emphasized that the group constantly assures of American Civil Liberty Union (ACLU) protection for all student dissident actions.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

"He is at all protests and was busy urging the students on and assuring them of ACLU backing during the dormitory sit-ins".

[REDACTED] "He is a paranoid".

The date following the name of each of the above individuals indicates the year they were first appointed to the instructional staff at William and Mary.

In conclusion it would appear that the future success of dissident activity of William and Mary revolves around Dean BARNES. His loss to the college would be a resounding victory for radical students and faculty and unquestionably the beginning of more serious difficulties.

Additionally the Informants submitted the name of [REDACTED] [REDACTED] with further identifying information lacking at this time. Informants advised that [REDACTED] anti-Vietnam war policies [REDACTED] and has called "the U.S. a criminal nation".
According to the Informants this individual advocates that students have the right to determine their own social regulations, and that this attitude along with his stand on Vietnam has endeared him to the dissident students. Informant [REDACTED] advised that he had observed much anti-war literature in [REDACTED] and that he knows many meetings have been held there by radical faculty and student groups. This Informant also advised that [REDACTED] is closely associated with [REDACTED] previously identified above.

On 22 May and 19 June 1970 [REDACTED] was again interviewed at which times he summarized events at the College of William and Mary during the past several months. (The Informant said at the outset that [REDACTED] and that most dissident activity was directed at President Davis Y. PASCHALL (see Project RESIS-TANCE report dated 1 April 1970). The Informant said that these activities centered around visitation regulations and that the following incidents occurred on campus during April 1970:

1. A state owned vehicle was set afire.
2. A fire was set under the window of the office of the president.
3. One fire was set in the administration building, and several fires were set near dormitories.
4. Telephonic bomb and fire threats were received by the college switchboard almost daily.
5. Verbal threats of use of bombings and molotov cocktails were received by the president at meetings with dissident groups.
6. The president's office was picketed on a number of occasions,
7. Two sit-ins occurred in the administration building.

#533 989

8. Dick Gregory spoke at the college on 27 April 1970 sponsored by the Junior Class with proceeds to the Martin Luther Scholarship Fund.

The Informant reported that the college newspaper and radical students devoted their energies toward gaining offices in the Student Government Association until the events of 6 May 1970 gained their attention. The Informant said that in spite of efforts of conservative elements the radicals succeeded in gaining the presidency of the Student Government Association and continued control of the college newspaper. The Informant summarized the following events on campus from 6 May 1970 to 19 June 1970:

1. A Student Strike Committee was organized which immediately submitted demands to the college (see attachment number 2). Student absenteeism from classes was estimated to be between forty and sixty percent of the enrollment, and rumors and threats of violence were widespread if the college did not agree to the demands of the Student Strike Committee.
2. The American flag normally flown at the administration building was lowered a number of times and dissidents attempted to raise the strike flag. The above actions created incidents between student radicals, campus police, and ROTC personnel. College officials decided not to fly the flag in order to avoid further incidents and ROTC flag raising and lowering ceremonies were discontinued. This order was still in effect on 19 June 1970.
3. The Faculty of Arts and Sciences met in emergency session and acceded to strike demands by passing a resolution granting deferred examinations to students until September 1970. Any student wishing to take advantage of examination deferrals were required to submit a written request to the office of Dean EARNES. Other schools of endeavor at the college refused to meet the strike demands, and in general the resolution of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences was considered unfair and discriminatory against students attempting to pursue normal studies.
4. A student, [REDACTED] announced the formation of a local chapter of the United National Draft Opposition (UNDO) with its headquarters on campus in the Williamsburg area Tutorial Service offices.
5. The college administration was advised of the organization on campus of the Committee on the Movement for a New Congress, the Committee on Draft Counseling Service, and the Committee on Peace Action Coordination (see attachment number 3).

[REDACTED] said that many complaints had been received by college administrators from students not active in the strike movement. The complainants advised that the strike activities were widespread, very disruptive, and prohibited them from properly preparing themselves for their examinations. These students specified that because they did not participate in the disruptions and undertook all of their examinations they were being discriminated against because the troublemakers harrassed and were themselves excused from examinations. The Informant said that the college is sensing the possibility of lawsuits from parents of students who became academically ineligible during this period. As an example of this possibility the Informant provided letters from one such student and his father (see attachments numbers 4 and 5) which are incorporated in this report because of their revealing nature. [REDACTED] forecast that the College of William and Mary will undergo severe ferment and disorder in the coming school year regardless of the national scene because the radical elements control most student functions.

Citizens! A situation of grave danger now confronts the Local Draft Boards in our area. Their very existence has been called into question, and hence the continuation of our war against aggression in Southeast Asia. We call upon all of you--Left, Center, and Right--to help put an end to this danger, to restore Law and Order before the Spark becomes a conflagration which engulfs the entire country.

THE SITUATION IS THIS: For the last few weeks, unscrupulous anarchists in the Seattle Area have bombarded their local draft boards with all sorts of CRANK MAIL. For example, MAGAZINE SUBSCRIPTIONS have been taken out in the names (and office addresses) of the CLERKS--who, as everyone knows, actually run the boards. These Romantic Revolutionaries have taken to haunting magazine racks and stealthily pulling out the POSTAGE PAID, BILL ME LATER COUPONS from the innards of the magazines. They then check a costly subscription (usually for three years) and send it to the local clerk, BILLING HER IN HER OWN NAME. This has naturally resulted in the loss of many manpower hours as the harried clerks have had to send back the magazines and a note, or else contend with the credit departments' harassment. (There are some reports that the clerks are actually reading the magazines as they come in, leading to further waste.) And this is not to mention the merchandise and junk that has to be sent back to book clubs, record clubs, and stamp approval companies. And now that the NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF LOCAL BOARD MEMBERS HAVE BEEN BECOME READILY AVAILABLE, we can expect them too to come under attack. Some have even stated that THEY WILL QUIT if they should start to receive such harassment. THIS IS NO OBVIOUSLY A SERIOUS SITUATION.

BUT FAR, far worse than this is the PHONY LETTER WRITING CAMPAIGN!

The unscrupulous terrorists have gone so far as to write counterfeit letters to the local draft boards. They have purposely varied the stationary used as well as the style, pens; penmanship and even typewriters.

Some letters bear fictitious names; others, however, bear the ACTUAL NAMES AND ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ ADDRESSES OF RESIDENTS. These are either found in the phone book or in HIGH SCHOOL YEARBOOKS and local COLLEGE DIRECTORIES! And even Selective Service numbers are fabricated, resembling those used by local boards! (This is easily done since the number is little more than a simple indication of birthdate and board number--45 6 44 123). But, although the board requests that all correspondence come with ~~xxxx~~ the writer's number, in actuality many forget to enclose it. This makes it impossible for the board to automatically reject those letters which don't have numbers on them. And those which carry phony ~~xxxx~~ numbers have to be processed up to the point that the clerk actually pulls out the file and must realize the ~~xxxx~~ ruse. What is more, certain letters obviously do not require an SS number; for example, those of the brave young men who are writing in to report that they are now old enough to serve their country.

THE SUBJECT MATTER of the letters usually duplicates the authentic letters received every day by the draft boards. Thus, some of them are, as already indicated, from young men requesting registration. Others request a CHANGE IN CLASSIFICATION. This can be done for numerous reasons; some, noting the stern warning on the back of their draft cards, write to merely inform the boards of a change in health, job, wife, etc. The terrorists' instruction leaflet lists examples, such as informing the boards when one gets a cut, has a cold, or sprained an ankle. This leaflet also suggests men send a change of address letter from everywhere they stop while on vacation. Yet others request CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR forms. Others are from irate wives and parents--and so on. The variation in letters is far too great to enumerate. Nothing that might possibly interfere with the proper function of our local, neighborhood draft boards escapes the notice of these sick brains. They have found out that as government employees, the clerks cannot accept gifts from the

with the giver's name and address attached. The gift must then be mailed back to the giver by the draft board (at great expense to our beloved government). When the candy comes back, another one of these would-be-destroyers gives the box to a clerk. And since the mail (and to a lesser degree, the phone) is the main artery of the boards, and since the boards are the main source of manpower for the Army, we can easily see the ~~REAL DANGER POSED BY DETERMINED ACTIVISTS~~.

Just last week they ~~xxxx~~ escalated their action against the Seattle boards. On three separate days groups of ten to twenty people went into the Selective Service office and did numerous things which tied up several clerks for hours. First of all, just that many weird looking people ~~MILLION~~ ~~around~~ in the office upset the clerks. Then all the males who were registered with the Seattle boards made written requests to see their files and separate written requests for each of their friends to see it (which they have a legal right to do). While each young man was looking at his file he requested the clerk to place in his file a stack of ~~xxxx~~ subversive leaflets, pamphlets, and newspapers he had brought along (which the clerk must do by law). This tied up the clerks with a monstrous load of paper work since each of these registrants requested new draft cards, saying that his old one had been lost, stolen, or destroyed, making more work for the clerks and keeping them from the more important work of sending notices to serve your country to patriotic young men.

If a small group of people, of any age or sex, meeting periodically in the safety of their own homes, can almost ~~CLOSE DOWN THEIR LOCAL DRAFT BOARD~~, imagine what would happen if certain destruction-minded GROUPS took up this idea! IT IS ENTIRELY CONCEIVABLE THAT THEY COULD SHUT DOWN ~~THESE DRAFT BOARDS~~ MANY OF THE DRAFT BOARDS ACROSS THE LAND--and not just for a few hours, but for GOOD.

THEREFORE, we appeal to all right-thinking individuals to become aware of just how perilously ~~THE~~ VULNERABLE our understaffed and bureaucratic draft boards really are. Even today, a simple request, by an honest citizen, may take months to process. A PHONY REQUEST MAY TAKE YEARS!

And now that our generals and leaders need hundreds of thousands of young men to defend FREEDOM abroad, we feel it is the sacred duty of every one of us to give the local draft boards ~~everything~~ everything they need and deserve right here at home.

Mr. J.W. Lambert
Vice-President of Student Affairs
College of William and Mary

Dear Mr. Lambert:

As President of the Student Association, I have authorized the creation of three executive committees of the Student Association. These will provide research and implementation of Student Association projects for the fall. The committees are:

1. Committee on the Movement for a New Congress
2. Committee on Draft Counseling Service
3. Committee on Peace Action Coordination

I am taking such action in accord with the Constitution of the Student Association, Article III of the By-laws:

"2. Special committees may be authorized by the President to execute Association activities."

My authorization will permit the committees to operate in the Student Association office during the summer when the Campus Center is open. I think that the newly appointed committees would make possible the participation of William and Mary students in these fields if the activities prove to be in the best interests of the students.

Sincerely,

Winn Legerton

MEMORANDUM FOR: Headquarters

SUBJECT: Project Resistance
#32-282

1. On 25 September 1969, [redacted] at Arizona State University, advised that at the present time the militant leftists have scheduled a student strike for October 15, 1969 in conjunction with a National Student Strike sponsored by the National Student Mobilization Committee, whose purpose is to build a nation wide moratorium against the war. Local sponsors will be the Student Peace Association, a coalition composed of the Young Socialist Alliance, the Radical Students Union and Students for a Democratic Society. This is allegedly a part of demonstrations at 300 colleges and universities. Plans call for a one-day strike on 15 October 1969 and if that is unsuccessful, a two-day strike in November and a three-day strike in December.

2. Students for a Democratic Society are also attempting to recruit individuals to go to Chicago on 8 to 11 October 1969 to protest the trial of the individuals being charged in the Democratic Convention disturbance. They claim to have several hundred who will be going. [redacted] advised that he is doubtful of the claim and would figure 20 would be more like the actual figure.

3. The current leaders of the New Left on the Arizona State University campus are believed to be Joseph Carl Gexson who is heading the Young Peace Center and the Radical Students Union. He is a new graduate student at the university and believed to have come to Tempe from Washington, D. C. He is married to the daughter of a university professor who, according to [redacted] has not been an activist. Students for a Democratic Society is headed by Mike Milan, a freshman and 17 years of age. Both of these individuals purport to be veterans of the Chicago and Washington, D. C. demonstrations.

CHILE'S PINOCHET DENIES ANY U.S. COOP INVOLVEMENT

RESPONSIBILITY

PARIS AFP IN SPANISH 1823 GMT 21 SEP 73 C

((TEXT)) SANTIAGO, CHILE, 21 SEP--GEN AUGUSTO PINOCHET, PRESIDENT OF THE GOVERNMENT, TODAY FLATLY DENIED THAT ANY FOREIGN GOVERNMENT HAD INTERVENED IN THE 11 ONE ONE SEPTEMBER COUP. GENERAL PINOCHET, COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE ARMED FORCES, MADE THIS STATEMENT TO FOREIGN NEWSMEN THIS MORNING AT A PRESS CONFERENCE HELD IN THE MAIN HALL OF THE MILITARY ACADEMY.

A U.S. NEWSMAN ASKED ABOUT POSSIBLE U.S. INTERVENTION IN THE OVERTHROW OF THE POPULAR UNITY GOVERNMENT IN CHILE. THE PRESIDENT OF THE JUNTA REPLIED:

"OURS WAS A NATIONAL MOVEMENT. NEITHER THE UNITED STATES NOR ANY OTHER COUNTRY WAS INVOLVED. THE SECRET WAS SO WELL KEPT THAT NOT EVEN MY WIFE KNEW WHAT WAS GOING TO HAPPEN. IT WAS OUR PROBLEM AND NO ONE ELSE'S."

THE GENERAL AGAIN POINTED OUT THAT THE ARMED FORCES WERE COMPELLED TO ACT BECAUSE THE GOVERNMENT WAS LEADING THE COUNTRY TO CHAOS. THE COUNTRY WAS IN MORAL, ECONOMIC, AND SOCIAL DANGER. THE ARMED FORCES COULD NOT REMAIN ALOOF FROM THE SITUATION.

HE SAID THAT THE DECISION HAD NOT BEEN ADOPTED JOYFULLY. HE SAID, "WE THE COMMANDEPS IN CHIEF HAVE REACHED THE SUMMIT OF OUR CAREERS. WE COULD HAVE LOOKED FORWARD TO RETIREMENT AND IT WOULD HAVE BEEN EASIER FOR US TO REMAIN QUIET....HOWEVER, SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR ALLENDE TALKED ABOUT DIALOG BUT HIS POLICY DID NOT CHANGE. HE SAID HE WAS OPPOSED TO CIVIL WAR, AND YET AT HIS TOMAS MORO RESIDENCE AS WELL AS AT THE PRESIDENTIAL PALACE THERE WERE VERITABLE ARSENALS."

"EVERYTHING WAS READY FOR A CIVIL WAR. OURS WAS A PREVENTIVE ACTION TO WARD OFF A REVOLUTIONARY ACTION." GENERAL PINOCHET SAID THAT THE GOVERNMENT'S MAIN GOAL WAS TO RETURN THE COUNTRY TO ECONOMIC WELL-BEING. HE REPEATED THAT 48 FOUR EIGHT HOURS AFTER THE OVERTHROW OF THE ALLENDE GOVERNMENT THE SITUATION IN THE COUNTRY WAS PRACTICALLY NORMAL.

"TODAY," HE SAID, "NATIONAL ACTIVITY HAS BEEN RENEWED. WE MUST ORGANIZE INTENSE NATION-WIDE PLANNING. THIS HAS ALREADY BEGUN AND SOON WE CAN LET THE PEOPLE KNOW ABOUT THESE PLANS."

FINALLY, HE SAID THAT THE JUNTA WILL MAKE IT A POINT TO RETURN THE COUNTRY TO CIVILIANS ONCE IT IS COMPLETELY RECOVERED. HE DID NOT SPECIFY ANY DATE, HOWEVER, AND SAID, "WHEN A MAN IS ILL CAN YOU PREDICT WHEN HE WILL BE CURED?" 21182Z [REDACTED] 21/19587 SEP

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Security Research Staff

SUBJECT : Project MERRIMACK

1. Coverage afforded MERRIMACK during the period 8 to 15 April reflected no information to indicate that any group was going to demonstrate locally. Coverage afforded MERRIMACK to date has disclosed no indication of any demonstration aimed at this Agency.

2. It was developed that the National Urban League would demonstrate in the Washington, D. C. area in April or June against the war in Vietnam. This demonstration is slated to start from up-town Washington and to terminate at the White House.

3. It was developed during the week that WSP meeting held on 11 April 1967 was at the home of

4. While our asset was at WSP Headquarters, a teacher from [redacted] came in with a large check (possibly several hundred dollars). A telegram arrived wishing success on peace train signed "Soviet Women's Committee". A magazine titled "Soviet Woman" was picked up at WSP Headquarters and is attached as Exhibit #1.

5. A Peace Mobilization Meeting held on 16 April at St. Stephen's Church indicates that a mass meeting is scheduled for 17 May with one target being the Pentagon. A demand to meet with the President is also planned for this date. The crowd for this demonstration of 17 May is hoped to be as large as the 15 April demonstration in New York City. A four page telegram was reportedly sent to the President telling him of this proposed demonstration on 17 May. The cost of the New York demonstration was said to be $11,000.00 for transportation and literature with a balance left in bank account of $3,500.00.

6. It has been noted that WSP has received about 300 foreign language letters.

100 letters have been received from Switzerland and they are interested in forming a chapter.

where she was interviewed by WSP and

7. WSP is moving their Headquarters to 2140 "P" Street on 1 May 1967. The next demonstration planned by WSP will be on Mother's Day, 14 May. The theme is to be "Don't Draft Our Boys".

8. The women of Vietnam have requested three members of WSP be sent to Vietnam and they will pay the bill. Another source reported that there will be four women going.

9. The Japanese women of California and Japan have contacted Mrs. Dagmar Wilson requesting information on organizing a WSP group.

10. The members of the WSP Steering Committee of Washington, D. C. and vicinity were identified as

11. WSP is angry over newspaper coverage of 15 April feeling too much press was given to Martin Luther King, flag desecration, and draft card burnings. It was pointed out that although 3,000 had traveled from Washington, D. C. to New York no mention of this was made in press. It was noted that over $3,000.00 is left from donations after all bills were paid.

12. A new mobilization is being formed with Headquarters in St. Stephen's Church composed of young people against the draft. This is to be a community project and Dagmar Wilson is in New York to help select a Vice President for the group.

13. Material obtained from New York rally on 15 April is attached as Exhibit #2. Included in this Exhibit are photographs taken at New York rally and during the trip, identifying several local leaders of the group. [redacted] was apparently in charge of organizing the marchers and loading the buses for the trip, picture number 2. Her home phone number is [redacted] shown in picture number 2 has been identified as being involved in several militant groups. On the bus was one [redacted] who advised he has not missed a demonstration in the past five years, shown in picture number 1.

14. Attached as Exhibit #3 is a list of 65 names of persons who sent in donations or requested tickets for the 15 April mobilization drive for New York. Included in Exhibit #3 are other pamphlets and literature pertaining to the mobilization. It is to be noted that our assets report there is some unrest in the Civil Rights Movement because of the participation in VSP demonstrations by some of the Civil Rights leaders.

15. The Peace Mobilization plans a mass meeting on 17 May to include a demonstration at the Pentagon and demands to meet with the President. Key places to demonstrate were discussed and methods for reaching the people. The outcome of this discussion was to divide the city into sections and pass out literature to people in these sections concerning the war in Vietnam. The aim is to get a strong organization to fight the United States Government until the war is brought to an end with the key demonstration point being stressed as the Pentagon. This group appears to be very serious and is led by [redacted]. This group plans to have their own defense budget of between three and four million dollars by summer 1963 and will have this many supporters mostly drawn from the young people of the United States. They intend to harass the President and Congressmen and to sway the vote against the President in the coming election. The group intends to campaign in schools and colleges and educate the young colored people and encourage them to go to jail rather than into military service. During a speech by Devel he said "Johnson does not know what is going on in Vietnam and all he knows is what a CIA Agent tells him". [redacted] said that on 17 May he is going to talk to Johnson and tell him that unless he stops the war the Peace Movement is going to close down the United Nations and United States Senate if possible. Literature from this group is included in Exhibit #4.

16. Information from SNCC indicates they are moving to a new location at 13th and "U" Streets. [redacted] have been identified as leaders of local SNCC office. [redacted] participated in the demonstration march taking place in Mississippi last year.

17. WSP is contacting Fairfax High School principal and meeting with Montgomery County School Board to see if a WSP representative could speak to the students to present the views of the conscientious objector. WSP's [redacted] attended the Women's International Peace Conference in Moscow on 8 March, a trip paid for by the Soviet Union.

18. At the Peace Mobilization at St. Stephen's Church it was learned that a Civil Rights group including Martin Luther King, [redacted] and Stokely Carmichael will attend a meeting on 17 May 1967 to march to the White House to see the President. The group intends to remain in D. C. until they do see the President. A mass meeting is planned for 16 May at the Lincoln Congregational Temple, 1701 11th Street, N. W.

19. It has been determined from a [redacted] CORE Headquarters, Washington, D. C., that CORE is presently inactive as they have lost many members nationally to the Black Power Movement. CORE is presently undecided as to which policy to follow. [redacted] advised that McKissick, previously identified by another informant as being leader of SNCC is the National Director of CORE.

20. A telephone conversation was overheard at WSP Headquarters in which [redacted] exclaimed that the CIA was going too far and had to be stopped. CIA was so desperate that it was paying for information. This phone conversation was not further elaborated upon.

21. At a meeting of WSP at the home of [redacted] on 5 May it was decided that between Mother's Day and 17 May there are to be a number of local demonstrations against the draft. The local demonstrations are to be supplemented by 300 women coming from Boston. A mass meeting is planned for 16 May at the Lincoln Memorial with speakers from San Francisco and New York. On 17 May the group will meet at 10:00 a.m. to hear Annie Lou Kanes (ep) speak and then march to the White House. On 19 May a mass demonstration is planned, possibly for the Pentagon. On 15 May, WSP is planning to storm the Senate Hearings with chants from the balcony and halls with "We want Peace". This is to be a civil disobedience rally and will be given much planning as they are aware they will possibly be put out by force, taken to jail or beaten up. To prepare for this, a mass meeting is planned for St. Stephen's Church at 8:00 p.m. on 9 May. On 15 May, WSP is planning a sit down demonstration in the halls of the Senate. They plan to continue demonstration on 17 May with clergy, high school and college students as well as 300 from Boston if they are not in jail. A special call has gone out for as many pregnant women and breast feeding mothers to be in the group as possible.

22. Biographical information on Dagmar Wilson was obtained

Mrs. Wilson previously worked as secretary in the Washington office of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE). Paragraphs contained in Exhibit #5.

23. At a meeting of Washington Spring Teach Mobilization held on 9 May, [redacted] was elected [redacted] and [redacted] of the Washington Spring Peace Mobilization. [redacted] of WSP and [redacted] Friends Meeting, were elected members of [redacted] Two members of Non-Violent Student Committee that were demonstrating at the Pentagon spoke and asked for others to join them at the Pentagon at 7:00 a.m. On Mother's Day at 11:00 a.m., a group of women will gather at Lincoln Memorial and will march to Arlington Cemetery to graves of new Vietnam victims, Aldgar Evers and J. F. Kennedy. At the latter grave they will place a yellow rose for Texas and a red rose for Vietnam.

24. You will be kept advised on a periodic basis of the continued coverage being afforded Subject. Any information concerning demonstrations being planned against this Agency or Agency installations will be reported at once to be followed by a memorandum with the details.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Security Research Staff

SUBJECT: Project MERBIMACK

1. Since this office's memorandum dated 12 May 1967, periodic monitoring of the following indicator organizations has been in effect:

CORE

2. From our coverage of the above cited organizations, as verbally reported, there has been no covert manifestations to date of any demonstrations and/or activity directed toward the Agency or any of its local installations.

3. For your additional information, it has been discreetly ascertained that Dagmar Wilson's trip to Stockholm, Sweden has been temporarily postponed for unknown reasons. [redacted] recently appeared to be quite worried about the contributions going into the WSP Headquarters during the second and third weeks in May. The "take", as reflected by [redacted] was less than $100.00 per day. Also, WSP Headquarters was telephonically harassed on 23 May 1967 by a person who was subsequently identified by [redacted] as a "Nazi" male. This individual kept calling the office, using obscene language and repeatedly asked [redacted] the same question, namely, "what are you damn Jews going to do about Israel?" [redacted] finally left the receiver off the telephone for a period of time and the calls ceased. Reportedly, WSP Headquarters is deeply concerned about former Vice President, Richard Nixon's establishing an office in the D. C. area and will endeavor to keep the "war monger" out.

4. Attached herewith are pamphlets and other literature which were obtained from the indicator organizations of interest to us.

5. Aforementioned organizations will continue to be monitored periodically and any significant information which is developed will be reported to you on a timely basis.

On 12 July 1967, the writer was in casual conversation with [REDACTED] freely spoke of her activities in the peace movement and that she was becoming more active all the time. Specifically, she made the following points:

1. She writes complaint letters to the President, Secretary Rusk, Secretary McNamara, General Westmoreland, her governor, her congressmen, Martin Luther King, and anyone else involved with peace activities or the Viet Nam war.
2. She receives replies from most of her letters but so far no answer direct from the President, but usually from an aide; ambiguous replies.
3. She has an electric mimeograph machine with which she reproduces literature she receives from WSP and other peace headquarters, for local distribution.
4. She "steals" from her food bill each month for funds to buy paper and stamps. Many of her friends and other activists in the peace movement do the same thing.
5. To her knowledge, no peace organization is being subsidized by other than private donations such as her own. She makes regular contributions but did not specify to which organizations.
6. So far as she knows, salaried employees are being paid from contributions and from the sale of handout literature.
7. The great majority of workers in the peace movement organizations are volunteers such as herself.
8. She attended the peace rally in New York in April and the last rally in D. C. She marched with a group in front of the White House and later visited Senator Dirksen at the Capitol.

9. She was photographed by "agents" which she was sure were either CIA or FBI men, both in D. C. and N. Y.

GOVERNMENT'S REFUSAL TO RELEASE THOSE DETAINED BY THE SOMALI NATIONAL SECURITY COURT. THE NEW CONSTITUTION, WHICH CAME INTO EFFECT ON 12 OCTOBER 1990, ABOLISHED THE COURT.

MOGADISHU, ONE OF THE FEW PLACES CONTROLLED BY THE SIAD
BARRE REGIME, IS ENTERING A NEW ERA OF CHAOS. THESE LATEST DEMONSTRATIONS AND THEIR REPERCUSSIONS CONSTITUTE CLEAR EVIDENCE THAT THE COUNTRY IS IN TOTAL CHAOS. THE QUESTION IS: WHAT WILL BE THE OUTCOME OF ALL THIS CHAOS?

LAST WEEK WAS THE 21ST ANNIVERSARY OF SIAD'S COMING TO POWER.
THE THREE MAJOR REBEL GROUPS ISSUED A JOINT COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCING THE MERGER OF THEIR FORCES TO OVERTHROW THE GOVERNMENT. THEY STRESSED THERE COULD BE NO DIALOGUE WITH THE SIAD BARRE REGIME.
THIS COMMUNIQUE CAST A DARK SHADOW OVER THE GOVERNMENT'S EFFORTS TO HOLD TALKS WITH THE REBELS. THE REBEL GROUPS HAVE NOT YET ANNOUNCED ANY TANGIBLE POLITICAL PROGRAM. THEY ARE NOTHING BUT TRIBAL ARMED REBELS, WHO IN NO WAY COULD BE CALLED A POLITICAL

OPPOSITION. THE CONTINUING ARMED STRUGGLE IS A STRUGGLE FOR POWER, WHICH PLACES A QUESTION MARK ON THE REBEL LEADERSHIP'S ABILITY TO ACHIEVE FULL UNITY.

HOWEVER, IT IS AN UNDENIABLE FACT THAT THE MILITARY MERGER OF
THE REBEL GROUPS CONSTITUTES A THREAT TO THE REGIME. THE REBEL GROUPS HAVE REALIZED THAT THEIR DISUNITY HELPED THE REGIME TO CLING TO POWER, DESPITE THE CHAOTIC SITUATION, BUT EVEN IF THE GOVERNMENT IS TOPPLED BY THE JOINT REBEL MILITARY FORCES, THIS DOES NOT MEAN THAT THE CIVIL WAR BLAZING IN SOMALIA WILL END. THE CIVIL WAR WILL SIMPLY BLAZE FURTHER.

SOMALIA MIGHT FOLLOW IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF LIBERIA, BUT THE LATEST EVENTS IN MOGADISHU ALSO SHOW THAT SOMALIA'S DESTINY MIGHT TAKE A DIFFERENT COURSE. MUSLIM FUNDAMENTALISTS HAVE UNEXPECTEDLY APPEARED IN POLITICAL LIFE. THEY ARE OPPOSED TO THE NEW CONSTITUTION, WHICH PROVIDES FOR FORMING MANY PARTIES AND FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION. THE MUSLIM FUNDAMENTALISTS HAVE CONDEMNED
THE GOVERNMENT FOR ADOPTING A EUROPEAN-STYLE CONSTITUTION, ARGUING THAT ONLY ISLAMIC LAW CAN SALVAGE THE COUNTRY FROM CHAOS. IN THE CONTEXT OF THE PREVAILING CRISIS, THE MUSLIM FUNDAMENTALISTS APPEAR TO BE WORKING TO BRING ABOUT THE DOWNFALL OF THE GOVERNMENT.

On 30 April 1975, USLP member Arthur Leaderman, Bureau Chief, NSIPS in NYC, at a press conference in Washington discussed the meaning of a "new NATO doctrine" which he alleged is outlined in NATO document "MC14/4", i.e., the Schlesinger Doctrine. According to Leaderman, this document established as NATO policy the acceptance of tactical nuclear warfare following a "staged confrontation" between the US and the USSR. He also alleged this policy is causing a "fractional situation" to arise within the NATO command. The tone of his press conference was to make the USSR appear to be the potential victim of US foreign policy as applied to NATO. Leaderman also told the group that the West German police had conducted a raid on ELC Headquarters in Wiesbaden on 29 April 1975 in an attempt to uncover the "High Bundeswehr Source" who reportedly had revealed this information to the NSIPS representatives.¹⁶

SUBJECT

Subject: MCHSAOS

5 OCT 1972

SUBJECT: MICHAOS Survey of [REDACTED] Field Stations, August-September 1972

1. The Special Operations Group, Counter Intelligence Staff and [REDACTED] Headquarters conducted a cable survey of [REDACTED] field stations during August and September 1972. The survey was initiated prior to the survey of those stations by the Inspector General but the time span of some of the replies coincided with the IG survey.

2. The following analytical summary of the responses covers the extent of foreign liaison involvement with MICHAOS requirements, problems involving station liaison with the FBI and any special problems raised by stations regarding the legitimacy/objectives of the MICHAOS program.

3. Cables to field stations were custom-tailored to each station but all contained the following common background paragraph:

"To insure common basis this review re targetting. Has recapitulating following FYI. Generally, [REDACTED], the bulk of our collection effort involves coverage of selected visitors/travelers for possible direct or indirect linkage with hostile foreign govts/groups/parties/intel services, as means of determining basis existence/extent of foreign exploitation of/involvement in domestic U.S. dissidence/extremism. Info from all appropriate station unilateral assets as well as from liaison is needed. Altho liaison aspect represents occasional duplication with FBI (PCS or visiting rep, CIA, not FBI), has primary CI responsibility abroad and stations are primary action arm of [REDACTED] in dealing with liaison services on MICHAOS-related matters. Further, and most important, CIA has responsibility of providing, upon request, special finished studies/reports, etc., on matters involving MICHAOS. These normally have very short time deadline and must be prepared on basis of immediately available CI info; we cannot rely on timely receipt of such info from foreign liaison via FBI Hqs. The number of specially required special CIA studies/reports has been increasing, with more to date this year than all of last year."

a. [redacted] thought that a redefinition of the scope of the program was needed because of the increasing appearance of U.S. citizens in activities involving the [redacted]. [redacted] has been told that use of MICHAOS channels to report U.S. involvement in such activities is necessary to identify and monitor linkages in foreign efforts abroad to support/encourage/exploit domestic U.S. dissidence.

b. [redacted] commented that it did not wish to call into question the general formulation of CIA responsibility for counter intelligence abroad (cited in paragraph 3 above). It suggested, however, that the Station "continue to exercise its pre-eminent responsibility for CI matters which can be identified with hostile foreign states or institutions...and leave with the FBI, as in the past, concern for the activities at home or abroad which cannot reasonably be associated with such hostile foreign direction."

8. Essentially CIA does exactly what [redacted] suggests above. There is a problem in that field stations often do not know the full background on individuals on whom information is sought regarding their foreign-related contacts and activities while abroad. The bulk of such requirements on CIA originate in the Department of Justice, including the FBI. Some are self-initiated when there is a history of prior contact/involvement with the Chinese Communists and/or Cubans, DRV/PRG representatives, Soviets, North Koreans [redacted]. In all cases the sole purpose of the coverage is to determine if there are foreign linkages and the purpose/objective involved. Negative reporting on the absence of hostile foreign linkages is as important as positive reporting.

9. [redacted] and [redacted] are individuals on whom questions regarding CIA interest have been raised..

[REDACTED]

The FBI has levied requirements on CIA for information on the MHCHAOS-related activities and contacts of each abroad. [REDACTED] has visited Hanoi and has met with hostile Vietnamese [REDACTED] has similarly visited Hanoi.

10. The foreign linkage aspect of the requirements and the foreign locus of the clandestine collection action (unilateral and liaison) constitute the rationale and justification for this particular exercise of the Agency's responsibilities for collection of foreign counterintelligence information. CI/SO, in conjunction with all the CS operating divisions, exercises a continuing scrutiny of its requirements to the field to insure that day-to-day traffic fully reflects paragraph 8 above.

11. An active collection program, however, requires the use of appropriate field personnel on a need-to-know basis determined by each Chief of Station. The mid-1972 [REDACTED] survey reported that [REDACTED] staff employees in [REDACTED] stations (out of a total of about [REDACTED] were knowledgeable of the MHCHAOS program. A TDY visit (by the Chief or Deputy Chief of CI/SO) to [REDACTED] stations to discuss the program would help clarify any misunderstandings regarding the program; assist in developing future operational efforts; and cover the bulk [REDACTED] of the knowledgeable officers. Stations involved and the numbers of knowledgeable officers in each follow:

VI. INTERNATIONAL STUDENT MEETING

JULY 5-14 1960 • LJUBLJANA • YUGOSLAVIA

The town of Ljubljana rises on the banks of the river Ljubljanica, slightly south of our longest river Sava. Since the early days important traffic arteries lead along these rivers, to the west toward Italy, over the mountain passes to the North and downstream to our Capital and toward the East. A good hour's trip by car brings us to our sunny Adriatic Coast, with all its pleasant beaches, but in even a shorter time you can reach the high Alps, where you can enjoy the coolness even on the hottest summer day. It is a fact that Ljubljana could be used as a starting point for any tourist who wishes to visit Yugoslavia.

Standing on a crossroads, Ljubljana started up as a tiny settlement even before the Roman days. Under the Romans it grew into an important town, but was later on completely devastated by the invading barbarian tribes. During the Austrian rule the town made little progress, but gradually along with the awakening of our Slovene Nation, Ljubljana started to develop. At first it became the cultural and later on even the political center of Slovenia. After the liberation in 1945 it built a strong industry.

Speaking of historic and cultural monuments, there is no doubt that Ljubljana has plenty of both. The most interesting is the old part with the renaissance style Town Hall and the 12th century castle on the hill above. Remarkable baroque style fountains, statues and houses are also to be seen. Numerous theatres, concert halls, art galleries, museums and exhibitions see to it, that Ljubljana leads a high level cultural life.

The University of Ljubljana was founded shortly after World War I. Today, when nearly all faculties and departments are complete, there are more than 8000 students studying here. The students have their own organization with many cultural and sports groups, and also their own newspapers.

LJUBLJANA - FROM THE CASTLE

MODERN SOCIETY ON THE THRESHOLD OF THE ATOMIC AGE

#649 (3)

The traditional International Student Meeting is to be organised this year, also, by the University Committee of the Union of Students at the University of Ljubljana in co-operation with the Central Committee of the Yugoslav Union of Students. Experience from our previous Meetings shows that this form of co-operation has become a link in the relations between students from various parts of the globe. These Meetings are an opportunity for students of different political opinion to exchange their thoughts concerning various problems of interest to us all, on an equal basis and above all in a friendly atmosphere. Last year, over sixty delegates from twenty different countries took part in our Meeting; so that this fact alone indicates of how great an interest such student manifestations are.

Man kind has reached a decisive turning-point at which changes in all fields of human activity are appearing. These changes are constantly forcing the human society to devote all its potential strength to maintain step with the technical development and its impact on society. Our Meeting, bearing the title "Modern Society on the Threshold of the Atomic Age", has the purpose to offer its contribution necessary for a better understanding of this process.

The three subjects suggested are not meant to be restrictive, and in order to make the talks cover as much ground as possible we welcome any additional papers on problems discussed as well as any other proposals you may have. Thus we are confident that the Meeting will reach its purpose in all respects.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE

Date 12 November 1977

NEWS SECTIONFIRST EDITION

This is the first edition of "Algerian Student", the News Bulletin for the 15 Algerian students studying the United States under USNSA scholarships. We hope that it will be printed monthly.

The main idea of "Algerian Student" is for an exchange of news between the Algerian students themselves, plus any pertinent news from the office of the National Student Association. The monthly bulletin will feature portions of letters from various students, news items, and editorials. The "Algerian Student" is designed to be means of communication from the individual Algerian student to his friends on other campuses and to the NSA office.

MESSAGE FROM THE STAFF

We hope that you will write us many letters concerning your courses of study, your academic interests, the difficulties with subject matter, and other things relating to your university work. We are also interested (although to a lesser degree, because you are primarily an Academic scholarships) in your school activities, your associates, and your opinions about ~~American Student Life~~.

Not only will your letters enable us to put out a better news bulletin, but it will also help us to know how much you are enjoying your American education and how valuable you feel it is. We also enjoy receiving your letters because we are interested in you as a person and in your individual advancement.

FLASHCHRISTMAS MEETING PLANNED

A meeting for all 15 of the Algerian Scholarship students is presently being planned for the Christmas holidays. Presumably, the meeting will be held somewhere in New England or around New York. Yale University has been mentioned as a possible meeting site.

The meeting is presently scheduled to begin on December 20, and to last three days. It would consist of various programs, speakers, discussion groups, and evaluation meetings.

Harald Bakken, USNSA President in 1953-54, and last year's FSLP Director, has agreed to organize the program for the Conference. He hopes to obtain several highly rated speakers for the affair, and feels that the over-all meeting will be of crucial value for the students involved.

Donald Clifford, current FSLP Director, has asked that all 15 students studying on USNSA Scholarships keep the time between December 20-23 open for this Christmas Conference. He also said that the National Student Association would pay full transportation for all students to the site of the meeting.

LETTERS SECTION

Rachid Benouameur, of the University of North Carolina (UNC) has been one of our most faithful correspondents. In his first letter, he told us:

"Here at UNC, I am taking four courses: (1) the English language, old and modern grammar; (2) American literature up to 1900; (3) the American novel from 1850; and (4) American history. Being a special student, I'm working very hard to be graduated at the end of the Fall semester and to be considered as a regular student."

In a later correspondence, Rachid said:

"I take part in many activities on our campus: Cosmopolitan Club, invitations in private houses, lectures in French for those who study this language ... but I am afraid not to have enough time to do well in my four courses and to read my 1,000 pages per week, so I plan to make a good balance between my studies and my other activities."

In a letter received this week, Mr. Benouameur sounds as though he has a grand opportunity before him, as he says:

"I've received an invitation to make a speech in Greensboro (North Carolina) among a public entirely composed with women students!"

In his letters, Rachid makes some very astute observations concerning his early impressions of American university life. For instance, he says:

-3-

"Sometimes it seems to me that the university is more like a playground for healthy adolescents than a temple of learning. No intellectual life is to be found. Generally, it is quite impossible to discuss a serious and important question during more than a few minutes."

NEWS FROM THE NATIONAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION

NEW MEMBER TO INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION

Mr. Gary Glenn has become the newest employee of the National Student Association's International Commission. He will be assisting Don Clifford and Joan MacRavey in the Foreign Student Leadership Office, and will also serve as Asian representative. Mr. Glenn is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, was at the National Student Congress and at the FSLP camp at Decatur, Illinois.

NSA PRESIDENT IN EUROPE

Don Hoffman, President of the USNSA is spending late October and early November in Europe. He will be attending several conventions and will speak with various student leaders throughout Europe.

FSLP DIRECTOR ON CROSS-COUNTRY TOUR

Don Clifford, Director of NSA's Foreign Student Leadership Project is currently traveling around the nation visiting all the FSLP and Algerian Scholarship participants. Going all the way from the Atlantic to the Pacific, Don will be away from Philadelphia for one and a half months. He sends you this message:

"It has been extremely difficult for us to place all of the Algerian students in universities in this country. This has been due to the scarcity of academic records which the students have been able to produce, given their special circumstances. At present, however, all of the Algerian scholarship students have been enrolled in universities and are pursuing programs for academic credit. We are very sympathetic to your problems during these first few weeks of school in becoming enrolled and established in your universities and sincerely hope that initial problems have been or are being solved in the best possible manner for you."

ALGERIAN STUDENTS ON COSEC MAILING LIST

The FSLP office has submitted the names of the fifteen Algerian students to the Coordinating Secretariat of the ISC for mailings of "The Student," the COSEC "Information Bulletin," and the "Student Mirror." You should be receiving these publications soon and are requested to inform us if you have not been sent your copies within the next month.

INSURANCE

The USNSA has taken out a health insurance policy through The Mutual of Omaha to cover all of the foreign students in NSA sponsored programs. You should have received a small blue insurance identification card which you must present along with an enclosed "Notice of Claim" each time you visit a doctor for medical attention. (The office initially sends you one such claim notice, whereafter you receive new supplies automatically from Mutual of Omaha upon their receipt of a claim sent to them by your doctor.)

Enclosed is a descriptive brochure of your insurance policy. If you do not have your blue identification card, please notify us immediately so that we may order one for you.

Civil Action No.

C O M P L A I N T

(Action For Debt)

1. The plaintiff is an international organization with headquarters in Leiden, Netherlands.

2. Defendant is a corporation organized in the District of Columbia with headquarters at 2115 S Street, N.W.

3. Over a period of years the International Student Conference advanced funds on behalf of the United States National Student Association for travel grants to American students travelling abroad, for supporting various other activities of the United States National Student Association, and for technical assistance in various matters for the United States National Student Association.

4. In February 1967 the United States National Student Association was expelled from the International Student Conference. At the time of the expulsion the United States National Student Association was indebted to the International Student Conference in the sum of $14,812.51. Between that date and February 20, 1969 the United States National Student Association had made payments in various sums reducing the debt to the sum of $9,608.60.

3. Despite numerous requests to pay the outstanding balance on the debt, the United States National Student Association has failed to make any further payments on the remaining amount owed to the plaintiff.

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff demands judgment against the defendant in the sum of $9,608.60 together with interest at the rate of 6% per year from February 20, 1969, and the costs incident to this action.

OPPOSITION TO MOTION FOR EXTENSION OF TIME IN WHICH TO OPPOSE PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Plaintiff opposes defendant's motion to extend time to file an opposition to plaintiff's motion for summary judgment, and as reason therefor states as follows:

by defendant in order to properly oppose plaintiff's motion is not presently in its possession, and that much of the information required is in the sole possession of the plaintiff, in contradiction to a prior admission by the defendant through its counsel, Michael Nussbaum, Esq., of the firm, Surray, Karasik, Greene and Hill, who stated on August 7, 1969 with regard to the claim by the plaintiff against the defendant as follows:

"I have today received the figures from NSA relating to the ISC debt. According to NSA, the net amount outstanding is $10, 040.58." See copy of letter dated August 7, 1969 from Michael Nussbaum to David Carliner attached as Exhibit A.

2. Defendant's interrogatories propounded to plaintiff are largely irrelevant to the debt asserted by the plaintiff.

e.g., interrogatories 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 (a), (b), (c), 6 (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), 7(a), (b), (c), (d), and 8 (a), (b), (c) each relate to the structure and internal operations of the International Student Conference and appear to be dilatory as well as a quest for irrelevant information not bearing upon the existence of the debt to the plaintiff.

3. Interrogatory number 9 relating to an alleged assignment of the claim set forth in the complaint by the plaintiff bears upon an allegation set forth in the defendant's Answer at its "Fifth Defense", which states, "upon information and belief, defendant alleges that the claim set forth in the complaint has been assigned by plaintiff to person or persons unknown, who are the real parties in interest herein." The allegation on its face indicates that the defendant has "information" upon which this allegation is based. Such information, of course, could be set forth in a verified affidavit instead of an answer.

4. The information sought in interrogatory 10 (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) (i), (ii), (iii), 11 (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e), 12 (a), (b), and (c) appears to be within the information already available to the defendant in view of its express admission that it was indebted to the plaintiff as of August 7, 1959 in the sum of $10,040.58, which is in excess of the sum claimed by the plaintiff.

Respectfully submitted,

AFFIDAVIT OF DAVID CARLINER

David Carliner being first duly sworn on oath according to law deposes and says:

1. Upon information and belief, the accounting firm of Ernst & Ernst conducted an audit of the indebtedness owed by the United States National Student Association to the International Student Conference, and that pursuant to the request of Perkins & Co. Ernst & Ernst the International Student Conference submitted to the firm of Ernst & Ernst a full statement of account of the transactions between the defendant and the plaintiff on or about March 26, 1969 as appears from the attached correspondence, namely a request by United States National Student Association Ernst & Ernst dated March 18, 1969, and response by the International Student Conference dated March 26, 1969.

2. On or about August 8, 1969 he received a letter from Michael Nussbaum, Esq. of the law firm, Surrey, Karasik, Greene and Hill, dated August 7, 1969, attached hereto.

3. The reference in the letter of August 7th to an "understanding that the Executive Director of the National Student Travel Association (a nonprofit affiliate of NSA) had concluded arrangements whereby ISC would credit the NSA account with all or part of a $5,000 balance owed by ISC to NSA", has not been asserted as an offset by the defendant in the present action. Nonetheless, upon information and belief, affiant states that on January 25, 1969 the Board of Directors of the National Student Travel Association decided that it would not authorize use of further funds from student travel project account for the payment of the National Student Association debt to the International Student conference.

Dear David:

I have today received the figures from NSA relating to the ISC debt. According to NSA, the net amount outstanding is $10,040.58.

It is, however, my understanding that the Executive Director of the National Student Travel Association (a nonprofit affiliate of NSA) had concluded arrangements whereby ISC would credit the NSA account with all or part of a $5,000 balance owed by ISC to NSTA. I would appreciate your checking this with your client.

Subject to this credit, NSA agrees to pay the amounts due and owing to ISC, provided that ISC execute a hold harmless agreement making it clear that no assignee or successor to ISC will claim any of the sums NSA pays. I must insist on this because of my understanding that ISC may no longer exist as an entity and that there are either assignees or successors in the picture.

With best personal regards,

Sincerely,

STATEMENT OF THE SUPERVISION COMMITTEE CONCERNING THE 13TH CONFERENCE AND THE FUTURE OF THE ISC

Since its creation in 1952, the Supervision Committee of the International Student Conference has taken many decisions of major importance to the international student community. None, however, have been as serious as those which the Committee at its meetings held in Leiden between 9th - 14th February, 1969 has had to take. The Supervision Committee has decided:- that it is not possible to convene the 13th Conference; that it is not possible for the ISC to be maintained as a viable organisation;

to recommend to the member unions of the ISC that they should confirm by postal referendum that the ISC should be dissolved; that the activities of the ISC Secretariat should be wound up by 31st March, 1969.

that the activities of the ISC in the field of scholarship assistance and developmental aid should be continued by the International University Exchange Fund constituted as a separate and independent organisation.

It had not been the wish of the Supervision Committee that it should have the responsibility of taking these decisions which will have immense impact on the international student community. Under the circumstances, however, the Committee has not shirked from the responsibility of taking these decisions.

At its meeting held in Leiden in February, 1968, the Supervision Committee laid down the nature of the 13th Conference which it had wished the Secretariat to have organised. The Conference was to be open to all National Unions wishing to participate in the activities of the International Student Conference and was to be a forum at which the structure and activities of the ISC would have been reorientated to meeting the needs and aspirations of the international student community.

On the basis of the financial commitments made by the various National Unions and other fund sources, the ISC Secretariat announced in November, 1968 that the 13th Conference would take place in Salzburg, Austria from February 18th - 27th, 1969. At the end of January, 1969 when the planning for the Conference was at a very advanced stage, the Secretariat learnt that a significant part of the funds committed for the Conference would not be available. The Secretariat re-examined the budget of the Conference and reduced it to its barest minimum, but there was still a deficit of about $9,000. Despite the strenuous efforts made by the Secretariat and help given by several National Unions, this deficit could not be covered. The estimated reduction in costs which could have been achieved by shortening the Conference was insufficient to cover this deficit. Accordingly, the Secretariat felt that it was impossible to go ahead with the plans for the Conference and decided to call an urgent meeting of the Supervision Committee to discuss the situation.

S. J. Committ

"The ISC has now, since the Supervision Committee entered into full session in Leiden on 13 February, decided to cancel the holding of the 13th Conference. The Secretariat has issued a circular which has not yet reached us announcing the cancellation. The Supervision Committee has instructed the Secretariat to close down the Secretariat and has issued a circular letter to all member unions asking them to comment within three weeks on the proposal of the Supervision Committee to dissolve the ISC."

"It appears that, from the legal point of view, the ISC can ask the Dutch authorities, who hold a register of all international organizations, to have its name removed from the register which means it thereafter no longer has any legal status. Normally we gather an organization simply becomes moribund and when this ~~organization is removed from the register~~ of the register. We would prefer, and we feel sure that you would agree, that the Secretariat should take a positive step to have the ISC's name removed."

The Supervision Committee met on 9th February, 1969 in Leiden and decided that for financial and technical reasons it was not possible to hold the Conference as scheduled. During the lengthy discussions which followed, the Committee sought to find some arrangements which would have enabled the Conference to be held. Costs incurred in the preparation for the planned Conference in Salzburg further reduced the funds available and the Supervision Committee was of the opinion that any reduction of travel grants would have made the holding of the Conference a meaningless exercise. Faced with the undeniable reality of the Conference Fund, inadequate even to holding a Conference restricted to member unions and bearing in mind the wishes of many member organisations for a very broad-based Conference, the Supervision Committee reluctantly came to the conclusion that no Conference could be held in the foreseeable future. However, the Supervision Committee noted with gratitude the financial support of SP5, NSU, OH, PKPM, NUKS, DSF, SYL, NZUSA, NUAUS for the Conference.

As a consequence of this decision the Supervision Committee turned to the examination of the viability of the International Student Conference continuing to operate as an institution for international student co-operation. This in turn led the Committee to examine the changes that have taken place in the international student community over the past two years and the present trend of developments among National Unions of Students.

The period since the last International Student Conference held in 1966 has witnessed a dramatic increase in the concern of students and student organisations throughout the world with not only the question of their education and their participation in it but also with the ills and inequities of the society in which they live. This trend has not been restricted to any one continent yet nowhere has the political change been as marked as in Europe. While the increase in the politicisation of students and their greater involvement in society is, in the opinion of the Supervision Committee, a generally welcome advance it is drawn to the conclusion that it is the political developments that have occurred in the European and North American student scene that are chiefly responsible for the International Student Conference being in the state it finds itself today. The politicisation of students in Asia, Africa and Latin America has also progressed. However, National Unions of Students in these areas have continued to value the work and political orientation of the ISC and the changes in their attitudes to the International Student Conference that have occurred have not been of the nature or degree that could have led to the present situation.

National Unions in Europe have been influenced in differing measure by the changing student mood and now at present it is not possible to create a consensus between those unions who over the years have traditionally found the International Student Conference to be the most appropriate vehicle for the international contacts and multilateral co-operation.

The European Unions today are unable to agree on such fundamental issues as their approach to the purpose, functions or even structure of the International Student Conference.

These unions can be divided into three rough groupings.

The first includes those unions whose policies emphasise the importance of the student as the vanguard in the struggle to completely restructure bourgeois society and believe that because of its present nature, this change can only be brought about by revolutionary means.

The second group comprises those unions whose membership also believes that students have a significant role to play in the reform of society and the alleviation of its ills, but whose approach is within the context of the present system, and who favour operating in the nature of political pressure groups.

The third group consists of those unions whose membership subscribes to a "student as such" approach and whose interests and activities are thereby confined strictly to those matters which involve the interests of students in their capacity as students.

While the first radical group of National Unions is still a minority of the total, it has grown markedly in the past two years and the political trend in Europe is towards this pole. These unions, however, do not find it useful to engage in dialogue with other unions who do not share their approach to political questions and student unionism. Even the larger middle group of "moderates" are unable to effect a meaningful dialogue with the more activist group. At the other end of the scale is the handful of unions who still subscribe to the archaic and outdated "students as such" concept and who thereby have isolated themselves from dialogue with either of the other two groups. This has resulted in a general breakdown in the consensus that once was possible amongst the European member unions of the International Student Conference. Thus, in relation to the European National Unions it has become impossible for the ISC to be universal and

As a result of the breakdown of the consensus among the ISC unions in Europe, the ISC can no longer have a broad and firm financial base.

It is an unfortunate fact of international student life that the finance for an organisation such as the International Student Conference, its administration and programme of activities must be raised with the help of unions in the developed countries, in Europe and North America. Unfortunately, a number of these unions who have the possibility of providing financial support to an organisation which can benefit in a real way unions in the less developed countries are often motivated by national considerations which are not infrequently at variance with the declared goals of the organisation. No incident could exemplify more clearly the powerlessness of the majority of the unions in the ISC who come from developing countries, unions who are not in a position to provide the finance necessary for the operation of the organisation, than the present situation.

In recent years, for finance, the ISC has been dependent on the support of a handful of wealthy National Unions, some of which have evinced little interest in the feelings of other members when they feel that the organisation has ceased to serve their often selfish ends. The situation reached the stage late last year where one union, finding its views unacceptable, could by leaving the organisation and through its influence on financial sources, ensure that the organisation was ultimately forced to wind up its activities. The arrogance of power of rich countries in dealing with their less well-off counterparts is not uncommon in international organisations and the recent history of the International Student Conference provides striking examples of this trait.

On the basis of the financial evidence available, the Supervision Committee recognised that the International Student Conference could no longer operate with a minimum full-time Secretariat offering the present range of services for member unions or having any meaningful programme of activities, other than the IUEF activities. This realisation, despite the fact that in recent years neither the Supervision Committee nor the Secretariat have spared any efforts in their search for funds, demonstrates clearly that at the present time it is not feasible for a genuinely representative and independent international student organisation to exist.

Having reached the conclusion that the International Student Conference could not continue to exist, the Supervision Committee turned to examining how the financial responsibilities of the ISC could be met. A deficit will be incurred in the operation of the ISC in 1968/69, while other costs will be incurred in dissolving the Secretariat. These two elements exceed the realisable reserves of the organisation, but it is hoped that the balance may be met given the co-operation of major donor countries.

It should be noted that in the opinion of the Committee the additional deficit that would have been incurred had the 13th Conference been held could not have been met and that to have permitted a deficit to arise would have been quite financially irresponsible.

The Charter states that the Conference may decide to dissolve the organisation by a two-thirds majority. Although this provision was obviously intended to refer to cases where dissolution is discussed at a Conference, it was the feeling of the Supervision Committee that the spirit of the Charter requires that any decision to dissolve the organisation must be taken by the member unions. Financial exigencies require that reached quickly. The Supervision Committee accordingly resolved that a postal ballot of all member unions be held to consider the proposal to dissolve the ISC. It is appreciated that member unions are being given little choice in this matter since the financial and political realities clearly indicate that the organisation cannot survive. Nevertheless, the Supervision Committee is unanimously of the opinion that only member Unions can take the decision to dissolve the organisation. The Supervision Committee strongly urges that the member unions approve by March 10th its recommendation to dissolve the organisation so that the affairs of the International Student Conference can be wound up as efficiently as possible.

The Committee discussed at length what practical activities of the ISC might be continued after the dissolution of the Secretariat. Particular attention was given to the continuation of the work of the ISC's Agency, the International University Exchange Fund which, at present, is the major non-governmental institution dealing with the education problems of African refugee students as well as being active in the field of developmental aid and assisting Southern African liberation movements. As it was clearly possible for these activities to be continued, the Committee discussed the manner in which this might take place. The Committee decided that the Administrative Council of the International University Exchange Fund should be formally authorised to have the IUEF established as an independent institution so that this programme of activities could be continued and expanded further. The Committee also asked the Secretariat to make suitable arrangements so that the International Student Identity Card scheme could continue to function.

The fact that so many National Unions throughout the world in the past and the present have actively participated within the ISC is a clear demonstration of the fact that international student co-operation is important, meaningful and valuable. There is no doubt that the cessation of the activities of the ISC will leave a big vacuum which will be difficult to fill.

In the near future National Unions will have to give first priority to the establishment and development of bilateral, sub-regional and regional co-operation. This process will be slow and will not be easy but must be undertaken.

It is the belief of the Supervision Committee that genuine international student co-operation cannot be based on short-term self-interest, but rather should have as its objective the promotion of student and general welfare by aiming to implement the principles embodied in the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights. It rejects suggestions that it is desirable or even possible to revert to isolationist policies in this age of international inter-dependence. The benefits of international student co-operation have been unequivocally demonstrated for all time and the future must hold the hope of renewed and extended co-operation on some basis yet to be determined.

SUBJECT: Contact between the United States National Student Association (NSA) [redacted]

[redacted] had received an urgent letter from the United States National Student Association (NSA), signed by Charles F. Palmer, president of the NSA, which requested that [redacted] cable the NSA on 15 November a strong statement against the continued involvement of the United States in the Vietnam war. [redacted] that the letter also requested that [redacted] send by mail any statements they had made in the past regarding United States involvement in the Vietnam war and copies of statements they had made in the past against the United States participation in the war.

COMMENTS:

[redacted] one of the resolutions passed was a censure of the United States for the presence of its military forces in Vietnam and its refusal to withdraw its forces from Vietnam.

The NSA has not yet taken an official position on the November Moratorium, although many individual members have expressed themselves in support of it. This is the first direct indication of NSA specifically soliciting support for the Moratorium from [redacted] organization.

Charles F. PALMER is elected the president of the NSA during its National convention in August 1969 in El Paso, Texas. PALMER is a former student body president from the University of California at Berkeley and was involved with the People's Park demonstrations in Berkeley in the spring of 1969.

CONVERSATION WITH U.S. STUDENT IFSHIN REPORTED.

[Interview with National Committee Member of the Association of American Students David Ifshin; Montevideo, Uruguay, El Popular, Spanish, 15 October 1971, p 23]

Hours before the government, in one more demonstration of its hatred of liberties and its scorn for rights and constitutional rules, expelled him from the country (the only Americans acceptable in the eyes of the government are inspectors from the IMF or agents of the CIA), we had the opportunity to chat with David Ifshin, former president of the National Association of American Students (grouping student associations of 500 of the 800 universities in his country), who visited Uruguay after participating in the Congress of Solidarity with Vietnam, which was organized in Santiago, Chile by the IUS and the WFDY. Ifshin, who has visited the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and who currently belongs to the national committee of the Association of American Students, participated at Santiago as an observer for the association.

Question: What are the most important characteristics of the American student movement?

Answer: Until now, the student movement has centered its efforts especially on the struggle against the war in Vietnam and for integration of the black people. Another subject which mobilizes American students is the question of university reform.

Question: What do student demands concerning the reform consist of?

Answer: It is being demanded that the existing competitive system in the universities for achieving better qualifications and better positions be done away with. This is the present system, and it represents an application of the success theory to the university environment. This theory was very important as a factor for mobilization. But it was understood that what is behind this system is the capitalist structure, which finds expression through competition, as in racial discrimination or in the war in Vietnam. Developments in the struggles have brought the students and has no future and that it is a question of involving the entire social and economic structure. One of the important elements in helping to clarify the issue was the slaughter at Attica.

~~the black population to understand that the struggle for partial objectives~~

Question: Was this reflected in the movement?

Answer: There is one chief contradiction within the students' and people's movement. Having a greater awareness of what the real problem behind each of these expressions is, and beginning to face up to a general questioning of the capitalist structure, there still exist sectors which center their struggle around a particular demand -- some for improvements, others for women's rights, others for the war in Vietnam, and others for university reform. This means that despite a growing awareness of the total problem, difficulties which hold back the development of the movement remain due to this attention to partial demands.

Question: How is this problem met?

Answer: The struggle against the war in Vietnam has been taken at the center, and through this an attempt is made to unify the movement. Last spring one of the largest demonstrations for putting a stop to the war in Vietnam took place. Even the reactionary American press admitted that more than half a million persons took part in this demonstration. Students, workers, union leaders, and even important personalities, congressmen, and senators took part. It was called by the National Action Coalition for Peace and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, which not only called for the demonstration, but also for the application of civic disobedience measures. I mention in passing that the association of students belongs to both coalitions.

At the head of the demonstration was the Truckers' Union, one of the largest in the country, which takes part in demonstrations against the war in Vietnam, as well as many other unions. In addition — and for the first time — veterans of the Vietnam War, in uniform, took part in the demonstration for 5 days, opposing the government and the Supreme Court. This is the first time in the history of the United States that war veterans have participated against a war that was still going on. This protest demonstration continued for a week and was headlined nationally. The Supreme Court ordered the veterans to withdraw. They refused, and Nixon did not feel encouraged to give the police a public order to throw them out by force, although that was the order requested. There was one point at which the police refused to repress the veterans. For that reason -- because that atmosphere existed -- Nixon did not have the courage to give a public order for them to be thrown out. The veterans camped at night in a park near the Supreme Court. This demonstration took place in Washington. Many of the veterans who took part in it had been crippled in the war.

Even the reactionary press commented in its headlines that the war veterans disregarded the Supreme Court. Many of these veterans appeared voluntarily to accuse themselves as war criminals for having been in Vietnam.

It is becoming understood more and more that the war in Vietnam is not an isolated problem, but only the most severe and the most concrete example of American imperialism: something that can happen in Vietnam, as in Bolivia, Uruguay, or another part of the world.

Question: Particularly, in Latin America...?

Answer: Especially at this time, the subject of Latin America is entering a crucial period, according to [copy unclear; possibly intended to read: as is understandable]. The U.S. Government has not defined a policy for Latin America because it finds no way in which to explain it to the American people. The movement is trying to create awareness, so that people will understand the imperialist maneuver before action takes place and not afterward, as happened in Vietnam.

I think that the conditions are being created and that we are arriving at a point at which it will be possible to restrain aggression, for example, of the Santo Domingo type. Nixon is keeping the U.S. policy more and more a secret and deceiving the American people, because the people's movement is becoming a force capable of checking aggression. The government is going to have think twice before carrying out an attack or an invasion. Even the U.S. military power has been broken. The Army wants to get out of Vietnam, despite the fact that 10 years ago it wanted to go into Vietnam. It must be said that the morale of the soldiers in Vietnam has hit bottom. More than 20 percent of the soldiers are drug addicts. Of course, Nixon lies to the people. He is trying to use not soldiers, but mechanized warfare: bombing raids, for example, in order to avoid casualties and the participation of soldiers in combat. He thinks that he can keep the war more or less secret, to the extent that there are no dead soldiers. Our work is directed toward making people understand that the problem is not one of dead soldiers but of imperialist aggression.

Question: What is the government doing about the movement?

Answer: Nixon responds on many levels. The first thing was to say that the movement was violent, irresponsible, and controlled by foreign powers; that is, the use of anticommunism. But it is very easy to answer this, because all the violence of the movement cannot be compared to U.S. violence in 1 day of war in Vietnam. I must say that the attacks against the left have strengthened the left.

In addition, they have again had recourse to supposedly liberal methods, saying that the United States is a free country and that everyone can express himself as long as he is not violent, also that anyone who tries to do something is an extremist. They also accuse the leaders with criminal charges, as in the case of Angela Davis or Bobby Seale, one of the leaders of the Black Panthers, who was jailed with the other leaders, and who was released recently. They try to isolate the leaders of the movement in addition to attempting to frighten the movement.

They also make it necessary to divert forces, since the struggle to liberate the prisoners draw off forces, requires such effort, money, and so on.

Question: What do the American people think of Latin America?

Answer: The American people know very little about Latin America. They have been indoctrinated with false ideas. Many of my leftist friends did not understand why I was coming to Latin America. Only one sector of the left is really aware of what is happening in Latin America. For that reason I think it is very important to coordinate our forces and our movements in order to make more information available concerning what is happening. I think we have much to learn from Latin American experiments such as Popular Unity in Chile, the Broad Front in Uruguay, and the National Assembly of the Argentines. Many people in the United States think Latin America is limited to Bolivia, Cuba, and Mexico. I believe that the meeting in Chile was very important, but I think that more open contacts must be made in order to make better coordination easier.

I did not intend to raise this. Senator Ferry prompted me to bring this question up, and since you are here I might as well ask you about it. You are familiar with the Anderson Papers?

Mr. HILLIS: Yes, sir, but the agency was not using ITT for espionage purposes.

The CHAIRMAN: Gathering of information maybe? Is that a better way to put it?

Mr. HILLIS: Well, I have no doubt in the course of discussions between members of the Embassy and ITT and Anderson and various other companies that information was exchanged back and forth. I have no doubt of that, but this hardly qualifies as espionage.

The CHAIRMAN: I must say it is hard to say what espionage is. Ellsberg, as I understand it, is being prosecuted for espionage, but it is hard for me to see it is espionage, too. It is very difficult. These semantics have become impossible. All I meant was gathering information.

What do you mean by espionage?

Mr. HILLIS: Well, sir, espionage, in the definition that we give to it, is the hiring of an individual to acquire information without anyone knowing that the individual is (a) acquiring the information or (b) what he represents.

FORMER CIA MEN INVOLVED IN WATERGATE INQUIRY

The CHAIRMAN: That reminds me of another matter you might want to clarify and comment on.

It seems that several of the people involved in the bugging of the Watergate were former CIA men.

Mr. HILLIS: Former, yes, sir. They had left the agency, they had left. I have no control over anybody who has left.

The CHAIRMAN: I know you do not. I am just asking you whether it is true that they were former CIA men.

Mr. HILLIS: Yes, sir, Hunt was, and McCord was.

The CHAIRMAN: They were both former CIA. It was clear, I think, in the paper that they were no longer in your employ.

Mr. HILLIS: They had been, both been retired at least 2 years.

The CHAIRMAN: Two years.

CIA AND NATIONAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Finally, in this respect some years ago we heard quite a bit about the CIA and the National Students Association. All of this has been cleared up or has it?

What is the present status?

Mr. HILLIS: It has totally been cleared up, even including the headquarters which have been taken over by them, and it's a matter of time or nothing.

The CHAIRMAN: It is all cleared up?

Mr. HILLIS: Yes, sir.

CIA DISengagement FROM RADIO FREE EUROPE

The CHAIRMAN: You formerly financed, I believe, to a great extent, 80 or 90 percent, Radio Free Europe. Did you not?

Mr. HILLIS: Yes, sir.

JOINT TREATY OF PEACE

BETWEEN

THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

AND THE PEOPLE OF SOUTH VIETNAM AND NORTH VIETNAM

Be it known that the American and Vietnamese people are not enemies. The war is carried out in the names of the people of the United States and South Vietnam but without our consent. It destroys the land and people of Vietnam. It drains America of its resources, its youth and its honor.

We hereby agree to end the war on the following terms, so that both peoples can live under the joy of independence and can devote themselves to building a society based on human equality and respect for the earth.

1. The Americans agree to immediate and total withdrawal from Vietnam and publicly to set the date by which all American forces will be removed.

The Vietnamese pledge that as soon as the U.S. Government publicly sets a date for total withdrawal:

2. They will enter discussions to secure the release of all American prisoners, including those captured while bombing North Vietnam.

3. There will be an immediate cease-fire between U.S. forces and those led by the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.

4. They will enter discussions of the procedures to guarantee the safety of all withdrawing troops.

5. The Americans pledge to end the imposition of Thieu-Ky-Khiem on the people of South Vietnam in order to insure their right to self-determination and so that all political prisoners can be released.

6. The Vietnamese pledge to form a provisional coalition government to organize democratic elections. All parties agree to respect the results of elections in which all South Vietnamese can participate freely without the presence of any foreign troops.

7. The South Vietnamese pledge to enter discussion of procedures to guarantee the safety and political freedom of those South Vietnamese who have collaborated with the U.S. or with the U.S.-supported regime.

8. The Americans and Vietnamese agree to respect the independence, peace and neutrality of Laos and Cambodia in accord with the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conventions and not to interfere in the internal affairs of these two countries.

9. Upon these points of agreement, we pledge to end the war and resolve all other questions in the spirit of self-determination and mutual respect for the independence and political freedom of the people of Vietnam and the United States.

By ratifying the agreement, we pledge to take whatever actions are appropriate to implement the terms of this joint Treaty and to insure its acceptance by the government of the United States.

(Printed by USNSA)

Note: If the President of your national union of students agrees with this treaty, please have him sign it and return to the United States National Student Association.

[redacted] an [redacted] letter dated August 29 from the present USNSA President, Giorgio Tabankin, which indicated that the USNSA is endeavouring to hold an international meeting of youth and student leaders in Washington on October 13 to discuss "the possibility of coordinating student actions around a single date, preferably the beginning of November." This meeting is being held at the start of a nationwide student moratorium against the war in Southeast Asia. Preparations for the meeting, according to the letter, date back to May 1971 when Michel Serac, the President of the Trotskyist Youth Alliance for Socialism (AJS) wing of the French UNEF invited Hishia to meet with European student leaders. It was evident from this meeting that the "concept for a larger gathering of student leaders," to quote Tabankin's letter, emerged. This, in turn, was supported by the 21st National United States Student Congress, in August, which also authorized the UNEF (AJS) representative to Dubrovnik, J.C. Boksenbaum, to present the Tabankin letter of invitation to Washington to the student leaders at Dubrovnik. (Throughout the USNSA letter it is interesting to note the fact that there are two factions of UNEF is not mentioned.) [redacted] said that the idea of the meeting in Washington was very well received in Dubrovnik and he feels that it will be a very important meeting.

Dear Friends:

At this moment South Vietnam Student Union President Huynh Tan Nam and twenty others are on trial for their lives, sitting before the illegal Mobile Military Field Courts of Hue and Ku. These student leaders have been indicted for "treason" and "rebellion." In the past, they have denounced the Saigon regime's repressive and dictatorial actions and the United States government's alliance with Saigon to systematically induce terror and genocide against the populace, and to devastate the land and its resources.

In May of this year, following the American Spring Offensive against the war in Vietnam, David Tishin, then President of the United States National Student Association, was invited by Michel Segre, President of the French Student Union (USF) to meet with European student leaders. From the meeting, the spirit of his kind between American and European student representatives for many years, emerged the concept for a larger gathering of student leaders. This projected meeting was to discuss the issue of the repression of the student union in the hands of the Saigon dictatorship. It was also agreed that the discussion should not only concern itself with the issue of Vietnam and the repression of students, but that it should encompass the broader issue of undertaking internationally co-ordinated student actions for the withdrawal of all American troops from Indochina.

Huynh Tan Nam was consulted on the idea and on August 14, in a communique to the 24th annual United States National Student Conference, he announced his support for USA's efforts in organizing an International Student Conference on behalf of the South Vietnamese student struggle and the general struggle of our people for peace and justice.

On August 27, the Congress adopted a resolution calling for the International Conference. In attendance at the Congress was Rich ...

 The President

 Both representatives supported the concept of an international student union conference.

The resolution declared that the conference be held in Washington D.C. on October 15, the date on which a nation-wide student demonstration against the war is to commence. The Association also suggested that one of the discussions to be undertaken would be of the possibility of co-ordinating student actions around a single date, preferably in the beginning of November. This is the time of the massive anti-war demonstrations planned throught the United States.

We believe that the Dubrovnik seminar is vital in assuring that European student unions play an important role in this conference. To this end we have asked Mr. Gochenham to attend this seminar.

I wish you much success in this seminar and hope to be able to continue to communicate with your unions.

Dear Mr. President:

Please excuse the delay since our last communication. In the past few weeks there has been a "changing of the guard" so to speak. At the 24th National Student Congress, David Ifshin presented the assembled body with a farewell address on his departure as President of the Association. Following the elections of national officers I was chosen to represent over five hundred colleges and universities in the United States.

The congressional delegates also unanimously adopted a resolution calling for an international student union conference, to convene October 13-16 in Washington, D.C. Since Mr. Ifshin's first correspondence, we have received encouraging replies from around the world.

We are convinced that the grave situation in South Vietnam, and in particular, the crisis facing Huynh Tan Mam and the South Vietnam Student Union warrants that student unions respond in solidarity- swiftly and decisively. We believe that a student union conference is one of the best instruments in aiding that kind of response.

We are therefore prepared to organize the conference, but only if every student union is convinced that such an undertaking is worthwhile. Mr. J. C. Boksenbaum from UNEF of France, Mr. Nick Grant from the United Kingdom, Mr. Huynh Tan Mam from South Vietnam and myself are strongly committed to this project; yet we are in total agreement that you should ultimately decide on its necessity.

There have been some suggestions from various student unions that because of the short time, the proposed meeting would merely be a planning meeting for a later larger conference. Other unions have recommended that only those countries that can afford to send a delegate without heavy financial assistance attend. Still others have expressed the opinion that smaller student unions could participate via cables and telegrams. WE would appreciate your responses to these motions.

The probabilities for this conference occurring, however, are based solely upon your responses. It is urgent that you inform us immediately of your intentions, resources, problems and suggestions as we are greatly pressed for time. WE are confident that you will not fail in joining with us to oppose American imperialist adventures and to support Huynh Tan Mam and the courageous leaders of the South Vietnam TUDENT Union in their struggle to end a war of American aggression and to restore peace and independence to their land.

In Solidarity,

Dear Mr. Helms:

I am writing to you about a matter which I am sure is of common concern to both of us--the United States National Student Association, which claims to be a national voice for the students of America. I believe it to be otherwise, as I am sure you do, and desperately need your help in backing up this belief with irrefutable evidence.

The Florida Junior Colleges Student Government Association (FJCSGA), an organization composed of all the junior college student governments in this state, at its October convention considered a resolution (enclosed) written by Palm Beach Junior College, calling for the disapproval of the NSA "for its overtly radical nature." The resolution failed to pass by three votes and was sent to committee for further investigation, with a full report to be given at the Spring Convention in March or April.

We at Palm Beach Junior College are now conducting intensive research to determine the validity of our premises, based on second-hand information provided by STOP-NSA, an anti-NSA group, and from an article in Human Events written by Ron Docksai, now national chairman of Young Americans for Freedom (YAF). ~~One contention, the one concerning the barring of policemen from college, has been practically disproven.~~ ~~Another contention, the one concerning the so-called expansion of non-violent action including civil disobedience, has been validated.~~ Other information has been uncovered, including a 1965 endorsement of the SDS by a letter inviting PBJC to a Southern NSA conference, the backing of the "Third World" movement, and a 1970 resolution condemning, among other things, "capitalism".

I eminently realize the limited amount of your time, concerned as you are with so many matters of great importance. However, I am certain that the stand of the largest organization of college student leaders in Florida on an organization such as the NSA is at least of some concern to you, being one of our most outstanding leaders of American democracy and a firm believer in the establishment of truth and fair representation.

You have, I am sure, at your disposal, at least some information which could contribute to our investigative efforts. Please keep in mind that all of the contentions of the "anti-NSA" resolution lead to affixing the term "radical" to the NSA, and that that is the process the validity of which we are seeking. In addition to any evidence in the form of irrefutable proof and documentation you may be able to provide for us, we would appreciate any personal opinions or comments concerning the NSA that you may have based on your or others' experiences.

Thank you immensely for your time, your interest, and, hopefully, your assistance. Anxiously awaiting your reply, I remain

Sincerely yours,

FLORIDA JUNIOR COLLEGES STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION RESOLUTION 17.
 (Referred to committee October 23, 1970; to be reconsidered March or April, 1971)

RESOLUTION RELATED TO THE DISAPPROVAL OF THE UNITED STATES NATIONAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION BY THE FLORIDA JUNIOR COLLEGES STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Whereas, The United States National Student Association (hereafter referred to as NSA), in its 1967 national convention, called for the "liberation" of all Black people in America "by any means necessary," and that resolution still stands.

Whereas, The NSA has condemned "the aggression of the United States government against the people of Vietnam" in a resolution which still stands.

Whereas, David Ifshin, who was elected President of the NSA unanimously from 17 candidates in its 1970 convention, listed, at that convention, the four major problems of America as "sexism, imperialism, racism, and capitalism" and introduced a resolution (which was defeated by a narrow margin) "to seize Washington, D. C., by force on May 1" if the Vietnam War is not ended by that date.

Whereas, The NSA passed, by a vote of 214 to 50, a resolution at its August 2-19, 1970 convention stating that "if the war is not ended by May 1, 1971, NSA will commit itself to a concerted expansion of massive non-violent action including civil disobedience at the local, regional, and national levels."

Whereas, At their 1970 convention, the NSA passed a resolution recommending that "policemen be forbidden from going to college, regardless of the desires of the policemen or the policies of the individual colleges."

Whereas, Rennie Davis, one of the Chicago 7, received a standing ovation from the 1970 NSA convention after he called for a victory for the National Liberation Front in Vietnam and urged the delegates to join him in "beating down" Nixon.

Whereas, Of the twenty-five resolutions passed by the NSA in its 1970 convention, only three of them dealt with college and university problems.

Whereas, The United States National Student Association, as indicated by the previous clauses, has typified itself as a radical political organization.

Be It Therefore Resolved:

By the Florida Junior Colleges Student Government Association that said body wholly disapproves of the United States National Student Association for its overtly radical political nature.

Be It Further Resolved:

By the Florida Junior Colleges Student Government Association that said body discourages participation by its members in the United States National Student Association because of the radical and nonrepresentative nature of the NSA.

Respectfully Submitted,
 District IV

PRESS RELEASE

U.S. NATIONAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION DELEGATION RETURNS FROM VIETNAM WITH DECLARATION OF PEACE...

This delegation of American students has just returned from Vietnam where we met with leaders representing all students from both North and South Vietnam. As a result of our discussions we have reached agreement on the terms for peace in Vietnam and we have declared that we are not at war.

Two concrete documents have emerged from our discussions with Vietnamese students. The first is a peace declaration by the National Union of Students in South Vietnam outlining the points that are necessary for peace in South Vietnam. This document was nearly confiscated in Vientiane, Laos, when secret police entered Doug Hostetter's hotel room and searched all of his belongings, photographing all documents and pictures. The peace declaration was removed before the police arrived and was consequently saved from confiscation.

The second document is a joint declaration of peace and solidarity, which was signed by all members of the American student delegation, representatives of the Vietnamese National Union of Students from North Vietnam, and the Liberation Students Union from South Vietnam.

Although precise contents of the declaration will not be released until a national youth conference the first weekend in February, we would like to announce now that all parties agreed the most basic preconditions for peace are a commitment to the complete withdrawal of all U.S. forces, and withdrawal of support from the illegitimate Thieu-Ky-Nghiem regime. These conditions must be met before peace, independence, self-determination, and sovereign neutrality can be restored to the people of South Vietnam.

We also agreed with the Vietnamese students that it is clear that Nixon does not intend to negotiate for peace, but is still trying to achieve a military victory. His most recent threats to resume the bombing of North Vietnam can only be seen as an escalation of the war and a continued perpetration of U.S. policies of death and destruction against the Vietnamese people.

Meanwhile, it is becoming clearer that Nixon's vietnamization plan is failing. Only the continued American presence in Vietnam is able to keep Vietnamese fighting Vietnamese and even now Saigon troops are deserting at an ever increasing rate of twelve thousand monthly. New broad-based city coalitions of students, journalists, women, workers, and religious groups are struggling to achieve their demands for immediate and total withdrawal of all U.S. forces and for the overthrow of the repressive Thieu-Ky-Nhiem regime.

General Eisenhower once said that the time will come when people will push aside their government and declare their own peace. Our recent trip to Vietnam was a first attempt in that direction. Other constituencies will be making trips to Vietnam in the future and will make similar peace declarations with their Vietnamese counterparts.

Our declarations from Vietnam will form the basis for a genuine people to people peace treaty, which will be proposed at a national conference of youth in early February. The Treaty will be the focus for an intensified Spring anti-war offensive to culminate in major demonstrations of civil disobedience and non-cooperative resistance across the United States on May 1, 1971.

We consider this first joint press conference end-V between American and Vietnamese people to be a historic event. We consider our collective commitment of peace to be the true reflection of sentiments of all our people and we will be working hard in the coming months to implement these feelings through a true and lasting peace with in Vietnam.

The delegation, composed of fifteen people in all, was organized by the United States National Student Association in response to a mandate issued by the USNSA at its August congress. This mandate stipulated that NSA explore the possibilities of a negotiated "peace treaty" with Vietnamese students. In accord with that mandate, the following delegation was formed:

1. David Ifshin: President of the USNSA and former student body president of Syracuse University.
2. Jay Craven: Student body president of Boston University.
3. Douglas Hostetter: Student at the New School for Social Research (New York City). He has spent three years doing community development work in Central Vietnam; he speaks fluent Vietnamese.
4. Jim Doherty: Student body president of Wheeling College, Wheeling, West Virginia.
5. Terry Cook: Student leader at the University of Washington, Seattle, Washington.
6. Rebecca Wilson: Last year's editor of the University of California student newspaper. (Santa Barbara)
7. Keith Parker: Student body president of Indiana University.
8. Joe Michirallo: Last year's editor of the student newspaper at the University of California. (Berkeley)
9. Mark Rasnick: Student body president of Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

10. Mark Jeffers: Student body president of the University of New Hampshire.
11. Mike Eng: Councilman at the University of Hawaii.
12. Rick Jacobson: Student body president of the University of Minnesota.
13. Tony Roman: Brooklyn College.
14. Ricardo Bertran: Bronx Community College. (Roman and Bertran representing the Puerto Rican Student Union).
15. Ron Eachus: Student Body president of the University of Oregon. (Eugene).

The delegates were chosen to represent a broad geographical distribution and political spectrum. The purpose of the trip was to meet with Vietnamese students of the North and South to discuss a peace proposal from various points of view; the objective was to begin at a low-level developmental stage without specific criteria or proposals. For that reason, the delegation took steps to meet with a broad spectrum of Vietnamese students. All arrangements for the trip were proceeding smoothly until the Saigon regime cabled their Washington embassy and stated that "Under no circumstances is David Ifshin to be issued a visa." From then on, David Ifshin, president of the USNSA, received no cooperation from the South Vietnamese. Other members of the delegation were also blocked from obtaining visas to South Vietnam. (We here note that one of the original student delegates who was denied a visa was a Kent State student, David Chiles; he is also a Vietnam veteran. He was permitted by the Saigon regime to enter South Vietnam and wage war but was not allowed to enter with a "peace" delegation.

One member of the delegation, Doug Hostetter, did manage to get into South Vietnam. For eight days he met with the Vietnam National Student Union in Saigon. After his discussions in Saigon, he travelled to Vientiane, Laos and met with three other delegates. This group of four joined the main body of the delegation in Hanoi for eight days.

There was complete cooperation from the North Vietnamese concerning our trip and discussions with students. Eleven members of our delegation spent two weeks in North Vietnam, and the other four spent eight days in the North.

Subject: Michael F. Eng, Graduate Student at the University of Hawaii Visiting Moscow and Hanoi

1. An activist in the anti-Vietnam war movement at the University of Hawaii since May 1968, Michael F. Eng is presently visiting Hanoi under sponsorship from the National Student Association (NSA). In making this trip, the Subject plans to be joined by about ten student presidents from various US universities.

By way of background, Eng is a conscientious objector who recently completed two years alternative service as an aide at a Honolulu hospital. He received his bachelor degree at the University of Hawaii where he was President of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and was voted outstanding senior. Described as a brilliant student, the Subject plans to visit Moscow first and then travel to Hanoi for a time before returning to Honolulu prior to Christmas 1970. Although the announced purpose of the trip is to investigate the possibility of offering an alternative peace plan to end the war, Eng was unable to predict how his group's peace proposal will differ from those presently under discussion in Paris.

HONOLULU ADVERTISER, Tuesday, Nov. 21, 1970 D-3

Islander will visit Hanoi

A graduate student at the University of Hawaii will go to Hanoi on Sunday to investigate the possibility of offering an alternative peace treaty to end the Vietnam war.

Michael F. Eng, 34, told The Advertiser yesterday he will join at least 10 student presidents from campuses around the nation on the mission to be sponsored by the National Student Association (NSA), which is an association of college student body governments.

ENG SAID HE cannot predict how his group's peace proposals will differ from those now on the Paris bargaining tables. However, he said the group plans to speak with both government officials and student leaders in Hanoi and, possibly, Saigon or Paris.

tion to their plan, Eng said: "I can only say that Hanoi is more amenable than Saigon to us coming in.

ment has sanctioned a one- or two-week stay by the delegation, which is the largest from the U.S. to visit North Vietnam. South Vietnamese officials have not yet approved of their visit.

"This is a chance in a lifetime not only for me as an individual, but also for the nation—if we can offer some alternative to the deadlocked Paris peace talks," Eng said.

"We have to listen to as many viewpoints as possible," he said. "We each have individual opinions, but we're not making any predictions. We want to go with an open mind."

THE GROUP hopes to return to the U.S. before Christmas to write up the alternative proposal, which will be presented to officials in New York or Washington, D.C., Eng said.

The State Department has not yet granted permission for the delegation to enter North Vietnam, but Eng noted, "I hope they realize this is a mission for humanity and will not prevent us from going."

Eng, a Kailua High School graduate, leaves on Thanksgiving Day for an NSA briefing in Washington, D.C. He and part of the delegation will fly to Moscow on Sunday, and then to Hanoi.

The other half will go to Saigon and rejoin the group at Hanoi later.

Asked about Hanoi's reaction to their plan, Eng said: "I can only say that Hanoi is more amenable than Saigon to us coming in.

the trip is to end the killing and violence," he said. "I love my country and want to make the reality of democracy apply at the widest possible level."

"I guess I've been moved by the inability of individuals and groups to influence decisions that affect their entire lives," he said. "This occurs in student government, in local politics and on a national scale," he said, pointing to the Cambodian invasion and Kent State shootings which he said occurred "without consultation of the American people."

Eng received a bachelor's degree in political science from the UH, where he was on the ASUH Senate, president of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and voted outstanding member.

He is a connections objector who recently completed two years' alternative service as an aide at a local hospital.

ENG, who said his family supports his Hanoi mission, said, "In this NSA group, there are no conservatives or liberals. There are no conservative or liberal issues—just the desire to end the war."

"I see student frustration with the war leading to possible violence across the nation," he said. "This trip is an attempt to intervene and end the war as quickly as possible."

UNITED STATES NATIONAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION.

On August 20, 1970, [REDACTED] approximately three hundred and sixty NSA delegates registered for this Congress. There were approximately thirty-five to fifty Negroes attending the opening sessions of the Congress; however, nearly all of the Negroes departed the Congress by August 14, 1970, and nearly half the total delegates appeared to have departed the Congress by August 16, 1970. There were a number of changes in the Congress itinerary, as originally provided. It had been indicated that a telephone message would be recorded and played to the Congress from Eldridge Cleaver, however, no such message was ever played. It had also been indicated that an attempt would be made to have other national representatives from the Black Panther Party (BPP), appear, or at least speak, by recorded message to the Congress, however, no such message was played.

Elected President of NSA for the coming year was David Ifshin, formerly Student Body President at Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York.

1/B

On August 9, 1970, the National Association of Black Students (NABS) were vocal in their demands that NSA fulfill the promise of the 1969 Congress, which promised NABS a cash payment of $50,000. The current Congress agreed that payment of this $50,000 was in order, and delegates were to seek payment of this money upon their return to their respective member schools. At the time this issue was raised, Macalester College promised a $1,000 payment to this fund.

On August 12, 1970, Rennie Davis, not a delegate to this Congress, spoke and urged delegates to participate in a nation-wide teach-in during October, 1970, to be coupled with local teach-ins, in order to come up with local activities designed to demonstrate their opposition to the Vietnamese war. Davis was reported as saying that the next six months would be crucial, and that protestors should make it impossible for any institution supporting the war to function.

H

UNITED STATES NATIONAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION

A [REDACTED] the most controversial issue at this Congress was consideration of a resolution calling for a student "shutdown" of Washington, D. C., on May 1, 1971, in the event the Indo-China war has not been terminated by that date. The plans included proposed massive tie-ups of traffic and, generally, making movement impossible because of congestion.

A [REDACTED] Rennie Davis on August 12, 1970, had spoken in favor of the above resolution, and suggested that the delegates not think about violent marches, but, rather consider lying in the street so that Federal employees could not get to work.

A [REDACTED] the resolution calling for the "shutdown" of Washington, D. C., was defeated; however, the students did pass a resolution relating to using teach-ins and campus action to protest United States military action in Southeast Asia.

[REDACTED] to the Congress and emphasized the difficulty that the Government of the United States was experiencing in attempting to cope with the frustrations of the people through improper imprisonment.

Student Group, Sued for $9,600, Says CIA Should Pay the Debt

THE WASHINGTON POST

The National Student Association, in a move that recalls its one time covert relationship with the Central Intelligence Agency, is trying to force the CIA to pay $9,600 debt for which the NSA is being sued.

In papers filed last week with the D.C. Court of General Sessions, the NSA demands the money to the International Student Conference held in the Netherlands and says that if anyone owes the money it's the CIA.

The student conference, which promotes world understanding among young people, claims that the NSA still owes $9,600 of the $14,812 advanced over the years for NSA-sponsored travel grants and other activities.

NSA, the nation's largest and oldest student organization, was expelled from the international conference in February, 1967, after disclosures that NSA's international activities had been financed for 15 years by the CIA.

The suit, filed in General Sessions where controversies concerning less than $10,000 are handled, said NSA still owes the money "despite numerous requests to pay the outstanding balance on the debt."

In addition to denying it owes the money, NSA cannot deny that such advancement of funds was in fact made by plaintiff, it was made for the sole benefit of... the Central Intelligence Agency." It asked the court to order CIA to reimburse all or part of any judgment against NSA.

No comment was available from the CIA yesterday. One former NSA official noted that if the CIA chooses to defend itself rather than attempt to plead sovereign immunity, the agency may invoke a settlement agreement by which both the CIA and the NSA agreed in 1967 to sever their relationship and renounce all financial obligations.

Leb's Shukheir, president of the Egyptian National Assembly, met King Hassan for 45 minutes yesterday during which they discussed events in the Middle East.

NATED WITH THE AMERICAN NATIONAL STUDENTS ASSOCIATION (NSA) SO THAT THE DEMONSTRATIONS WILL COINCIDE WITH NATIONWIDE DEMONSTRATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES SCHEDULED FOR 30 MAY AND FOR WHICH NSA AND OTHER AMERICAN STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS ARE CURRENTLY PLANNING. THE NSA ASKED THE SSU TO CONDUCT ITS DEMONSTRATIONS BEFORE THOSE IN THE UNITED STATES IN ORDER TO GIVE AMERICAN GROUPS THE ADDITIONAL PROOF THAT THE VIETNAMESE STUDENTS ALSO DEMAND AN END TO THE WAR IN VIETNAM, ALSO WANT GREATER STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS, AND ALSO DEPLORE THE RECENT DEATHS ON AMERICAN CAMPUSES.

2. THE SSU HOPES TO HAVE SIGNIFICANT PARTICIPATION BY THE MEMBERS OF THE SAIGON FEDERATION OF LABOR UNIONS AND BY THE BUDDHIST WOMEN'S ORGANIZATION, LIEN HOA. THE PLANNED ASSEMBLY POINT FOR THE DEMONSTRATION WILL BE AT THE QUACH TRI TRANG SQUARE (LOCATED NEAR THE CENTRAL MARKET), FROM WHERE THE PROCESSION WILL MOVE PAST THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY BUILDING TO THE RESIDENCE OF THE PRIME MINISTER AND THEN BACK TO THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY. THE GROUP WILL STAY AWAY FROM THE PRESIDENTIAL PALACE BECAUSE OF THE SECURITY BARRICADES LOCATED

BECAUSE OF SECURITY PRECAUTIONS THAT WILL UNDOUBTEDLY BE TAKEN

3. THE SSU WILL NOT REQUEST OFFICIAL SANCTION TO HOLD SUMMONED TO REPRESS THEIR ACTIVITIES, THE DEMONSTRATORS WILL DISPERSE INTO SMALL ROVING BANDS AND ATTACK AND SET FIRE TO NUMEROUS GASOLINE STATIONS THROUGHOUT SAIGON. IF THE GOVERN-

WILL BE STAGED EITHER IN FRONT OF THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

THIS AGREEMENT made this 30th day of August, 1967,

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Borrower is indebted to Mortgagee under a certain note dated October 4, 1965 ~~and~~ ^{original} in the principal amount of $70,000.00, which said note is secured by a deed of trust of even date therewith, which said deed of trust is recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds, of the District of Columbia in Liber 12498, folio 597, on Lots 808 and 809, Square 2532, in the District of Columbia, and

WHEREAS, Borrower has sold and conveyed to Purchaser all of the real property described in the said deed of trust, and both Borrower and Purchaser have requested Mortgagee to enter into this agreement, and

WHEREAS, in consideration of the execution of this agreement by Mortgagee, Purchaser is willing to assume the payment of the deed of trust indebtedness due and owing from Borrower to Mortgagee, such assumption having been agreed to by and between Borrower and Purchaser as part consideration for the conveyance as aforesaid of the mortgaged premises by Borrower to Purchaser, and

WHEREAS, Borrower and Purchaser represent to Mortgagee that there is no second mortgage or other subsequent lien now outstanding against the real property described in the aforesaid deed of trust held by Mortgagee, and that the lien of the aforesaid deed of trust held by Mortgagee is a valid, first and subsisting lien on said real property.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the premises and of the mutual agreements herein contained, and upon the express conditions that the lien of the aforesaid deed of trust held by Mortgagee is a valid, first and subsisting lien on said real property and that the execution of this agreement will not impair the lien of said deed of trust and that there is no existing second mortgage or other lien subsequent to the lien of the aforesaid deed of trust held by Mortgagee (for breach of which conditions, or either of them, this agreement shall not take effect and shall be void), it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. That Purchaser hereby covenants, promises and agrees (a) to pay said note at the times, in the manner and in all respects as therein provided, (b) to perform each and all of the covenants, agreements and obligations in said deed of trust to be performed by the grantor therein, at the time, in the manner and in all respects as therein provided, and (c) to be bound by each and all of the terms and provisions of said note and deed of trust as though the said note and deed of trust had originally been made, executed and delivered by Purchaser, this agreement recognizing, however, the reduction if any, of the principal amount of said note and the payment of interest thereon to the extent of payments made by Borrower and/or Purchaser prior to the date of execution of this agreement. The principal outstanding balance on the above mentioned Note is $64,602.44 and interest has been paid thereon through August 4, 1967.

2. That Mortgagee, if it sees fit to take action to enforce the collection of the indebtedness due it, by foreclosure or otherwise, hereby agrees that it will never institute any action, suit, claim or demand, in law or in equity, against Borrower, for or on account of any deficiency; it being the intention and effect of this agreement that insofar as Borrower is concerned, Mortgagee's recovery shall be confined to the value of the mortgaged property.

3. That all of the real property described in said deed of trust shall remain in all respects subject to the lien, charge or encumbrance of said deed of trust, or conveyance of title (if any) effected thereby, and nothing herein contained, and nothing done pursuant hereto, shall affect or be construed to affect the lien, charge or encumbrance of, or warranty of title in, or conveyance effected by said deed of trust, or the priority thereof over other liens, charges, encumbrances or conveyances, or, except as expressly provided herein, to release or affect the liability of any party or parties whatsoever who may now or hereafter be liable under or on account of said note and/or deed of trust; nor shall anything herein contained or done in pursuance hereof affect or be construed to affect any other security or instrument, if any, held by Mortgagee as security for or evidence of the aforesaid indebtedness.

4. That the Borrower hereby waives and relinquishes any and all rights or claims against Mortgagee for any money which may have been deposited or which may be on deposit with Mortgagee for the payment of real estate taxes and assessments, hazard insurance premiums, or F.B.A. mortgage insurance premiums.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, this instrument has been executed by the parties hereto in manner and form sufficient to bind them, as of the day and year first above written.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Executive Director-Comptroller

SUBJECT: National Student Association Properties

1. This memorandum contains recommendations in paragraph 4 for approval by the Executive Director-Comptroller.

2. We are negotiating disposition of the NSA properties with the NSA lawyer and the lawyers for the First National Bank of Washington, which holds title. The bank will arrange for the transfer of title to the NSA, subject to the existing mortgage which the bank will continue to hold. The bank will also arrange for an appraisal, a title guarantee, and necessary recording of documents and will bill us for the amounts involved. There is also a small fee in connection with the termination of the trust agreement under which the bank holds title for the beneficial owner. These expenses will probably be somewhat less than $2,500.

3. If the appraisal indicates the value of the buildings to be considerably in excess of the mortgage, the bank will not require a guarantor on the mortgage. If, however, there is doubt that the sale price of the buildings will cover the mortgage, we have agreed to put a deposit in the bank sufficient to make certain the bank is held harmless. There seems to be little risk of much cost if this deposit is required, and probably all or most of it will be recoverable when the mortgage is paid off or if there were to be a foreclosure. The lawyers for the bank are hopeful they will not have to produce a trust agreement with the beneficial owner in order to get a title guarantee.

5. Each party agrees to take all steps which may be necessary to cause the foregoing to be expeditiously accomplished.

6. The Association's execution of this agreement is subject to its ratification by the Association's National Supervisory Board and National Student Congress.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties have signed this agreement this eleventh day of August 1967.

CIA 'DI. ORCE' COSTLY

Student Group Faces
Cash, Rent Troubles

By the Associated Press

The National Student Association, which huffily divorced the Central Intelligence Agency in February, is having difficulties stemming from the former relationship.

Both sides were embarrassed when the student-CIA tie was disclosed by former NSA officials.

The NSA got brickbats from its members for accepting money from a government agency that spies and influences; the CIA blushed like an undercover agent who drops his badge at a Mafia meeting.

But the student association still has its national headquarters in two expensive interconnected townhouses, and it is paying nothing for them under an agreement with the Independence Foundation of Boston.

The foundation, the NSA president says, is a CIA conduit.

Want to Keep Quarters

W. Eugene Groves, president of the NSA, says the foundation is not trying to collect rent. It simply wants to be rid of its tenant. The students want to keep their headquarters, but they don't want the CIA to pay for it.

"They are in the hot seat and want us out of the building," says Groves. "We had one meeting with the attorney for the CIA. He was rather nasty, using a lot of bluff, threats that we punctured very easily."

What kind of threats?

"One is crying up the Independence Foundation in order that the reason would no longer own the building."

The CIA, being in the security business, won't comment one way or another. But a source familiar with CIA operations says any thoughts of threats would be ridiculous.

"How would it sound if it became known the CIA was trying to push a bunch of college kids out of their building?" he asked.

National Student Association employee Robert Harewood outside Washington townhouse headquarters.

Contributions Listed

The Independence Foundation in the years 1954 through 1956 listed contributions to the NSA of $30,334.52, $33,510.15 and $48,523.69 in its income tax records. Records for later years were not on file at the Foundation library in Washington. Efforts to reach a spokesman for the Independence Foundation were not successful.

Groves says the Independence Foundation and two other foundations now are submitting bills not connected with the rent.

"They have been pressing for payment of things they had not pressed before," Groves says.

In effect, they allowed or encouraged us to get into debt. We were $20,000 to $25,000 over our budget in the last two or three years and now that the story is broken they are trying to pull the strings out."

A spokesman for the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs in New York, one of the groups Groves says is pushing for money, said: "We are not pressuring them. There are a number of projects the association was working on in 1955-56 for which it submitted accounts earlier this year. In a number of cases the NSA underpays so a balance is due the foundation. This is not a CIA front."

3rd Foundation Named

The third foundation named by Groves was the San Jacinto Foundation of Houston, Tex. No spokesman could be reached.

"When we were on good terms, the CIA would pick up the deficits," Groves says. "This year's budget will balance, but we can't make up the deficits of earlier years."

The NSA budget for its work with more than 250 member student governments is $500,000 this year. A subsidiary, Educational Travel, Inc., in New York has a budget of $100,000. The money comes through various grants, including a number from the federal government.

"What we need now is sizable money to buy the building and then we have an asset to borrow on," Groves says. "We need $25,000 so we can pick up the mortgage."

CIA Tries to Oust Student Tenants From Their Rent-Free Headquarters

By Herbert H. Denton

The Central Intelligence Agency, landlord on a "rent-free" basis for the National Student Association over the past two years, is now trying to evict its recently estranged tenants.

W. Eugene Groves, president of NSA, told a reporter yesterday that three CIA consultants which had financed NSA projects until last February, when the NSA-CIA relationship was made public, had in the past month sent the Association bills totalling about $23,000 and dating back "three or four years."

J. Walton Senterfitt and Arthur S. Weisner, NSA staff members, both said that during current negotiations between NSA and the CIA over the building at 2113 S. W. the Agency had expressed its determination to get NSA out.

Threat Reported

They said that Agency representatives had threatened to send people to the NSA Student Congress in August to tell college delegates of the continuing NSA-CIA tie.

Groves would not confirm or deny that the threat had been made. He said that ill-feeling between NSA and CIA pervaded current negotiating sessions and that "feelings" that the CIA wanted to oust NSA from its present quarters had been "transmitted."

The offices were leased to NSA in the fall of 1963 by the Independence Foundation, a CIA conduit, for 15 years, rent free.

They are valued at $120,000, are owned by the First National Bank of Washington, and, according to Groves, were leased to the Independence Foundation.

They consist of two four-story townhouses that were renovated for office use. The two structures, one red brick and the other grey stone, are connected by hallways.

Negotiating For Building

Groves said the Association was currently negotiating with representatives of the CIA either to purchase the building itself or to seek a non-CIA connected foundation that would buy the building and rent it to NSA.

Richard G. Stearns, International Affairs vice-president, indicated that the Association would stick by the present lease arrangement if no acceptable agreement for purchase of the building could be negotiated. "It's an iron-clad lease," he said.

However, Groves said that NSA is "trying to clear the tie of Agency financing of the building."

STUDENTS RESIST DIVISION BY C.I.A.

Group That Got Funds From Agency Pays No Rent

WASHINGTON, June 24—Members of the National Student Association said today that they were resisting efforts by the Central Intelligence Agency to rent the association from its rent-free headquarters here.

The association, the country's largest college student organization, for the last two years has occupied a four-story building at 1115 S Street Northwest under a 15-year rent-free lease with the Independent Foundation of Boston.

The foundation has been identified as one of several that secretly channeled Central Intelligence Agency funds to the National Student Association from the early 1950s through 1960.

Officers of the association purchased the building last February and announced that all ties with the Federal Agency had been ended.

Called Airtight Contract

The association president, William Groves, said that the building for the association was "an airtight contract" with the C.I.A. over the agency's request that the building be vacated.

No said the association rejected the 15-year rent-free lease as a grant made to it under "an airtight legal contract."

"We are not about to give up an asset given to us two years ago," he remarked.

In the negotiations now underway, he reported, the association is exposing the possibility of ownership of the building with a clause table wine. But being transferred either to them for an average red wine I think to some other entity—perhaps it is a happy way to drink."

Town Keeps Tradition Of Ties for Main Office

MAYBE, Mich. (AP)—Maybe made up its mind with the annual ordeal in its election.

In the campaign for president of the village 30 miles south of Detroit, some residents liked Carl Rupp. Others liked John Blum. The vote: Rupp 42, Blum 41.

But that is the way it goes in Maybe.

It was Mr. Blum vs. Mr. Rupp in 1961. Mr. Blum vs. Mr. Rupp in 1962. In fact, it has been Mr. Blum vs. Mr. Rupp for the last seven elections, all nonpartisan, with Mr. Rupp winning by two votes in one year, Mr. Blum by two in another.

In this year's election, Mr. Rupp won by two votes again on the first count, but a recount produced a tie. The winner, Mr. Rupp, got the post by picking the winning slip from a hat.

and free from any conceivable ties with the agency."

A C.I.A. spokesman said the agency had no comment on the matter.

Wine Expert in Australia Toasts 'Red on the Rocks'

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Thomas Hardy, an Australian wine expert, says the favorite drink at his home is "red on the rocks."

"Some wine snobs would say it was inappropriate to drink wine with ice," said Mr. Hardy, president of the Australian Wine and Brandy Producers' Association, to a group of newsmen.

"I wouldn't, of course, do it with a classic table wine. But for an average red wine I think it is a happy way to drink."

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

13
MARCH 29, 1967

Office of the White House Press Secretary

THE WHITE HOUSE

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I have received the report from the committee which I appointed on February 15 to review relationships between the Central Intelligence Agency and private American voluntary organizations. This committee consisted of Under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, as Chairman, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare John Gardner, and CIA Director Richard Helms.

I accept this committee's proposed statement of policy and am directing all agencies of the government to implement it fully.

We will also give serious consideration to the committee's recommendation "that the government should promptly develop and establish a public-private mechanism to provide public funds openly for overseas activities of organizations which are adjudged deserving, in the national interest, of public support." To review concrete ways of accomplishing this objective, I am requesting Secretary Rusk to serve as chairman of a special committee which will include representatives from the Executive, the Congress, and the private community.

1: A NEW POLICY

The years immediately after World War II saw a surge of communist activity in organizations throughout the world. Students, scientists, veterans, women and professional groups were organized into international bodies which spoke in the cadences, advocated the policies, and furthered the interests of the communist bloc. Much of this activity was organized, directed, and financed covertly by communist governments.

American organizations reacted from the first. The young men and women who founded the United States National Student Association, for example, did so precisely to give American youth the capacity to hold their own in the international arena. But the importance of students as a force in international events had yet to become widely understood and NSA found it difficult to attract private support for its international activities. Accordingly, the United States Government, acting through the Central Intelligence Agency, provided support for this overseas work.

We have taken NSA as an example. While no useful purpose would be served by detailing any other CIA programs of assistance to private American voluntary organizations, one fundamental point should be clearly stated: such assistance was given pursuant to National Security Council policies beginning in October, 1951 and with the subsequent concurrence of high-level senior interdepartmental review committees in the last four Administrations. In December, 1960, in a classified report submitted after a year of study, a public-private Presidential Committee on Information Activities Abroad specifically endorsed both overt and covert programs, including those assisted by CIA.

NSA Officers Discussion of CIA on Local Detroit Television News

1. Michael Wood and Edward Schwartz, who appeared on 12 March 1967 on the local Lou Gordon Show on WKBD Television in Detroit. Wood during 1965-66 was director in charge of fund raising for the National Student Association and it was he who provided the information for the News story on CIA. Schwartz is the current vice-president for national affairs of NSA.

2. During the segment which lasted for about 15 minutes, Schwartz denied a story printed by Drew Pearson on 9 March 1967 in which Schwartz is quoted as saying that if NSA blasted CIA the draft deferments of some of its officers would probably be lifted. Wood admitted he is currently subsisting on income derived from giving lectures at various universities on CIA.

3. If there is interest we can provide a tape recording of Gordon's interview with Wood and Schwartz.

General Reaction to the Publicized NSA-CIA Relationship

REF : [REDACTED] Telecom 21 February 67

1. At this point in time the present reaction throughout the State of Washington regarding the alleged National Student Association (NSA)-Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) relationship has not received much local attention. We have reviewed the newspapers throughout Washington, Montana, and Idaho, and most of the articles bear Washington, D.C., headline or are from the various press services. The leading newspapers in the State of Washington have exercised amazing editorial restraint. The Seattle Times (conservative) has not seen fit to comment editorially on subject; The Post Intelligencer (liberal) in a short editorial says that CIA should have not been involved with NSA; the Spokesman-Review, Spokane, (conservative) tends to disregard the issue. The latter paper advocates an investigation of the involvement of "enemy" participation in the subsidization of student groups within the US.

2. The campus newspapers, namely the University of Washington Daily and Washington State Evergreen, have taken their information from the wire services and at this point have not offered any independent opinion. For your information we attach copies of the locally produced news stories regarding subject, and these in my opinion are rather innocuous.

3. The Oregon Journal, published in Portland, has taken CIA to task editorially. The Portland TV Station Channel 5 which was reported to [REDACTED] on 15 February 67. The Oregon Journal has never been very friendly to CIA and has been inclined to be critical of our activities.

1. Current publicity concerning the Agency-NSA matter has not resulted in any local criticism from [redacted] the worst that has been said is, "It is too bad you are getting some bad publicity." We have received some kidding [redacted] but no criticism. Typical of some reactions [redacted] are the following:

a. [redacted]
"The press should be censored insofar as publishing anything concerning CIA. What can we do to help correct?"

b. [redacted]
"You should be left alone to do your job."

c. [redacted]
"I see nothing wrong with the CIA-NSA matter because Communist governments have obviously been active in student groups under their domination."

2. Also, Robert Scher, Report Magazine, in a speech before students of California State College at Los Angeles, on 17 Feb 67:

"The CIA has been a very convenient whipping boy. - - The CIA was not the major culprit. What should be criticized is the major overall policy -- not this secret agency."

3. Local radio stations have in the main been fairly factual in commenting. Public participation programs (telephone calls to program) have reflected questions from the public for information about the Agency and not criticism. Announcers' attitudes have reflected a defense of the Agency and its mission. One commented that it was incredible that the President of NSA would tell everything to the press.

A CATALOGUE AND PARTIAL ANALYSIS OF CURRENT CRITICISM OF THE CIA-NSA RELATIONSHIP

1. The following is a categorization of the various reasons that have been put forward in the press for branding the CIA/NSA relationship "improper," "immoral," "destructive," and etc. The accusations are arranged according to what aspect of the relationship they attack, and a very brief idea of the logic ~~for~~ (?) behind them is given. It is ^{very} important to note that ~~almost~~ ^{many} of the charges are based on the ~~an~~ assumption that CIA "controlled" NSA.

A. CIA "SUEVERTED" NSA:

1. It is charged, usually on the basis of Sam BROU's statements to the press, that CIA took over NSA and used it:

- (a) as an "ARM OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT" which is considered improper since NSA presented itself ~~as~~ both to the world and to its membership as an independent private organization.
- (b) as an "INTELLIGENCE GATHERING UNIT" which is apparently considered immoral because the students used the appeal of their "innocence," "idealism," and independence to worm their way into the confidence of their foreign counterparts.

2. "IMPROPER OPERATIONAL METHODS" were allegedly used by CIA in "controlling" NSA:

- (a) "COERCION": It is charged that CIA used the ^{following} ~~the~~ implied or explicit threats:
 - I. imprisonment for violation of secrecy agreement
 - II. withdrawal of draft deferments
 - III. character assassination
 - IV. surveillance and "bugging"
 - V. ~~expulsion~~ ^{ruining} of careers within the "Establishment."
- (b) "BRIBERY": CIA is charged with:
 - I. paying willing people salary supplements to assure their cooperation.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

262

II. procuring draft deferments for witting people

III. opening the way for high-level government careers in return for "selling out" their constituency.

(c) "INFILTRATION": Two charges can be placed here:

I. that it was improper for CIA and NSA leaders to cooperate while the mass of the constituency was kept in the dark.

II. that CIA INFLUENCED THE SIGNIFICANT POLICIES OF NSA
(A Wash. Post article refers to CIA officers being "assigned" this duty.) thus interfering in domestic affairs.

B. "SECRET RELATIONSHIPS WITH THE GOVERNMENT ARE IMMORAL"

1. It is charged that it is immoral for an official of a private organization with a democratic base to enter into a secret relationship with the government. To do this is to violate the trust of the membership and to ~~grossly~~ compromise gravely the independence of the organization. It is "anti-democratic" since the leadership is ignoring the people it is responsible to.
2. It is charged that it is immoral for the government to become involved in controlling or heavily influencing private groups without letting the public know it is doing so. When this happens, members of the group, or consumers of the product (in radio or publishing, for example) are being deceived as to the true nature of what they are paying for or participating in. This is held to be particularly true in the propagating of ideas (policy of org.s, publishing, etc.) since unless openness is required, the government is authorized to use black propaganda against its own people.

C. "SECRET RELATIONSHIPS ENDANGER A FREE SOCIETY"

Secret

1. It is charged that ~~CIA~~ ~~secretly~~ subsidizing of private organizations endangers the openness of American society. The reasoning is that democracy requires that independent voluntary organizations propagate conflicting views and provide the necessary counterbalance to the power of the State. It is assumed that CIA would not subsidize these groups unless it received in return some influence over their policy, and thus the subsidies jeopardize the interplay of free institutions.

2. It is charged that even granting that the subsidies were effective from a Cold War viewpoint, and that nothing was actually done by CIA to endanger free institutions, the precedent of government secret interference with domestic organizations is appallingly dangerous. It is charged that a government with the will to suppress dissent and create a "totalitarian" society could and would use exactly the same means employed by CIA in this case. Thus there should be an absolute prohibition on this kind of activity.
3. The academic community is up in arms because of the revelation of subsidies to a group (NSA) which is assumed to have some kind of academic character. It is charged that CIA is perverting the process of the search for truth by using student and cultural organizations for political ends. The reasoning is that students are, by definition, engaged in the search for truth. NSA is a student organization and so must also be primarily engaged in the search. CIA has been using NSA in pursuit of power, influence, and intelligence, all three of which often conflict with pursuit of pure knowledge. Thus CIA's activities are an attack on academic freedom and the integrity of American scholars.

EX

D. "CIA CAUGHT NSA LEADERS IN AN ETHICAL TRAP"

1. CIA and NSA leaders who cooperated with CIA are accused of adopting "totalitarian means to fight totalitarianism," and thus of having embraced the idea that the "ends justify the means." It is charged that the American and international organizations which were subsidized by CIA were inherently similar to the communist organizations they sought to combat, since both were secretly controlled and subsidized by ~~xxx~~ governments bent on influencing the masses of students and youth. CIA and its collaborators were engaging in exactly the same manipulation, deception and control which they condemn in the East, and therefore, it is argued, what they have done against communism is no better than communism itself.
2. NSA leaders were placed by CIA in an agonizing position from which there was no escape. On the one hand, they were bound by an oath of secrecy and told that what they were doing was in the highest national interest. On the other, they were asked to do things which were ~~despicable~~ "despicable and immoral." Thus they were caught between the "dishonorable" and "unpatriotic" alternative of denouncing the CIA's interference, and the equally immoral one of collaborating. (The various intermediate alternatives are simply ignored in this argument.)
3. It is charged (especially by Ramparts) that the liberal idealism of young student leaders was cynically manipulated by CIA operatives who told the students that what they were doing would contribute to "internationalism" at home and abroad. They were allowed to carry out their liberal and pro-nationalist activities because the CIA wished to gain access to and influence over these groups to further the larger "reactionary" aims of US foreign policy. Thus the student leaders were "dupes" of the "Establishment," which used their best quality-- ~~liberal~~ idealism-- in the service of sordid government ambitions.

KI

E. "CIA HAS DONE IRREPARABLE DAMAGE TO AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS"

1. It is charged that the pall of doubt cast on all private voluntary organizations (including the National Council of Churches, etc.) by the revelation of covert CIA subsidies has gravely endangered the quality of American life. Since all domestic institutions are in doubt, a crisis of confidence in the American way must inevitably occur.

It is charged that

2. /The work of American organizations and individuals abroad has been seriously compromised. Both the good (non-subsidized) and the bad are now suspect, and Americans will no longer have free access to the confidence of foreigners. The good work of American private organizations in giving a balanced, independent image of the United States has been destroyed. Americans, students and professors especially, will no longer be regarded as "innocents abroad."

F. "IT SHOULD NEVER HAVE BEEN ALLOWED TO HAPPEN IN THE FIRST PLACE"

- I. It is very often argued that private organizations operating abroad should have received public subsidies, since they were fighting communism. It is argued that the immorality and disastrous consequences of secret subsidies could have been avoided by having Congress publicly allocate support. Some arguments recognize that it would have been difficult to persuade Congress to vote ~~for~~ for this purpose, money, and that the political leanings of many of the groups involved were far too left to be acceptable to Congress. These critics argue that the problem should have been met head on, and that the failure to do so has resulted in "addiction" to covert action and blindness to the moral issues.

2. It is argued that if secret subsidies were to be given, they should have gone through some other arm of the government. It is argued that the CIA is so enmeshed in the more violent and questionable aspects of the Cold War, and is so much the universal scapegoat abroad, that revelation of its role with private groups was bound to do immeasurable damage to everyone concerned. Alternative government agencies with the capacity for covert funding are not usually mentioned.
3. It is often argued that however justifiable the covert funding of private organizations may have been at the height of the Cold War, such subsidies should have been terminated "long ago." The reasoning here is that covert action was justified in a bipolar world in which the Soviet Union's international front activities posed a major danger to the Free World. Since the Bloc has split, and a large number of different ideologies and nationalisms are struggling for influence over the uncommitted, covert subsidies have become unnecessary. The inference is that it was the immediate danger to national security which justified ~~Strong~~ a presence abroad of private voluntary organizations.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

VIA: Deputy Director for Plans

SUBJECT: Decision by Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey to address the U. S. National Student Association's National Student Congress and the possibility of an address by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

1. This memorandum is for your information only.

2. Background.

a. The U. S. National Student Association (USNSA), a confederation of over 350 university and college student governments, engages in an extensive international program which is in large part financed by CIA.

b. USNSA was organized in the immediate post-war years by students who believed that the American student community should be represented in the international youth and student organizations then coming into being. Since 1950 USNSA has been a prime moving force in the International Student Conference, an anti-communist organization organized to counteract the communist-dominated International Union of Students.

B [REDACTED] the international program of USNSA has been [REDACTED] financed by CIA since 1952. [REDACTED] has enabled USNSA to engage in a variety of politically productive programs [REDACTED]

d. Establishing its viability as an organization quite apart from Agency support of its international programming, USNSA has become an influential voice in American higher education circles. Congress, and governmental agencies on matters of student interest. This growth of influence domestically has been achieved by USNSA's unique role as the only non-partisan, representative vehicle available to American students and by the efforts USNSA has made through the years to inject important educational content into the extra-curricular activities available on its member campuses.

3. Eighteenth National Student Congress.

a. The policy and programs of USNSA, on both domestic and international questions, are established by the National Student Congress which meets every summer during the latter part of August. Each member school is entitled to send representatives to this meeting; the exact number of delegates being determined by the size of a given institution's student body. In recent years over one-thousand student leaders have attended the Congress, and its related conferences.

b. The next National Student Congress of USNSA will be held at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Wisconsin, from 22 August to 2 September. Because of the democratic structure of these proceedings and of USNSA itself, CIA exercises no direct control over the Congress's deliberations and decisions. The student leaders who will participate in this event are representative of the American student community and will, therefore, include a limited number of people belonging politically to the extremes of American political life. Delegates belonging to the political left will undoubtedly raise United States policy in Vietnam as an issue and assert that USNSA should adopt a resolution highly critical of American policy there. The principal opposition to United States policy in Vietnam has, of course, come from the campus and those critical of the President's policy will definitely express themselves at the Congress. This question will not occupy the main attention of the Congress delegates; but because of the recent occurrence of teach-ins and other manifestations of dissent the issue may be emotionally charged and could be politically delicate.

c. As a result of the attention United States policy in Vietnam will receive at the USNSA Congress, both the White House and the Department of State are evincing more than their traditional interest in having leading government officials address the meeting. In particular, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has already accepted an invitation to address the Congress. If current plans are not changed, the Vice President will speak to the Congress on 23 August.

A [REDACTED]

4. We believe that either the President or Vice President would receive a courteous response from the USNSA delegates. However, it is realistic to expect that those disagreeing with United States policy in Vietnam will address themselves to this question if the President or Vice President comments on the Vietnam situation. On balance, we feel that an address by the President or Vice President presents an unusual opportunity to reach a critical audience of opinion-makers in most of the major university centers in the country.

This decision was made by the USNSA staff without any attempt to solicit legal advice on the merits of this venture. The financial results of the USNSA Book Cooperative quickly proved disastrous, and it became imperative for USNSA to employ legal counsel to try to minimize its losses.

Dear Mr. Brychkov:

We are in receipt of your letter of 13 March 1965 pertaining to the publication of the correspondence between our two organizations in the Information Bulletin of the International Student Conference (November 1964).

We fully recognize the validity of your objections to the publication of your correspondence without receiving prior permission from your organization. We also recognize that any editing of such correspondence was completely unjustified. USNSA would like to express its sincere apologies in this matter and accepts full responsibility for the action.

We would, however, like to offer an explanation for what has occurred. Copies of the correspondence between our two organizations were sent to our representative in Paris and to the American members of the Secretariat of the ISC so that they might be fully apprized of the latest developments in the relations between our two organizations. Apparently, they assumed that they were authorized to publish the material. Since we sent them the copies we do, of course, accept the ultimate responsibility for such action. We are in the process of contacting them to clarify this matter.

As you requested, we are sending copies of letters received by USNSA dated August 24th and December 28th, as well as copies of our letters of September 24th, November 16, and March 2 to the ISC. We shall request the ISC to publish all of the letters in unedited form and draw attention to the fact that discrepancies existed in the material previously published.

We are concerned, however, about the last paragraph in your letter of 13 March. We do not believe that it is either courteous or fruitful to issue threats when actions have been taken which one of our organizations feels has been unfair. Clearly the first step is to

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the United States National Student Association I wish to extend our greetings from the 17th National Student Congress, held in Minneapolis, Minnesota from August 17th through 27th, 1964.

The 17th Congress was the most representative gathering of American students this year, with almost 1000 delegates and observers from colleges and universities all over the United States. In the near future USNSA will issue a publication which describes the activity at the Congress and lists the major resolutions which were passed there.

During the Congress it was our pleasure to host your representative Mr. Andrei Grachev. He was enthusiastically received, I know, by a number of American students, and you can be assured that he was a most capable and effective representative during the Congress.

In conclusion, let me extend our cordial greetings and continued best wishes for the success of your organization during the coming year.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Kharlamov:

We have received your letter in response to our proposal for a joint statement supporting the recent test ban treaty. We are pleased that you share with us a deep and abiding concern that students should support this epoch-marking initiative.

Your suggestion that the statement be arranged at the Florence Conference for Peace, Disarmament & National Independence is an interesting one, to which we have given much careful attention. We, of course, will always support any sincere undertaking which will encourage the world to live in peace, and any steps taken by students to further this aim will receive our whole-hearted backing.

However, we feel that because of the nature of the Florence Conference and the ways in which it has been organized, USNSA cannot, in true faith to its principles, attend. While it is a noble idea for youth and students from throughout the world to come together honestly and in earnest to discuss ways to further peace and disarmament, we feel that the forum for such an undertaking must provide the maximum opportunity for fruitful discussion. A meaningful conference on peace and disarmament must necessarily avoid stratagems and tactics designed to push forward one point of view to the exclusion of others. We feel that the Florence Conference does not avoid these hindrances to true understanding, and we therefore cannot attend.

Your contention that a joint statement by the student organizations of the USA and the USSR would have an important effect on delegates to the Conference perhaps has some merit. Therefore, we are all the more disappointed that you could not sign the statement we sent to you before the Conference. In the future, doubtless, there will be a greater willingness to cooperate constructively.

COOPERS & LYONS
IN AHEAD OF THE WORLD
OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES

We have examined the financial statements of United States National Student Association, Foreign Students Leadership Project for the year ended September 30, 1962. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, subject to the realization of certain assets totaling $32,444.67 which is dependent upon the future receipt of grants in the approximate aggregate equivalent amount, as explained in the note to the balance sheet, the accompanying statements (pages 2 and 3) present fairly the assets and liabilities of United States National Student Association, Foreign Students Leadership Project, at September 30, 1962 and its income and expenses for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The supplemental statements (pages 4 to 6, inclusive), although not considered necessary for a fair presentation of the Project's assets and liabilities and its income and expenses, are presented in this report primarily for supplemental analysis purposes. They have been examined by us in conjunction with our examination of the basic financial statements and are, in our opinion, fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

THE FOREIGN STUDENT LEADERSHIP PROJECT

The Foreign Student Leadership Project (FSLP) is designed as an educational experience for American and foreign student leaders. Sponsored by the United States National Student Association (USNSA), the FSLP aims at introducing a new dimension in international student relations by bringing American students into close contact with a group of representative foreign students, who have had previous leadership experience in student activities and organization. The overseas guest, selected to participate in the Project is awarded a scholarship to live and study for one year at a prominent American college or university. In this way, he becomes an informal interpreter of his native country for his American counterparts and provides an insight into his own environment and culture. Through academic studies and particularly through responsibility in planning and organizing student activities, the FSLP participant can share his aims and hopes with his fellow American students as well as learn about theirs.

The American student, in order to prepare himself for an intelligent understanding of his role in world affairs, must learn about the challenges to students in the rapidly progressing countries of Asia, Africa, the Middle East, and Latin America and understand the problems with which these young people and their leaders are concerned. It is recognized that students in these countries are deeply involved in the vital tasks and responsibilities of developing their nations along lines of political independence and economic and social democracy. Because they see poverty, illiteracy, and the need for social and economic development in their country, these student leaders develop a sense of dedication to the cause of their nation's welfare. They believe that students and their organizations can play a significant role in removing the seeds of injustice and of helping to raise the stand-

Historically concerned with student self-government, the USNSA shares the keen interest of these young leaders from abroad and appreciates their involvement in the destiny of their country even while they are university students. The American student can broaden his educational background by working with outstanding foreign student leaders in student organizations and in the classroom, by living together on the college campus, and by informally exchanging ideas and viewpoints.

FSLP offers the foreign student participants an opportunity to pursue academic work using the advanced resources available on American college and university campuses (although they will not be able to qualify for degrees). The universities which they will attend have been selected because of the effectiveness of their student government organizations and their foreign student programs. The international guests can obtain experience in planning and administering different aspects of student activities in varying fields of interest. Such experience should prove a practical tool to the student leader when he returns to his own country and works with fellow students or countrymen in seeking their best means of self-expression in political, social, economic, and cultural activity.

QUALIFICATIONS

1. Male or female students may apply.
2. Students of all academic fields may apply although preference will be given to those not studying medicine, architecture, veterinary, dentistry and other highly technical fields.
3. Applicants should have preferably two years of university education ahead of them.
4. Applicants should not be too old to associate with American student leaders of ages 18-22. The Project administrators realize that students in countries from which participants come are often older than corresponding American students; however, fairly young applicants are usually given preference.
5. Applicants should have experience with student activities in their own university and/or in the national union of students.
6. Applicants should have the confidence and respect of their fellow students in their home university and country.
7. Applicants must be able to certify that their university regards them as students in good standing and should have above average academic records in their university and intermediate school years.
8. Applicants should be familiar with their country's history, culture, and traditions as well as the contemporary social, economic, and political scene.
9. Applicants should be of sound character; i.e., possess maturity and adaptability to adjust to a new culture, be poised in meeting people, and have a balanced temperament and an objective approach to different ideas and opinions.
10. Applicants should be in good physical health.
11. Applicants must have some knowledge of English, preferably enough to converse easily. If not, he should have sufficient proven language ability to learn English in a short, intensive language training course, and should be willing to arrive in the United States about July 1 to take such a course.
12. Each applicant must state his understanding:
 - a. that he is willing to cooperate in the achievement of the purposes of the Project.
 - b. that the aims of the Project are not primarily academic; that he will not be a candidate for a degree in an American educational institution and that any academic credit he wishes for this year will have to be through an arrangement with his own university.
 - c. that an applicant will accept a scholarship at the college or university to which the Committee of Advisors assigns him.
 - d. that each participant will return after one year to his own university to resume his studies and student activities.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE

1. Application forms may be secured by writing directly to The Director, FSLP, USNSA, 3457 Chestnut St., Philadelphia 4, Pa. or from most national unions of students.
2. Application forms must be completed IN FULL with all supporting documents before a candidate may be considered.
3. An correspondence should be AIR MAIL. Otherwise, a delay of three months is likely to occur and the applicant may lose the possibility of being considered.
4. Applications MUST ARRIVE in the Director's office on or before February 28. An extension of the deadline may be secured by writing to the Director.
5. Applicants will be immediately notified when their applications have been received, and they will be notified of action taken on their applications as soon as possible, generally in late April or early May.
6. Some applicants accepted to the program may be requested to submit application for a travel grant to one of several private foundations or to the local United States Educational Foundation. A notice to applicants will specify exactly to whom application is to be made in his country.
7. After formal notification of acceptance, and after notification of award of a travel grant, students should make immediate application for a United States visa. All United States consulates concerned have been notified of the Foreign Student Leadership Project and the Program number (F-11-2174) which has been given for purposes of facilitating visa arrangements.

FINANCES

All expenses of FSLP participants, including travel to and from the United States, will be met by the Project. Principal financial sources are a Ford Foundation grant (awarded to USNSA in August, 1955, and renewed for a four-year period in September, 1958), as well as partial or full scholarships contributed by the participating institutions. Private foundations and individuals make additional aid available. Spending money allowances generally do not exceed $50.00 per month, so that students should bring money for souvenirs, clothing or other special purchases.

Since the climate in northern United States is frequently harsher than that from which participants come, participants should procure appropriate winter clothing. The project cannot provide funds for such purposes.

Sponsorship of participants by the project terminates on June 30 following the termination of the academic year.

ADMINISTRATION

The Project is administered by the USNSA in cooperation with its sister national unions of students abroad and a number of leading American educational institutions. Approximately fifteen to twenty students are accepted annually. Supervision is in the hands of the Project Director with the assistance of the USNSA national staff and the advice and recommendation of the Committee of Advisors, a specially selected group of educators and authorities on student exchange. Final approval of recommended actions is the responsibility of the USNSA.

In general, candidates apply through their respective national unions of students. Applications and recommendations of the national unions of students are sent to USNSA which refers them to the Committee of Advisors, who assist in the selection of the most qualified candidates and in the assignment of each student to a suitable college or university. Participating institutions are selected by FSLP on the basis of interest, academic and extra-curricular resources, and somewhat on the extent of offered scholarship assistance. Final placement of an FSLP candidate on a college campus is made by the recommended institution.

SUMMER PROGRAM

The students arrive in the United States about August 1 (or mid-June if an intensive English language course is necessary) and travel to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (site of the University of Pennsylvania and the USNSA National Office) for an informal orientation seminar where FSLP students will exchange views on American education, culture, and political and economic problems. Sight-seeing tours, theater and concert programs are arranged for the student guests, who are also given free time for exploration. Project participants will have frequent discussions with USNSA members who will be in session at this time for the International Student Relations Seminar.

After the seminar, the students leave for the National Student Congress, the annual policy-making session of the USNSA, which is held each year at a midwestern college or university for ten days. At the Congress, which is the most representative student meeting held in the United States, FSLP students can observe the debates on issues of concern to American students. More than 1000 delegates, representing over 1,000,000 students in more than 400 colleges and universities across the nation, meet in an informal setting to formulate resolutions that express the opinions of the American student community. They also elect the national officers of USNSA, who will carry out these policy decisions during the coming school year.

International visitors have the opportunity to meet student leaders from many colleges and universities in the United States and other parts of the world and are introduced to the student representatives of the school to which each has been assigned. Individual tours and visits with American families and communities are arranged for FSLP students from the end of the conference until the school year begins. All of this gives the students a chance to become acquainted with America and Americans before undertaking a more formal study tour.

CAMPUS PROGRAM

Once at his college or university, the FSLP student begins the most significant part of his experience. Shortly after his arrival, the student will meet frequently with a special committee composed of student leaders, faculty, and administrative officers, who will help him to plan his program for the year. He can choose from a wide variety of academic courses—lectures, seminars, discussion groups—in a wide variety of fields. He may enroll, for example, in one or two courses in his major area of study, courses in history and the humanities, and American culture and institutions. However, the FSLP student is responsible for fewer than normal course requirements so that he may devote more time to extra-curricular activities. The student is required, however, to fulfill all the requirements for the courses that he does take, and to maintain good grades. Since the Project participant usually is registered as a special student, he is solely responsible for making arrangements with his home institution if he desires to receive academic credit for his studies in the United States. Participants are not candidates for American degrees and the chances of their receiving degrees during their one year stay in the United States are extremely slight.

A very important part of the international student's role is outside of the classroom. He may join organizations whose work is of particular interest to him and assume responsibility for organizing and administering their programs. He may have a seat on the student council and its committees where he can take part in its deliberations and projects. He may become involved in the work of his campus newspaper, writing articles of student concern and reporting on important university events. Or he may work on programs of a cultural or debating organization, taking charge of speeches and panel discussions. The FSLP students can gain further practical experience by working in college cooperatives, student unions, book exchanges, and other aids to student self-help.

The student's living quarters on campus are arranged by the university. In some universities he has permanent dormitory headquarters with occasional visits to fraternity houses and cooperatives; in others he is the guest of the fraternity house for the entire season. At every university, however, he is given the chance to observe every kind of group living practiced on that campus.

During vacations, the student can experience a totally different situation by joining an American family in a different area of the country and discovering the symbols and traditions surrounding the celebration of religious and patriotic holidays, and enjoying the general festivity.

Participants and representatives of American colleges meet during the mid-winter vacation to assess progress of the Project to date, to share their experiences, and to make suggestions for the improvement of the Project.

EVALUATION

At the end of the final semester, the student leaves his campus to attend a final conference held for all members of the Project before they leave the United States. At the conference, the FSLP students gather to evaluate their year's experiences and make criticisms and suggestions for their colleagues in the following years.

Participants may, with the approval of the project director, remain in the United States after June 30 if they are to be involved in a program that is consistent with the purposes and objectives of the project, but the Project cannot provide funds after June 30. Under no circumstances are participants to remain in the United States beyond the end of the summer.

PROSPECTUS ①

LEADERSHIP SEMINAR FOR STUDENTS OF THE DOMINICAN REPUBLICSECTION I -REQUEST

The United States National Student Association respectfully requests a grant in the amount of One Thousand and Eight Dollars and Eighty Cents ($1,008.80) for the support of a Leadership Seminar for Student Leaders of the Dominican Republic.

SECTION II -PURPOSE

During the period of the Trujillo government, democratic student forces in the Dominican Republic found it impossible to function due to government suppression. With the fall of Trujillo, these groups found themselves in a position to operate openly and to exercise the necessary functions of student leadership.

It is unfortunate that due to the long period of suppression, the experience of student leaders is severely limited. Recognizing this, the United States National Student Association undertook negotiations with student leaders of Venezuela, and a seminar has been arranged which will provide necessary leadership training to a group of four student leaders of the Dominican Republic.

It is hoped that the seminar will provide the students with sophistication at both the theoretical and technical planes which will be applied to student programs within the Dominican Republic. We believe that the experience resulting from the seminar will have immediate effects upon the quantity and quality of student programs. It should also prepare the students for their dealings internationally with other student organizations.

SECTION III -PERIOD

The Program will begin with attendance at the World Christian Democratic Youth Congress which begins in Caracas on May 7, 1962 and will end on May 29, 1962.

MEMORANDUM

ADDITIONAL REPRESENTATION IN LATIN AMERICA

BEST COPY

Section I - Request

The United States National Student Association (USNSA) respectfully requests a grant from the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs in the amount of six thousand two hundred dollars ($6,200) for the purpose of increasing its present communication and cooperation with national unions of students and youth organizations in Latin America.

Section II - Purpose

USNSA has, for a number of years, maintained a staff member, the Assistant for Latin American Affairs, whose task is solely the promotion of understanding and brotherhood between the students of the United States and the students of Latin America. It has often been found that one person is not sufficient to fulfill this very large function. A recent increase in the activity of student groups of both democratic and non-democratic nature has multiplied this problem. A view of current events in Latin America reveals the large number of which students in youth groups have been the initiators and/or the sustainers of activities which have great national and international importance. With this in mind, it has been found necessary to take on a second staff person for Latin American affairs.

One of the major goals of the Association, as stated in the preamble of our constitution is "to promote international understanding and fellowship." In having USNSA representatives communicating with the youth and student groups in Latin America and working in the countries of Latin America, we are able to establish personal contacts that are important to the close relationships which we wish to have with our sister national unions of students.

Section III - Program

USNSA is continually invited to attend as observers at many meetings of Latin American student and youth groups because of the close relationships that have always existed between our organization and the organizations of Latin America. One of the purposes this grant will serve is to make funds available to attend the various meetings to which we are invited. They will also be used for the purpose of enabling our representative to visit the university centers of Latin America at times other than when student functions are being held. This enables our representatives to better understand actual situations and allows sufficient time for the development of bilateral cooperation between USNSA and other organizations.

Through our representatives to the countries of Latin America, we are able to provide USNSA copuses with first-hand information pertaining to the problems of higher education and the needs of each student community. Documentation, coming from representatives, has proved also to be very helpful to participants in the International Student Relations Seminar sponsored annually by USNSA. The entire service that the International Commission provides to the constituents of USNSA is greatly enhanced by material forwarded to us by our representatives.

APPROVED FOR RELEASE
Date 12 OCT 1982

Another area in which we have been able to utilize our representatives is that of selection of participants for the Foreign Student Leadership Project. Each year there are 150 to 200 applicants for this Project, of which only 15 to 20 are selected to participate. In the past, the persons who have been contacted by our representatives have been far superior to those who have come without interviews prior to selection. The Foreign Student Leadership Project is one of the major projects of USNSA, and because of this we feel that personal contacts and interviews for the Project are very important.

The Tenth International Student Conference will be held during the Summer of 1962. We feel that it is highly essential that prior to the Tenth ISC the Association has a full understanding of student and youth situations in Latin America and has, as much as possible, established a personal relationship with those organizations which will be sending representatives.

Section IV - Personnel

The additional Assistant for Latin American Affairs is Mr. Robert Aragon. Mr. Aragon will be working in cooperation with Mr. Joseph Love who has been our Assistant for Latin American Affairs since September, 1961.

Mr. Aragon is a graduate of the University of California, Los Angeles. He participated in the Seventh International Student Relations Seminar (1959) and held the position of Assistant for Latin American Affairs from September, 1959 to December, 1959. In December, 1959 he was obliged by the draft to resign his position and serve in the United States Army. He served in the Army from 1959 to 1961. In September, 1961 Mr. Aragon undertook the study of law at Loyola University until coming to work for the Association in January of 1962. He speaks fluent Spanish. In order for Mr. Aragon to serve in this position, it is necessary for the Association to provide a salary, which has been included in this Prospectus.

Section V - Period of Grant

The funds requested in this Prospectus will be used to offset expenses incurred between January 1, 1962 and September 30, 1962.

Section VI - Tax-Exempt Status

USNSA has been granted tax-exempt status as a non-profit, educational organization under the appropriate sections of the Internal Revenue Code.

MEMORANDUM FOR: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT: Right-wing Attacks against the United States National Student Association

Historical Background.

1. Since the United States National Student Association (USNSA) was founded and established itself as a permanent entity in the American educational scene, it has become the object of attacks from organizations and individuals with political positions of right-wing tendency. In its early days USNSA formulated a strong and unequivocal position on the issue of civil rights and was attacked by segregationist institutions like the White Citizens Councils and by Southern student leaders of segregationist persuasion. A number of Southern educational institutions disaffiliated from USNSA because of its position on civil rights. Particularly when USNSA gave its wholehearted support to the Supreme Court decision of 1954.

2. Fraternities and sororities launched a strong attack against USNSA when the latter adopted a basic policy declaration entitled "Model Educational Practices Standards" (MEPS) which included a statement that called for deleting discriminatory clauses from fraternity and sorority constitutions. MEPS also supported the policy adopted by several Northern institutions calling for a fixed date by which time the national fraternities would have to remove their discriminatory clauses or face expulsion of their local chapters from the campus. The fraternity and sorority campaign against USNSA was launched on the platforms of their national conventions, in their magazines, and in the directives set forth by national fraternity and sorority officers to guide their local chapters. Particularly active was the National Pan-Hellenic Council, whose officers persuaded sorority officials to carry on the anti-USNSA campaign and who consistently refused ever to meet with USNSA officials to discuss the program and policies of the Association. The fraternity and sorority campaign had maximum effect on those campuses which contained a large number of fraternities and sororities.

3. In the McCarthy era, an organization called Students for America devoted a great amount of time to attacking USNSA and to persuading USNSA member schools to disaffiliate themselves from the organization. They charged that USNSA was controlled by leftists and liberals, was soft on communism, and adopted much of the "communist line" in its resolutions. Students for America was well-financed and carried its message through a series of journals and speakers who traveled to campuses throughout the country. Students for America was largely unsuccessful in persuading USNSA member schools to disaffiliate.

4. Historically the right-wing attacks against USNSA have been largely ineffective. At least, several schools have been persuaded to disaffiliate and others induced not to join. The right-wing attacks have been a minor irritation to USNSA officials but have assumed a low priority on the list of problems facing the Association.

Current Conservative Activity.

5. In the past two or three years conservative activity has increased substantially. The public has been alerted to the existence of the John Birch Society supported by a number of prominent named citizens. Barry Goldwater has risen into a position of prominence in the Republican Party and has gained enthusiastic support in the business community and among conservative students. Goldwater has become the thunder head of the American conservative movement and the rallying point for conservative-minded individuals. Spurred on by Goldwater, new conservative journals have sprung up, conservative organizations have been founded, and a nation-wide effort has been made to gain adherents to the cause of Conservatism.

6. There are many explanations for the increase in conservative activity. The primary reason, I suspect, is the fear among the American public of the communist threat--externally from Soviet Russia and internally through agents of the Communist Party of the U.S.--and the seeming inability of the American public to cope with these dangers. The conservative philosophy offers complete answers to these complex problems. They suggest a series of past solutions to problems which fail to meet the test of realistic applicability to the modern world but which are simple and easily understood. Among segments of the American public which have difficulty understanding domestic economic, or international political questions, conservative solutions have a great deal of resonance.

7. College students have recently been made the object of a great deal of attention by the leaders of the conservative movement. Senator Goldwater has traveled to several hundreds of universities and colleges during the last three years addressing student audiences and urging them to join in the "conservative revival." It is estimated that Goldwater speaks to at least one student audience each week. The conservatives have established several new journals strictly designed for propagandizing among college students and have utilized traditionally conservarious publications to direct their attention toward the college student audience. Even longtime columnists such as David Lawrence, George Scholten, and Fulton Lewis, Jr., have devoted their columns to college student issues.

8. In September, 1961, a new conservative youth organization was formed at the Sharon, Conn., estate of Dr. William F. Buckley, editor of the National Review and well-known spokesman for the conservative movement. The Sharon conference formed Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) and announced that it would propagate the conservative faith among all American youth but with particular attention to college students. The statement of purpose of YAF included a denunciation of USNSA as dominated and controlled by an isolated liberal elite, and that YAF would attempt to convert USNSA to a conservative position or destroy it if the conversion were unsuccessful.

Recent Attacks on USNSA

9. During the year 1960-61 YAF launched an extensive program aimed at discrediting USNSA among its member schools and the general public. Fulton Lewis III, 25-year old son of Fulton Lewis, Jr., and a former employee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, traveled to over 151 campuses narrating the film "Operation Abolition," a caricature of the own President. Student demonstrations against the film. Lewis used this podium to include a series of attacks on the USNSA, in particular citing its position calling for reform of the NSAF as an illustration of leftist control of the organization. (Note: The Young Adult Council (YAC) came in for an attack as well. William Buckley utilized the columns of the National Review to attack a briefing given to members of the Young Adult Council delegation to the World Assembly of Youth council meeting in Accra, Ghana. Buckley charged that several of the State Department and AFI officials who briefed the delegation were former communists and questioned whether government funds were being improperly utilized.)

10. YAF established a series of front groups of their own in an attempt to discredit USNSA. The first group they formed called itself "The Committee for a Responsible National Student Organization" (CRNSO). Its director, Howard Phillips, coincidentally, was a vice president of YAF and the CRNSO address was also that of the YAF. The second group called itself "Students Committed to an Accurate National Representation" (SCAAR). Its director was a Northwestern coed named Kay Wonderlich. She operated SCAAR out of her home but apparently cooperated covertly with YAF. CRNSO took the position that students ought to be politically active but that USNSA was controlled by an isolated elite of liberals and leftists and had no conservative representation in its officers or policies. SOAHR charged that students by and large were not interested in political questions and that NSA by taking positions on political issues was misrepresenting the American student body. In addition, SOAHR charged that USNSA consistently abused its constitution and refused to follow true democratic procedures at its meetings.

11. The work of USNSA and SOAHR during the academic year 1960-61 was largely unsuccessful but, as they indicated in a multitude of mailings to U.S. campuses, they intended to stage a major fight at the USNSA Congress in August 1961.

12. In a series of press conferences and press releases during the summer of 1961, USNSA and SOAHR predicted their success at the USNSA Congress and estimated their voting strength in the hundreds. Upon arrival early in the USNSA Congress it became apparent that the strength of the conservatives was small. Only 50-70 delegates out of 750 could be counted upon as hard-line supporters of the conservative position. Nonetheless, through a large expenditure of money and considerable organizational talent this small minority was able to create a considerable number of problems for USNSA officials and for delegates to the Congress. They attempted to amend the agenda to allow William Buckley to address the Congress. They introduced a resolution condemning the Castro regime early in the Congress before any consideration had been given in the International Affairs Commission by raising the issue of the imprisonment and imminent execution of Alberto Kuller. They used dilatory parliamentary tactics to disrupt the plenary sessions in an attempt to prevent business from being conducted at the plenary sessions. They attempted to make a last-minute deal with some of the past USNSA officers to water down the Cuban and HUAC resolutions in exchange for YAF support of a slate of candidates for USNSA officers.

13. YAF was unsuccessful in its attempts to influence the USNSA Congress. Their dilatory tactics were exposed and the myth of widespread support among delegates to the USNSA Congress for conservatism was exposed in the columns of reporters from some of the leading newspapers and magazines which covered the USNSA Congress, including the New York Times and representatives of AP and UPI.

Attacks on USNSA 1961-62.

14. With the crushing defeat of YAF at the USNSA Congress, [redacted] felt that right-wing efforts against USNSA would cease to be important. Since the summer, however, the conservative efforts to attack [redacted]

USNSA have increased. Through a concerted campaign of slandering USNSA programs, policies, and even personnel, the disaffiliations of the Universities of Oklahoma, Kansas, and WYU have been secured by the right wing. American University and Denver University, which contemplated joining USNSA, decided not to join after receiving considerable conservative literature. In a leaflet distributed to every Denver University student, the students were warned of internal communist subversion and advised that the first step in fighting the communist menace would be to refuse to join USNSA. Such action, according to the pamphlet, would prevent "the entire Denver University from becoming communist dupes."

15. M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News, another young conservative spokesman who recently received one of the Junior Chamber of Commerce awards, devoted an entire chapter to attacking USNSA in his recent book Revolt at the Campus. Fulton Lewis, Jr., turned over his weekly radio show to his son, Fulton Lewis III, who devoted three programs to attacking USNSA. Despite Howard Phillips' academic difficulties and Ray Wonderlich's graduation, and the embarrassing losses suffered at the USNSA Congress, YAF and their affiliated organizations continue to exist and to vehemently attack the National Student Association.

USNSA Response to Attacks.

16. What has traditionally been a minor irritation for the USNSA has now developed into a major headache. The right wing is working for disaffiliations at the Universities of Texas, Missouri, and Michigan. YAF's chances for success are good at Texas and Missouri. The disaffiliation of Texas would mean the loss of a traditionally strong student government which has produced several individuals who were elected to high office in USNSA.

The disaffiliations at these universities would tend to bring into question USNSA's claim to represent American students and could seriously damage the USNSA's national program.

COPY OF SPECIAL RESOLUTION XIII--C/REC

WEST IRIAN

FACTS:

1. In 1949 the Netherlands promised before the United Nations full sovereignty to those islands formerly known as the Dutch East Indies. In that same year the Round Table Conference at The Hague postponed the decision on the status of West Irian, one of those islands, for a year. Further negotiations failed, and at present West Irian is still a Dutch colonial possession.
2. Due to the colonial policy of the Netherlands, there are no institutions of higher learning or opportunities to obtain a secondary education.
3. In 1959 a representative of the Research Investigation Committee of the International Student Congress was refused entrance into West Irian to study the situation.

PRINCIPLE:

In accordance with the USIA Basic Policy Declaration condemning colonialism as it affects students, DEISA notes that the Dutch government by not setting up educational facilities is depriving the West Irian people from pursuing their own educational interests.

RECOMMENDATION:

The 13th National Student Congress reaffirms the Special Resolution on West Irian passed by the 12th National Student Congress.

REMARKS:

1. The 13th National Student Congress mandates the International Affairs Vice President to circulate to all member schools the report on West Irian of the Research and Information Committee of the 13th National Student Congress.
2. The 13th National Student Congress mandates the International Affairs Vice President to send this resolution to the Dutch National Union of Students, the Indonesian National Union of Students, and the representatives to the United Nations of both countries.

LOVE OR POLITICS CAUSE OF MURDER?

9/26/58
From Our Staff Reporter

A murder occurred in Myenigon yesterday afternoon following a quarrel between a member of the Socialist Youth Study Group and the Union Youth League, but the boy who was arrested for the crime told the Police it had been provoked by jealousy not politics.

Early in the morning, members of the Union Youth League had pasted up posters in the locality supporting U Nu; at the same time members of the Socialist Youth Study Group were pasting up posters supporting the Swe-Nyein faction. But there was no quarrel between them at the time.

Later, Hla Kyi, Kyaw Thawng and Maung Ngwe Tan of the Union Youth League went to the morning show at local cinema, the Emperor, and were walking home at about noon when they passed the headquarters of the Socialist Youth Study Group in Cattle Pound Street. Just then, Maung Myint Swe, the librarian of the organization came out of the building, and he and Maung Ngwe Tan met face to face.

Starting on April 15, the Command visited 13 village tracts, Patpadi, Kamaots, Aung Hing, Dawngyin, Myokan, Khapvat, Kalatok, Pongyi-thaung, Kyonekaduchawga, Baw-dima, Dedala, Okiwin and Kyoneida.

A membership of 1,500 was registered in the four days. The people of the village tracts who have not seen the AFPPC leaders from Pyaw Township for more than three years were quite flattered and interested when they arrived to give support to the new Youth Organization.

There was no external bleeding, but the internal injury was apparently serious as Ngwe Tan expired at the RGH about two hours later.

EXPULSIONS NOT TO BE WELCOMED BY ORGANISATIONS UNDER AFPFL

Union 4/17/58 From Our Staff Reporter

The majority of the top leaders did not attend the weekly meeting of the AFPFL Executive Committee meeting yesterday morning. U Kyaw Nyein is away in Pakawga and Thakia Tin and Thakia Pan Mying are away in the Kayah State. U Ba Swe and Thakia Tin Khin were also absent from the meeting.

This was despite the fact that Thakia Tin Khin had been summoned back from Calcutta only the day before and had gone in haste from the airport to visit U Nu the moment he arrived.

The meeting did discuss two matters which are of significance in terms of the current political struggle. One was a letter from U Kyaw Nyein requesting that the circle, township and district AFPFL meetings for this year be postponed for the time being. He stated that in view of the fact that an organisation campaign for the AFPFL Youth organisation was now underway, it would be better if these local AFPFL meetings could be held off until the Youth delegates also could attend.

U Kyaw Nyein's proposal was considered and accepted by the Executive Committee, which directed that the circle AFPFL meeting be postponed till June 30, and the township AFPFL meetings till July 31.

The other matter was a resolution moved by the Rangoon District AFPFL that persons who were expelled by the AFPFL should not be accepted by organisations affiliated to the AFPFL and that persons expelled by such organisations should not be accepted by the AFPFL.

Undesirables in AFPFL Youth

From Our Staff Reporter

Some of the leaders of the Rangoon AFPFL are dissatisfied at the present organisation campaign of the AFPFL Youth because they say that people who have been expelled from the AFPFL as undesirable elements, and Government servants, are being taken into the new organisation.

On April 26, AFPFL leaders from Tharmawaddy and Prime Circle, visited U Nu to express their displeasure on this point. U Nu is believed to have told them that a way will be found by discussing this matter out.

PYAPON, April 19—The AFPFL Youth Organisation Committee for Pyapon Township has been carrying on an intensive drive for membership in the area.

Starting on April 15, the Committee visited 13 village tracts, Pelpyat, Kamanta, Aung Hlaing, Dawnyan, Myokon, Khasyat, Kalateik, Pongyi-thaung, Kvonkadachauungwa, Baw-dima, Dedalu, Okwin and Kooneda.

As the first of the All-Burma Students Union, Ko Maung, and his Vice-President, Ko Maung, were interviewed. The two student leaders first took up the question of the re-admission of 256 students who had been dismissed from their schools because of their participation in the "students' struggle" and because of their defiance of Government's ban on students' unions.

Next, the Parliamentary Secretary's attention was drawn to the strike of certain Pymmana students in protest against the transfer of the headmaster of State School No. 2 in Pymmana, U Pe Khin, who had been replaced by U Kyaw Bala.

Parliamentary Secretary U Than Maung is stated to have assured the ABFSU leaders that he would look into these matters.

The ABFSU leaders next called upon the Parliamentary Secretary to Home Minister, Mahn Tin Aung, in connection with the murder in September 1947 of a student, Ko Hla Shwe, in Minbia. No action had been taken in the case, they alleged, and the Home Ministry was urged to take steps in the matter.

The Parliamentary Secretary was also informed of the detention of a student, Ko Min Aung, in Toungoo, and his early release was pressed by the two student leaders.

The interview is reported to have ended with suitable assurances from Parliamentary Secretary Mahn Tin Aung that he would look into both these cases.

Students Union To Be Re-Formed

From Our Correspondent

THAYETMYO, July 6 — About 40 students met here today and unanimously decided to form a students' union. The meeting elected an organising committee of nine under Maung Khin Nyo, who was elected as President, and Maung Khin Aung, who was elected as secretary.

A number of resolutions were passed, one of which urged a peace settlement on a "I do not benefit, he does not suffer" basis. Other resolutions demanded the abolishing of all "repressive" rules and regulations on students, release of Section 5 student detainees, re-admission of all students dismissed from schools and higher allotments for education in the coming Budget.

STUDENTS CITE GRIEVANCES

From Our Correspondent

TOUNGGOO, July 16 — The Toungoo District Students Union yesterday interviewed Deputy Premier Thakin Tin at the Circuit House here to discuss certain grievances on the part of local students.

The chairman of the meeting Ko Thaw Zin, introduced the guest of honour and in the course of his speech thanked the Deputy Prime Minister Thakin Tin who had been instrumental in securing the release of the detained student.

Ko Thaw Zin also severely criticised the present educational system. Conditions were bad throughout Burma, he said.

Toungoo District where not a single new school building had been put up. As a result, there was overcrowding in the class-rooms and an acute shortage of teachers.

Free education was all very well, Ko Thaw Zin remarked, but the cost of text books continued to rise year by year and many school children were denied the privilege of schooling because their parents were so poor they couldn't afford to send their children to school.

The reception was well attended by students, parents and representatives of political organisations in the town.

CHANGES IN EDUCATION

HOODRED DELEGATES AT SEMINAR IN EDUCATION

From Our Staff Reporter

The four-day Students Seminar on educational affairs, the first of its kind to be held in Burma, yesterday began its sessions at the Rangoon University Convocation Hall. The Government has expended Kyats 50,000 toward the cost of holding the seminars.

At yesterday's inaugural session, 110 delegates from 110 universities and colleges, while Mandalay University sent 43 representatives. Constituent colleges were also represented, while each high school throughout Burma was represented by two delegates.

The Seminar is the outcome of Prime Minister U Nu's discussions primarily with representatives of the Rangoon University Students Union, which felt that a meeting of this type would greatly help the Government in its effort to overhaul the present educational system, and has also received the approval of the Education Enquiry Committee, of whose work it is regarded as a part.

The opening session held yesterday morning was taken up entirely by speeches and messages, while the afternoon was spent on a report of the Preparatory Committee outlining the Seminar's aims and objects and procedural matters.

The Seminar will continue its sessions till Tuesday.

In his inaugural speech, President of the RUSU Ko Soe Thein, who is also Chairman of the Central Preparatory Committee of the Seminar, said that over 60 percent of school buildings in Burma were destroyed or damaged in the Second World War.

Today, Burma still experienced an acute shortage of schools and teachers. The educational system, too, underwent constant shifts in policy. Several shortcomings and difficulties still faced students, who were even now agitating for better conditions, Ko Soe Thein declared.

The RUSU President said that students themselves had made a close study of the educational situation in the country. Though Burma became an independent country in 1948, no progress had been made in the economic and social spheres. The educational system, too, remained no different to that which prevailed in the old days of British imperialism.

In the view of students, a country's political system should match its educational system. In Burma, the country was free, but education remained the same as it was before independence.

Students had agitated to secure changes in the system, but this was not enough. At best, the changes could result only in patchwork, if the system remained the same. What was really wanted was a change from the bottom upwards.

Because of student agitation and demands and because of difficulties facing the Education Department, the Government set out to overhaul the system. In 1957, Prime Minister U Nu himself formed an Educational Committee, of which he was the chairman. Foreign experts were invited to help the Committee in its work.

Students welcomed the Committee and the suggestion was made that seminar be held.

Several meetings were held between the Premier and RUSU representative on the subject, while the proposal for a seminar was also put to the Education Committee itself.

The Government promised to extend its help toward the holding of a seminar, and the Education Department agreed to the idea.

Both the Government and the students were agreed that the educational system should be improved. If this basic idea of the need for a radical change were kept in mind, the students were firmly convinced that the present exchange of views would only result in a new educational system which both the people and the students desired so ardently.

The present seminar was unique in the history of Burma. It would afford them an opportunity to pool their ideas and experiences toward the betterment of education.

Education Minister U Maung Kyaw Zan, who delivered the key-note speech, he said, the Government was determined to overhaul the system, but this was not enough. At best, the changes could result only in patchwork, if the system remained the same. What was really wanted was a change from the bottom upwards.

The Committee, U Maung Kyaw Zan said, desired to obtain the cooperation of the people, the students, parents and teachers in its task working out a new educational system.

The seminar would enable the student representatives to undertake a raised discussion of the various problems confronting them. Their ideas would be collected and placed before the Education Committee for a decided examination.

The Education Minister reminded his student listeners that there was one or two points to be borne in mind in the course of their discussions.

Firstly, education was not a matter of country's political, economic or social conditions. There were set problems to be faced in connection with education. But this was a common experience in all countries. Educational problems would always crop up. Even as some problems were solved, others would arise.

Secondly, Burma was now an independent country and as such a comparison should be made with other countries in the world so as to broaden one's outlook. In doing so, however, one should have correct perspective and should endeavour to draw comparisons on fair and equal terms. It would not be fair to compare a small country like Burma with a bigger nation. It was generally believed, for example, that there was a wide disparity in the ratio of teachers to students. But these were the figures obtained from different countries regarding the number of teachers to students. In Britain there was one teacher for every 24 students; in America and the Soviet Union, there was one teacher for every 24 students; in neighbouring India there was one teacher for every 24 students; in Burma, there was one teacher for every 26 students. A correct perspective must be obtained by such comparisons.

Thirdly, education was deeply rooted in the people's beliefs and attitudes. Unless the people's beliefs were changed, it would be difficult to change the education system. For example, the Minister said, the Pagan New Life Movement provided university education leading to technical training with emphasis on the dignity of labour. But nowadays, both students and parents were only obsessed with university education leading on

[illegible]

The Shanghai government had outlined its plans on a short-term, long-term basis. The short-term plan would help to bring about peace in the province, and the long-term plan would concern itself with economic issues. For example, it planned to view, Zan said, the education system

... short-term and long term

The Minister asked his audience to bear the following points in mind:

- (1) Parma, with a population of 1 million, spent Kyats 13 crores on education, or 10.6 percent of the country's budget. The present calculation represented an increase from Kyats 1 crore or 2.5 percent of the total budget over the past ten years. Thailand (population 20 million) spent 10.5 percent of its budget on education. Egypt (population 20 million) spent 11 percent of its budget. Jordan (population 10 million) spent 11 percent of its budget on its education.

(2) There were 300,000 high school students in Burma, which worked out to an average of one student for every 60 adults. In India the ratio worked out to 313 adults to one student; Ceylon 38 adults to one student; Japan 26 adults to one student; Soviet Union 36 adults to one student; Yugoslavia 35 adults to one student. Compulsory education prevailed in Japan, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia up to the high school level.

(3) There were 500 state scholars studying overseas. Satisfactory reports have been received as regards their progress.

(4) The period of a student's studies should also be given an important place in the seminar's deliberations. Some students were quick to learn; others slower. This is what

In Burma, a student had to spend five years in school before he reached the university. In other countries, for example, Japan, a child had to spend only 12 years. In Britain, for example, a child had to spend no less than 12 years in school before he could reach university stage in India, a student had to be 15 years in school and 10 years in college in 1946.

A student in Burma could hope to gain university degree in 12 years of study, as compared with 14 years in other countries. In Britain, the figure stands at 14 and in America it reaches as high as 16.

Thus, U Maung Kyaw Zan said it would be necessary for the seminar to make such comparative studies if its deliberations were to be of any value. Only in such a manner could their recommendations have any firm basis, he added.

Education Commissioner Dr. U. B. said not only would the whole country be watching the progress of the seminar, but foreigners, too, would be paying close attention to its work. This was so, he explained, because the youth of today would be the leaders of the nation tomorrow.

Education in Burma, Dr. U Ba said, was in a "pathetic" condition. Whatever ailed the nation, the blame was always attributed to the education system.

Whether education was good or bad, the fact remained that it rested on two factors: teaching and learning. There had been progress in relations between teachers and students. The Education Department was cooperating closely with the All-Burma School Teachers Association. He believed that the seminar would lead to good results as far as the students' side was concerned.

Dealing with the work of the Education Committee, D. U. Ba said that 600 persons had responded to invitations to send in their suggestions in writing. The Committee had toured the country and examined over 500 witnesses whose opinions were recorded. These suggestions had proved invaluable. Moreover the Committee had obtained recommendations of foreign experts. Altogether, the Committee had met 15 times. Now, as a final step, the Committee had decided to hold the present seminar in order to obtain the views of the student population.

Independents Win At Yankin

From Our Staff Reporter

Independents yesterday secured control of the Yankin Day Students Association, after the Students United Front tried to obtain a postponement of the meeting and failed.

The S.F. made this move when they sensed that they were in the minority, but the motion was put to the vote and defeated by 20 votes.

The meeting condemned exploitation of the students by all political parties and adopted the slogan "A student must be only a student".

After this, the following were elected unanimously: President, Ko Tin Aye, Vice-Presidents, Ko Mya Han and Ko Soe Aung Linn, Secretary, Ko Tun Aung Khin, Joint Secretary, Ko Ye Sein, Treasurer, Ko Hla Kyi and 15 others.

This is the second year that the Independents have led the Yankin Day Students Association. It is learnt that the SUP plans to form a rival association of the same name.

STUDENT SEMINAR

The President of the Rangoon University Students Union has forestalled criticism of the Education Seminar which opened at the University yesterday by saying that those who suspect that there might be some politics mixed up in it are narrow-minded persons with a grudge against the students. We do not know whether this defensive remark sprang from some consciousness of guilt, but at the risk of being called narrow-minded, we must put it on record for whatever it is worth, that the Seminar has in fact been brought about by the Communist-dominated action of the student movement.

In the past, this section of the student movement has not been guiltless of introducing politics into the discussion of student problems. After a long recital of the shortages and the inadequacies in the educational field, they invariably ended up with the conclusion that more money should be given to education, that more money could not be given to education unless less was spent on the security forces, and that less could only be spent on the security forces if internal peace was restored, therefore, the Government should negotiate with the insurgents.

However, even the Communist-inspired student movement has become "respectable" these days and seems to be working hand-in-glove with the Government, so perhaps this time the students will not produce such embarrassing conclusions. Granted that they do not, we hope that they will also refrain from producing suggestions which are obviously impossible to comply with. In the days before they gained an aura of respectability, they tended to make demands which, if fulfilled by the Government, would have put the students in clover and the rest of the country in poverty.

Naturally every section of the community believes that it should have priority since it is the most important, but every section of the community must learn that its demands and needs must be adjusted to those of other members of society as well. The Seminar has been hailed as a history-making event, but in the field of making demands, no history will be created. The students have been doing that for years now, and need no further training nor experience in doing so. What is left to be seen is whether they can make history this time, by making constructive suggestions about what should be done in the field of education, and how it can be done.

Everyone knows that education in this country is in a parlous state, and the obvious remedies such as more schools, more teachers, more vocational schools, etcetera can be suggested by anyone who has glanced even cursorily at the problem. If the Seminar is to serve any useful purpose, more practical suggestions of how these remedies can be applied and some discussion of the root causes

PEOPLE'S YOUTH CONFERENCE

From Our Staff Reporter

The People's Youth organization opened its third all-Burma conference in Rangoon yesterday. President Comrade Ba Thaz made the opening address in which he said that the situation was changing and that the organization must make plans for activities in keeping with the "progressive" changes which were occurring. He mentioned as signs of progress that the NUF had been able to secure 45 seats in the last election that there was wide support for the peace campaign headed by Thakin Kodaw Hmaing, and that because of the people's resistance against the policy of smashing the rebels, the AFPFL had now split.

The organization must now continue with an active campaign to bring about the release of all political prisoners and the abolition of Pyawbwei units.

Guest speakers were Thakin Chit Maung (BWPP), and Ko Zaw Win, ABFSU.

behind these defects should be forthcoming. Also, we shall be interested to see whether the students, who are now being invested with some responsibility by the Government, will respond by demonstrating that they have a consciousness not only of their rights, but of their duties also.

Students Say Practice And Policy Differ in Gov't Educational Schemes

SOCIALIST EDUCATION MUST REPLACE PRESENT SYSTEM

From Our Staff Reporter

The Students Union on educational affairs, now being held at the Rangoon University Convocation Hall, yesterday approved a prepared paper entitled "Educational Policy."

Five study groups were formed to discuss the paper, and, in the course of the discussions, certain speakers stressed the need for any new educational policy to make adequate provisions for the fostering of the "Five Moral Strengths" among students, intensification of the "anti-imperialist campaign" and the building up of a democratic educational system.

The 5 study groups were led by the President of the SUP, Ko Khin Aung; the President of the Mandalay University Students Union, Ko Saw Lwin; the Secretary of the Mandalay University Students Union, Ko Tin Shwe; the President of the ABFSU, Ko Zaw Win and the Secretary of the Moumein Students Union, Ko Min Hwe.

The paper reviewed Burma's post-war educational system and dealt mainly with the successive plans for education. Starting with the "Simla Plan" drawn up by the (British) Government of Burma when it evacuated to India during the Japanese occupation. Since then, the paper noted, the Union Government had announced three different educational policies.

The British, on their return to Burma in 1945, attempted to impose their "Simla Plan" on the country, but encountered stiff opposition from the people and the student population. As a result in 1946, they set up an enquiry commission.

When Burma became independent, in 1948, the Union Government based its educational policy upon the report of this enquiry commission.

Then, in 1952, the Union Government announced its new "Pyidawtha" scheme for education.

This later gave way to a new education policy under the 1956 second four-year plan.

The paper noted that, as a result of these successive changes, the Government's policies often became confused and mixed up.

After setting out its review of the Government's policies, the paper asked how far the Government had succeeded in revising the educational system.

In attempting to answer this question, the paper said that, in general terms, the Government's educational programme might be divided into two parts: (1) the state of schools, teachers and class-room equipment and (2) actual implementation of the Government's educational policy.

On the first point, the paper said that it was clear that there still existed a shortage of school buildings, teachers and equipment. The number of students had increased, but these three needs fell far short of actual requirements today.

Gov't Failures

The Government had made strenuous efforts to solve the several recurrent problems facing it in the educational field. It had sent teams of experts abroad; it had tried to overhaul the system with the aid of UNESCO; it had attempted to divert the flow into the single university it had into institutes for vocational training; it had set up training centres and institutions for agriculture and technical studies. Yet, all these attempts had failed, the paper observed. Students who had passed out from these institutes had failed to be of any benefit to the country and technically trained personnel were without employment.

Stating that practice must conform to policy, the paper said that the Government's failures actually arose from such lack of consistency.

It was necessary to keep in mind the Government's declared aim of building a Socialist state, the paper said, adding that the Government should therefore strive for a Socialist pattern of education in keeping with its political aim.

The paper said that education in Burma should be so designed as to bring about the following aims:

(1) A higher standard of agriculture on modern, scientific lines — Burma must be hatched to this aim. (2) The building of an industrial nation—Industry was the basis of a Socialist state. Without industry, no nation could ever hope to be prosperous, neither could it reach the Socialist stage. An educational policy must be laid down which would have such an aim.

(3) The growth of a national literature and culture — Burmese literature and culture were submerged throughout the 100 years of British rule. The culture of some national minorities were even on the point of disappearing. The customs and culture of the country were being gradually replaced by foreign customs and habits. The Union Government's educational policy must revive national customs and culture.

(4) The progressive uplift of action-minorities—There was wide disparity between the progress of the Burmese and the national minorities. Some of the national minorities were backward and efforts must be made to ensure that such minorities could advance side by side with the majority race. This aim must always be kept in view in the Government's educational policy.

(5) The attainment of scientific training—Burma was backward both in economy and scientific methods. It could not keep up with this day of the machine and the atom. Scientific training was practically nil and old ideas and ways of thinking still dominated the minds of the people. This weakness must be rectified, backward ideas swept away and scientific methods of training established in the Government's educational policy.

(6) Educational benefits must be extended to everyone—Education must not be the monopoly of the few. Everybody must be educated to shoulder the country's responsibilities and the Government's educational policy must be such that everyone should benefit by it.

(7) The instilling of a spirit of national independence and freedom—Burma's freedom and independence were achieved only ten years ago. Independence was still in a tender stage and even today it was threatened by various dangers. Independence must be guarded and protected. This could be achieved only by fostering a spirit of nationalism among the people, and a place for this ideal must be found in the Government's educational policy.

STUDENTS CLASH ON CLOSING DAY OF ALL-BURMA SEMINAR

COMMITTEE MEMBERS RESIGN, MINORITIES DISSATISFIED

From Our Staff Reporter

The Students Seminar split open in a later clash yesterday when members of the Preparatory Committee and racial minorities rose in the final meeting, to express their dissatisfaction with the way the Seminar had been run.

First to voice these protests was Ko Khin Maung Kyi, Joint Secretary of the RUSU. When he began to criticise the Seminar, the Chairman, Ko Soe Thein (RUSU President) tried to have him silenced by saying that he revoked his status as a delegate of the RUSU. Ko Khin Maung Kyi however claimed that he was attending as a representative of the Shan Students, and was immediately backed up by members of the other minority groups who also rose to make their own protests. The meeting was thrown into disorder.

The trouble had started the day before when after a special meeting of the Preparatory Committee, six members issued a statement. They were Ko San Hlaing, Kyaukpadaung, Ko Bo Tin, Kyaukpadaung, Ko Htwe Cho, Kyaukpadaung, Ko Ba Tin, Kyaukpadaung, Ko Maung Cho, Mandalay, and Ko Kyaw Shein, Moulmein.

The statement said that great hopes had been raised that the Seminar would usefully occupy itself in attempting to correct the shortcomings in the present educational system. Everybody believed that discussions would be democratic, free and fair.

"However," it added, "though the several study papers submitted by the Central Committee admitted that the present educational system was no different from the decayed 'slave education' of the past, it made no attempt whatsoever to bring up a number of outstanding issues, such as the ban on students' unions and the 'forcible' formation of schools' councils. The papers, instead, attempted to cover up the repressive measures now being adopted by the authorities.

The Commissions (study groups) "repeatedly" rejected suggestions, amendments and proposals put forward by student representatives at discussions, the statement declared. On the excuse that time was short, the Commissions resorted to the system of drawing lots to decide who should speak. "At the Seminar itself," the statement said, "the chairman, Ko Soe Thein, used his powers like a fascist to bar discussions."

Karen, Kachin, Shan and Mon minority representatives were also left out and given no opportunity to submit amendments to papers concerning minority races.

Last Tuesday night, the signatories to the statement submitted that "education in Burma should be democratic", during a meeting of the Preparatory Committee to discuss the paper entitled "Educational Policy". Their moves, however, were rejected by Ko Soe Thein (chairman), Ko Khin Maung Ohn, Ko Ba Kaung and Ko Zaw Win. When the signatories threatened to disown responsibility for the views expressed in the paper, the Committee permitted discussion, during which both the sides adopted rigid views on the question.

which was not satisfactorily.

The statement said: "The present educational system must be torn up from the roots, but the measures proposed by the papers are too much like a band-aid and do not do anything to change U Nu's decayed educational system. For these reasons we resist their wishes."

Another statement was issued by the Mon, Shan, Kachin, Karen, Chin, Kaya and Arakan representatives who also said that the study papers submitted for discussion by the Preparatory Committee "were incomplete", and that representatives had not been given sufficient time to study the various papers submitted for discussion. Moreover, representative were not afforded the opportunity to express their views in the discussions. They were often put off on various excuses when they did put forward their proposals. For this reason, the disclaimed all responsibility for the conclusions reached by the Seminar in regard to minority education.

The Central Preparatory Committee later issued a statement in connection with the charges made against it by the six members of the Committee who resigned.

The Preparatory Committee pointed out that the purpose of the Seminar was not to confirm or amend study papers submitted to it. Any differences of opinion with the Committee could be recorded and submitted separately, together with the study papers to the Government.

It said that during the Committee's final meeting on Tuesday night, Ko Cho (of the Mandalay University) brought up the matter of Study Paper No. 8, entitled "Educational Policy". He was told that, in accordance with usual procedure, there was no need for him to submit any amendments. As a result, six of the Committee members resigned because of their disagreement with the remaining 34 members.

In connection with the second statement issued by the minority students, the Central Committee said that it had held further meetings with the group and that an amicable understanding had been reached.

(From one student)

(8) The growth of democracy in the country - Citizens of the Union must be taught to grasp fully the implications of democratic practices. A loyal son of the Union must cherish democratic ideals in his everyday life.

The paper said these aims and ideals must be incorporated in the Government's plans for education and the Government was urged to give its consideration to these points when it implemented its educational programme.

U NU "AMNESTIES" STUDENTS

From Our Staff Reporter

Prime Minister U Nu last night entertained to dinner over 700 students' delegates to the Students Seminar which has just closed in Rangoon.

The Prime Minister said that there were rumours afloat at the present time: one, that the student leaders had become U Nu's stooges, and the other, that the students were going to put pressure on U Nu's Government with embarrassing demands. Both were untrue, the Premier said.

Continuing, he said that he did not want to oppose the students' demand for a month's vacation in October, but he wished that the the students would discuss the matter with the person directly concerned in the University, U Po Tha.

In regard to some 500 students who had been debarred for several years from taking the Matriculation examination because they had been cheating, he said that apart from 5 very bad cases, the others would be allowed to appear for the 1959 Matriculation.

RUSU Leaders Called "U Nu's Stooges"

From Our Staff Reporter

The six members of the Preparatory Committee who dissociated themselves from the Students Seminar on educational affairs on Wednesday renewed their attacks on the Committee yesterday.

One of the group, Ko Cho, of Mandalay University Students' Group, told a Press conference that the group could really be regarded as a split between two groups, one under the influence of the Prime Minister U Nu and the other which had at heart the interests of the minorities and the desire to uproot the old "slave education".

The group which "took shelter in the shadow of U Nu", Ko Cho said, had forgotten and were now trying to stifle the students' cry for a democratic educational system. The side which he represented refused to fall in with the Premier's wishes and were working to "reform" the present educational system which the Premier was foisting on the country through "a conjurer's trick". They were fighting for the rights of the minorities.

Throughout the seminar, the "stooges" of U Nu had barred all suggestions and proposals put up by the district representatives on various pretexts. This group had "forcibly" confirmed the various study papers without providing opportunities for amendments and suggestions.

They turned down proposals to include certain demands of the minority races in their findings on the situation of the minorities.

District representatives who went against the study papers prepared by the RUSU and ABFSU had even been threatened with the prospect of having their rights as delegates withdrawn and made to return home without their fares, Ko Cho alleged.

On the final day, the Commissions (study groups) adopted the papers on educational policy and students' unions "at random" and the Chairman of the Seminar Ko Soe Thein used his powers "dictatorially" to bar discussion on these subjects.

Ko Cho said the Seminar was of the same pattern as "U Nu's AFPFL Pyidawtha Convention, when Government officials were summoned to receive orders". The Seminar, he added was devoid of freedom.

The present office-holders in the RUSU and ABFSU were "traitors of the same brand as the DSOs who once bred their own followings to dominate the student population".

In conclusion, Ko Cho said that the Seminar had throughout been managed by "U Nu's new Vanguard-DSO member". Hence, the students could not expect democratic rights, neither could the Seminar result in any benefits. For that reason, the group led by Ko Cho wished to announce that they were no longer "responsible" for its doings.

The dissident group is believed to represent the Red Flag section of the student movement who, like the Red Flag supporters in the NUF, are opposed to any form of cooperation with the Government.

Students To Make Political Demands

From Our Staff Reporter

A series of resolutions incorporating 30 students' demands to be made to the Government was adopted last Saturday at the second convention of the "Wider Supreme Council" of the ABFSU held at the RUSU building.

The ABFSU convention, which commenced on Friday, was attended by 39 District representatives and over 40 observers.

Demands to be made to the Government are: (1) the right to form students' unions; (2) increase of Government expenditure on education; (3) a halt to Army recruitments among students in schools; (4) a commission of enquiry into the alleged murder of High School student Ko Thein Shwe by Pyusawhtis in Mandalay; (5) release of five students detained under Section 5; (6) "face-to-face" negotiations between the Government and the rebels to halt the "civil war" and bring about internal peace.

In addition to these demands, the convention also adopted two "requests".

One asked the Government to allow the eight-man Peace Committee of Thakin Kodaw Hmaing to meet with Thakin Than Tun and his Communist Party.

The other, addressed to teachers, suggested that teachers and students should cooperate with each other in matters affecting education.

RUSU President Ko Zaw Win, who acted as chairman of the convention, said in his inaugural address that, when the AFPFL split, the RUSU and the student population decided to give their support to the Nu-Tin group. This step, he said, agreed with the support given to that group by their parents.

There was another reason why the students had thrown in their support for the Nu-Tin group. This was none other than that U Nu, in his address at the Gaba-ye All-Burma AFPFL Convention, had promised to work to restore peace within the country.

As the RUSU saw it, the AFPFL split was brought about by the "wishes of the imperialists". The AFPFL had split for a second reason and that was because the AFPFL was unable to meet the people's wishes for restoration of peace.

From Our Staff Reporter

"A Student Must be a Student" is the slogan chosen by the National Students' Union of the Rangoon University inaugurated on August 22, calling themselves the "National United Students" (NUS).

It describes itself as a movement "to unite all national students" and "to raise the standard of education, and to raise its own and others' level of education and scholarship." Its objects are to enhance friendship and solidarity among national students; to promote the raising of the standard of the Rangoon University to that of other universities of the world; to promote co-operation and friendship with the teaching staff; to achieve students' unity to defend academic freedom and democratic rights of students.

In the belief that the country needs more engineers, doctors, scientists, economists and experts to raise the standard of the country, the NUS is pledged to "drive out opportunists, party tools and political exploiters" out of the University campus so that students may devote themselves to their studies without interference.

On the more practical side, the NUS says it will perform a "University Festival" periodically, ask for a students' canteen, seek more stipends, and sponsor activities on sports, arts and culture.

In keeping with the principle implied by their slogan, the NUS promises that it will neither support nor condemn any political party or other students' unions. Nevertheless it will strive towards the elimination of the influence of political parties so as to bring about a compromise between the present Students' United Front (SUF) and the Vanguard, the bigger of the three existing University students' unions.

The new Union appears to have arisen out of the differences between members of the SUF following the recent students' Seminar. More moderate in their views and actions than their original Union, the NUS has Ko Aye Kyu as their President, Ko Tun Aung Gya as Vice-President, Ko Myint Way and Ko Myint Win as Secretary and Joint-Secretary respectively, Ko Kyaw Nyein as Treasurer, Ko Tin Maung as Auditor, and seven other executive members. The NUS claims to have a fifty-member Supreme Council to govern them.

THE RANGUON UNIVERSITY STUDENTS' UNION

The retiring President, Ko Khin Aung explained that the SUF was entering upon the fourth year of its existence, having come into being at a time when the RUSU was not functioning. He had been President for three years. The new President is Ko Aung Than. The SUF, a Communist-inspired Union, had been the ruling power of the RUSU for the past three years.

USL FORMED

The University Students' League, an anti-SUF organization came into being last night with Karen, Kachin, Chin students as well as the Forward Student Force and the Vanguard. Other student groups are expected to join later. There is a 25-member Council, each student group providing 5 members. The USL will eschew party politics.

Day Students Will Fight Own Battle

From Our Staff Reporter

Day students of the University yesterday decided to claim their independence from both the SUF and Vanguard, the old ruling powers of University politics.

However they will remain within the orbit of the new University Students' League, which has the support of the Karen and Kachin students, as well as the recently formed National United Students. But they will not enter this year's elections.

Declaring themselves now severed from the influence of the two Unions, the Day Students of Hteedan, Yankin and the main University said they would henceforth fight their own battles, keeping themselves free of political partisanship.

As the next step, the Day Students resolved to ask the authorities on their own, for more hostel accommodation, more teachers and the abolition of the 3F system.

Youth Front Confirms Its "Sham" Character

Dubbed Opportunists

From Our Staff Reporter

The Youth Front yesterday held a cadre meeting at the Ratnapon Cinema in Myingone, proclaimed itself to be the true followers of Marx and Lenin, and denounced the meetings held in the NUF.

Ko Yu, President of the Front, said that people were taking the BWP (Burmese Workers' Party) professed Marxism, but were acting contrary to its teachings.

Because of the sham Communists in the NUF, it had become necessary for the Front to reaffirm its faith in Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin, he said.

The BWP was more concerned with reaping the benefits of supporting this or that faction, rather than promoting the interests of the working class, he charged.

"The sham Communists, like U Thein Pe Myint, are on the side of the AFPFL, the dead, rotten and swollen thing. Lenin has laid down that we fight such elements as him," Ko Yu declared.

The Front's leader also made the allegation that the "sham" Communists were seeking office as Ministers and Parliamentary Secretaries. J Nu, faced with certain defeat in Parliament, dared not call Parliament, and yet there were these "sham" Communists who were advocating the surrender of arms and coming in to fight in Parliament.

Bo Mya Thway was condemned as a man who had gone soft. He had accepted the present of a revolver and forgotten his boast that he would boycott the election in Waikema.

U Nu had fed two or three meals to the SUF and given them K 4000-5000 and the students had turned opportunists. The Youth Front, which had risked their lives in giving meaning to the work of the NUF, must fight these elements, it was resolved.

After U Ko Ko Lay had spoken in support, resolutions were passed on democracy, face-to-face meetings, full rights to workers and peasants, condemnation of aggressors, and rights of self-determination.

WALK OVER FOR SUF

From Our Staff Reporter

The SUF will have a walk-over in the RUSU elections this year.

When nominations closed yesterday none of the other student organisations had put up candidates.

The only Independent who tried to enter the lists was disqualified on a technicality.

When some independent students realised, shortly before the nominations dead-line that no rival candidates to the SUF were being put up, they entered the name of Ko Way Lin for the post of Vice-President.

Ko Soe Thein, the Returning Officer (RUSU President) glanced through the nomination paper and rejected it as incomplete. When asked why he said the student had omitted to fill in his Class Roll Number. The independent students asked for one minute's grace to repair the omission but Ko Soe Thein claimed that it was past 3 p.m. and nothing could be done.

The independents charged that the SUF's own candidate for the same post, Ko Tin Aung had made a similar mistake in his nomination paper which had been allowed to pass.

Africains, Cor patriotes !

Les fascistes ont porté De Gaulle au pouvoir en France. Ces colonialistes torçonnés, farouches ennemis de l'indépendance des pays, sous domination française, sont décidés, comme ils disent, à aller jusqu'au bout.

Aller jusqu'au bout, c'est pour eux, assésir une dictature fasciste, briser les forces de progrès en France, intensifier la guerre d'Algérie et l'étendre au besoin à la Tunisie et au Maroc, juguler par la violence l'inspiration de notre peuple à l'indépendance... Aller jusqu'au bout, c'est pour eux, installer un pouvoir tel, qu'ils pourront exploiter impunément notre pays, mettre la main sur les richesses du Sahara, de l'Afrique.

Ce n'est pas un hasard s'ils font de De Gaulle l'instrument de leur politique : car De Gaulle, c'est l'homme qui a bravouré déclarer ouvertement : « La Constitution, même lointaine du seul gouvernement dans les colonies est à écarter ». C'est l'homme qui a rejeté aussi, et continue de rejeter la revendication de l'indépendance des Peuples colonisés. Les fascistes et leurs chefs ne viennent-ils pas de proclamer comme unique solution à la guerre d'Algérie l'intégration pure et simple des nationalistes algériens dans la République française ! Quelles sombres perspectives nous offrent-ils pas dès lors au peuple d'Afrique Noire !

Aujourd'hui, sur le sol même de notre pays, leurs comités de Saint Public, leurs groupuscules trénetiques se développent, lèvent la tête, appellent la répression sur les organisations révolutionnaires, en l'occurrence la participation de l'indépendance.

Conscients de la gravité de tels événements, nous, Etudiants d'Afrique Noire en France, avons dû idé sans équivoque, une opposition résolue à la venue au pouvoir des militaires et fascistes.

C'est dans ce sens que nous avons lancé un appel aux Parlementaires d'Afrique Noire et les avons placés une fois de plus devant leurs responsabilités.

Nous leur avons dit notre volonté de les soutenir s'ils résistaient au soulèvement colonialiste des factieux. Une fois de plus, ils ont tourné le dos aux intérêts des travailleurs de chez nous et trahi leur confiance. Après avoir protesté, aucun d'eux n'a voté contre l'investiture au général De Gaulle. Voici comment ils se sont comportés lors de l'élection de l'apprenti dictateur, chef du complot fasciste :

Ont voté contre : Aucun Parlementaire

Ont voté pour :

— R.D.A. (sur 20) : Bonnelous, Hamani Diori, Boigny, Medibo Ketta.

— P.R.A. (sur 18) : Filidabo Sissoko, Hubert Maga, Apt.

N'ont pas pris part au vote :

— R.D.A. : Ouor'na Coulibaly, Dialla, Guissou, Gabriel Jette, Magamoud, Sekou Touré.

— P.R.A. : Aumobé, Barry Diawadou, Nani Boni Couadé, Condut, Konombo, Dia Mamadou, Grunitaky, Ousoungou et Léopold Senghor.

Absent par congé : Douala Manga Bell du P.R.A.

Ainsi donc, certains parlementaires ont eu le front de voter pour De Gaulle, tandis que d'autres manifestaient leur méchété en ne prenant pas part au vote, faisant comme s'ils n'avaient pas à se prononcer sur des événements si lourds de danger pour l'avenir de notre pays.

Mais il y a plus grave, car les uns et les autres sont décidés à aller, eux aussi, jusqu'au bout de leur opportunisme. Le traître Houphouët-Boigny est déjà installé en plein ministère de Gaulle. D'autres parlementaires manœuvrent pour l'y rejoindre.

A la suite des Mesmer, des Cornu-Gentille, nos prétendus leaders sont prêts à la collaboration avec les fascistes. C'est sur eux que les factieux vont s'appuyer pour intégrer l'Afrique sans trop de difficultés dans leur régime fédéraliste de dictature et de misère.

COMPATRIOTES ! nous ne pouvons pas accepter cela : aucun verbiage politique ne peut dissimuler tout de trahison.

C'est dès maintenant qu'il faut organiser la riposte.

Nous devons refuser de nous soumettre au diktat des fascistes, des pires colonialistes. Nous devons liquider les complots qu'ils formentent, les organisations qu'ils mettent dans notre pays.

En conséquence, Travailleurs, Jeunes, Femmes, Etudiants, Patriotes vous tous Africains, créez dès maintenant dans nos villes, dans nos villages, des dizaines, des milliers de comités de résistance à la dictature et au fédéralisme de terreur et de misère.

Luttons plus fermement que jamais pour l'indépendance sans restriction de notre Patrie, et pour que l'Afrique vive libre et indépendante.

LE COMITÉ EXECUTIF
DE LA F.E.A.N.F.

Aux Parlementaires AFRICAINS

Depuis des années, vous avez, sans principes, soutenu tous les Gouvernements, quels qu'ils soient, participés même à des Gouvernements réactionnaires et hostiles à la libération de notre peuple.

Cependant, face à la menace fasciste incarnée par le Général de Gaulle, nous espérons de vous un sursaut de conscience africaine, sursaut amorcé par votre participation à la manifestation antifasciste du 28 mai.

C'est dans cet esprit, que le 29 mai, nous vous appelions à vous maintenir dans cette voie et à voter contre De Gaulle.

En effet, la venue au pouvoir du dictateur fait peser une lourde menace sur notre peuple.

De Gaulle représente les éléments les plus colonialistes, les plus chauvins et les plus réactionnaires de la bourgeoisie française décidés à juguler par tous les moyens, y compris la violence, la lutte de notre peuple pour l'indépendance et à instaurer dans notre pays un régime de terreur de misère, sous le voile d'un fédéralisme fallacieux.

Mais, vous n'avez pas tenu compte de notre appel. Alors que la majorité d'entre vous se réfugiait dans une lâche abstention, certains apportaient leurs suffrages à la dictature, participaient, en la personne du traître Houphouët, au nouveau Gouvernement.

Parlementaires Africains, vous avez trahi notre peuple, trahi votre mandat ; vous vous êtes faits, contre le peuple français, les complices de la pire réaction.

Notre peuple vous jugera.

Quant à nous, Etudiants Africains, forts du soutien des masses africaines, forts de la justesse de notre cause, forts de l'amitié des démocrates français, nous continuerons dans l'honneur et la dignité notre lutte pour l'indépendance Nationale.

Le Comité Exécutif de la F.E.A.N.F.

EDITORIAL

OPRES ET CHANGEMENTS EXTRAORDINAIRES

Chambre d'Orléans

La Fédération des Etudiants d'Afrique Noire en France vient de tenir un Congrès extraordinaire à Paris les 21, 22, 23 juin. Les milieux colonialistes ont pu penser que leurs entreprises de mystifications (loi-cadre, exécutif fédéral, fédéralisme etc...) avaient désormais prise sur la masse des étudiants africains. Ils ont cherché à répandre l'idée que la F.E.A.N.F. est soumise à des tendances extrémistes. Par là, ils rêvaient de voir l'équipe dirigeante de la F.E.A.N.F. séparée de sa base. Ils nourrissent l'espoir d'un revirement qui alignerait notre organisation sur la position des directions politiques réformistes et opportunistes de notre pays. Et ils jubilaient, en attendant l'issue de « leur » Congrès !

Mais le silence que leur presse réactionnaire a gardé en recouvrant les résultats de nos travaux, en dit bien long sur leur déception. Comment en serait-il autrement ? Les militants de la F.E.A.N.F. deviennent de plus en plus avertis et engagés politiquement.

A la veille du Congrès, l'ensemble des problèmes et tous les mots d'ordre justes ou faux qui préoccupent les gens de chez nous, ont été présentés aux militants dans les sections. Les délégués venus au Congrès ont pu discuter dans la plus grande sérénité et en parfaite connaissance de cause.

Nos positions révolutionnaires ont été renforcées et nous avons décidé d'aller plus avant dans la lutte contre les colonialistes et leurs hommes de paille.

Quels sont les traits saillants de nos décisions ?

Nous voulons l'indépendance nationale, sans restriction ni mélange... Et l'indépendance ne peut être que le fruit d'une conquête, d'une lutte résolue des masses contre les impérialistes. Seul un Front de Libération peut venir à bout des impérialistes ! Ce fait est devenu d'autant plus évident que les fascistes, qui constituent les plus réactionnaires et les plus colonialistes de la bourgeoisie française, entendent monter leur dictature terroriste en France et chez nous avec la complicité des leaders traîtres à notre Patrie.

On voit dès lors les lourdes responsabilités qui nous attendent au seuil des vacances.

Pour les vacances : Engagement et Action.

A part notre programme traditionnel des vacances (cours, conférences, meetings d'informa-tion, diffusion de notre presse, etc...) d'autres tâches innombrables nous sollicitent.

Il faut sceller effectivement l'unité d'action nouée au VIII^e Congrès avec l'U.G.E.A.O., le Conseil de la Jeunesse d'Afrique et les Syndicats. Nous devons expliquer à nos camarades des organisations sœurs, pourquoi le seul mot d'ordre juste est la lutte pour l'indépendance nationale, pourquoi les dirigeants, réformistes refusent dans la pratique, l'unité d'action avec nous, et pourquoi il s'avère nécessaire de soutenir tous les partis politiques ayant clairement opté pour l'indépendance, pourquoi il nous faut cotre que cotre un Front de Libération.

Le bouche à bouche constant, le porte à porte constant, le main à main constant dans l'organisation chez les travailleurs et les jeunes, voilà notre tâche la plus immédiate. L'exemple du récent Congrès de la section sénégalaise de l'U.G.E.A.O., nous montrant tous les échafaudages réformistes peut et doit être étendu à tous les territoires, et cela grâce à notre participation active. Nous devons nous mettre sans hésitation au service des travailleurs et des organisations révolutionnaires. Aidons les masses à organiser des Comités de soutien du Kamerun. Révétons au grand jour l'âpre lutte armée que mène seul contre les forces colonialistes depuis trois ans, le peuple kamerunais et son glorieux parti : l'U.P.C. Montrons l'exemple de nos frères togolais votant en masse pour l'indépendance et rejetant les fantômes de la loi-cadre.

Face au référendum projeté par les fascistes, et excluant pour notre peuple la possibilité de choisir pour ou contre l'indépendance, nous le rejetons dans son principe même, et nous devons aider à son boycott systématique. Car il ne s'agit nullement pour les Africains de dire à quelle sauce ils veulent être mangés, à quel fédéralisme ils veulent être intégrés, à quelle « part » (réduite ou entière) de français ils seront intégrés... Non ! la question n'est point là : les Africains ne veulent pas être mangés du tout, et ils ne veulent être rien d'autre que ce qu'ils sont : des Africains.

A tous les militants de la F.E.A.N.F. nous disons : En avant pour les vacances, des vacances au service du Peuple, un Peuple au service de la Révolution.

Déclaration de la F. E. A. N. F. ET DU " JEUNE TOGO " après les élections législatives du 27 avril 1958 au Togo

Le Togo, protectorat allemand depuis 1884, devait être divisé en 1918 et soumis au mandat de la France et de l'Angleterre sous le contrôle de la Société des Nations.

En 1945, les Nations Unies maintiennent cette division en confiant aux mêmes puissances la tutelle sur le Togo, sans tenir compte du peuple togolais qui ne devait pas tarder à manifester sa volonté d'Unité et d'Indépendance.

Dès 1945 était créée la « All Ewe Conference » dont le pendant au Togo sous domination Française, le Comité d'Unité Togolaise (C.U.T.) se constituait en 1948.

Un an après les Togolais exprimaient devant l'O.N.U. la volonté inébranlable de tout leur peuple.

En 1951, la Jeunesse (Mouvement de Jeunesse Togolaise) venait appuyer l'action du C.U.T.

Depuis lors, avec le Mouvement Populaire Togolais (M.P.T.) créé en 1945, le peuple mena la lutte pour l'indépendance et envoya pétitions et délégations à l'O.N.U.

Constitué en 1948, le Jeune Togo, groupant tous les étudiants du pays, participa activement à cette lutte. Sans relâche il a cherché à amener tous les mouvements à s'unir pour réaliser l'aspiration unanime du Peuple Togolais.

De son côté, la Fédération des Etudiants d'Afrique Noire appuyait de toutes ses forces l'action du Jeune Togo. En décembre, son congrès s'opposait à l'envoi de parlementaires Africains à l'O.N.U. pour défendre les thèses du Gouvernement Français. Dans une lettre remise à M. Houphouët-Boigny par une délégation, la F.E.A.N.F. le mettait en garde contre l'approbation de la prétendue République Autonome du Togo « qui tend à consacrer définitivement la division du Peuple Togolais et à lui refuser l'exercice normal de sa souveraineté ».

La volonté du Gouvernement Français a toujours été restée à l'intérieur du territoire qu'à l'O.N.U. de s'opposer à cette détermination des Africains en essayant d'intégrer le Togo à l'Union Française.

Dans le pays même il a fabriqué et entretenu le Parti Togolais du Progrès (P.T.P.) et l'Union des Chets et des Populations du Nord, mis en place des lanières prêts à exécuter toutes les décisions. Il n'a pas hésité devant les plus répressions en 1952 et en 1957 pour fatiguer les Nationalistes Togolais et étouffer leur voix.

Par ailleurs, le Gouvernement Français a voulu tromper l'opinion publique et l'O.N.U. par une campagne de presse mensongère et par des élections préfabriquées : en particulier lors du Renouveau de l'Assemblée Territoriale en 1954 et le 28 octobre 1955 pour le prétendu Référendum dont les résultats en faveur du Statut (71 % de voix) n'ont réussi à convaincre personne.

Pour les élections du 27 avril 1958 l'Administration Française et ses valets comptaient encore sur l'efficacité de ces méthodes traditionnelles. Mais ils avaient tort, pour négocier :

- La volonté populaire ;
- La présence des observateurs de l'O.N.U. qui ont pu limiter les dégâts sans éliminer pour autant tous les truquages et les fraudes qui ont faussé la préparation et le déroulement des élections ;
- La section locale de l'U.C.T.A.N. qui a menacé de lancer une grève générale pour réagir contre ces pratiques révoltantes.

Grâce à tous ces facteurs et malgré les efforts du Gouvernevement colonialiste français, en collaboration étroite avec ses valets, les résultats des élections du 27 avril 1958 traduisaient sans équivoque l'option qui a donné une victoire éclatante aux Nationalistes, les Partis Administratifs n'ayant obtenu que 13 sièges sur 48.

Ce vote n'a fait que démontrer au reste du monde ce que nous, Etudiants Africains, savons depuis toujours :

1° Aucun africain, malgré les déclarations officielles n'a accepté le statut qui constituait la Loi-Cadre et la prétendue Communauté Franco-Africaine ;

2° Quand ils ont la moindre possibilité de s'exprimer librement tous les togolais, tous les Africains voient « Abolir », votent pour l'Indépendance de leur Patrie.

Nous demandons au peuple de France de méditer cet enseignement et d'en tirer les conclusions. Il ne doit pas se laisser abuser par les Bao-Dai, les Bao Arria et les Houphouët-Boigny.

Car aucun peuple ne saurait renoncer à son indépendance nationale et ce n'est qu'en acceptant cette nécessité inéluctable que le peuple de France verra s'ouvrir des perspectives de coopération véritable entre une Afrique libre et la France.

Paris, le 12 mai 1958.

RESOLUTION SUR LE TOGO

Le Congrès Extraordinaire de la Fédération, réunie les 21, 22, 23 juin 1958,

Après avoir procédé à une large analyse de la situation au lendemain des élections au Togo ;

Félicite le Peuple Togolais pour l'éclatante victoire qu'il vient de remporter sur les forces colonialistes et rétrogrades opposant ainsi un démenti cinglant au Gouvernement Français et à ses collaborateurs africains ;

Considère que cette victoire est celle de tous les africains et prélude à la Libération inéluctable de tous les pays d'Afrique Noire sous domination étrangère ;

Fait confiance à tous le Peuple Togolais pour rester vigilant et faire échec aux tentatives de diversion qui risqueraient d'entraver l'accession du Togo à son INDEPENDANCE TOTALE ;

En appelle aux responsables togolais pour réaliser pleinement les légitimes aspirations populaires clairement exprimées lors de la consultation du 27 avril 1958 ;

La F.E.A.N.F. est convaincue que le courage, le dynamisme et la perspicacité du Peuple Togolais lui permettent de construire un TOGO INDEPENDANT et PROSPERE.

Les Etudiants Africains sollicitent toutes les organisations progressistes et démocratiques du monde entier qui ont épaulé le Peuple Togolais dans sa lutte, leur rappellent que cette lutte, celle de tous les pays d'Afrique Noire sous domination étrangère, doit continuer jusqu'à la victoire finale des forces révolutionnaires africaines.

ET MAINTENANT...

REFLEXIONS sur les lendemains des élections togolaises

du 27 avril 1958

par Godwin C. Gélé (le 10 mai 1958)

A l'heure où nous écrivons ces lignes, tous les fils du Togo dignes de ce titre, tous leurs amis du monde entier, ont encore le cœur gonflé d'une joie immense, d'une joie parfaitement légitime.

Oui, le peuple de notre petit pays, parce qu'enfin, sous le contrôle des Nations Unies, il lui a été permis de s'exprimer avec une liberté relative, a terrassé le « lion » de la Rue Oudinot, Paris (VII^e) ; il a porté un coup cinglant au système colonial de l'impérialisme français, de l'impérialisme tout court ; il a choisi, le 27 avril 1958, « la seule voie digne de l'Afrique Noire, celle de l'indépendance ».

En effet, depuis la fin de la deuxième guerre mondiale, le peuple togolais s'est mis à traquer le colonialisme français, en manifestant la bannière de l'Unité et de l'Indépendance.

Naturellement, le fouet blessé a tout mis en œuvre pour se défendre : arrestations arbitraires, emprisonnements, exils, tueries massives, émeutes de siège, bastonnades de femmes et d'enfants, interdictions de réunions publiques ou d'entrées de deux ou trois personnes dans les rues, chantage fiscal, licenciements, corruption, tentative de diviser le Nord contre le Sud, truquages électoraux systématiques, création d'un parti qui s'autrecoindait de s'appeler « Parti togolais du progrès ».

Les dignes enfants du Togo n'ont pourtant jamais abandonné le combat. C'est pourquoi les autorités françaises ont essayé d'emprunter le masque d'un fallacieux « Conseil de gouvernement » en 1955. En octobre 1956, à la veille des débats de l'O.N.U. et de l'indépendance du Ghana, nos « maîtres » imaginaient une astuce suprême : la « République autonome du Togo », qui n'a même pas le mérite d'être subtile, et dont le but réel est d'inclure « juridiquement », c'est-à-dire par voie de « référendum », le Togo sous leur administration dans l'« Union Française ». Cette ridicule « R.A.T. » fut proclamée avec tambours et trompettes à la suite du « référendum » du 28 octobre 1956, en flagrante violation d'ailleurs d'une décision de l'O.N.U. à l'époque.

Les patriotes togolais n'ont cependant pas cessé de brandir leur drapeau. Entre temps, à la suite d'un référendum qui eut lieu en mai 1956 dans l'ancien Togo sous administration britannique, sous le contrôle des Nations Unies, celles-ci décidèrent l'intégration de cette zone du pays dans l'actuel Ghana. Dès lors, pour les Togoais la question de l'unité devenait une affaire de famille à régler à l'amiable quand la partie orientale ne conquiert son indépendance.

Le 25 novembre 1957 l'Assemblée Générale de l'O.N.U. par une résolution sur cette dernière partie du Togo, prit les décisions suivantes :

a) des élections législatives se déroulaient en suffrage universel supervisées par une commission des Nations Unies ;

b) la nouvelle Assemblée législative et le gouvernement, en consultation avec les autorités administratives, faient des propositions allant dans le sens du but final du régime de tutelle : l'indépendance ;

c) l'Assemblée Générale de l'O.N.U., si l'Assemblée législative et les autorités administratives le lui demandent, prendra à sa troisième session une décision sur la levée de la tutelle, c'est-à-dire dira si le Togo sous administration française doit être indépendant ou partie intégrante de l'« Union Française ».

Acceptées par le gouvernement français, ces élections ont eu lieu le 27 avril 1958. Sur 46 sièges les patriotes en ont enlevé une trentaine ! (certaines agences de presse disent 29, d'autres 35).

Ainsi, « on peut tromper une partie du peuple, une partie du temps, mais on ne peut pas tromper tout le peuple tout le temps » (Abraham Lincoln).

— Mais prenons garde que notre joie, si légitime soit-elle, ne ternisse notre lucidité ! Maurice Thorez a dit quelque part : « la première qualité du militant révolutionnaire, c'est d'avoir le cœur chaud et la tête froide ». Cela est vrai pour les peuples aussi. Voilà pourquoi nous avons « à penser tout de suite à certains problèmes vitaux de notre pays au lendemain du 27 avril ».

Certes, aujourd'hui comme hier, c'est au peuple togolais qu'il revient de décider de son orientation politique. Mais provoquer sur cette orientation des discussions qui ne nous semblent point négatives, ou formuler des espoirs qui probablement mûrissent déjà dans les meilleurs cœurs et esprits de notre pays, ce n'est pas, à notre sens, rendre un mauvais service à ce dernier. D'ailleurs, seuls ceux qui n'ont confiance ni en eux-mêmes, ni en les peuples, ont peur de la vérité.

Donc, le cœur toujours chaud comme hier, mais la tête également froide comme hier, essayons, après un bref commentaire des résultats des élections du 27 avril 1958, de passer en revue certains problèmes qui nous paraissent très importants, face à la nouvelle situation politique créée dans notre pays par ces élections.

QUELQUES LEÇONS DES ELECTIONS DU 27 AVRIL

1^o Le gouvernement français et ses acolytes « togolais » qui, jusque-là repoussaient énergiquement l'idée d'un renouvellement de la (corrompue) « Assemblée législative », firent brusquement volte-face et acceptèrent la décision du 25 novembre 1957 de l'Assemblée Générale de l'O.N.U. Pourquoi ? Parce qu'il devenait de plus en plus évident qu'un Ghana indépendant ne saurait rester longtemps sans influencer le mouvement de libération nationale au Togo ; que les patriotes togolais n'allaient plus tarder à compléter la farce des discours, des pétitions, des monnaies et des mémoires par la force des grenades et des fusils, qu'ils n'allaient plus tarder à compléter l'arme de la critique par la critique des armes. (Et si l'on pouvait « battre » les réactionnaires sur leur propre terrain, ne serait-il pas la plus belle des citadelles ?) Ainsi les colonialistes français, convaincus que le temps travaillait contre eux, pensaient qu'en mettant en marche leur machinerie une fois de plus, l'Assemblée Générale de l'O.N.U., à sa 13^e session, allant intégrer notre pays dans l'« Union française ».

Mais à ce jeu macharvelique, les porteurs ont repoussé par un resserrement de leurs rangs. Le Comité de l'Unité Togolaise (C.U.T.), le Mouvement Populaire Togolais (M.P.T.) et la Jeunesse ont été à la pointe du mouvement, et coudes, proclamant les mêmes mots d'ordre. Ils ont gagné le 27 avril tout les mains.

« L'Unité » (N° 100) du 27 avril, sous le titre « L'Unité », a écrit :

« Les autorités françaises avaient en outre mis encore sur leurs procédures rouillées. La commission des Nations Unies n'ayant pratiquement pas pu intervenir dans la révision des listes électorales, celles-ci sont restées tellement compliquées que beaucoup de personnes n'ont pas pu voter. Les rouages de la procédure nécessaire pour obtenir le droit de vote ne sont pas non plus faits pour favoriser les nationalistes. Une déclaration du C.U.T. dénonçant les fraudes à la veille des élections disait que sur 53.125 plaintes, seulement 4.945 avaient été retenues (« l'Humanité » du 29-4-58).

Quelques jours avant le 27 avril, le gouvernement français annonçait spectaculairement que la « R.A.T. » se muait en « République du Togo », que l'« Assemblée législative » remplacerait désormais le « Comité des Députés », que le Haut-Commissaire français « cessait de présider le conseil des ministres », que les prérogatives de la France « se limitaient » à l'aventure à la monnaie, à la défense et aux relations extérieures.

Et pourtant, selon « l'Humanité » du 29-4-58, près de 70 % des électeurs ont pris part au vote. Sur 46 sièges, une trentaine va aux nationalistes. Exemple typique : dans le cercle de Nijala, où le « président » de la tribu « Assemblée législative » sortant obtient seulement 1.938 voix, le candidat du C.U.T. en recueille 6.935 (nous n'américains pas recevoir une telle gifle).

Où sont donc ces « 70 % » des Togolais qui avaient opté le 28 octobre 1956 pour la « R.A.T. » ? Quel crime le parti dit du « Progrès » a-t-il commis pour subir en moins de 18 mois un sort aussi pitoyable ? Mais hier encore on nous disait pourtant que le Togo était plus « indépendant » que le Ghana ! Mais sur les timbres postaux nous voyons pourtant une Blanche et une Noire la main dans la main, symbolisant ainsi la « réconciliation » du monde de l'après-guerre !

La vérité est que les colonialistes français et leurs agents noirs avaient trompé le monde ; la vérité est qu'ils avaient purement et simplement menti ; la vérité est que toutes les « consultations » qui ont eu lieu après l'indépendance du Togo ont été des caricatures de consultations, qu'ils avaient disposé la réalité de façon à ce que se fût fait à terre et son pied en l'air.

Il découle de cela que le peuple togolais a clairement exprimé tous les souhaits de l'Empire colonial français aux noirs : « Union Française », « R.A.T. », « Communauté Franco-Africaine », etc., et, avec eux, tous leurs protagonistes africains qui, à moins qu'ils ne cherchent à temps (subit) s'effondrent le sort des Sao-Daï, des Ghénou, des Ben Arofa, des Robert Ajaavou. (A ce propos, significative est la question que s'est posée la radio française au sujet de M. Robert Ajaavou, à savoir si ce dernier pourrait encore vivre au Togo. Mais on pourrait lui offrir une belle villa sur la Côte d'Azur. N'est-il pas mérité de la partie française ?)

« Les étudiants togolais en particulier, d'Afrique Noire en général, qu'on a toujours traités d'« Illuminés », d'« acrobates », d'« excités », d'« irresponsables », ont raison, car ils se sont toujours placés sur les positions des leaders fondamentalistes de leurs peuples. On aimerait savoir ce que pensent maintenant ces anciens camarades, anciens étudiants en France qui, une fois rentrés au pays, ont trahi leurs peuples, trahi leur propre dignité contre quelques milliers de francs C.F.A.

Non, ce n'est pas en allant de « Conseil de gouvernement », en « R.A.T. », de « R.A.T. » en « R.T. » qu'on liquide le colonialisme français, mais en donnant à celui-ci un grand coup de balai. Voilà pourquoi le VIII^e Congrès de la Fédération des Étudiants d'Afrique Noire en France (F.E.A.N.F.) pouvait proclamer : « ... compte tenu de la nature particulière de l'impérialisme français, l'INDEPENDANCE doit être CONQUISE, non par une addition de réformes illusoires, mais par une LUTTE REVOLUTIONNAIRE DES MASSES POPULAIRES AFRICAINES ».

« Lorsque les masses sont éclairées, elles choisissent la seule voie digne de l'Afrique Noire, celle de l'indépendance ».

« Avis donc à ceux qui ont lancé un « défi » au Dr Kwame N'Krumah, qui ont préféré « la mystique de la collaboration », la « Communauté Franco-Africaine » à l'indépendance réelle.

« Les peuples ne prennent les armes que là où ils se voient contraints de le faire. Raison de plus pour soutenir jusqu'au bout la lutte héroïque de l'Algérie.

« Enfin nous pouvons affirmer d'ores et déjà que la désagrégation du système colonial français (en particulier, européen en général) en Afrique Noire, ira en s'aggravant dans les années qui viennent, car on ne voit pas bien pourquoi le Togo pourrait être indépendant alors que le Dahomey, le Sénégal, la Côte d'Ivoire, le Kamerun, le Congo du belge, etc., ne le pourraient pas.

Mais c'est précisément pour cette raison que nos responsabilités s'accroissent, que nous devons être plus vigilants que jamais, car l'ennemi n'ignore point que la tempête l'attend et se prépare déjà à l'attrister.

LES IMPERIALISTES N'ONT POINT DIT

LEUR DERNIER MOT

Vraiment, il faut avoir toute la candeur d'un agneau (bélier) pour s'imaginer que les impérialistes se croient pour autant brisés. Dans cet ordre d'idées, très instructives sont : a) le silence de la presse et de la radio françaises sur les résultats du 27 avril comparativement au grand tapage orchestré à la veille et au lendemain de la proclamation de la « R.A.T. » ; l'interprétation visiblement nostalgique mais aussi révélatrice des résultats donnée par la radio française : 23 sièges aux nationalistes, 13 aux « amis » de la France et les 10 autres à ce qu'on ne sait au juste quels partis... b) la déclaration du « premier ministre » N. Grunitzky à la même radio. Alors qu'il est évident que notre pays doit normalement accéder, sans délai à son indépendance, M. Nicolas Grunitzky, lui, dit qu'il ne sait où va maintenant le Togo, avouant par là-même que lui et ses patrons ne sont pas disposés à laisser la paix à notre patrie.

Par ailleurs, le Togo est limité par le Dahomey et la Haute-Volta : deux colonies françaises que son développement influencera certainement. Il a le même statut juridique que le Kamerun où la lutte de libération a reçu au 27 avril un coup de fouet. Croit-on, dans ces conditions, que les colonialistes français demandent au Seigneur des bénédictions pour les Togolais ? Non, ils ne le feront jamais ! L'ennemi « ne peut pas être pour nous une mère, il ne peut pas être pour nous un père ». L'ennemi est vilain, méchant, cynique, félin ; l'ennemi ne reculera devant aucun crime pour perpétuer son exploitation et son oppression inhumaines. Il cherchera par tous les moyens imaginables à torpiller notre évolution.

Il cherchera à corrompre quelques éléments de la nouvelle Assemblée et du nouveau gouvernement afin de la désagréger de l'intérieur ; il cherchera à provoquer des incidents de frontière, à opposer des groupements ethniques à d'autres. Il cherchera à jouer sur le texte de la résolution du 25 novembre 1957 de l'Assemblée Générale de l'O.N.U. N'oublions pas que celle-ci a été proposée par le Canada dont la diplomatie comme celle des U.S.A. est caractérisée par la politique du double jeu, qu'elle renferme des formulations habiles comme : « en consultation AVEC l'Autorité administrative », « Si la nouvelle Assemblée législative du Togo ET l'Autorité administrative le lui demandent », « compte tenu des CONDITIONS qui régneront alors », etc. Les colonialistes tenteront de jouer sur les termes de l'article 76 b de la Charte des ations Unies, d'acheter certaines délégations à l'O.N.U. et tentent d'organiser des opérations tendant à compromettre la nouvelle Assemblée et le nouveau gouvernement. Ces deux tentatives ont été déjouées par les peuples africains. Nous, les derniers événements du Maroc, de l'Indonésie; d'ailleurs, nous ne pouvons pas nous empêcher de penser aux mesures adéquates.

ARRACHONS ET SAUVEGARDONS L'INDEPENDANCE

Pour cela il faut dans l'immédiat quatre choses, à notre avis :

1) Maintenir et consolider le Front Unique Patriotique. Le fait que « Le Monde » qui n'aime pas du tout les nationalistes togolais s'empresse dès le 28 avril déjà, sous la signature de (G.C.), de rappeler qu'« il n'est pas exclu que certains désaccords s'élevassent entre les vainqueurs d'hier... » doit nous mettre la puce à l'oreille.

Certes, si les trois principaux partis nationalistes : le M.T., le M.P.T. et la J.U.V.E.N.T.O. étaient absolument d'accord, ils auraient constitué un même parti. Mais face à la situation actuelle, il serait trop dangereux de créer des divergences sur tous les toits. Ceux-ci doivent être réglés en famille. C'est dire qu'il est indispensable de maintenir et de consolider le Front Unique patriotique.

Dans ce front, les jeunes ont un rôle déterminant, un rôle de fermeté à jouer. Cela suppose qu'ils se donnent une organisation vraiment révolutionnaire, autonome, adaptée aux exigences de l'heure, intimement liée aux masses populaires qu'elle arme de perspectives claires, hardies. Ainsi serait réalisée la vœu du VIII^e congrès de la F.E.A.N.F. qui, dans sa résolution sur le Togo, recommande plus particulièrement au Mouvement de la Jeunesse Togolaise, l'impérieuse nécessité de se donner une structure démocratique; de mobiliser rationnellement la masse pour le combat décisif et de se mettre résolument à l'avant-garde du mouvement de libération nationale.

2) Unir plus à fond le Nord et le Sud. Diviser pour régner dit Machiavel. Le colonialisme divisoit par des artifices politiques, la démagogie, la corruption, la diversion. Mais la division pour régner se traduit avant tout par la structure économique, politique et sociale de nos pays. Le colonialisme nous a donc divisés dans la vie elle-même.

Sur le plan économique, le Nord est réduit à un rôle secondaire. Sur le plan politique, on y a maintenu et utilisé contre les peuples un féodalisme anachronique.

Sur le plan social, on a entretenu un amalgame entre le colon blanc et ses frères du Nord. On a entretenu de « supériorité » chez l'indigène du Sud vis-à-vis de celui du Nord et, par réaction, une certaine suspicion, voire de haine chez celui-ci à l'égard de celui-là. D'ailleurs, ces sentiments ne se sont heureusement pas cristallisés dans les couches populaires, mais surtout chez les lettrés.

Il est évident que notre patrie ne saurait vite prospérer sans une réconciliation de tous les cœurs. Il est non moins évident que l'obtention de l'indépendance n'efface pas comme par enchantement tous les minimes du colonialisme. Il s'avère ainsi indispensable de mener une politique appropriée et systématique en direction du Nord du Togo. Développer particulièrement et rapidement l'instruction dans le Nord, voilà ce qui nous semble la tâche prépondérante dans les jours qui suivront l'indépendance. A cette fin, la radio et le cinéma seraient bien venus, surtout pour l'enseignement de l'hygiène.

Par des cours du soir, on apprendrait à lire et à écrire aux adultes. Nous pensons également que des actions concrètes, par exemple, des festivals de jeunes, des échanges d'élèves entre certaines familles du Nord et du Sud, sont à retenir.

Mais c'est surtout les lettrés qui ont à opérer la reconversion des esprits. Le lettré du Sud doit comprendre que le Cabral, le Koutchali, etc., sont ses compatriotes, ses frères, tout comme le Mino ou l'Aulon. Parallèlement, le lettré du Nord fera preuve de largesse d'esprit; il réalisera que les cruelles réalités cyniquement imposées à nous tous, à lui comme à son compatriote du Sud — ces réalités qui nous ont fait connaître — sont les mêmes, objectives, inhérentes à la nature même du système colonial de l'impérialisme.

Il est vrai que la confrontation entre nous a été la même, mais c'est sur le plan Nord-Sud qu'elle paraît plus voyante, qu'elle a été la plus utilisée contre nous.

3) Mobiliser constamment les masses populaires. La lutte continue. Effectivement, il serait trop opportun de démobiliser les forces vives du pays. Des actions concrètes doivent se poursuivre sur le terrain intérieur comme international. Sur le plan intérieur, des lettres, des délégations circuleront auprès des élus, notamment auprès des députés élus au sein de la « R.A.T. ». Sur le plan extérieur, des pétitions seront encore adressées à l'O.N.U., lors des prochains débats sur le Togo. Ces pétitions diront : « Messieurs les honorables délégués aux Nations Unies, avant le 27 avril 1958, vous pouviez, à la rigueur, douter de notre détermination d'accéder à notre indépendance; mais maintenant vous avez une preuve irréfutable sous vos yeux; accordez-nous donc ce que nous voulons : notre indépendance ! »

4) Rechercher les alliances naturelles. Seule l'alerte à l'opinion mondiale arrêtera nos ennemis dans leurs évanescents nouveaux plans. Et puisque nos ennemis ont leurs alliés, nous rechercherons donc nous aussi les nôtres. Ces alliés naturels sont, selon notre opinion : les Etats indépendants d'Afrique, ceux de la Conférence d'Accra, les pays de Bandung et du socialisme, le prolétariat des pays impérialistes.

Toujours sous l'égide de la sauvegarde de l'indépendance, il faut noter la nécessité d'une union avec le Ghana qui mérite une mention spéciale.

POUR UNE UNION AVEC LE GHANA

Le monde de demain sera un monde des « grands ensembles ». Cela ne répond pas seulement au vœu des millions d'habitants de l'immensité d'un tel monde, mais aussi aux nécessités économiques, politiques et culturelles de notre temps. Ce sont ces exigences qui ont créé jadis les U.S.A. et plus récemment l'U.R.S.S., l'Inde, la Chine Populaire, la République Arabe Unie (R.A.U.) et à coup sûr le Maghreb de demain. Il convient donc que l'Afrique Noire aussi se mette d'ores et déjà au rythme de cette évolution.

Mais une union du Togo et du Ghana ne se fera pas sans un lienement sérieux. Certainement oui.

Historiquement, on sait que les populations du Sud et du Centre du Togo et du Ghana ont toutes émigré de l'Empire du Bénin. De même celles qui occupent le Nord de ces deux pays seraient venues de l'Afrique Centrale occidentale. Donc, au Togo comme au Ghana, il n'existe que deux grands courants de population. Or, le fait que la colonisation les a obligés à vivre dans des cadres déterminés a créé chez elles la conscience nationale. Mais en même temps il n'existe pas encore en Afrique Noire des cristallisations nationales irréductibles comme en Europe. Le terrain est donc favorable à l'union.

La partie orientale du Togo n'a que 33.000 km² et à peine 2 millions d'habitants. Or, quels sont grosso modo les problèmes qui se posent à l'Etat d'un pays nouvellement libéré du joug colonial ? Il lui faut créer une industrie sans laquelle il n'est pas possible d'assurer l'indépendance économique et la défense du territoire, moderniser l'agriculture pour nourrir le peuple, former des cadres techniques, assumer des représentations diplomatiques. Il est clair que le Togo ne saurait vite faire face tout seul à toutes ces obligations. Heureusement, nous avons à côté de nous un Etat africain indépendant : le Ghana. Le barrage sur la Volta n'est-il pas déjà à cheval sur le Togo et le Ghana ?

Ainsi donc, nous avons là une chance inestimable, saisissons-la.

Chers Frères de combat,

Le peuple Kamerunais et son âme immortelle, l'Union des Populations du Cameroun, ont été et restent sensibles à la marque éclatante de solidarité et de sympathie que vous avez manifestée pour eux en raison de leur lutte acharnée contre le colonialisme, à l'occasion de votre VIII^e Congrès, par les résolutions que vous avez prises.

Comme vous l'avez si judicieusement remarqué, la lutte que le peuple kamerunais mène quotidiennement sur son sol national n'est pas sa lutte seule. Elle n'est que l'un des aspects et l'une des étapes de la révolution qui doit s'opérer — et qui nécessairement arrivera — dans tous les pays colonisés et dans l'Afrique en particulier.

L'Union des Populations du Cameroun est pleinement consciente de cette idéologie; elle sait réellement que l'indépendance du Kameroun sans l'indépendance de toute l'Afrique ne serait qu'une utopie.

Mais notre façon de concevoir l'interdépendance des peuples — ce qui, exclu de facto et de jure l'autarcie et le chauvinisme — est basée sur le principe de l'égalité et du respect mutuels et sur le droit de chaque peuple à choisir et forger la forme propre à sa révolution. Nous n'entendons pas non plus que l'interdépendance soit la porte à l'opportunisme ou à une communauté franco-africaine basée sur l'exploitation d'une partie par l'autre. C'est en cela que nous différons à l'U.P.C. du tandem Houphouët-Arboussier et de la clique N'bidia.

Nous savons aussi à l'U.P.C. la contribution qu'une élite dynamique peut apporter à cette lutte inéluctable, mais d'une issue toujours favorable à l'avantage des peuples opprimés. Et c'est pour cela que nous avons toujours, dans notre révolution, placé une grande confiance en nos étudiants.

Nous savons d'autre part que l'indépendance suppose et exige des cadres. Et c'est dans cette perspective que nous nous penchons avec une attention particulière sur la formation des étudiants et de notre jeunesse. En serviteurs authentiques du peuple, nous pensons à lui plus qu'à nos « bourses », en acceptant tous les sacrifices qu'implique un tel pari.

L'Afrique reste à l'heure actuelle le seul bastion du colonialisme. Elle est, vous ne l'ignorez pas, le réservoir des matières premières. Elle représente plus de 40 pour cent de forces hydroélectriques contre 12,5 pour cent à l'Europe. L'aluminium de France est transformé aujourd'hui à Edéa parce que le kWh d'électricité coûte 21 fois moins cher au Kameroun qu'en France. Les gisements de fer de Kibbi, de Guinée française, de Mauritanie et du Sahara, ont les seules possibilités pour la sidérurgie américaine, française, britannique et allemande. À cause de ces richesses immenses, l'Afrique est, selon Anton Zischka la « chance unique » de l'Europe.

Vous ne devez pas seulement obtenir des diplômes et venir constituer en Afrique l'armée de robbots. Vous devez avoir en Afrique « droit de cité » et n'être pas de simples usurfructuaires.

C'est parce que nous ne devons pas sortir du colonialisme politique pour laisser nos pieds dans les sabots du colonialisme économique, qu'il est un impérieux devoir pour nous de continuer la bataille — qu'elles qu'en soient par ailleurs les difficultés — car les lendemains enchevêtrés sont les nôtres. Nous vous en offrons l'exemple.

Nous savons pertinemment que notre victoire contribuera à la libération de toute l'Afrique. Sur le serment qu'ensemble nous avions prêté, Houphouët, d'Arboussier et nous, nous n'accepterons jamais que la plus petite paille de souillure vienne y trouver refuge. Aux tentations et aux limousines de ministériels, nous répondons qu'il vaut mieux être pauvres ouvriers sans veto dans une Afrique indépendante que d'être les riches de l'Afrique asservie par les chaînes de la « loi-cadre ».

Nous sommes convaincus que la lutte que vous avez décidée de livrer pour notre cause aura son retentissement dans le monde et son effet dans l'Afrique, dans cette Afrique que nous voulons réellement libre, pour les Africains et par les Africains.

Dans cet espoir, croyez, chers frères de combat, à l'assurance de notre haute et respectueuse déférence.

Le Caire, 10 mars 1958.

Perquisitions et interrogatoires

Les autorités judiciaires françaises ont choisi le moment où les étudiants vont en vacances pour abattre la répression sur les étudiants kamerunais réduits à l'impossibilité de quitter la France. Des perquisitions ont débuté lundi 7 juillet au domicile de nos camarades Michel N'Doh et Félix N'Zié.

Ceci entre dans le cadre de poursuites pour « atteinte à la sûreté intérieure de l'Etat et reconstitution de Ligue dissoute », sur commission rogatoire de la part du Juge d'Instruction d'Eséka (Kameroun Oriental). Outre ces accusations fallacieuses, les colonialistes ont voulu se surpasser : Félix N'Zié a été entraîné de force à la police pour y être interrogé sans mandat d'arrêt.

Il est clair que de telles pratiques, loin de nous lasser, nous déterminent au contraire à lutter plus ardemment contre l'insupportable système colonial.

Aux travailleurs africains, aux démocrates français et de monde entier, nous lançons un appel pressant pour une solidarité active.

Exécution sommaire ?

Nous recevons cette lettre d'un détenu kamerunais :
Ce 8-6-58

Je porte sur ce bout de papier le fait suivant : Hier soir, il m'a été désigné une petite pallole hors de la prison dans laquelle je dois habiter avec deux autres détenus. Aucune justification ne m'a été donnée pour cet isolement. Compte tenu de la situation encore tragique en Sanago-Maritime, j'ai une inquiétude pour ces mesures envisagées. Il est fort douteux que ce soit pour des fins normales. Car, cet exil ne nous assure aucune garantie de notre vie. Veuillez porter et vous le jugez utile cet état de chose à l'opinion métropolitaine et internationale. Veuillez trouver ici mes adieux.

(« Express », 15 juin 1956).

POURQUOI CE NUMÉRO SPECIAL SUR LE KAMERUN ?

Depuis 1955 un drame hante le sol kamerunais. Face aux Kamerunais revendiquant pacifiquement l'unification et l'indépendance de leur pays, les gouvernants français n'ont trouvé d'autres solutions que de dissoudre leurs organisations patriotiques : U.P.C. (Union des Populations du Cameroun), U.D.E. F.E.C. (Union Démocratique des Femmes du Cameroun) et J.D.C. (Jeunesse Démocratique du Cameroun). Puis ce fut le déclenchement de l'aventure militaire, le déclenchement d'une « armée régulière » de soldats, de policiers et de fantoches. L'aggravation de la situation finit par préoccuper l'ensemble des étudiants d'Afrique Noire (sauf évidemment le groupuscule invétéré du r.e.c. évoluant en dehors de la F.E.A.N.F. sur le sillage du traître M'Bida). Aussi le 8^e Congrès de la F.E.A.N.F. devait-il placer au centre de nos activités cette année l'organisation de la solidarité avec le peuple Kamerunais dressé comme un roc face à l'hystérique répression coloniale.

Cette solidarité devait se manifester sous différentes formes, entre autres :

- un numéro spécial consacré au problème kamerunais ;
- un soutien actif aux étudiants kamerunais victimes de la répression ;
- une campagne d'explication partout, en Afrique et dans le monde entier ;
- l'organisation d'une semaine de solidarité avec des formes diverses de manifestations.

Le Congrès précisait que désormais, tout étudiant africain devait se considérer comme engagé dans la lutte menée par le peuple kamerunais, sous la direction de son glorieux parti l'indéfectible U.P.C. Ce numéro est donc la nécessité au seuil des vacances et surtout au moment où l'appareil de répression se renforce au Kamerun avec la complicité d'un nouveau fantôme : Ahidjo.

POSITION DES COLONIALISTES : LA GUERRE A OUIRANCE

Après avoir tenté vainement la politique des oppositions africaines à l'intérieur, les colonialistes durent se résoudre à semer la terreur, à envoyer des renforts de troupes toujours plus nombreux (actuellement plus de 40.000 hommes). Ces troupes ne viennent pas seulement de France. C'est aussi des soldats noirs qui sont envoyés de divers coins d'Afrique pour combattre leurs propres compatriotes au Kamerun. Les colonialistes mettent le feu à des villages entiers. Prisons et camps de concentration regorgent de détenus malades et sans soins, des enfants aux vieillards, du simple badaud au respectable notable de la ville. Ces détenus sont accusés fallacieusement de faire partie d'associations de malfaiteurs ou de tentative de reconstitution de ligue dissoute... L'exemple de Kaminy Anatole, président de l'Association des Notables Kamerunais, traité comme un bandit à la prison d'Esaka est éloquent. L'un de ses quatre enfants est décédé lors de sa détention, les trois autres sont gravement malades. Lui-même est dans un état de santé inquiétant. Les détenus meurent dans le silence des prisons, par maladie, ou plus fréquemment sous le coup des tortures ou des exécutions sommaires.

Les étudiants kamerunais en France ne sont pas épargnés. Ils n'ont pas la possibilité de rentrer chez eux. On leur refuse allocations de vacances et même le simple visa pour sortir de France. Plusieurs d'entre eux voient leurs bourses brutalement supprimées, malgré leurs réussites aux examens. A ces faits s'ajoutent des perquisitions, des tracasseries policières comme c'est le cas à Toulouse au moment même où nous écrivons.

POSITIONS DES PARLEMENTAIRES ET AUTRES PRETENDUS LEADERS AFRICAINS

Ces hommes se sont distingués par leur honteuse indifférence vis à vis du drame qui se déroule au Kamerun. Des fois, au cours d'un Congrès, la pression des masses les amène à parler doucement de l'indépendance du Kamerun.

Mais aucun d'eux n'entend s'opposer à l'envoi des troupes africaines au Kamerun. Aucun d'eux ne se décide de recueillir

La XII^e SESSION de L'O.N.U. et le KAMERUN

Poussé par le souci d'informer mes compatriotes et l'opinion publique, j'ai estimé qu'il était de mon devoir de porter à leur connaissance les termes de la Résolution votée à une majorité de plus de 2/3 des voix par l'Assemblée générale des Nations-Unies en décembre 1957.

Car il est curieux que la presse locale ait gardé le silence sur ce vote et que celle-là même qui passe pour nationaliste n'ait également rien dit au sujet de la résolution de l'O.N.U.

En voici le texte :

A. — La résolution A/C4-15, 15/RCV2 invite les nations Tutrices (France et Grande-Bretagne) à fixer une date pour l'accession du Kamerun à son indépendance totale.

O'après cette même résolution, elles devront rapporter à la 13^e Session (oct.-nov. 1958) les résultats des travaux entrepris sur des conditions qui y ont été données au préalable.

B. — La seconde résolution demande à la France de proclamer une amnistie totale et générale au Kamerun oriental.

C. — La troisième résolution interdit l'intégration de tout pays sous tutelle au traité du marché commun européen.

D. — La 4^e résolution invite les administrateurs des pays sous tutelle à livrer des pièces de voyage aux étudiants desdits pays afin qu'ils se rendent dans les pays des « Nations-Unies » qui leur auraient accordé des bourses d'études.

A la lecture de cette résolution, des questions surgissent d'emblée à l'esprit du lecteur :

Pourquoi la « Presse du Cameroun » n'a-t-elle informé qu'imparfaitement l'opinion sur les travaux des Nations-Unies en ce qui concerne ladite résolution ? Elle s'est bornée à critiquer M. Félix-Roland Moumié, président de l'U.P.C., qui, selon ce journal, n'a pu faire triompher sa revendication d'indépendance immédiate. Mais au moins, songe-t-elle au fait que dans l'action suivie et vigoureuse de ce mouvement, l'on ne parlerait pas de « Chef de Gouvernement » et l'on ne ferait pas répéter même à « ces » carpes, la leçon enseignée par l'U.P.C. sur les revendications de Réunification et d'Indépendance, celles-ci servant aux « officiels » de termes de propagande pour dessaisir ce parti de son programme et détourner ainsi les masses populaires ?

Autre question. Quels motifs cachent le fait que des « hommes politiques » qui ont prétendu « représenter » le peuple devant l'O.N.U., reviennent d'une mission, mais ne disent mot des travaux de celle-ci.

Autant de questions qui ne peuvent laisser en repos l'esprit des nationalistes conséquents. Car après tout, la paix n'est pas revenue, les prisons regorgent de détenus politiques, les condamnations maxima prononcées par les tribunaux français écrasent lourdement les mêmes détenus, les déportations et les enlèvements se poursuivent, le régime politique n'est pas instauré, en somme, rien n'est fait depuis quatre mois sur la base de la résolution de l'O.N.U.

Pour étayer ce que j'avance, démontrant qu'il n'y ni calme ni sécurité, l'auteur de présent article vous cite son propre cas, comme un exemple entre mille :

« Je suis sorti de prison le 24 août 1957 après avoir « purgé » deux ans de prison ferme en raison de mes opinions. A peine deux mois en liberté, sur l'ordre de l'administration de Douala, je suis enlevé de mon domicile, la nuit du 18 octobre 1957, laissant mes six enfants et trois femmes. Quinze jours durant, menotté et jeté dans une « jeep », je fus promené de Douala à Boumnyebel et vice-versa.

« Présenté à Sanaga-Maritime aux « Indicateurs de la mort », ceux-ci ne purent m'identifier. Ensuite, ce fut le tour du Juge de paix d'Eséka, qui déclare n'avoir pas ouvert une information quelconque contre moi et ajoute que je n'étais pas arrêté dans son ressort.

« Ramené à Douala, toujours sous la bâche, probablement après une vigoureuse protestation populaire à la tête de laquelle se placèrent mes trois femmes et mon avocat M^{re} Yves Louisa, expulsé du Kamerun peu après, le même mois. Je fus mis en liberté, mais sous résidence surveillée, avec l'ordre de me présenter tous les deux jours à la brigade de la gendarmerie. Il faut noter en passant, que dans tous ces événements, le service judiciaire de Douala, région où je suis domicilié, n'avait pas, à ma connaissance, ouvert une information jusque-là contre moi.

« Un mois après, le 7 décembre 1957, j'ai été convoqué au 3^e Cabinet du Parquet de Douala où je me rends seul. Le Juge dudit cabinet me notifie verbalement qu'il avait lancé depuis trois jours un mandat d'arrêt contre moi et établissait séance tenante, un mandat de dépôt sous l'inculpation de « réorganisation du parti dissous après ma libération » sans aucune pièce justificative à l'appui.

« Peu après, je déposai une demande de mise en liberté provisoire, interjetée à la chambre des mises en accusation où elle reste sans suite. Au retour du dossier, le Juge m'extrait pour me présenter une « pièce » dont il déclare qu'elle porte « objectivement » mon nom, comme pièce à conviction — élément « vu après 4 mois de détention — dans mon dossier. »

J'ai voulu, en citant ces exemples de parodie judiciaire, aussi révoltants faire toucher du doigt à ceux de mes compatriotes qui croient encore aux diverses déclarations pomposes des bénéficiaires du régime, qui bavardent encore sur l'existence du calme et de la paix dans le pays, qu'il n'en est rien.

Mais les hommes politiques actuels, à qui le pays paye une « vie de prince », continuent à ne pas comprendre que des hommes souffrent, physiquement et moralement, que des milliers d'innocents se battent et meurent, qu'ils soient français, kamerunais ou bambaras.

Le pays a donc le droit de connaître, c'est pourquoi il s'interroge instamment sur son sort. Devrons-nous croire que depuis 1955, la France ignore ce que veut le peuple kamerunais ? Non. Personne au Kamerun ne peut le prétendre. L'on entend partout maintenant dans les discours, parler encore des pouvoirs internes, de calendrier, de marché commun. Ce n'est pas là, ce que veut notre peuple. L'amnistie générale et inconditionnelle d'abord, la réunification et l'indépendance totales, immédiatement après, tenant compte de la résolution de l'O.N.U., sont les seuls objectifs pour lesquels notre peuple souffre et lutte. Tout le reste ne peut-être que phrases et tromperie.

SUITE DE L'EDITORIAL

le moindre sou pour venir en aide au peuple kamerunais. Accusé de ces soi-disant révolutionnaires n'ose mobiliser les masses africaines pour manifester contre la guerre au Kamerun. Tous pensent au contraire que le moindre geste pratique en faveur des maquisards Kamerunais les accule à la lutte armée qu'ils fuient comme le mouton égaré fuit les coups de tonnerre dans la nuit enténébrée.

Au Kamerun même un nouveau fantôme a surgi, à la place du sanguinaire M'Bida. Mais l'accentuation de la terreur militaire la récente interdiction de la manifestation populaire des associations traditionnelles suffisent pour nous faire apprécier le « libéralisme » de Ahidjo, planté là avec ses thèses « fédéralistes ».

DEVELOPPONS NOTRE SOUTIEN

Nul doute que le peuple kamerunais réussira à conquérir son unité et son indépendance. Sa lutte est juste. Sa direction exemplaire. Inévitablement sont ceux qui s'obstinent à ignorer cette direction : l'U.P.C., ceux qui suspendent leurs espoirs à l'avalanche des fantômes. Qu'ils sachent qu'on ne fera rien au Kamerun sans l'U.P.C. et qui plus est, contre elle.

Quant à nous étudiants nous devons aider à la rapide victoire de la Révolution Kamerunaise, partie intégrante de la Révolution Africaine. Ces vacances doivent être utilisées à fonder, démasquons la répression démasquons la complicité (affichée ou insouvenable) des « leaders » traitres. Développons les conférences, les veilles d'informations, les campagnes de presse en faveur des maquisards, appelons tous nos compatriotes à organiser des Comités de soutien du Kamerun, des grèves de solidarité. C'est là une chose parfaitement possible et la moindre des choses qu'un Africain conscient doit faire pour aider aux Africains engagés dans une lutte de libération.

DRAPEAU KAMERUNAIS

Tel est le titre de l'article dans lequel, pour la première fois en mai 1955, le Secrétaire Général de l'U.P.C., Ruben Um Nyobé, présentait le drapeau national au public, deux jours après son adoption enthousiaste au cours d'un meeting populaire à Yaoundé. Comme il fallait bien s'y attendre, le gouvernement français et ses supports s'empres- sèrent de présenter l'une de ses couleurs dominantes (le rouge) comme une preuve de plus des convictions com- munistes de l'U.P.C. Cet argument des plus fragiles fut monté en épingle dans certaines organisations interna- tionales. Au Kamerun cependant peu de personnes crurent à ce qu'ils considéraient à juste titre comme une manœuvre — heureusement courue de fil blanc. — Mais, si dans notre pays l'on peut considérer le débat comme clos, à l'échelle internationale, nous continuons à être l'objet, dans certains milieux acquis à la doctrine colo- niale, d'un véritable interrogatoire serré sur le choix d'une couleur qui, sur notre emblème national perpétue simplement le souvenir de celles et ceux qui, dans le acquis, les prisons-carcères ou ailleurs donnent leur sang pour que triomphe la cause sacrée : réunification et indé- pendance immédiates. C'est donc la couleur de la révo- lution et l'on n'a pas besoin d'être l'élève de Karl Marx ou de Lénine pour procéder à un tel choix historique. Du reste au nom de quoi la France et la Grande-Bretagne, pour ne citer que ces deux, ont-elles adopté le rouge qui n'est nullement dissimulé sur leurs couleurs nation- les respectives ?

L'article de notre camarade Ruben Um Nyobé écrivait presque chaque phrase le grand échafaudage de men- sanges que les colonialistes et si malheureusement édifié à l'endroit du Mouvement national Kamerunais.

Nous lui donnons la parole.

Crabe noir sur fond rouge, telles sont désormais les couleurs nationales camerounaises. C'est là une chose qui fera date.

Le 22 mai 1955, c'est-à-dire un mois, jour pour jour, après la signature de la « Proclamation Commune » pour l'indépendance immédiate du Cameroun, le Président de l'Union des Populations du Cameroun, Félix Roland Mou- mié et le Vice-Président Ernest Ouandié, annonçaient à la population de la ville de Yaoundé rassemblée en un meeting public, l'avènement du Drapeau National Came- rounais. Cette nouvelle fut saluée avec autant d'enthousiasme que le fut la « Proclamation Commune » du 22 avril dernier. C'est encore Douala, capitale politique du Cameroun, ville natale de l'U.P.C. (10 avril 1948) et lieu où fut adopté l'hymne National Camerounais (8 avril 1947) qui portera l'honneur d'avoir été la ville fondatrice de notre drapeau national dont les couleurs, combien significatives, sont désormais gravées dans le cœur bat- tant des patriotes camerounais.

On peut affirmer dès à présent sans crainte de se trom- per que l'existence d'un Hymne National et d'un Drapeau camerounais, les deux hautement appréciés par les can- ches les plus profondes du pays, sont un symbole mili- tant pour témoigner de la puissance du Mouvement Na- tional Camerounais.

L'avènement d'un drapeau camerounais qui fera bâtir une fois de plus les milieux colonialistes est un événe- ment qui rentre dans le jeu normal de l'évolution du sys- tème international de tutelle créé par la Charte des Nations Unies. En effet, pour l'évolution des territoires placés sous le régime de tutelle, la Charte ne prévoit-elle pas en son article 76, pour l'accession desdits territoires à l'autonomie ou à l'indépendance, la subordination de toute solution aux « aspirations librement exprimées des populations intéressées » ? Or, en dépit de la répression sanglante que les colonialistes français font peser sur notre peuple, il n'est pas, jusqu'à la presse étrangère un esprit raisonnable qui ne puisse reconnaître l'existence d'une aspiration majoritaire sinon unanime parmi les masses camerounaises qui posent avec netteté et esprit de responsabilité, le problème de l'indépendance immé- diate du Cameroun. Mais il y a un fait, c'est que procla- mée ou non, l'indépendance du Cameroun est désormais une réalité vivante dans l'esprit des citoyens de notre pays. Ainsi donc, en déclarant dans la « Proclamation Commune » que la tutelle devait prendre fin, les signa- taires n'avaient fait qu'interpréter le sentiment du peuple camerounais.

Voyons maintenant, si en droit, les autorités françaises peuvent élever une objection quelconque à l'emploi du drapeau camerounais même avant la proclamation de l'indépendance. Cela pose un problème important, cela soulève une question de souveraineté. Or, dans un terri- toire sous tutelle, la souveraineté appartient au peuple intéressé et rien qu'à lui seul. Les Nations Unies exercent les devoirs de tutelle, mais elles ne sauraient se déclarer souveraines dans les affaires nationales qui dépendent des populations, tel l'emploi du drapeau national. L'auto- rité administrative est chargée de l'administration, cela veut dire en clair que cette autorité est chargée d'une mis- sion qui lui est confiée par une autorité internationale. Or, en aucun cas, une autorité en mission ne peut reven- diquer le droit de souveraineté sur un pays où la mission lui est confiée. C'est l'une des raisons pour lesquelles nous nous étions dressés de toutes nos forces contre la prétention selon laquelle « La France administrera le Cameroun comme une partie intégrante du territoire fran- çais ».

Encore mieux, en préconisant l'emploi du drapeau des Nations Unies par une résolution adoptée au cours de sa 4^e session en 1949, l'Assemblée Générale des Nations Unies précisait que le drapeau de l'organisme interna- tional devait être hissé en voisinage du drapeau de la puissance administrative et du drapeau du territoire intéressé, « s'il en existe un ». L'emploi du drapeau camerounais n'est donc autre chose que la jouissance d'un droit découlant d'une résolution de l'Assemblée Générale, organe suprême des Nations Unies.

Les colonialistes mal intentionnés chercheront peut-être à développer un changement à l'endroit des couleurs choisies par le peuple. Le drapeau ne comportera pas d'un drapeau rouge, comme marchandises importées de Moscou? Eh bien! l'explication de cette couleur est simple. Les Camerounais qui n'ont été ni à l'école coloniale ni à l'école des sciences politiques comprenant la signification historique des couleurs de leur pays.

On sait que le 24 octobre 1954, l'Union des Populations du Cameroun avait pris l'initiative de célébrer le 5^e anniversaire de la constitution de l'Organisation des Nations Unies en hissant le drapeau de cette organisation devant les locaux du Mouvement. Cette initiative rencontra l'accueil enthousiaste des citoyens camerounais qui lui donnèrent une signification politique qui dépassa toutes nos prévisions. Depuis lors, les militants de notre Mouvement et les patriotes de toutes les couches, ont pris la ferme décision de populariser le drapeau des Nations Unies dans le territoire sous tutelle du Cameroun.

Mais les autorités françaises de l'entendement pas de cette oreille. C'est d'abord M. Prialo Alauze, faisant fonction d'adjoint au chef du secteur administratif de New-Bell à Douala, qui viendra faire une démarche officielle de la part des autorités administratives pour me faire savoir que l'on croyait qu'après les cérémonies du 24 octobre, le drapeau de l'O.N.U. ne continuerait plus à flotter devant les locaux de la direction de l'U.P.C. Comme il fallait s'y attendre, ma réponse fut claire et nette, dans le non-recevoir de sa démarche. Je déplorai en retour le fait que les représentants de la puissance administrative ne respectaient pas la résolution de la 4^e session de l'Assemblée Générale des Nations Unies, recommandant l'emploi du drapeau de l'O.N.U. sur les édifices et dans les lieux publics. Je revendiquai, en même temps que l'application de la résolution sur l'emploi du drapeau de l'O.N.U., la célébration de la journée internationale des Droits de l'Homme le 10 décembre, la Déclaration Universelle des Droits de l'Homme ayant été adoptée par l'Assemblée Générale des Nations Unies à Paris le 10 décembre (3^e session). Non seulement ce compte ne fut pas tenu de mes requêtes, mais les autorités françaises ont organisé, partout où la force du mouvement de masse ne les en empêchait pas, le procédé Huber « susciter des oppositions africaines » pour empêcher nos camarades de hisser le drapeau des Nations Unies, comme cela a été le cas les 8 et 9 avril à Garoua, les 8 et 24 avril à Bafoussam, pour ne citer que ces deux cas.

Partout ailleurs, chaque fois que le sentiment national traduit par les cérémonies du drapeau devait se manifester, l'administration Roland Pré envoyait mercenaires et militaires pour répondre le sang camerounais.

Depuis lors, la lutte pour l'Unification et l'Indépendance du Cameroun, symbolisée par les manifestations autour du drapeau de l'O.N.U. et d'autres démonstrations populaires n'est identifiée avec le sang camerounais, versé pour la juste cause.

En adoptant la couleur rouge, couleur de la révolution, les patriotes camerounais entendent prêter un serment de fidélité dans la lutte de libération nationale et prochainement dans le travail d'édification de l'Etat Camerounais, devant la glorieuse mémoire de Sara Ngoyak et de tant d'autres qui, en sacrifiant leur vie pour que vive le Cameroun, nous ont donné une leçon de civisme dont nous tiendrons compte dans tous les actes de notre vie de militants de la lutte patriotique.

Le crabe marque l'origine du nom actuel de notre pays dont l'orthographe doit redevenir « Kamerun » comme signe de réprobation de la division arbitraire de notre pays, division qui a malencontreusement donné lieu aux appellations « Cameroun » ou « Cameroons » suivant qu'on avait affaire à la domination française ou à la domination anglaise. L'appellation « Kamerun » ne signifie pas, sous l'avons déjà dit, un souhait de retour à l'administration allemande, mais tout simplement le symbole de notre ferme désir de reconstituer un « Kamerun » un et indivisible.

La couleur noire donnée au crabe signifie tout simplement que le Kamerun en lutte pour l'Unité et l'Indépendance nationales est un pays situé dans la partie de l'Afrique généralement connue sous le nom d'Afrique Noire, quartier général de l'exploitation coloniale.

Ainsi donc, rouge du sang versé pour la cause camerounaise, crabe, nom d'un Kamerun entrant dans une phase décisive de son histoire et noir, couleur de notre peuple, sont les trois idées maîtresses qui constituent la signification historique du drapeau camerounais.

COMITÉ DE BASE DE TOULOUSE

MOTION

Le Comité de base de l'U.P.C. de Toulouse, réuni en Assemblée générale ce 25 mai 1958, troisième anniversaire du premier assaut spectaculaire lancé par le Colonialisme français contre le Nationalisme kamerunais, Considérant que les événements de mai 1955 avaient été préparés, déclenchés et perpétrés par les colonialistes français dans l'ignoble dessein d'intégrer manu-militari le Kamerun dans leur empire colonial.

Considérant que depuis ces tragiques événements, la situation, jusqu'à ce jour, n'a fait qu'empirer, que le peuple kamerunais est soumis à la plus atroce des répressions, que des régions entières (Sanaga-Maritime et Bamiléké notamment) sont assiégées, déclinées et pillées par les forces dites « de l'ordre » ; que partout le pire fascisme s'est installé pour essayer de soutenir un régime qui n'a d'assise nulle part,

Considérant, cependant, que l'ampleur même de ces mesures de répression constitue une preuve éclatante de la capacité de résistance du vaillant peuple kamerunais et de son âme immortelle, l'Union des populations du Cameroun, qui ont su, l'un et l'autre, déjouer les manœuvres colonialistes, en sorte que le danger intégrationniste peut être considéré aujourd'hui comme écarté :

1) Rend hommage au vaillant peuple kamerunais en lutte pour l'Unification et l'Indépendance immédiates ;
2) Réaffirme sa confiance totale aux dirigeants du Mouvement National qui ont, grâce à leur dynamisme et à leur courage, réussi à émouvoir l'opinion internationale sur le drame kamerunais ;

3) Lance un appel à toutes les forces vives du pays pour une union soutenue autour des propositions concrètes présentées par le Mouvement National sous forme de trois variantes, à savoir :

— Amnistie totale et inconditionnelle, — Abrogation du décret du 13 juillet 1955 portant dissolution arbitraire des Organisations Nationalistes, — Négociations immédiates avec les représentants authentiques du peuple kamerunais pour la reconnaissance de l'Indépendance Nationale.

Toulouse, le 25 mai 1958.
LE COMITÉ DE BASE DE TOULOUSE.

Et dans la création des U.S.A., de l'U.R.S.S., de l'Inde moderne, de la Chine Populaire, de la R.A.U. et du Maghreb de demain, l'élément déterminant a été la lutte commune contre l'ennemi commun. Nous aussi nous devons lutter contre l'ennemi commun : l'impérialisme.

Nous avons les mêmes intérêts politiques : renforcer l'unité africaine, libérer nos frères esclaves et se libérer. Il faut que la lutte commune fasse l'unité de l'Afrique Noire de demain. Il faut donc battre le fer quand il est encore chaud.

Certes, il est à souhaiter, pour que l'union avec le Ghana ne soit pas un pas en arrière, que ce dernier soit muni d'une politique intérieure et extérieure progressive, conforme à l'esprit de notre temps. A ce propos, une conférence tenue à Accra en février 1958 entre le Ghana, la Libéria, la Grande-Bretagne, la France, le Portugal, la Belgique, l'Union Sud-Africaine, le Nyassaland et la Fédération de Rhodésie, en présence d'un observateur des Etats-Unis, où il était question de « créer un Fonds d'études africaines sous l'égide de la Commission de coopération technique pour les pays situés au Sud du Sahara », et où « l'espoir a été émis que les Etats-Unis et le Canada pourraient accorder « aide et information technique » par l'intermédiaire du Fonds » (Nouveaux Soviets - Temps Nouveaux - n° 11, 1958) n'est pas rassurant. Car lorsque les loupes et les chats se réunissent pour « aider » les brebis et les souris, il y a de quoi s'inquiéter.

Cependant, la part prise par le Ghana dans la Conférence du Caire, les décisions de la conférence d'Accra des huit Etats africains, témoignent bien que la bourgeoisie nationale de Ghana peut encore jouer un rôle progressiste, si la pression du peuple se fait sentir lourdement. Nous pourrions ainsi affirmer que l'union du Togo avec le Ghana sera un pas en avant. Elle deviendra pour l'Afrique Noire, ce qu'est la R.A.U. pour les Arabes : l'Etat de Jérusalem.

Voyons maintenant un argument éventuel à repousser. Mais, dirait-on, le Togo et le Ghana ont subi respectivement les cultures « françaises » et « anglaises ». Nous répondons qu'il en est de même de la Syrie et de l'Egypte. Mais en ce qui concerne ces deux pays, ils ont l'arabe comme langue commune, répliquera-t-on. Nous disons qu'au Canada, en Suisse, en Belgique, on parle plusieurs langues. D'ailleurs, à propos de la langue, de qui s'agit-il ? S'il s'agit des lettres, beaucoup de gens parlent à la fois anglais et français au Togo ; s'il s'agit des masses, alors le problème ne se pose pas, car elles sont capables de tout.

Plus exactement, il se pose sur un autre plan, celui de l'unité africaine. Mais sur un plan qu'il ne nous est pas permis d'aborder ici mais qui ne saurait en tout cas exclure l'union de nos peuples.

L'union avec le Ghana pose encore deux problèmes : les questions de l'unification des deux Togo et des Ewes.

LES QUESTIONS DE L'UNIFICATION DES DEUX TOGO ET DES EWES

Nous autres, étudiants togolais, nous avons toujours pensé que le mot d'ordre : « unification des Ewes » était erroné, qu'il fallait lui préférer celui de l'« unification des deux Togo », car il était visible que l'ennemi était l'impérialisme et l'effectivement utilisé énormément contre nous, alors que le deuxième n'exclut pas le premier.

Mais le référendum du 19 mai 1958 dans la partie occidentale du Togo, l'abandon de cette dernière dans le Ghana, le 27 avril 1958, ont modifié les conditions politiques dans notre pays. En effet, les résultats du dit référendum prouvent que les Ewémbas veulent s'unir à leurs semblables du Ghana, les Ewes à leurs frères de la zone anglaise du Togo. Par ailleurs, les incidents regrettables qui se sont passés dans la partie Sud de l'ancien Togo dit britannique, lors de l'accession du Ghana à son indépendance, enseignent que l'unité des Africains doit se faire dans la clarté.

Cela revient à dire qu'il faut unir les Ewes, ce qui implique l'unification des deux Togo. Mais alors, il faudra peut-être plus tard unir les Massis du Nord-Togo à ceux de la Haute-Volta ? Oui ! si tel est leur désir. Pour le moment, ce sont les Ewes qui nous intéressent, qui nous préoccupent. Nous va vers un ou des « grands ensembles », de telles unions ne sont point à exclure, en tout cas. Les intérêts économiques des Africains ne résistent pas dans des Togo, des Ghana, des Haute-Volta géographiquement « grands » ; ils ne résistent pas dans la création des « Afrique-Lorraine » dans nos pays, mais dans des Togo, des Ghana, des Haute-Volta dont les frontières coloniales sont révisées selon le vœu exprimé des peuples, où les mêmes populations sont regroupées dans des mêmes cadres ; ils résident dans une Afrique pacifique.

Ainsi donc, à notre sens, il n'est plus question de choisir entre l'unification des deux Togo et celle des Ewes ; nous devons maintenant dire simplement : « Révision des frontières coloniales ».

Passons maintenant à ce que nous souhaitons sur les plans économique, culturel et de la formation des cadres techniques.

LES PROBLEMES ECONOMIQUE, CULTUREL ET DES CADRES TECHNIQUES

Nous souhaitons que l'union Ghana-Togo s'appuie sur les pays de Bandung et du socialisme pour résoudre les problèmes économiques et financiers qui se posent à elle. Il n'est pas question de repousser systématiquement toute proposition émanant de l'Occident. Mais il est de notoriété publique que celui-ci ne donne presque jamais sans contrepartie politique, c'est-à-dire sans tentative d'aliéner l'indépendance du pays qui reçoit. C'est pourquoi il nous faut coopérer avant tout avec les pays qui ont les mêmes intérêts essentiels que nous, ou au moins dont les intérêts ne sont pas en contradiction irréductible avec les nôtres.

Or, ces pays eux-mêmes reçoivent une aide du camp socialiste dont le tête est l'Union Soviétique. Jusqu'à nouvel ordre, personne n'ose penser que l'Union Soviétique et ses alliés l'Inde, la Chine Populaire, la R.A.U., le Soudan, la Birmanie, l'Afghanistan, la Turquie, etc., et peut-être son aide à ces pays est très substantielle, et l'on pourrait facilement multiplier les chiffres à ce propos. Contentons-nous de ceux publiés par « l'Humanité » du 28-4-58, concernant la R.A.U. : « Le Journal Industriel et économique » écrit que grâce à l'aide soviétique six usines métallurgiques, dix-huit usines et ateliers de construction mécanique, sept usines spécialisées dans l'industrie pétrolière, six dans l'industrie chimique, deux dans l'industrie pharmaceutique et cinq dans celle de l'alimentation, soit deux cent quatre-vingt usines ont été construites en Egypte.

Pour la province syrienne, l'aide soviétique comportera la construction sur l'Euphrate d'un barrage, d'une centrale hydroélectrique d'une puissance de 100.000 kw et de cinq autres centrales de puissance inférieure. Des techniciens soviétiques construiront d'autre part un chemin de fer long de 560 kilomètres, menant au port de Lattaquié, et participeront à la prospection du pétrole et des minerais de fer, de manganèse et de chromite. Nous pouvons donc nous aussi nous adresser au camp socialiste, principalement à l'U.R.S.S.

Nous souhaitons également que beaucoup d'écoles primaires et secondaires soient vite construites, que des étudiants soient envoyés en grand nombre à l'étranger, notamment dans les pays de Bandung et du socialisme. Ici ils trouveront des conditions matérielles meilleures pour leurs études. Ils y recevront une formation dans l'esprit de notre temps, une formation qui est l'amour de la patrie, l'amour de l'homme, une formation internationaliste par son contenu, facilement adoptable par sa forme ou par son contenu national et par la sauvegarde de notre indépendance. C'est pour toutes ces raisons qu'A. Arzoumanian, chef de la délégation soviétique à la conférence du Caire, pouvait déclarer : « Nous pouvons construire pour vous des unes ou des autres et d'empêcher le développement de la recherche ou de l'enseignement. La question de l'institut culturel, selon ce dont vous avez besoin. Nous pouvons vous envoyer nos spécialistes ou vous pouvez nous envoyer des spécialistes. Nous pouvons vous envoyer nos professeurs dans vos établissements d'enseignement ou vous pouvez nous envoyer des professeurs dans vos établissements d'enseignement.

Faites ce qui est le mieux pour vous. Dites-nous ce dont vous avez besoin et nous pouvons vous aider en vous apportant notre concours sous forme de crédits ou d'aides techniques dans la mesure de nos possibilités économiques.

« Nous ne cherchons à obtenir aucun avantage. Nous n'avons pas besoin de bénéfices, de droits privilégiés, d'intérêts matériels, de concessions ou de sources de matières premières. Nous ne vous demandons pas d'adhérer à un bloc quelconque, de bouleverser vos gouvernements ou de modifier votre politique intérieure ou extérieure. Nous sommes prêts à vous aider en frères, sans y avoir aucun intérêt, car nous savons par notre propre expérience combien il est difficile de se sortir du colonialisme. Notre seule condition est, naturellement, de vous aider sans aucune condition. » (Revue française « Démocratie Nouvelle », mars 1958).

Nous souhaitons enfin que les Togoais éprouvés dans les colonies françaises d'Afrique Noire puissent maintenant retourner chez eux, car il faut que notre pays recouvre toutes ses forces vives pour sa construction.

Nationalisme à outrance, pour faire son unité, l'Afrique Noire n'a-t-elle pas besoin d'un brassage de ses populations ? créait-on peut-être.

a) Dans la lutte libératrice de l'Afrique Noire, il nous semble que chacun de vous serait plus efficace dans son milieu natif qu'ailleurs. Ce n'est pas par hasard que les colonialistes français demandaient à un certain moment à leurs Togoais qui finissaient ses études d'aller travailler à Madagascar et à ses collègues malgaches de se rendre au Togo.

b) Certes, pour l'unité de l'Afrique future, il faudra un certain brassage de ses peuples plus tard. Mais comment se présente la réalité dans les conditions actuelles ? Dans la plupart des cas, les Togoais qui vivent dans les autres territoires d'Afrique ont été chassés de chez eux par le chômage ou la persécution politique. Coupés de leur sol natal, obligés souvent de spéculer, ils vivent en vase clos, avec quelque sentiment de « supériorité ». Mieux, l'émigration continue se fait facilement d'eux comme brasseur de grève, comme objet de divagation et de diversion. Cela ne peut pas aller sans une réaction de la part des autochtones, réaction que l'ennemi utilise pour détourner l'attention de sa propre exploitation et oppression. On connaît les incidents malheureux qui ont eu lieu en Côte d'Ivoire et au Gabon à ce sujet. Nous croyons donc que le brassage — si besoin en sera — devra se faire après la liquidation du colonialisme.

c) Et puis, une des meilleures manières d'aider nos frères africains, n'est-elle pas de faire du Togo quelque chose de viable ? Pour cela ce dernier n'a-t-il pas besoin de récupérer toutes ses forces vives ? Menons donc une politique qui fera revenir les Togoais vivant dans les autres territoires d'Afrique dans leur pays, volontairement bien entendu.

« Mais récupérer toutes les forces vives implique la promotion des masses populaires. Ainsi nous débouchons sur cette question très importante.

POUR LA PROMOTION DES MASSES.

POPULAIRES

Le peuple togolais vient de remporter une éclatante victoire : il vient de porter un coup mortel au colonialisme français. En colonisant en général, il marche vers son indépendance.

Mais qui va gouverner un Togo accablé à son indé-pendance ? Les masses populaires du Togo, c'est-à-dire les masses populaires de la colonisation.

Or, selon nous, l'indépendance n'est pas une fin en soi mais un moyen devant conduire à la lutte pour le développement matériel et culturel, à leur bonheur.

Or, de l'indépendance de tous les pays qui se sont libérés du colonialisme, on peut attendre deux choses : d'une part, une phase de la lutte, une partie de la bourgeoisie nationale devant directement lier ses intérêts à la colonisation, d'autre part, une partie, plus intelligente, sentant ses intérêts liés par le colonialisme, devant nationaliste, progressiste.

Mais à la deuxième étape, c'est-à-dire lorsqu'il s'agit de passer à la révolution sociale, de donner satisfaction aux masses populaires, cette partie nationaliste de la bourgeoisie togolaise devient-elle aussi, de l'ordre à devenir réactionnaire, oppresseur du peuple.

Précisons donc qu'il faut que la nôtre ne contienne elle aussi à ses seuls profits les bienfaits de l'indépendance, ne tourne le dos aux intérêts du peuple. D'où la nécessité d'une vigilance constante de la part de ce dernier.

Il est également vrai que le Ghana et le Togo indépendants suivraient à leurs propres intérêts d'une part, loieraient à leur devoir envers l'Afrique Noire d'autre part, s'ils s'adressaient plus leurs frères encore asservis à se libérer.

POUR UNE AIDE CONCRÈTE.

AUX PEUPLES D'AFRIQUE NOIRE ENCORE ASSERVIS

« Charité bien ordonnée commence par soi ».

« Avant de vouloir balayer la place publique, il faut d'abord balayer sa propre maison », disent les dictons populaires. Cette philosophie est juste, mais juste en partie seulement. Poussée à son extrême limite, cette vérité risque de se transformer en contre-vérité.

En effet, on pourrait être tenté de penser qu'un Ghana et un Togo indépendants, avant de vouloir aider le Dahomey, la Haute-Volta, etc., à se libérer, doivent d'abord s'en libérer eux-mêmes.

Certain une telle attitude nécessite une certaine amorce propre. Mais en fait, n'est-il pas vrai que sans la libération du Dahomey, de la Haute-Volta, etc., le Togo et le Ghana seraient toujours menacés par les colonialistes ?

En réalité, ce n'est pas par excès de zèle que la Chine populaire aide la Corée et le Viet-Nam ; ce n'est pas non plus par être plus royaliste que le roi que le Maroc et la Tunisie aident l'Algérie, mais bel et bien parce que leur sort se tient, mais bel et bien parce que, sans l'indépendance de celle-ci, il n'est pas possible de consolider celle de ceux-là.

Par conséquent, nous pensons qu'un Togo et un Ghana unis, en collaboration avec les autres États d'Afrique Noire et de Bandoung, dans l'esprit du Caire et d'Accra, devront organiser une aide à leurs frères Kamerounais, Dahoméens, Voltaïques, etc. Il ne s'agit pas seulement de déclarations, de résolutions à l'O.N.U. et dans les conférences internationales. Il s'agit avant tout d'une aide matérielle, directe.

Dans cet ordre d'idées, la nouvelle station de radio d'Accra est la bien venue. Cette radio d'oreille régulièrement : « Frères du Kameroun, du Dahomey, de la Haute-Volta... nous citoyens du Ghana et du Togo, nous ne sommes rien que vous ne soyez, nous n'avons rien que vous n'ayiez ; et nous voici indépendants ; vous pouvez donc l'être aussi ; nous vous donnons ce jour colonial qui n'a que trop pesé sur vous ! »

Bien sûr, les impérialistes crieront à l'« ingérence » dans leurs affaires intérieures, à l'« interférence ». Mais le Kameroun n'est pas la Bretagne, et le Dahomey n'est pas la Normandie ! Comment des gens venus de milliers de kilomètres occuper notre continent pourraient-ils parler d'« ingérence » dans leurs affaires ? s'ils persécutaient ou minimaient le sens de la pudeur ?

CONFERENCE DE PRESSE

RAPPORT DE M. CHRISTIAN QUACOE

Délégué des étudiants togolais aux élections du 27 avril au Togo

Mesdames, Mesdemoiselles, Messieurs,

Comme vous le savez, les élections du 27 avril dernier au Togo sous la supervision d'une commission des Nations Unies présidée par M. Desmerville ont donné une victoire écrasante aux Nationaux.

Il s'agissait de renouveler l'Assemblée tantôt dite « Législative » mise sur pied par le Gouvernement Français avec la complicité de quelques individus dont notre Association a contesté la représentativité depuis 1951 après l'élection de M. Grunitzky comme député du Togo par suite de trinquage.

Ces Messieurs ont gouverné avec l'appui de l'Administration Française au Togo, et par la force. C'est une erreur de croire qu'on peut gouverner sans l'appui d'un peuple ou contre lui.

Le Gouvernement Français n'a tiré aucune leçon politique coloniale depuis des années.

Après avoir imposé sans succès Bao-Dai en Indochine, le Général et Bon Aréda au Maroc, il vient d'avoir un dépit en échec au Togo et se remémore en matière de politique coloniale dans le sens de l'histoire ? C'est la question que nous posons aujourd'hui. Pour notre part nous souhaitons qu'elle lui donne une réponse positive. C'est pourquoi nous allons essayer avec vous de tirer les leçons d'une collaboration réelle et fructueuse entre le peuple de France et le peuple du Togo. Mais auparavant il n'est pas inutile de tracer rapidement l'histoire de la lutte du peuple Togolais depuis le lendemain de la dernière guerre mondiale.

Les commerçants allemands qui, à la fin du siècle dernier étaient installés au Togo facilitèrent la pénétration dans ce territoire. A partir de 1900 les Allemands organisèrent et exploitèrent ce territoire.

Mais dès août 1914 les troupes franco-britanniques occupèrent le Togo qui en 1919 fut partagé en deux portions l'une placée sous mandat britannique, l'autre sous mandat français.

L'Acte de Londres (22 juillet 1922) plaça cette tutelle sous le contrôle du Conseil de la Société des Nations. Cette décision arbitraire devait avoir pour conséquence de diviser artificiellement des populations qui, jusque-là étaient unies par la même culture, les mêmes traditions et principalement le peuple Ewe qui constitue la population la plus nombreuse du Sud et du Centre du territoire. Aussi le peuple Ewe entre les deux guerres avait-il constamment lutté pour la réunification du territoire. Cette lutte devait, dès la fin de la deuxième guerre mondiale prendre un caractère de revendication nationale.

En effet, les pouvoirs de la défunte Société des Nations étant transférés à la nouvelle organisation des Nations Unies et à son Conseil de tutelle.

Dès 1945, deux partis politiques, le Comité de l'Unité Togolaise, pour la partie française du territoire, la All Ewe Conference pour la partie anglaise, devaient se réunir pour poser par la réunification de l'Unité du peuple Ewe le problème de la réunification et de l'indépendance du territoire Togolais.

A partir de 1947, ces deux partis envoyèrent régulièrement et chaque année des représentants en tant que pétitionnaires aux Nations Unies, notamment M. Sylvanus Olympio pour le C.U.T. et ensuite M. Anzor pour le « Joint Togoland Congress ».

La lutte au Togo devait être momentanément interrompue par l'intégration de cette partie dans l'Etat de Ghana après un référendum dont les résultats avaient pourtant indiqué la volonté de tous les Ewes de rester unis à leurs frères du Togo Oriental.

Le Togo sous administration française compte une population de près de 1.100.000 habitants.

Les élections qui s'y sont déroulées le 27 avril dernier ont marqué une étape importante dans la lutte pacifique du peuple togolais pour son indépendance nationale, lutte qui ne s'est pas relâchée depuis 1948.

Le Togo était alors dirigé par un Gouverneur, M. Noutary, qui avait pour mission, dans le contexte et l'esprit de la Conférence de Brazzaville, d'user de toutes les manœuvres y compris la ruse et la menace pour obtenir des vieux notables l'intégration pure et simple du Togo dans l'ensemble français en proposant de conférer à tous les Togolais le statut de Citoyen Français. Cette opération, si elle avait réussi, aurait eu pour résultat de soumettre le pays à l'éventualité d'un contrôle international. Mais le souvenir vivace des pires souffrances endurées pendant la guerre par le peuple Togolais notamment la dure contribution économique dont les pauvres paysans avaient été victimes — sous peine de lourds emprisonnements et de travaux forcés — la prise de conscience nationale, pouvaient expliquer l'opposition opiniâtre et avisée des vieux notables aux entreprises de M. Noutary. L'échec de ce dernier devait être consacré au cours d'une ultime réunion au palais du Gouvernement où un vieux notable eut ce mot : « Dites, M. le Gouverneur, vous au moins vous avez la chance de connaître notre pays. Ne trouvez-vous pas paradoxal, vous qui êtes si intelligent de nous demander d'être citoyens d'un pays que nous ne connaissons pas ? Ne pensez-vous pas qu'il serait plus logique de vous demander d'être Citoyen Togolais ? »

La rupture brutale des pourparlers à la suite de cette réunion, les menaces à peine voilées du Gouverneur, la perspective des élections à la députation de 1946, autant de raisons qui rendaient impérieuse la formation d'un parti politique organisé pour faire triompher les aspirations du peuple togolais à l'unité et l'indépendance nationale. Ce parti prit le nom de Comité de l'Unité Togolaise avec à sa tête la plupart des notables et trouva un leader authentique en la personne de M. Sylvanus Olympio. La preuve de l'authenticité indiscutable de ce parti auprès de toute la population togolaise allait bientôt être apportée par les élections générales et les élections à l'Assemblée représentative du territoire. La neutralité des pouvoirs administratifs parait au C.U.T. d'avoir obtenu une majorité écrasante le Dr Aka comme député à l'Assemblée Nationale Française et remportant tous les postes de l'Assemblée territoriale.

L'administration colonialiste devait rapidement abandonner sa politique de neutralité pour accorder son appui entier au Parti Togolais du Progrès, après, renforcé par un nouveau parti d'inspiration administrative corrélatrice. L'Union des chefs et les populations du Nord. Un conflict très grave opposa alors l'Administration coloniale aux masses populaires sous la conduite du C.U.T. Le conflit s'aggrava graduellement et prit un caractère de lutte ouverte les années suivantes.

Jusqu'à la politique colonialiste usée de différentes méthodes successivement exécutées par les gouverneurs des colonies : Coeur, sang et violence.

Le premier bon sens avait habilement pratiqué une politique « d'immense coopération » avec le C.U.T. dont la but sociale était de freiner le mouvement de revendication nationale, amorcer un processus de désagrégation interne du C.U.T. en même temps qu'en ordonnant au maximum le parti administratif, le parti Togolais du Progrès à s'organiser.

Qu'est-ce que le Parti Togolais du Progrès ? Le laisse la parole à M. Arnason, ancien membre actif de ce parti :

« Le parti Togolais du Progrès explique-t-il, désagrége le pays : les membres sont à la solde du Gouvernement Français, la liberté d'expression n'est pas en sa main du parti ; toutes décisions sont prises par le gouvernement et tous membres qui expriment librement leurs opinions dans le mouvement se voient livrés par leurs propres confrères qui sont purement les agents du gouvernement. Tout membre du Parti Togolais du Progrès poursuit un intérêt personnel ».

Autrement dit, le Parti Togolais du Progrès est une Association de corruption, de brigandage, de cupidité, contrôlée par le gouvernement français. Une fois l'œuvre de mise en place terminée ce fut au Gouverneur Digo qui était dévolu le triste honneur d'exécuter le plan prévu par M. Cédille : écraser le C.U.T. par tous les moyens, pour éliminer la carte des partis « administratifs », opposer les populations du Nord à celles du Sud. Cette basse besogne eut pour résultat, en 1951, au moyen d'élections préfabriquées, truquées et frauduleuses — à l'Algérienne — d'évincer le député sortant, le Dr Ako, candidat du C.U.T. au profit du candidat administratif, M. Nicolas Grunitzky et d'écarter de l'Assemblée Territoriale, tous les éléments réellement représentatifs.

Il s'en suivit une vague de protestations populaires. La tension devint sérieuse dans tout le pays avec la naissance d'un parti de jeunes, la Jeunesse dynamique, solidement et démocratiquement organisée et qui devint la force principale de lutte réellement anticolonialiste, dont certains membres sont encore en prison.

Le Gouvernement Français fit alors appel au spécialiste de la répression sanglante, le Gouverneur Pêcheux qui fit ses sinistres preuves en 1949 et 1950 en Côte d'Ivoire. M. Pêcheux ne manqua pas de faire honneur à sa triste réputation. Etat de siège déguisé, arrestations arbitraires des fonctionnaires, suppressions abusives d'emplois, incriminations et sévices, suppressions des bourses aux étudiants pour leurs opinions politiques. Tous ces moyens illégaux s'étaient révélés insuffisants pour briser la lutte inextinguible du peuple togolais. Aussi M. Pêcheux passa-t-il à la provocation la plus odieuse. A la suite de la nomination arbitraire d'un chef de canton (celui de Vogan au Sud-Ouest du pays) au mépris des habitants et au détriment du successeur légitime jugé indésirable parce qu'anticolonialiste, les habitants manifestèrent, pontifièrent leur désapprobation. Une répression sanglante s'abattit sur eux : une dizaine de morts et plusieurs dizaines de blessés. Plusieurs dirigeants de la Jeunesse furent arrêtés, sommairement jugés et emprisonnés. Les leaders actuels veulent oublier le passé, mais je crois que le peuple ne pardonnera pas.

Mais la lutte du peuple togolais ne se relâche pas pour autant. Sur le plan intérieur les nationalistes s'abstenent de participer à toutes opérations électorales à cause de l'intervention de l'Administration et dans l'impossibilité où ils se trouvent d'organiser des réunions publiques, ce qui permit à M. Grunitzky de se faire élire le 2 janvier 1955 à plus de 100 % des voix et à l'Assemblée Législative de se remplir de valets qui vivent à peine écrit leur nom. Un journaliste m'a déclaré à Lomé sans parti-pris, que le niveau de l'Assemblée du Togo est le plus bas dans toute l'Afrique. La France voulait sans doute prouver par là que le peuple n'avait pas d'hommes politiques plus capables que ses valets.

Ce fut pendant ces événements que l'Assemblée vota les statuts d'août 1955 transformant le Togo en République autonome.

Sur le plan international les partis nationalistes ont, à chaque session depuis 1947, envoyé des représentants aux Nations-Unies pour défendre la cause de l'indépendance du Togo. De nombreuses pétitions ont été adressées à l'organisation internationale pour dénoncer les méfaits du colonialisme ; l'O.N.U. demeure le seul recours des nationalistes togolais dans leur lutte pacifique mais opiniâtre, n'a souvent répondu que par l'insulte.

Le « jeu de balance diplomatique » qui s'y pratique habilement n'est pas la véritable raison du caractère ambigu et attentiste de ses décisions concernant l'avenir du Territoire, malgré ses nombreuses missions de visite dont le passage a été souvent caractérisé par de basses provocations de type classique du colonialisme, suivies de répression sanglante et meurtrière.

Elle a néanmoins, en 1956, refusé de lever la tutelle internationale sur le Togo pour empêcher que ce territoire ne soit purement et simplement intégré dans le cadre de la communauté française, avant d'avoir atteint les fins essentielles du régime de tutelle. Elle a également refusé d'envoyer des observateurs pour certifier la sincérité de consultations électorales que constitue le référendum d'octobre 1956. Elle a enfin en 1957 forcé le Gouvernement Français à accepter le principe d'élection générale sous sa supervision pour permettre au peuple Togolais de choisir entre l'indépendance Nationale et le carcan doré de la communauté Franco-Africaine. Elle a d'autre part invité également la France à transférer au Gouvernement Togolais les pouvoirs qui étaient détenus par l'Administration Locale Française, à l'exception de ceux qui ne pouvaient l'être qu'après la levée éventuelle de la tutelle de l'O.N.U.

LA CAMPAGNE ELECTORALE

Elle ne s'est pas déroulée sans incidents. L'Administration Française au Togo, sachant qu'elle jouait sa dernière carte au Togo et en Afrique sous sa domination, avait tout fait pour entraver la bonne marche de la campagne électorale.

Des commandants de cercles intervenaient publiquement dans des réunions électorales et faisaient un travail systématique de sabotage. J'ai eu à faire à un commandant de cercle de Bassari du nom de Serge Buechi.

Le gouvernement local a commis tous les abus susceptibles de dégrader les élections. Listes électorales, distributions des cartes électorales, dédoublement des inscriptions en dépit du bon sens. Les inscriptions continuèrent jusqu'au jour du scrutin, et dans la commune de Lomé il y avait au moins 10.000 électeurs qui n'avaient pas encore reçu leurs cartes pour voter le même jour, chose qui n'a jamais été vue dans l'histoire, soit dans l'histoire coloniale.

Voici d'ailleurs comment on voit dans la démocratie colonialiste. Supposons que vous vous appeliez Koffi Jean Abledé et que vous soyez du parti de l'Administration.

Le jour du scrutin, vous voter d'abord en tant que Koffi Jean Abledé, ensuite comme Jean Koffi Abledé, puis en qualité de Abledé Koffi Jean, puis ensuite encore sous le nom de Koffi Abledé Jean. Quand vous aurez épuisé toutes ces combinaisons, vous pourrez toujours voter à la place de tante, de votre grand-père, du cousin, de votre grand-père, de la belle-mère, de votre beau-père, etc., qui sont partis je ne sais où.

On comprend aisément que, dans ces conditions, le parti du Gouvernement Français avait une majorité « incontestable » comme lors du référendum du 28 octobre 1956.

Pour mémoire voici les résultats du référendum :

Electeurs inscrits	438.175
Votes distribués	409.566
Votants	338.731
Pour le Statut	331.558
Pour la Tunisie	22.320

Ces résultats entraînent certaines observations : 55 % des électeurs pourvus d'une carte électorale ont prononcé pour le statut. Cette proportion est de 55 % par rapport aux électeurs inscrits. Les abstentions atteignent 17,38 %.

LA GEOGRAPHIE ELECTORALE

Le fait que, depuis 1952, les nationalistes boudaient les races à cause des irrégularités et l'intervention constante de l'Administration semble avoir donné des illusions au Gouvernement Local sur sa popularité réelle dans le pays.

En 1946	En 1951

18.830	22.580

81,4	26,8
72,7	78,2
81,7	48,8
64,6	33,5
93,1	38,7

C'était en 1951 qu'avait commencé les trinquages. Le Gouvernement Français et le Gouvernement Local s'entendaient à ce qu'une bonne moitié du Sud vote C.U.T. et l'on savait que Dapango, dont 80 % des votants lors du référendum se sont abstenus, aurait plusieurs élus C.U.T. En fait le Sud a donné 20 sièges sur 23 aux Nationalistes qui se représentaient par là qu'une petite poignée d'agitateurs.

Dans le Nord où ils n'ont pas du tout d'audience, l'ensemble du cercle de Dapango passe au C.U.T. qui emporte par ailleurs les 3/4 des sièges à Sokodé, les 2/3 à Bassari. Non seulement les Nationalistes avaient remporté une victoire écrasante dans le Sud, mais aussi dans le Nord où ils disposent de 12 sièges contre 11 à l'U.C.P.N. Ce qui fait en tout 32 sièges pour les Nationalistes qui, par là, battent les élections à cause de leur impopularité. Le Parti du Premier Ministre sortant, M. Grunitzky, le Parti Togolais du Progrès, pour ne pas dire Parti du Progrès, obtient 3 sièges mais, malheureusement pour eux il y a des preuves de trahison pour ces 3 sièges, le tribunal devra statuer. Quoi qu'il en soit les nationalistes ont gagné la grande bataille de l'indépendance politique. Il ne reste plus qu'à préparer soigneusement sa proclamation après avoir fixé la date de coacert avec la France et les Nations Unies.

Le peuple Togolais ne s'est pas seulement sauvé, il a ouvert la voie aux autres peuples d'Afrique sous domination française.

LES MOTIFS DE L'ECHEC DU PARTI GOUVERNEMENTAL

Les causes profondes de l'échec gouvernemental sont diverses mais la plus grave concerne l'immobilisme du Gouvernement Togolais. Au pouvoir depuis 16 mois, il n'est trop peu préoccupé des problèmes économiques et sociaux, et bien souvent ses ministres n'ont eu que des préoccupations d'intérêts personnels.

Par ailleurs, les nouvelles des ministres, venant démentir de l'argent du Gouvernement Français, sans faire preuve d'effort de développement du Togo, irritent le nationalisme des jeunes.

— L'introduction de l'entre indélébile sur les doigts des électeurs pour éviter les votes multiples en usage dans les élections préfabriquées et précédentes.

Certaines erreurs commises, notamment dans le Nord où M. Ajoya et le Gouvernement Français avaient fait une politique opposant Cabrais et Ajoya, cependant que les chefs du Nord prenaient conscience de la réalité et avaient essayé tout ce qu'ils se moquaient d'eux.

Mais la raison essentielle de l'échec des comploteurs du colonialisme est la détermination accrue, renforcée par la présence de la Commission de l'O.N.U. du peuple décidé plus que jamais à mettre fin à l'obscurantisme, à se libérer du colonialisme.

PERSONNALITES ELUES OU BATTUES

Le Président de l'Assemblée législative et chef suprême du Régime est écarté à Nuatja où il recueille moins de 15 % des suffrages.

Mama Fousseini, ministre d'Etat et de l'Intérieur arrive en troisième position à Bassi.

Le Docteur Wilson, syndic de la précédente Assemblée recueille à Lomé 739 voix contre 2.447 à son contraire le Docteur Akakpo.

Dans le cercle d'Anecho, le Dr Kpodar et le chef Jacob Kalipe, fabrication française sur mesure, qu'on nous a souvent présenté en France comme le Roi du Togo, ont mordu la poussière. Le chef Kalipe n'a obtenu que 2.870 voix contre 6.081 à son adversaire, vous parlez de la popularité d'un roi qui a régné avec l'appui de l'Administration Française. A Sokodé centre, M. Derran Ayea, frère du chef supérieur des Cotelelis, ancien président de l'Assemblée Territoriale est battu.

On comprend des lors pourquoi le Gouvernement Local refusait depuis des mois le verdict populaire. Ajournement sine die des élections municipales.

SURPRISE DES AVEUGLES

La radio et les agences de presse nous ont appris que les observateurs politiques avaient généralement été surpris des résultats du scrutin.

C'est tout à fait normal, lorsque l'on refuse pendant des années de regarder la réalité en face. Il est évident que l'on peut être surpris le jour où enfin elle se manifeste.

Certains journalistes métropolitains habituellement mieux informés affirmèrent encore voici quelques semaines que les nationalistes togolais n'avaient d'audience qu'auprès des intellectuels et des habitants des villes. Et l'on se souvient voici quelques années, lorsque nous avons osé émettre des doutes sur la régularité des scrutins au Togo on nous répondait par la suppression des bourses.

Le Père Benoist de l'Afrique Nouvelle en sait quelque chose : « le C.U.T. ne représentait, par là, qu'une toute petite minorité ».

Ainsi disait le journal « Combat » dans son numéro du 26-27 avril, après avoir présenté l'enjeu de la Consultation électorale entre les amis et les ennemis de la France, concluant en ces termes : « Il est donc vraisemblable que les élections de demain confirmeront l'audace du Parti Togolais du Progrès, partisan du maintien des liens entre Lomé et Paris ».

Et Georges Chiffard dans « Le Monde » (26 avril) estimait, après avoir analysé soigneusement les éléments du problème :

« Il est peu probable que l'on doive s'attendre dans l'immédiat à un surcroît de situation. M. Grunitzky et son compagnon de lutte, M. Ajoya, membres du Parlement Français en même temps que président de l'Assemblée togolaise, paraissent assurés de conserver la majorité ».

Alors au-delà de la thèse officielle, Henry Bonazet dans « l'Aurore » du 28 avril (qui paraît ce lendemain du vote) annonçait la défaite des nationalistes comme déjà acquise :

« Sylvanus Olympio, l'agitateur francophobe, devra

donc se faire une raison. Le Togo ne deviendra pas le lieu de cet ambiteux personnage, très bien en cour à l'étranger — il possède le diplôme d'Oxford — et qui nous a mis en sautoir en accusation devant l'O.N.U.

« Heureusement ! car ce dont on a plutôt besoin politiquement, c'est d'experts sages, comme M. Grunsky, lequel préside à la fois le gouvernement et le parti du Peuple ».

LE FUTUR GOUVERNEMENT

Le Comité de l'Unité Togolaise va donc reprendre la direction des affaires togolaises après 6 années d'opposition. Il va lui falloir constituer un premier lien un gouvernement. Tout indique que ce gouvernement sera présidé par le leader incontesté des nationalistes, M. Sylvanus Olympio. Sans doute, certains milieux découvrent-ils alors que les nationalistes togolais n'ont pas, comme on l'a prétendu, des « anti-français » impénitents. Et je suis persuadé pour ma part qu'une formule d'accord entre Paris et Lomé pourra être trouvée facilement avec un peu de bonne volonté de part et d'autre. Le Togo a d'ailleurs besoin d'une aide extérieure aussi bien en techniques qu'en capitaux pour assurer sa promotion économique et sociale. Mais puis-je à n'importe quelle condition. Mais une fois de plus, huit années qui auraient pu amorcer une collaboration française auront été perdues en vaines querelles, parce que certains hauts fonctionnaires ont voulu prendre leurs désirs pour des réalités. Il est permis de le regretter. Cependant les chances d'une collaboration fructueuse restent entières. Il suffit pour s'en convaincre de se référer à l'importante déclaration que M. Sylvanus Olympio, leader du Parti victorieux, a faite au lendemain de la consultation électorale :

« Je pense que les chances de coopération réelle entre la France et le Togo. Dans la franchise et l'égalité, n'ont pas diminué mais au contraire ont été accrues par le scrutin du 27 avril 1956 ». Rappelons au passage que M. Olympio qui jouit d'une grande popularité auprès des masses togolaises, a été élu candidat, une condamnation de caractère politique prononcée contre lui en 1954 le rendant inéligible, le Gouvernement Français ayant tout fait pour que la loi d'amnistie ne soit pas étendue au Togo. Le leader du C.U.T., qui s'est déclaré heureux, malgré les irrégularités du vote, la mauvaise distribution des urnes et malgré l'influence de certains chefs coutumiers qui ont joué un rôle réel dans le déroulement des opérations électorales, a poursuivi :

« L'Assemblée Togolaise va maintenant avoir à examiner le statut du pays afin d'aboutir rapidement à un accord avec la France pour l'établissement d'un statut, qui sera complètement définitif, du moins susceptible d'être accepté pour quelque temps par les Togolais ».

« Je ne suis nullement anti-français, mais je crois que le respect de l'indépendance mutuelle est nécessaire à l'unité des peuples. Pourquoi l'influence d'un pays sur l'autre, surtout politique, alors que la coopération culturelle et technique est infiniment plus durable et plus utile ? »

Faillant du problème des compétences, actuellement en vogue par la France, M. Olympio a affirmé qu'il n'était opposé, pendant un certain période, à l'exercice de ces compétences (monnaie, douane et relations extérieures) par la France, et que le peuple Togolais pourrait reprendre ces compétences dès qu'il le désirerait.

En ce qui concerne les relations du Togo avec le Ghana, Sylvanus Olympio a déclaré :

« Nous ne pourrions plus parler maintenant d'union entre le Togo Oriental et le Togo Occidental puisque ce dernier a été intégré dans des conditions que nous ne pouvons d'ailleurs contester au Nouvel Etoile du Ghana. Mais si nous sommes nous-mêmes indépendants, nous pouvons élaborer des relations nouvelles avec le Ghana ».

En ce qui concerne la tutelle, nous sommes résolument opposés à cette levée avant notre indépendance, parce que la tutelle de l'O.N.U. constitue une garantie contre l'intégration du Togo autonome dans une Union Française (s'il existe...) ».

En ce qui concerne la promotion économique, M. Sylvanus Olympio a ajouté :

« Des rumeurs ont pu nous faire penser avoir une extrême attention sur le plan financier, je pense que dans le cadre de l'indépendance nous devons faire tous nos efforts pour nous procurer d'une aide extérieure et nous ne pouvons pas faire sans cesse appel aux autres pays pour combler le vide de notre budget ».

« L'aide extérieure, comme celle du F.I.D.E.S. ou comme le programme d'assistance technique des Nations Unies, ne peut être considérée que comme des moyens pour promouvoir un développement économique accéléré. Elle peut constituer un supplément apporté par des amis, mais nous devons pouvoir éventuellement nous en passer et, surtout, nous devons les employer, et nous en bénéficier, en vue de la promotion économique du Togo, et non pas comme des subsides pour boucher les trous d'une mauvaise trésorerie ».

En terminant, M. Olympio s'est prononcé pour l'encouragement à l'implantation des capitaux privés et l'appel à tous les techniciens qualifiés, animés d'un esprit réellement favorable au Togo.

CONCLUSION

Les élections du Togo doivent être pour nos leaders une leçon. Nous, Etudiants Africains avons toujours été à l'avant-garde des mouvements de nos peuples et voici que l'histoire vient de nous donner raison, car ce nous tourné et nous nous sommes placés dans ce sens.

Dans n'importe quel territoire d'Afrique, portant l'on pourrait vous parler de la lutte héroïque des Etudiants. Pourrions-nous cette tradition glorieuse et inspirée par l'esprit de Bandung, la Conférence du Caire et celle de Ghana renforceront encore davantage notre unité dans notre lutte commune.

Le mouvement pour l'indépendance nationale devra encore mener un long combat et suivre un chemin qui sera inévitablement plein d'embûches, mais la victoire finale revivra à la juste cause, car le colonialisme est condamné à une mort certaine.

Aussi demandons-nous en toute sincérité et bonne foi à la France, pour ne pas être dépassés par les événements, de se mettre dans le sens de l'histoire avant qu'il ne soit trop tard.

ABLODE

APPEL à TOUS les ETUDIANTS d'Afrique Noire

Chers Camarades,

En ce moment, de graves événements se préparent, tendant à l'instauration du régime fasciste en France.

Vous n'ignorez pas les souffrances, les brimades et les répressions sanglantes qui s'abattent sur nos peuples en lutte pour leur unité et l'indépendance nationale, sous le régime de la démocratie parlementaire.

Avec le régime fasciste, c'est le triomphe de la négation de tout principe démocratique, de tout droit, de toute liberté et par conséquent de toute possibilité pour les pays coloniaux de revendiquer leur indépendance.

Il est certain que toutes les organisations d'Etudiants d'Outre-Mer luttant pour la libération de leurs peuples sont menacées jusque dans leur existence.

Aussi, dans notre lutte contre le colonialisme, nous dressons-nous résolument contre le fascisme. En conséquence nous demandons à tous les Etudiants Africains d'être vigilants et de se tenir prêts à répondre à tout appel du Comité Exécutif qui est en rapport constant avec le Comité de Liaison des Etudiants d'Outre-Mer.

LE COMITÉ EXECUTIF

LES AFRICAINS ET DE GAULLE

PAR
Léopold Agbolon

Le général de Gaulle, après les événements du 13 mai, journe lourde de conséquences pour l'avenir historique de la France fut imposé au peuple sans la prestation de la réaction fasciste politico-militaire. C'est dans un honneur pour la FEANF (Fédération des Etudiants d'Afrique Noire en France) de s'être opposés jusqu'au bout et sans ambages à sa venue. Nous ne pourrions en dire autant les parlementaires africains qui ne cessent de sager de contradiction en contradiction. On les a déjà vu s'élever contre la loi-cadre et par la suite accepter de devenir les instruments de ce néo-colonialisme. De même aujourd'hui ils adhèrent en masse aux comités de défense des libertés démocratiques qui avaient précisément pour but d'empêcher la venue de de Gaulle au pouvoir et puis sans scrupule ont les premiers à accepter la prise de pouvoir du général, être les premiers à s'incliner, à cautionner sa politique. Certains mêmes ont accepté de participer au gouvernement. Il est vrai que nos parlementaires sont très habiles pour « changer de veste » selon l'homme qui est au pouvoir. Rien d'étonnant quand ils viennent en France un langage différent de celui qu'ils ont eu devant les masses africaines, rien d'étonnant en effet quand ils ont accepté d'être des « boni-olui », des esclaves du système rien d'étonnant quand ils ont choisi d'être les collaborateurs d'un régime infâme.

Quant à nous, Etudiants Africains, nous avons vu depuis longtemps que nous n'avions rien à attendre d'un homme dont on venait le libéralisme, que l'on qualifiait d'être l'homme de la situation car il incarnait pour nous l'homme de Brazzaville et la conférence de Brazzaville n'était autre chose qu'un ensemble de réformes à peine capables de calmer momentanément des peuples coloniaux assoiffés de liberté, après qu'ils aient contribué activement à la lutte contre le fascisme. Une analyse objective nous permet de constater que la conférence de Brazzaville n'était qu'une énorme illusion, une mascarade car elle trahissait les Africains du droit fondamental qu'était l'indépendance nationale.

De Gaulle est resté fidèle aux principes et a perpétré le système colonial.

En effet la déclaration publiée par la presse quelques jours avant l'ouverture de la conférence disait : « L'enjeu de l'œuvre de civilisation accomplie par la France dans les colonies devient toute idée d'autonomie, toute possibilité d'évolution hors du bloc français de l'empire, la constitution éventuelle, même lointaine de self-governments dans les colonies ont à écarter » (1).

De même Pieven porte-parole de de Gaulle à Brazzaville déclarait que : « Dans la grande France, il n'y a ni peuple à affranchir, ni discrimination raciale à abolir » (2). D'autre part c'était le général de Gaulle qui était à la tête « du gouvernement provisoire de la République » qui accordait la citoyenneté française aux Africains, citoyenneté qui permettait à quelques 18 millions d'Africains d'A.O.F. d'envoyer cinq représentants à la « Constituante » alors que 40 millions de français en étaient près de 500 et que 20 ou 30 000 « citoyens français » d'A.F.O. en étaient quatre. C'est qu'il y avait 1954 à cette époque des citoyens à part entière et des citoyens français dits à part non entière, mais cependant à part entière quand il s'agit d'aller se faire tuer en première ligne sur des champs de bataille français.

Les derniers discours du général de Gaulle en Algérie nous montrent qu'il est en contradiction avec les déclarations de Brazzaville que nous avons eu le soin de reproduire plus haut et qui disaient qu'il n'y avait ni peuple à affranchir, ni discrimination raciale à abolir alors que de Gaulle dans son discours d'Alger (4-5-58) déclarait : « Qu'à partir d'aujourd'hui, la France considère que dans toute l'Algérie et il le dira probablement plus tard pour l'Afrique Noire, il n'y a qu'une seule catégorie d'habitants... Cela signifie, dit-il, qu'il faut ouvrir des voies qui jusqu'à présent, étaient fermées devant beaucoup... Cela signifie qu'il faut reconnaître la dignité de ceux à qui on les contestait » (2). Que « le général-président » nous permette de douter de ses bonnes paroles. Penser, dit-on, n'est-il pas pare de bonnes intentions ? Ces discours pleins de bonnes dispositions ne manquaient pas non plus à la conférence de Brazzaville. Nous ne savons que trop ce qu'il en est résulté. De Gaulle lui-même, comme aujourd'hui a toujours résolu les problèmes des peuples coloniaux dans une optique colonialiste qui conduisit à l'intégration même quand il dit vouloir faire des colonies sous domination de la France « des français » et qu'il prend le soin d'ajouter « à part entière ». Il faudrait qu'on nous dise si oui ou non il y a des peuples à affranchir, si oui ou non il y a discrimination raciale à abolir. S'il y en a nous ne comprenons pas pourquoi on tient à faire des africains des français. S'il n'y en a pas nous ne comprenons point du tout le sens et la raison de ce discours d'Alger.

De Gaulle retarde sur l'évolution historique.

En effet de Gaulle semble ne pas comprendre le but fondamental de la lutte des pays coloniaux pour se libérer du système colonial. De Gaulle semble ne pas comprendre que le peuple vietnamien a intelligé la sévère défaite de Dien-Bien-Phu à la France pour ne pas rester français. De même les Nord-Algériens, l'héroïque peuple algérien en particulier en ce moment, les malgaches et les africains ne cessent de lutter pour se débarrasser de cette domination de la France. De Gaulle semble ignorer que la conférence historique de Bandung, dont les principes ont été réaffirmés à celles du Caire et d'Accra, les peuples coloniaux du monde entier et ceux d'Afrique en particulier ont définitivement dit non à l'assimilation, à l'intégration, à l'Eurafricain, au système colonial sous toutes ses formes directes ou indirectes. Les Algériens et l'U.P.C. ont pris le maquis pour que l'on ne fasse pas d'eux des français à part entière ou non entière. Que « le général-président » de Gaulle nous permette de rappeler à sa tradition ce passage d'un professeur algérien, Mohamed Arkoun : « Nous voulons d'abord être chez nous sur notre terre. Nous ne voulons plus entendre chez nous les étonnés : grandeur de la France, générosité de la France, œuvre magnifique de la France en Algérie. Nous préférons une misère due à l'insuffisance de nos ressources naturelles à cette civilisation clarifiée et stérile ».

noire. D'autant plus que la générosité de la Métropole
est. Mais il y a plus : nous voulons connaître tout ce que les Français, tout dépend de la révolution psycho-logique. Pour répondre à leur complexe de supériorité sur une Afrique au Nord, ouverte à tous les apports fécondants, à tous les humanismes civilisateurs et prometteurs de syn-thèses nouvelles. (3). De même quelques lignes d'un journal d'Afrique Noire sont à méditer : « Les Africains se battent éternellement pour que triomphe la cause africaine.
Les Français se battent pour arracher l'Afrique des mains de tous les faiseurs d'oscurité » (4). Enfin pour terminer cette ligne du Président Habib Bourguiba : « Servent le

ET MAINTENANT...

(Suite de la page 5)

Ne sommes pas eux au contraire qui, depuis des siècles l'ingèrent et l'ingèreront encore pendant longtemps dans des attitudes effrénées, dans nos attitudes ?

... à l'ingérence de l'« antiracisme », nous le réduisons à néant par le nombre — probablement plus grand qu'occupant — d'ingénieurs, de médecins, de chercheurs, de professeurs français que nous recevons chez nous les bras ouverts, parce qu'ils respectent enfin notre personnalité.

Des relations économiques et culturelles qui pourraient encore exister entre nous et la France prouveraient à qui en douterait que nous autres peuples longtemps asservis, nous avons encore suffisamment de cœur et de l'éléva-tion de l'esprit pour ne jamais confondre la France de 1789, de 1848, de la Commune de 1871, de la résistance de 1939-1945, avec la France des tuteurs de 30.000 Malgaches, des tuteurs de la guerre de Suez, des massacreurs de Sokhiet-Sidi-Youssef, pour ne jamais confondre la France des Robespierres, des Jean Jaurès et des Marcel Cachin avec la France des Jules Ferry, des Guy Mollet et des Félix Gaillard.

X

Et si l'on ajoute à la victoire historique du peuple togolais du 27 avril 1958 le fait : que l'Afrique est le seul continent où le colonialisme à l'état pur existe encore sur une vaste échelle ; qu'en Afrique Occidentale et Equato-riale soi-disant française, le mouvement syndical croît en efficacité, en dynamisme et en unité ; que les jeunes et les étudiants ont déjà brandi le drapeau de la libération nationale ; que les partis collaborationnistes — notamment le Rassemblement Démocratique Africain (R.D.A.) — sont en perte de vitesse, cependant qu'est né et grandit le Parti Africain de l'Indépendance (P.A.I.) ; parti révo-lutionnaire de type nouveau ; et si l'on sait que le Kenya bouge, que le Nigéria bouge, que le Congo dit belge bou-ge, que les colonies espagnoles et portugaises d'Afrique bougent, alors, il faut avoir de l'eau à la place du cer-veau ou être aveuglé par des intérêts sordides pour ne pas voir qu'à l'aube de la deuxième moitié du XX^e siècle, à l'heure de Bandung et du Caire, d'Accra et de Tanger, nous marchons inévitablement vers la liquidation complète du colonialisme.

X

Et maintenant, peuple togolais, patriotes togolais, comar-rades militants révolutionnaires togolais, sous le drapeau de l'UNITE, unifiés en l'avenir, en avant, vers la construction d'un Togo viable, vers une aide capotée à nos frères encore assujettis, vers la réunification de l'Afrique Noire dans le concert des nations !

ner la vague réactionnaire qui l'a porté au pouvoir, et essaye de concevoir pour son pays une forme de grandeur qui ne soit pas celle de la domination. Mais encore ceci qui reste inquiétant : le complexe de grandeur. Que la France veuille être grande, nous ne pourrions y trouver que des avantages, mais la volonté de grandeur signifie pour nous le maintien dans l'infériorité, l'association dans le servilisme, bref une inse reconversion, une illusion de libéralisme, « de grandeur » comme on dit parfois avec mépris, alors pour nous cela revient exactement au même. Il faut que chaque Français se rende compte qu'il ne veut pas y applaudir, à l'indépendance complète, à la souveraineté totale, à la dignité intégrale de tous les peuples jadis colonisés. (5).

De Gaulle ignore ou feint d'ignorer les réalités et les aspirations des peuples africains.

Les Africains n'ont jamais renoncé à l'indépendance dans l'intérêt de la Métropole et de leurs peuples, comme le prétend Houphouët-Boigny dans une de ses déclara-tions à la radio-télévision française (6). Car c'est au nom de la France que furent massacrés près de 100.000 malgaches.

C'est encore au nom de la France que des soldats algiériens, compagnons de libération du général de Gaulle et qui ont échappé aux balles noires, furent lâchement assassinés à Thiaroye.

C'est toujours au nom de la France qu'une répression sanglante fut menée contre le R.D.A. et contre les forces démocratiques qui affirmaient leur désir de libération de l'Afrique Noire.

C'est également au nom de la France que l'on viola, torture, massacre et tue en Algérie et au Kamerun.

C'est au nom de la France que l'on nie aux peuples africanisés le droit inaliénable de l'indépendance.

Les peuples d'Afrique sont aujourd'hui plus que jamais désireux à se libérer du joug du colonialisme après avoir tourné le dos à cette France qui les a toujours bafoués, humiliés et enchaînés. Ils ont opté sans condition à être plètement des Africains malgré toutes les déclarations qu'en fait le « ministre » sous patronage Houphouët-Boigny. Seule l'indépendance nationale est une réalité à partir de laquelle ils peuvent envisager avec espoir l'avenir, seule l'indépendance nationale des peuples colonisés est l'unique condition d'un véritable dialogue entre colonisés et colonisateurs.

MOTION SUR LA CONFÉRENCE DE REGROUPEMENT DES PARTIS

La Fédération des Etudiants d'Afrique Noire en France, réunie à Paris les 21, 22, 23 juin 1958.

Considérant que la « Communauté Franco-Africaine » adoptée comme plateforme d'action commune par la Conférence, est une utopie dangereuse, contraire aux aspirations fondamentales de notre Peuple à l'UNITE et à l'INDEPENDANCE.

Considérant que l'expulsion du P. A. I. qui a posé le préalable de l'INDEPENDANCE comme base du regroupement prouve que les Partis opportunistes se sont démasqués comme agents et complices de l'impérialisme français :

- 1^o Proteste contre l'expulsion du P. A. I.
- 2^o Approuve sans réserve la position prise par le Comité Exécutif au cours de la Conférence.
- 3^o Estime que l'échec final de la Conférence et la Constitution de deux formations rivales (R. D. A. et P. R. A.) démontre que l'UNITE ne peut se faire que sur la base de la lutte pour l'INDEPENDANCE.

DECLARATION DU COMITE CENTRAL du Parti Africain de l'Indépendance

Grâce au coup d'état des factieux d'Alger et d'Algérie, De Gaulle est devenu Président du Conseil avec la complicité des Pinay, Fillard, Mollet, etc.

Le fascisme ne serait pas prêt à s'installer en France, sans la politique de démission des leaders de la F.I.O. et de ceux qui préfèrent tout au Front Populaire.

Mais s'il est normal que la bourgeoisie française perde de Gaulle au pouvoir contre la volonté du peuple de France, il est scandaleux qu'une partie de notre bourgeoisie néo-fasciste ait déjà choisi de trahir son peuple pour instaurer la dictature fasciste des étrangers.

En effet des dirigeants du R.D.A. et du P.R.A. n'ont pas craint de voter pour de Gaulle et M. Houphouët-Boigny de participer à son Gouvernement. Ce faisant, ils se sont coupés des peuples africains qui les ont mandés, et ont méprisé et foulé aux pieds les intérêts de ces derniers. Ce faisant, ils ont prêté main forte aux fascistes qui rêvent de domestication des mouvements syndicaux, de mise au pas des partis politiques révolutionnaires et de destruction des libertés déjà existantes.

Dans ces circonstances, l'union des forces patriotiques africaines pour la lutte contre le fascisme devient une tâche essentielle et urgente.

Seulement cette union ne peut être réalisée pour servir d'appui à telle ou telle formation politique. Elle ne peut non plus être qu'une union de lutte pour l'approfondissement des conquêtes civiles et démocratiques.

C'est dans ce sens que le P.A.I., dans les heures difficiles que nous vivons, tout en réaffirmant solennellement son attachement à l'Indépendance Nationale, salue la naissance du Comité de Défense des Libertés Démocratiques.

Le Comité Central du Parti Africain de l'Indépendance a la ferme conviction que les forces patriotiques africaines, unies aux forces républicaines françaises, sauront porter la route du fascisme. Car si l'histoire de France abonde en accidents et en incidents, l'incident de Gaulle, malgré des difficultés passagères, n'enlève rien aux perspectives d'un Front populaire en France, rien, à longue échéance, à la lutte des révolutionnaires africains pour l'Indépendance et la souveraineté de la Patrie Africaine.

RESOLUTION de politique générale

La Fédération des Etudiants d'Afrique Noire en France, réunie à Paris en Congrès Extraordinaire les 21, 22, 23 juin 1958.

Après avoir analysé la situation politique actuelle en France et en Afrique, en rapport avec l'avènement au pouvoir du Général de Gaulle.

Réaffirme avec vigueur les positions fondamentales exprimées par la Résolution de Politique Générale du VIII^e Congrès :

1^o Réaffirme la volonté de lutte pour la conquête de l'INDEPENDANCE NATIONALE et la réalisation de l'UNITE de la PATRIE AFRICAINE.

2^o Déclare à nouveau, que compte tenu de la nature particulière de l'impérialisme français, l'INDEPENDANCE doit être conquise non par une addition de réformes illusoires, mais par une lutte REVOLUTIONNAIRE des MASSES POPULAIRES AFRICAINES.

3^o Réaffirme la détermination de soutenir toute organisation du tout parti politique africain ayant clairement opté pour l'INDEPENDANCE NATIONALE.

4^o Réitère son serment à la lutte héroïque du peuple et des patriotes Kaennkennais et s'engage à tout mettre en œuvre pour qu'un soutien effectif leur soit apporté sur le plan africain comme sur le plan international.

Le BLUFF d'AHIDJO

PAR
ABD UL-BAG'HI MAW'NDI MOHAMMADU RAJI
Militant de l'Union des Populations du Cameroun (U.P.C.)

Notre camarade Abdul est un patriote connu et aimé dans son pays. Ancien membre de l'Assemblée Représentative du Kamerun, jeté en prison au raison de sa lutte au service du peuple de son pays, Abdul est bien placé pour fustiger la politique démagogique suivie par Ahidjo et indiquer au peuple la voie à suivre, celle tracée par l'U.P.C. Il est d'autant bien placé pour l'expliquer que Ahidjo fut « élu » dans des conditions dont seule la France connaît le secret au motif de consultation populaire. Le dernier électeur du Nord-Kamerun soit que la liste qui avait accueilli la majorité des suffrages était bien celle de Mahendé-Péro dont les opinions au plébiscite posé au gouvernement français. On dut procéder comme on l'a fait en 1947 et au Togo en 1955 pour, quelques heures après, déclarer sans trop de conviction Ahidjo et son amis « élus ». Il est donc naturel que Ahidjo applique servilement les conseils de ceux de qui il attend et sa « réélection » et tout le reste. Mais il doit savoir que désormais les jours des colonialistes et leurs suppôts sont comptés. Le signal vient d'être magistralement donné au Togo.

S'adressant à un groupuscule de dociles « pick-pockets » en quête de prébendes à Exéba, M. Ahmadou Ahidjo « Premier Ministre de l'Etat sous Tutelle » du Kamerun, déclarait : « Le gouvernement Camerounais, qui est un gouvernement de légalité, admet la liberté d'opinion, mais est contre la violence. On a parlé de l'indépendance du Cameroun, de la réunification des deux Cameroun. Nous sommes également pour ces deux objectifs, mais nous n'obtiendrons cette unification ni par le sang, ni par les incendies, ni par les assassinats ». (Le Peuple de Paris, n° 10.474 du 25 avril 1958, Un Coup d'Œil vers le Cameroun.)

L'auteur anonyme de cet article, dans sa peur convulsive, après avoir cité ces paroles « prophétiques » d'Ahidjo, conclut : « Ils (Ahidjo et ses Ministres) le font (la politique de démagogie NDLR) en accord avec Gérard Jacquet — Ministre français des Colonies d'alors — et le gouvernement de la République. »

Le 5 mars 1958, M. Gérard Jacquet avec l'accord de qui — s'il faut en croire « Le Peuple » — et ceci est d'autant plus vrai que M. Gérard Jacquet est Socialiste S.F.I.O. — travaillant Ahidjo et son équipe « Ministérielle », déclarait au cours d'une conférence de presse à Dakar : « L'indépendance totale est une illusion dangereuse. » (Le Monde du 6 mars 1958).

Il faut aussi remarquer qu'à l'issue de l'audience que lui accorde M. René Coty, Président de la République française, M. Ahidjo faisait à la presse la déclaration selon laquelle « Le Cameroun n'envisage pas de sortir du sillage de la France, mais il est tenné de bâtir cette communauté franco-camerounaise dans un esprit de franchise et de confiance... »

A côté des déclarations démagogiques, mais délibérément contradictoires, il faut se souvenir du last jeté par M. M'Bida — ancien « Premier Ministre » de l'Etat sous tutelle du Kamerun »

« Il y a disait-il au correspondant du journal Le Monde, des choses que le gouvernement français ne peut pas dire publiquement, mais que nous pouvons dire pour lui ». (Doc. cité numéro du 18 décembre 1957, p. 61).

M. Ahidjo est donc en principe pour l'indépendance et l'unification du Kamerun, mais les attend comme « gifts » des autorités administrantes dont les intentions sont pourtant claires à ce sujet : « L'indépendance totale est une illusion dangereuse » (Gérard Jacquet dit.)

COMMENT CONCILIER CES POINTS DE VUE TOUT AUTANT OPPOSES QUE CONTRADICTOIRES ?

C'est qu'en réalité M. Ahidjo est d'accord avec M. Gérard Jacquet. Et c'est justement parce qu'ils sont frères siamois que leurs idées coïncident tout en apparaissant inconciliables.

Car comment expliquer que l'homme qui veut réellement l'indépendance de son pays subordonne sa réalisation ou son acquisition à l'approbation de celui pour qui cette indépendance n'est que fiction, veulerie et chaos ? D'ailleurs M. Ahidjo se montre explicite à ce sujet lorsqu'il précise : « que son gouvernement avait déposé sur le Bureau de l'Assemblée Législative un projet de résolution tendant à demander aux instances françaises de reconnaître la vocation de l'Etat Camerounais à l'indépendance » (West Africa numéro du samedi 10 mai 1958, page 439).

a) Ahidjo est contre l'indépendance du Kamerun.

A la lumière de toutes ces citations, il apparaît clairement que M. Ahidjo use de subterfuges démagogiques pour voiler les yeux du monde, alors qu'au fond il travaille contre l'indépendance du Kamerun.

Pourquoi demander à la France de reconnaître la « vocation de l'Etat Camerounais à l'indépendance » alors que le Conseil de tutelle lors de sa 19^e session avait déjà, par une résolution, endorsed la vocation des Camerounais à l'indépendance. N'est-ce pas là une hypothèque dangereuse destinée à aider justement cette « France » pour qui « l'indépendance n'est qu'un chaos » ?

 Mieux encore, pour Ahidjo, le peuple Kamerunais n'est pas encore mûr pour pouvoir disposer de lui-même. Aussi propose-t-il des garanties pour l'indépendance. Mais pour le gouvernement français ces paliers sont ainsi conçus : « Il y a certes, déclarait le délégué français au Conseil de Tutelle, un moment où il est impossible de faire des paliers ; ce moment est sans doute proche pour le Cameroun et nous déterminerons en plein accord avec le gouvernement Camerunais un calendrier raisonnable que nous présenterons aux Nations Unies et qui conduira le Cameroun à sa sortie de tutelle. » (Le Monde, du 6 mars 1958).

Pour la « France » sur qui compte Ahidjo pour obtenir sur le plateau d'or cette « indépendance », le moment de fixer les paliers n'est que proche ! Et comment conçoit-elle ces paliers, c'est M. Gérard Jacquet, ancien ministre français des colonies qui nous en livre le contenu et les méthodes : « Le Monde » du 6 mars 1958 écrit à ce sujet : « M. Gérard Jacquet a d'autre part annoncé que dès son retour à Paris, il s'emploierait à faire hâter la publication par le gouvernement français d'une sorte de déclaration d'intention, fixant les étapes urgentes des réformes constitutionnelles qui doivent conduire à une plus large autonomie interne. »

Voilà qui est explicite : déclaration d'intention... pour une plus large autonomie interne. L'indépendance dont parle Ahidjo et qu'il compte obtenir de ses maîtres n'est autre chose qu'une déclaration d'intentions portant sur l'élargissement de l'autonomie interne.

C'est si vrai que M. Ahidjo, sans avoir au préalable consulté le peuple Kamerunais, seul maître de son destin, a déclaré que « le Cameroun n'envisage pas de sortir du sillage de la France. »

Plus tangible preuve est le télégramme envoyé par MM M'Bida et Ahidjo au Docteur « NKRUMAH au lendemain de la conférence des Etats Indépendants d'Afrique tenue à Accra du 15 au 22 avril 1958. Dans ce télégramme, M. Ahidjo s'opposait à la résolution prise par la conférence sur le Kamerun exigeant des autorités administrantes de négocier avec l'U.P.C. sur la base des « aspirations politiques légitimes » du peuple Kamerunais qui sont comme par hasard l'unification et l'indépendance ; en s'y opposant, M. Ahidjo a prouvé par là même qu'il était foncièrement ligé contre toute action de nature à favoriser l'avènement de l'indépendance effective du Kamerun. Car si telle n'était pas son intention véritable pourquoi cette protestation au demeurant sans effet ni issue ? M. Ahidjo sait pourtant que le peuple Kamerunais est prêt et capable à assumer les responsabilités de l'indépendance. Sous le titre « Inquiétudes au Cameroun » « La Réforme » du 7 décembre 1957 avait écrit que « l'émancipation est, en effet, acquise et si l'on suivait certains milieux français tant à gauche qu'à droite, elle serait sans doute à très brève échéance totale ». Quel terrifiant démenti pour Ahidjo, qui croit et prône à ses compatriotes le complexe de soumission et d'infériorité !

b) Ahidjo est contre l'unification du Kamerun.

Dans ses discours et ses pérorations, Ahidjo parle de l'unification du Kamerun. Œuvre-t-il dans ce sens ? Envisage-t-il une solution adéquate pour la réalisation de cette unité ?

Lorsque, dans ses déclarations, il ne voit que la « France » en vue d'un règlement du problème Kamerunais — y compris celui de l'unification — et oublier la Grande-Bretagne et surtout le peuple Kamerunais lui-même, est-ce par hasard, par simple aberration ou une omission volontaire ? Certes, l'unification et l'indépendance sont devenus des mots magiques, des paroles d'or dont on se gargarise au Kamerun. Même quand il faut s'en servir à des fins contraires et personnelles !

Et pourtant, pour M. Ahidjo « Un Kamerun est toujours l'ardent désir des Kamerunais ». (West Africa numéro du 10 mai 1958, p. 439).

Le referendum ! Il en fait état. Mais ne dit pas quand, dans quelles circonstances et par qui sera organisé et conduit le referendum ? Juste un éducorant pour colmater le « torrent émotionnel » du peuple Kamerunais. Mais il oublie qu'il s'agit d'un peuple averti, habitué aux langages et campagnes électorales et dont la vigilance ne peut être mise en doute. Ce peuple qui a écouté et vu des camélorans, type Scippo, Assalé, M'Bida et Kémadjou, pour ne citer que ceux-là !

et Ahidjo, tout comme M'Bida, joue au Bellounis...

Comme Bellounis en Algérie, Ahidjo — après l'U.P.C. — s'est engagé à servir de félon. Par une méthode beaucoup plus rapide, lente mais gouvernement orthodoxe. Solide intelligant, il compte juguler la révolution par une répression très sucrée : répression secrète, sans tapage ni fracas. « M. Ahidjo est déterminé à ne pas s'exposer ouvertement comme M. M'Bida » nous assure le Reporter de « West Africa ». Parce qu'il sait, comme l'a si justement précisé M. Ramadier — l'homme qui a représenté la France au Kamerun pour deux semaines seulement et a été limogé étant jugé libéral — que « s'il y a un changement de personne, il n'y a pas changement de politique ». (La Presse du Cameroun, n° 2342 du 14 février 1958).

M. M'Bida, selon « West Africa » n'a chuté que sur le désir et la décision du gouvernement français qui estimait la politique de celui-ci un peu trop bruyante et emportée d'une franchise crue et criarde alors qu'une politique de mort lente aurait plus d'effet avec moins de suspicion et de réaction internationale.

M. Ahidjo sait, avec l'expérience, que le peuple Kamerunais n'accorde pas sa confiance aux « colonialistes moulthropes ». Aussi se défend-il d'être le thuriféraire du pouvoir colonial et essaie-t-il de se réclamer même de l'U.P.C. — qu'il combat cependant — pour prouver à quel point il partage entièrement les objectifs de l'unification et de l'indépendance.

M. Ahidjo se démasque lorsqu'il fait appel aux contingents militaires de « l'union française » pour mater un peuple dont il sait que « l'ardent désir sont l'unification et l'indépendance » alors qu'il sait surtout que l'existence du maquis est due au fait que les autorités administrantes ne veulent pas reconnaître cet ardent désir.

Pourquoi donc user des forces armées contre un peuple dont on prétend être à la fois le défenseur ? Là est toute la question.

En grattant Ahidjo, ce sont M'Bida et le gouvernement sanguinaire français que l'on retrouve. Pris dans ses contradictions, Ahidjo n'est plus que le satrape de Soppo dont « Toward Freedom » écrivait que son discours à l'O.N.U. était particulièrement remarquable par son extrême ambiguïté. Qui dit Soppo dit bien le gouvernement français... Et nous voilà devant le Bellounis Kamerunais, celui dont on se sert pour consommer le crime de génocide contre ses propres frères... A cause d'un poète d'honneurs et de colossaux salaires éphémères...

QUI HABET AURES AUDIENDI, AUDIAT

Que celui qui a des oreilles pour entendre, entende. Telle est la parabole contenue dans l'Evangile.

Les Français qui emploient au Kamerun des Sédés du type M'Bida — Ahidjo, savent par leur propre expérience nationale qu'une armée étrangère, même soutenue par des argousins locaux, ne peut pas vaincre l'insurrection nationale.

Après les déconvenues des Grunitzky et Aïavon au Togo, leurs collègues du Kamerun devraient reconsidérer leur position.

Les manifestations d'austérité et de réprobation rencontrées par Ahidjo lors de son dernier périple au Nord-Kamerun devraient lui servir de leçon. Car il ne s'agissait que de vagues d'un torrent de colères qui se déferlera bientôt pour, comme au Togo, le balayer à l'instar de Grunitzky. Parce que la courbe sinusoidale des thuriféraires du régime colonial, finit toujours par une chute précipitée !

M. Ahidjo doit savoir que ses tentatives de procéder à la revivisection du Kamerun ne réussiront pas parce que nous autres populations du Nord-Kamerun, savons pertinemment qu'il ne s'agit là que d'une mesure destinée à morceler notre pays au profit de l'impérialisme. En tant que Musulmans, nous autres, populations du Nord-Kamerun savons que le CORAN est contre l'oppression et la servitude. Aussi es-tu avec une attention particulière que nous suivons la lutte des peuples Musulmans frères (Algérie, Oman, Tunisie, Aden, Egypte lors de l'agression de Suez) et nous engageons à copier leur exemple. Si Ahidjo reconnaît qu'il est vrai Musulman comme ceux dont il est issu, qu'il fasse comme moi : Démissionner de ses fonctions de « Premier Ministre » et rejoindre l'U.P.C., l'âme immortelle du peuple Kamerunais. Alors, et alors seulement, il méritera la confiance des populations du Nord-Kamerun en particulier et du peuple Kamerunais en général.

Le « K » du KAMERUN

Certains lecteurs nous demandent des explications sur l'usage de la lettre « K » dans l'orthographe du mot Kamerun.

Pour répondre à leur demande, nous leur présentons ces informations fournies par des dirigeants de l'U.P.C.

Sous le titre « Signification historique du drapeau Camerounais », notre camarade Ruben Um Nyobe, Secrétaire général de l'U.P.C., a, dans une note en date du 24 mai 1955, dont vous voudrez bien trouver le texte par ailleurs suggéré le rétablissement du nom initial de notre pays.

En effet, l'on sait que pendant l'occupation allemande, notre pays s'appela « Kamerun ». La consultation de certains documents (cartes géographiques par exemple) peut permettre d'en établir la preuve, s'il en était besoin.

Mais, avec la division arbitraire de notre pays par les navailles franco-britanniques en 1918, les Français appelèrent la partie d'u Kamerun dominée par eux « Cameroun » et les Anglais appelèrent celle occupée par eux « Cameroons ». Cet acte qui passait inaperçu à l'époque et qui risqua de continuer à l'être aujourd'hui rentre dans le système d'aliénation de l'originalité du pays occupé par l'occupant, système cher à la politique d'assimilation qui est l'un des procédés modernes du colonialisme. Les deux appellations entrèrent donc dans l'usage sans que celle en son été la volonté de notre peuple.

Cependant, depuis août 1951, époque de la constitution dans le Kamerun sous administration britannique d'un mouvement de masse pour la réunification, nos frères de l'Ouest nous devancèrent dans la reconstitution de l'appellation juste de notre pays.

Il était donc inconcevable de continuer à admettre la déformation coloniale du nom de notre pays après la publication de la « Proclamation Commune » du 22 avril dernier et surtout après l'adoption enthousiaste de notre drapeau national par le peuple kamerounais en date du 22 mai 1955.

Nous espérons donc que pour des raisons ici exposées, pour celles développées par Ruben Um Nyobe dans sa note du 24 mai et pour d'autres que nous sommes prêts à articuler à l'intention de qui le voudra, nos compatriotes accepteraient volontiers de procéder à la rectification matérielle de l'appellation de notre pays et décideront unanimement que notre Patrie est le « Kamerun » et non un « Cameroun » ou un « Cameroons », cyniques symboles de la division arbitraire de notre pays, division contre laquelle notre peuple lutte à sauer et à sang aujourd'hui avec la certitude de triompher.

Une exception doit être faite cependant pour la nomination des trois mouvements populaires kamerounais, avec leurs initiales, les instances compétentes de ces organisations étant seules qualifiées pour faire quelques rectifications que ce soit, ceci en raison de la qualité de personne morale de ces organismes.

En conséquence, nous pouvons continuer à appeler : « Union des Populations du Cameroun » (U.P.C.), mais « Section Kamerounaise du Rassemblement Démocratique Africain », « Union Démocratique des Femmes Camerounaises » (U.D.F.E.C.), « Jeunesse Démocratique du Cameroun » (J.D.C.).

Nous espérons que les Kamerounaises et les Kamerounais qui viennent de manifester à la Mission de Visite de l'O.N.U. leur volonté inébranlable de conquérir la Réunification et l'indépendance immédiates de leur pays accueilleront favorablement les suggestions contenues dans le présent communiqué et redonneront à notre chère Patrie, son nom initial : le Kamerun.

NAZISME et ATTILA au KAMERUN !

Nous publions ci-après, sans commentaire le triste et noir tableau du nazisme tel que les autorités françaises appuyées par leurs valets l'appliquent au Kamerun.

RESOLUTION SUR LE KAMERUN

La Fédération des Etudiants d'Afrique Noire en France réunie à Paris en Congrès Extraordinaire les 21, 22 et 23 juin 1958.

Considérant que le Kamerun est un territoire sous tutelle internationale,

Considérant qu'en vertu de l'article 766 de la Charte des Nations-Unies, la volonté des populations des pays sous tutelle doit être prise en considération par la puissance administrante et l'Organisation des Nations-Unies,

Considérant que la lutte du Peuple Kamerunais pour la réunification et l'INDEPENDANCE NATIONALE immédiate est entrée dans sa phase décisive,

Considérant que le Peuple Kamerunais est quasi-unanime pour les objectifs de la REUNIFICATION et de l'INDEPENDANCE NATIONALE lancés et soutenus par « l'UNION des POPULATIONS du KAMERUN » (U.P.C.), Considérant que jusqu'à présent le Gouvernement français au mépris de ses engagements internationaux et des aspirations du Peuple Kamerunais a déchaîné sur ce dernier une répression sanglante et barbare,

Considérant que la ferme détermination de l'U.P.C. dans la lutte de libération nationale a amené les instances internationales à reconnaître en elle la seule organisation représentative des aspirations réelles du Peuple Kamerunais,

Considérant que toute formation politique, syndicale, confessionnelle qui se développe à cette heure cruciale des thèses autres que celles défendues par les dirigeants de l'U.P.C. tend à torpiller la lutte révolutionnaire menée par le Peuple Kamerunais,

Considérant que toutes les déclarations et résolutions de l'Assemblée Législative et du Gouvernement de « l'ETAT sous tutelle du Cameroun » issus des élections-massacres du 23 décembre 1956 qui prétendent opter pour la REUNIFICATION et l'INDEPENDANCE ne sont qu'un bluff destiné à semer la confusion dans l'opinion internationale, Considérant que pour rétablir une vie politique normale au Kamerun par le respect des libertés démocratiques le Gouvernement français doit négocier avec l'U.P.C.

Le Congrès de la F.E.A.N.F. :

1° Réaffirme solennellement les résolutions de son VIII^e Congrès concernant le Kamerun,

2° Attire l'attention de la mission de visite de l'O.N.U. devant se rendre au Kamerun sur la situation extrêmement grave qui règne dans ce pays,

3° Demande instamment à l'O.N.U. d'exiger de la France qu'elle cesse la guerre au Kamerun par la négociation avec l'U.P.C. sur la base de l'INDEPENDANCE immédiate,

4° Condamne énergiquement l'attitude de MM. Ahidjo, N'Gida et autres contre-révolutionnaires qui se sont démasqués comme ennemis des revendications nationales du Kamerun en s'associant à la politique de répression du colonialisme français,

5° Salue la lutte héroïque du Peuple Kamerunais et s'engage à renforcer sa lutte à ses côtés sur le plan africain comme sur le plan international,

6° Décide l'Organisation d'une semaine de solidarité avec le Peuple Kamerunais en lutte pour l'UNITE et l'INDEPENDANCE NATIONALES.

Révélation sensationnelles

de ROLAND PRÉ

A l'heure où la répression colonialiste atteint au Kamerun une intensité exceptionnelle, preuve que le gouvernement français veut jouer à tout la carte de l'aventure, il est temps de livrer à l'opinion publique ce document sensationnel.

Ce document fait état de directives officielles données par le gouverneur Roland Pré au lendemain de la mise hors-la-loi de l'U.P.C. Il révèle les intentions réelles de la politique criminelle que mènent les colonialistes au Kamerun depuis 3 ans, et ce en violation flagrante de la Charte de l'O.N.U. et des Accords de Tutelle, et au mépris de la volonté du peuple d'accéder à l'indépendance nationale.

Yaoundé, le 28 juillet 1955.

ORIENTATION GENERALE

DE NOTRE ACTION POLITIQUE

I. — Evolution de la situation depuis le 1^{er} janvier du Territoire.

Au 1^{er} janvier de cette année, le dynamisme des mouvements extrémistes et le développement rapide de leur influence étaient les faits dominants de la situation politique.

Il serait superflu de procéder à une analyse détaillée de la cause décaillée de cette situation que vous connaissez bien. Je rappelle seulement que nos adversaires tiraient leur force d'une organisation très poussée qui servait de support à toute leur action : l'U.P.C. avec ses 460 comités de base, ses hiérarchies parallèles, l'U.D.E.F.E.C., la J.D.C., la C.G.T. et ses syndicats ; d'une propagande puissante fondée sur le mythe de la victoire inévitable de l'U.P.C. sur toute puissance ; de la crainte que le dynamisme de nos adversaires et notre propre passivité répondaient progressivement dans tous les éléments de la population, même les plus attachés à la France ; enfin, de l'orientation ouvertement anti-française, nationaliste et panafricainiste de toute cette action en face de laquelle la tolérance excessive que nous imposaient nos propres institutions passait, aux yeux de la masse indigène, pour un aveu d'abandon.

Le renversement de cette situation au cours du premier semestre de cette année, s'est accompli en deux phases marquées chacune par une défaite de nos adversaires.

La première phase, celle de l'agitation sociale, qui atteignit son point culminant dans le premier trimestre, s'est classée en avril sur l'échec total de la campagne de grève, entraînant la déchéance du prestige et de l'influence cégérelai de l'agitation sociale au cours du deuxième trimestre, s'est développée « crescendo » jusqu'au déchaînement de violences des émeutes généralisées de mai. L'échec total de cette-ci la fuite ou l'arrestation des dirigeants et des principaux exécutants ont marqué l'effondrement de l'U.P.C. et de ses organisations parallèles, effondrement qui a entraîné dans la chute, au moins provisoirement, la C.G.T. déjà prétendument atteinte par ses échecs du premier trimestre. L'interdiction de l'U.P.C. et de ses organisations satellites par le Conseil des Ministres, l'exclusion concomitante de l'U.P.C. par le R.D.A. réuni en congrès à Conakry, sont les conséquences logiques de cet effondrement et marquent par un fait positif la victoire remportée sur les groupements extrémistes qui prétendaient encore au début de cette année avoir définitivement gagné la partie au Kamerun.

Si nous devons nous réjouir de cette victoire, elle n'en crée pas moins un vide politique et syndical au Kamerun dont nous devons prendre conscience pour définir et faire triompher le programme politique constructif que toute la population attend de nous.

II. — Elément d'un programme constructif.

Tous les éléments d'un tel programme sont actuellement à pied d'œuvre. A nous de les mettre en place et de les présenter dans une construction d'ensemble pour que les populations en saisissent tout le sens. Elles ne manqueront pas alors d'y donner leur adhésion car il répond à l'essentiel de leurs aspirations.

Vous articulerez la définition et la présentation de ce programme sur trois ordres de faits :

1^o La mise en place, en cours d'exécution, des structures d'encadrement de la société rurale : communes rurales, sections communes, comités de villages, sections S.A.P. Cette action actuellement en cours, illustre bien notre volonté de donner tous les moyens à la société rurale de gérer ses propres affaires aux échelons qui sont à sa portée et pour cela, à la fois de mettre sur pied les institutions nécessaires et de lui former des cadres dans son propre sein.

J'attire particulièrement votre attention à cette occasion sur l'importance primordiale des stages de formation de cadres ruraux dont les deux premiers fonctionnent déjà en symbiose avec les écoles normales de Foumbou et d'Abony-Nbang, et dont deux autres doivent être incessamment mis sur pied dans des conditions analogues ; l'effort de développement massif des postes de paysannat et des centres ruraux s'inspire du même souci ; vous devez donc porter un intérêt constant à toutes ces réalisations et ne jamais oublier que c'est à partir d'elles que s'exerce le plus directement notre action d'animation de la société rurale.

Je tiens à souligner que ces mesures, qui visent à promouvoir d'emblée les masses rurales au rôle prépondérant qu'elles doivent jouer dans la vie territoriale, correspondent à une évolution d'ordre général qui se dessine dans l'ensemble de nos territoires d'Afrique : la montée et la prise de conscience de la paysannerie dont l'importance s'accroît par rapport aux minorités évoluées des villes qui exerçaient jusqu'à maintenant une influence politique prépondérante.

2° L'action du Gouvernement en vue de donner rapidement au Territoire une raisonnable autonomie interne, c'est-à-dire le doter d'institutions qui soient compatibles avec l'état actuel de son évolution et les exigences de son appartenance à la Communauté Franco-Africaine.

Après les déclarations du Représentant de la France à l'O.N.U. l'an dernier et du Ministre de la France d'Outre-Mer lors de son voyage au Cameroun au mois de mai, surviennent aujourd'hui des actes positifs : mise au point des projets du Conseil d'Etat, résolution du gouvernement de les transmettre au plus tôt au Parlement avant la fin de la session actuelle.

Je rappelle que ces projets visaient à créer un Conseil de Gouvernement comportant les membres élus par l'Assemblée Territoriale, et à remplacer l'Assemblée actuelle par une Assemblée aux pouvoirs élargis sur un plan parafédéral par transfert de certaines attributions du Parlement.

3° L'affirmation parallèle du Ministre de la France d'Outre-Mer et du Gouvernement que nous ne sommes plus à l'âge des nations isolées mais à celui des grands ensembles économiques et des larges collectivités politiques.

A ces affirmations correspondent toute une série d'efforts du Gouvernement et du Parlement pour définir d'une manière plus précise les bases d'une communauté Franco-Africaine qui groupera dans un grand ensemble économique et une vaste collectivité politique tous les peuples de l'ancien Empire français. Cette politique d'intégration du Cameroun dans le futur ensemble franco-africain est inséparable de la politique de développement d'une autonomie locale dont elle représente non pas la contradiction, comme l'affirment nos adversaires extrémistes, mais au contraire la condition sine qua non d'une réalisation durable.

III. — Opportunité d'une action immédiate.

Ainsi, tout un ensemble de facteurs nouveaux viennent de transformer les données même de la situation politique du Cameroun :

- L'effondrement de nos adversaires ;
- L'affirmation par les partis authentiquement africains (dont le Congrès du R.D.A. à Conakry est la manifestation la plus marquante) de leur désir de voir à la fois les populations qu'ils représentent assurer progressivement la pleine administration de leurs intérêts propres ; s'intégrer de plus en plus étroitement dans le bloc franco-africain ;
- La mise en route d'un programme par le Gouvernement qui vise à la fois à assurer la pleine autonomie interne des populations et l'intégration dans ce bloc ;

— Enfin le récent exemple du Togo qui, à l'unanimité de ses représentants, vient d'affirmer sa volonté de s'intégrer à la Communauté des peuples groupés autour du Pays tuteur (il est intéressant d'ailleurs de souligner à cet égard les sentiments de regrets exprimés par beaucoup de Camerounais d'avoir été ainsi devancés par le Territoire frère).

Tous ces facteurs convergents nous poussent à nous engager à notre tour à fond dans une politique constructive visant à la création rapide du groupe Franco-Africain et à l'intégration du Cameroun dans ce bloc. Nous avons la conscience d'être désormais dans le sens de l'évolution historique et de représenter ainsi les seules perspectives d'avenir pour la population de ce Territoire.

IV. — Calendrier de notre action.

Le calendrier de notre action s'établit tout naturellement à partir de ces constatations.

1° D'aujourd'hui jusqu'à l'arrivée de la Mission de visite :

- A notre échelon local : mise en place des structures de la société rurale ;
- A l'échelon du Gouvernement : dépôt du projet de loi sur les institutions du Cameroun.

2° Pendant les trois derniers mois de l'année :

- A l'échelon local : toute notre action doit tendre à donner à la Mission de visite la pleine conscience du désir des Camerounais d'évoluer dans le cadre des institutions qui se mettent en place et dans l'orbite de la Communauté Franco-Africaine ;
- A l'échelon du Gouvernement et du Parlement : examen et probablement vote des nouvelles institutions camerounaises.

3° Première moitié de l'année prochaine :

- Mise en route des nouvelles institutions : communes urbaines de plein exercice, assemblée locale aux pouvoirs élargis, Conseil de Gouvernement, suivie des élections législatives.

Cette période sera donc celle d'une vaste consultation des populations camerounaises aux divers échelons. Ces consultations doivent permettre à nos populations d'affirmer leur volonté de s'intégrer dans le cadre de la communauté franco-africaine comme vient de le faire celle du Togo.

D'ici là, tous les efforts doivent tendre à aider les esprits autour de nous à comprendre le sens de l'évolution historique et à rejeter les propagandes qui voudraient les détourner de la seule voie dans laquelle se situe l'avenir du Cameroun : celle qui mène à la Communauté Franco-Africaine.

December 27, 1958

Mr. V. P. Eliutin,
Minister of Education
Moscow, U. S. S. R.

Dear Mr. Eliutin:

The United States National Student Association, the most representative student organization in the United States, desires an increased understanding and an exchange of ideas, skills and techniques between the students of the U. S. S. R. and the U. S.

The most beneficial opportunities for this, in our estimation, come through exchanges of students which allow direct and unhurried contact on an individual and personal level. We were therefore very pleased that the cultural agreement of a year ago between the United States and the Soviet Union provided for an exchange of students for a full year.

The students of our two countries have been able to make a small beginning toward bettering their understanding of each other through the exchange of youth and student editors arranged between the Committee on Youth Organizations and the United States National Student Association. However, news articles, speeches and editorials written by participants in the previous exchanges from both countries convince us that both parties reached the same conclusion regarding the provisions of more beneficial programs: there should be time to continue conversations with individual students; there should be a great deal of "free time" to allow unhurried personal observations; and the exchanges should have the opportunity to know one area, one city and one person in depth, instead of constantly traveling. We fully agree with the statement made by Mr. Romanovsky and Mr. Jugrov regarding the future exchange programs between our organizations: that long term exchanges were "initially ideal."

We were disheartened by the indication these officials of the CYO gave that ways could not be found for their organization to conduct this "most ideal" form of exchange. USNSA is very hopeful that the initial beginnings which have been made will offer a foundation for more significant programs between students of the two countries.

It is our understanding from correspondence received from the Committee on Youth Organizations in May and August of last year, and from comments made by Mr. Romanovsky and Mr. Jugrov in New York on August 4, that an exchange program covering a year of study could be arranged through the Soviet Ministry of Education. Initial suggestions were that students selected by the two student organizations be exchanged through the official cultural agreement signed between our countries. Because arrangements for selection of the exchange students from the United States had already been designated to a private organization, the Inter-University Committee on Travel Grants, USNSA found it impossible to carry out its desired exchange program through the governmental agreement.

Our interest in promoting an academic exchange program with the Student Council of the Committee on Youth Organizations leads us to accept their suggestion that our proposal be made to the Ministry of Education of the U. S. S. R. Consultation with the United States State Department has affirmed that presentation of our proposal to you and the implementation of the exchange need not be made through the U. S. State Department, because the Agreement negotiated by Ambassadors Zarubin and Lacy did not prohibit other exchange programs between the two countries.

USNSA therefore proposes to you an exchange program as follows:

- (1) An exchange of two students each way to be arranged for the academic year 1959-60.
- (2) USNSA and the designated Soviet organization would be responsible for selection of the students from their countries. It would be understood that the educational institutions reserve the final right to admit a student. USNSA would make every effort to insure that a Soviet nominee would be admitted to an institution appropriate to his interest.
- (3) Choice of universities for the students to attend in the two countries would depend on the expressed preference of the exchangees as to where they would like to study, suggestions of the sponsoring organizations and the availability of facilities at various institutions.
- (4) With regard to expenses:
 - a. Travel costs to the host country and return from it would be borne by the sponsoring organizations for its own students.
 - b. All expenses of the Soviet students in the United States, including tuition, room and board, necessary books, and a monthly allowance for incidentals of about $50, would be borne by the USNSA with arrangements to cover reciprocal cost by the sponsoring Soviet organization.

It is our hope that you will desire a program of long term exchange, and we anxiously await an indication from you regarding the possibilities of arranging such a program. We fully share the feeling of Mr. Bugrov expressed in a letter to us, that "if the desire exists, ways, forms and possibilities can always be found for furthering such cooperation."

SIX FROM U.S. VACATION IN RED HOMES

Life Under Communists In Poland Found Surprising

Warsaw, Aug. 29 (AP)—Six young Americans sat in a coffee house here summing up a strange vacation. On it they tried to find out what life's like under communism.

For six weeks they lived as members of Polish families, trying to merge into the lives of their hosts. The results: Revealing though sometimes confusing.

"The hospitality has been tremendous," said Ruby Gersten, a petite brunette from Los Angeles and a history student at Reed College. The rest agreed.

Said Lucinda Hogan, a penniless, N.Y. child welfare worker: "I'm afraid no foreigner would get the same welcome back home."

The six came here as part of a group sponsored by the Experiment in International Living, a Putney (Vt.) organization that has been doing this sort of thing more than 20 years.

Hosts All Spoke English
Their hosts, chosen by the Polish Students Association, all spoke English; they were mainly better-off professional people.

Most of the American youngsters came as so-called community ambassadors. Hometown social organizations paid their way and when they got back they will lecture on the trip.

They'll have plenty to tell.

One surprise: Poles seem to eat more than Americans.

"I don't think it's just that they were laying it on for our benefit," said Harvey Buegardner, assistant professor of political science at North Carolina State University. "They're just big eaters and like to eat well."

Leftovers For Breakfast

Doc King, who works in retailing at Niagara Falls, N.Y., saw Army service in Western Europe, was surprised to find breakfast made up from leftovers of the evening meal. The reason: Hot weather and no fridges.

For Marie Ten Hoor, blonde high school teacher from Grand Rapids, Mich., the dietary surprise was that Poles drink sour milk and cream and apparently because they like it.

"And you don't see drinking fountains here," she said. "Instead you buy soda water from a street kiosk."

For Graham Provan, high school teacher from Flint, Mich., and Carl BUL, printer, of Austin, Minn., the big eye catcher was city transport.

"People pack into those streetcars so tight you'd think they would suffocate," said Carl. "And those that can't get in just hang on the outside, clutching whatever they can."

Homes Found Overcrowded

All found Polish homes overcrowded, with six persons to three rooms the average. Of the six host families none had a car and one had a TV set. All were keen radio listeners who tuned in to Radio Free Europe.

All the youngsters came here expecting a lot of questioning and criticism about the American political system. They seldom got it.

"Instead they're much more interested in prices and living standards," said Miss Gersten.

The other girls reported their hosts fascinated by such novelties as liquid shoe polish and dry-dry skirts.

Carl Brill said it seemed the average Warsaw family saw more plays and movies than its counterpart back home.

"And it's surprising the amount of contemporary American literature they've read," said Miss Gersten. "They all know Hemingway far better than I do."

"They certainly read more of everything than we do," said Miss Ten Hoor. "You see books everywhere. They seem quite cheap and they don't have the competition from other things like they do at home."

As for political attitudes, the group produced this analysis:

"It's difficult to find a supporter of the Communist system, even among people such as officials who could be expected to be party members."

People generally feel they are not masters of their own destiny. Some say life in Eastern Europe has been declining for 40 years and will get worse before it gets better.

b. All expenses of the Russian students in the United States including tuition, room and board, necessary books and a monthly allowance for incidentals of about $50 would be borne by the USNSA and the CYO would agree to cover reciprocal costs for the United States students in the Soviet Union.

c. The host organizations would be responsible for assisting their guests in arranging special programs for vacations. These programs would be worked out by the exchangeers with their host organization and would reflect as much as possible the individual exchangeer's own wishes for a program. Depending on the resources available, the expenses would be borne either by the host organizations or by the students themselves.

We hope that this proposal will provide a useful basis for further discussion between our two organizations. We would suggest that it would be most helpful in our planning if the CYO could indicate as soon as possible whether the general terms of the exchange are acceptable even though it may wish to negotiate further on particular points. In this way, if the CYO decision is favorable, which we should hope it will be, we can begin to receive applications from United States students and make necessary arrangements for receiving Russian students in this country.

Dear Friends:

Thank you for your letter of July 5th and your cable of June 10th.

We are very glad to hear that you have given thorough consideration and thought to our invitation for an US student delegation of fifteen to come to visit China and that you have decided to refer it to your Nineth National Student Congress.

As we pointed out in our letter of May 9th, friendly relations have long existed between the people and students of China and the USA. Chinese students earnestly hope that such friendly relations will grow with each passing day. We are convinced that personal contacts between people is an effective way for increasing understanding and removing misunderstandings. The visit of a delegation composed of representatives of university students from different parts of the USA to China will undoubtedly help bring about better understanding and closer friendship between the students of our two countries and will provide many opportunities for American and Chinese students of different faculties to exchange academic and cultural experiences with each other. During the stay in China, the delegation may, in accordance with their interests, visit places of cultural and historical value and acquaint themselves with various aspects of the cultural and economic life of the people. These friendly feelings of ours have been expressed already in our previous letters. To have your Congress will give thorough consideration to our proposal and we look forward to hearing from you soon. We are not unaware of the difficulties that exist in the development of contacts between the people of our two countries. We believe, however, that the young generation, as the pioneers of our times, certainly

There are no efforts to open the way for better understanding and closer friendship between the young people of our two countries.

Hope you will inform us of the resolutions of your Ninth Congress at your earliest convenience. Regarding the time for the visit, if August and September of this year prove inconvenient to you because your Ninth Congress to which our invitation will be referred will be held in August, please give us your suggestions for some other suitable dates. We shall be glad to receive your delegation at any time convenient to you, either this year or next year. But of course we look forward to welcoming you here as early as possible.

Our letter mentioned about the "continued detainment of certain citizens of our country in prisons of China." We differ from you in the understanding of the nature of this matter. As a result to your request, however, we have collected some articles dealing with this matter and shall send them to you by separate mail for your information.

It is said in your letter that the USNSA has supported the return of Chinese students studying in the USA to return to China. We wish to express our appreciation and thanks to you for this position taken by your organization. At present, there is still a number of Chinese students in the USA. The All-China Students' Federation is deeply concerned with their condition. We shall be glad to hear more about them and about the activities undertaken by your organization in this respect.

Lastly, we would like to extend greetings to all the participants of your Ninth National Student Congress and wish the Congress every success.

Sincerely yours,

We hope your Congress will give thorough discussion to our proposal and we look forward to hearing your favourable reply. We are not unaware of the fact that difficulties still exist in the development of contacts between the people of our two countries. We believe, however, that the younger generation, as the pioneers of our times, certainly will spare no efforts to open the way for better understanding and closer friendship between the young people of our two countries.

Hope you will inform us of the resolutions of your Ninth Congress at your earliest convenience. Regarding the time for the visit, if August and September of this year prove inconvenient to you because your Ninth Congress to which our invitation will be referred will be held in August, please give us your suggestions for some other suitable dates. We shall be glad to receive your delegation at any time convenient to you, either this year or next year. But of course we look forward to welcoming you here as early as possible.

Your letter mentioned about the "continued detainment of certain citizens of our country in prisons of China." We differ with you on the understanding of the nature of this matter. According to your request, however, we have collected some articles dealing with this letter and will send them to you by separate mail or your information.

We are very glad to hear that you have supported the return of Chinese students studying in the USA to return to China. We wish to express our appreciation for your support. At present, there is still a number of Chinese students in the USA. The All-China Students' Federation is deeply concerned with their condition. We shall be glad to hear more about them and about the activities undertaken by your organization in this respect.

Lastly, we would like to extend greetings to all the participants of your Ninth National Student Congress and wish the Congress every success.

Sincerely yours,

All-China Students' Federation

Dear Friends:

We are very glad to have received your letter dated November 3, 1955 and the enclosed resolutions of the 8th Congress of the USNSA. We believe it is the common desire of students of all countries to promote mutual understanding, friendship and cooperation between each other. Though living under different geographical and social circumstances and having various political opinions and religious beliefs, yet being young peoples students of all lands have many interests and demands in common. They all long for peace and a better future. They all want to become worthy inheritors of the fine legacies of human culture. And they have the same desire to exchange among themselves experiences in their studies, to be acquainted with each others conditions of life, to establish and develop friendly relations. Based on this conviction, we hold that although we differ with you on certain questions discussed in your letter, such differences in views should be no hindrance to the development of a wide scope of friendly cooperation between the students and student organizations of our two countries.

Chinese students have consistently worked for the strengthening of friendship and cooperation between students of all countries. In the past few years, we have established and developed friendly cooperation with students in many parts of the world. It is regrettable, however, that in the development of friendly relations between the students of our two countries, things are not yet as they should be. Both China and the United States of America have made significant contributions to the civilization of mankind and the people and students of our two countries have had long standing friendly relations with each other. We hope our friendly contacts will grow with each passing day and we believe that the strengthening of mutual understanding and friendship between the students of our two countries today is of great significance to the maintenance of world peace.

We would like, therefore, to invite you to send a student delegation composed of some fifteen members, representing the university and college students of different parts of your country, to visit China in August or September this year. Chinese students would be happy to accord their American colleagues warm welcome and cordial reception. There will be ample opportunities for the delegation to acquaint themselves with the economic and cultural development in New China and to contact friendly people of all walks of life, particularly students. We sincerely hope our invitation will meet your favor and we should be glad to know your opinions and suggestions on this matter.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

With greetings

Dear Friends,

This is to introduce the enclosed paper on a student-sponsored foreign scholarship program which has been prepared by Werner Warmbrunn and John Sprague of Stanford University.

It may be of interest to you to know that some of the inspiration for the National Student Association's foreign student leadership program came from the experience of Stanford's Foreign Scholarship Program. Consequently, Mr. Sprague and Mr. Warmbrunn (who is Foreign Student Adviser at Stanford and a member of the Board of Advisers to N.S.A.'s Foreign Student Leadership Project) have agreed to distribute the accompanying document based on the Stanford program to N.S.A. member schools.

Certain sections of the handbook have been written with a view to making the Stanford experience intelligible to N.S.A. schools who may participate in the Foreign Student Leadership Project. The authors are especially anxious, however, to make certain that the handbook is viewed not as a blueprint, but as a guide and compendium of suggestions which may be adaptable to other programs (such as FSLP) and to a variety of other college and university campus situations.

This is the second* in the series of program materials which is being published or distributed by the Foreign Student Leadership Project for use in program development.

I. PREFACE

The travel of students to foreign countries for advanced studies dates back to the beginnings of recorded history in ancient Greece and has been one of the important factors in the growth of civilizations. Until recently, foreign study usually was designed for the achievement of some specific academic or technical goal, or for the acquisition of other kinds of knowledge which could not be secured in the student's home country. Only in the twentieth century has the exchange of persons been considered as a device to further world peace and international understanding.

The groundwork for international exchange sponsored by private organizations was laid in the years between the First and Second World Wars, but the field remained primarily the concern of a few far-sighted individuals and organizations. The numbers of foreign students in America and of American students in Europe was fairly small. With some exceptions, the exchange of sponsored students concerned European countries.

The rise of the totalitarian ideologies in the twenties and thirties, and their responsibility for the start of the Second World War, led people all over the world to conclude, in the words of the preamble to the UNESCO Constitution, that "since wars begin in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed." To many people, the exchange of persons seemed a means for constructing such defenses. Since lack of understanding between peoples was considered to be one cause of war, travel and study abroad were to remove misunderstanding. Moreover, Americans felt that exposure to American democracy would lead people from nations with authoritarian or totalitarian social and political systems to embrace the democratic way of life and to work for democracy in their own countries.

As a result of these ideas, student exchange, particularly the movement of students to the United States, increased rapidly after the end of the Second World War. In the academic year 1954-55, approximately 34,000 foreign students attended colleges in the United States, about three times the number studying here in the thirties. Many groups joined in the promotion of international exchange. Among these were the Government, with the Fulbright and Smith-Mundt Acts and related legislation, and private organizations such as the Institute of International Education, as well as church groups and student organizations. On many campuses student groups, especially fraternities and sororities, made their contribution by inviting overseas students to spend a year with them at the expense of the living group. The United States National Student Association sponsored visits of foreign student leaders to this country, appointed an International Campus Administrator, and published two pamphlets on international programs for its member groups.¹

In October 1955, the United States National Student Association was given a grant by the Ford Foundation for a three-year Foreign Student Leadership Project designed to give foreign student leaders training in the leadership skills which have been developed in American student government organizations. Up to fifteen foreign student leaders were to be placed for one year in American colleges with strong student governments. The National Student Association also wishes to promote the adoption of new foreign scholarship programs in institutions which do not participate in the Foreign Student Leadership Project.

Since national organizations and local student groups sponsoring such a program will encounter a number of practical problems, it has seemed pertinent to outline the operation of one such program. A small grant was made by the Ford Foundation in 1955 for that purpose. It is hoped that such a description will provide the local administrators of the Foreign Student Leadership Project and of other foreign scholarship programs with clues for the successful operation of their own projects.

The Stanford Foreign Scholarship Program was selected for this purpose because during its eight years of operation, many problems which new programs will have to face have been worked out to some degree. Moreover, it is a good example of a project based on the cooperation of many groups within one campus, including student government, the living groups, the university administration and the community. It must be emphasized, however, that the Stanford Program is based on conditions particular to the Stanford campus. The Program has its special objectives which differ significantly from those of the United States National Student Association Foreign Student Leadership Project, and may differ from those of programs to be adopted elsewhere. Therefore the Stanford Foreign Scholarship Program is presented here, not as an example to be imitated, but as a point of departure for other student groups in the development of programs based on the spirit and the institutions of their own campuses. Some special objectives and problems of the local administration of the Foreign Student Leadership Project are outlined in the next to last chapter of this paper. In the final chapter, certain generalizations arising from the Stanford experience are presented which may be applicable to other foreign scholarship programs.

The description of the Stanford Foreign Scholarship Program (Chapters II to VI) was prepared by John Spragus, one of the Co-Chairmen of the Stanford Foreign Scholarship Program for the academic year 1954-55. The Preface and the Conclusions were written by Werner Warmbrunn, Foreign Student Adviser at Stanford University. He and his wife Joan were responsible for editing the pamphlet, the substance of which was discussed and agreed upon by the co-authors.

II. INTRODUCTION

History

The Stanford Foreign Scholarship Program was established in 1948, largely at the instigation of the veterans enrolling at the University after World War II, who were very internationally-minded as a result of their war experience. Under this Program, the Associated Students of Stanford University have invited between seven and ten outstanding students from abroad to Stanford each year. Approximately one third of these Foreign Scholars have been women. Since its inception, the Program has brought more than fifty students to the campus, an endeavor representing a cash equivalent of over $100,000.

The Program and its Purpose

The Program is a cooperative effort of the student government, the independent campus living groups, and the University. Each participating group provides some of the support necessary to make complete scholarships available to the foreign students involved. The awards provide travel expenses within the United States, room and board for one academic year (nine months), complete tuition, and vacation, book, and monthly allowances. In addition to their studies, the Scholars are expected to pursue a varied program of extra-curricular activities designed to broaden their knowledge of the people and customs of this nation.

The purpose of the Program as established by the student legislature is "to further world understanding by promoting the exchange of ideas among college students with consequent stimulation of the Stanford Student Body." The Program is not designed primarily to provide an academic opportunity. In fact study only for a degree is discouraged. Unlike the National Student Association Foreign Student Leadership Project, the Program does not aim primarily to train student leaders. It is directed mainly toward the stimulation of the Stanford student body, in the belief that an intimate exchange of ideas among students of Stanford and those from universities abroad is one good way to further world understanding. Since the Program emphasizes the benefit which American students are expected to derive from the presence of the Foreign Scholars on campus, the most important demands on a Scholar's time, aside from academic responsibilities, come from living groups and other student organizations and activities. Consequently, the problem of exploiting the Scholars must be faced, but the Scholars and the Committee can cooperate in finding a balance between obligations toward the living groups, the Program, and individual academic goals. A careful discussion at the beginning of the Scholar's stay usually clarifies this problem.

The Setting: the Campus and the Organization of Student Life

The undergraduate student body at Stanford numbers about 5,000. There are over 2,000 graduate students, but most of the significant contact between Foreign Scholars and American students involves the undergraduate population. Among the undergraduates, the ratio of men to women is about 2½ to 1, and this ratio is observed in the selection of Scholars. A majority of the undergraduates live on campus in university dormitories or fraternities, while a few off-campus students live in private homes. Only the fraternities, housing approximately 1,000 undergraduates, manage their own finances as living groups. The other dormitories have clubs which carry on social functions and other activities, but room and board are financed by the University. The Men's Eating Clubs are an exception. They finance their own board, but members live either in a university dormitory or in private residences on or off campus. All these groups — the women's dormitories or cottages, the fraternities, the men's dormitories, and the Eating Clubs — have considerable autonomy in deciding how they will use their funds. Although the fraternities may lead in social life, they usually are not campus leaders in other respects. Student elections illustrate the unimportance of living groups. There seldom is a "row," "club" or "independent" candidate solidly backed by his group. Of the last four student body presidents, one came from a fraternity, one from an Eating Club, and two were independents.

The Physical and Financial Arrangements for the Scholars

The men on the Stanford Program live almost exclusively in the fraternities, which provide by far the greatest part of our room and board support, probably because of their independent financial position, allowing the absorption of a Scholar's expenses into overhead. Since there are no sororities, the women Scholars usually live in undergraduate dormitories, which have voted to pay the living expenses of a Foreign Scholar for one quarter. The Scholar moves to a different living group each quarter of the academic year. This spreads the financial burden out over a number of groups and puts more American students into contact with the Scholar. The expenses involved for the living group include room, board, and sometimes spending money. The University provides half-tuition, the student government provides the other half-tuition, pays for part of the travel expenses (under certain circumstances), supplies spending money when the living groups do not provide it, and pays for administrative expenses of the Program.

The Six Minimum Requirements for the Award

Generally the requirements for the award are aimed at 1) obtaining a personality who will be successful on the campus, 2) giving an opportunity to students who otherwise could not visit the United States, and 3) selecting people who, on their return, will be able to further understanding of the United States in their own nations. In accordance with this last aim, one of the conditions of the grant is an agreement that the Scholar will return home after a stay of one year in the United States.

The six minimum requirements of the Program are as follows:

1. Since a basic purpose of the Program is to secure an individual who can participate readily in campus and community life, the Scholar must have had experience as a leader in student affairs. We hope that after they return to their own countries, the Scholars will become adult leaders in their communities and nations.
2. The Scholar's field of concentration must be the social sciences and related subjects. It is commonly believed that students in these fields usually are more interested in human or international relations than are those in scientific or technical fields.
3. The Scholar must be between eighteen and twenty-five years old. Preference is given to applicants under twenty-two. These age limits are wide enough to allow a broad field of selection. Yet they make for successful housing arrangements because they do not vary greatly from the age range of the undergraduate population.

4. The Scholar must be unmarried, since university regulations do not permit married students to live in campus dormitories.
5. For success in academic work, and speaking engagements, the Scholar must be proficient in reading, writing and speaking the English language.
6. To insure that the students who come on the Program are those who will benefit most from such an opportunity, the Scholar must never have been to the United States or Canada before.

III. DESCRIPTION OF THE COMMITTEE

6

The Foreign Scholarship Program is almost entirely student-financed and administered. The positions on the Committee are: two Co-Chairmen, an Applications Director, an Executive Secretary, two Evaluations Directors, a Coordinator of Speaking Engagements, a Director of Public Relations, and a Director of Tours and Seminars.

Selection of the Committee

Usually an entirely new Committee is selected each year. Every effort is made to select the personnel as early as possible in the Spring Quarter so that the new Committee may learn from the old. In spite of a quantity of relevant written material on the Program, Committee members must learn some of their responsibilities through experience.

Characteristics of the Co-Chairmen

The Co-Chairmen usually have been campus leaders. The management of an exchange program never should be taken from socially or politically uninfluential groups. This policy may eliminate some individuals who are most interested and capable. But one of the aims of the Stanford Program is to interest those elements of the student body which normally show little concern with international activities through placing the Scholars in the living groups, thereby providing the desired contacts between them and the American students. Consequently it is important that the leadership of the Committee be of a type to encourage the cooperation and continued support of the living groups, without which the Program could not exist.

The Selection and Responsibilities of the Co-Chairmen

The new Co-Chairmen are selected by the outgoing Co-Chairmen through personal interviews or "try-outs." An announcement is placed in the Stanford Daily at the beginning of the Spring Quarter encouraging students to apply for the position of Co-Chairman. The names of the selectees are submitted to the legislature for approval. The new Co-Chairmen then select their Committee. They are not required to submit the names for approval. This may not appear to be a democratic arrangement, but it does provide for an efficient administrative body. At least it seems that the Co-Chairmen have provided more effective leadership over the years than the chairmen of organizations who were elected by the membership.

The functions of the Co-Chairmen are succinctly stated in the by-laws of the Committee: "The Co-Chairmen shall supervise all committee activity, dividing this task as evenly as possible. All work not mentioned in the job definition should be done or assigned by the Co-Chairmen." As this statement shows, the Co-Chairmen are responsible for all work done or left undone by the Committee. Along with this responsibility, they possess a high degree of administrative freedom to accomplish the goals of the Program as they think best. Usually one of the Co-Chairmen is responsible for finances and applications while the second one works closely with the Scholars after their arrival.

The Applications Director

The Applications Director answers all inquiries about the awards and processes all applications. She has the most laborious and time-consuming job on the Committee, and is assigned one secretary to work permanently with her.

The Executive Secretary

The Executive Secretary runs the office and is responsible for typing, mailing and filing all correspondence. She also makes sure that all personnel, including the Co-Chairmen, keep office hours. The Executive Secretary has charge of the typing staff which carries out all the clerical work.

The Evaluation Directors

The Evaluation Directors keep in constant contact with the Scholar and the Scholar's living group. They investigate and resolve any problems arising between the Scholar and his living group, and act as personal counselors to the Scholars. The Evaluation Directors write quarterly reports on the individual Scholar's adjustment to his or her living group, and detailed reports on the nature and handling of any problems.

The Coordinator of Speaking Engagements

The duties of the Coordinator of Speaking Engagements are to arrange the Scholars' transportation to engagements, to prevent engagements from becoming a burden on any individual, and to arrange these for Scholars who are less in demand.

The Public Relations Director

The Public Relations Director does all the publicity work. Often this relates to policy questions calling for close cooperation with the Co-Chairmen. His main opportunity for initiative lies in his responsibility for introducing new publicity methods for the Program.

The Coordinator of Tours and Seminars

The duty of the Coordinator of Tours and Seminars is to see that the Scholars are aware of the tours arranged for them. Scholars are encouraged but not obliged to participate in the tours which are an important part of the Foreign Scholarship Program. The Committee now relies primarily on the tours and seminars offered by the international relations group on campus, known as the Institute of International Relations (IIR). The Coordinator is responsible for seeing that the Scholars attend the weekly evening seminars with professors and community leaders, and for arranging parties and other gatherings designed to promote social contacts.

IV. THE WORK OF THE COMMITTEE

The Independence of the Committee

Very little professional help is used by the Committee, although the Dean of Students and the Foreign Student Adviser are called upon intermittently for advice. Both of these officers recognize that the autonomy of the students in managing the Foreign Scholarship Program is one of the most valuable aspects of this endeavor. Most decisions are made by the Co-Chairmen in consultation with the Committee.

The Problem of Continuity

As on all student committees, the problem of continuity of personnel is great. This is especially true for the Foreign Scholarship Program because during the summer recess the most important correspondence with prospective arrivals from overseas is carried on, and some of the major travel or visa problems arise.

The Four Purposes of the Committee

The purposes of the Committee as stated in the by-laws are as follows:

1. To organize the application and selection procedures and arrange for the transportation of the ASSU Foreign Scholars to the Stanford campus.
2. To integrate the Foreign Scholars into the campus and the community, and to make their stay as comfortable and enjoyable as possible.
3. To publicize the Program on the campus and in the community in order to spread the benefits of the Scholars' presence as widely as possible.
4. To work actively for the adoption of similar programs at other universities.

Carrying out the first purpose of the Committee involves complicated paper work. This is a year-round undertaking and constant revision must be made in many of the documents concerned, especially since there is no provision for personal interviewing of applicants. In 1954-55, for example, over one thousand inquiries were processed by the Committee within four and a half months.

The second purpose of the Committee, as described above, is based on the Program's operating belief that actual living in the dormitories and contact with the community are most effective ways to utilize the Scholars and to help them gain insight into American life.

The third purpose of the Committee — to publicize the Program — is designed to widen and maintain support both in the University and in the community. Effective publicity helps in a two-fold sense. By keeping the Program before the student eye, it attracts good personnel for the Committee offices. It also stimulates interest among groups on campus which have not yet contributed to or participated in Committee activities.

There has been no continuous effort to achieve the fourth purpose of the Program. The most ambitious attempt was the publication of a brief pamphlet on the Foreign Scholarship Program, inviting suggestions and criticisms to help the Committee work toward the organization of student programs at other colleges and universities. A similar attempt was made through the agency of the San Francisco Bay Area Association member schools of the National Student Association, but without much success.

Orientation and Integration

The Committee begins its work for Autumn Quarter by organizing the orientation period for the Scholars. Since the Scholars come to a completely new environment, too much information provided at once may bewilder rather than help them. On the other hand, there must be enough well-planned meetings, tours and social gatherings to stimulate and maintain the Scholars' interest.

One of the most important features of the orientation program is that it provides the first and best opportunity for the Committee to create a feeling of camaraderie among the Scholars and their sponsors. The sharing of the three orientation days by the Committee and the Scholars produces the friendship and group loyalty which are indispensable to a successful program. Parties are scheduled during the quarter, to cement this feeling. At the same time, the Committee aims to make the Scholars comfortable without acting as their constant guardian. If they acquire a sense of fellowship with each other, they often take it upon themselves to help one another out, thus easing the Committee's job, and gaining satisfaction from using their own initiative.

Evening Seminars

Weekly meetings are held with Stanford professors every quarter. A general theme for the quarter can help to make the meetings more successful. In preparing these discussions, we have followed two different policies. Sometimes we have assigned the reading of certain passages in a book, or several magazine articles. These assignments help to solve the problem of finding common ground for discussion for Scholars with divergent cultural backgrounds and academic interests. At other times the discussions have been spontaneous, with no special preparation. The prepared meetings were those on specialized or unusual topics, such as constitutional law or religion, and these seem to have been most successful.

Attendance at the seminars is compulsory for the Scholars. This requirement insures that many different views will be presented. A slightly larger group than would be most advantageous for American students is desirable. To keep the discussion going, it is advisable to have a few outstanding student leaders (members of the legislature or student body officers, if possible), and a few friends of the Scholars present in addition to the Co-Chairmen of the Committee.

Speaking Engagements

In the middle of Autumn Quarter, the Committee arranges brief talks to campus organizations. To secure a better adjustment for the Scholars and to allow time for their academic work, no speaking engagements are made off campus during Autumn Quarter. When the Scholars start speaking off campus, all engagements are scheduled through the Committee. An effort is made to see that no Scholar is asked to speak more than once a week, excluding informal talks to living groups. No speaking engagements are scheduled for the two weeks of the final examination period.

Since there often is wide difference in the Scholars' abilities to handle English, the Committee must make diplomatic allowances in planning speaking engagements. While some Scholars are capable of speaking in any situation, others will be ineffective speakers at first, and may need more time for their studies.

A paramount duty of the Committee is to see that the Scholar's heavy schedule does not become impossible to maintain. Speaking engagements are one area where pressure can be eased. The Coordinator of Speaking Engagements must be aware constantly of the importance of time to the Scholar.

Many requests for Foreign Scholar speakers come from the University's Committee on Public Exercises. Others come directly to the Committee, and some are solicited by the Committee. Sometimes outside groups contact the Scholars directly. The Scholars are instructed to tell such groups that they will have to check with the Committee before they accept. The Committee then contacts the people concerned and arranges a date. In this manner, a record is kept of all the speaking engagements which the Scholars keep, and close control can be exercised by the Committee.

The demand for Scholars to speak often is dependent on the Scholar's geographic or national origin. A student from the Free University of Berlin or one from Karachi may find that there is a great demand for his services, while one from Switzerland or Australia may receive few invitations to speak. This often gives rise to minor jealousies. The situation is corrected in two ways: 1) by the rule which limits speaking engagements off campus for any one Scholar to no more than one a week, and 2) by the effort of the Coordinator of Speaking Engagements to secure engagements for those Scholars who are less in demand.

There are no formal limitations on the subject-matter of the speakers, but it has been found that Scholars should not be asked to speak on behalf of relief appeals. It is distasteful to them, and poor public relations for the Committee.

Evaluation

It is very important to encourage and keep track of good relations between the Scholar and his living group, because the Committee depends financially on campus living group support. If a Scholar does not get along well in his residence, the living group which provides his support may not volunteer further support to a Foreign Scholar for several years.

At the request of the Evaluation Directors, the Scholars write essays on their living group experience. These have been of two types: responses to questionnaires, or solicited essays with content less specifically outlined. The Evaluation Directors write up a report on each Scholar, on the basis of their personal knowledge of the Scholar through the essay and through close personal contact. These reports are read by the Co-Chairmen of the Committee who, together with the Evaluation Directors, take steps to solve problems which may have arisen, and to make the next quarter's stay in a living group easier for all concerned. In addition to the use of periodic evaluation reports, contact must be maintained with the Scholar and the living group so that difficulties can be identified and solved promptly. So far, evaluation has been limited to inquiries into the adjustment of the Scholars. No attempt has been made to make a basic evaluation of the Program and its effect on the campus and on the Scholar.

V. SELECTION PROCEDURES

Administration

One Co-Chairman, together with the Applications Director, is responsible for publicizing the awards, sending out the application forms, and organizing the selection process which begins in the middle of February. It is the responsibility of the entire Committee to organize and carry out the selection of new Scholars. Therefore all members must understand the complexities of the process and devote enough time to the job.

The Applications Director and her secretary should become familiar with their task as early in the academic year as possible. The two should work together throughout the year, managing the selection of new Scholars in such a way that the Co-Chairman in charge of applications is called in on policy matters only.

Application Forms

The following forms are used in the Program:

1. A printed page describing the Program.
2. Instructions on the filing of applications.
3. Application blanks.
4. Personal reference sheets, to be mailed directly to the Committee by the person serving as reference.
5. The travel insert. This form states that the Foreign Scholarship Program does not have sufficient funds to cover travel to the United States. Applicants are asked what their financial resources are. A set of application papers should not be considered complete without the statement concerning travel.

The Processing of Applications

When initial letters of inquiry from applicants are received, they are read by the Applications Director and are answered in one of the following ways:

1. If it is apparent from the content of the letter that the applicant meets the minimum requirements of the Program, a set of application blanks will be mailed to him.
2. If it is apparent that the applicant does not meet the minimum requirements, a form letter of rejection is mailed out.
3. If the writer of the letter has applied previously and wishes to be re-considered, his old file is checked and he is sent a letter containing whatever additional information is needed and stating whether he can be considered a contestant in the present competition.
4. Special letters of inquiry receive individual attention.

The Committee refuses to consider any applications which are received after February 20th. A form letter is sent to persons whose applications were not complete by that date.

After the completed application blanks are received, they are read by six students each of whom compiles a preference list. Those names which appear on any preference list are placed on a master list. Rejection letters are sent to all those applicants whose names do not appear on the master preference list.

Thereafter, all the readers participate in a meeting to which each one brings his own preference list. The purpose of this meeting is to narrow down the number of applicants to a group of fifteen to twenty students whose names can be submitted to the living groups for final selection. Rejection letters are sent to those applicants who were dropped at this stage.

Final Selection

The final selection of Foreign Scholars is made by the president and representatives of the living groups who offer room and board support for a Foreign Scholar. The selection is made in a meeting of the living group presidents or representatives with the Co-Chairmen and the Applications Director. Nine or ten Scholars (and some alternates) are selected out of the group of fifteen to twenty applicants submitted to this meeting. Each living group representative indicates his preference for the Foreign Scholars he would like to have in his house or dormitory for the next academic year. Usually it turns out that only two or three out of the thirty living groups volunteering support have to take their second or third choices.

The application papers of the Scholars selected in the final meetings are taken to the Dean of Students to be checked as to whether they meet the admissions requirements of the University. If all the new Scholars are admitted, notification of their award is cabled to them. Personal letters of rejection are sent to applicants who were dropped in the final selection meeting. Two or three of these are notified of their status as alternates. Several others who seem to be outstanding may be encouraged to reapply for the next year's competition. A form letter is sent to all those persons whose applications were not complete in time for consideration in the selection process.

VI. THE EXPERIENCE OF THE SCHOLAR

Applying for the Award

The Foreign Scholar's experience with the Program begins when he reads one of the announcements sent to over four hundred universities, educational foundations, student travel agencies and newspapers abroad. These announcements direct him to write to the Foreign Scholarship Committee for application blanks. The Scholar receives a blank from the Committee unless he is obviously ineligible. He returns the application to the Committee with the exception of two personal recommendation sheets which he gives to two of his professors. These are mailed directly to the Committee by the professors. The Scholar then waits until all the applications have been processed at Stanford. If the applicant was successful, he receives a cable notifying him of the award and requesting a cabled reply. After the Scholar accepts, official relationships begin.

Pre-Arrival Contact

The Scholar receives the necessary letters from university authorities enabling him to secure an Exchange Visitor's visa. This type of visa authorizes the University to enforce his return to his country. He also is sent a copy of the Stanford Daily in which his picture appears along with those of other Scholars in a feature story. He receives the pertinent university catalogues and other correspondence from the Committee describing university life. He learns where he will live at Stanford, and is sent a brief description of his first living group. The Scholar also receives a letter from the president of the living group where he will reside during Autumn Quarter. But most of his correspondence with the Committee is concerned with his travel arrangements and visa application.

Travel Arrangements

If his travel within the United States is arranged by the Committee, the Scholar is sent explicit instructions as to what procedure to follow upon his arrival. In New York, he is met by a member of the Committee on Friendly Relations Among Foreign Students, which holds messages and bank drafts for Scholars, sees that they are met when they arrive, and takes them to hotels for their first night. Often the Scholar is met by a Stanford student or students who arranged accommodations for him in a private home before his arrival.

Pre-Registration Orientation on Campus

Although every effort is made to secure a uniform arrival date, the Scholar may arrive on campus any time from three to fifteen days before registration for Autumn Quarter. But his travel is planned so that in any case he will arrive in time for a three-day orientation period. If the Scholar arrives before the living group can accommodate him, the Foreign Scholarship Committee, through the Community Committee for International Students, sees that he is placed in a private home until the dormitory is open or until the fraternity has a room for him. The expense of maintenance in the private home is met by the Committee, as are the Scholar's meal costs during the pre-registration period.

If a Scholar has arrived particularly early, the use of his time until the formal orientation may present a problem. The office of the Foreign Student Adviser, with the help of the Community Committee, provides tours and activities for all new foreign students during the two weeks preceding registration. The Scholar is encouraged to take part in these tours and activities. He also finds that the student body officers and other early arrivals are glad to spend time with him in the evenings when the problem of boredom and loneliness is most acute for the student of any nationality.

Just before registration, the Scholar is expected to participate in the three-day orientation period planned by the Committee. This is designed as an introduction to Stanford life, to instill in the Scholars a group feeling and sense of responsibility toward each other and toward the Program, to explain the Program and the Scholar's relation to it, and to broaden the Scholar's circle of acquaintances.

During this period, the Scholar participates in discussions of the Program and its goals. He is given a general outline of the Program activities for Autumn Quarter. He discusses with the Committee the personal goals he hopes to achieve during his stay. He receives a detailed explanation of the financing of the Foreign Scholarship Program, and of any special financial arrangements which may apply to him.

The Institute of International Relations, the student organization in charge of all international activities except the Foreign Scholarship Program, is explained to him. He is encouraged to participate in at least some of the IIR activities, particularly in its tours of local industries and other points of interest, and he is asked to attend the Friday afternoon get-togethers of American and foreign students, known as the Cosmopolitan Club meetings.

The Scholar also is given a detailed explanation of living groups on campus, Stanford dating customs, women's social regulations, and the conduct expected of all students as dictated by the University's Fundamental Standard.

The Scholar participates in many parts of the graduate student and general foreign student orientation, including attendance at a lecture on registration procedure. He attends talks by the Dean, Registrar, and Foreign Student Adviser and takes part in discussions of the Stanford academic system, with special emphasis on the Stanford Honor Code. During the orientation period, the Scholar also may attend one or two mixer-type buffet dinners, and possibly a dinner with a community group.

The First Adjustment

After the first busy days, the Scholar enters the most vital period of his stay: the initial two or three weeks of adjustment. During these weeks, he takes trips with the Committee to San Francisco and other local points of interest. He attends his first football game with the Co-Chairmen and members of the Committee who are able to be with him. He has his physical examination, and participates in his first Cosmopolitan Club meetings. Most important, he starts to make permanent friends in his living group and works out his relationship to this group.

At the beginning of the quarter, he participates in weekly meetings of the Committee and the Scholars where problems concerning the living groups, academics, and social questions are discussed. He may be asked to write a brief essay on his first impressions. He attends at least one party with the Committee and other Scholars. Often he finds himself offering advice and help to a fellow Scholar who has a greater cultural and linguistic barrier to overcome.

Within the first weeks, the Scholars have a meeting with President Gwirling and one with the Dean of Students and his chiefs of personnel. This meeting includes a discussion wherein the Scholars are free to ask questions in order to gain a clear picture of the structure and functioning of the university administration.

At the end of the initial three weeks, the Scholars have their first in a series of weekly seminars with professors, arranged by the Committee, with attendance required of all Scholars. Each professor's field is discussed with emphasis on its relation to contemporary life in the United States. It is hoped that these informal meetings give the Scholar a sound understanding of the campus and a broader outlook on the United States.

The First Quarter Program:

The remainder of the Autumn Quarter is less hectic for the new Foreign Scholar. After a month or six weeks, he is asked to answer a questionnaire designed to reveal how successful his adjustment to his living group has been. He is urged to be frank and honest in writing this report, as this proves helpful to him and to the Committee.

Now he begins making brief speeches to on-campus groups. If his English is good and his adjustment has been particularly smooth, he may be asked to speak to the Student Legislature. Following his speech, he has a brief biographical interview, to be published in the Daily. Scholars who do not talk to the Legislature may have their biographies in the paper during Autumn Quarter. Before the year is out, all Scholars will have been interviewed by the Daily.

The Scholar has an individual meeting with the Co-Chairmen to discuss his financial position and any difficulties which may have arisen over finances. He also meets with the Co-Chairmen to discuss his academic progress and his vacation plans. Perhaps he has luncheon or dinner with a local businessman or family, but he makes no speeches off campus until later in the academic year. He attends several parties organized by the Committee, and after the Tuesday evening seminars he often will adjourn with some of the other Scholars and Committee members to a nearby restaurant for refreshments and talk.

If any difficulties have come up for the Scholar in his living group, he consults one of the Evaluations Directors who immediately sets out to solve the problem. His first five weeks may have shown various problems, especially since his own accounts are supplemented by written reports from the president of his living group and his roommate. If these essays indicate a need for it, the Evaluations Director concerned talks over any difficulties with the Scholar and works for a solution. The severe problems for a Scholar usually are not personal habits or basic cultural differences but those due to his own character structure, such as drinking excessively, or belligerence in his dealings with other students. These are most difficult to solve since they often originate in disrupted family life or related environmental factors. Such problems are minimized, however, by the selection procedure which normally screens out people who are subject to them.

The Scholar finds that the last two weeks of the Quarter differ from the previous ones in several ways. The American students become more absorbed in their academic work, and he is urged to concentrate on his own studies. All Committee meetings cease, no speaking engagements or other activities are arranged, "dead week" and his first Stanford final examinations have arrived.

At this time, the Scholar is introduced to his next living group. He is invited to a dinner where he meets his new group and may be asked to give a brief talk. He meets his future roommate, who has been carefully selected by the House President under the guidance of the Co-Chairmen and Evaluations Directors. The introduction helps the Scholar to become acquainted with the students who will be his hosts during Winter Quarter.

Christmas Vacation

After finals, the Scholar may go to one of several places during his vacation. Usually he goes to the home of an American student friend. The choice depends largely on the Scholar's popularity in his living group and an honest estimate, on the part of those who know him, as to whether he would fit in with the student's family successfully. If he does not go home with a student, he may find placement in a local American home, or he may join the annual international student trip to the Grand Canyon.

Winter Quarter

The Foreign Scholar finds his winter program similar to the previous one in many respects, though probably busier. To him, fraternity rushing may seem inordinately important, and for two weeks he has to put up with this annual madness. The Committee makes heavier demands on his time, and his other activities become more urgent. The formal weekly meetings with the Committee continue. Regular parties are held. There are additional tours to other universities in the area, the Scholar begins to make speaking engagements off campus, and he may participate in a radio or television program over a local station.

If his grades for Autumn Quarter were low, he is asked to talk the matter over with the Co-Chairmen in an effort to find the causes of academic difficulty and to prevent a recurrence. He may find that his monthly allowance is insufficient and that he has been dipping into the small reserve he brought with him. In that case, he probably wants to work to augment his income. If he is a graduate student, he may be able to secure a teaching assistantship, or to work as a reader for a professor in his department. If not a graduate student, he may find work in language tutoring. Again he is asked to write a mid-quarter evaluation essay. At some time during the Quarter, the Scholars and the Co-Chairmen usually are invited to the President's home for an evening.

After Christmas, the emphasis in the Scholar's program is shifted from the Stanford campus to a wider sphere to give the Scholar a more thorough introduction to American life. Therefore the weekly seminars include business and professional people as well as professors.

During the winter, the Scholar meets with the Co-Chairmen to discuss his plans for spring vacation, summer, and his return travel. When the selection of the next year's Scholars is complete, each of the Scholars then at Stanford is asked to write a personal letter of welcome to one of the new award winners. As before, the first year's Scholar receives an introduction to his living group for Spring Quarter, and he is questioned closely on his suggestions about the programming for Spring Quarter.

Spring Quarter

Usually the Spring Quarter is one week shorter than the other two, making the Scholar's time more valuable than ever. The Program continues as before, but the required meetings with the professors cease in mid-quarter. The Scholars working for degrees in graduate schools write theses and must be allowed time to complete their work. Sometimes they have a concluding meeting with the Dean of Students and his staff, and possibly a tea with the President. The Scholar is asked to write a final essay in which he attempts to evaluate his year's stay at Stanford. After examinations and a final party, the Scholar prepares for his return journey, usually allowing himself some time for work and travel in other parts of the United States before he goes back to his home country.

VII. THE FOREIGN STUDENT LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

Although this paper is not designed exclusively for colleges which sponsor Foreign Scholars under the Foreign Student Leadership Project, it may be helpful to outline some of the special objectives and program features of the Project.

The outstanding objective of the NSA Foreign Student Leadership Project (FSLP) is to help foreign student grantees to acquire those leadership skills and techniques of American student government which may have some relevance in their countries of origin. This objective is a comparatively minor one in the Stanford Program.

The goal of the Project is important in determining the method and criteria for selecting candidates. Nomination for the grants is made through the overseas contacts of NSA. The final appointments are made by NSA with the assistance of an Advisory Board. Therefore local project administrators need not occupy themselves with the selection, which takes such a large part of the attention of the Stanford group. This arrangement should allow local FSLP leaders to give more time and thought to program planning.

The major objective of the NSA program makes it desirable to select a student who will return to student government activities in his own country. Therefore most selectees will be undergraduate students, and as a whole, the foreign group may be younger than the Stanford Scholars.

Because of the emphasis on training in student government, it may be even more important than under the Stanford Program to designate students active in student government as local chairmen and members of the FSLP Committee. It will be desirable to have the foreign grantee room with the student body president, or some other prominent member of the student government.

Probably it will not be necessary for the FSLP program to set up as elaborate a committee structure as that of the Stanford plan because local projects usually will have only one student to assist. Nevertheless, there must be enough people for detailed programming, including thoughtful orientation, introductions, and follow-up with individuals and groups. It also is advisable to have program planning undertaken by a committee rather than an individual, so that many campus resources can be brought into play and a well-balanced program can be designed.

In the planning of the program, the primary focus of the FSLP must be kept in mind. A study of the historical and philosophical backgrounds of American student government must be part of the on-going orientation throughout the school year. Faculty members and students must be enlisted in this effort to introduce the foreign grantees to the background of the activities he observes.

The need to maintain student government activities as the focus of the programming implies that care will have to be taken not to devote too much time to purely social events. The relation of the grantee to the other foreign students on campus will have to be worked out. He should not become submerged in the usual kind of social programming for foreign students, although he should maintain a friendly and supportive relationship with other foreign students.

The observation of a large variety of student government activities will have to be supplemented by opportunities for active and responsible participation in some limited aspect of student government which is significant and yet of such a nature that a person from another culture, with a language barrier, can serve adequately. Membership on one of the judicial bodies or in a legislative group may provide such an opportunity.

Both observation and participation must be accompanied by regular and leisurely interpretation and thought. The importance of social scheduling, for example, and the constant discussions of social standards must be placed in their sociological context. The help of faculty and staff members, particularly those from the Dean of Students' organization, may be sought. It may be helpful for the foreign grantees to enroll in courses in educational sociology or other subjects which can help him to gain a broader perspective.

Throughout the year, the project administrators will have to assess whether the aims of the project are being accomplished. If the foreign grantee seems dissatisfied, or is acquiring misconceptions about student life, the project administrators should not hesitate to seek the help of the National Director and of their own faculty or staff in reviewing the program. At the end of the year, the administrators will have some responsibility for a fundamental evaluation designed to improve the operations of the project.

VIII. CONCLUSION

As previously stated, the Stanford Program is described here to serve as a point of departure for program planning rather than a model to be followed by other universities. The same applies to the chapter on the Foreign Student Leadership Program of the National Student Association. It is hoped that student government organizations participating in the Foreign Student Leadership Project will carry on their own foreign student leader programs after the NSA-sponsored Project terminates. For those groups which do carry on, the Stanford experience is particularly relevant because local campuses will have to assume many administrative responsibilities which are now managed by NSA. But while each program will have to grow out of local conditions, students wanting to organize a foreign scholarship project may have to take certain steps to cope with technical problems. Some of these initial steps will be suggested here, and some comments will be made about the difficulties likely to arise during the administration of any foreign scholarship project.

The first step in the initiation of a new program is to consider its goals carefully. In the NSA Project, the goal of training for leadership is set forth clearly. In other programs, it may be helpful to state one major objective, which probably will determine the character of the whole project. If training for leadership in student activities abroad is the main purpose, student leaders abroad should be selected who are close to undergraduates in age, social development and academic progress, even at the possible expense of their social usefulness at home. If educational or technical assistance to underdeveloped countries is the chief aim, it is important to choose mature graduate students, such as those placed by the Institute of International Education, who will be able to make a major contribution to economic and cultural developments in their own countries. One incidental objective should be kept in mind, however. Special undertakings, such as the Stanford and NSA Projects, often develop particularly good programs for their own foreign students in such areas as orientation, hospitality and integration into the campus community, because much time and money are spent on a few students. These special projects can suggest improvements in programs to be found on larger campuses for the use of government-sponsored or private foreign students.

The second step is to formulate the initial scope of the program. It may be wise to make a modest beginning, since many difficulties will arise at the outset, while the administrators are "learning the ropes." If the program is successful, the student body will be eager for more Foreign Scholars. But if problems loom too large, disillusionment may endanger the whole project. In many cases, especially in smaller colleges, it is wise to start with one or two Scholars for the first year. In the NSA Project, such a limitation is automatic.

The third step is to organize the committee administering the program. The key question to be decided is the method of appointing administrators. At Stanford, the system of appointment by the preceding Co-Chairmen, after a series of try-outs, has produced capable administrators. Elsewhere a more democratic system of selection, or one in which the student government maintains more active control, may be preferred. In such cases, project administrators must be students respected by the individuals and groups upon whose support the success and continuation of the project depend. On many campuses this will mean that members of the international relations groups will not necessarily make the best project administrators, despite their interest in this field. On other campuses, where international affairs and such organizations as NSA and World University Service have the enthusiastic support of living groups, student government and the student body, the foreign scholarship project may well be integrated into their activities.

The fourth step is to lay out the program for the Scholars in detail, including the responsibilities of their sponsors, who will pay for their transportation in the United States, where they will live before the opening of residences, how they will be housed during the academic year and during vacations, how much pocket money they will get, and who is to supply it. These and some additional questions applying to specific campuses should be thought through in detail, probably before the final plan is offered to the student body, and at any rate before the program is announced overseas.

The fifth step, which probably should be taken only after the aims and methods of administration have been formulated, is to move for the adoption of the program by the groups which will have to support it. If it is a campus-wide project, a referendum by the entire student body is preferable to a vote by the Executive Committee or the Legislature. If it is a fraternity-sorority project, the individual houses as well as the Pan-Hellenic Council or its equivalent should have a voice in its adoption. Even in the NSA Project, where the decision usually is made by the student government, careful publicity through house meetings, discussions in student government councils, articles, photographs and editorial comments in the student newspaper are needed to gain the widest possible acceptance of the project, because many students must feel that they have a personal stake in the program.

Once the program is launched, the critical step is to select the Foreign Scholars. In some projects, such as that contemplated by the National Association, the goal of the program determines the method of selection, because the NSA and its affiliated student organizations overseas will play an important part. In other projects, the campus administrators probably will have considerable leeway in determining the method of selection.

The big problem in selection is that even the most elaborate file of application papers and recommendations does not provide a reliable picture of the applicant's personality. This difficulty can be circumvented to some extent through use of channels available to the Institute of International Education, since all candidates of the Institute have been interviewed by the overseas Commission for Training and Study in the United States. Unfortunately the selection standards of these Fulbright Commissions abroad tend to differ considerably from those which student groups in the United States would want to apply. The Fulbright selectees usually are graduate students with well-defined professional interests and objectives. Nevertheless, serious consideration should be given to using the channels of the Institute of International Education or of some other national organization, such as NSA or World University Service, with affiliations overseas through which personal interviews can be arranged.

In the early communications with applicants, the objectives and limitations of the program must be stated clearly so that applicants have these in mind before they accept the award. Two limitations are likely to cause trouble. In the first place, the demands made on the Scholar's time, such as participation in seminars, student government affairs, house activities, speaking engagements and so on, may conflict with the Scholar's academic objectives. Frequently, as in the NSA program, these demands will make it impossible for the Scholars to secure the degree which most of them, especially those from non-European countries, want very much. On the other hand, it is important to spell out the academic obligations in detail, particularly to grantees from Northwest European countries, so that Scholars are not under the illusion that they can take their studies casually. This may be a problem with grantees under the NSA program, who will be selected for their organizational and social interests rather than for academic reasons. An over-casual attitude toward studies is likely to prevent grantees from getting the most out of their year in the United States and will turn the faculty and administration against the program. As a rule, it is desirable for the Foreign Scholars to enroll as registered students, under obligation to achieve at least the required grade point standards, although they often should be allowed to take a reduced load of studies.

The second major problem concerns permission to stay in this country for a second year. Many Scholars want an additional year, usually in order to secure a degree. Often they can finance their second year themselves, through university scholarships or through aid from relatives and friends. If the chief aim of the program is to promote the Scholar's application of his American experience to his activities in student organizations overseas, a second year renewal usually is not advisable. But many students, especially those from Asia, derive maximum benefit from their stay in the United States only after a two-year sojourn. Therefore it may be desirable, in some programs, to remain flexible in this matter and to respect the preferences of the Scholars as much as the aims of the program will permit. Extensions beyond a two-year period usually are detrimental, since it becomes difficult for foreign students, especially the younger ones, to readjust to their own cultures if they stay in this country too long.

A minor difficulty sometimes arises from the Scholar's desire to buy a second-hand car. The possession of a car is the dream of many students from overseas, especially those from countries where the ownership of an automobile is a mark of prestige and success in life. In general, Foreign Scholars should not be allowed to have cars, since many American students supporting the program are liable to resent such ownership as an unwarranted luxury to which they do not wish to contribute.

After the arrival of the foreign grantees, it is vital that they spend much time with the project administrators and that they receive a good orientation to the campus as a whole and to the requirements of the program in particular. Many later misunderstandings can be avoided by careful and thorough discussion of life on campus and of the proposed program activities. This is also a good time for the project administrators to make friends with the Scholars.

Housing occasionally presents a problem. It is very important that the foreign grantees live with student groups rather than in boarding houses or rented rooms. As a rule, it is preferable for a Scholar to remain with one living group throughout the year so that solid friendships within the house or dormitory have time to develop. But it often becomes necessary to move the Scholars once or twice during the year in order to give as many students as possible a chance to become acquainted with them in a living situation, and to provide the foreign grantees with a variety of residence experiences, such as fraternities, dormitories and cooperatives. Some Scholars, especially Europeans, enjoy the chance to observe more than one living group. But no Scholar should be obliged to change his residence too often, since even at best, each move requires a new and possibly painful adjustment.

In the programming of the Scholars, it must be remembered that the pace of life is slower in most cultures than in the United States. This is particularly true of Eastern and Mediterranean countries. Furthermore, the entire process of adjustment to a new country and a new society requires a great deal of effort.

Therefore the project administrator must beware of overburdening the Scholars, particularly during their first term. Most foreigners are used to spending more time by themselves than are young Americans, and some provision should be made for that need.

The methods of familiarizing the foreign grantees with campus life will vary with different types of institutions. At residential universities such as Stanford, living groups and dormitories offer the best channel for such integration, especially if serious educational programs are carried on in these residential units. In large, non-residential institutions, other means of integration will have to be found. More vigorous participation in a variety of activities groups, especially those centered around the Student Union (or a corresponding location on the campus), may provide such an alternative.

Scholars also must be told, preferably during orientation or in their first term, about our own social and campus customs, especially those involving boy-girl relationships. The dating system is peculiar to the United States and many features of social life on campus are difficult to appreciate at first. It may be helpful to introduce the Scholars to such activities as square dance groups or clubs which do not depend entirely on dating engagements and social dancing.

The problem of spending money for the Scholars sometimes arises. The student body should not be too heavily taxed for such funds. But the funds available to the Scholars should approximate the average amount of money spent by the students with whom they live, so that the grantees do not feel at a disadvantage in that respect. In this area, as in many others, each college will have to find its own solution.

Vacations constitute a similar problem. It is not good for Scholars to have the feeling that they must be invited by an American friend in order to survive during vacation, although a week or two in an American home certainly should be part of the experience of every foreign student. Therefore it seems advisable to provide the minimum funds needed for room and board during vacation so that the Scholar is not too hard pressed on this account.

Throughout the program, frequent evaluation sessions with the Scholars, their living groups, sponsors, and academic advisers will help to spot weaknesses in the program. It may be useful to elicit recommendations for the future operation of the project from the Scholars before their departure.

Sometimes a local student government may wish to establish closer ties with a university overseas through an affiliation program. In such a program, students and professors, textbooks and teaching materials may be exchanged. Often the American student group can help a new institution overseas with some of its practical problems, such as the construction of recreation facilities or dormitories. Affiliation programs have certain problems, particularly as far as the exchange of persons is concerned, because the field of selection is much smaller if the exchanges have to be picked from one institution. But affiliation programs may create considerable enthusiasm among the students working on the committees concerned, especially if there is a prospect for them to study at the sister institution abroad.

Aside from the specific form and character of any given exchange program, it is important to interpret and re-interpret its features and significance within the college community. There should be articles and photographs in the student newspaper, by the Scholars and about them, and an effort should be made to expose as many students as possible to the overseas visitors, since the eventual success of all projects depends on the continuing support of the entire campus. Student-sponsored exchange programs will make their most meaningful contribution to campus life by increasing the student body awareness of the opportunities for learning and enjoyment available through the Scholars and through other international students and visitors.

Profile of the University of California

My arrival at the University of California on the morning of March 6 seemed to be a complete shock to all concerned. Dean Blaisdell, who had presumably been responsible for making preparations for my visit and who had promised to attend a meeting that day with other members of the administration and the student body, had left the day before for Washington. I spent the first half of the day trying to find some place to stay in Berkeley. The next half of the day I spent trying to get in touch with Mr. Robert Hamilton, President of the Associated Students of the University of California. I finally managed to catch Bob Hamilton in his office by posting myself outside the door for about an hour and a half. During the course of our twenty minute to half hour conversation, it became perfectly obvious that Bob Hamilton knew nothing of the Foreign Student Leadership Project and had completely forgotten, if he ever knew, about my visit to the campus. Describing the Foreign Student Leadership Project to him, I began to ask questions about the nature and function of the Student Association and particularly about the foreign student program. Mr. Hamilton had very little idea of the operation of the foreign student program at the University of California. His concerns with respect to the Associated Students seemed very much limited to a technical or administrative approach.

After my description of FSIP, its objectives and the program which was being planned, he seemed to become enthusiastic and invited me to speak to a meeting of the Associated Students which was to take place that very afternoon. I attended the meeting, addressed the Associated Students describing FSIP, and elicited several interesting and penetrating questions from various members of the Associated Students as well as from some of the administrative personnel who were present. However, since this was the first and only contact that any representative student group at the University had with the FSIP, I doubt very seriously that a deep impression was made or that the program was well understood or that we could expect a great deal of support on the basis of this one encounter. I stayed through the Associated Students' meeting long enough to get the flavor of the type of discussion and the concerns which seemed to be paramount. The discussion which produced the most lively concern revolved around the athletic program and the parking problem.

My observation on this particular meeting should not be construed to be a general commentary on the over-all effectiveness, function and concerns of the Associated Students at the University of California. However, with discussions of other members of the Council, including Alex Boldin, the ESA Coordinator, I was led to believe that the meeting which I attended was not at all untypical and that there was a great deal of concern among certain members of the Associated Students that their interests and their actions were limited to relatively insignificant areas of concern. The Associated Students and its operations are considered by most within the Association as well as outside to be those of a fairly large business concern with a budget of some $1,000,000 annually and with the complete control of the athletics program and with the problems of the recognition and the administrative relationships to more than 300 student organizations. The occasions for the Associated Students to involve itself in some of the deeper problems concerning student welfare, educational problems and human relations, for example, seemed to be extraordinarily limited. A prime example of this is a report which I received from a member of the Council indicating that, some couple of weeks prior to my visit, the Student Association had been confronted with the possibility of taking action on the Autherine Lucy case. Action was postponed at the Council meeting in favor of discussion of certain parking regulations.

Profile of the University of California

Foreign Student Program

The most impressive thing about the foreign student program at the University of California is the very commodious International House which was constructed by the Rockefeller interests along with the International Houses of Chicago and New York. As far as the program related to the House is concerned, it seemed to be reasonably effective, well organized and with a fairly high degree of participation on the part of the residents of the House. One difficulty seemed to be, however, as tends to be the case in such institutions, that the American residents in the House are frequently American students who, for one reason or another, are not considered by other Americans or even by the foreign students to be typical. A comment that was heard from both foreign students and American students is that the American students at the House are the "campus rejects" — students who find it difficult to adjust themselves to the American student social life or students who for various reasons lack the "glamor" of living in these somewhat exotic surroundings. In discussions with Mr. Bill Miller, Assistant to Dean Haisdell, who is the Director of the International House, I discovered that the programming of the International House is designed almost exclusively for the residents of the House. Although frequently there are opportunities for other foreign and American students to participate in I House activities, by far and large the bulk of the activities are planned for the residents of the House. This poses some very serious difficulties insofar as the bulk of the foreign student population at the University which numbers some 1,000 of course can not live at the I House, which accommodates some 500 students, half of whom are American. Consequently, however good the program at the International House may be, it touches only a minority of the foreign student population at the University. Mr. Miller felt that the orientation programs for the foreign students coming to the University could be improved upon and that a great deal more could be done to integrate the foreign students into the normal student activities program at the University. He felt, however, that the limited staff available for these services made it highly unlikely that a great deal could be done in the immediate future. Mr. Miller's opinions were definitely reflected by the foreign students with whom I talked, and if anything, could have said to be a great understatement of the actual situation. My conversations with representative foreign students at the University led me to conclude that the I House program was fulfilling only a minimal responsibility of the University toward its foreign student population.

The questions arisen as to what happens to the other foreign students who study at the University. By and large, their activities outside of the classroom — their social life and living arrangements — are the result of individual efforts or the efforts of small national groups. I was informed, for example, by representatives of the administration (particularly Mr. Miller and Dean Stone) that they had had a great deal of difficulty with the Latin American. Upon discussion with some of the Latin American student leaders at the University, I found that most of them lived in apartment houses or rooms together in off-campus facilities and have virtually no relationship to the University outside of their classes. As a group, they seemed to have made very little progress in understanding the University — that is, outside of its classroom functions — or of the community of which it is a part. On the whole, they seemed to have made very little progress even in learning the language. The same situation seems to be true with respect to the Arab students. Most of them also live in off-campus facilities, usually in groups of six to eight in apartments or suites of rooms. Discussion with leaders of this group also indicate the same conclusion. One theme which seemed to permeate the reactions of both the Latin American and the Arab students to my questioning was that they did not want the situation as it is. They prefer to be with American students when they could find reasonably happy companionship. This was somewhat in contrast to the impression that some American students and members of the administration have that the nationality groups prefer to be with each other. My discussions lead me to believe that this contradiction can be accounted for by the fact that the nationality groups, both Latin American and the Arab students, once having become a part of their "clan" are reluctant to give up the security and the feeling of belonging which go along with this kind of association for what they believe to be (probably quite properly) the loose, casual and impersonal relationships likely to obtain in the University dormitory situations.

As far as advisory and counselling services are concerned, it seems again that the bulk of the foreign student population either does not know or in any case does not avail itself of the advising and counselling services which are offered through the Foreign Student Adviser's Office. Some express the opinion that their lack of interest in securing these services is based on past experiences which they felt were very unhappy and most unsatisfactory with respect to the attention which they got or the solutions which were offered to their problems. They seemed to feel as though they were dealt with like cogs in a big machine.

One of the major difficulties with the foreign student program at the University of California is that as far as I could determine, there is virtually no relationship between the student government and the foreign student program. This simply was not one of the areas which seemed to demand any great amount of concern or interest on the part of the student government as a whole, even though there were individual members of the Council who, because of their functions or because of personal interest, were concerned with what happens to foreign students at the University.

In sum, there is a vast area of possible improvement with respect to foreign student programming at the University of California. In all probability, very little could be done to bring about any substantial amount of improvement simply by administrative or faculty effort. The mere size of the job would seem to demand a much more overt and active concern on the part of the student leaders and of the student government per se.

Discussions with Dean Stone

I had about an hour's conversation with Dean Stone concerning the Foreign Student Leadership Project and its possibilities at the University of California. During the course of this conversation, Dean Stone made it perfectly clear that as far as the administration at the University was concerned, there was some serious doubt as to how effective such a program could be. He doubted, for example, that a student who would not have a full academic program would be able to get the most out of his experience at the University. He felt that the time on the basis of the student might perhaps lead to less serious pursuits. I suggested that this would not be likely to be more serious with respect to the foreign student coming under our program than it was for many students, foreign and American, who are already studying at the University and that, in all probability, the attention that would be devoted to the program of our student would seriously limit the possibilities of his wasting his time. Dean Stone also raised questions with respect to the advisability of students under our program to the University. I pointed out that we expect the students could be admitted to the Universities within the framework of the normal admissions requirements. Several other questions raised by Dean Stone indicated some hesitation as to the validity of the very basic assumptions of the program and its possibilities with respect to training students for leadership. This seemed somewhat odd to me especially in view of the fact (of which he reminded me) that he was one of those who supported our request for the grant for the Project. After some half hour or so of discussion, however, Dean Stone did indicate some interest in the program, although he made it clear that in all probability there would be no kind of support coming from the University in terms of finances or scholarships for students who might be sent there. Of the students with whom I spoke, only three impressed me as being the type which we would be happy to have associated with this or other projects in terms of their leadership qualities and comprehension of the basic objectives of NSA student activities. The first was Mary Ann Maylan. Mary Ann was one of several students called to a luncheon meeting to discuss with me the possibilities of the FSIF at the University of California. She had been a participant in the California Regional ISRS. I was very much impressed by her grasp of the significance of the FSIF as well as the significance of FSIF programs in general. She seemed forceful and clear in her expression and not a little courageous in the way she took to task other members of the ASUC for their apparent lack of interest in a program such as FSIF which would demand more of them than the consideration as to when and how to both hire and fire the coaches. Miss Maylan, who has lived abroad for several years and who speaks French fluently, is very much interested in international affairs as a career. Her immediate plans for the future are not quite settled. There is a possibility that she may receive a Fulbright grant to study in France and she also has the possibility of staying on at the University of California for graduate work. She is also very interested in applying for the International Student Relations Seminar for the summer of 1956. She indicated that her own plans for the future will be somewhat conditioned by whether or not she will be accepted for the Seminar. She is twenty-one years old, well informed in general, and especially interested in the fields of international affairs and international politics. She has travelled extensively in Europe and was a member of the Cal Indo team of 1955.

Alex Boldin is the NSA Coordinator at the University. She is an intensely interested young lady and has apparently made a great deal of sacrifice in order to keep NSA to the fore rather than thinking of the ASUC, a job which she claims is highly unrewarding. She seems to have a very sharp mind and a ready grasp of NSA, its policies and programs. She did strike me, however, as being somewhat shy and retiring, although I gathered from others that this is not exactly the case. She seems very anxious to find something to do on the Cal campus which will make NSA a reality for the average student. She is particularly interested that there be something in the sphere of international affairs. For this reason, she is very much concerned to get the FSIF initiated at Cal.

My impression of Bob Hamilton is that he is a very able and efficient administrator and that he runs the ASUC with a flair for getting the business through at the various ASUC meetings. My impression is that the position of President of ASUC would itself tend to blunt the ideals and deeper motivations for anyone assuming the position. Consequently, it is rather difficult for me to make any really valid assessment of Hamilton's abilities. I was informed by those who know him well that he is intelligent, personable and interested. I can only say that the context in which I met and spoke with Mr. Hamilton and saw him in operation does not permit me to confirm any of these observations.

In sum, it is my recommendation that we do not include the University of California in the Foreign Student Leadership Project for this year. I feel as though there is considerable potential for the development of a good program at the University, but I believe there is a great deal more groundwork which must be done in order for us to assure ourselves that the program would be reasonably well administered and would have the support of a sufficiently large number of students and administrators.

Profile of the University of Colorado

On March 5, I had luncheon in the University of Colorado cafeteria with the following representatives of the administration: Dean Huston; Dean Dyde; the President of Student Government, Dick Olde; the head of the University Housing Administration, Cliffe Yoder; Alan Haagenesen, President of the University student body International Relations Student Council and the Foreign Student Adviser, George Hundley. In addition, I spoke in private discussions with Dean Dyde, Mr. Yoder of the Housing Administration and the Foreign Student Adviser, George Hundley. On the whole, I was very much impressed with the University administration's attitude toward the Project and the willingness and enthusiasm they manifested to get the Project underway and to provide every possible support through the administration and the faculty for making the program a success. I was particularly impressed by the representations made both by the Dean of Students' Office and the Foreign Student Adviser that they would only act in the background but preferred that the student government itself assume the major responsibility for the implementation of the program. Dean Huston, for example, made it clear that the administration would keep a watchful eye on the Project but in all areas where students could carry out the responsibility, they would encourage that rather than assuming such prerogatives for themselves.

I also had a long talk with the Foreign Student Adviser. He seemed to appreciate very much the meaning and significance of the Project and expressed a great desire to think in terms of an expansion of the Project at the University as a permanent feature of its foreign student program. This of course was encouraging inasmuch as this is the type of thing which we are hoping to be able to do on all campuses.

One of the more interesting aspects of my visit to the University of Colorado was the unique interest shown in the Project by the Housing Administrator, Mr. Yoder. He was particularly hopeful that the student's residence arrangements would be such that in themselves they would be a unique kind of education. He has plans, for example, for putting the student in a room with a key student leader — a leader not only in the over-all extra-curricular activities program but also in the housing programs. Each dormitory has a unique set-up for providing a community atmosphere among the residents of the house. Mr. Yoder thought this could be a particularly instructive aspect of the student's stay at the University of Colorado.

Student activities. The University of Colorado has frequently been accused of being an "activities school." This, I suppose, has the suggestion that there are hundreds of organizations and activities but without very much depth. The University is also accused (and this is a comment which I heard from some of the administrative personnel and students at the University) of being far more interested in the impact that it makes with respect to other colleges and universities, the reputation which it receives on a somewhat superficial level, etc. than it is in the quality and educational significance of its extra-curricular activities program. My judgment is, after discussion with both administration and the faculty as well as with representative members of the student body, that they are very much aware of this problem and are doing a number of things in order to create a more profound interest on the part of all elements of the University community in making the extra-curricular activities program — or as they call it, the co-curricular activities program — a really valuable adjunct of the academic life of the University. It was on these grounds that they justified their enthusiasm for the Foreign Student Leadership Project.

A particularly interest facet of the student activities program at the University of Colorado is their program for developing leadership. This is a program which has been fairly well developed and includes in its implementation the Associated Students of the University of Colorado, the psychology department, and the Division of Personnel, who combine their services to organize each year a series of leadership workshops. These workshops are usually held off the University at Estes Park. In going over several reports of these workshops and discussing them with the various students who have attended them in the past, it seems as though they are doing a reasonably effective job of developing campus leaders. It must be said, however, that for the most part up until now, the workshops have tended to be somewhat superficial and the use of the group dynamics technique I think has somewhat overshadowed the content of the leadership program.

International Student Representation. The University has no International House. Foreign students are usually housed with the American students or in separate facilities. The Cosmopolitan Club of the University which groups together representatives from the entire foreign student population has had a moderately successful program of integrating foreign students into the University campus life. However, as on most campuses, most of the activities of the foreign students through the medium of the Cosmopolitan Club tend to be rather specialized and things which are done for foreign students rather than activities which emphasize the normal student activities program, particularly those activities which are concerned with student government as such.

The advisory and counselling services at the University tend to be shared both by the Foreign Student Adviser, Mr. Hundley, as well as by the University Counselling Service. In discussions with foreign students, I find that these services are reasonably effective, although again in terms of the Foreign Student Adviser, there does not seem to be a great deal of enthusiasm for the specific services which are rendered through that office.

From discussions both with foreign students and the American student leaders when I questioned about the subject, the orientation program at the University is rather good. However, it is almost exclusively dedicated to the "normal this-is-America" type program and with some minor description of the University, its facilities, courses, and regulations.

A special note about the possibilities of programming at the University of Colorado should be made. This institution seems to be uniquely well suited for providing opportunities for seminar-type courses and discussion groups. Dr. Jack Gibb, a national authority in group dynamics, conducts several courses in the seminar field and he and other members of the faculty have made it quite clear that they would take special interest in the program for our foreign students. I also had discussions with Dr. Hogeman, Chairman of the Sociology Department, who promised his personal support in assuring that faculty personnel would be available throughout the year for helping in the evaluation aspects of the program at the University. Finally, I should add that many of my views with respect to the information that I received and about the University generally were gained as a result of discussions with Harry Blumberg who has been with the student activities program at the Union.

Student Leadership. Dick Oldo. Dick is a dynamic and enthusiastic President of the Associated Students of the University of Colorado. He is a young man of somewhat above average intelligence with a fairly good grasp of the meaning of student government and its potential role on campus. His general political orientation is conservative — somewhat of the Eisenhower tradition. In watching him in operation and in discussion with some of the ASUC members, I gathered that he is not particularly strong with respect to administration. He has, however, a very likable personality and no doubt makes up in this respect for what he lacks in administrative ability.

Profile of the University of Colorado

Dan Daniels. Dan is one of the more impressive student leaders whom I encountered at the University of Colorado. He is one of the ASUC commissioners and has been very active in the program of student leader development. He is mature, sincere, and very intelligent. He has had a long history of involvement in the student activities program at the University. His background is somewhat unusual insofar as he has studied for the ministry and apparently at some point in the last year or two, decided to re-orient his activities toward more secular pursuits. He, in his capacity as one of the more active members of the International Relations Club, manifested a rather keen appreciation of foreign affairs and was especially interested in the Foreign Student Leadership Project. My one reservation is that he is so active in such a large number of organizations that I would tend to doubt that he can be very effective in many of them.

Cassie Anderson. Cass Anderson is certainly one of the top leaders at the University of Colorado and my own judgment is that she probably ranks considerably above any of the others that I met. She is a little bee-hive of activity and has a very sharp mind and an ability to come quickly to the essence of the matters with which she is faced. She has a very dynamic personality with a great deal of personal charm, although not particularly attractive physically. She is widely respected on the campus for her activities and for her liberal outlook. She is also an ASUC commissioner and, at the moment, is very busy organizing an independent party at the University, which should be somewhat free of the domination of the fraternities as are reputed to be the other parties.

I strongly recommend the inclusion of the University of Colorado in the Foreign Student Leadership Project for this year. Further, as the University indicates that it may be able to accommodate two students, it seems to me that this is one of the institutions where the program which is likely to be established justifies our sending two students. I believe, however, that the program development here will have to be watched very carefully since I have the feeling that the enthusiasm, at least among the students, somewhat outruns their capacity to really come to grips with the problem of setting up the kind of activities program with which we are concerned.

Memorandum of February 25, 1956
Profile of the University of Texas

The University of Texas is a large state university situated in a rather small, provincial southern town. The higher echelons of the administration appear to be relatively conservative and careful not to offend the interests and predilections of an even more conservative Board of Regents which is under the watchful eye of a yet more conservative state legislature. With all of this, the University as a whole has tended to operate with a considerable amount of autonomy and the growth of a rather liberal attitude toward students and student organizations in most fields has been unique throughout the south. Much of this group has been spear-headed, as in the case of other universities, by an effective and articulate group of young professors who are keenly aware of the necessity for the University to expand intellectually as well as to move away from the rather stultifying social and political orthodoxy which characterizes a number of southern institutions. In one significant area, the administration still appears to be bound by its traditional conservatism and parochial outlook — and this is in the field of foreign student programming. The University of Texas is, I am sure, unique or almost unique in the fact that there are almost six hundred foreign students at the University, one of the largest groups in the country, whose programming, counselling and other kinds of assistance are handled by a staff of two and three-quarters people which includes the Foreign Student Adviser who tends to spend more time away from his specific duties as Foreign Student Adviser to the students at the University of Texas than he does at the University. This in effect leaves about one and three-quarters persons to handle the programming, counselling and other problems for almost six hundred foreign students. The foreign student population at the University of Texas has grown tremendously in the past four or five years. The administration has been fully aware of this growth in foreign student population and has done nothing whatsoever to discourage it and there are indications that the prestige factor which comes with having a large foreign student group on campus has indeed probably encouraged the administration to invite greater foreign student enrollment at least, if not indirectly, through its admissions policies. Unfortunately, here the interests and the responsibilities of the administration toward the foreign student seems to end. (I will go into this matter in a more detailed manner in a separate memorandum.)

With respect to the student body at the University of Texas — although there are strong and articulate exceptions, they seem to represent as a group the more liberal and responsible elements of the new South. I feel reasonably certain that this is the only major southern university about which such a generalization could be made. This, however, does not alter the fact that the majority of students at the University as elsewhere are relatively apathetic, particularly in terms of international relations or international affairs.

The Student Association

I attended a meeting of the Student Association during which there were discussions, or at least presentations, of resolutions concerning desegregation and also concerning a question of censorship of the student newspaper at the University of Texas. I was tremendously impressed with the quality of discussion at least in the unofficial discussions that I had with members of the Association on both subjects. I was also impressed with the maturity and clarity of the more important resolutions which were presented on both issues. After addressing this meeting of the Student Association concerning the Foreign Student Leadership Project, I was also very much encouraged by the nature and the scope of the response as represented by the questions which were asked. On the basis of the meeting which I attended and extensive discussions with the President of the Student Association, various members of the Executive Assembly, and with other students on campus, I am persuaded that the Student Association is a very well-structured, efficiently operating unit. An examination of its standing committees, officers, and reports of the various committees indicates that the interests of the Student Association are comprehensive and the relative emphases of meaningful and significant student activities within the program of the Student Association are indicative of mature and capable leadership.

Although the consciousness of the National Student Association and its program and policies is still apparently limited to a relatively small number among the leaders of the Student Association, these few are people who compare favorably with the best of NSA leadership that I have seen anywhere. The NSA Committee of the Student Association is well led and fully conscious of the need for developing programs on campus which make NSA a genuine reality not only for the student leader but for the average student. The people on the Committee seem to be not afraid of work and quite willing to put into their program the time and effort necessary to make NSA more of a reality for the average student on campus. Their files are well designed and, as far as I could detect, complete. The plans of the Student Association leaders as well as the NSA Committee for the growth and expansion of NSA on campus are encouraging. To use one specific illustration — I spoke with the head of the NSA Subcommittee on Desegregation. The work of the Subcommittee on Desegregation will undoubtedly be based on the very fine work of the Human Relations Commission at the University of Texas, which is responsible for laying the groundwork for the very smooth integration of negro students who will come to the campus for the first time as undergraduates in the coming fall semester. The Committee has gone about its work in a very responsible and devoted manner. For example, in order to make sure that negro students will have an opportunity to participate fully in the University life, they have cleared with all necessary student and administrative groups to be sure that every kind of activity on the campus will be open to negro students who wish to participate. This includes social as well as academic programs. They have also gone out into the community to be sure that at least in the University area, there will be places, if not all places, where negroes will be welcomed for eating and drinking and, in other ways, sharing the life of the average University of Texas student. I also attended a meeting of a Faculty-Student Association Sub-Committee, including both faculty and students, which was concerned with possible reforms or adjustments in the extra-curricular activities program. They were particularly concerned with the proliferation of extra-curricular activities groups and with the number of groups with which any one student was associated. The investigation, the discussion and the conclusions of this group of faculty and students was one of the most responsible and thorough which I have witnessed with respect to student-faculty enterprise of this kind.

International Awareness in Foreign Student Programming

It must be restated that the status of the average student's international awareness and consciousness of international responsibilities, not only in the general world sense but in terms of his own environment, is, to say the least, unsatisfactory. One of the reasons for this condition appears to be the relative lack of emphasis of international relations as a discipline within the academic curriculum. This in turn is attributed by both student leaders and faculty persons with whom I spoke to the general lack of concern and conservative approach of the administration. The results of this failure to emphasize international relations in the form of the curriculum or through extra-curricular devices is in part the general insensitivity of the students at the University to their foreign student problem. The International Office of the University is largely concerned with the more technical aspects of the foreign students at the University, such as problems which arise as a result of immigration laws and regulations. In general, there is no program for the foreign student. The only program which seems to exist is the program which is developed by the various nationality groups for themselves. The housing situation is particularly unfortunate insofar as the vast majority of foreign students are living in their own nationality groups in private housing throughout the University area. A very small number of the students are actually living with American students at the campus. The foreign students themselves feel this need very strongly and are apparently very unhappy about the necessity to live in national groups. I am attaching to this memorandum a copy of a report which was written by a former chairman of the International Council of the Student Association which is a body responsible for the general coordination of international programs at the University. This evaluation clearly illustrates the defects of the foreign student program at the University of Texas, and my investigations substantiate almost to the letter the observations made by the writer of the report. I would therefore confine my remarks to the reasons why I believe that despite the defects which have been noted in the Morgan report, and despite the defects which I have outlined above, I would recommend the University of Texas as a prospective participant in the Foreign Student Leadership Program. The first reason is, of course, the over-all effectiveness of the Student Association as a mature and responsible organization dealing with extra-curricular activities and with important student problems at the University of Texas. The leadership of the organization is capable and very conscious of the needs of developing their own program and particularly of broadening the effect of their programs in their student body at the University. Secondly, there are among the faculty a number of professors who are keenly conscious of the shortcomings of the international program and also conscious of the need for developing the international awareness of the student body as a whole. Third, the specific organs of the Student Association, such as the International Council and the Foreign Relations Secretary as well as the Student-Faculty Advisory Committee are all anxious to participate in the Project, not only for its intrinsic worth in terms of the foreign student himself but also in terms of what they may be able to do for other foreign students at the University and for the American students. They feel, and I agree, that the possibilities of developing the program for the one or two foreign students who might come to the University would show the way for a more general approach to improving the foreign student program at the University of Texas. There is little doubt in my mind that the guarantees which I secured from the President of the Student Association and from other members of the Student Association who would be concerned with the Project in the coming year are sufficient to ensure that one or two foreign students coming to the University of Texas in the following semester would be amply taken care of, not only in terms of his personal needs and development, but also in terms of proper orientation and placement for the Foreign Student Leadership Project. The Student Association, also, with the concurrence of a representative from the Dean of Students Office as well as from the Foreign Student Adviser's Office, has guaranteed the support, at least for board and lodging, of one or two students who would be assigned to the University.

Profile of the University of Texas

In balance, however, I think I would have to say that the over-all benefits of the Foreign Student Leadership Project at the University of Texas would accrue more to the University itself and to its needs in terms of foreign student programming than possibly to the student or students who would be attending from foreign countries. The premise that the FSLP program would open up the way for the University of Texas to fulfill in a more effective manner its responsibilities toward the foreign students who are already there seems to me well worth following through. In addition, I think there are sufficient guarantees that the foreign student or students will be exposed to participation in a very effective extra-curricular activities program.

Profile of Dillard University

My visit to Dillard University was very disappointing. In the first place, I spent more than four and a half hours trying to locate John Quincy Adams, the former NSA Seminar participant. After finding him, I found that his activity in the past year had been virtually nil. He explained this by suggesting that his studies had taken up an extraordinary amount of his time, but this was a very poor excuse for not even answering letters which had been written to him requesting information, also for the Seminar evaluation sheets, etc. In trying to seek out some of the administration people as well as other student government personalities on campus for discussions about NSA locally as well as regionally, we struck an absolute zero, not having located the first person after two hours or so of walking around various offices and various dormitories.

However, in the four hours or so in which I was trying to track down John Quincy Adams himself, I did have an opportunity to speak to other students who had no particular responsibility for student government or any other major student organizational activity on campus. I was impressed with the singular lack of enthusiasm or interest even in any kind of student program other than the little contests for campus queens, athletic programs and so forth. (I might add that my low opinion about the student programs at Dillard University is almost universally shared by other people in New Orleans who have a closer contact with the situation than I have.) Inasmuch as I had several other appointments to fill the day that I was at Dillard and the following day, I had to leave with virtually no results in terms of finding out about the degree of interest in NSA or other student activities on campus from any really responsible sources. One rather curious and inexplicable fact is that I learned from John Quincy Adams that during lunch, we had been sitting at a table across from the table at which sat the President of the Student Council, who was a delegate to the Eighth National Congress and whom I had met. Presumably, he saw me and recognized me but did not even bother to make himself known or to say anything to John Quincy Adams. Adams offered no explanation for this rather odd situation, and needless to say, my impression of Dillard University was not enhanced by it.

Profile of Xavier University

Administration

Xavier University was founded by and is operated by an order of nuns established by a young Philadelphia woman for the purpose of working exclusively for the education of negroes and Indians in the United States. This fact is important for an understanding of the generally protective and conservative atmosphere which pervades the administration of the University. The nuns are, on the whole, aware of the need for expanding the contents and horizons of their student body. However, they fear that the students at Xavier University may become contaminated by their contact with possibly Communist and other undesirable students in large student organizations who tend to stultify the growth of student action and student programs which are based on an association with outside student organizations. The faculty is by and large divided into two main groups — the older professors who have been with the University for some time and whose attitude toward student activities, especially as they relate to outside organizations, is hands off, or at least not to do anything which is likely to get them, as individuals, on the wrong side of the administration. On the other hand, there is a group of younger professors led by the present Dean of Students, who is himself a former graduate of Xavier University and also of the University of Michigan, who are keenly aware of the isolation, cultural as well as geographical, of the students at a small Southern Catholic college for negroes. Moreover, these professors and the Dean of Students previously referred to are very anxious to develop the awareness among students at the University of their international responsibilities as well as the need for developing leadership on the campus. These two basic facts concerning the atmosphere within the administration constitute the source of a continuous and, although not overt, nevertheless intense struggle for authority and for influence within the total University structure.

The present Dean of Students, Mr. Julian Parker, has attended four or five NSA Congresses and is fully aware of the total scope and nature of the NSA program, and highly desirous that Xavier students continue to take an active and influential part in NSA regionally as well as nationally. Each year Mr. Parker is responsible for waging the battle with the administration for the removal of recognition of NSA and for the necessary financial appropriations for attendance of Congresses, etc. In addition to Mr. Parker at the University, the Student Councilor, Mr. Floyd, and a Professor of Sociology, Mr. Steven Ryan from Philadelphia seem to constitute the core of the young movement within the University administrative and faculty set-up.

The Student Body

I attended a meeting of the Xavier Student Council and addressed the meeting with respect to the international program of NSA and also spoke a few words about the Foreign Student Leadership Project. I was very much impressed with the quality of some of the student leaders represented in the Council. I was also impressed by the degree of interest and awareness of NSA and its total program as represented at least in the Student Council. The particular meeting that I attended had as its main topic of discussion the action that was to be taken by the Student Council at Xavier University with respect to the expelling of Miss Autherine Lucy from Alabama University. The discussion was very mature and the action suggested seemed to me to be well thought out and also reasonable. I gathered from the tone and nature of this discussion as well as from subsequent talks with the student leaders at the University that they are very keenly conscious of the divisions of opinion among administrative and faculty persons with respect to the relative freedom of action and the association of Xavier students with outside organizations. They are noworthless themselves - that is, the student council and the student leaders - very articulate in voicing their own opinions with respect to that desired for the nation's future and work with outside organizations. They seem to be working on increasing of Xavier's role in the conservative movement within the university. In addition to the various movements of the National Student Organization, they are one of the key members of the Catholic colleges in the south which are taking action now on the problem of desegregation. It seems perfectly clear that some of the public statements which the Xavier students have made with respect to their role in the problem of desegregation have been slightly embarrassing to the more conservative elements within the administration. But this has neither slowed nor muted their interest or activity in the field.

Profile of Xavier University

However, with all this interest and NCA consciousness on the part of the students leaders, particularly as represented in the Council of Xavier University, it must be said that by far and large, the majority of the students at the University seem to be little aware of any responsibility or possibilities of constructive action outside of the narrow confines of the University itself, and in this I mean the social life of the University. In this, therefore, they seem to be typical of most other colleges and universities in the country.

Individual Student Leaders

Among the students whom I spoke with and with whom I was very much impressed are the following: Mrs. Ann Ryan, who was one of the delegates to the NCA convention in 1954. Mrs. Ryan is an exceptionally clever and capable young lady who has a full consciousness of NCA and the program and seems to work tirelessly to keep alive an interest in NCA, not only among the students but also among the faculty and administration. She has a rather extensive personality, considerably aware of social and political ability to express herself very effectively. She seems very much interested in social living NCA regionally in the Great Southern area, but somewhat frustrated by the difficulty involved in some of possibilities of cooperation with other schools in the area. She is particularly those in these regions of the Great Southern Region. It is possible that Mrs. Ryan will be a delegate to the fifth congress in Chicago. I would recommend very careful watching of Mrs. Ryan for future use to NCA in the regional as well as national programming.

By far the best and most capable individual at the University is Kenneth Thomas who was the star of the Xavier delegation to the NCA Congress in Minneapolis. There is no doubt known, has the respect of the vast majority of the students at the University as well as the key members of the administration and the faculty. He is engaged in several projects involving desegregation, not only the NCA aspect but also a local level for the NCA of the National Division of Catholic Colleges Students and also a local level for mixed Catholic group working with the problem of desegregation at the Catholic secondary and elementary schools. His qualifications are well known to NCA officials who attended the Minnesota Congress. I would only add that if there are any possibilities for utilizing Mr. Thomas over other his commitment in school in Holy Trinity College, Northville, Tennessee, the responsibility should be carefully developed.

One of the younger students I spoke with whom I was very impressed was a Mr. A.J. Turchand. Turchand is the son of a very prominent New Orleans lawyer, presently with the Legal Counsel for the NAACP in New Orleans. He himself was the original test case for the admission of negroes to the Louisiana State University. He was eventually expelled from Louisiana State University although I am not sure of the grounds. He is an intelligent, relatively mature person with a wide interest in student affairs and student activities. He is very well respected on campus and has the ability to express himself capably. He has travelled in Mexico and intends to travel through Europe, I believe, in the coming summer.

Another student leader who impressed me considerably and who is also a member of the Student Council is Mr. Charles Henderson. Henderson is an African student from Accra in the Gold Coast and although soft-spoken and somewhat mild-mannered, has very strong ideas with respect to the possibilities and necessities of negro students, particularly students at Xavier University, for involving themselves more effectively and more actively with national and international student groups and organizations. Henderson strikes me as being an extraordinarily capable young man, with a very high degree of political sophistication. It is necessary, however, for students at Xavier University and others to interest themselves more in him as a person and people like him, the reason being that his interests are such that they do not seem to be satisfied by the rather parochial and provincial atmosphere in a southern town. To satisfy his broader interests, therefore, during the past summer he attended and was very favorably impressed by the Encampment for Citizenship. He was, however, very highly incensed by a report which came back to the administration of the University that he had spent the summer in the company of Communists and was under the leadership of a Communist-dominated organization. This seems to me to be a bit of talent well worth watching and working with.

On Friday, March 1st, I visited Stanford University to discuss certain aspects of the Foreign Student Leadership Project with a member of the Advisory Board, Mr. Werner Warnbrunn.

Mr. Warnbrunn and I discussed for some length of time the possibilities for a foreign student leader at the University of California. Although he did not feel competent to comment in great detail with respect to the student activities program, Mr. Warnbrunn shared some of my reservations especially with respect to FSLP. However, Mr. Warnbrunn felt that it would be very useful to have one of the foreign student leaders on the West coast, and promised that if the problem at the University of California proved in the final analysis to be that of getting sufficient support from the administration, he felt that he would in all probability be able to make certain interventions for us with the admissions office or the Dean of Students in order to ensure a certain amount of administrative cooperation.

Profile of Stanford University

Although Stanford University was not being considered for the Foreign Student Leadership Project, I took the opportunity of my visit to discuss both with Mr. Warnbrunn and with certain student leaders the possibilities of the Project either this year or next year, and also discussed some aspects of the student activities, particularly NSA on campus. The day before I arrived at Stanford, NSA had been defeated in a campus-wide referendum. In discussions with certain student leaders including the President of the Student Council, and Mr. Jim Barrett, the NSA Coordinator on campus, I became convinced that the basis for considering NSA at Stanford had little or nothing to do with the merits of the organization as such and was very much concerned with the particular personalities who were heading the debate. Further discussions lead me to conclude that the general attitude of the students at Stanford University — a certain complacency and perhaps even cynicism with respect to "do good" organizations on campus is not entirely conducive to work such as NSA in general or the Foreign Student Leadership Project in particular. It appears that one of the greatest lacks is the absence of instructive far-sighted leadership. Inasmuch as so much of campus politics tends to revolve around personalities, it is unfortunate indeed that the last elected President was one of a group who ran on a platform roughly resembling the platform devised by New York's East side kids. This is not as facetious as it sounds inasmuch as one of the hallmarks of the candidate and his supporters were the Marlon Brando type black leather jackets and caps and dark shirts, etc.

The fact that this faction won the last student body president elections provides the key to the understanding of why NSA is not entirely popular at Stanford.

On the other hand, I attended a discussion in the International Activities Commission of the student government of the possibility of constructing a kind of retreat house on the outskirts of the campus which could be used by various campus groups for discussion of student problems and for having meetings in a relatively secluded area. Both the quality of the discussion and the quality of the participants in the discussion were in decided contrast to the impression likely to be conveyed by an observation of the antics which take place during a student government election. Paradoxically enough, one of the most effective participants in the discussion was the newly-elected President of the Student Council who ran on the platform which I have described above. My feeling is that it will take some one or two years of good, patient leadership in order to get NSA properly received on the Stanford campus. I suggest that this can probably best take place within the context of a general campaign to improve the quality and efficiency of the student government machinery and operation.

Memorandum of February 22, 1956
Profile of St. Mary's Dominican College

About the most important thing to be said about Dominican College is that the Executive Vice-President, Mr. Philip Des Marais, is a devoted and tireless worker for the cause of NSA and has been doing all within his power to assist in the various programs that are trying to get underway in the area. He is extremely anxious, for example, to have an International Relations Seminar and is willing to provide facilities for the Seminar at Dominican College. We discussed it at some length, particularly in terms of the group who could be responsible for the initial planning and organization of such a Seminar. I had suggested, and Mr. Des Marais agreed, that in all probability, the easiest and most practical manner of going about the establishment and planning of the Seminar would be to get a group of students from the various member-colleges in the area, which include, of course, Xavier and Dillard, to act as the planning committee, and that they should receive permission from the regional and national authorities and simply proceed on that basis without requesting any formal action on whether or not they should proceed with the Seminar, but making sure to invite participation from other colleges and universities in the area both in the planning stage of the Seminar and in terms of possible participants. The difficulty of course is that the student body at Dominican College seems to be relatively immature and the few young ladies whom I met are virtually neophytes in the work of NSA. Although the students seem to be somewhat willing and anxious, it would require a rather long period of indoctrination before they would become fully aware of the nature and scope of NSA's program. We can, I believe, depend upon Mr. Des Marais to fulfill this need. However, it is rather difficult for me to conceive of how he can instill enough initiative and spark into these girls to act as the driving wedge for the establishment of the Seminar. I have spoken with people at Xavier University, particularly with Ernest Thomas, to encourage them to get in touch with Phil and work out a plan for getting the Seminar established. In sum, however, it seems to me highly unlikely that any Seminar will get underway in the Region for the coming spring or summer. My feeling is that the nuns at Dominican College would be even more hesitant about the participation of Dominican College in NSA were it not for the fact that they have a great devotion to Phil Des Marais and trust his judgment in not leading their girls astray.

Memorandum of February 22, 1956
Profile of Loyola University

Unfortunately, it did not prove possible for me to get in touch with any of the student government people at Loyola University. The few students with whom I spoke were absolutely unaware of NSA or what it was.

I was, however, able to speak with one of the leading lights at the University, particularly in the field of the question of desegregation -- Father Joseph Echter, who is the author of a number of sociological texts and who has also just published a book which is a sociological study of a Catholic parish in a New Orleans area. He is a somewhat controversial figure in the area since he has been one of the leaders of an organization throughout the south whose major purpose is, I believe, to work toward racial harmony and particularly toward desegregation of the schools, both Catholic and public schools. He is and has been very much aware of NSA, and in his role as professor at the University, is apparently doing a great job in trying to sell NSA to some of the students and student leaders with whom he comes into contact. However, he is the first to admit that it is a long uphill struggle and that it will probably be some time before the provincialism and parochialism of the students at Loyola will allow them to be really effective participants in a national student organization.

Memorandum of February 18, 1956
Profile of Allegheny College

The first notable characteristic of Allegheny College is that it is a fraternity-dominated campus. This is true despite the efforts in the past few years on the part of certain members of the administration and other new students to do away with or at least mitigate to some extent this situation. However, the effects of the efforts over the past few years to provide a more central and more inclusive focus of allegiance for student activities is that there is a general awareness or consciousness among the students, faculty and administration of the need to democratize campus life. In fact, this has come about to a considerable extent. The Allegheny Undergraduate Council appeared to be one of the best functioning governments which I have yet observed. The Council itself is composed of twenty-five members with an executive committee of six members and thirteen standing committees, all of which seem to be fully active. A valuable adjunct to the Allegheny Undergraduate Council is the Associated Women's Students. This group is composed of a body of officers, a senate, a senior court, an activities board, a coordinator, a residence coordinator, and a fire marshal. And, finally, a further aspect of the total picture of student government is the Inter-Fraternity Council.

As would be expected, a picture of the structure of the student government gives very little indication of the dynamics of the organizations and the relationships of one group to another, or of the relative importance of particular individuals within the groups and within the total campus situation.

As has been pointed out above, there has been an attempt to democratize the campus, particularly by way of lessening the hold of fraternities on campus life. The initiative for this action has seemed to stem from certain younger members of the faculty, apparently led by the present Dean of Students who has come to Allegheny from Washington College, Ohio. For the past five years, his program of providing a more central basis for student activities, namely through the Allegheny Undergraduate Council, has appeared to be very successful. Recently, however, with the appointment of a new President to the University, there is a grave concern among these younger members of the faculty as well as among a large number of the students that the progressive program initiated during the past five years is to be jeopardized. This notion has come about partially through the words, oral and written, of the new President. He has made statements to the effect that he intends to "combine some of the progressivism of the East with the conservatism of the Midwest," and he has in private informed other members of the administration and the faculty of his dissatisfaction with certain of the younger progressive teachers. In addition to this, he has let it be known that the contracts of two of the leaders of this group are not to be renewed. On the student side, as of last year, four of the more prominent student leaders who had already been pledged to one or more of the fraternities on campus, after a few months of their pre-initiation fraternity life, gave it up in disgust. They formed what has since become known as "The New Group." I have met all four of these men and find them outstanding in every way -- scholastically, in terms of personal leadership ability, in their seriousness of purpose and general social and political outlook. Although "The New Group" was originally the four men concerned, it has now come to be a kind of movement with a number of other so-called independent students aligning themselves with these four individuals to form a relatively effective and new campus influence. In sum, what we have in Allegheny is a medium-sized college and a very conservative part of the country, formerly dominated by the conservative fraternity groups, now undergoing the throes of a revolution, as it were, sparked by younger members of the faculty, and approach being carried on by a rather small but articulate group of students. The student activities programs which have been initiated and maintained by this group are in my view extraordinarily effective. The progressive group on campus is, however, very much concerned less the progress which they have made over the past few years is now to be threatened by new conservative tendencies within the administration. There is a great deal of soul-searching going on at Allegheny among the younger and older professors, administrative personnel, and even among the students. There is a great deal of self-appraisal and of self-criticism. One really gets the sense of a social group in ferment. My own view is that those tendencies which have been set in motion during the past five years: the relatively high degree of confidence and cooperation between students and faculty, the comprehensive program of student-run and student-maintained activity, and the move toward more dynamic and more democratic central student organizations — are all tendencies which are probably with the College to stay.

The International Activities Program. Up until very recently, the interest in international affairs or the international awareness of students at Allegheny College was apparently very small. Part of the new spirit which has been described above has been a revitalized foreign students program. The work of integrating foreign students within the Allegheny community has been primarily the responsibility of a Foreign Students Committee. This Committee is headed by a Miss Leavett; and on the Committee serve Dean McCracken, Mr. Lindley, and one Dr. Murdoch. I was very much impressed during the meeting of the Foreign Students Committee with the very deep awareness that the students and the faculty members seemed to have for the needs of the foreign students and for the responsibility of the college community in helping them to adjust. Although there are no special facilities for foreign students, the approach of the Committee seems to be to try to integrate the foreign students within the total community life without any special institutions or any special facilities. On the whole, this program has not been as successful as it might be, and this is recognized by the Committee. It seems as though the conservative tinge of the campus has hung on, particularly with respect to human relations problems. The Committee has worked very hard, for example to try to arrange dates for foreign students with Allegheny students. This is only given to illustrate their concern with the total life and adjustment of the foreign students on the Allegheny campus. It should also be mentioned that this Committee includes six very effective students.

In discussions with the Committee, I was very much impressed with their very deep concern with the objectives of the Ford Foundation Project and with their understanding of the needs which we have expressed in previous correspondence and also during my talks there. I am persuaded that even with the difficulties and disadvantages which should be apparent from my report up to now that Allegheny College would be an institution to make a very valuable contribution to the Project as a whole.

Personalities. Jim Penroy — Jim is a fairly intelligent and personable fellow, and apparently very popular at Allegheny College among students and at least among the young professor element. He has been very active in student affairs during his four years at Allegheny, and in the last year or so, has taken NSA quite seriously. He seems to have a moderately good grasp of NSA as an organization and its over-all objectives and programs. During the past few months, Jim has done an extraordinary amount of work in trying to get the Pennsylvania Region organized and in trying to conduct an International Relations Seminar for the Region. In talking with other people in the Region, notably John Schubert at Penn, at least with respect to communication of plans and ideas for program with the important people of the Region, I gather Jim has done a good job. On the whole, I find nothing in Jim to criticize,

Lynn Blanning - Lynn is President of the Associated Women's Students. I observed a meeting which she chaired, which was discussing honor systems. She was a very efficient chairman, although the discussion proved that she had not taken great pain to investigate the materials on honor systems which are readily available from FSA and some of which, I later discovered, were in the NSA Allegheny files. However, she is widely respected on campus and a very diligent worker. As far as I was able to determine, she has no extraordinary interest in foreign affairs, although she seems acquainted at least with those areas of international relations which NSA involves.

During my eighteen hours at Allegheny College, I was not able to have thorough discussions with many more of the students, particularly the members of the Allegheny Undergraduate Council who struck me as being above-average leadership types. Among those whom I would classify in this category, however, are Bill Regan, the President of the Allegheny Undergraduate Council, Jack Cotton, one of the Freshmen Counsellors, and Tom Jones, also a Freshmen Counsellor. In sum, I would certainly agree with the observation of Gene Preston that here at Allegheny College, there is more potentially really good leadership per square foot than there are in the total of many other member colleges and universities. The reason for this is not only the activities program which tends to train in service younger and less experienced students for jobs of leadership in the various activities programs, but also the very patient and thorough and sensitive direction of student activities by the present Dean of Students, Mr. McCracken.

Profile of Allegheny Leaders

but must admit that in just about all of his personal characteristics, as well as in his activities at Allegheny as far as I can determine them, the adjectives which apply are those like fair, average, moderate, and so forth. In other words, Jim seems to be a man of modest talents and pleasant personality who, because of the conglomeration of circumstances and events at Allegheny, has risen to a position of very high leadership.

Art Blank - Art is a pre-medical student about twenty years old at Allegheny College. He is one of the leaders who established the Foreign Student Committee. He has an extraordinary interest in foreign affairs and he is also one of the four original members of the new group which I described earlier. Despite his career interests, Art has taken a considerable amount of time in order to study and work with counselling services and techniques and group dynamics as a whole. He was last year the NSA Coordinator on Allegheny's campus. He is now in the Freshman Counselling group at Allegheny and will next year apparently be the head of the whole Freshman Counselling Program, which is, as I've been informed by the Dean of Students, a position of some importance and has up to now been a staff position. Art is widely respected on his campus by both students and professors. He has a few enemies, however, among the fraternity groups as a result of his resigning from his fraternity activities. Art is a very warm and sensitive individual with an almost instinctive ability to communicate himself and his ideas to those with whom he comes in contact. He has a very quick intelligence and seems to have very wide interests. Scholastically, he is at the top of his class and is thought by some of his professors and by most of his fellow students to be, and I quote, "a genius." Unlike many geniuses, however, Art is outgoing and responsive and with catholic tastes. He is one of the few persons, for example, with whom I have discussed the Foreign Student Leadership Project who seemed to grasp immediately the deeper significances of the Project and of the difficulties which one would have in realizing its objectives. His maturity of judgment and outlook are indeed surprising for a man of nineteen to twenty years old. In addition to his other talents, Art is an accomplished pianist, having earned money by playing with various combinations, and I am told by many that his Dave Brubeck style of playing has won recognition from top name band leaders who have visited the area. His rendition of classical music is also very widely respected. In sum, I think Art is an outstanding Seminar possibility and, in general, he should be watched for whatever use we can make of a generally good, all-around person. The disadvantages, as far as I can tell, are that I do not know whether or not he has any language ability, and secondly, he seems to be fully bent at the moment in pursuing his medical studies and allowing nothing to interfere, even during the summer when he intends to work in a hospital. I have initiated feelers to see whether or not he can be dissuaded from this latter.

Carl Metz - Carl is a political science major with a very keen interest in international affairs. He is about twenty-one years old and is mature and intelligent. He is very interested in NSA and particularly interested in the international affairs aspects of NSA's program. He is a very pleasant person and recognized as a campus leader. He is a member of the Allegheny Undergraduate Council and is described by his professor as "a young man who is going places." I did not have an opportunity to speak with Carl at any great length, and the hesitation which I have about him are only the vague impression that I got from talking with him that he has slight tinges of the "operator."

Memorandum: Foreign Student Program in Colleges and Universities

Introduction

The purpose of this memorandum is to set forth certain observations made on the basis of a trip to 1125 colleges and universities around the United States in connection with the Foreign Student Leadership Project. Although this cannot in any sense be called an adequate sampling of the foreign student programs in colleges and universities throughout the United States, it is true nonetheless that the institutions represented include a reasonably good cross-section of the major types within our educational system. The purpose of the memorandum is simply to provide a basis for further analysis of the major aspects for foreign student programs and to suggest certain lines of action which would appear to be justified if the observations are sound.

Housing

Generally, the housing arrangements for foreign students at the institutions which I visited are very unsatisfactory. In some institutions, the International House serves as a symbol of the college or university's responsibility with respect to housing its foreign student population. This is particularly true at institutions which have a large International House. Unfortunately, even in the cases of the very largest of the I Houses, a very small percentage of the total foreign student population at the university is able to avail itself of these facilities. Most frequently, the foreign student population which does not live in the International House or some similar facility, live in housing units away from the campus and usually outside of the periphery of campus activity. Another characteristic of the housing situation is that the foreign students tend to develop little nationality groups and although these groups need not have a detrimental effect on the university community, the tendency seems to be that the need for personal security and relatively congenial living unit companions encourages the foreign students to take the easy way out which is the natural inclination to be with one's own kind. Several of the universities' administrative officials, but most frequently the foreign student advisers, seem to be aware of the serious problem caused by the failure of the university to take greater pains to ensure that the foreign students' housing situation does not destroy the benefits of whatever other program exists at the institution.

Some of the detrimental effects of this isolation of the foreign students from American students through the absence of a housing program for foreign students are (a) the feeling which I frequently found expressed of being on the "outside of what was going on." This feeling manifested itself in several subtle ways. For example, one graduate student with whom I spoke, and he can be considered somewhat typical in terms of age, length of time in the United States, academic interest, etc., expressed a lack of interest in the extra-curricular activities program or indeed in anything outside of the courses necessary for him to acquire his degree. Upon further questioning, however, and approaching the problem from a different vein, I got quite contradictory responses from him, indicating that he had a decided interest in specific kinds of university extra-curricular activity as I described them. It developed that the student would probably be interested or would probably have been interested in these kinds of activities had he "known a way of going about getting in such things." I heard from administrative personnel as well as students so frequently the comment, "Our foreign students don't seem to be interested in any of the extra-curricular activities programs," that it is worthwhile speculating to what extent the apparent lack of interest is the result of the failure of the student to find any way of becoming meaningfully associated with the activities program.

(b) I certainly do not have the data upon which to make a comparative judgment as to the study habits of foreign students and those of American students, but I can safely say that my observations of the conditions of study as well as the habits of study leave me with the impression that the foreign student groups whom I met and talked with have tended to develop sloppy study conditions as well as very irregular and spasmodic study habits. This would appear to be the case because of certain attitudes which apparently are encouraged as a result of their not having the challenge of the discipline which is more frequently found among American students who have higher levels of academic achievement.⁽²⁾ One rather striking factor with respect to foreign students groups which I met who lived in separate housing was the almost uniformly poor level of language achievement. It is, of course not difficult to understand that the temptation to use one's native language far more frequently under these circumstances is overwhelming.

(d) I was also impressed with the number of times in which I heard foreign students living under these circumstances complain or at least comment upon the fact that they did not feel that they were "getting to know the American student" or getting to know America, or in some other way indicating that they were feeling the consequences of their isolation.

Advisory Service and Counseling

It was a matter of some considerable concern to realize that, on the whole, the advisory and counseling services available to foreign students are grossly inadequate, either in terms of the quality of the service or in terms of the personnel available for its performance. By and large, very few of the advisory or counseling offices are set up, for example, to deal at any length with the personal problems which foreign students have. Of course it is true that most of the universities do not have too much by way of such services for American students. However, the fact that foreign students are so far away from any alternative kinds of assistance makes the problem doubly frustrating for them. I frequently heard complaints from foreign students that certain of their problems, such as money problems, family problems, problems which friends of theirs had which in some cases resulted in nervous breakdowns or something close to it, which they felt had been ignored or insufficiently dealt with by the university officials. Typically, the foreign student advisor and his staff are quantitatively unable to deal with the volume of problems represented by the foreign student population on the campus. More unfortunately, it tends to be true that the function of the foreign student advisor is filled by a member of the staff or of the faculty who has a number of other responsibilities. Consequently, this person is only infrequently especially trained in guidance and counseling and all too often has only his general interest in foreign affairs or perhaps in foreign students as a qualification for his responsibility. As long as things are going well, a person who has this good will and humanitarian interest in the problems of the foreign students tends to do a reasonably effective job. However, when problems develop for the foreign students either in terms of personal or academic adjustment, the part-time foreign student advisor is of very little assistance and indeed in one or two cases has been positively harmful.

It should be stressed, however, that many of these part time foreign student advisors as well as the full-time foreign student advisors are generous, selfless individuals who are devoting long hours to a job for which many of them receive no reward whatsoever except the gratitude of the students with whom they work. They frequently feel very keenly the frustration which comes from their knowledge of the total inadequacy of the program for which they are theoretically responsible.

Activities

The program of activities for foreign students in the institutions which I observed seem to have certain general faults. First, the program for foreign students at any particular institution tends to accent the differences between the American and the foreign students. The foreign students are frequently given an opportunity to demonstrate or manifest those customs, habits, etc. which the Americans consider cute, quaint or odd — international dances with the foreign students coming in their native dress, song festes with the foreign students singing their native songs — all of which activities when taken as part of a much larger program can prove to be highly instructive as well as entertaining, but when they are all that there is in terms of a foreign student program, the effect would seem to be somewhat less salutary. Secondly, on those campuses where a great effort is made to use foreign students for off-campus speaking engagements, there is almost a universal tendency to overburden those few students whose knowledge of English and personalities are such that they make a great appeal to the groups who are interested in having foreign speakers. In addition, in discussion with foreign students, I noticed that they felt that in some cases the university planners were extraordinarily insensitive to certain feelings of dignity and pride. For example, university groups might have taken pains to ensure that collection for foreign students were not taken up in their presence or that the group might have had some prior orientation so that the questions asked the foreign guest would not be so terribly embarrassing both for the questioner and the student. Thirdly, on those campuses with large International Houses, the foreign student program tends to center almost exclusively in the International House and although frequently these programs are very well managed and with a wide variety of interesting experiences for the foreign and American students who participate, the concentration of effort and talent with respect to the I House leaves almost untouched the great bulk of the foreign student population on the campus. It must be added that the foreign students also tend to feel that the American students who participate in the activities at the International House frequently seem to be students whom they refer to as "campus rejects." Whether this is a justifiable appreciation of the situation or not, the foreign students seem to feel that the active student leaders in the ordinary extra-curricular activities program of the university are usually not involved with those activities which concern the foreign students.

-3-

Social Relations

Of course one of the greatest difficulties for the foreign students (even as it is for American students) is the means of acquiring and maintaining relatively wholesome and congenial heterosexual relationships with American students. It seems that far too frequently the dating system on the American campus is learned the hard way by the foreign students. In addition, several foreign students have expressed the opinion that their failure to find dates or their failure to find close American friends, either boys or girls, is based on some kind of race or color prejudice which they seem to have detected within the student population at a particular university. An Arab student, for example, learned that his complexion had been ascertained before he was invited to the home of an American student. A Pakistani student reported his opinion that students who "look more like Europeans" seem to have an easier time in this respect than those who do not. On nearly every campus that I visited, the foreign students with whom I spoke felt this to be the least satisfactory aspect of their experience at the college or university insofar as their extra-curricular pursuits were concerned.

play "We are so kind" sentiments

Student Government

On very few campuses did I find an effective liaison between, for example, the student government and the foreign student adviser. In most cases, to the extent that the student government manifested either in its structural program any interest in the foreign student program on campus, it was via the medium of a committee or a commission of a student government which almost uniformly had no real functional relationship to any other aspect of the student government. The student government generally leaves such committees or commissions to its own devices in working out or fulfilling mandate which is given to it (even as it does for other committees or commissions related to the student government). Moreover, in this sphere, I very seldom encountered a recognition on the part of the student government leaders that the student government had any core responsibility for the integration of the foreign students on their campus than that which it was already fulfilling. Such integration was usually conceived of in terms of the operation of the foreign student adviser's office or the dean of students or some other such agency.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. In general, the administrations of the colleges and universities which I visited have a great need to re-evaluate very carefully their foreign student program and their responsibilities toward the foreign students which they admit to their institution. It seems to me perfectly clear that a very careful re-evaluation of the over-all purposes and objectives of the admissions policies with respect to foreign students will lead to one of several conclusions. Either the university must seriously limit the number of foreign students who are coming into the university or they must take much more drastic steps to acquire the material and human resources necessary to ensure that the students' development at their campus is not left as much to chance as it seems to be at the moment. In some cases, it is extremely difficult to comprehend what the university believes it is achieving (other than some kind of prestige for the number of foreign students that they have on their campus).

2. In my judgment, housing and housing arrangements are the key to many other aspects of effective foreign student programming since it involves the most pervasive influences likely to be brought to bear on the student during his sojourn at the university. I feel that pains must be taken to ensure that foreign students spend at least their freshman year in university dormitories or in other living space with American students. Although in some cases, because of the nature of housing arrangements, this is difficult indeed, yet it seems that much more can be done to set aside blocks of rooms so that they might be occupied by foreign students within the dormitory set-up. It would not appear that the difficulty of not having these rooms filled would be serious since there would be many anxious American students waiting for those which did not become claimed after a certain date.

3. The orientation programs at most campuses need drastic overhauling. Orientation programs generally seem to have gotten highly stylized, formalized and depersonalized, whereas it would appear that the most effective orientation must to some extent be tailored to fit the particular order. In general, more must be done to acquaint the student with certain aspects of the processes of American democracy with perhaps somewhat less emphasis on forms and structures -- why we do things and how we get them done. In addition, another kind of orientation is almost universally absent, and that is an orientation with respect to the university as a community rather than as a series of buildings and as a container of courses. How did it get started? Who runs the university? What kinds of student activities are there and what needs are they designed to serve? How effectively do they do the job? These are the kinds of things which would help a foreign student considerably in making a proper adjustment into the specific community in which he will have to spend the next two to four years.

4. There would seem to be a need for a great deal more discrimination in the designing and the organization of the various speakers' programs for foreign students. Although there are obvious difficulties, my conversations with foreign students would lead me to believe that it is almost worthwhile considering how audiences to which the foreign students are to speak or groups to which he is to be presented might be given some kind of orientation in order to minimize the possibilities of mutual embarrassment and discomfort caused by crass ignorance. Far more emphasis must also be placed in the individual hospitality programs. Foreign students almost universally feel that they would like more of the experiences within American homes. Most, however, express their preference for going to homes of friends or students — people whom they know and with whom they have something in common — rather than to the homes of sincere and well-meaning persons in church groups or civic groups with whom they tend to feel a certain amount of strain and unreality in the relationships.

5. Generally the student governments of nearly all institutions which I have visited need to be overhauled in view of the responsibility which the student government structure and program are fulfilling. These are the foreign students on the campus. The question must be asked more frequently — How can we make the foreign students a more integral part of our campus life? How can they be encouraged to make their unique and invaluable contributions within the framework of the regular student activities program? How can the student government encourage a more widespread personalized interest in the welfare of foreign students at the university or college? In my own view, a great deal more can be done along these lines through the active encouragement of the faculty, for example, both on and off duty and through increased effort on the part of certain key campus groups, such as fraternity, sorority and religious groups.

Profile of the University of Missouri

My visit to the University of Missouri was marred considerably by the fact that inadequate preparations had been made for my visit. I spent more time than necessary trying to locate, for example, the President of the student body who seemed unaware of my coming, despite an exchange of correspondence for a month and a half. In discussions with Dr. Jack Matthews, Dean of Students at the University, I have concluded that there was a considerable amount of interest on the part of administrative and faculty members who, according to him, had discussed the Project at some length. There were certain questions or reservations which they had but which seemed to be cleared up on the basis of our talk. These concerned the usual problem of admissions qualifications and extra-curricular activities programming for the foreign student. Dr. Matthews seemed to indicate that he would take personal interest in seeing to it that we receive a definite commitment from the University concerning program committees and scholarship or tuition assistance.

The Foreign Student Adviser, Mr. Harry Briggs, was far less satisfactory in his description of his interests and concerns with foreign student programming at the University. It appears as though his job as Foreign Student Adviser is one of two -- the other being the administrative head of the Interfraternity and Pan-Hellenic groups on campus. This particular responsibility seems to take up the vast majority of the time which Mr. Briggs has. He seemed, however, very much interested in FSLP and expressed his willingness to "talk it up" with other members of the administration and the faculty. He himself would not be involved with the foreign student program in the coming year inasmuch as it seems he has been able to convince the administration that this is a separate job needing a full-time person. However, there is no definite commitment yet on the part of the University as to whether they will appoint a full-time Foreign Student Adviser.

It is unfortunate that the Dean of Students, Mr. J. Winston Martin, was absent at the time of my arrival. Mr. Martin had been in correspondence with me and I understood from other members of the administration and from the students that he is very interested in FSLP and is in all likelihood going to be the person responsible for foreign student advising in the coming year.

Foreign student programming. The University does have an International House which houses a very few of the foreign students. The vast majority live in university dormitories or in special housing outside the campus. Generally, this situation is highly unsatisfactory. In speaking with a number of foreign students, I discovered that they feel that very little attention is paid to them and their needs, either in housing or in guidance and counselling. Most of the counselling and advising, in fact, is done through the normal Academic Deans who have no particular training or background to deal with the particular problems of foreign students. The foreign students here have also tended to develop nationality clubs, primarily the Latin American and "Arab bloc." As on other campuses, such groups do not tend to have a salutary effect on campus life and make a very inadequate contribution to the wholesome development of integrative activities and substantially minimize the possibility of a favorable impact on the American student community.

Although I was not very favorably impressed with the quality of the student leadership at the University of Missouri, the program of the student government is particularly interesting and seems to indicate a grasp of the need for involving the student body in extra-curricular activities which have intellectual depth and some role in the development of leadership. The physical facilities for the student activities program are excellent. Part of the activities program includes the Cosmopolitan Club, which is composed of students from other countries as well as a small proportion of U.S. students, and this group seems to be very active in social, cultural programs although there is again a very small number of Americans involved in the operation of this program. The present leadership of the Student Government including the President Mr. Terry Porter do not impress me with their interest or enthusiasm for the foreign leadership program. However I did have a chance to speak with other leaders of the Student Government including the newly elected President Mr. Sam Raeburn. Mr. Raeburn expressed a great deal of interest in the project and my discussion with him convinced me that he had a very wholesome approach to the problem of foreign students at the University as well as significant interest in the foreign leadership program as such. I had several discussions with leaders of various foreign groups at the University and was impressed with their notion of the kind of job that could be done at the University of Missouri in our project would be very significant and worthwhile. It should be mentioned that one of the most active leaders is a foreign student Mr. Han Van Eesteren a Dutch student. Mr. Van Eesteren is very interested in foreign leadership project and has taken an active role in making the student government give serious consideration to the project and in having them formulate their approach to providing program assistance as well as other assistance to students who might come to the University under our project.

I do not yet feel in the position to recommend the University of Missouri for inclusion in the project. I believe that we should await further correspondence from them particularly from the Student Government President which is supposed to indicate exactly what kind of committee structure they will devise for handling program and also the nature of support which the University is willing to offer for the student at the University.

Profile for the University of Oklahoma

I arrived at the University of Oklahoma unfortunately Sunday, March 11th, and therefore, it was impossible for the President of Student Government to schedule any meetings that day. However, I spent most of the day with the Foreign Student Advisor Mr. Harold Wrenn during which time I got a very good insight into the operation of the University as well as some of the characteristics of the administration as well as the student activities programs which were helpful in assessing the institution vis-a-vis FSIF. On the whole the administration seems keenly interested in foreign students at the University and very anxious to provide the best facilities for their education and development at Oklahoma U. I addressed a meeting of faculty and administrative personnel during which the project was discussed in great detail. From the nature of their questions and also from their general response to the program I was convinced that they fully understood the program and the objectives and were quite prepared if the University was convinced that they would do all possible to make the program a success. For example they questioned me in some detail as to exactly how the foreign students could be brought within the framework of student government structure. In addition they had several valuable suggestions to make in respect to utilization of the student for example in the student newspaper set-up both for his own training and for the enlightenment of the student body. There was also a long and very comprehensive discussion of the discrimination problem and the segregation problem. The University officials as well as the student body gave me assurances that there was no problem of discrimination or segregation at the University nor as far as they knew at the State of Norman. They have had an active program over the past few years to eliminate all conditions of discriminatory practices within the University set-up. In fact they seemed rather proud of the generally liberal attitude of the ~~student body.~~

faculty administration and also the student-body. The University of Oklahoma does not have an International House as such for the foreign students. Most of the foreign students live in the same kind of housing as the American students on campus. There are however several foreign nationality clubs including the Latin American clubs and the Arab Club. There is in addition a rather large Korean and Chinese population at the University. The orientation program so far at the University has been rather poor although they do see the need for development of a more effective program and are intending to institute a new program for the 56-57 year. The University of Oklahoma is very unique with respect to its foreign student program. There is an elaborate organizational structure designed expressly for the purpose of integrating the foreign student into the life of the community. This structure is characterized by a coordinator for the entire foreign student program who has working under him five sub-directors, each head of a different geographical area of concern. Under each sub-director is a student director, also responsible for that area of concern. The foreign student program committee also includes representatives of the Student Government, delegates from the interfraternity council, the Panhellenic Council, the press, the International Club and foreign others. This foreign student program is of course headed by the Academic Dean and is under the general supervision and has the active support of the President of the University. On paper this program at University of Oklahoma is designed to do precisely what we expect to do in terms of our foreign leadership project. However, full discussion with students and professors leads me to conclude that up till now the paper structure and program as outlined leave a great deal to be desired in terms of actual implementation. It seems that they have needed some further incentive to include a more active number of students or that is to activate those students who have already been assigned posts with respect to the foreign student committee. They were therefore more than happy to have the foreign leadership program for its own merits as a program but also because it would assist putting just that amount of life into their own foreign student committee which they felt was needed. Student Government. Here again structurally the organization seems almost perfect. The Student Senate is well designed to achieve its functions of providing a program for the students of Oklahoma which emphasizes activities most calculated to contribute to the enrichment of the students' general education. Again facilities at the University are excellent for the achievement of this purpose. My judgement is that on the whole the Student Government at the University of Oklahoma is probably among the higher ranking of our American Student Government in achieving their purposes. Nevertheless, there is still a significant difference between the structure and policy of the Student Government as it is put on paper and in its actual implementation. One of the chief problems seems to be the apathy of the student body in those activities which concern the big Red, Red being the Oklahoma University football team. Nevertheless from both the quantity and the quality of the leadership which I met at the University one can say that the developments are encouraging. A communication has recently been received from the Chairman of the Foreign Student Program at the University of Oklahoma indicating that they are prepared to offer any student which is named by our Board of Advisors a full room and board scholarship and a tuition scholarship as well. Student Leaders. The student leader with whom I was most actively associated with during my stay at the University was Jim Johnson, the President of the Senate. Jim struck me as being a very intelligent and interested student. However, with a somewhat superficial grasp of the meaning and importance of student activities generally.

Garland Breathworth
 Garland Breathworth - FSA President of the Oklahoma University Student Senate made known to me his interest in the Foreign Leadership Project although in an attempt to discuss this project itself, I did not have the feeling that he very well understood its nature or the structure of the project as we had outlined it in our communications to the University. I did not have an opportunity to speak with Breathworth at great length but I have some reservations as to his seriousness of purpose and his interest in FSA AND THE Student Activities Program generally. He strikes me as being very close to his desire to "get places and see people".

Profile of the University of Oklahoma

Sid Nelson is a Sophomore and has just recently been elected President of the Student Senate at the University of Oklahoma. I had several long conversations with him and was very much taken with his sincerity and his analysis of the needs of Student Government at the University of Oklahoma. He quickly grasped the significance of the Foreign Leadership Project and hoped that he would be in the position to aid in its development and implementation at the University of Oklahoma. Fortunately he is subsequently been elected President of the Student Council and if the University is elected by the Board of Advisors I am certain that Sid Nelson will be an extremely valuable asset at that institution. Though young he has a certain amount of maturity, seriousness of purpose, and stability which I think indicate that he would be of great service to NEA in terms of international responsibility.

Max Copeland is Chairman of the Foreign Student Program and probably one of the most industrious persons I have met in my whole trip. He has had a longstanding interest in the foreign students at the University and seems to be very widely respected by them. Several students at the University from different national backgrounds expressed the opinion that Max had a deeper understanding of foreign students and had shown more ability to work with them including administrative personnel. I feel somewhat at a loss to explain this inasmuch as I found Copeland a very sincere and well meaning student but lacking almost completely in intellectual depth, and manifested a certain personal insecurity and emotional imbalance which is disquieting in view of the large responsibility that he has. However, inasmuch as the chief responsibility for the development of the program as it now stands at the University will be that of the Student Government President namely Sid Nelson and Max for the most part will act under his instructions. I feel certain that the legwork that Max can do under the guidance of a person of greater mental stature guarantees pretty much the success of the program at the University of Oklahoma, and I strongly recommend its inclusion.

Profile of Kansas State Teachers College

In discussion with members of the administration at Kansas State Teachers College in Pittsburg, I was left with the impression that although they are exceedingly anxious, at least in terms of the faculty, to increase their foreign student population, they have as yet no clear notion of what they will do with foreign students once they arrive on campus. The Foreign Student Adviser, Dr. Jane Carroll, is a very interested woman, but I think with very modest talents with respect to dealing with foreign students. I also spoke with the Dean of Students and with members of the faculty, such as Dr. Noble and Dr. Parker of the Sociology Department. All of them expressed mild interest in the project and hoped that a foreign student could be brought to the campus but beyond that had few constructive notions as to what benefit the foreign students could be to the campus or vice versa. I also had the somewhat unique opportunity at Kansas State Teachers College of a discussion with the President of the College. Dr. Hughes was very cordial and expressed interest in the Project, but I gathered as a result of our conversation that a good deal more would have to be done in order to elicit any real enthusiasm from him. I later discovered from discussions with other members of the faculty and from students that he has a very conservative approach to certain problems on the campus including racial integration, which I think would tend to make it difficult for us to schedule foreign student programming there. It is true, for example, that negro students at the campus can eat or drink nowhere in Pittsburg outside of a very small and inadequate negro district. Soda fountains directly across the street from the Student Union Building, for example, refuse to serve negro clients.

Student Government. On the whole, it is safe to say that the student government at the Kansas State Teachers College is underdeveloped. The leadership is generally poor and the President of the Student Government for this year, Mr. Ed Cooley, struck me as being probably the least qualified to hold that position of all the students that I met at the College. He is rather rough and ready, with a very inadequate grasp of student government problems in general and has little or no appreciation of the role or possibilities for foreign students on the campus. I attended a meeting in which he, as a representative of the student government, was participating. The meeting was to discuss the kind of public attractions which the College would sponsor in the city of Pittsburg. His contributions to the meeting were for the most part very rude and unconstructive mummings during the course of somebody else's speech. In sum, his approach to leadership within the student body at the College is very reminiscent of the leadership approach of the head of one of our poorer labor unions.

There is no foreign student program to speak of at the College now inasmuch as there are only about six foreign students there. There are of course no special facilities, and there is no International Club which seems specifically concerned with the interests of foreign students.

On the whole, I could say that a foreign student at Kansas State Teachers College might possibly do a great deal for the students at the College. But it is hardly likely that they could contribute very much in terms of leadership training for the student himself. Their own student government and student activities program is as yet too embryonic for an outsider to gain very much from it. About the only student at the College whom I felt possessed any reasonable leadership qualities and who seemed to have a grasp of the National Student Association and the Foreign Student Leadership Project is Sue Hirsch who, in addition to being a member of the student government at Kansas State Teachers College, has also been a regional officer of NSA. She seems to be intelligent and efficient and active in several of the extra-curricular activities at Kansas State Teachers College. However, she was one of the more serious critics of the quality of leadership at Kansas State Teachers College as well as the absence of enthusiasm on the part of the administration for this and similar projects. Unfortunately, Sue herself is leaving the College this semester.

Kansas State Teachers College

I recommend that we do not include Kansas State Teachers College in the Foreign Student Leadership Project for this year. However, I also recommend that our response to them give them some encouragement for inclusion in another year. Hopefully, this will inspire greater activity on the part of those interested in effective student government.

SUBJECT: 24 June 1967 Washington Post Article on NSA-CLA
Building Negotiations

1. The 24 June 1967 Washington Post article strongly suggests that CIA is bringing strong pressure against NSA as a result of the February revelations. The article, based on NSA sources, purports that CIA is "trying to evict" NSA from its office quarters and that "three CIA conduits" have presented NSA with "bills totalling about $25,000 and dating back three or four years."
